[8.1] “These, senators, are the reasonings of both the Sabines and the Aequians, and because they believed them to be valid, they have invaded our territory. So if we, showing our resentment at being scorned by them in their exalted state of mind, vote in our present wrathful state to lead out an army against them, I fear that all they anticipated may happen to us, or rather, I know full well that it will come to pass. [2] But if we establish the conditions that are of primary importance and most necessary — and these are good order on the part of the multitude and the recognition by all citizens that their interests are identical — by banishing from the state the insolence and greed which are now the fashion and by restoring the constitution to its ancient form, these enemies who are now so bold will cower and, hurling their weapons from their hands, will soon come to us to make amends for the injuries they have caused and to treat for peace, and we shall have it in our power — a thing which all men of sense would wish — to have put an end to the war without resorting to arms. [3] In view of these considerations I believe we ought to defer the consideration of the war for the present, since our affairs within the city’s walls are in a turbulent state, and, instead, give leave to everyone who so desires to speak in favour of harmony and good order among our citizens. For we never had the opportunity, until the war brought us to this pass, of deciding in a meeting called by this government about the business of the commonwealth, whether any of the measures being taken were satisfactory. [4] For, had there been such an opportunity, great censure would be deserved by anyone who had neglected that occasion and only at this time saw fit to talk about these matters. Nor could anyone say for certain that, if we let this opportunity pass as unsuitable, we shall be able to find one that is more suitable. For if one cares to judge the future by the past, it will be a long time before we meet again to consider any matter of the public business.

[9.1] “I ask this, Appius, of you men who are at the head of the commonwealth and are in duty bound to consult the common interest of all rather than your private advantage, that if I speak some truths with frankness instead of trying to please you, you will not be offended on that account, when you consider that I shall not make my remarks with any intent to abuse and insult your magistracy, but in order to show in how great a sea the affairs of the commonwealth are tossed and to point out what will be both their safety and their reformation. [2] It is perhaps incumbent upon all who . . . for the fatherland to speak of the matters that are for the public interest, and this is true particularly in my case. First, because I have been asked, as an honour due me, to take the lead in expressing my opinion, and it would be a shame, yes a great folly, for the man who rises up first not to mention the things that need to be reformed first. In the next place, because it has fallen to me, as the paternal uncle of Appius, the chief of the decemvirs, both to be pleased more than all others when the commonwealth is well governed by them and to be grieved above anyone else when it is not so governed. [3] Besides these motives, I have inherited it as a political principle from my ancestors to prefer the interests of the public to my own private advantages and to take thought for no personal danger, a principle that I would not willingly betray and thus dishonour the virtues of those men. [4] As to the present form of government, that it is in a bad state and that almost everyone is dissatisfied with it, let this be the strongest proof for you, the one thing you cannot be ignorant of, that the most respectable of the plebeians are daily abandoning their ancestral hearths and fleeing out of the city, some with their wives and children removing to the neighbouring cities and others to country districts that lie farthest from Rome. And even of the patricians not many continue to reside in the city as they formerly did, but the greater part of these also are living in the country. [5] Yet why should I speak of the others when only a few even of the senators, and those such as are attached to you either by relationship or friendship, remain within the walls, while the rest regard solitude as more desirable than their native city? At any rate, when you found it necessary to assemble the senate, the members came together only when summoned from their country seats one by one — these men with whom it was a time-honoured custom to keep watch over the fatherland in conjunction with the magistrates and to shirk none of the public business. [6] Do you imagine, then, that it is to flee from their blessings or rather from their evils that men abandon their native lands? For my part, I think it is from their evils. And yet what greater evil do you think there is for a commonwealth, particularly for that of the Romans, which needs many troops of its own nationals if it is to maintain firmly its sovereignty over its neighbours, than to be abandoned by the plebeians and deserted by the patricians, when oppressed neither by war, pestilence nor any other calamity inflicted by the hand of Heaven?

[10.1] “Do you wish, then, to hear the reasons that are compelling these men to abandon temples and sepulchres of their ancestors, to desert hearths and possessions of their fathers, and to look upon every land as dearer to them than their own? For these things are not taking place without reason. Well, then, I will inform you and conceal nothing. [2] Many charges are being brought against the magistracy of you decemvirs, Appius, and by many people. Whether they are true or false I do not care to inquire at present, but at any rate they are being brought. And not a man, I say, outside of your own partisans is well disposed toward the present state of affairs. For the men of worth, descended from men of worth, who ought to hold the priesthoods and the magistracies and to enjoy the other honours which were enjoyed by their fathers, are indignant when they are excluded from these by you and thus have lost the dignities of their ancestors. [3] The men of middle rank in the state, who pursue a life of tranquillity free from public duties, accuse you of snatching away their property unjustly and lament the insults you offer to their wedded wives, your drunken licentiousness toward their marriageable daughters, and many other grievous abuses. [4] And the poorest part of the populace, who have no longer the power either of choosing magistrates or of giving their votes upon other occasions, who are not summoned to assemblies and do not share in any other political courtesy, hate you upon all these accounts and call your government a tyranny.

[11.1] “How, then, shall you reform these matters and cease being the object of accusations among your fellow citizens? For this remains to be discussed. You can do so if you will procure a preliminary decree of the senate and restore to the people the right of deciding whether they prefer to appoint consuls, tribunes and the other traditional magistrates once more or to continue under the same form of government as at present. [2] For if all the Romans are content to be governed by an oligarchy and vote that you shall continue in possession of the same power, you will hold your magistracy in accordance with law and not by force; whereas, if they wish to choose consuls again and all the other magistrates as aforetime, you will resign your power in a legal manner and avoid the imputation of governing your equals without their consent. For the latter course is tyrannical, but to receive the magistracies with the consent of the governed is the mark of an aristocracy. [3] And of this measure I think that you, Appius, ought to be the author and thus put an end to the oligarchy instituted by yourself, which was once an advantage to us but is now a grievance. Hear, now, what you will gain by following my advice and resigning this invidious power. [4] If your whole college is actuated by the same principle, everyone will think that it is because of you who set the example that the others too have become virtuous, whereas if these others are too fond of their illegal power, all will feel grateful to you for being the only person who desired to do what was right, and they will force out of office with ignominy and great hurt those who refuse to resign it. [5] And if you have entered into any agreements and given secret pledges to one another, invoking the gods as witnesses, — for it is possible that you may have done something even of this nature, — look upon the observance of these agreements as impious, since they were made against your fellow citizens and your country, and the breaking of them as pious. For the gods like to be called in as partners for the performance of honourable and just agreements, not of those that are shameful and unjust.

[12.1] “However, if it is through fear of your enemies that you hesitate to resign your magistracy, lest they should form some dangerous designs against you and you should be compelled to give an account of your actions, your fear is not justified. For the Roman people will be neither so mean-spirited nor so ungrateful as to remember your faults and forget your good services, but offsetting your past errors by your present merits, will look upon the former as deserving of forgiveness and the latter of praise. [2] You will also have the opportunity of reminding the people of the many fine actions you performed before the establishment of the oligarchy, of claiming the gratitude due for these as a means to assist and save you, and of employing many lines of defence against the charges. For example, that you yourself did not commit the wrong, but one of the others without your knowledge; or that you had no power to restrain the person who did the deed, since he was of equal authority with yourself; or, again, that you were forced to submit to something undesirable for the sake of something else which was useful. [3] Indeed, it would be a long story if I chose to enumerate all the lines of defence open to you. And even those who can make no defence that is either just or plausible, by acknowledging their guilt and craving pardon soften the resentment of the injured parties, some by falling back on the folly of youth, and others on their association with wicked men, some on the greatness of their power, and still others on Fortune that misleads all human calculations. [4] I myself promise you, if you resign your magistracy, that all your faults shall be forgotten and that the people shall be recalled to you upon such terms as in your unfortunate situation will be honourable.

[13.1] “But I fear that the danger is not the real ground for your not resigning your magistracy — at all events, men without number have been able to lay aside their tyrannies without suffering any harm at the hands of their fellow citizens — but that the true causes are a vain ambition, which pursues the phantom of honour, and a yearning for those pernicious pleasures which the life led by tyrants brings in its train. [2] If, however, instead of pursuing the vain images and shadows of the honours and enjoyments, you wish to enjoy the real honours themselves, then restore the aristocracy to your country, receive honours from your equals and gain the praise of posterity, and in exchange for your mortal body leave an immortal renown to your descendants. For these are lasting and real honours, which can never be taken from you and afford the greatest pleasure without any regrets. [3] Nourish your soul by finding pleasure in your country’ welfare, of which you will be regarded as the chief author by delivering her from a grievous domination. In doing this take your ancestors as your examples, bearing in mind that not one of those men aimed at despotic power or became a slave to the shameful pleasures of the body. For these reasons it was their fortune not only to be honoured while they lived, but after their death to be praised by those who came after them. [4] For all bear witness that they were the stoutest guardians of the aristocracy which our state established after banishing the kings. And by no means forget your own most splendid words and deeds. For your first principles of political action were honourable and inspired in us great hopes of your virtue; and we all ask you to act in future in conformity with those principles. [5] Revert, then, once more to your own character, Appius, my son, and in your choice of policies do not espouse the cause of tyranny, but that of the aristocracy; and shun the pleasure-seeking companions who were the cause of your departing from honest practices and of your straying from the straight path. For it is unreasonable to suppose that those through whose influence a man has been changed from good to bad will change him back again from an evil to a virtuous man.

[14.1] “This advice I have often desired to give you, if I could have a private conversation with you, not only by way of instructing one who is ignorant, but also of reproving one who errs; and I have gone more than once to your house. But your servants turned me away, saying that you had no leisure for private matters, but were attending to other more urgent business — if, indeed, anything could be more urgent for you than respect for your family! [2] Perhaps it was not by your command but of their own accord that they barred my entrance, and I could wish that this were the truth of the matter. This experience, then, has forced me to talk to you in the senate about the matters I wished to discuss with you, since I got no opportunity of doing so by ourselves alone; and things that are honourable and advantageous, Appius, may be mentioned seasonably anywhere in public rather than nowhere. [3] Having now performed for you the duty I owe to our family, I protest by the gods, whose temples and altars we who carry on the succession of the Appian family honour with common sacrifices, and by the genii of our ancestors, to whom after the gods we pay the next honours and gratitude in common, and, above all these, by the earth, which holds your father and my brother, that I have put at your disposal both my mind and my voice to give you the best advice. And now, desiring to correct your ignorance as best I may, I ask you not to attempt to cure the evils by evils, nor, by aiming at too much, to lose even what you already have, nor again, by attempting to rule over your equals and your superiors, to be ruled yourself by those who are inferior and baser. [4] I should like to say much more to you upon many subjects, but hesitate to do so. For if God is leading you to better resolutions, even this that I have said is more than sufficient; but if to worse, then what I have still to say will also be said in vain. You now have my opinion, senators, and you who are at the head of the commonwealth, concerning the means both of putting an end to the war and of reforming the civil disorders. If anyone, however, shall offer better advice than this, let the best prevail.”

[15.1] After Claudius had spoken thus and given the senate great reason to hope that the decemvirs would resign their power, Appius did not see fit to make any answer to his advice. But Marcus Cornelius, one of the other members of the oligarchy, advanced and said: “We, Claudius, shall ourselves decide about our own interests without any need of your advice. For we are of the age best qualified for prudence, so that we are ignorant of nothing that concerns us, and we do not lack for friends whom we may take as advisers if necessary. [2] Cease, then, doing an unseasonable thing in expressing your opinions as an older man to those who do not need advice. As for Appius, if you wish to give him any admonition or abuse — for this is the truer form of it — when you have left the senate-chamber, you may abuse him. For the present, state what you think about the war with the Aequians and Sabines, the matter regarding which you have been called upon to deliver your opinion, and cease talking idly of things that are beside the point.” [3] After him Claudius rose up again, with downcast countenance and with tears in his eyes, and said: “Appius does not think me, his uncle, worthy even of an answer, senators, in your presence; but, just as he shut his own house against me, so he does everything in his power to render the senate-chamber here inaccessible to me likewise. And if I must speak the truth, I am even driven out of the city.

[4] For I could no longer bear the sight of him, now that he has become unworthy of his ancestors and has emulated the lawlessness of tyrants, but removing all my effects and my household to the Sabines, I shall live at Regillum, the city from which our family comes, and shall remain there for the future as long as these men continue in possession of this fine magistracy. But when the fate I foresee shall have overtaken the decemvirate — and it will overtake them soon — I shall then return. [5] So much concerning myself. As to the war, I give you this advice, senators, to pass no vote concerning anything whatever until new magistrates are appointed.” After he had thus spoken and received great applause from the senate for the noble spirit and the love of liberty that his words breathed, he sat down. And after him Lucius Quintus, surnamed Cincinnatus, Titus Quinctius Capitolinus, Lucius Lucretius, and all the leading men of the senate rose up one after another and supported the motion of Claudius.

[16.1] Appius and his colleagues, being disturbed at this, resolved no longer to call upon others for advice according to their age or senatorial rank, but according to their friendship and attachment to themselves. And Marcus Cornelius, coming forward, asked Lucius Cornelius to rise, — his brother, who had been colleague to Quintus Fabius Vibulanus in his third consulship, a man of action and not without eloquence in political debates. This man, rising up, spoke as follows:

[2] This also was surprising, senators, that men of the age of those who preceded me in declaring their opinions and claim to be the foremost men of the senate, think fit to maintain unrelenting their enmity, derived from political clashes, toward those who are at the head of the commonwealth, when they ought to be exhorting the young men also to engage from the highest motive in competition for noble rewards, and to regard, not as enemies, but as friends, those who are their rivals in striving for the public good. [3] And much more surprising still than this it is that they transfer their private animosities to the affairs of the commonwealth and choose rather to perish with their enemies than to be saved with all their friends. This is an excess of folly and not far from a Heaven-sent madness which the presiding officers of our senate have been guilty of. [4] For these men, displeased because others who appeared more worthy defeated them at the election when they were candidates for the decemvirate, — a magistracy which they themselves now inveigh against, — continually wage an unrelenting war against them and have come to this pitch of folly, or rather of madness, that in order to slander these men to you they are willing to overthrow the whole country. [5] For although they see that our land has been laid waste by our enemies and though they see that these foes will come almost immediately against Rome (the distance separating us is not great), instead of exhorting and urging the young men to fight for their country and going themselves to her relief with all alacrity and enthusiasm, so far at least as there is strength in men so aged, they ask you now to consider the form of government, to create new magistrates, and to do everything rather than injure the enemy; and they cannot see even this itself, that they are introducing inopportune motions, or rather uttering impracticable wishes.

[17.1] “For consider the matter in this light. There will be a preliminary vote of the senate for the election of magistrates; then the decemvirs will lay this resolution before the people after appointing the third market-day thereafter for its consideration. For how can anything that is voted by the people become really valid if it is not done in accordance with the laws? Then, after the tribes have given their votes, the new magistrates will take over the administration of the commonwealth and propose to you the consideration of the war. [2] During the interval before the election, which will be such a long one, if our enemies march up to the city and approach the walls, what are we going to do, Claudius? We shall say to them, by heaven: ‘Wait until we have appointed other magistrates. For Claudius persuaded us neither to pass a preliminary decree concerning any other matter nor to lay anything else before the people nor to enrol forces until we have settled everything relating to the magistracies as we wish. [3] Depart, therefore, and when you hear that the consuls and the other magistrates have been appointed and that we have all the necessary preparations made for war, then come and make your pleas for peace, since you injured us first without any provocation on our part. And for whatever damage you have caused us in your raids, so far as property is concerned, pay us in full in accordance with justice; [4] but the slaying of our husbandmen and any insults and drunken abuse offered by your soldiers to women of free condition or any other irreparable mischief we shall not include in your account.’ And they doubtless in response to this invitation of ours will show moderation, and after permitting us to choose new magistrates and to make our preparations for war, will then come with olive branches in their hands instead of arms and deliver themselves up to us!”

[18.1] “Oh, the great folly of these men who can think of uttering such nonsense, and our own great stupidity if, when they say such things, we show no displeasure, but submit to hearing them, as if we were consulting in the interest of our enemies and not out of ourselves and our country! [2] Shall we not remove these triflers from our midst? Not vote speedy relief to the land that is being ravished? Not arm all the youth of Rome? Not march ourselves against the cities of our enemies? Or shall we stay at home and, abusing the decemvirs, installing new magistrates and considering a form of government as if we were at peace, let everything in the country fall into the enemy's hands, and at last run the hazard of being enslaved ourselves and seeing our city laid in ruins as the result of our having allowed the war to approach our walls? [3] Such counsels, fathers, are not those of men in their senses nor do they spring from the political foresight which regards the public advantages as more essential than private animosities, but rather from an unseasonable contentiousness, an ill-starred enmity, and an unfortunate envy which does not permit those who are under its influence to show sound judgement. Dismiss, however, from your minds the rivalries of these men; but the measures which you should pass if your counsels are to prove salutary to the commonwealth, becoming to yourselves and formidable to our foes, I shall now attempt to indicate. [4] For the present, vote your approval of the war against the Aequians and Sabines and enrol with the greatest alacrity and expedition the forces that are to set out against both. And after the war is terminated in the happiest manner for us and our forces return to the city upon the conclusion of peace, then not only considered the form of government, but also call the decemvirs to account for all their actions during their administration, vote for new magistrates and establish courts and honour with both these offices those who are worthy of them when both are in your power; for you must know that opportunities do not wait upon events, but events upon opportunities."

[5] When Cornelius had delivered this opinion, those who rose up after him were, with few exceptions, of the same advice, some looking upon these measures as necessary and suited to the present juncture, and others yielding to the times and paying court to the decemvirs through dread of their magistracy; for no small part of the senators actually stood in awe of their power.

[19.1] After most of the senators had delivered their opinions and those who declared for war appeared to be much more numerous than the others, the decemvirs then called upon Lucius Valerius among the last. He was the one, as I have related, who had wished to say something at the very beginning of the debate but had been prevented by them. And now rising, he delivered a speech of the following tenor:

[2] "You see, fathers, the plot of the decemvirs who not only at first would not allow me to say to you all that I had proposed, but now have assigned to my turn to speak among the last, with this in mind, as we may reasonably assume, that, if I concur in the opinion of Claudius, I shall render no service to the commonwealth, since few have supported it, and again, if I deliver an opinion different from those they themselves have expressed, however excellent my advice may be, I shall have recited my piece in vain. [3] For those are easily counted who are to rise up after me, and even if I shall have them all agreeing with me, what advantage will it give me when I shall not have the smallest fraction of those who side with Cornelius? However, in spite of these misgivings I shall not hesitate to express my opinion. For when you have heard everybody, you will have it in your power to choose what is best. [4]

Concerning the decemvirs, therefore, and the manner in which they look after the commonwealth, consider that everything the most excellent Claudius has said has been said by me also and that new magistrates ought to be chosen before any decree is passed concerning the war; for this point also was treated by him in the best manner. [5] But since Cornelius endeavoured to show that his motion is impracticable, pointing out that the intervening period devoted to matters of civil administration would be a long one, while the war is at our doors, and since he attempted to ridicule things that do not deserve ridicule and by that means seduced and carried away most of you with him, I for my part shall also talk to you about the motion of Claudius, showing that it is not impracticable; for that it is disadvantageous to no one even of those who derided it has ventured to allege. And I shall show you how our territory may be made secure, how those who have dared to do it injury may be punished, how we may recover our ancient aristocracy, and how these things may all come about at the same time with weight concurrence of all the citizens and without the least opposition. All this I shall do, not through the display of any wisdom, but by citing your own actions as precedents for you to follow; for where experience teaches what is advantageous, what need is there of conjectures?

[20.1] “You recall that forces from these same nations as at present made incursions, partly into our territory and partly into that of our allies, both at the same time, when Gaius Nautius and Lucius Minucius were consuls, some eight or nine years ago I believe it was. [2] When on that occasion you had sent out numerous and brave youths against both these nations, it chanced that one of the consuls, being obliged to encamp in a difficult position, was unable to accomplish anything, but was besieged in his camp and in danger of being captured for want of provisions, while Nautius, who was encamped against the Sabines, was under the necessity of fighting battles with the same foes continually and could not even go to the aid of his fellow Romans who were in distress. And there was no doubt that if the army which was encamped among the Aequians should be destroyed, the other, that was carrying on the war against the Sabines, would not be able to hold out either when both armies of our enemies should have united. [3] When the commonwealth was encompassed by such dangers and even the people inside the city walls were not harmonious, what relief did you yourself hit upon — a relief which is acknowledged to have helped your whole cause and to have rectified the commonwealth when it was rushing to a miserable downfall? Assembling in the senate-chamber about midnight, you created a single magistracy with absolute authority over both war and peace, abrogating all the other magistracies; and before day came, the most excellent Lucius Quintius had been appointed dictator, although he was not even in the city at the time, but in the country. [4] You know, of course, the deeds which this man performed after that, how he got ready adequate forces, rescued the army which was in danger, chastised the enemy and took their general prisoner; and how, after accomplishing all this in only fourteen days and reforming whatever else was corrupt in the commonwealth, he laid down the rods. Nothing hindered you then from creating a new magistracy in one day when you wished to do so. [5] This example, then, I think we ought to imitate, since there is nothing else we can do, and choose a dictator before we leave this chamber. For if we neglect this opportunity, the decemvirs will never assemble us again to deliberate about anything. And in order that the appointment of a dictator shall also be in accordance with the laws, we should create an interrex, choosing the most suitable person from among the citizens; for this is the customary thing for you to do when you have neither kings, consuls nor any other legal magistrates, which is the case at present, since these men's term of office has expired and the law has taken their rods from them. [6] This is the course I advise you to take, fathers, one that is both advantageous and practicable; whereas the motion proposed by Cornelius is confessedly the overthrow of your aristocracy. For if the decemvirs once get arms in their hands under this excuse of war, I fear they will use them against us. For is it at all likely that those who refuse to lay down their rods will lay down their arms? Taking these considerations into account, then, beware of these men and forestall any treachery on their part. For foresight is better than repentance, and it is more prudent not to trust wicked men than to accuse them after they have betrayed your trust."

[21.1] This opinion of Valerius pleased the majority of the senators, as was easy to conclude from their acclamations; and since those who rose up after him (those still remaining were the younger members of the senate) with few exceptions considered his measures the best, as soon as they all had delivered their own opinions and the discussion was due to be ended, Valerius asked the decemvirs to propose a division on the various opinions by calling upon all the senators over again from the beginning, and this request met with the approval of many of the senators who desired to retract their former opinions.

[2] But Cornelius, who advised giving the command of the war to the decemvirs, strenuously opposed this, declaring that the matter was already decided and legally ended, since all had voted; and he demanded that the votes be counted and that no further innovation be admitted. [3] When these proposals were urged by both men with great contention and shouting, and the senate split toward one side and the other, the party desiring to correct the disorder in the government backing Valerius, and the party which espoused the worse cause and suspected that there would be some danger from the change giving their support to Cornelius, the decemvirs, taking advantage of the dissension in the senate to do as they saw fit, sided with the opinion of Cornelius. [4] And Appius, one of their number, coming forward, said: "It was the war with the Aequians and Sabines, senators, which we called you together to deliberate about, and we have given all of you who so desired leave to speak, calling upon each one from the foremost down to the youngest in the proper order. And three senators having given different opinions, namely Claudius, Cornelius, last of all Valerius, the rest of you have come to your decision concerning them and each one has come forward and declared in the hearing of all which opinion he supported. [5] Everything, therefore, having been done according to law, since the majority of you thought that Cornelius gave the best advice, we declare that he prevails, and we are engrossing and publishing the motion he made. Let Valerius and those who are leagued with him, when they shall obtain the consular power themselves, grant a rehearing, if they like, to causes already determined and annul resolutions passed by you all.” [6] Having said this and ordered the clerk to read the preliminary decree, in which it had been ordered that the enrolling of the army and the command of the war should be assumed by the decemvirs, he dismissed the meeting.

[22.1] After that those of the oligarchical faction went about swaggering and insolent, as if they had gained a victory over their adversaries and had contrived that their power could no longer be overthrown when once they should be in control of arms and an army. [2] But the men who had the best interests of the commonwealth at heart were in great distress and consternation, imagining that they should never again have any share in the government. These split into many groups, those of less noble dispositions feeling obliged to yield all to the victors and join the oligarchical bands, and such as were less timorous abandoning their concern for the public interests in exchange for a carefree life; but those who had great nobility of character employed themselves in organizing bands of their own and planning together for their mutual defence and for a change in the form of government. [3] The leaders of these groups were the men who had first dared to speak in the senate in favour of abolishing the decemvirate, namely Lucius Valerius and Marcus Horatius; and they had surrounded their houses with armed men and had about their persons a strong guard of their servants and clients, so as to suffer no harm from either violence or treachery. [4] Those persons, again, who were unwilling either to court the power of the victors or to pay no attention to any of the business of the commonwealth and to lead a quiet, carefree life, and to whom the carrying on of open warfare, since it was not easy for so great a power to be overthrown, seemed to be senseless, quitted the city. At the head of these was a distinguished man, Gaius Claudius, uncle to Appius, the chief of the decemvirate, who by this step fulfilled the promises he had made to his nephew in the senate when he advised but failed to persuade him to resign his power. [5] He was followed by a large crowd of his friends and likewise of his clients. Following his lead, the multitude also of citizens that were left, no longer privately or in small groups, but openly and in a body, abandoned their country, taking with them their wives and their children. Appius and his colleagues, being vexed at this, endeavoured at first to stop them by closing the gates and arresting some of the people. But afterwards, becoming afraid lest those they were attempting to stop should turn and defend themselves, and rightly judging it to be better for themselves that their enemies should be out of the way than that they should remain and make trouble, they opened the gates and permitted all who so wished to depart; after the houses and estates, however, and all the other things that they left behind because they could not carry them away in their flight, the decemvirs nominally confiscated these to the treasury, bringing against their owners a charge of desertion, but in reality they bestowed these possessions on their own followers, pretending that the latter had purchased them from the public.

[6] These grievances, added to the former, greatly inflamed the hostility of the patricians and plebeians against the decemvirs. If, now, they had not added any fresh crime to those I have related, I think they might have retained the same power for a considerable time; for the sedition which maintained that power still continued in the city and had been increased by many causes and by the great length of time it had lasted, and because of the sedition each of the two parties rejoiced in the other's misfortunes, [7] the plebeians in seeing the spirit of the patricians humbled and the senate no longer possessing authority over any of the business of state, and the patricians in seeing the people stripped of their liberty and without the least strength since the decemvirs had taken from them the tribunician power. But the decemvirs, by treating both parties with great arrogance and by showing and moderation in the army nor self-restraint in the city, forced the parties to unite and to abolish their magistracy as soon as the war had put arms into their hands. [8] Their last crimes, for which they were overthrown by the people, whom they had particularly enraged by their abuses, were as follows.

[23.1] After they had secured the ratification of the decree of the senate for the war, they hastily enrolled their forces and divided them into three bodies. Two legions they left in the city to keep guard over matters inside the walls; and Appius Claudius, the chief of the oligarchy, together with Spurius Oppius commanded these two. Quintus Fabius, Quintus Poetelius and Manius Rabuleius marched out with three legions against the Sabines. [2] Marcus Cornelius, Lucius Minucius, Marcus Sergius, Titus Antonius, and last, Caeso Duilius, taking over the five remaining legions, arrived for the campaign against the Aequians. They were accompanied by an auxiliary force both of Latins and other allies that was as large as the citizen army. But nothing succeeded according to their plans, even though they were leading such large forces of both their own and allied troops. [3] For their foes, despising them because their troops were new recruits, encamped over against them, and placing ambuscades in the roads, cut off the provisions that were being brought to them and attacked them when they went out for forage; and whenever cavalry clashed with cavalry, infantry with infantry, and phalanx against phalanx, the Sabines always came off superior to the Romans, not a few of whom voluntarily played the coward in their encounters and not only disobeyed their officers but refused to come to grips with the foe. [4] Those, accordingly, who had set out against the Sabines, grown wise amid these minor misfortunes, resolved to quit their entrenchments of their own accord; and breaking camp about midnight, they led the army back from the enemy's territory into their own, making their withdrawal not unlike a flight, till they came to the city of Crustumerium, which is not far from Rome. But those who had made their camp at Algidum in the country of the Aequians, when they too had received many blows at the hands of the enemy and still resolved to stand their ground in the midst of these dangers in hopes of retrieving their reverses, suffered a most grievous disaster. [5] For the enemy, having thrust forward against them and cleared palisades of those who defended them, mounted the ramparts, and possessing themselves of the camp, killed some few while fighting but destroyed the greater part in the pursuit. Those who escaped from this rout, being most of them wounded and having almost all lost their arms, came to the city of Tusculum; but their tents, beasts of burden, money, slaves, and the rest of their military provisions became the prey of the enemy. [6] When the news of this defeat was brought to the people in Rome, all who were enemies of the oligarchy and those who had hitherto been concealing their hatred revealed themselves now by rejoicing at the misfortunes of the generals; and there was now a strong body of men attached to both Horatius and Valerius, who, as I said, were the leaders of the aristocratical groups.

[24.1] Appius and Spurius supplied their colleagues who were in the field with arms, money, corn and everything else they stood in need of, taking all these things with a high hand, whether public or private property; and enrolling all the men in every tribe who were able to bear arms in order to replace those who had been lost, they sent them out so that the centuries might be filled up. They also kept strict guard over matters in the city by garrisoning the most critical positions, lest the followers of Valerius should foment some disorders without their knowledge. [2] They also gave secret instructions to their colleagues in the army to put to death all who opposed their measures, the men of distinction secretly, and those of less account even openly, always using some specious excuses to make their death seem deserved. And these things were being done. For some, being sent out by them for forage, others to convoy provisions that were being brought in, and some to perform other military tasks, when they were once out of the camp, were nowhere seen again, [3] while the humblest men, being accused of being the first to take flight or of carrying secret information to the enemy or of quitting their posts, were being put to death publicly in order to strike terror into the rest. Two causes, therefore, contributed to the destruction of the soldiers: the friends of the oligarchy were perishing in the skirmishes with the enemy, while those who longed for the aristocratic régime were being slain by the orders of the generals.

[25.1] Many crimes of this nature were committed in the city also by Appius and his colleague. The destruction of most of the victims, numerous as they were, was a matter of no great concern to the masses; but the cruel and wicked death of one man, who was the most distinguished of the plebeians and had performed the most gallant exploits in war, only to be murdered now in that one of the camps where the three generals commanded, disposed everyone there to revolt. [2] The man assassinated was that Siccus who had fought the hundred and twenty battles and had received prizes for valour in all of them, a man of whom I have said that, when he was exempt from military service by reason of his age, he voluntarily engaged in the war against the Aequians at the head of a cohort of eight hundred men who had already completed the regular term of service and followed him out of affection for him; and having been sent with these men by one of the consuls against the enemy's camp, to manifest destruction, as everyone thought, he not only made himself master of their camp, but enabled the consuls to gain the complete victory they did. [3] This man, who kept making many speeches in the city against the generals in the field, accusing them of both cowardice and inexperience in warfare, Appius and his colleague were eager to remove out of the way, and to that end they invited him to friendly conversations and asked him to consult with them concerning affairs in camp, urging him to tell how the mistakes of the generals might be corrected; and at last they prevailed upon him to go out to the camp at Crustumium invested with the authority of a legate. The position of legate is the most honourable and the most sacred of all dignities among the Romans, possessing as it does the power and authority of a magistrate and the inviolable and holy character of a priest. [4] When he arrived at the camp and the generals there gave him a friendly greeting and asked him to remain and command in conjunction with them, also offering him some presents on the spot and promising others, Siccus, deceived by these wicked men and not conscious that the charm of their conversation was due to a plot, he being a military man and of a simple nature, not only made other recommendations, such as he thought advantageous, but, first of all, advised them to move their camp from their own territory to that of the enemy, recounting the losses they were then suffering and also estimating the advantages they would gain by shifting their camp.

[26.1] The generals, professing that they were glad to accept his advice, said: "Why, then, do you not take charge yourself of the army's removal, after first looking out a suitable position for it? You are sufficiently acquainted with the region because of the many campaigns you have made, and we will give you a company of picked youths fitted out with light equipment; for yourself there shall be a horse, on account of your age, and armour suitable for such an expedition." [2] Siccus having accepted the commission and asked for a hundred picked light-armed men, they sent him without delay while it was still light; and with him they sent the hundred men, whom they had picked out as the most daring of their own faction, with orders to kill the man, promising them great rewards for the murder. When they had advanced a long distance from the camp and had come to a hilly region where the road was narrow and difficult for a horse to traverse at any other pace than a walk as it climbed, by reason of the ruggedness of the hills, they gave the signal to one another and formed in a compact mass, with the intention of falling upon him all together in a body. [3] But a servant of Siccus, who was his shield-bearer and a brave warrior, guessed their intention and informed his master of it. Siccus, seeing himself confined in a difficult position where it was not possible to drive his horse at full speed, leaped down, and taking his stand upon the hill in order to avoid being surrounded by his assailants, with only his shield-bearer to aid him, awaited their attack. When they fell upon him all at once, many in number, he killed some fifteen of them and wounded twice as many; and it seemed as if he might have slain all the others in combat if they had come to close quarters with him. [4] But they, concluding that he was an invincible prodigy and that they could never vanquish him by engaging hand to hand, gave over that way of fighting, and withdrawing to a greater distance, hurled javelins, stones and sticks at him; and some of them, approaching the hill from the flanks and getting above him, rolled down huge stones upon him till they overwhelmed him with the multitude of the missiles that were hurled at him from in front and the weight of the stones that crashed down upon him from above. Such was the fate of Siccus.

[27.1] Those who had accomplished his murder returned to the camp bringing their wounded with them, and spread a report that a body of the enemy, having suddenly come upon them, had killed Siccus and the other men whom they first encountered and that they themselves after receiving many wounds had escaped with great difficulty. And their report seemed credible to everyone. However, their crime did not remain concealed, but though the murder was committed in a solitude where there was no possible informant, by the agency of fate itself and that justice which oversees all human actions they were convicted on the strength of incontrovertible evidence. [2] For the soldiers in the camp, feeling that the man deserved both a public funeral and distinctive honour above other men, not only for many other reasons, but particularly because, though he was an old man and exempted by his age from contests of war, he had voluntarily exposed himself to danger for the public good, voted to join together from the three legions and go out to recover his body, in order that it might be brought to the camp in complete security and honour. And the generals consenting to this, for fear that by opposing a worthy and becoming action they might create some suspicion of a plot in regard to the incident, they took their arms and went out of the camp. [3] When they came to the spot and saw neither woods nor ravines nor any other place of the sort customary for the setting of ambushes, but a bare hill exposed on all sides and reached by a narrow pass, they at once began to suspect what had happened. Then, approaching the dead bodies and seeing Siccus himself and all the rest cast aside but not despoiled, they marvelled that the enemy, after overcoming their foes, had stripped off neither their arms nor their clothes. [4] And when they examined the whole region round about and found neither tracks of horses nor footsteps of men besides those in the road, they thought it impossible that enemies till then invisible could have suddenly burst into view of their comrades, as if they had been creatures with wings or had fallen from heaven. But, over and above all these and the other signs, what seemed to them the strongest proof that the man had been slain, not by enemies, but by friends, was that the body of no foeman was found. [5] For they could not conceive that Siccus, a man irresistible by reason of both of his strength and of his valour, or his shield-bearer either, or the others who had fallen with him would have perished without offering a stout resistance, particularly since the contest had been waged hand to hand. This they conjectured from their wounds; for both Siccus himself and his shield-bearer having had many wounds, some from stones, others from javelins, and still others from swords, whereas those who had been slain by them all had wounds from swords, but none from a missile weapon. [6] Thereupon they all gave way to resentment and cried out, making great lamentation. After bewailing the calamity, they took up the body, and carrying it to the camp, indulged in loud outcries against the generals, and they demanded, preferably, that the murderers be put to death in accordance with military law, or else that a civil court be assigned to them immediately; and many were those who were ready to be their accusers. [7] When the generals paid no heed to them, but concealed the men and put off the trials, telling them they would give an accounting in Rome to any who wished to accuse them, the soldiers, convinced that the generals had been the authors of the plot, proceeded to bury Siccus, after arranging a most magnificent funeral procession and erecting an immense pyre, where every man according to his ability presented the first-offerings of everything that is usually employed in rendering the last honours to brave men; but they were all becoming alienated from the decemvirs and had the intention of revolting. Thus the army that lay encamped at Crustumerium and Fidenae, because of the death of Siccus the legate, was hostile to the men who stood at the head of the government.

[28.1] The other army, which lay at Algidum in the territory of the Aequians, as well as the whole body of the people at Rome became hostile to them for the following reasons. One of the plebeians, whose name was Lucius Verginius, a man inferior to none in war, had the command of a century in one of the five legions which had taken the field against the Aequians. [2] He had a daughter, called Verginia after her father, who far surpassed all the Roman maidens in beauty and was betrothed to Lucius, a former tribune and son of the Icilius who first instituted and first received the tribunician power. [3] Appius Claudius, the chief of the decemvirs, having seen this girl, who was now marriageable, as she was reading at the schoolmaster's (the schools for the children stood at that time near the Forum), was immediately captivated by her beauty and became still more frenzied because, already mastered by passion, he could not help passing by the school frequently. [4] But, as he could not marry her, both because he saw that she was betrothed to another and because he himself had a lawfully-wedded wife, and furthermore because he would not deign to take a wife from a plebeian family through scorn of that station and as being contrary to the law which he himself had inscribed in the Twelve Tables, he first endeavoured to bribe the girl with money, and for that purpose was continually sending women to her governesses (for she had lost her mother), giving them many presents and promising them still more than was actually given. Those who were tempting the governesses had been instructed not to tell them the name of the man who was in love with the girl, but only that he was one of those who had it in his power to benefit or harm whom he wished. [5] When they could not persuade the governesses and he saw that the girl was thought to require an even stronger guard than before, inflamed by his passion, he resolved to take the more audacious course. He accordingly sent for Marcus Claudius, one of his clients, a daring man and ready for any service, and acquainted him with his passion; then, having instructed him in what he wished him to do and say, he sent him away accompanied by a band of the most shameless men. [6] And Claudius, going to the school, seized the maiden and attempted to lead her away openly through the forum; but when an outcry was raised and a great crowd gathered, he was prevented from taking her whither he intended, and so betook himself to the magistracy. Seated at the time on the tribunal was Appius alone, hearing causes and administering justice to those who applied for it. When Claudius wished to speak, there was an outcry and expressions of indignation on the part of the crowd standing about the tribunal, all demanding that he wait till the relations of the girl should be present; and Appius ordered it should be so. [7] After a short interval Publius Numitorius, the maiden's maternal uncle, a man of distinction among the plebeians, appeared with many of his friends and relations; and not long afterwards came Lucius, to whom she had been betrothed by her father, accompanied by a strong body of young plebeians. As he came up to the tribunal still panting and out of breath, he demanded to know who it was that had dared to lay hands upon a girl who was a Roman citizen and what his purpose was.

[29.1] When silence had been obtained, Marcus Claudius, who had seized the girl, spoke to this effect: "I have done nothing either rash or violent in regard to the girl, Appius Claudius; but, as I am her master, I am taking her according to the laws. Hear now by what means she is mine. [2] I have a female slave who belonged to my father and has served a great many years. This slave, being with child, was persuaded by the wife of Verginius, whom she was acquainted with and used to visit, to give her the child when she should bear it. And she, keeping her promise, when this daughter was born, pretended to us that she had given birth to a dead child, but she gave the babe to Numitoria; and the latter, taking the child, palmed it off as her own and reared it, although she was the mother of no children either male or female. [3] Hitherto I was ignorant of all this; but now, having learned of it through information given me and having many credible witnesses and having also examined the slave, I have recourse to the law, common to all mankind, which declares it right that the offspring belong, not to those who palm off others' children as their own, but to their mothers, the children of freeborn mothers being free, and those of slave mothers slaves, having the same masters as their mothers. [4] In virtue of this law I claim the right to take the daughter of my slave woman, consenting to submit to a trial and, if anyone puts in a counter claim, offering sufficient securities that I will produce her at the trial. But if anyone wishes to have the decision rendered speedily, I am ready to plead my cause before you at once, instead of offering pledges for her person and interposing delays to the action. Let these claimants choose whichever of these alternatives they wish."

[30.1] After Claudius had spoken thus and had added an urgent plea that he might be at no disadvantage as compared with his adversaries because he was a client and of humble birth, the uncle of the girl answered in few words and those such as were proper to be addressed to a magistrate. He said that the father of the girl was Verginius, a plebeian, who was then abroad in the service of his country; that her mother was Numitoria, his own sister, a virtuous and good woman, who had died not many years before; that the maiden herself, after being brought up in such a manner as became a person of free condition and a citizen, had been legally betrothed to Icilius, and that the marriage would have taken place if the war with the Aequians had not intervened. [2] In the meantime, he said, no less than fifteen years having elapsed, Claudius had never attempted to allege anything of this sort to the girl's relations, but now that she was of marriageable age and had a reputation for exceptional beauty, he had come forward with his allegation after inventing a shameless calumny, not indeed on his own initiative, but coached by a man who thought he must by any and every means gratify his desires. [3] As for the trial, he said the father himself would defend the cause of his daughter when he returned from the campaign; but as for the claiming of her person, which was required according to the laws, he himself, as the girl's uncle, was attending to that and was submitting to trial, in doing which he was demanding nothing either unprecedented or not granted as a right to all other Roman citizens, if indeed not to all men, namely, that when a person is being haled from a condition of freedom into slavery, it is not the man who is trying to deprive him of his liberty, but the man who maintains it, that has the custody of him until the trial. [4] And he said that it behooved Appius to maintain that principle for many reasons: first, because he had inscribed this law among the others in the Twelve Tables, and, in the next place, because he was chief of the decemvirate; and furthermore, because he had assumed not only the consular but also the tribunician power, the principal function of which was to relieve such of the citizens as were weak and destitute of help. [5] He then asked him to show compassion for a maiden who had turned to him for refuge, having long since lost her mother and being at the moment deprived of her father and in danger of losing not only her ancestral fortune but also her husband, her country, and, what is regarded as the greatest of all human blessings, her personal liberty. And having lamented the insolence to which the girl would be delivered up and thus roused great compassion in all present, he at last spoke about the time to be appointed for the trial, saying: [6] “Since Claudius, who during those fifteen years never complained of any injury, now wishes to have the decision in this cause rendered speedily, anyone else who was contending for a matter of so great importance as I am would say that he was grievously treated and would naturally feel indignant, demanding to offer his defence only after peace is made and all who are now in camp have returned, at a time when both parties to the suit will have an abundance of witnesses, friends and judges — a proposal which would be democratic, moderate and agreeable to the Roman constitution. [7] But as for us,” he said, “we have no need of speeches nor of peace nor of a throng of friends and judges, nor are we trying to put the matter off to the times appropriate for such decisions; but even in war, and when friends are lacking and judges are not impartial, and at once, we are ready to make our defence, asking of you only so much time, Appius, as will suffice for the father of the girl to come from camp, lament his misfortunes, and plead his cause in person.”

[31.1] Numitorius having spoken to this effect and the people who stood round the tribunal having signified by a great shout that his demand was just, Appius after a short pause said: “I am not ignorant of the law concerning the bailing of those who are claimed as slaves, which does not permit their persons to be in the power of the claimants till the hearing of the case, nor would I willingly break a law which I myself draughted. This, however, I consider to be just, that, as there are two claimants, the master and the father, if they were both present, the father should have the custody of her person till the hearing; [2] but since he is absent, the master should take her away, giving sufficient sureties that he will produce her before the magistrate when her father returns. I shall take great care, Numitorius, concerning the sureties and the amount of their bond and also that you defendants shall be at no disadvantage in respect of the trial. For the present, deliver up the girl.”

[3] When Appius had pronounced this sentence, there was much lamentation and beating of breasts on the part of the maiden and of the women surrounding her, and much clamour and indignation on the part of the crowd which stood about the tribunal. But Icilius, who intending to marry the girl, clasped her to him and said: [4] “Not while I am alive, Appius, shall anyone take this girl away. But if you are resolved to break the laws, to confound our rights, and to take from us our liberty, deny no longer the tyranny you decemvirs are reproached with, but after you have cut off my head lead away not only this maiden whithersoever you choose, but also every other maiden and matron, in order that the Romans may now at last be convinced that they have become slaves instead of free men and may no longer show a spirit above their condition. [5] Why, then, do you delay any longer? Why do you not shed my blood before your tribunal in the sight of all? But know of a certainty that my death will prove the beginning either of great woes to the Romans or of great blessings.”

[32.1] While he wished to go on speaking, the lictors by order of the magistrate kept him and his friends back from the tribunal and commanded them to obey the sentence; and Claudius laid hold on the girl as she clung to her uncle and her betrothed, and attempted to lead her away. But the people who stood round the tribunal, upon seeing her piteous grief, all cried out together, and disregarding the authority of the magistrate, crowded upon those who were endeavouring to use force with her, so that Claudius, fearing their violence, let the girl go and fled for refuge to the feet of the general. [2] Appius was at first greatly disturbed as he saw all the people enraged, and for a considerable time was in doubt what he ought to do. Then, after calling Claudius to the tribunal and conversing a little with him, as it seemed, he made a sign for the bystanders to be silent and said: [3] “I am waiving the strict letter of the law, citizens, relative to the bailing of her person, inasmuch as I see you growing exasperated at the sentence I have pronounced; and desiring to gratify you, I have prevailed upon my client to consent that the relations of the maiden shall go bail for her till the arrival of her father. [4] Do you men, therefore, take the girl away, Numitorius, and acknowledge yourselves bound for her appearance to-morrow. For this much time is sufficient for you both to give Verginius notice to-day and to bring him here from the camp in three or four hours to-morrow.” When they asked for more time, he gave no answer but rose up and ordered his seat to be taken away.

[33.1] As he left the Forum, sorely troubled and maddened by his passion, he determined not to relinquish the maiden another time to her relations, but when she was produced by her surety, to take her away by force, after first placing a stronger guard about his person, in order to avoid suffering any violence from the crowds, and occupying the neighbourhood of the tribunal ahead of time with a throng of his partisans and clients. [2] That he might do this with a plausible show of justice when the father should fail to appear as her surety, he sent his most trusted horsemen to the camp with letters for Antonius, the commander of the legion in which Verginius served, asking him to detain the man under strict guard, lest he learn of the situation of his daughter and steal away from the camp unobserved. [3] But he was forestalled by two relations of the girl, namely a son of Numitorius and a brother of Icilius, who had been sent ahead by the rest at the very beginning of the affair. These, being young and full of spirit, drove their horses with loose rein and under the whip, and completing the journey ahead of the men sent by Appius, informed Verginius of what had taken place. [4] He, going to Antonius and concealing the true reason for his request, pretended that he had received word of the death of a certain near relation whose funeral and burial he was obliged by law to perform; and being given a furlough, he set out about lamp-lighting time with the youths, taking by-roads for fear of being pursued both from the camp and from the city — the very thing which actually happened. [5]

For Antonius, upon receiving the letters about the first watch, sent a troop of horse after him, while other horsemen, sent from the city, patrolled all night long the road that led from the camp to Rome. When Appius was informed by somebody of the unexpected arrival of Verginius, he lost control of himself, and going to the tribunal with a large body of attendants, ordered the relations of the girl to be brought. [6] When they had come, Claudius repeated what he had said before and asked Appius to act as judge in the matter without delay, declaring that both the informant and the witnesses were present and offering the slave woman herself to be examined. On top of all this there was the pretence of great indignation, if he was not to obtain the same justice as other people, as he had previously, because he was a client of Appius, and also an appeal that Appius should not support those whose complaints were the more pitiful, but rather those whose claims were the more just.

[34.1] The father of the girl and her other relations made a defence with many just and truthful arguments against the charge that she had been substituted for a still-born child, namely, that the sister of Numitorius, wife of Verginius, had had no reasonable ground for a substitution, since she, a virgin, married to a young man, had borne a child no very considerable time after her marriage; and again, if she had desired ever so much to introduce the offspring of another woman into her own family, she would not have taken the child of someone else's slave rather than that of a free woman united to her by consanguinity or friendship, one from whom she would take it in the confidence and indeed certainty that she could keep what she had received. [2] And when she had it in her power to take a child of whichever sex she wished, she would have chosen a male child rather than a female. For a mother, if she wants children, must of necessity be contented with and rear whatever offspring nature produces, whereas a woman who substitutes a child will in all probability choose the better sex instead of the inferior. [3] As against the informer and the witnesses whom Claudius said he would produce in great numbers, and all of them trustworthy, they offered the argument from probability, that Numitoria would never have done openly and in conjunction with witnesses of free condition a deed that required secrecy and could have been performed for her by one person, when as a result she might see the girl she had reared taken away from her by the owners of the girl's mother. [4] Also the lapse of time, they said, was no slight evidence that there was nothing sound in what the plaintiff alleged; for neither the informer nor the witnesses would have kept the substitution a secret during fifteen years, but would have told of it before this. [5] While discrediting the plaintiff's proofs as neither true nor probable, they asked that their own proofs might be weighed against them, and named many women, and those of no mean note, who they said had known when Numitoria came with child by the size of her abdomen. Besides these they produced women who because of their kinship had been present at her labour and delivery and had seen the child brought into the world, and asked that these be questioned. [6] But the clearest proof of all, which was attested by both men in large numbers and women, freemen and slaves as well, they brought in at the last, stating that the child had been suckled by her mother and that it was impossible for a woman to have her breasts full of milk if she had not borne a child.

[35.1] While they were presenting these arguments and many others equally weighty and incontrovertible and were pouring forth a stream of compassion over the girl's misfortunes, all the others who heard their words felt pity for her beauty [2] as they cast their eyes upon her, — for being dressed in squalid attire, gazing down at the ground, and dimming the lustre of her eyes with tears, she arrested the eyes of all, so superhuman a beauty and grace enveloped her, — and all bewailed the perversity of Fortune when they considered what abuses and insults she would encounter after falling from such prosperity. [3] And they began to reason that, once the law which secured their liberty was violated, there was nothing to prevent their own wives and daughters also from suffering the same treatment as this girl. While they were making these and many like reflections and communicating them to one another, they wept. [4] But Appius, inasmuch as he was not by nature sound of mind and now was spoiled by the greatness of his power, his soul turgid and his bowels inflamed because of his love of the girl, neither paid heed to the pleas of her defenders nor was moved by her tears, and furthermore resented the sympathy shown for her by the bystanders, as though he himself deserved greater pity and had suffered greater torments from the comeliness which had enslaved him. [5] Goaded, therefore, by all these emotions, he not only had the effrontery to make a shameless speech, by which he made it clear to those who suspected as much that he himself had contrived the fraudulent charge against the girl, but he also dared to commit a cruel and tyrannical deed.

[36.1] For while they were still pleading their cause, he commanded silence; and when there was quiet and the whole crowd in the Forum began moving forward, prompted by a desire to know what he would say, he repeatedly turned his glance here and there, his eyes taking count of the bands of his partisans, who by his orders had posted themselves in different parts of the Forum, and then spoke as follows: [2] "This is not the first time, Verginius and you who are present with him, that I have heard of this matter, but it was long ago, even before I assumed this magistracy. Hear, now, in what way it came to my knowledge. The father of Marcus Claudius here, when he was dying, asked me to be the guardian of his son, whom he was leaving a mere boy; for the Claudii are hereditary clients of our family. [3] During the time of my guardianship information was given me regarding this girl, to the effect that Numitoria had palmed her off as her own child after receiving her from the slave woman of Claudius; and upon investigating this matter, I found it was so. Now I might myself have claimed what I had a right to claim, but I thought it better to leave the power of choice to my ward here, when he should come to man's estate, either to take away the girl, if he thought fit, or to come to an accommodation with those who were rearing her, by taking money for her or making a present of her. [4] Since that time, having become involved in public affairs, I have given myself no further concern about the interests of Claudius. But he, it would seem, when taking account of his estate, also received the same information concerning the girl which had previously been given to me; and he is making no unjust demand when he wishes to take away the daughter of his own slave woman. [5] Now if they had come to terms with one another, it would have been well; but since the matter has been brought into litigation, I give this testimony in his favour and declare him to be the girl's master."

[37.1] When they heard this, all who were unprejudiced and ready to be advocates for those who plead the cause of justice held up their hands to heaven and raised an outcry of mingled lamentation and resentment, while the flatterers of the oligarchy uttered their rallying cry that was calculated to inspire the men in power with confidence. While the Forum was seething filled with cries and emotions of every sort, Appius, commanding silence, said: [2] "If you do not cease dividing the city into factions and contending against us, you trouble-makers, useless fellows everywhere whether in peace or in war, you shall be brought to your senses by compulsion and so submit. Do not imagine that these guards on the Capitol and the citadel have been made ready by use solely against foreign foes and that we shall be indifferent to you who sit idle inside the walls and corrupt all the interests of the commonwealth. [3] Adopt, then, a better disposition than you have at present and be off with you, all you who have no business here, and mind your own affairs, if you are wise. And do you, Claudius, take the girl and lead her through the Forum without fearing anyone; for the twelve axes of Appius will attend you."

[4] After he had spoken thus, the others withdrew from the Forum, sighing, beating their foreheads, and unable to refrain from tears; but Claudius began to lead away the girl as she held her father close, kissing him and calling upon him with the most endearing words. Finding himself in so sore a plight, Verginius thought of a deed that was grievous and bitter indeed to a father, yet becoming to a free man of lofty spirit. [5] For he asked leave to embrace his daughter for the last time as a free woman and to say what he thought fit to her in private before she was taken from the Forum, and when the general granted his request and his enemies withdrew a little, he held her up and supported her as she was fainting and sinking to the ground, and for a time called her by name, kissed her, and wiped away her streaming tears; then, drawing her away by degrees, when he came close a butcher's shop, he snatched up a knife from the table and plunged it into his daughter's vitals, saying only this: [6] "I send you forth free and virtuous, my child, to your ancestors beneath the earth. For if you had lived, you could not have enjoyed these two blessings because of the tyrant." When an outcry was raised, holding the bloody knife in his hand and covered as he was himself with blood, with which the slaying of the girl had besprinkled him, he ran like a madman through the city, calling the citizens to liberty. [7] Then, forcing his way out through the gates, he mounted the horse that stood ready for him and hastened to the camp, attended this time also by Icilius and Numitorius, the young men who had brought him from the camp. They were followed by another crowd of plebeians, not small in number, but amounting to some four hundred in all.

[38.1] When Appius learned of the girl's fate, he leaped up from his seat and was minded to pursue Verginius, meanwhile both saying and doing many indecorous things. But when his friends stood round him and besought him to do nothing reckless, he departed full of resentment against everybody. [2] Then, when he was already home, some of his followers informed him that Icilius, the betrothed of Verginia, and Numitorius, her uncle, together with her other friends and relations, standing round her body, were charging him with crimes speakable and unspeakable and summoning the people to liberty. [3] In his rage he sent some of the lictors with orders to hale to prison those who had raised the clamour and to remove the body out of the Forum, thereby doing a most imprudent thing and one by no means suited to that crisis. For when he ought to have courted the multitude, by yielding to them for the moment and afterwards justifying some of his actions, seeking pardon for others, and making amends for yet others by sundry acts of kindness, he was carried away to more violent measures and forced the people to resort to desperation. [4] For instance, they would not permit it when the lictors attempted to drag away the body or hale the men to prison, but shouting encouragement to one another, they indulged in both pushing and blows against them when they attempted to use violence and drove them out of the Forum. As a result, Appius, on hearing of this, was obliged to proceed to the Forum, accompanied by numerous partisans and clients, whom he ordered to beat and hold back out of the way the people who were in the streets. [5] But Valerius and Horatius, who, as I have said, were the chief leaders of those who desired to recover their liberty, having learned of his purpose in thus coming forth, came bringing with them a large and brave company of youths and took their stand before the body; and when Appius and his followers drew near, they first proceeded to harsh and bitter taunts against the power of the decemvirs, and then, suiting their actions to their words, they struck and knocked down all who engaged with them.

[39.1] Appius, sorely troubled by this unexpected setback and not knowing how to deal with the men, resolved to take the most pernicious course. For, feeling that the populace still remained friendly to him, he went up to the sanctuary of Vulcan, and calling an assembly of the people, he attempted to accuse those men of violation of the law and of insolent behaviour, being carried away by his tribunician power and the vain hope that the people would share his resentment and permit him to throw the men down from the cliff. [2] But Valerius and his followers took possession of another part of the Forum, and placing the body of the maiden where it would be seen by all, held another assembly of the people and made a sweeping accusation of Appius and the other oligarchs. [3] And it was bound to happen, as one would expect, that with some being attracted thither by the rank of the men, others by their compassion for the girl who had suffered dreadful and worse than dreadful calamities because of her unfortunate beauty, and still others by their very yearning for the ancient constitution, this assembly would be better attended than the other, so that just a few were left round Appius, consisting solely of the oligarchical faction; and among those there were some who for many reasons no longer paid heed to the oligarchs themselves, but, if the cause of their opponents should become strong, would gladly turn against the others. [4] Appius, accordingly, seeing himself being deserted, was obliged to change his mind and leave the Forum, a course which proved of the greatest advantage to him; for if he had been set upon by the plebeian crowd, he would have paid a fitting penalty to them. [5] After that Valerius and his followers, having all the authority they wished, indulged themselves in anti-oligarchic speeches and by their harangues won over those who still hesitated. The dissatisfaction of the citizens at large was still further increased by the relations of the girl, who brought her bier into the Forum, prepared all the funeral trappings on the most costly scale they could, and then bore the body in procession through the principal streets of the city, where it would be seen by the largest number of people. [6] In fact the matrons and maidens ran out of their houses lamenting her fate, some throwing flowers and garlands upon the bier, some their girdles or fillets, others their childhood toys, and others perhaps even locks of their hair that they had cut off; [7] and many of the men, either purchasing ornaments in the neighbouring shops or receiving them as a favour, contributed to the funeral pomp by the appropriate gifts. Hence the funeral was much talked about throughout the entire city, and all were seized with an eager desire for the overthrow of the oligarchs. But those who favoured the cause of the oligarchy, being armed, kept them in great fear, and Valerius and his followers did not care to decide the quarrel by shedding the blood of their fellow citizens.

[40.1] Affairs in the city, then, were in this state of turmoil. In the meantime Verginius, who, as I have related, had slain his daughter with his own hand, rode with loose rein and at lamp-lighting time came to the camp at Algidum, still in the same condition in which he had rushed out of the city, all covered with blood and holding the butcher's knife in his hand. [2] When those who were keeping guard before the camp saw him, they could not imagine what had happened to him, and they followed along in the expectation of hearing of some great and dreadful occurrence. Verginius for the time continued on his way, weeping and making signs to those he met to follow him; and from the tents which he passed the soldiers, who were then at supper, all ran out in a body, full of anxious suspense and consternation, carrying torches and lamps; and pouring round him, they accompanied him. [3] But when he came to the open space in the camp, he took his stand upon an elevated spot, so as to be seen by all, and related the calamities that had befallen him, offering as witnesses to the truth of his statements those who had come with him from the city.

When he saw many of them lamenting and shedding tears, he turned to supplications and entreaties, begging them neither to permit him to go unavenged nor to let the fatherland be foully abused. While he was speaking thus, great eagerness was shown by them all to hear him and great encouragement for him to speak on. [4] Accordingly, he now assailed the oligarchy with greater boldness, recounting how the decemvirs had deprived many of their fortunes, caused many to be scourged, forced ever so many to flee from the country though guilty of no crime, and enumerating their insults offered to matrons, their seizing of marriageable maidens, their abuse of boys of free condition, and all their other excesses and cruelties. [5] “And these abuses,” he said, “we suffer at the hands of men who hold their power neither by law nor by a decree of the senate nor by the consent of the people (for the year’s term of their magistracy, after serving which they should have handed over the administration of affairs to others, has expired), but by the most violent of all means, since they have adjudged us great cowards and weaklings, like women. [6] Let every one of you consider both what he has suffered himself and what he knows others to have suffered; and if any one of you, lured by them with pleasures or gratifications, does not stand in dread of the oligarchy or fear that the calamities will eventually come upon him too some day, let him learn that tyrants know no loyalty, that it is not out of goodwill that the favours of the powerful are bestowed, and all the other truths of like purport; then let him change his opinion. [7] And becoming of one mind, all of you, free from these tyrants your country, in which stand both the temples of your gods and the sepulchres of your ancestors, whom you honour next to the gods, in which also are your aged fathers, who demand of you many acknowledgements such as the pains they have bestowed upon your rearing deserve, and also your lawfully betrothed wives, your marriageable daughters, who require much solicitous care on the part of their parents, and your sons, to whom are owed the rights deriving from Nature and from your forefathers. [8] I say nothing indeed of your houses, your estates and your goods, which have been acquired with great pains both by your fathers and by yourselves, none of which things you can possess in security so long as you live under the tyranny of the decemvirs.

[41.1] “It is the part neither of prudent nor of brave men to acquire the possessions of others by valour and then to allow their own to be lost through cowardice, nor, again, to wage long and incessant wars against the Aequians, the Volscians, the Sabines, and all the rest of your neighbours for the sake of sovereignty and dominion and then to be unwilling to take up arms against your unlawful rulers for the sake of both your security and your liberty. [2] Will you not recover the proud spirit of your country? Will you not come to a decision worthy of the virtue of your ancestors who, because one woman was outraged by one of Tarquin’s sons and because of this calamity put herself to death, became so indignant at her fate and so exasperated, looking upon the outrage as one done to them all alike, that they not only banished Tarquin from the state, but even abolished the monarchy itself and forbade that anyone should thereafter rule over Romans for life with irresponsible power, not only binding themselves by the most solemn oaths, but also invoking curses upon their descendants if in any respect they should act to the contrary? [3] Then, when they refused to bear the tyrannical outrage committed by one licentious youth upon one person of free condition, will you tolerate a many-headed tyranny that indulges in every sort of crime and licentiousness and will indulge still more if you now submit to it? [4] I am not the only man who had a daughter superior in beauty to others whom Appius had openly attempted to violate and besmirch, but many of you also have daughters or wives or comely young sons; and what shall hinder these from being treated in the same manner by another of the ten tyrants or by Appius himself? Unless, indeed, there is some one of the gods who will guarantee that if you permit these calamities of mine to go unavenged the same misfortunes will not come upon many of you, but having pursued its way only as far as my daughter, this lust of tyrants will stop and toward the persons of others, both youths and maidens, will grow chaste! [5] Know of a certainty, however, that it is the part of great folly and stupidity to say that these imagined crimes will not come to pass. For the desires of tyrants are naturally limitless, inasmuch as they have neither law nor fear to check them. Therefore, by effecting for me a just vengeance and also by procuring for yourselves security against suffering the same mistreatment, break now at last your bonds, O miserable me; look up toward liberty, your eyes fixed upon her. [6] What other ground for indignation greater than this will you have, when the tyrants carry off the daughters of citizens like slaves and with the lash lead their brides home? On what occasion will you regain the spirit of free men if you let slip the present one when your bodies are protected by arms?"

[42.1] While he was yet speaking, most of the soldiers cried out, promising to avenge him, and called upon the centurions by name, demanding immediate action; and many, coming forward, made bold to speak openly of any ill-treatment they had suffered. [2] Upon learning of what had happened, the five men, who, as I have stated, had the command of these legions, fearing lest some attack might be made upon them by the rabble, all ran to the general's headquarters and considered with their friends how they might allay the tumult by surrounding themselves with an armed guard of their own faction. [3] But being informed that the soldiers had retired to their tents and that the disturbance was abated and ended, and being unaware that most of the centurions had secretly conspired to revolt and to unite in freeing their country, they resolved that as soon as it was day they would seize Verginius, who was stirring up the rabble, and keep him in custody, and then, breaking camp and leading their forces against the enemy, would settle down in the best part of their territory and lay it waste, thus keeping their men from meddling any longer with what was going on in the city, partly because of the booty they would acquire and partly because of the battles that would be waged in each instance to secure their own safety. [4] But they succeeded in none of their calculations; for the centurions would not even permit Verginius to go to the generals' headquarters when he was sent for, suspecting that he might suffer some harm; nay, they even heaped scorn upon the intercepted report that the generals wished to lead the troops against the enemy, saying: “How skilfully you have commanded us in the past, that now also we should take hope and follow you — you who, after assembling a greater army both from the city itself and from our allies than any other generals in the past, have not only failed to gain any victory over the enemy or to do them any harm, but on the contrary have shown a lack of both courage and experience by encamping in cowardly fashion, and also, by permitting your own territory to be ravaged by the enemy, have made us beggars and destitute of all the means by which, when we were superior to our foes in equipment, we conquered them in battle when we had better generals than you! And now our foes erect trophies to commemorate our defeats and are in possession of our tents, our slaves, our arms and our money, which they have seized as plunder.”

[43.1] Verginius, moved by anger and no longer standing in awe of the generals, now inveighed against them with greater assurance, called them despoilers and plagues of their country, and exhorting all the centurions to take up the standards and lead the army home. [2] But most of them were still afraid to remove the sacred standards, and again, did not think it either right or safe at all to desert their commanders and generals. For not only does the military oath, which the Romans observe most strictly of all oaths, bid the soldiers follow their generals wherever they may lead, but also the law has given the commanders authority to put to death without a trial all who are disobedient or desert their standards. [3] Verginius, accordingly, perceiving that these scruples kept them in awe, proceeded to show them that the law had set aside their oath, since it is necessary that the general who commands the forces should have been legally appointed, whereas the power of the decemvirs was illegal, inasmuch as it had exceeded the term of a year, for which it had been granted. And to do the bidding of those who were commanding illegally, he declared, was not obedience and loyalty, but folly and madness. [4] The soldiers, hearing these arguments, approved of them; and encouraging one another and inspired also by Heaven with a certain boldness, they took up the standards and set out from the camp. However, as was to be expected among men of various dispositions and not all of them entertaining the best intentions, there were bound to be some, both soldiers and centurions, who remained with the oligarchs, though they were not so numerous as the others, but far fewer. [5] Those who departed from the camp marched throughout the entire day, and when evening came on, arrived in Rome, no one having announced their approach. Hence they caused the inhabitants no slight dismay, since they thought that a hostile army had entered the city; and there was shouting and disorderly running to and fro throughout the city. Nevertheless, the confusion did not last long enough to produce any mischief. For the soldiers, passing through the streets, called out that they were friends and had come for the good of the commonwealth; and they made their words match their deeds, as they did no harm to anyone. [6] Then, proceeding to the hill called the Aventine, which of all the hills included in Rome is the most suitable for an encampment, they put down their arms near the temple of Diana. The following day they strengthened their camp, and having appointed ten tribunes, at the head of whom was Marcus Oppius, to take care of their common interests, they remained quiet.

[44.1] There soon came to them as reinforcements from the army at Fidenae the ablest centurions of the three legions there, bringing with them a large force. These had long been disaffected toward the generals at Fidenae, ever since those men had caused the death of Siccius the legate, as I have related, but were afraid of beginning the revolt earlier, because they considered the five legions at Algidum to be attached to the decemvirate; but at the time in question, as soon as they heard of the revolt of the others, they were glad to embrace the opportunity presented to them by Fortune. [2] These legions also were commanded by ten tribunes, who had been appointed during their march, the most prominent of whom was Sextus Malius. After joining the others, they put down their arms and left it to the twenty tribunes to speak and act in all matters as representatives of the whole group. Out of these twenty they appointed two persons, Marcus Oppius and Sextus Malius, who were the most prominent, to determine policies. These established a council consisting of all the centurions and handled all matters in conjunction with them. [3] While their intentions were not as yet generally known, Appius, inasmuch as he was conscious of having been the cause of the present disturbance and of the evils that were expected to result from it, no longer thought fit to transact any of the public business, but stayed at home. Spurius Oppius, however, who had been placed in command of the city together with him, although he too had been alarmed at first, believing that their enemies would immediately attack them and had indeed come for this purpose, nevertheless, when he found that they had attempted nothing revolutionary, relaxed from his fear and summoned the senators from their homes to the senate-house, sending for each one individually. [4] While these were still assembling, the commanders of the army at Fidenae arrived, full of indignation that both the camps had been abandoned by the soldiers, and they endeavoured to persuade the senate to resent this action as it deserved. When the senators were to deliver their opinions one after another, Lucius Cornelius declared that the soldiers who were posted on the Aventine must return that very day to their camps and carry out the orders of their generals, though they should not be subject to trial for anything that had happened, save only the authors of the revolt, who should be punished by the generals. [5] If, however, they did not do as commanded, the senate should deliberate concerning them as concerning men who had abandoned the post to which they had been assigned by their generals and had violated their military oath. Lucius Valerius

[6] But it behooved me neither to make no mention of the Roman laws which I found written on the Twelve Tables, since they are so venerable and so far superior to the codes of the Greeks, nor to go on and extend my account of them farther than was necessary.

[45.1] After the overthrow of the decemvirate the first persons to receive the consular office from the people in a centuriate assembly were, as I have stated, Lucius Valerius Potitus and Marcus Horatius Barbatus, who were not only of their own nature favourable to the populace, but had also inherited that political creed from their ancestors. In fulfilment of the promises they had made to the plebeians, when they persuaded them to lay down their arms, that in their administration they would consult all the interests of the people, they secured the ratification in centuriate assemblies of various laws, most of which I need not mention, laws with which the patricians were displeased though they were ashamed to oppose them, and particularly the one which ordained that the laws passed by the populace in its tribal assemblies should apply to all the Romans alike, having the same force as those which should be passed in the centuriate assemblies. The penalties provided for such as should abrogate or transgress this law, in case they were convicted, were death and the confiscation of their estates. [2] This law put an end to the controversies previously carried on by the patricians against the plebeians when they refused to obey the laws enacted by the latter and would not at all regard the measures passed in the tribal assemblies as joint decrees of the whole state, but as merely private matters for the plebeians only; whereas they considered that any resolution the centuriate assembly passed applied not only to themselves but to the rest of the citizens as well. [3] It has been mentioned earlier that in the tribal assemblies the plebeians and the poor prevailed over the patricians, whereas in the centuriate assemblies the patricians, though far less numerous, had the upper hand over the plebeians.

[46.1] When this law, together with some others of a popular nature, as I have related, had been ratified by the consuls, the tribunes immediately, believing a fitting occasion had arrived for punishing Appius and his colleagues, thought they ought to bring charges against them, but not to put them all on trial at the same time, in order to prevent their helping one another in any way, but one by one; for they concluded that in this way they would be easier to manage. [2] And considering which one of them would be the most suitable to begin with, they determined to call Appius to account first, since he was hated by the people, not only because of his other crimes, but particularly because of his recent lawless acts with regard to the maiden. For they judged that if they convicted him they would easily get the better of the others, whereas, if they should begin with those of humbler station, they imagined that the resentment of the citizens, which is always more violent in the earlier trials, would be milder toward the most eminent men if they were tried last — as had often happened before. [3] Having resolved upon this course, they took the decemvirs into custody and appointed Verginius to be the accuser of Appius without drawing lots. Thereupon Appius was cited before the tribunal of the people to answer an accusation brought against him in their assembly by Verginius; and he asked for time to prepare his defence. He was haled to prison to be guarded until his trial, as bail was not allowed him; but before the day appointed for the trial came, he met his death in prison, — according to the suspicion of most people, by order of the tribunes, but according to the report of those who wished to clear them of this charge, by hanging himself. [4] After him, Spurius Oppius was brought before the tribunal of the people by another of the tribunes, Publius Numitorius, and being allowed to make his defence, was unanimously condemned, committed to prison, and put to death the same day. The rest of the decemvirs punished themselves by voluntary exile before they were indicted. The estates both of those who had been put to death and of those who had made their escape were confiscated by the quaestors. [5] Marcus Claudius, who had attempted to take away the maiden as his slave, was also accused by Icilius, her betrothed; however, by putting the blame on Appius, who had ordered him to commit the crime, he escaped death, but was condemned to perpetual banishment. Of the others who had been the instruments of the decemvirs in any crime, none had a public trial, but impunity was granted to them all. This course was proposed by Marcus Duilius, the tribune, when the citizens were already showing irritation and were expecting that . . . would be . . . enemies.

[47.1] After the domestic disturbances ceased, the consuls assembled the senate and procured the passing of a decree that they should lead out the army in all haste against the enemy. And the people having ratified the decree of the senate, Valerius, one of the consuls, marched with one half of the army against the Aequian and the Volscians; for these two nations had joined forces. [2] Understanding that the Aequians had gained assurance from their former successes and had come to entertain a great contempt for the Roman forces, he wished to increase their confidence and boldness by creating the false impression that he dreaded coming to close quarters with them, and in every move he simulated timidity. [3] For instance, he chose for his camp a lofty position difficult of access, surrounded it with a deep ditch, and erected high ramparts. And when the enemy repeatedly challenged him to battle and taunted him with cowardice, he bore it with patience and remained quiet. But upon learning that their best forces had set out to plunder the territory of the Hernicans and the Latins and that there was left in the camp a garrison that was neither large nor able, he thought this was the fitting moment, and leading out his army in regular formation, he drew it up as for battle. [4] Then, when no one came out to meet him, he held it in check that day, but on the next day led it against their camp, which was not very strong. When the enemy's detachments which had earlier gone out after forage heard that their camp was besieged, they speedily returned, though they did not put in an appearance all together and in good order, but scattered and in small parties, everyone coming up as he could; and those in the camp, as soon as they saw their own men approaching, took courage and sallied out in a body. [5] Upon this, a great battle ensued, with much slaughter on both sides, a battle in which the Romans, gaining the victory, put to flight those who fought in closed ranks, and pursuing those who fled, killed some and made others prisoners; and taking possession of their camp, they seized much money and vast booty. After accomplishing this, Valerius now freely overran the enemy's country and laid it waste.

[48.1] Marcus Horatius, who had been sent out to prosecute the war against the Sabines, when he learned of the exploits of his colleague, likewise marched out of camp and promptly led all his forces against the Sabines, who were not inferior in numbers and were thoroughly acquainted with the art of war. For they displayed spirit and great boldness against their opponents in consequence of their former successes, not only all of them in common, but particularly their commander; for he was both a good general and also a gallant fighter at close quarters. [2] And since the cavalry displayed great zeal, he won a most brilliant victory, killing many of the enemy and taking far more of them prisoners, and also gaining possession of their abandoned camp, in which he found not only the baggage of the enemy in great quantity but also all the booty they had taken from the Romans' territory, and rescued a great many of his own people who had been taken prisoner. For the Sabines, in their contempt of the Romans, had not packed up and sent away their booty before the battle. [3] The effects belonging to the enemy he allowed the soldiers to take as spoils after he had first selected such a portion of them as he intend to consecrate to the gods; but the booty he restored to the owners.

[49.1] After accomplishing these things he led his forces back to Rome, and Valerius arrived at about the same time. Both of them, being greatly elated by their victories, expected to celebrate brilliant triumphs; however, the matter did not turn out according to their expectation. [2] For the senate, having been convened in their case while they lay encamped outside the city in the Field of Mars, as it was called, and being informed of the exploits of both, would not permit them to perform the triumphal sacrifice, since many of the senators opposed their demand openly, [3] and particularly Gaius Claudius, uncles, as I have stated, to Appius who had established the oligarchy and had been put to death recently by the tribunes. Claudius reproached them for the laws they had got enacted by which they had weakened the power of the senate and for the other policies they had constantly pursued; and, last of all, he told of the killing of some of the decemvirs, whom they had betrayed to the tribunes, and the confiscation of the estates of the others, in violation, as he claimed, of their oaths and covenants; [4] for he maintained that the compact entered into by the patricians with the plebeians had been made on the basis of a general amnesty and impunity for what was past. He added that Appius had not perished by his own hand, but by the treachery of the tribunes before his trial, in order that he might not by standing trial either get a chance to speak or obtain mercy, — as might well have been the case if the man had come into court citing in his defence his illustrious lineage and the many good services he had rendered to the commonwealth, appealing too to the oaths and pledges of good faith, on which men rely when accommodating their differences, bringing forward his children and relations, displaying even the humble garb of the suppliant, and doing many other things that move the multitude to compassion. [5] When Claudius had poured out all these accusations against the consuls and all who were present had expressed their approval, it was decided that the consuls ought to be content if they were not punished; but that they were not in the least worthy of celebrating triumphs or of gaining any concessions of that sort.

[50.1] The senate having rejected their request for a triumph, Valerius and his colleague were indignant, and feeling that they had been grievously affronted, they called the multitude to an assembly; and after they had uttered many invectives against the senate and the tribunes had espoused their cause and introduced a law for the purpose, they obtained from the people the privilege of celebrating a triumph, being the first of all the Romans to introduce this custom. [2] This gave occasion to fresh accusations and quarrels on the part of the plebeians against the patricians; they were egged on by the tribunes, who called assemblies every day and uttered many invectives against the senate. But the thing which exasperated the masses most was the suspicion, which the tribunes had contrived to strengthen and was increased by unavowed reports and not a few conjectures, that the patricians were going to abolish the laws which had been enacted by Valerius and his colleague; and a strong opinion to this effect, which was little less than a conviction, possessed the minds of the masses. These were the events of that consulship.

[51.1] The consuls of the following year were Lar Herminius and Titus Verginius; and they were succeeded by Marcus Geganius

[51.1] When they made no answer but continued to feel aggrieved, Scaptius again came forward to the tribunal and said: "There you have the admission, citizens, from our adversaries themselves that they are laying claim to territory of ours which in no wise belongs to them. Bearing this in mind, vote for what is just and in conformity with your oaths." [2] While Scaptius was thus speaking, a sense of shame came over the consuls as they considered that the outcome of this trial would be neither just nor seemly if the Roman people, when chosen as arbiters, should take away any disputed territory claimed by others and award it to themselves, after having never before put in a counter-claim to it; and a great many speeches were made by the consuls and by the leaders of the senate to avert this result, but in vain. [3] For the people, when called to give their votes, declared it would be great folly to permit what was theirs to remain in the possession of others, and they thought they would not be rendering a righteous verdict if they declared the Aricians or the Ardeates to be the owners of the disputed land after having sworn to award it to those to whom they should find that it belonged. And they were angry with the contending parties for having asked to have as arbiters those who were being deprived of this land, with this end in view, that they might not even afterwards have it in their power to recover their own property which they themselves as sworn judges had decreed to belong to others. [4] The people, then, reasoning thus and feeling aggrieved, ordered a third urn, for the Roman commonwealth, to be placed before each tribe, into which they might put their voting tablets; and the Roman people were declared by all the votes to be the owners of the disputed land. These were the events of that consulship.

[53.1] When Marcus Genucius and Gaius Quintius had assumed office, the political quarrels were renewed, the plebeians demanding that it be permitted to all Romans to hold the consulship; for hitherto the patricians alone had stood for that office and been chosen in the centuriate assembly. And a law concerning the consular elections was drawn up and introduced by the tribunes of that year, all the others but one, Gaius Furnius, having agreed upon that course; in this law they empowered the populace to decide each year whether they wished patricians or plebeians to stand for the consulship. [2] At this the members of the senate were offended, seeing in it the overthrow of their own domination, and they thought they ought to endure anything rather than permit the law to pass; and outbursts of anger, recriminations and obstructions continually occurred both in private gatherings and in their general sessions, all the patricians having become to all the plebeians. [3] Many speeches also were made in the senate and many in the meetings of the popular assembly by the leading men of the aristocracy, the more moderate by men who believed that the plebeians were misled through ignorance of their true interests and the harsher by men who thought that the measure was concocted as the result of a plot and of envy toward themselves.

[54.1] While the time was dragging along with no result, messengers from the allies arrived in the city reporting that both the Aequians and the Volscians were about to march against them with a large army and begging that assistance might be sent them promptly, as they lay in the path of the war. [2] Those Tyrrhenians also who were called Veientes were said to be preparing for a revolt; and the Ardeates no longer gave allegiance to the Romans, being angry over the matter of the disputed territory which the Roman people, when chosen arbiters, had awarded to themselves the year before. [3] The senate, upon being informed of all this, voted to enrol an army and that both consuls should take the field. But those who were trying to introduce the law kept opposing the execution of their decisions (tribunes have authority to oppose the consuls) by liberating such of the citizens as the consuls were leading off to make them take the military oath and by not permitting the consuls to inflict any punishment on the disobedient. [4] And when the senate earnestly entreated them to put aside their contentiousness for the time being and only when the wars were at an end to propose the law concerning the consular elections, these men, far from yielding to the emergency, declared that they would oppose the decrees of the senate on any subject to be ratified unless the senate should approve by a preliminary decree the law they themselves were introducing. [5] And they were so far carried away that they thus threatened the consuls not only in the senate, nature in the assembly of the people, swearing the oath which to them is the most binding, namely by their good fortune, to the end that they might not be at liberty to revoke any of their decisions even if convinced of their error.

[55.1] In view of these threats the oldest and most prominent of the leaders of the aristocracy were assembled by the consuls in a private meeting apart by themselves and there considered what they ought to do. [2] Gaius Claudius, who by no means favoured the plebeians and had inherited this political creed from his ancestors, offered a rather arrogant motion not to yield to the people either the consulship or any other magistracy whatever, and, in the case of those who should attempt to do otherwise, to prevent them by force of arms, if they would not be convinced by arguments, giving no quarter to either private person or magistrate. For all who attempted to disturb the established customs and to corrupt their ancient form of government, he said, were aliens and enemies of the commonwealth. [3] On the other hand, Titus Quintius opposed restraining their adversaries by violence or proceeding against the plebeians with arms and civil bloodshed, particularly since they would be opposed by the tribunes, “whose persons our fathers had decreed to be sacred and sacrosanct, making the gods and lesser divinities sureties for the performance of their compact and swearing the most solemn oaths in which they invoked utter destruction upon both themselves and their posterity if they transgressed a single article of that covenant.”

[56.1] This advice being approved of by all the others who had been invited to the meeting, Claudius resumed his remarks and said: “I am not unaware of how great calamities to us all a foundation will be laid if we permit the people to give their votes concerning this law. But being at a loss what to do and unable alone to oppose so many, I yield to your wishes. [2] For it is right that every man should declare what he thinks will be of advantage to the commonwealth and then submit to the decision of the majority. However, this advice I have to give you, seeing that you are involved in a difficult and disagreeable business, — not to yield the consulship either now or hereafter to any but patricians, who alone are qualified for it by both religion and law. [3] But whenever you are reduced, as at present, to the necessity of sharing the highest power and magistracy with the other citizens, appoint military tribunes instead of consuls, fixing their number as you shall think proper — in my opinion six or eight suffice — and of these men let the patricians not be fewer than the plebeians. For in doing this you will neither debase the consular office by conferring it upon mean and unworthy men nor will you appear to be devising for yourselves unjust positions of power by sharing no magistracy whatever with the plebeians.” [4] When all approved this opinion and none spoke in opposition, he said: “Hear now the advice I have for you consuls also. After you have appointed a day for passing the preliminary decree and the resolutions of the senate, give the floor to all who desire to say anything either in favour of the law or in opposition to it, and after they have spoken and it is time to ask for the expression of opinions, begin neither with me nor with Quintius here nor with anyone else of the older men, but rather with Lucius Valerius, who of all the senators is the greatest friend of the populace, and after him ask Horatius to speak, if he wishes to say anything. And when you have found out their opinions, then bid us older men to speak. [5] For my part, I shall deliver an opinion contrary to that of the tribunes, using all possible frankness, since this tends to the advantage of the commonwealth. As for the measure concerning the military tribunes, if it is agreeable, let Titus Genucius here propose it; for this motion will be the most fitting and will create the least suspicion, Marcus Genucius, if introduced by your brother here.” [6] This suggestion was also approved, after which they departed from the meeting. But as for the tribunes, fear fell upon them because of the secret conference of these men; for they suspected that it was calculated to bring some great mischief upon the populace, since the men had met in a private house and not in public and had admitted none of the people’s champions to share in their counsels. Thereupon they in turn held a meeting of such persons as were most friendly to the populace and they set about contriving defences and safeguards against the insidious designs which they suspected the patricians would employ against them.

[5.1] When the time had come for the preliminary decree to be passed, the consuls assembled the senate and after many exhortations to harmony and good order they gave leave to the tribunes who had proposed the law to speak first. [2] Then Gaius Canuleius, one of these, came forward and, without trying to show that the law was either just or advantageous or even mentioning that topic, said that he wondered at the consuls, who, after already consulting and deciding by themselves what should be done, had attempted to bring it before the senate as if it were a matter that had not been examined and required consideration, and had then given all who so chose leave to speak about it, thereby introducing a dissimulation unbecoming both to their age and to the greatness of their magistracy. [3] He said that they were introducing the beginnings of evil policies by assembling secret councils in private houses and by summoning to them not even all the senators, but only such as were most attached to themselves. He was not so greatly surprised, he said, that the other members had been excluded from this senatorial house party, but was astounded that Marcus Horatius and Lucius Valerius, who had overthrown the oligarchy, were ex-consuls and were as competent as anyone for deliberating about the public interests, had not been thought worthy to be invited to the meeting. He could not imagine on what just ground this had been done, but he could guess one reason, namely that, as they intended to introduce wicked measures prejudicial to the plebeians, they were unwilling to invite to these councils the greatest friends of the populace, who would be sure to express their indignation at such proposals and would not permit any unjust measure to be adopted against the interests of the people.

[58.1] When Canuleius had spoken thus with great indignation and the senators who had not been summoned to the council resented their treatment, Genucius, one of the consuls, came forward and endeavoured to justify himself and his colleague and to appease the anger of the others by telling them that they had called in their friends, not in order to carry out any design against the populace, but in order to consult with their closest intimates by what course they might appear to do nothing prejudicial to either one of the parties, whether by referring the consideration of the law to the senate promptly or doing so later. [2] As for Valerius and Horatius, he said their only reason for not inviting them to the council had been to prevent the plebeians from entertaining any unwarranted suspicion of them as of men who had changed their political principles, in case they should embrace the other opinion, which called for putting off the consideration of the law to a more suitable occasion. But since all who had been invited to the meeting had felt that a speedy decision was preferable to a delayed one, the consuls were following the course thus favoured. [3] Having spoken thus and sworn by the gods that he was indeed speaking the truth, and appealing for confirmation to the senators who had been invited to the meeting, he said that he would clear himself of every imputation, not by his words, but by his actions. [4] For after all who desired to speak in opposition to the law or in favour of it had given their reasons, he would first call for questioning as to their opinions, not the oldest and the most honoured of the senators, to whom this privilege among others was accorded by established usage, nor those who were suspected by the plebeians of neither saying nor thinking anything that was to their advantage, but rather such of the younger senators as seemed to be most friendly to the populace.

[59.1] After making these promises he gave leave to any who so desired to speak; and when no one came forward either to censure the law or to defend it, he came forward again, and beginning with Valerius, asked him what was to the interest of the public and what preliminary vote he advised the senators to pass. [2] Valerius, rising up, made a long speech concerning both himself and his ancestors, who, he said, had always been champions of the plebeian party to the advantage of the commonwealth. He enumerated all the dangers from the beginning which had been brought upon it by those who pursued the contrary measures and showed that a hatred for the populace had been unprofitable to all those who had been actuated by it. He then said many things in praise of the people, alleging that they had been the principal cause not only of the liberty but also of the supremacy of the commonwealth. After enlarging upon this and similar themes, he ended by saying that no state could be free from which equality was banished; [3] and he declared that to him the law, indeed, seemed just which gave a share in the consulship to all Romans, — to all, that is, who had led irreproachable lives and had performed actions worthy of that honour, — but he thought the occasion was not suitable for the consideration of this law when the commonwealth was in the midst of war's disturbances. [4] He advised the tribunes to permit the enrolling of the troops and not to hinder them when enrolled from taking the field; and he advised the consuls, when they had ended the war in the most successful manner, first of all things to lay before the people the preliminary decree concerning the law. These proposals, he urged, should be reduced to writing at once and agreed to by both parties. [5] This opinion of Valerius, which was supported by Horatius (For the consuls gave him leave to speak next), had the same effect upon all who were present. For those who desired to do away with the law, though pleased to hear that its consideration was postponed, nevertheless accepted with anger the necessity of passing a preliminary decree concerning it after the war; while the others, who preferred to have the law approved by the senate, though glad to hear it acknowledged as just, were at the same time angry that the preliminary decree was put off to another time.

[60.1] An uproar having broken out as the result of this opinion, as was to be expected, since neither side was pleased with all parts of it, the consul, coming forward, asked in the third place the opinion of Gaius Claudius, who had the reputation of being the most haughty and the most powerful of all the leaders of the other party, which opposed the plebeians. [2] This man delivered a prepared speech against the plebeians in which he called to mind all the things the populace had ever done contrary, as he thought, to the excellent institutions of their ancestors. The climax with which he ended his speech was the motion that the consuls should not permit to the senate any consideration of the law at all, either at that time or later, since it was being introduced for the purpose of overthrowing the aristocracy and was bound to upset the whole order of their government. [3] When even more of an uproar was caused by this motion, Titus Genucius, who was brother to one of the consuls, was called upon in the fourth place. He, rising up, spoke briefly about the emergencies confronting the city, how it was inevitable that one or the other of two most grievous evils should befall it, either through its civil strifes and rivalries to strengthen the cause of its enemies, or, from a desire to avert the attacks from the outside, to settle ignominiously the domestic and civil war; [4] and he declared that, there being two evils to one or the other of which they were bound to submit unwillingly, it seemed to him to be more expedient that the senate should permit the people to usurp a portion of the orderly constitution of the fathers rather than make the commonwealth a laughing-stock to other nations and to its enemies. [5] Having said this, he offered the motion which had been approved by those who had been present at the meeting held in a private house, the motion made by Claudius, as I related, to the effect that, instead of consuls, military tribunes should be appointed, three from the patricians and three from the plebeians, these to have consular authority; that after they had completed the term of their magistracy and it was time to appear the new magistrates, the senate and people should again assemble and decide whether they wished consuls or military tribunes to assume the office, and that whichever course met with the approval of all the voters should prevail; moreover, that the preliminary decree should be passed each year.

[61.1] This motion of Genucius was received with general applause, and almost all who rose up after him conceded that this was the best course. The preliminary decree was accordingly drawn up by order of the consuls; and the tribunes, receiving it with great joy, proceeded to the Forum. Then they called an assembly of the people, and after giving much praise to the senate, urged such of the plebeians as cared to do so to stand for this magistracy together with the patricians. [2] But such a fickle thing, it seems, is desire apart from reason and so quickly does it veer the other way, particularly in the case of the masses, that those who hitherto had regarded it as a matter of supreme importance to have a share in the magistracy and, if this were not granted to them by the patricians, were ready either to abandon the city, as they had done before, or to seize the privilege by force of arms, now, when they had obtained the concession, promptly relinquished their desire for it and transferred their enthusiasm in the opposite direction. [3] At any rate, though many plebeians stood for the military tribuneship and used the most earnest solicitations to obtain it, the people thought none of them worthy of this honour but, when they came to give their votes, chose the patrician candidates, men of distinction, namely Aulus Sempronius Atratinus, Lucius Atilius Luscus and Titus Cloelius Siculus.

[62.1] These men were the first to assume the proconsular power, in the third year of the eighty-fourth Olympiad, when Diphilus was archon at Athens. But after holding it for only seventy-three days they voluntarily resigned it, in accordance with the ancient custom, when some heaven-sent omens occurred to prevent their continuing to conduct the public business. [2] After these men had abdicated their power, the senate met and chose interreges, who, having appointed a day for the election of magistrates, left the decision to the people whether they desired to choose military tribunes or consuls; and the people having decided to abide by their original customs, they gave leave to such of the patricians as so desired to stand for the consulship. Two of the patricians were again elected consuls, Lucius Papirius Mugillanus and Lucius Sempronius Atratinus, brother to one of the men who had resigned the military tribuneship. [3] These two magistracies, both invested with the supreme power, governed the Romans in the course of the same year. However, both are not recorded in all the Roman annals, but in some the military tribunes only, in others the consuls, and in a few both of them. I agree with the last group, not without reason, but relying on the testimony of the sacred and secret books. [4] No event, either military or civil, worthy of the notice of history happened during their magistracy, except a treaty of friendship and alliance entered into with the Ardeates; for these, dropping their complaints about the disputed territory, had sent ambassadors, asking to be admitted among the friends and allies of the Romans. This treaty was ratified by the consuls.

[63.1] The following year, the people having voted that consuls should again be appointed, Marcus Geganius Macerinus (for the second time) and Titus Quintius Capitolinus (for the fifth time) entered upon the consulship on the ides of December. [2] These men pointed out to the senate that many things had been overlooked and neglected by reason of the continuous military expeditions of the consuls, and particularly the most essential matter of all, the custom relating to the census, by which the number of such as were of military age was ascertained, together with the amount of their fortunes, in proportion to which every man was to pay his contributions for war. There had been no census for seventeen years, since the consulship of Lucius Cornelius and Quintus Fabius, so that . . . the basest and most licentious of the Romans shall leave (be left?), but remove to some place in which they may live as they have elected to live.

EXCERPTS FROM BOOK XII

[1.1] When a dire famine broke out in Rome, a certain man of no inconspicuous family and among the most powerful by reason of his riches, Spurius Maelius, who was given the cognomen Felix because of his great wealth, having recently taken over the estate of his father, yet being unable by reason of his youth and equestrian rank to hold magistracies or any other public charge, as brilliant a man as any in warfare and decorated with many prizes for valour, conceived it to be the best time for aiming at a tyranny and turned to currying favour with the multitude, the easiest of all the roads leading to tyranny. [2] Having many friends and clients, he dispatched them in various directions, giving them money from his own funds to collect food, while he himself went to Tyrrhenia. And having in a short time by his own efforts and those of his friends imported a large store of corn, he distributed it among the citizens, measuring out a peck for two denarii instead of for twelve denarii, and upon all those whom he perceived to be utterly helpless and unable to defray the cost of even their daily subsistence bestowing it without payment. [3] After winning over the people by this kindly service and gaining a most remarkable reputation, he went off again to import further supplies; and he was back before long with a very large number of river boats filled with food, which he distributed to the citizens in the same manner.

[4] The patricians, as they observed these activities of his, regarded him with suspicion, thinking that no good would come to them from the man's prodigality; and gathering together in the Forum, they considered how they ought in most seemly fashion and without danger to force him to desist from these political designs. At first they met secretly and in small groups and discussed the matter with one another, but later they clamoured against him openly as well, now that he was offensive and insufferable, not only performing acts full of arrogance, but also delivering haughty speeches in his own behalf. [5] For, in the first place, he sat upon a conspicuous tribunal, as is the custom with those who hold magistracies, and gave advice the whole day long to those who consulted him about the distribution of corn, having relieved of this function the prefect who had been appointed by the senate. [6] Again, calling continual meetings of the assembly, although it was not customary among the Romans for a private individual to convoke an assembly, he indulged in many denunciations of Minucius before the people, charging that he merely bore the name of magistrate but had performed no useful act in the interest of the poor; and he uttered many reproaches against the patricians before the popular assembly for doing the things which would make the populace of little or no account and for taking no thought, either all of them together or the influential men singly, for the needy even on the occasion of a scarcity of corn, when it was essential above everything else that they, like himself, should submit to hardships both in their fortunes and in their persons and should import provisions into the city from every possible source. [7] He asked the people to weigh his own achievements against the actions of the other patricians and to note how greatly, nay, how utterly, they differed from one another. For they, he said, se nothing from their private fortunes for the common good, but had even appropriated the public land and had for a long time now enjoyed its use, whereas he, who held none of the public possessions, devoted even his paternal inheritance to assisting the needy, and when he had used up the funds on hand, raised loans from his friends, receiving nothing in return for such munificence save only the goodwill of his fellow citizens, a reward which he considered quite as precious as the greatest wealth in the world. [8] Those who were leagued with him were continually failing him as the saviour, father and founder of the fatherland; and declaring that the giving of the consular power to him would be a favour incommensurate with the greatness of his deeds, they wished to distinguish him with some greater and more brilliant honour, which should also be enjoyed by his posterity. [9] When he had made his third trop to the maritime districts of Italy and had sailed back to Ostia, the seaport of Rome, bringing many merchantmen laden with corn from Cumae and the harbours round Misenum, and had deluged the city with provisions, so that none of the old-time abundance was any longer lacking, the whole populace was ready, as soon as it was empowered to vote for magistrates, to grant him whatever honour he might seek, whether the consulship or some other magistracy, paying no heed to any law that forbade it or to any man who opposed it. [10] When the leaders of the aristocracy perceived this, they were all in great dejection, neither being willing to permit it nor yet having the power to prevent it. And they were still more disturbed because, when both the tribunes and the consuls forbade him to convoke assemblies and harangue the people, the populace banded together and drove those magistrates out of the Forum, while affording great assurance and strength to Maelius.

[11] While the city was in this state, the man who had been appointed prefect of the corn supply became angered at the abusive language with which Maelius kept insulting him in the meetings of the assembly, and feared the man more than any others, lest, if he should obtain some magistracy, he might make himself more powerful (?) than the aristocracy or, by rousing the people against him (Minucius), might, through the agency of the men of his own faction, contrive some plot against him, and being indignant on both these accounts and being eager to be rid of him as a man having greater power than befitted one in private station, he proceeded to make a careful investigation of both his speeches and his actions. [12] And as those whom Maelius employed as confederates in his secret plans were numerous and were neither alike in their natures nor similar in their opposites, there was bound to be someone who, in all probability, would not continue a steady friend to him, either because of fear or for personal advantage; and when Minucius had given this man pledges that he would not reveal his identity to anyone, he learned the entire purpose of Maelius and his plans for accomplishing it. [13] After he had obtained incontrovertible proof and learned that the execution of the plot was imminent, he informed the consuls. Those magistrates, not feeling it right to carry out by themselves alone the investigation of so serious a plot, thought they ought to lay the matter before the senate; and they straightway called that body together, ostensibly to deliberate about some foreign war. [14] A full meeting of the senate being soon present, one of the consuls came forward and stated that information had been given them of a plot forming against the commonwealth, one that required very vigorous and prompt precautionary measures because of the magnitude of the danger. He added that the informant was not just an ordinary citizen, but a man whom the senators themselves because of his merits had placed in a position of the greatest and most essential service to the state, having satisfied themselves of his good faith and his zeal for the public interests as shown by his deportment throughout his whole life. [15] Then, when the senate was quite wrought up with expectation, he called Minucius, who said: The MS. adds: See the section on Harangues.

[2.1] When the information had been given to the senate, they chose a dictator, and he, having appointed his Master of Horse, ordered him to come to him with the knights about midnight, and he ordered the senators to assemble on the Capitol while it was still early morning; he commanded Minucius to appear before the tribunal bringing along the informer and the proofs as well, and bade all to keep these plans secret from everybody outside the senate, declaring that there was just one means of safety, which was for Maelius to hear naught of what was being said or done about him. [2] After making all the other necessary arrangements, he kept all the members in the senate-house until sunset, and only dismissed the session when it was already dark. When it was midnight, setting out from his house . . . he went forth about dawn, taking along the chosen forces of both consuls and the consuls themselves. [3] These together with the senators seized the Capitol at dawn and kept it under guard.

Maelius, who had heard nothing of all this, proceeded to the Forum when day had come, and seated upon the tribunal, gave advice to those who consulted him. In a short time the Master of Horse, Servilius, appeared before him with the flower of the knights, who carried swords under their clothing; and halting near him, he said: [4] "The dictator commands you, Maelius, to come to him." And the other, answering, said: "What dictator, Servilius, commands me to go to him? Where and when did he become dictator? At the same time he looked round in consternation at the people surrounding the tribunal. When all were speechless, inasmuch as no one was aware of the action taken by the senate, Servilius said once more: "An act of impeachment was brought against you yesterday before the senate, Maelius, for attempting a revolution; perhaps the charge was false, for it is not right to prejudge anyone on the basis of the charge alone. [5] The senate, having decided to investigate the report, declared that the situation required a dictator, since they were running no slight risk; and they invested with this authority Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus, who, as you yourself are doubtless aware, is the best of the patricians and has twice already discharged the duties of this magistracy in an irreproachable manner. [6] This man, desiring to set up a court to try you and to give you an opportunity to defend yourself, has sent us — me, the Master of Horse, together with these men here — to conduct you in safety to make your defence. If you are confident you have done no wrong, come and offer your justification before a man who loves his country and will not wish to put you out of the way either because of the general ill will toward you or on any other unjust ground.” [7] Maelius, upon hearing this, leaped up and cried out in a loud voice: “Plebeians, help me; for I am being snatched away by the men in power because of my goodwill toward you. For it is not to a trial that I am summoned by them, but to death.” When a clamour arose and there was a great uproar round the tribunal, Maelius, aware that those who were intending to arrest him were more numerous than those who were rallying to his aid and that not far away others were lying in wait under arms, quickly leaped down from the tribunal and ran off through the Forum in his haste to reach the refuge of his own home. [8] But when he was being overtaken by the knights, he ran into a butcher’s shop, and seizing a cleaver used by the meat-cutters, he struck the first man who approached him. Then, when many fell upon him at once, he defended himself and held out for a short time; but soon his arm was cut off by someone and he fell down, and being hacked in pieces, died like a wild beast.

[9] Thus Maelius, who craved greatness and came very close to gaining the leadership over the Roman people, came to an unenviable and bitter end. When his body had been carried into the Forum and exposed to the view of all the citizens, there was a rush thither and a clamour and uproar on the part of all who were in the Forum, as some bewailed his fate, others angrily protested, and still others were eager to come to blows with the perpetrators of the deed. [10] The dictator, apprised by such a tumult that the knights had carried out the task assigned to them, descended from the citadel to the Forum, bringing with him all the senators and surrounded by the knights displaying naked swords; and after haranguing the people in their assembly he dismissed the crowd.

[3.1] (1) “. . . having about him men gathered together from every kind of depravity, whom he was rearing up like wild beasts against the fatherland. If, now, he had listened to me and had shown himself a man who abided by the laws, this would have contributed the greatest weight toward his defence and would have been no slight proof that he had not formed any plot against the fatherland; but as it was, goaded by his conscience, he was moved in the same way as are all who have formed unholy plots against those nearest to them: he determined to avoid the investigation of his acts, and striking with a butcher’s cleaver the knights who had come for him, he endeavoured to drive them away.”

[4.1] Of the plebeians, those who had not joined in plotting for the overthrow of the government were indignant and angry at the man's attempt, while those who had shared in the conspiracy, being now freed from their fear, pretended to any other and praised the senate for the measures it had taken; but some few of them, the most knavish, made bold during the following days to spread reports to the effect that Maelius had been made away with by the men in power, and attempted to sow dissension among the people. The dictator put these men to death secretly, and after allaying the disturbance, resigned his magistracy.

[2] Now those who seem to me to give the most credible account of Maelius' death have handed down the above report; but let me record also the account which appears to me less credible, the one adopted by Cincius and Calpurnius, native writers. These men state that neither was Quintius appointed dictator by the senate nor Servilius made Master of Horse by Quintius. [3] But when information was given by Minucius, those who were present in the senate believed that the things reported were true, and when one of the older senators made a motion to put the man to death immediately without a trial, they were convinced and accordingly appointed for this task Servilius, who was a young man and brave in action. [4] Servilius, they say, taking his dagger under his arm, approached Maelius as he was proceeding from the Forum, and coming up to him, said that he wished to speak with him about a private matter of great importance. Then, when Maelius ordered those who were close to him to withdraw to a little distance, the other, having thus got him separated from his guard, bared his sword and plunged it into his throat; and after doing this he ran to the senate-house, where the senators were still in session, brandishing his sword that dripped with blood and shouting to those who pursued him that he had destroyed the tyrant at the command of the senate. [5] When they heard mention of the senate, those who had been bent on beating and stoning him desisted and committed no lawless act against him. In consequence of this deed they say the cognomen Ala (Ahala) was given him, inasmuch as he had his sword under his arm-pit when he came upon Maelius; for the Romans call the arm-pit ala.

[6] When the man had been destroyed in one way or the other, the senate met and voted that his property should be confiscated to the state and his house razed to the ground. This site even to my day was the only area left vacant amid the surrounding houses, and was called Aequimelium by the Romans, or, we might study, the Plain of Melius. For aequum is the name given by the Romans to that which has no eminences; accordingly, a place originally called aequum Melium was later, when the two words were run together and pronounced as one, called Aequimelium. To the man who gave information against Maelius, namely Minucius, the senate voted that a statue should be erected.

[5.1] (2) When the Tyrrhenians, Fidenates and Veientes were making war upon the Romans, and Lars Tolumnius, the king of the Tyrrhenians, was doing them terrible damage, a Roman military tribune, Aulus Cornelius, with the cognomen Cossus, spurred his horse against Tolumnius; and when he was close to him, they levelled their spears against each other. [2] Tolumnius drove his spear through the breast of his foe's horse, which reared and threw his rider; and Cornelius, driving the point of his spear through the shield and breastplate of Tolumnius into his side knocked him from his horse, and while he was still attempting to raise himself, ran his sword through his groin. [3] After slaying him and stripping off his spoils, he not only repulsed those who came to close quarters with him, both horse and foot, but also reduced to discouragement and fear those who still held out on the two wings.

[6.1] (3) When Aulus Cornelius Cossus (for the second time) and Titus Quintius were consuls, the land suffered from a severe drought, lacking all moisture not only from rains but also from flowing streams. As a result, sheep, beasts of burden and cattle disappeared entirely, while human beings were visited with many diseases, particularly the one called the mange, which caused dreadful pains in the skin with its itchings and in case of any ulcerations raged more violently than ever — a most pitiable affliction and the cause of the speediest of deaths.

[2] (4) It did not seem wise to the leaders of the senate to have profound peace and long-continued leisure; for they were mindful that indolence and softness enter states along with peace, and at the same time they dreaded civil disturbances. For these disturbances, as soon as external wars were terminated, arose, bitter and continuous, on every possible excuse.

[3] It is better for people to surpass their enemies in acts of kindness than in punishments, since, even if there is no other reason, at least their expectations of favours from the gods are brighter because of them.

[4] (5) When he learned that the enemy were coming up in the rear, he despaired of turning back, being surrounded by the enemy on all sides, and bearing in mind that they would all run the risk of perishing ignominiously without having performed any noble action, fighting, as they would be, a few against many, and heavily armed against light troops. And perceiving a hill of moderate height which lay at no great distance, he resolved to seize it.

[5] (6) Agrippa Menenius, Publius Lucretius and Servius Nautius, having been honoured with the military tribuneship, discovered a plot that had been formed against the commonwealth by slaves. [6] The conspirators were planning to set fire to the houses at night in many different places at the same time, and then, when they had learned that everyone had rushed to the aid of the burning buildings, to seize the Capitol and the other fortified places and, once in possession of the strong positions in the city, to summon the other slaves to freedom and together with them, after slaying their masters, to take over the wives and possessions of the murdered men. [7] When the plot was revealed, the ringleaders were arrested and after being scourged were led away to be crucified; as for the men who had laid information against them, two in number, each received his freedom and a thousand denarii from the public treasury.

[7.1] (7) The Roman tribune was anxious to terminate the war in a few days, as if it would be a simple matter and quite within his power to reduce the enemy to subjection by a single battle. [2] But the leader of the enemy, mindful of the Romans' experience in warfare and of their perseverance amid the hazards of battle, determined not to fight a pitched battle against them on equal terms and in the open, but to carry on the war by means of some ruses and stratagems and to be on the watch for any advantage they might offer him against themselves.

Having been wounded and having come within a little of dying.

[8.1] (8) At Rome there was a severe storm, and where the least snow fell it was not less than seven feet deep. It chanced that some persons lost their lives in the snowstorm, as did many sheep and no small portion of the other cattle and beasts of burden, partly as the result of being frostbitten and partly because of the lack of their customary grazing. [2] Of the fruit-trees, those which were of such a nature as could not endure excessive snowstorms were either completely winter-killed or had their shoots withered and bore no fruit for many years. Many houses also collapsed and some were actually overturned, especially those constructed of stone, during the thawing and melting of the snow. [3] We have no report in a historical record of the occurrence of such a calamity, either on any occasion or later, down to our own time, in this region, which is slightly north of the middle zone, on the parallel running above Athos through the Hellespont. This was the first and only time when the atmosphere of this land departed from its customary temperature.

[9.1] (9) The Romans were conducting the festival called in their own language lectisternium, in response to the bidding of the Sibylline oracles. For a kind of pestilence sent by Heaven and incurable by human skill had led them to consult the oracles. [2] They adorned three couches, as the oracles had commanded, one for Apollo and Latona, another for Hercules and Diana, and a third for Mercury and Neptune. And for seven days running they offered sacrifices, both publicly and privately, each according to his own ability giving first-fruits to the gods; and they prepared most magnificent banquets and entertained the strangers who were sojourning in their midst. [3] (10) Piso the ex-censor in his Annals adds these further details: that, though all the slaves whom their masters had previously kept in chains were then turned loose, though the city was filled with a throng of strangers, and though the houses were open day and night and all who wished entered them without hindrance, yet no one complained of having lost anything or of having been wronged by anyone, even though festal occasions are wont to bring many disorderly and lawless deeds in their train because of the drunkenness attending them.

[10.1] (11) When the Romans were besieging the Veientes about the time of the rising of the dog-star, the season when lakes are most apt to fail, as well as all rivers, with the single exception of the Egyptian Nile, a certain lake, distant not less than one hundred and twenty stades from Rome in the Alban mountains, as they are called, beside which in ancient times the mother-city of the Romans was situated, at a time when neither rains nor snow-storms had occurred nor any other cause perceptible to human beings, received such an increase to its waters that it inundated a large part of the region lying round the mountains, destroyed my farm houses, and finally carved out the gap between the mountains and poured a mighty river down over the plains lying below. [2] (12) Upon learning of this, the Romans at first, in the belief that some god was angry at the commonwealth, voted to propitiate the gods and lesser divinities who presided over the region, and asked the native soothsayers if they had anything to say; but when neither the lake resumed its natural state nor the soothsayers had anything definite to say, but advised consulting the god, they sent envoys to the Delphic oracle.

[11] (13) In the meantime one of the Veientes, who had inherited from his ancestors a knowledge of the augural science of his country, chanced to be guarding the wall, and one of the centurions from Rome had long been an acquaintance of his. This centurion, being near the wall one day and giving the other man the customary greetings, remarked that he pitied him because of the calamity that would befall him along with the rest if the city were captured. [2] The Tyrrhenian, having heard of the overflowing of the Alban lake and knowing already the ancient oracles concerning it, laughed and said: "What a fine thing it is to know beforehand the things that are to be! Thus, you Romans in your ignorance of what is to happen are waging an endless war and are expending fruitless toils, in the belief that you will overthrow the city of Veii; whereas, if anyone had revealed to you that it is fated for this city to be captured only when the lake beside the Alban mount, lacking its natural springs, shall no longer mingle its waters with the sea, you would have desisted from exhausting yourselves and at the same time troubling us." [3] Upon hearing this, the Roman took the matter very seriously to heart; for the time being he went his way, (14) but the next day, after telling the tribunes what he had in mind, he came to the same place unarmed, so that the Tyrrhenian might conceive no suspicion of a plot on his part. When he had uttered the usual greetings, he efficiently talked about the embarrassment in which the Roman army found itself, mentioning sundry matters which he thought would give pleasure to the Tyrrhenian, and then asked him to interpret for him some signs and prodigies which had recently appeared to the tribunes. [4] The soothsayer was won over by his words, fearing no treachery, and after ordering those who were with him to stand aside, he himself followed the centurion unattended. The Roman kept leading him farther and farther from the wall by a line of conversation planned to deceive him, and when he was near the wall of circumvallation, seizing him by waist with both hands, he lifted him up and carried him off to the Roman camp.

well as threats of torture to frighten him, caused him to declare all that he had been concealing with regard to the Alban lake; then they also sent him to the senate. The senators were not all of the same opinion; but some thought that the Tyrrhenian was something of a rascal and charlatan and falsely attributed to the deity what he said about the oracle, while others thought that he had spoken in all sincerity. [2] (16) While the senate was in this quandary, the messengers who had been sent earlier to Delphi arrived, bringing oracles agreeing with those already announced by the Tyrrhenian. These declared that the gods and genii to whom had been allotted the oversight of the city of Veii guaranteed to maintain for them unshaken the good fortune of their city as handed down from their ancestors for only so long a time as the springs of the Alban lake should continue to overflow and run down to the sea; [3] but that when these should forsake their natural bent and, quitting their ancient courses, should turn aside to others, so as to mingle no longer with the sea, then too their city would be overthrown. this would be brought about in a short time by the Romans if by means of channels dug in other places they should divert the overflowing warm waters into the plains that were remote from the sea. Upon learning of this, the Romans at once put the engineers in charge of the operation.

[13.1] (17) When the Veientes learned of this from a prisoner, they wished to send heralds to their besiegers to seek a termination of the war before the city should be taken by storm; and the oldest citizens were appointed envoys. [2] When the Roman senate voted against making peace, the other envoys left the senate-chamber in silence, but the most prominent of their number and the one who enjoyed the greatest reputation for skill in divination stopped at the door, and looking round upon all who were present in the chamber, said: "A fine and magnanimous decree you have passed, Romans, you who lay claim to the leadership of your neighbours on the ground of valour, when you disdain to accept the submission of a city, neither small nor undistinguished, which offers to lay down its arms and surrender itself to you, but wish to destroy it root and branch, neither fearing the wrath of Heaven nor regarding the indignation of men! [3] In return for this, avenging justice shall come upon you from the gods, punishing you in like manner. For after robbing the Veientes of their country you shall ere long lose your own."

[4] (18) When the city was being captured a short time after this, some of the inhabitants engaged with the enemy, and after showing themselves brave men and slaying many, were cut down, and others perished by taking their own lives; those, however, who because of cowardice and pusillanimity regarded any hardships as less terrible than death, threw down their arms and surrendered themselves to the conquerors.

[14.1] (19) The dictator Camillus, by whose generalship the city had been captured, after taking his stand with the most prominent Romans upon a height from which the entire city was visible, first congratulated himself upon his present good fortune, in that it had fallen to his lot to destroy without hardship a great and prosperous city which was no unimportant part of Tyrrhenia — a country at that time flourishing and the most powerful of any of the nations inhabiting Italy — and which had constantly disputed the leadership with the Romans and had continued to endure many wars unto the tenth generation, and from the time when it began to wage war and to be besieged continuously had endured the siege for ten years, experiencing every kind of fortune. [2] (20) Then, remembering that men's happiness hangs upon a slight turn of the scales and that no blessings continue steadfast, he stretched out his hands toward heaven and prayed to Jupiter and the other gods that, if possible, his present good fortune might not prove a cause of hatred against either him or his country; but that if any calamity was destined to befall the city of Rome in general or his own life as a counterbalance to their present blessings, it might be very slight and moderate.

[15.1] (21) Veii was in no respect inferior to Rome as a place in which to live, possessing much fertile land, partly hilly and partly level, and an atmosphere surrounding it that was most pure and conducive to the health of human beings. For there was neither any marsh near by as a source of oppressive and foul vapours nor any river to send up cold breezes at dawn, and its supplies of water were neither scanty nor brought in from outside, but rose in the neighbourhood and were abundant and most excellent for drinking.

[16.1] (22) They say that Aeneas, the son of Anchises and Venus, when he had landed in Italy, was intending to sacrifice to some one or other of the gods, and after praying was about to begin the sacrifice of the animal that had been prepared for the rite, when he caught sight of one of the Achaeans approaching at a distance — either Ulysses, when he was about to consult the oracle near Lake Avernus, or Diomed, when he came as an ally to Daunus. [2] And being vexed at the coincidence and wishing to avert as an evil omen the sight of an enemy that had appeared at the time of a sacrifice, he veiled himself and turned back; then, after the departure of the enemy, he washed his hands again and finished the sacrifice. [3] When the sacrifices turned out rather favourably, he was pleased at the coincidence and observed the same practice on the occasion of every prayer; and his posterity keep this also as one of the customary observances in connexion with their sacrifices. [4] (23) It was in accordance with the traditional usages, then, that Camillus, after making his prayer and drawing his garment down over his head, wished to turn his back; however, his foot slipped and he was unable to recover himself, but fell flat on the ground. [5] Although this omen called for no divination or uncertainty but was easy for even the most ordinary mind to interpret, signifying that it was absolutely inevitable that he should come a disgraceful fall, nevertheless, he did not consider it worth while either to guard against it or to avert it by expiations, but altered it to the meaning that pleased him, assuming that the gods had given ear to his prayers and had contrived that the mischief should be of the slightest.

EXCERPTS FROM BOOK XIII

[1.1] When Camillus was besieging the city of Falerii, one of the Faliscans, either having given the city up for lost or seeking personal advantages for himself, tricked the sons of the most prominent families — he was a schoolmaster — and led them outside the city, as if to take a walk before the walls and to view the Roman camp. [2] And gradually leading them farther and farther from the city, he brought them to a Roman outpost and handed them over to the men who ran out. Being brought to Camillus by these men, he said he had long planned to put the city in the hands of the Romans, but not being in possession of any citadel or gate or arms, he had hit upon this plan, namely to put in their power the sons of the noblest citizens, assuming that the fathers in their yearning for the safety of their children would be compelled by inexorable necessity to hand over the city promptly to the Romans. [3] He spoke thus, being in great hopes of gaining some wonderful rewards for his treachery.

[2.1] (2) Camillus, having handed over the schoolmaster and the boys to be guarded, sent word by letter to the senate of what had happened and inquired what he should do. [2] When the senate gave him permission to do whatever seemed best to him, he led the schoolmaster together with the boys out of the camp and ordered his general's tribunal to be placed not far from the city gate; and when a large crowd of the Faliscans had rushed up, some of them to the walls and some to the gate, he first showed them what an outrageous thing the schoolmaster had dared to do to them; then he ordered his attendants to tear off the man's clothes and to rend his body with a great many whips. [3] When he had had his fill of this punishment, he handed out rods to the boys and ordered them to conduct the man back to the city with his hands bound behind his back, beating him and maltreating him in every way. After the Faliscans had got their sons back and had punished schoolmaster in a manner his wicked plan deserved, they delivered their city up to Camillus.

[3.1] (3) This same Camillus, when conducting his campaign against Veii, made a vow to Queen Juno of the Veientes that if he should take the city he would set up her statue in Rome and establish costly rites in her honour. [2] Upon the capture of the city, accordingly, he sent the most distinguished of the knights to remove the statue from its pedestal; and when those who had been sent came into the temple and one of them, either in jest and sport or desiring an omen, asked whether the goddess wished to remove to Rome, the statue answered in a loud voice that she did. This happened twice; for the young men, doubting whether it was the statue that had spoken, asked the same question again and heard the same reply.

[4.1] (4) Under the consuls who succeeded Camillus a pestilence visited Rome, caused by a lack of rain and severe droughts, which damaged the land devoted to orchards as well as that which was planted to corn, so that they produced scanty and unwholesome harvests for human beings and scanty and poor grazing for stock. [2] Countless sheep and beasts of burden perished for lack not only of fodder but also of water; to such an extent did the rivers and other streams fail, at the very season when all live stock suffers most from thirst. [3] As for human beings, a few perished as the result of resorting to food of which they had made no previous test, while nearly all the rest were afflicted with severe maladies that began with small pustules, which broke out on various parts of the skin and ended up in large ulcers resembling cancers, evil in appearance and causing terrible pain. [4] And there was no remedy for the agony suffered by the victims except continual scratching and tearing of the sores until the tortured flesh laid bare the bones.

[5.1] (5) A little later the civil tribunes, in their hatred of Camillus, convened an assembly to attack him and fined him 100,000 asses. They were not unaware that his entire estate was but a small fraction of the amount of the fine, but they desired that this man who had won the most famous wars might incur disgrace by being haled to prison by the tribunes. The money was contributed by his clients and relatives from their own funds and paid over, so that he might suffer no indignity; but Camillus, feeling that the insult was unendurable, resolved to quit the city. [2] (6) When he had drawn near the gate and had embraced his friends there present who were lamenting and weeping at the thought of what a great man they were about to lose, he let many a tear roll down his cheeks and bewailed the disgrace that had befallen him, and then said: "Ye gods and genii who watch over the deeds of men, I ask you to become the judges of the measures I have taken with respect to the fatherland and of all my past life. [3] Then, if you find me guilty of the charges on which the people have condemned me, that you will put a bad and shameful end to my life; but if in all the duties with which I have been entrusted by the fatherland both in peace and in war you find me to have been pious and just and free from any shameful suspicion, that you will become my avengers, bringing such perils and terrors upon those who have wronged me that they will be compelled, seeing no other hope of safety, to turn to me for help." After uttering these words he retired to the city of Ardea.

[6.1] (7) The gods gave ear to his prayers, and a little later the city, with the exception of the Capitol, was captured by the Gauls. When the more prominent men had taken refuge on this hill and were being besieged by the Gauls, — the rest of the population had fled and dispersed themselves among the cities of Italy, — the Romans who had taken refuge at Veii made a certain Caedicius commander of the army; and he appointed Camillus, absent though he was, to be general with absolute power over war and peace. [2] And having been made leader of the embassy, he urged Camillus to become reconciled with the fatherland, bearing in mind the calamities encompassing it, such that it could bring itself to turn for help to the man whom it had spitefully used. [3] (8) Camillus replied: "I need no urging, Caedicius. For of my own accord, if you envoys had not come first asking me to share in the conduct of affairs, I was ready to go to you at the head of this force which you see here with me. And to you, O gods and genii who watch over the life of mortals, I am not only very grateful for the honours which ye have already shown me, but I also pray with regard to the future that my return home may prove a good and fortunate thing for the fatherland. [4] If it were possible for a mortal to foresee the things that are to be, I never would have prayed that my country should come into such misfortunes as these, so as to need me; a thousand times over I should have preferred that my life henceforth should be unenvied and without honour rather than that I should see Rome subjected to the cruelty of barbarians and placing her remaining hopes of safety in me alone.” [5] After speaking thus he took his forces, and appearing suddenly before the Gauls, turned them to flight; and falling upon them while they were in disorder and confusion, he slew them like sheep.

[7.1] (9) While those who had taken refuge on the Capitol were still being besieged, a youth who had been sent by the Romans from Veii to those on the Capitol and had escaped the notice of the Gauls who were on guard there, went up, delivered his message, and departed again by night. [2] When it was day, one of the Gauls saw his tracks and reported it to the king, who called together the bravest of his men and showed them where the Roman had gone up, then asked them to display the same bravery as the Roman and attempt to ascend to the citadel, promising many gifts to those who should make the ascent. When many undertook to do so, he commanded the guards to remain quiet, in order that the Romans, supposing them to be asleep, might themselves turn to sleep. [3] (10) When the first men had now ascended and were waiting for those who lagged behind, in order that when their numbers were increased they might then slay the garrison and capture the stronghold, no mortal became aware of it; but some sacred geese of Juno which were being raised in the sanctuary, by making a clamour and at the same time rushing at the barbarians, gave notice of the peril. [4] Thereupon there was confusion, shouting and rushing about on the part of all as they encouraged one another to take up arms; and the Gauls, whose numbers were now increased, advanced further inside.

[8.1] (11) Thereupon one of the men who had held the office of consul, Marcus Manlius, snatched up his arms and engaged with the barbarians. The one of them who had ascended first and was bringing his sword down over Manlius’ head he forestalled by striking him on the arm and cutting off his forearm, [2] and the one who followed the first he struck in the face with his raised shield before he could come to close quarters, knocked him down and slew him as he lay there; then pressing hard upon the others, who were now in confusion, he killed some of them and pursued and pushed others over the cliff. For this act of valour he received from those who were holding the Capitol the award which was suited to those times, a man’s daily ration of wine and emmer. [3] (12) When the question was raised what should be done in the case of those sentries who had deserted their post where the Gauls ascended, the senate voted the death penalty against them all; but the populace, showing itself more lenient, was content with the punishment of one man, their leader. [4] However, in order that his death might be manifest to the barbarians, he was hurled down upon them from the cliff with his hands bound behind his back. When he had been punished, there was no further carelessness on the part of the sentries, but they all kept awake the whole night long. In consequence, the Gauls, despairing of taking the fortress by deceit or surprise, began to talk of a ransom, by the payment of which to the barbarians the Romans would get back the city.

[9.1] (13) When they had made their compact and the Romans had brought the gold, the weight which the Gauls were to receive was twenty-five talents. But when the balance had been set up, the Gaul first came with the weight itself, representing the talent, heavier than was right, and then, when the Romans expressed resentment at this, he was so far from being reasonable and just that he also threw into his scales his sword together with his scabbard and also his belt, which he had taken off. [2] And to the quaestor's inquiry what that action meant, he replied in these words: "Woe to the vanquished!" When the full weight agreed upon was not made up because of the Gaul's greediness, but the third part was lacking, the Romans departed after asking for time to collect the amount wanting. They submitted to this insolence of the barbarians because they were quite unaware of what was being done in the camp, as I have related, by Caedicius and Camillus.

[10.1] (14) The reason why the Gauls came into Italy was as follows. A certain Lucumo, a par of the Tyrrhenians, being about to die, entrusted his son to a loyal man named Arruns as guardian. Upon the death of the Tyrrhenian, Arruns, taking over the guardianship of the boy, proved diligent and just in carrying out his trust, and when the boy came to manhood, turned over to him the entire estate left by his father. For this service he did not receive similar kindness from the youth. [2] (15) It seems that Arruns had a beautiful young wife, of whose society he was extremely fond and who had always shown herself chaste up to that time; but the young man, becoming enamoured of her, corrupted her mind as well as her body, and sought to hold converse with her not only in secret but openly as well. Arruns, grieving at the seduction of his wife and distressed by the wanton wrong done him by them both, yet unable to take vengeance upon them, prepared for a sojourn abroad, ostensibly for the purpose of trading. [3] When the youth welcomed his departure and provided everything that was necessary for trading, he loaded many skins of wine and olive oil and many baskets of figs on the waggons and set out for Gaul.

[11.1] (16) The Gauls at that time had no knowledge either of wine made from grapes or of oils such as is produced by our olive trees, but used for wine a foul-smelling liquor made from barley rotted in water, and for oil, stale lard, disgusting both in smell and taste. On that occasion, accordingly, when for the first time they enjoyed fruits which they had never before tasted, they got wonderful pleasure out of each; and they asked the stranger how each of these articles was produced and among what men. [2] (17) The Tyrrhenian told them that the country producing these fruits was large and fertile and that it was inhabited by only a few people, who were no better than women when it came to warfare; and he advised them to get these products no longer by purchase from others, but to drive out the present owners and enjoy the fruits as their own. Persuaded by these words, the Gauls came into Italy and to the Tyrrhenians known as the Clusians, from whence had come the man who had persuaded them to make war.

[12.1] (18) When ambassadors had been sent from Rome to the Gauls and one of them, Quintus Fabius, heard that the barbarians had gone out on a foraging expedition, he joined battle with them and slew the leader of the Gauls. The barbarians, sending to Rome, demanded that Fabius and his brother be handed over to them to pay the penalty for the men who had been slain. [2] (19) When the senate delayed its answer, the Gauls of necessity transferred the war to Rome. Upon hearing this, the Romans marched out of the city, bringing four entire legions of picked troops well trained in the wars, and also, from among the other citizens, those who led indoor or easy lives and had had less to do with wars, these being more numerous than the other sort. The Gauls, having put these forces to rout, reduced all of Rome except the Capitol. Nepete, a city of Italy. Dionysius, Roman Antiquities xiii. Eth. Nepesinus. (Cf. Livy VI. f., .)

EXCERPTS FROM BOOK XIV

[1.1] (1) The country of the Celts lies in the part of Europe which extends toward the West, between the North pole and the equinoctial setting of the sun. Having the shape of a square, it is bounded by the Alps, the loftiest of the European mountains, on the East, by the Pyrenees toward the meridian and the south wind, by the sea that lies beyond the Pillars of Hercules on the West, and by the Scythian and Thracian nations toward the north wind and the river Ister, which, descending from the Alps as the largest of the rivers on this side, and flowing through the whole continent that lies beneath the Bears, empties into the Pontic sea. [2] (2) This land, which is so large in extent that it may be called almost the fourth part of Europe and is well-watered, fertile, rich in crops and most excellent for grazing cattle, is divided in the middle by the river Rhine, reputed to be the largest river in Europe after the Ister. [3] The part on this side of the Rhine, bordering upon the Scythians and Thracians, is called Germany, and extends as far as the Hercynian forest and the Rhipaeian mountains; the other part, on the side facing the South, as far as the Pyrenees range and embracing the Gallic gulf, is called Gaul after the sea. [4] (3) The whole country is called by the Greeks by the common name Celtica (Keltikê), according to some, from a giant Celtus who ruled there; others, however, have a legend that to Hercules and Ateropê, the daughter of Atlas, were born with sons, Iberus and Celtus, who gave their own names to the lands which they ruled. [5] Others state that there is a river Celtus rising in the Pyrenees, after which the neighbouring region at first, and in time the rest of the land as well, was called Celtica. There are also some who say that when the first Greeks came to this region their ships, driven by a violent wind, came to land in the Gallic gulf, and that the men upon reaching shore called the country Celsica (Kelsikê) because of this experience of theirs; and later generations, by the change of one letter, called it Celtica.

[2.1] (4) At Athens, in the shrine of earth-born Erechtheus, an olive tree, planted by Athena at the time of her strife with Poseidon for the possession of the land, having been burned together with the other objects in the sanctuary by the barbarians when they captured the Acropolis, sent up from its stock a shoot about a cubit in length the day after the fire, the gods wishing to make it manifest to all that the city would quickly recover itself and send up new shoots in place of the old. [2] (5) In Rome likewise a sacred hut of Mars, built near the summit of the Palatine, was burned to the ground together with the houses round about; but when the area was being cleared for the purpose of restoring the buildings, it preserved unharmed in the midst of the surrounding ashes the symbol of the settlement of the city, a staff curved at one end, like those carried by herdsmen and shepherds, which some call kalauropes and others lagobola. With this staff Romulus, on the occasion of taking the auspices when he was intending to found the city, marked out the regions for

[3] With an army of light troops carrying nothing but their arms.

Applause having burst forth, as if at something most magnificent to behold and most glorious to hear, both those who were genuinely perplexed and those who feigned extreme perplexity . . .

[3.1] (8) Marcus Furius the dictator was of all his contemporaries the most brilliant in warfare and the shrewdest in handling public affairs.

[4.1] (6) Manlius, the man who had distinguished himself for valour at the time when the Romans took refuge on the Capitol, when he was in danger of losing his life because of an attempt at tyranny, looked toward the Capitol, and stretching out his hands toward the temple of Jupiter that stood upon it, exclaimed: "Shall not even that place avail to save me which I preserved safe for you Romans when it had been captured by the barbarians? Nay, not only was I then ready to perish in your behalf, but now also I shall perish at your hands." On this occasion, then, they let him off out of compassion, but later he was hurled down the precipice.

[5.1] (7) Having vanquished the enemy and loaded down his army with countless spoils, Titus Quintius, while serving as dictator, took nine cities of the enemy in nine days.

Hemmed in on both sides, these god-detested people were cut down in droves.

[6.1] (8) The Romans are magnanimous. For, whereas nearly all others both in the public relations of their states and in their private lives change their feelings according to the latest developments, often laying aside great enmities because of chance acts of kindness and breaking up long-standing friendships because of slight and trivial offences, the Romans thought they ought to do just the opposite in the case of their friends and out of gratitude for ancient benefits to give up their resentment over recent causes for complaint. [2] (9) Even this, then, was remarkable on the part of those men, namely that they bore no malice against any of the Tusculans, but let all the offenders go unpunished; yet much more remarkable than this was the favour which they showed them after pardoning their offences. For when they were considering ways and means that nothing of the sort might happen again in that city and that none might find a ground for rebellion, they thought they ought neither to introduce a garrison into the Tusculans' citadel nor to take hostages from the most prominent men nor to deprive of their arms those who had them nor to give any other indication of distrusting their friendship; [3] but believing that the one thing that holds together all who belong to one another by reason either of kinship or friendship is the equal sharing of their blessings, they decided to grant citizenship to the vanquished, giving them a part in everything in which the native-born Romans shared. (10) Thereby they took a very different view from that held by those who laid claim to the leadership of Greece, whether Athenians or Lacedaemonians — [4] what need is there to mention the other Greeks? For the Athenians in the case of the Samians, their own colonists, and the Lacedaemonians in the case of the Messenians, who were the same as their brothers, when these gave them some offence, dissolved the ties of kinship, and after subjugating their cities, treated them with such cruelty and brutality as to equal even the most savage of barbarians in their mistreatment of people of kindred stock. [5] (11) One could name countless blunders of this sort made by these cities, but I pass over them since it grieves me to mention even these instances. For I would distinguish Greeks from barbarians, not by their name nor on the basis of their speech, but by their intelligence and their predilection for decent behaviour, and particularly by their indulging in no inhuman treatment of one another. All in whose nature these qualities predominated I believe ought to be called Greeks, but those of whom the opposite was true, barbarians. [6] Likewise, their plans and actions which were reasonable and humane, I consider to be Greek, but those which were cruel and brutal, particularly when they affected kinsmen and friends, barbarous. The Tusculans departed, accordingly, not only without having been deprived of their possessions after the capture of their city, but having actually received in addition the blessings enjoyed by their conquerors.

[8.1] (12) The Gauls, having made an expedition against Rome for the second time, were plundering the Alban district. There, as all gorged themselves with much food, drank much unmixed wine (the wine produced there is the sweetest of all wines after the Falernian and is the most like hone-wine), took more sleep than was their custom, and spent most of their time in the shade, they gained so rapidly in corpulence and flabbiness and became so womanish in physical strength that whenever they undertook to exercise their bodies and to drill in arms their respiration was broken by continual panting, their limbs were drenched by much sweat, and they desisted from their toils before they were bidden to do so by their commanders.

[9.1] (13) Upon learning of this state of affairs the Roman dictator, Camillus, [2] assembled his men and addressed them, using many arguments that incited them to boldness, among which were the following: "Better arms than the barbarians possess have been fashioned for us — breastplates, helmets, greaves, mighty shields, with which we keep our entire bodies protected, two-edged swords, and, instead of the spear, the javelin, a missile that cannot be dodged — some of them being protective armour, such as not to yield readily to blows, and others offensive, of a sort to pierce through any defence. But our foes have their heads bare, bare their breasts and flanks, bare their thighs and legs down to their feet, and have no other defence except shields; as weapons of offence they have spears and very long slashing blades. [3] (14) The terrain in which we shall fight will aid us as we move downhill from higher ground, but will be adverse to them as they are forced to advance from the level to higher ground. And let no one of you stand in dread either of the enemies' numbers or of their size, or, from looking at these advantages on their side, become less confident of the contest. On the contrary, let everyone bear in mind, first, that a smaller army which understands what must be done is superior to a large army that is uninstructed; and, second, that to those who are fighting for their own possessions Nature herself lends a certain courage in the face of danger and gives them a spirit of ecstasy like that of men possessed by a god, whereas those who are eager to seize the goods of others are apt to find their boldness weakened in the face of dangers. [4] (15) Nay, not even their attempts to frighten their foes and terrify them before coming to blows should cause us any dread, as if we were inexperienced in warfare. For what harm can be done to men going into battle by those long locks, the fierceness of their glance, and the grim aspect of their countenances? And these awkward prancings, the useless brandishing of their weapons, the many clashing of their shields, and all the other demonstrations of barbarian and senseless bravado, whether through motions or through sounds, indulged in by way of threats to their foes — what advantage are they calculated to bring to those who attack unintelligently, or what fear to those who with cool calculation stand their ground in the midst of danger? [5] (16) Do you, then, with these thoughts in mind, both those of you who were present in the earlier war against the Gauls and those of you who had no part in it by reason of your youth, the former in order that you may not, by cowardice now, bring shame upon the valour you then displayed, and you others in order that you may not be behind your elders in the display of noble deeds, go, noble sons, emulators of brave fathers, go intrepidly against the foe, having not only the gods as your helpers, who will give you the power to exact from your bitterest foes such vengeance as you have been wishing for, but also me as your general, to whose great prudence and great good fortune you bear witness. [6] A blissful life from this time forth those of you will lead to whom it shall be granted to bring home for your fatherland its most distinguished crown, and a splendid and imperishable renown in place of your mortal bodies those of you will bequeath to your infant children and your aged parents who shall fulfil thus the end of your lives. I know of nothing more that needs to be said; for the barbarian army is already in motion, advancing against us. But be off and take your places in the ranks.”

[10] (17) Now the barbarians’ manner of fighting, being in large measure that of wild beasts and frenzied, was an erratic procedure, quite lacking in military science. Thus, at one moment they would raise their swords aloft and smite after the manner of wild boars, throwing the whole weight of their bodies into the blow like hewers of wood or men digging with mattocks, and again they would deliver crosswise blows aimed at no target, as if they intended to cut to pieces the entire bodies of their adversaries, protective armour and all; then they would turn the edges of their swords away from the foe. [2] (18) On the other hand, the Romans’ defence and counter-manoeuving against the barbarians was steadfast and afforded great safety. For while their foes were still raising their swords aloft, they would duck under their arms, holding up their shields, and then, stooping and crouching low, they would render vain and useless the blows of the others, which were aimed too high, while for their own part, holding their swords straight out, they would strike their opponents in the groins, pierce their sides, and drive their blows through their breasts into their vitals. And if they saw any of them keeping these parts of their bodies protected, they would cut the tendons of their knees or ankles and topple them to the ground roaring and biting their shields and uttering cries resembling the howling of wild beasts. [3] (19) Not only did their strength desert many of the barbarians as their limbs failed them through weariness, but their weapons also were either blunted or broken or no longer serviceable. For besides the blood that flowed from their wounds, the sweat pouring out over their whole bodies would not let them either grasp their swords or hold their shields firmly, since their fingers slipped on the handles and no longer kept a firm hold. The Romans, however, being accustomed to many toils by reason of their unabating and continuous warfare, continued to meet every peril in noble fashion.

[11] (20) In Rome there were many other heaven-sent portents, but the greatest of all was this: Near the middle of the Forum, they say, a cleft in the earth appeared of fathomless depth and it remained for many days. Pursuant to a decree of the senate, the men in charge of the Sibylline oracles consulted the books and reported that when the earth had received the things of greatest value to the Roman people it would not only close up, but would also send up a great abundance of all blessings for the future. [2] When the men had made this announcement, everyone brought to the chasm the first-fruits of all the good things he thought the father land needed, not only cakes made of grain, but also the first-fruits of his money. [3] (21) Then a certain Marcus Curtius, who was accounted among the first of the youths because of his prudence and his prowess in war, sought admission to the senate and declared that of all blessings the finest thing number the one most essential to the Roman state was the valour of its men; if, therefore, the earth should receive some first-fruits of this and the one who offered it to the fatherland should do so voluntarily, the earth would send up many good men. [4] Having said this and promised that he would not yield this distinction to anyone else, he girded on his arms and mounted his war-horse. And when the multitude in the city had gathered to witness the spectacle, he first prayed to the gods to fulfil the oracles and grant that many men like himself should be born to the Roman state; then, giving the horse free rein and applying the spurs, he hurled himself down the chasm. [5] And after him were thrown down the chasm many victims, many fruits, much money, much fine apparel, and many first-fruits of all the different crafts, all at the public expense. And straightway the earth closed up.

Licinius Stolo, the man who had held the tribuneship ten times and had introduced the laws over which the ten-years' sedition occurred, when he was found guilty at his trial and condemned by the populace to pay a monetary fine, declared that there is no wild beast more bloodthirsty than the populace, which does not spare even those who feed it.

[13.1] (23) When the consul Marcius was besieging Privernum no hope of saving themselves was left to the inhabitants, they sent envoys to him. To his query, "Tell me, how do you yourselves punish your household slaves who run away from you? the envoy answered: "As those must be punished who long to recover their native freedom." [2] Marcius, accepting his frankness of speech, asked: "If, then, we listen to you and give up our anger, what assurance will you give us that you will not again commit any hostile act?" The envoy answered again: "That rests with you and the other Romans, Marcius. For if we get back our liberty along with our country, we shall be your staunch friends always; but if we are compelled to be slaves, never." Marcius admired the lofty spirit of the men and raised the siege.

EXCERPTS FROM BOOK XV

[1.1] (1) When the Gauls made an expedition against Rome and one of their chieftains challenged to single combat any one of the Romans who was a man, Marcus Valerius, one of the tribunes and a descendant of Valerius Publicola, the man who had helped free the city from the kings, went out to fight with the Gaul. [2] When they engaged, a raven perched on Valerius's helmet and cawed while looking fiercely at the barbarian, and every time the latter made ready to deliver a blow he would fly at him, now tearing his cheeks with his claws and now pecking at his eyes with his beak, so that the Gaul was driven out of his senses, being unable to contrive how he could either ward off his foe or defend himself against the raven. [3] (2) When the combat had continued for a long time, the Gaul aimed his sword at Valerius, as if intending to plunge it through his shield into his side; then, when the raven flew at him and clawed his eyes, he held up his shield as if to drive the bird away; but the Roman, following him up while he was still holding his shield aloft, drove his sword home from underneath and slew the Gaul. [4] The general, Camillus, honoured him with a golden crown and gave him the cognomen Corvinus because of the bird which had fought in the single combat with him; for the Romans call ravens corvi. And not only did Valerius himself continue from that time on to have his helmet decorated with a raven as his emblem, but in all his likenesses as well both sculptors and painters placed this bird on his head.

[2.1] (3) They ravaged their familiars in the country that teemed with great wealth.

People exhausted in body by war and like corpses except that they breathed.

While the slain man's ashes were still warm, as the saying goes.

[2] He will perish in the most miserable fashion at the hands of an enemy who feeds his hatred on the blood of his fellow citizens.

Granting no small part of the booty to his troops, so that each man's poverty was deluged with wealth.

They laid waste their fields which were now ripe for the harvest and ravaged the best of the fruitful land.

[3.1] When Quintus Servilius (for the third time) and Gaius Marcius Rutilus were consuls, Rome was involved in grave and unexpected dangers, from which, had they not been dispelled by some divine providence, one of two evils would have befallen her — either to have got a shameful name for murdering her hosts or to have stained her hands with civil bloodshed. How she incurred these dangers I shall attempt to recount succinctly after first recalling a few of the events which preceded.

[2] In the previous year Rome, after undertaking the Samnite war in behalf of all Campania and conquering her opponents in three battles, had wished to bring all her forces home, feeling that no further danger remained for the cities there. But when the Campanians besought the Romans not to desert them and leave them bereft of allies, declaring that the Samnites would attack them if they had no assistance from outside, it was decreed that the consul Marcus Valerius, who had freed their cities from war, should leave as large an army in those cities as they wished to support. [3] Having been given this authority, the consul placed in the justice all who wished to draw rations and be paid for garrison duty; the greater part of these consisted of homeless men burdened with debt, who were glad to escape poverty and the obscure life at home. [4] The Campanians, taking these men into their homes, welcomed them with lavish tables and entertained them with all the other marks of hospitality. For the manner of life of the Campanians is extravagant and luxurious enough now, and was then, and will be for all time to come, since they dwell in a plain that is rich in both crops and flocks and is most salubrious for men who till the soil.

will suffer harm at our hands. For we will ravage their territory as much as we please, turn loose the prisoners on the country estates, free the slaves, and take our stand with their bitterest enemies, the Volscians, Tyrrhenians and Samnites, as well as with the Latins who are still wavering in their loyalty. To men driven by stern necessity and running the supreme race for their lives nothing is either impossible or able to withstand them.”

[10] As they argued in this manner with one another, at first a few, and then a larger number decided to attack the cities, and they pledged their good faith to one another by means of oaths. But their attempt was forestalled, being brought to light by information which some of the conspirators laid before Marcius, one of the consuls, who had been designated by lot to conduct the war against the Samnites, and having already taken over the forces that had been enrolled in Rome, was on his way. The consul, upon hearing of this unexpected and dangerous matter, decided neither to mention it nor to appear to be aware of it, but by some deception and ruse to prevent the fulfilment of the threat to the cities. [11] Accordingly, he sent into the cities some men duly instructed for the purpose along with the informers, ahead of his own arrival, and caused the report to be spread among the men in winter quarters that he had decided to leave the present garrisons in the cities, inasmuch as the Campanians desired to have them remain, while he himself was preparing to make war against the Samnites with the forces which had come with him from Rome; and he persuaded them all to believe this. [12] But upon arriving in Campania with his whole army, he went round to each city, and summoning the men in the garrisons, picked out from among them all those who had taken part in the conspiracy. Then, addressing each group in friendly fashion, he dismissed some from the standards, as if granting discharge from the service as a favour, and others he dismissed, handing them over to the legate and the tribune as if for some special military duties. These latter were the most evil-minded and would not consent to be discharged from the service; and he gave orders to those who were escorting them to take them to Rome, and separating the groups from one another, to keep them in secret custody until he himself should come.

[13] But the conspirators, reflecting that all their ring-leaders were being either discharged from the standards or else sent to some destination or other apart from the rest, came to the conclusion that their conspiracy had been revealed, and then they became afraid that, if they should become separated and lay down their arms, they would have to pay the penalty when they were brought back to Rome; and meeting together in small groups, they considered what they ought to do. [14] Then, when some proposed a revolt, they approved the plan and gave secret pledges among themselves, after which those who had been discharged from the service made camp near the city of Tarracina in convenient spots right beside the road. [15] Later, the men who were being sent with the legate and the tribunes, deserting their leaders and in some instances even persuading the soldiers who were escorting them to revolt, settled down in the same region. When these had once seized the by-roads, many others joined them daily, and a strong force was gathered about them. Then all the prisons that were in the country districts were opened by them and there flocked together . . .

[4.1] The Roman consuls passed unhindered through all the intervening region, some of the people offering no opposition and others actually escorting them on their way. There are many difficult passes along the road that leads from Rome to Campania, hemmed in by mountains, marshes, arms of the sea, and navigable rivers, and it was not easy to get through them when they had been occupied in advance by the enemy. They also crossed a river, called the Volturnus, which flows through the territory and city of Casilinum, distant thirty stades from Capua and not less than four plethra in breadth, getting across by means of a wooden bridge which they constructed in three days. They made their way through all these difficulties in order to inspire confidence in those of the Campanians who sided with them and convince them that they had made the best choice, and to inspire fear in those who took the opposite course. [3] When they had advanced beyond the city, they encamped at a distance of forty stades from Capua, entrenching themselves in a lofty position, where they waited and kept watch for the provisions and reinforcements they expected from the Samnites. These, it seems, kept promising them more than was required, but were not furnishing anything worth mentioning, and while pretending to be gathering an army out of every city, were really marking time. [4] The consuls, therefore, despairing of reinforcements from that quarter, and observing that their own forces were receiving no accession of strength with the passing of time, whereas those of the enemy were becoming much more numerous, resolved to set to work. But bearing in mind that a large part of the army was hard to manage and slow to obey the orders of its commanders, as it had shown not only on many other occasions, but also most recently while in its winter quarters in Campania, where some of them had gone to such a degree of madness as to make an attack upon cities, to desert the consul, and to take up arms against the fatherland, they thought they ought first of all to make these men more circumspect by causing them to regard the reproof coming from their commanders as a more terrible thing than the danger threatening from their enemies. [6] With this purpose in mind they called an assembly, and Manlius said: The MS. adds: See the section on Stratagems and Speeches. Concerning the son of Manlius who fought in single combat.

[5.1] (4) . . . but also because they were inflicting many grievous injuries on their friends the Campanians. The Roman senate, when the Campanians made repeated charges and complaints against the Neapolitans, voted to send ambassadors to the latter to demand that they should do no wrong to the subjects of the Roman empire, but should give and receive justice, and if they had any differences with one another, should settle them not by arms but by discussion, after first making a compact with them; and that for the future they should remain at peace with all the people dwelling along the Tyrrhenian sea, neither committing any acts themselves that were unbecoming to Greeks nor assisting others who did so; but in particular, the envoys, if they could do so by courting the favour of the influential men, were to get the city ready to revolt from the Samnites and become friendly to the Romans. [2] (5) It chanced that at this same time ambassadors sent by the Tarentines had come to the Neapolitans, men of distinction who had inherited ties of hospitality with the Neapolitans; others also had come, sent by the Nolans, who were their neighbours and greatly admired the Greeks, to ask the Neapolitans on the contrary neither to make an agreement with the Romans or their subjects nor to give up their friendship with the Samnites. [3] If the Romans should make this their pretext for war, the Neapolitans were not to be alarmed or terrified by the strength of the Romans in the belief that it was some invincible strength, but to stand their ground nobly and fight as befitted Greeks, relying both on their own army and the reinforcements which would come from the Samnites, and, in addition to their own naval force, being sure of receiving a large and excellent one which the Tarentines would send them in case they should require that also.

[6.1] (6) When the senate had convened and many speeches had been made there by both the embassies and their supporters, the opinions of the councillors were divided, though the most enlightened seemed to favour the Roman cause. [2] On that day, accordingly, no preliminary decree was passed but the decision with regard to the embassies was postponed to another session, at which time the most influential of the Samnites came in large numbers to Neapolis, and winning over the men at the head of the state by means of some favours, persuaded the senate to leave to the popular assembly the decision regarding the best interests of the state. [3] And appearing before the assembly, they first recounted their own services, then made many accusations against the Roman state, charging it with being faithless and treacherous; and at the end of their speech they made some remarkable promises to the Neapolitans if they would enter the war. They would send an army, they announced, as large as the Neapolitans should require, to guard their walls, and would also furnish marines for their ships as well as all the rowers, providing all the expenses of the war not only for their own armies, but for the others too. [4] Furthermore, when the Neapolitans had repulsed the Roman army, they would not only recover Cumae for them, which the Campanians had occupied two generations earlier after expelling the Cumaeans, but would also restore to their possessions those of the Cumaeans who still survived — these, when driven out of their own city, had been received by the Neapolitans and made sharers of all their own blessings — and they would also grant to the Neapolitans some of the land the Campanians were then holding, — the part without cities. [5] (7) The element among the Neapolitans that was reasonable and able to foresee long in advance the disasters that would come upon the city from the war, wished to remain at peace; but the element that was fond of innovations and sought the personal advantages to be gained from turmoil joined forces for the war. There were mutual recriminations and skirmishes, and the strife was carried to the point of hurling stones; in the end the worse element overpowered the better, so the ambassadors of the Romans returned home without having accomplished anything. For these reasons the Roman senate resolved to send an army against the Neapolitans.

[7.1] (8) The Romans, learning that the Samnites were assembling an army, first sent ambassadors; these ambassadors, chosen from among the senators, came to the deputies of the Samnites and said: [2] “You do wrong, Samnites, to transgress the compact which you made with us, assuming the name of allies while in reality performing the deeds of enemies. After being defeated in many battles by the Romans, you secured a termination of the war in answer to your earnest entreaties and obtained a peace such as you desired; and at the last you were eager to become friends and allies of our state and swore to have the same enemies and friends as the Romans. [3] (9) But forgetting all this and regarding your oaths as naught, you deserted us in the war that arose with the Latins and with the Volscians, whom we have as enemies on your account because we were unwilling to join them in their war against you; and this last year, when the Neapolitans were afraid to declare war against us, you devoted all your zeal and efforts to encouraging them, or rather compelling them, to do so, and are paying all the expenses and are holding their city with your own forces. [4] And now you are preparing an army, gathering it from every quarter, alleging indeed a different reason, but in reality having resolved to lead it against our colonists; and to these unjust encroachments you are inviting the Fundans and Formians, as well as some others to whom we have granted citizenship. [5] (10) Though you were thus openly and shamelessly violating your treaty of friendship and alliance, we, nevertheless, pursuing the just course, decided to send an embassy to you first and not to begin with deeds before trying arguments. The things which we ask you to do, and the obtaining of which we believe will satisfy our anger at your past deeds, are these: First, we wish you to withdraw the armed assistance you have sent to the Neapolitans, and, second, not to send out any army against our colonists nor to invite our subjects to all your encroachments. [6] If some of you have been doing these things without the approval of all, but on their own initiative, we ask you to surrender the men to us for trial. If we gain these demands, we are content; but if we fail to obtain them, we call to witness the gods and lesser divinities by whom you swore in making the treaty, and we have come bringing with us the fetiales for this purpose.”

[8.1] (11) When the Roman had spoken to this effect, the deputies of the Samnites, after consulting together, delivered the following reply: [2] “For the delay on the part of our contingent in going to war against the Latins the state is not to blame — for we voted that the army should be sent to you — but rather those in command of it, who spent too much time in preparation, and you yourselves, who were too hasty in rushing into the struggle. In any case it was only three or four days after the battle that the troops sent by us arrived. [3] As for the city of Neapolis, in which there are some of our troops, far from wronging you if we as a state contribute some aid toward the safety of those who are in danger, it is rather we ourselves who seem to be greatly wronged by you. For, though this city had become our friend and ally, not just recently nor from the time when we made our compact with you, but two generations earlier, in return for many great services, you enslaved it, though you had been wronged in no respect. [5] (12) Yet not even in this action has the Samnite state wronged you; rather it is some men connected by private ties of hospitality, as we learn, and friends of the Neapolitans who are aiding that city of their own free will, together with some also who through lack of a livelihood, perhaps, are serving as mercenaries. As for stealing away your subjects, we have no need of such a course; for even without the Fundans and Formians we are quite able to succour ourselves if we are driven to the necessity of war. [4] The getting of our army in readiness is not the act of those who are intending to rob your colonists of their possessions, but rather of those who intend to keep their own possessions under guard. We ask you in turn, if you wish to pursue the just course, to retire from Fregellae, which, after we had conquered it in war a short time ago — and this is the most just title to possession — you appropriated with no show of justice and now hold for the second year. If we on our side gain these points, we shall not feel that we are wronged in any respect.”

[9.1] (13) Thereupon the Roman fetialis, taking the floor, said: “There is no longer anything to prevent, now that you Samnites have so openly violated your oaths to maintain the peace, . . . and do not plan to lay the blame upon the Roman people. For everything has been done by them in according to the sacred and time-honoured laws, both what is holy in the sight of the gods and just in the sight of men, and the judges to decide which people has abided by the compact will be the gods whose province it is to watch over wars.” [2] As he was about to depart, he drew his mantle down over his head, and raising his hands toward however, as is the custom, he uttered prayers to the gods: “If the Roman commonwealth, having suffered wrongs at the hands of the Samnites and being unable to settle the differences by argument and a decision, should proceed to deeds, may the gods and lesser divinities not only inspire her mind with good counsels but also grant that her undertakings in all her wars may prove successful; but if she herself is guilty of any violation of the oaths of friendship and is trumping up false grounds for hostility, may they prosper neither her counsels nor her undertakings.”

[10.1] (14) When they had departed from the assembly and each side had reported its cities what had been said, they drew opposite conclusions about each other, the Samnites expecting that the Romans would move rather slowly, as it is their custom to do when they are about to begin war, and the Romans believing that the Samnites’ army would soon proceed against their colonists in Fregellae. [2] Then they each met with the experience that might have been expected. For the Samnites, while making their preparations and delaying, lost the opportunities for action, whereas the Romans, having everything prepared and in readiness, as soon as they learned the answer given to their ambassadors, voted for war and sent out both consuls; and before the enemy was aware they had set out, both the newly-enrolled force and the one that was wintering among the Volscians, under the command of Cornelius, were inside the Samnite borders.

EXCERPTS FROM BOOK XVI

[1.1] (1) When the Romans were setting out for their last war against the Samnites, a thunderbolt struck in the most conspicuous spot, killing five soldiers, destroying two standards, and either burning or tarnishing many weapons. The thunderbolts (keraunoi) that descend bear a name truly descriptive of their effects; for they are devastations (keraïsmoi) of a sort and transformations of the underlying substances, reversing mortal fortunes. [2] For, in the first place, the bolt's fire itself is compelled to change its own nature as it rushes down, whether its natural abode is the ethereal space or the region immediately above the earth; for it is not meet for it, in view of its inherent nature, to gravitate earthward, but rather to move aloft away from the earth, since it is in the ether that the sources of the divine fire are found. [3] (2) This is shown even by the fire that we know — whether this be the gift of Prometheus or of Hephaestus — which, whenever it bursts the bounds in which it has been forced to remain, leaps upward through the air to that kindred fire which embraces the whole universe round about. Hence that fire which is divine and separated from corruptible matter as it roams through the ether, when it descends to the earth under the compulsion of some drastic necessity, portends changes and reversals. [4] (3) At any rate, when some such portent occurred also at the time in question, the Romans scorned it, and having been hemmed in by Pontius the Samnite into a difficult position from which escape was impossible, when they were now on the point of perishing from famine, they surrendered themselves, about 40,000 in number, to the enemy; and leaving behind their arms and effects, they all passed under the yoke, which is a token that men have come under the power of others. But not long afterwards Pontius also suffered the same fate at the hands of the Romans, when both he himself and those with him passed under the yoke.

[2.1] (4) “This one thing we ask of you, now that we lie prostrate and are as nought, that you do not add to our calamities by any ignominious treatment nor trample with a heavy foot upon our wretched misfortunes.”

[2] “Do you not know that many of our people have lost their sons in the war, many their brothers, and many their friends? And what unmitigated resentment do you suppose will spring up and flourish in the hearts of all the bereaved if anyone prevents them from honouring those who are beneath the earth with the lives of an equal number of enemies — those lives which alone seem to be true honours for the departed? [3] (5) But come, even if, as the result of persuasion nor compulsion or however swayed, they shall yield this point and permit them to live, does it seem likely to you that they will go still farther and allow them to retain their effects and permit them without suffering any ignominious treatment, but, like heroes who have made their appearances for the good fortune of this country, to depart whenever they please, but will not rather, like wild beasts, surround me and tear me limb from limb for having taken it upon myself to make this proposal? [4] Do you not observe that even hunting-dogs, when a wild beast has been driven by them into the nets and caught, surround the hunters, demanding the share of the quarry that belongs to them, and unless they promptly get a share of the blood or of the inwards, follow the hunter snarling and rend him in pieces, and are not driven away even when they are chased or beaten?"

[3.1] (6) Fighting the whole day long, they endured the hardships; but when darkness prevented their distinguishing friends and foes, they departed to their own camps.

Appius Claudius, having committed some error in connexion with the sacrifices, was made blind and given the cognomen Caecus; for that is the Roman word for the blind.

[2] The mural paintings were not only very accurate in their lines but also pleasing in the mixture of colours, and their florid style was free from what is called tawdriness.

The Romans call the new moons calends, the half moons ones, and the full moons ides.

[3] (7) Against the troops who were fighting in the middle of the phalanx, which was widely spaced and lax, those who were stationed here charged in a body and drove them from their position.

The heaven-sent domestic war was wasting away the flower of the state.

Men who bore the offerings and had been honoured with the carrying of the sacred vessels.

A man full of unreasoning impulsiveness who carried boldness to the point of madness, one who had followed his own counsel and had got in his hands the whole conduct of the war.

[4] "Do you then dare to accept Fortune of having managed affairs badly, you who seated yourself on an overturned boat? Are you so stupid?"

Limbs, some of which still needed medical attention while others had just begun to form scars . . .

[4.1] (8) One more political incident I shall relate, says Dionysius, deserving of praise on the part of all men, from which it will be clear to the Greeks how great was the hatred of wrongdoing felt in Rome at that time and how implacable the anger against those who transgressed the universal laws of human nature. [2] Gaius Laetorius, with the cognomen Mergus, a man of distinguished birth and not without bravery in warlike deeds, who had been appointed tribune of one of the legions in the Samnite war, attempted for a time to persuade a youth of exceptional beauty among his tentmates to put the charms of his body at his disposal voluntarily; then, when the boy was not to be lured either by gifts or by any other friendly gesture, Laetorius, unable to restrain his passion, attempted to use effort. [3] When the man's disgraceful conduct had become noised throughout the entire camp, the tribunes of the people, holding that it was a crime against the whole state, brought an indictment against him publicly, and the people unanimously condemned him, after fixing death as the penalty; for they were unwilling that persons who were of free condition and were fighting on behalf of the freedom of their fellow citizens should be subjected by those in positions of command to abuses that are irreparable and do violence to the male's natural instincts.

[5.1] (9) A thing still more remarkable than this was done by them a few years earlier, though the mistreatment involved the person of a slave. The son, namely, of Publius, one of the military tribunes who had surrendered the army to the Samnites and passed under the yoke, inasmuch as he had been left in dire poverty, was compelled to borrow money for the burial of his father, expecting to repay it out of contributions to be made by his relations. But being disappointed in his expectation, he was seized in lieu of the debt when the time for payment came, as he was very youthful and comely to look upon. [2] He submitted to all the regular tasks which it was usual for slaves to perform for their masters, but with indignation when ordered to put the charms of his body at the disposal of his creditor, and resisted to the utmost. Then, having received many lashes with whips because of this, he rushed out into the Forum, and taking his stand upon a lofty spot where he would have many witnesses to his mistreatment, he released the wanton attempts of the money-lender and displayed the weals raised by the whips. [3] When the people became indignant at this and felt that the matter was deserving of public wrath, the tribunes brought an indictment against the man and he was found guilty of a capital crime. Because of this incident all the Romans who had been enslaved for debt recovered their former freedom by a law ratified at this time.

[6.1] (10) Demanding that the senate in behalf of those who were in want and in debt . . .

The flesh of freshly slain victims continues to quiver and palpitate until the congenital breath contained in it has forced this way out through the pores and been entirely dissipated. [2] Some such thing is the cause also of earthquakes at Rome; for the city, since it is undermined with large and continuous channels through which the water is conducted, and since it has many breathing-vents like mouths, shoots up through these vents the breath that is pent up within it. This breath it is which shakes the city and rends the surface of the ground whenever a large and violent mass of air is intercepted and pent up inside.

EXCERPTS FROM BOOKS XVII AND XVIII

[1.1] (16.11) The Samnite war was once more kindled into flame, beginning from some such cause as the following. After the treaty which the Samnites had made with Rome, they waited a short time and then made an expedition against the Lucanians, who were their neighbours, being moved thereto by some long-standing feud. [2] At first the Lucanians carried on the war relying on their own forces; but getting the worst of it in all the engagements, and having lost many districts already and being in danger of losing all the rest of their land, they were forced to have recourse to the Romans' assistance. They were conscious, to be sure, of having broken the compact they had made with the Romans earlier, in which they had pledged friendship and alliance, but did not despair of persuading them if they should send to them along with their ambassadors the most prominent boys from every city as hostages. [3] (12) For when the ambassadors arrived and made many entreaties, the senate voted to accept the hostages and to join friendship with the Lucanians; and the popular assembly ratified their vote. [4] Upon the conclusion of the treaty with the emissaries of the Lucanians the oldest and most honoured of the Romans were chosen by the senate and sent as ambassadors to the general council of the Samnites to inform them that the Lucanians were friends and allies of the Romans and to warn them not only to restore the land they had taken away from them but also to commit no further act of hostility, since Rome would not permit her suppliants to be driven out of their own land.

[2.1] (16.13) The Samnites, having listened to the ambassadors, were indignant and declared in their own defence, first of all, that they had not made the peace on the understanding that they were to count no one as their friend or enemy unless the Romans should bid them to do so; and again, that the Romans had not previously made the Lucanians their friends, but only just now, when they were already enemies of the Samnites, thereby trumping up an excuse that was neither just nor seemly for setting aside the treaty. [2] When the Romans answered that subjects who had agreed to follow them and had obtained a termination of the war on that condition must obey all orders of those who had assumed the rule over them, and threatened to make war upon them if they did not voluntarily do as they were ordered, [3] the Samnites, regarding the arrogance of Rome as intolerable, ordered the ambassadors to depart at once, while, as for themselves, they voted to make the necessary preparations for war both jointly and each city for itself.

[3.1] (16.14) The published reason, then, for the Samnite war and the one that was plausible enough to be announced to the world was the assistance extended to the Lucanians who had turned to them for help, since this was a general and time-honoured practice with the Roman state to aid those who were wronged and turned to her for help. But the undisclosed reason and the one which was more cogent in leading them to give up their friendship with the Samnites was the power of that nation, which had already become great, and promised to become greater still if, upon the subjugation of the Lucanians and, because of them, of their neighbours, the barbarian tribes adjoining them were going to follow the same course. The treaty, accordingly, was promptly abrogated after the return of the ambassadors, and two armies were enrolled.

[4.1] (16.15) Postumius the consul, now that his succession to his father's estate was imminent, thought very highly of himself both because of the reputation of his family and because he had already been honoured with two consulships.

[2] His colleague was at first indignant at this, feeling that he was being excluded from an equal share of honours, and he frequently presented his claims against him before the senate; but later, recognizing that in dignity of ancestry, the number of his friends, and in other sources of influence he was inferior to the other (for he was a plebeian and one of those who had but recently come to public notice), he yielded to his colleague and let him have the command of the Samnite war. [3] This was the first thing that aroused prejudice against Postumius, occasioned as it was by his great arrogance; and on top of it came another action that was too offensive for a Roman commander. He chose, namely, about two thousand men out of his army, and taking them to his own estate, ordered them to cut down a thicket without axes; and for a long time he kept the men on his estate performing the tasks of labourers and slaves. [4] (16) After displaying such arrogance before setting out on the campaign, he showed himself even more domineering in the acts which he committed in the course of the campaign itself, thus affording the senate and the people grounds for just hatred. For though the senate had voted that Fabius, who had been consul the year before and had conquered the Samnite tribe called the Pentrians, should remain in the camp and, holding the proconsular power, make war against that part of the Samnites, Postumius nevertheless sent him a letter ordering him to evacuate the Samnite country, on the ground that the command belonged to him alone. [5] And to the envoys sent by the senators to demand that he should not hinder the proconsul from remaining in the camp nor act in opposition to their decrees he gave a haughty answer worthy of a tyrant, declaring that the senate did not govern him, so long as he was consul, but that he governed the senate. [6] Then, having dismissed the envoys, he led his army against Fabius, intending, in case he were not willing to give up command voluntarily, to force him by arms to do so. And coming upon Fabius as he was besieging the town of Cominium, he drove him out of the camp, showing a vast contempt for the ancient usages and an outrageous arrogance. Fabius, accordingly, yielded to his madness and relinquished the command.

[5.1] (16.17) This same Postumius first took Cominium by siege, after spending but a short time in assaults, and then captured Venusia, a populous place, and ever so many other cities, of whose inhabitants 10,000 were slain and 6,200 surrendered their arms. [2] Though he accomplished all this, he not only was not granted any mark of favour or honour by the senate, but even lost the esteem which was his before. For when 20,000 colonists were sent out to one of the cities captured by him, the one called Venusia, others were chosen leaders of the colony, while the man who had reduced the city and had made the proposal for the dispatch of the colonists was not found worthy even of that honour. [3] (18) Now if he had borne these reverses with a prudence based upon reason and had assuaged the harshness of the senate by the therapy of courteous words and actions, he would have experienced no further misfortune leading to disgrace. But as it was, being exasperated and harsh in his turn, he not only presented the soldiers with all the booty he had taken from the enemy, but also, before his successor in the command was sent out, dismissed his forces from the standards; and finally, though it was granted to him by neither the senate nor the people, he celebrated a triumph on his own authority. [4] In consequence of all this, still greater hatred flared up on the part of all, and as soon as he turned over his magistracy to the consuls who succeeded him he was cited to a public trial by two tribunes. And being accused before the popular assembly, he was condemned by all the tribes, the indictment calling for a fine of 50,000 denarii.

EXCERPTS FROM BOOK XIX

[1.1] (17.1) Croton is a city in Italy; likewise Sybaris, so named from the river which flows past it.

[2] When the Lacedaemonians were warring against Messenê and Sparta was stripped of men, the women and especially the maidens who were of marriageable age begged them not to allow them to go unwed and childless. Accordingly, young men were constantly sent from the camp in rotation to have intercourse with the women and they consorted with the first women they met. From these promiscuous women were born boys whom, when they had grown to man's estate, the Lacedaemonians called Partheniae, among other taunts that they hurled at them. [3] (2) When a sedition occurred and the Partheniae were defeated, they voluntarily withdrew from the city; and sending to Delphi, they received an oracle bidding them sail to Italy and after finding a town in Iapygia called Satyrium and a river Taras, to establish their abode where they should see a goat dipping his beard in the sea. [4] Having made the voyage, they found the river and observed a wild fig-tree growing near the sea and overspread with a vine, one of whose tendrils hung down and touched the sea. Assuming this to be the "goat" which the god had foretold them they would see dipping his beard in the sea, entreaty remained there and made war upon the Iapygians; and they founded the city which they named for the river Taras.

[2.1] (17.3) Artimedes of Chalcis had an oracle bidding him, wherever he should find the male covered by the female, there to abide and to sail no farther. When he had sailed round Pallantium in Italy, he beheld a vine twining over a wild fig-tree; and reflecting that the vine was feminine and the fig-tree masculine, and the clinging was the sexual "covering," he assumed that the oracle had its fulfilment. Accordingly, he drove out the barbarians who were in possession of the place and colonized it himself. [2] The place is called Rhegium, either because there was an abrupt headland or because in this place the earth split and set off from Italy Sicily which lies opposite, or else it is named after some ruler who bore this name.

[3.1] (17.4) When Leucippus the Lacedaemonian inquired where it was fated for him and his followers to settle, the god commanded them to sail to Italy and settle that part of the land where they should stay a day and a night after landing. The expedition made land near Callipolis, a seaport of the Tarentines; and Leucippus, pleased with the nature of the place, persuaded the Tarentines to permit them to encamp there for a day and a night. [2] When several days had passed and the Tarentines asked them to depart, Leucippus paid no heed for them, claiming that he had received the land from them under a compact for day and night; and so long as there should be either of these he would not give up the land. So the Tarentines, realizing that they had been tricked, permitted them to remain.

They decided that he should remain in the place where he was and conduct the war that was threatening from that quarter.

They were scattered among the forests and ravines and mountain fastnesses.

[2] (6) A certain Tarentine who was shameless and addicted to every form of sensual pleasure was nicknamed Thaïs because of his beauty, which was licentious and prostituted to base ends among boys.

After enlisting the plebeians they departed.

The most frivolous and dissolute of all in the city.

[5.1] (17.7) Postumius was sent as ambassador to the Tarentines. As he was making an address to them, the Tarentines, far from paying heed to him or thinking seriously, as men should do who are sensible and are taking counsel for a state which is in peril, watched rather to see if he would make any slip in the finer points of the Greek language, and then laughed, became exasperated at his truculence, which they called barbarous, and finally were ready to drive him out of the theatre. [2] As the Romans were departing, one of the Tarentines standing beside the exit was a man named Philonides, a frivolous fellow who because of his besotted condition in which he passed his whole life was called Demijohn; and this man, being still full of yesterday's wine, as soon as the ambassadors drew near, pulled up his garment, and assuming a posture most shameful to behold, bespattered the sacred robe of the ambassador with the filth that is indecent even to be uttered.

[3] (8) When laughter burst out from the whole theatre and the most insolent clapped their hands, Postumius, looking at Philonides, said: "We shall accept the omen, you frivolous fellow, in the sense that you Tarentines give us what we do not ask for." Then he turned to the crowd and showed his defiled robe; but when he found that the laughter of everybody became even greater and heard the cries of some who were exulting over and praising the insult, he said: [4] "Laugh while you may, Tarentines! Laugh! For long will be the time that you will weep hereafter." When some became embittered at this threat, he added: "And that you may become yet more angry, we say this also to you, that you will wash out this robe with much blood." [5] The Roman ambassadors, having been insulted in this fashion by the Tarentines both privately and publicly and having uttered the prophetic words which I have reported, sailed away from their city.

[6.1] (17.8) As soon as Aemilius, with the cognomen Barbula, had assumed the consulship, Postumius and those who had been sent with him as ambassadors to Tarentum arrived in the city, bringing no answer, to be sure, but relating the insults that had been offered them and exhibiting the robe of Postumius as proof of their story. When great indignation was shown by all, Aemilius and his fellow consul assembled the senate and considered what course they ought to take, remaining in session from early morning until sunset; and this they did for many days. [2] (10) The question was not whether the terms of peace had been violated by the Tarentines, since all were agreed upon that point, but when an army should be sent against them. For there were some who advised against undertaking this war as yet, while the Lucanians, the Bruttians, and the large and warlike race of Samnites were in rebellion and Tyrrhenia, lying at their very doors, was still unconquered, but only after these nations had been subdued, preferably all of them, but if that should not be possible, at least those lying eastward and close to Tarentum. But others thought the opposite course advisable, namely, not to wait for a moment, but to vote for war at once. [3] When it was time for counting the votes, those in the latter group were found to be more numerous than those who advised postponing the war to another time. And the populace ratified the decision of the senate. The MS. adds: See the section on Stratagems.

[7.1] (17.11) . . . it is the nature of those birds which hover round this spot in rather leisurely flight to be of good omen to those who wish to save their own possessions; and it is the nature of those birds which dart forward in swift and impetuous flight to be of good omen to those who covet the possessions of others. For the latter are providers and hunters of the things that are lacking, whereas the former are watchers and guardians of the things on hand.

[2] (12) He went through the whole country of the enemy setting fire to the fields which had crops of grain already ripe and cutting down the fruit-trees.

Democracies experience something of the same sort as do the seas; for just as the latter are agitated by the winds, though it is their nature to be tranquil, so the former are disturbed by the demagogues, though they have in themselves no evil.

[8.1] (17.13) When the Tarentines wished to summon Pyrrhus from Epirus to aid in the war against the Romans and were banishing those who opposed this course, a certain Meton, himself a Tarentine, in order to gain their attention and show them all the evils that would come in the train of royalty into a free and luxury-loving state, came into the theatre, at a time when the multitude was seated there, wearing a garland, as if returning from a banquet, and embracing a young flute-girl who was playing on her flute tunes appropriate to songs of revelry. [2] (14) When the seriousness of all gave way to laughter and some of them bade him to sing, others to dance, Meton looked round him on every side and waved his hand for silence; then, when he had quieted the disturbance, he said: "Citizens, of these things which you see me doing now you will not be able to do a single one if you permit a king and a garrison to enter the city." [3] When he saw that many were moved and paying attention and were bidding him to prospect on, he proceeded, while still preserving the pretence of drunkenness, to enumerate all the evils that would befall them. But while he was still speaking, the remain responsible for these evils seized him and threw him head first out of the theatre.

[9.1] (17.15) "The King of the Epirots, Pyrrhus, son of King Aeacides, to Publius Valerius, consul of the Romans, greetings. You have presumably learned from others that I have come with my army to the aid of the Tarentines and other Italiots in response to their summons; presumably also you are not unaware from what men I am sprung and what exploits I myself have performed and of the size of the army I bring with me and its excellence in warfare. [2] Convinced as I am, then, that as you appraise each of these factors you are not waiting to learn from fact and experience our valour in battle, but having desisted from arms, are proceeding to words, I not only advise you to leave to me the settlement of your differences with the Tarentines, Lucanians and Samnites — for I will arbitrate your differences with complete justice — but I will cause my friends to make good all the damage that I find them to have caused. [3] (16) You Romans also will do well to offer sureties yourselves, with respect to any charges that some of them may bring against you, that you will abide by my decisions as valid. If you do this, I promise to give you peace and to be your friend and to aid you zealously in any wars to which you may summon me; [4] but if you do not do so, I shall not permit you to make desolate the country of men who are my allies, to plunder Greek cities and sell freemen at auction, but I shall prevent you by force of arms, in order that you may at last stop pillaging all Italy and treating all men arrogantly as if they were slaves. I shall wait ten days for your answer; longer I cannot wait.”

[10.1] (17.17) In reply to this the Roman consul wrote back, rebuking the man’s arrogance and displaying the lofty spirit of the Roman commonwealth: “Publius Valerius Lavinius, general and consul of the Romans, to King Pyrrhus, greetings. [2] It seems to me to be the part of a prudent man to send threatening letters to his subjects; but to despise those whose might he has not tested and whose valour he has not learned to know, as if they were insignificant and of no account, seems to me to be evidence of a disposition that is foolish and does not know how to discriminate. [3] As for us, we are wont to punish our enemies, not by words, but by deeds, and we are neither making you a judge in the matter of our charges against the Tarentines, Samnites or our other foes nor accepting you as a surety for the payment of any penalty, but we shall decide the contest by our own arms and exact the penalties as we ourselves wish. Now that you are forewarned of this, make yourself ready as our opponent, not as our judge. [4] (18) As for the wrongs you yourself have done us, take thought whom you will offer as sureties for the payment of penalties; do not expect the Tarentines or our other enemies to offer just redress. But if you have determined to make war upon us by all means, know that the same thing will happen to you that must needs happen to all who wish to fight before investigating against whom they will be waging the contest. [5] Bearing these things in mind, if you want anything that is ours, first put aside your threats and drop your regal boastfulness, then go to the senate and inform and persuade its members, confident that you will not fail of anything that is either just or reasonable.”

armed and drew up the whole army in line of battle, and showing to the spy, bade him tell the whole truth to the one who had sent him, and, in addition to reporting what he had seen, to tell him that Lavinius, the Roman consul, bade him not to send any more men secretly as spies, but to come himself, openly, to see and learn the might of the Romans.

[12.1] (18.2) A certain man named Oblacus, with the cognomen Volsinius, a leader of the Ferentan nation, observing that Pyrrhus did not remain in one fixed place but appeared suddenly to all his men in turn as they fought, kept his attention on him alone and wherever Pyrrhus rode up he would bring up his own horse opposite him. [2] One of the king's companions, Leonnatus, the son of Leophantus, a Macedonian, observing him, became suspicious, and pointing him out to Pyrrhus, said: "Beware of that man, O King; for he is a keen warrior, and does not fight remaining in one position, but watches you and has his attention fixed on you." [3] (3) To which the king answered: "But what could he, being but one man, do to me who have so many defenders about me?" and with youthful bravado he even uttered some boast about his own strength, to the effect that even if he engaged alone with a single adversary the other would not get off unpunished. The Ferentan Oblacus, having thus found the opportunity for which he was waiting, charged with his companions into the midst of the royal squadron; and breaking through the crowd of attendant horsemen, he bore down upon the king himself, grasping his spear with both hands. [4] But at the same moment Leonnatus, who had warned Pyrrhus to beware of the man, swerved a little to one side and struck the foe's horse through the flank with his spear, but Oblacus even while falling to the ground ran the king's horse through the breast; and both fell with their horses. [5] (4) As for the king, the most faithful man of his bodyguards mounted him on his own horse and rode away. In the case of Oblacus, after he had fought on for a long time and then succumbed to innumerable wounds, some of his companions took him up, after a sharp struggle had taken place for the possession of his body, and bore him away. [6] Thereafter the king, in order not to be conspicuous to his enemies, ordered that his own cloak, purple-dyed and shot with gold, which he was accustomed to wear in battle, and his armour, which was more costly than that of the others in point both of material and workmanship, should be worn by the most faithful of his companions and the bravest in battle, Megacles, while he himself took the other's dun cloak, breastplate and his felt head-gear. And this seemed to be the reason for his escape.

[13.1] (18.5) When Pyrrhus, the king of the Epirots, led an army against Rome, they voted to send ambassadors to ask him to release to them for ransom the prisoners he had taken, either exchanging them for others or setting a price he says each man; and they chose as ambassadors Gaius Fabricius, who while serving as consul two years earlier had conquered the Samnites, Lucanians and Bruttians in stubborn battles and had raised the siege of Thurii; Quintus Aemilius, who had been Fabricius' colleague and had been in command of the Tyrrhenian war; and Publius Cornelius, who while consul three years earlier had waged war on the whole tribe of Gauls and had slain all their adult males. [2] (6) These men, when they had come to Pyrrhus and had said everything that was appropriate for such a mission, pointing out that fortune is an incalculable thing, that the changes in war are swift, and that it is not easy for mortals to know in advance any of the things that are going to happen, left to him the choice whether he wished to receive money for the prisoners or to get other prisoners in their stead.

[3] (7) Pyrrhus, after taking counsel with his friends, answered them as follows: "You are acting perversely, Romans, when you are unwilling to join friendship with me, but ask to get back your men who have been captured in war, in order that you may have these same persons to use in your war against me. [4] But if you are planning to act in the best manner and if you have the common advantage of us both as your goal, put an end to the war against me and my allies and receive back all your men from me gratis, both your citizens and your allies. Otherwise I could never consent to hand over to you so many brave men."

[14.1] (18.8) This much he said while the three ambassadors were present; then, taking Fabricius aside, he said: "I hear that you, Fabricius, are most able in military commands and in your private life are just and prudent and possess all the other virtues, but that you are without pecuniary means, being in this one respect ill-treated by Fortune, so that you continue to be no better off than the poorest senators in the matter of a livelihood. [2] Being eager to supply this defect, I am ready to give you such an amount of silver and gold as will enable you to surpass in wealth all the Romans who are reputed to be the most prosperous. For I consider it an excellent expenditure and one befitting a ruler to confer benefits upon the good men who because of poverty do not fare according to their merit, and I regard this as the most splendid dedication and monument of royal wealth. [3] (9) Now that you have been informed of my purpose, Fabricius, lay aside all modesty and share in the blessings that are to be found with us, knowing that I shall be exceedingly grateful to you; and, by Heaven, no less . . . believe them? to be the most valued of my guest-friends. And to me in return for these things you are not to render any service that is either wrong or shameful, but only services from which you yourself will be more powerful and more honoured in your own country. [4] First, then, with all the power that lies in you, urge the senate, which thus far has been contentious and has shown no disposition toward moderation, to make the truce, showing them that it is not to the detriment of your commonwealth that I have come after promising to aid the Tarentines and the other Italiots, and that it is neither right nor seemly for me to desert them now that I am present with an army and have won the first battle. And very many urgent matters that have arisen at this time call me back to my own kingdom. [5] (10) With regard to my returning home, I offer to you, both alone and together with the other ambassadors, if the Romans would make me their friend, all the pledges which make human compacts binding, in order that you may speak confidently to your fellow citizens, in case there are some who regard the name of king as suspicious and suggestive of deceitfulness in making compacts and, in view of the violations of oaths and treaties of which certain others have been thought guilty, assume the same with regard to me. [6] And when peace has been brought about, come with me to be my adviser in all matters and my lieutenant in war and to share in all the royal good fortune. For I need a good man and a loyal friend, while you need royal largess and kingly emprises. If, then, we combine these needs and abilities for our mutual advantage, we shall receive the greatest benefits from each other.”

[15.1] (18.11) When he had finished, Fabricius, after pausing a short time, said:

“As regards any merit of mine, either in public affairs or in private life, there is no need for me to speak for myself, since you have learned of it from others; nor, indeed, with regard to my slender means need I state that I have a very small farm and a sorry little house and that I do not get my livelihood from either loans or slaves, since you appear to have heard an accurate report of these matters also from others. [2] (12) But as to my being worse off than any other of the Romans on account of my lack of means, or my failing to gain any advantage from practising uprightness because I am not one of the rich, your supposition is false, whether you have heard it from someone else or surmise it yourself. For I never have been nor am I now conscious of any misfortune because I have not acquired great possessions, nor have I bewailed my lot either in public affairs or in my private concerns. [3] (13) Why in the world should I complain of it? Because it has not been possible for me by reason of poverty to get from my country a share in any of the fine and enviable things for which every noble nature strives? But I hold the highest magistracies, am sent on the most distinguished embassies, am entrusted with the most sacred rites in connexion with sacrifices, am thought worthy to express my opinion upon the most urgent matters and am called upon in my proper turn, am praised and envied, am second to none of the most powerful, and am regarded as a model of uprightness for the rest, though spending nothing of my substance for these honours, even as no one else does. [4] (14) For the Roman commonwealth does not interfere with the individual citizen’s means of livelihood, as do some other states in which the public wealth is small and that of the private citizens is great; but she herself provides those who go into public life with everything they need, giving them splendid and magnificent allowances, with the result that the poorest man enjoys no less esteem than the richest when it is a question of awarding honours, but all the Romans who are worthy of these honours by virtue of their uprightness are on an equal footing with one another. [5] When, never, though poor, I am at no disadvantage on that account in comparison with those who possess much, why in the world should I have denounced Fortune because she did not make me equal to you kings who have much gold treasured up? Nay, even in my private affairs I am so far removed from misfortune that I consider myself to be one of a favoured few of the blest, when I compare myself with the rich, and in this I take the greatest pride. [6] (15) For my sorry little farm suffices to furnish me with the necessities of life if I am industrious and frugal, and Nature does not compel me to seek more than is necessary; on the contrary, all food is pleasing to me which hunger prepares, every drink is sweet when thirst provides it, sleep is gentle when induced by fatigue, the clothing which keeps one from shivering is most adequate, and the cheapest utensil of all that can serve the same purposes is the most suitable. [7] Hence not even on this score should I be justified in denouncing Fortune, since she has given me as much substance as Nature wished me to have; as for things in excess of that, she has neither implanted in me any craving for them nor given me any store of them.

[16.1] (18.16) “Very true, indeed; but I have nothing left over with which to assist my neighbours, nor has God given it to me to possess an over-supply of knowledge and divination with which I might help those who need them, — to say nothing of many other things. Yet so long as I share with both the commonwealth and my friends what faculties I do possess and place at the disposal of those who need them the resources with which I can benefit a few, I should not consider myself lacking in means. And these are the very things which you believe to be the most important, and yet lack the means to purchase even large sums of money. [2] (17) But even if it were ever so true that for the sake of doing kindly services to those in need the acquisition of great wealth merits great zeal and ambition, and if the richest men were the most happy, as you kings think, which kind of affluence would be better for me? [3] An affluence of the riches of which you are now offering me a share dishonourably, or of the wealth which I myself might earlier have acquired honourably? For my public career has afforded me proper opportunities for making money, both earlier on many occasions and especially when, three years ago while I was holding the office of consul, I was sent at the head of an army against the Samnites, Lucanians and Bruttians and ravaged a vast territory, defeated in many battles those who arrayed themselves against me, and took by storm and plundered many prosperous cities, from which I enriched my entire army, gave back to the private citizens the special taxes which they had paid in advance for the prosecution of the war, and turned into the treasury four hundred talents after celebrating my triumph. [4] (18) If, then, when it was possible for me to take as many of those prizes won by the spear as I could wish, I took none, but for the sake of a good reputation scorned even the riches gained in an honest man, just as did Valerius Publicola and very many others besides, man through whom our commonwealth has become so great, shall I accept the gifts you offer and exchange the better affluence for the worse? My kind of acquisition had the advantage that it could also be enjoyed with pleasure, in addition to being gained honourably and justly; but your kind lacks even this advantage. For whatever things men receive from others in advance are loans that oppress the spirit until they are repaid, even though one dress them up with honourable names styling them gratuities, gifts or favours. [5] (19) Come now, suppose I should indeed be mad enough to accept the gold you offer me and this should become known to all the Romans, and then those magistrates who are subject to no accounting for their administration, the officials we call censors, whose duty it is to examine into the lives of all the Romans and to punish those who depart from the ancestral customs, should summon me and order me to render an account of my acceptance of bribes, bringing these charges against me in the presence of every:

[17.1] (18.20) “We sent you, Fabricius, as ambassador along with two other men of consular rank to King Pyrrhus to treat for the ransoming of prisoners. You have come back from your mission bringing neither the prisoners nor any other advantage for the commonwealth; instead, you, alone of the ambassadors sent with you, accepted royal gifts, and the peace which the people voted against making, you made by yourself alone, not for any advantage to the commonwealth — for how could it be that? — [2] but that you might betray her to the king, and that through you he might bring all Italy into subjection to himself and that through him you might deprive the fatherland of its liberty. For this is the purpose which all pursue who practise, not genuine, but feigned virtue, when they attain to grandeur and importance in affairs. [3] (21) But even if it were not while enjoying the prestige of an ambassador that you accepted a bribe, and if you were not taking it from the enemies of your country, nor for the purpose of betraying and tyrannizing over your fellow citizens, but were receiving it as a private citizen and from an ally and with no detriment to the commonwealth, are you not deserving of the greatest punishment, for the following reasons? First, you are corrupting the youth by introducing into their lives an emulous desire for regal wealth, luxury and extravagance, whereas they need great self-restraint if the south is to be preserved. [4] Again, you are bringing shame upon your ancestors, none of whom departed from the ancestral customs nor chose shameful riches in place of honourable poverty, but without exception remained on the same little estate that you, after inheriting it, regarded as beneath your station. [5] (22) Furthermore, you are destroying the reputation, which you gained from your earlier practices, as a man of self-restraint and moderation, superior to all shameful desires. After this, shall you go unpunished for having become a bad man after having once been a good one, when you ought, even if you were base before, to have ceased to be so? Or shall you continue to share in any of the blessings which are the due of the good, instead of quitting the city — the better course — or at any rate the Forum?”

[18.1] “If with these words of censure they expunge my name for the senate-roll and reduce me to the ranks of the disfranchised, what just answer shall I be able to make to them, or what just action take? What manner of life shall I live thereafter, when I have fallen into such disgrace and involved all my descendants? [2] (23) And to you yourself how shall I longer appear useful when

I have lost all influence and honour among my fellow citizens, the grounds for your present enthusiasm for me? The only course, then, that is left for one who can no longer keep a place for himself in his own country is to depart with his entire household, condemning himself to shameful exile. [3] After that where shall I spend the rest of my life? Or what place will receive me when I have lost, as I probable shall, my freedom of speech? Your realm, forsooth! And you will vi me with all the felicity a tyrant enjoys? Yet what boon will you give me as great as the one you will be taking from me when you take away that most precious of all possessions, liberty? [4] (24) And how could I endure the change in my life, learning late to be a slave? For when those born in countries ruled by kings and tyrants, if they are of noble spirit, crave liberty and consider all other blessings inferior to it, will those, I wonder, who have lived in a state which is free and has learned to rule over others bear with equanimity the change from better conditions to worse, consenting to become slaves instead of free men, in order to set splendid tables every day, to be attended everywhere by a multitude of slaves, and to have unstinted enjoyment of handsome women and boys, as if human happiness depended upon these things rather than upon virtue? [5] (25) Yet as for these very things, granted that they are well worth striving for, what joy would their use bring when it has no assured permanence? For it lies in the power of you rulers who provide these pleasures to take them away again when you yourselves wish. I say naught of the envyings, the slanderings, the fact that not for a moment does one live without danger and fear, and all the other experiences, distressing and unworthy of a noble spirit, while life at the courts of kings brings with it. [6] Let no such madness seize Fabricius that he should leave the renowned city of Rome and prefer life in Epirus, or that, when it is in his power to be leader of a state that holds the leadership, he should be ruled by one man whose thoughts are in no wise those of the other citizens and who is accustomed to hear from everybody what is calculated to please him. [7] (26) At any rate, though I might wish to change my spirit and make myself humble, in order that you might scent no danger from me, I could not do so; on the other hand, if I remain what Nature and my habits have made me, I shall appear offensive in your eyes and shall seem to be diverting control to my own hands. In fine, I can advise you against receiving into your realm, not Fabricius only, but also anyone else who is either your superior or your equal, or, in general, any man who has been reared in liberal ways and possesses a spirit above that of a private person. [8] For a man of lofty spirit is neither a safe companion for a king nor an agreeable one. Well then, as regards your private interests, you yourself will determine what you must do; as for the prisoners, come to some reasonable decision and permit us to depart.”

(27) When he stopped speaking, the king, admiring his nobility of soul, took him by the hand and said: “It no longer enters my mind why your city is renowned and encompassed so vast a dominion, since she is nurse of such men; and above all things I could have wished that no dispute should have arisen in the first place between me and you Romans; but since it has arisen and it was the will of some god that only after we had made trial of one another's might and valour would he bring us together, I am ready to be reconciled. And in order that I may be the first to make the friendly overtures to which you invite me, I give up as a favour to your commonwealth all the prisoners without ransom."

Having subdued Libya even as far as the tribes living by the Ocean.

EXCERPTS FROM BOOK XX

[1.1] Having agreed through heralds upon the time when they would join in battle, they descended from their camps and took up their positions as follows: King Pyrrhus gave the Macedonian phalanx the first place on the right wing and placed next to it the Italiot mercenaries from Tarentum; [2] then the troops from Ambracia and after them the phalanx of Tarentines equipped with white shields, forced by the allied force of Bruttians and Lucanians; in the middle of the battle-line he stationed the Thesprotians and Chaonians; next to them the mercenaries of the Aetolians, Acarnanians and Athamanians, and finally the Samnites, who constituted the left wing. [3] Of the horse, he stationed the Samnite, Thessalian and Bruttian squadrons and the Tarentine mercenary force upon the right wing, and the Ambraciot, Lucanian and Tarentine squadrons and the Greek mercenaries, consisting of Acarnanians, Aetolians, Macedonians and Athamanians, on the left. [4] The light-armed troops and the elephants he divided into two groups and placed them behind both wings, at a reasonable distance, in a position slightly elevated above the plain. He himself, surrounded by the royal agema, as it was called, of picked horsemen, about two thousand in number, was out the battle-line, so as to aid promptly any of his troops in turn that might be hard pressed.

The consuls arrayed on their left wing the legion called the first, facing the Macedonian and Ambraciot phalanx and the Tarentine mercenaries, and, next to the first legion, the third, over against the Tarentine phalanx with its white shields and the Bruttian and Lucanian allied forces; [5] adjoining the third army they placed the fourth, facing the Molossians, Chaonians and Thesprotians; and the second on the right wing opposite the mercenaries from Greece — the Aetolians, Acarnanians and Athamanians — and the Samnite phalanx that was equipped with oblong shields. The Latins, Campanians, substitutes, Umbrians, Volscians, Marrucini, Peligni, Ferentani, and their other subjects they divided into four divisions and mingled them with the Roman legions, in order that no part of their lines might be weak. [6] And dividing the cavalry, both their own and that of their allies, they placed it on both wings. Outside the line they stationed the light-armed troops and the waggons, three hundred in number, which they had got ready for the battle against the elephants. These waggons had upright beams on which were mounted movable traverse poles that could be swung round as quick as thought in any direction one might wish, and on the ends of the poles there were either tridents or swordlike spikes or scythes all of iron; or again they had cranes that hurled down heavy grappling-irons. [7] Many of the poles had attached to them and projecting in front of the waggons fire-bearing grapnels wrapped in tow that had been liberally daubed with pitch, which men standing on the waggons were to set afire as soon as they came near the elephants and then rain blows with them upon the trunks and faces of the beasts. Furthermore, standing on the waggons, which were four-wheeled, were many also of the light-armed troops — bowmen, hurlers of stones and slingers who threw iron caltrops; and on the ground beside the waggons there were still more men.

[8] This was the battle order of the two armies that had taken the field. The forces on the king's side numbered 70,000 foot, of whom the Greeks who had crossed the Ionian gulf amounted to 16,000; on the Roman side there were more than 70,000, about 20,000 of them being from Rome itself. Of horse the Romans had about 8,000, while Pyrrhus had slightly more, as well as nineteen elephants.

[2.1] When the signals for battle were hoisted, the soldiers first chanted their war songs, and then, raising the battle-cry to Enyalios, advanced to the fray, engaged and fought, displaying all their skill in arms. The cavalry stationed upon both wings, knowing beforehand in what tactics they had the advantage over the enemy, resorted to those tactics, the Romans to a hand-to-hand, stationary combat, and the Greek horse to flanking and deploying manoeuvres. [2] The Romans, when they were pursued by the Greeks, would wheel their horses about, and checking them with the reins, would fight an infantry battle; the Greeks, when they perceived that the Romans were their equals in combat, would swerve to the right and countermarching past one another, would whirl about their horses once more to face forward, and applying the spurs, would charge the enemy's ranks. [3] Such was the character of the cavalry battle. The fighting of the infantry was in some respects similar to it, in other ways different; it was similar on the whole, but different in details. For the right wing of each army was the stronger one, the left being weaker. Nevertheless, neither side turned its back ignominiously to the foe, but both maintained good order, remaining with the standards and protecting themselves with their shields while gradually falling back. [4] Those who distinguished themselves for valour were, on the king's side, the Macedonians, who repulsed the first Roman legion and the Latins arrayed with it; and, on the Roman side, those who constituted the second legion and were opposed to the Molossians, Thesprotians and Chaonians. When the king had ordered the elephants seem to be led up to the part of the line that was in difficulties, the Romans mounted on the pole-bearing waggons, upon learning of the approach of the beasts, drove to meet them. [5] At first they checked the onrush of the beasts, smiting them with their engines and turning the fire-bearing grapnels into their eyes. Then, when the men stationed in their towers no longer drove the beasts forward, but hurled their spears down from above, and the light-armed troops cut through the wattled screens surrounding the waggons and hamstrung the oxen, the men at the machines, leaping down from their cars, fled for refuge to the nearest infantry and caused great confusion among them. [6] The Lucanians and Bruttians arrayed in the middle of the king's battle-line, after fighting for no great while, turned to flight when repulsed by the fourth Roman legion. When once these gave way and their part of the line was broken through, the Tarentines also, who had their station next to them, did not remain, but they too turned their backs to the enemy and fled.

[3.1] When King Pyrrhus learned that the Lucanians, Bruttians and Tarentines were in headlong flight and that their part of the line was disrupted, he turned a part of the squadron that was with him over to other commanders, and from the right wing sent other horsemen, as many as he thought would be sufficient, as reinforcements to those who were being pursued by the Romans. But during the time that this was going on, there was a manifest intervention of the divine power on the side of the Romans. [2] Some of the Daunians, it seems, from the city of Argyrippa, which they now call Arpi, four thousand foot and some four hundred horse who had been sent to the assistance of the consuls, arrived near the royal camp while proceeding by mere chance along the road that led in the enemy's rear, and saw the plain full of men. After stopping there a short while and indulging in all manner of speculations, they decided not to descend from the heights and take part in the battle, since they did not know either where there was a friendly force or where a hostile one, nor could conjecture in what place they should take their stand in order to render some aid to their allies; and they thought it would be best to surround and destroy the enemy's camp, since not only would they themselves get much fine booty if they should capture the baggage, but they would also cause much confusion to their enemies if these should see their camp suddenly ablaze. (The scene of the battle was not more than twenty stades distant.) [3] Having come to this decision and having learned from some prisoners, who had been captured when they had gone out to gather wood, that only a very few were guarding the camp, they attacked them from all sides. Pyrrhus, learning of this through the report of a cavalryman who, when the siege of the camp began, drove his horse through the enemy's lines, and applying the spurs, was soon at hand, decided to keep the rest of his forces in the plain and not to recall or disturb the phalanx, but sent the elephants and the boldest of the horse, carefully selected, as reinforcements for the camp. [4] But while these were still on the way, the camp was suddenly taken and set on fire.

Those who had accomplished this feat, upon learning that the troops sent by the king were coming down from the heights against them, fled to the summit of a hill which could not easily be ascended by either the beasts or the horses. [5] The king's troops, having arrived too late to be of assistance, turned against the Romans of the third and fourth legions, who had advanced far ahead of the others after routing the foes who faced them. But the Romans, becoming aware in advance of their approach, ran up to a lofty and thickly-wooded spot and arrayed themselves in battle order. [6] The elephants, accordingly, being unable to ascend the height, caused them no harm, nor did the squadrons of horse; but the bowmen and slingers, hurling their missiles from all sides, wounded and destroyed many of them. When the commanders became aware of what was going on there, Pyrrhus sent, from his line of infantry, the Athamanians and Acarnanians and some of the Samnites, while the Roman consul sent some squadrons of horse, since the foot needed such assistance. And at this same time a fresh battle took place there between the foot and horse and there was still greater slaughter.

[7] Following the king's lead, the Roman consuls also recalled their troops when it was near sunset, and taking them across the river led them back to their camp as darkness was already coming on. The forces of Pyrrhus, having lost their tents, pack-animals and slaves, and all their baggage, encamped upon a height, where they spent the following night under the open sky, without either baggage or attendance and not well supplied with even the necessary food, so that many wounded men actually perished, when they might still have been saved had they received assistance and care. Such was the outcome of the second battle between the Romans and Pyrrhus, near the town of Asculum.

[4.1] Rhegium suffered a calamity similar to that which had befallen Messina in Sicily, a calamity that illustrates the need of great precaution and forethought on the part of all cities. But it is necessary to state first the causes and excuses for the evils that befell this city. [2] When the Lucanians and Bruttians, having set out with numerous forces against Thurii, had ravaged its territory and were besieging the city after surrounding it with a palisade, and a force of Romans under the command of Fabricius the consul had been sent against them, the Rhegians, fearing that the barbarians would send an army against them also upon the departure of the Romans, and being suspicious of the city of Tarentum, begged Fabricius to leave a force in the city to guard against the sudden raids of the barbarians, and also in case there should be any unexpected hostile plot on the part of the Tarentines. And they received eight hundred Campanians and four hundred Sidicini, all under the command of Decius, a Campanian by birth. [3] This man, whenever he was lodged in the houses of the most prominent of the inhabitants, was entertained at splendid banquets in accordance with the hospitality due to guest; and when he beheld the splendid and costly appointments of many of the houses, he at first congratulated the Rhegians because of their prosperity, then envied them as being unworthy of it, and finally began to plot against them as enemies. [4] And taking as an accomplice of his secret designs his secretary, a crafty man and a deviser of every kind of mischief, he was advised by him to slay all the Rhegians and to seize their wealth, partly for himself and partly to distribute among his troops; for the man remarked that Messina had been taken in a similar fashion by the Mamertines a short time before. When he had been persuaded by them and had planned with him the manner of attack, he called to a council the tribunes and the most prominent soldiers; and after requesting them all to keep his remarks secret, he said that a grave danger overhung him, one that required very great and prompt precautions, since the occasion, he declared, did not permit of delay. For the most prominent Rhegians, he said, having learned of Pyrrhus' crossing, were secretly sending to him, promising to put the garrison to the sword and to hand over the city to him. [5] While he was still uttering these words, a man who had been suborned for the purpose appeared, covered with dust as if from a journey and bearing a letter, composed by Decius himself but purporting to be from a personal friend of his, in which it was revealed that the king was intending to send five hundred soldiers to Rhegium to take over the city, the inhabitants having promised to open their gates to them. [6] Some state that the bearer of the letter had been sent in earnest by Fabricius the consul, and that the letter contained the information which I have just given and urged Decius to forestall the Rhegians. Both reports are reasonable. These things he revealed to those who were present at the council; and as soon as it was night, the tribunes, having first told the other soldiers what they were intending to do, went to the houses of the Rhegians, and finding some of them still feasting and others asleep, they slew them at their own firesides, though the Rhegians entreated them and grovelled at their feet and demanded to know why they were thus treated; and they spared neither age nor rank. [7] After slaughtering the men they committed a still more outrageous crime: portioning out the wives and virgin daughters of their hosts, they forcibly lay with these women whose very fathers and husbands they had slain before their very eyes. [8] Decius from the commander of a garrison had thus become a tyrant of Rhegium; and reasoning that he would have to pay the penalty to the Romans for what he had done, he made an alliance with the Campanians who were in possession of Messina, the most powerful of the cities in Sicily, meanwhile keeping the city of Rhegium under strict guard.

[5.1] The senate, upon learning from those who had escaped destruction the calamity that had befallen the Rhegians, did not delay even for a moment, but sent out the general in the city at the head of another army which had just been enrolled. [2] Forestalling the arrival of the Romans, however, Divine Providence took vengeance upon Decius, the commander of the garrison, for his impious schemes by punishing in the most vital parts of his body, inflicting upon his eyes a malady that caused excruciating pains. In his anxiety to cure this malady he sent he says a physician from Messina, Dexicrates by name, learning by inquiry that he was the best of the physicians of the day, but unaware that he was a Rhegian by birth. This man, having come to Rhegium, anointed his eyes with a caustic remedy and bade him endure the pains until he himself should return; then, going down to the sea, he boarded the ferry-boat that had been got ready for him and, before anyone was aware of his action, sailed back to Messina. [3] For a time Decius, although suffering dreadful pains while his sight was being burned out, nevertheless endured it, while waiting for the physician; but when much time had passed and he was unable longer to endure the excruciating pains, he wiped off the ointment and, opening his eyes, realized that the orbs had been burned out, and from that time he continued to be blind. After holding out for a few days he fell into the hands of the Romans, having been arrested by his own men; [4] for some, believing this was the way to clear themselves, opened their city to the general and delivered up Decius in chains to Fabricius. The latter restored the city to the Rhegians who survived, and ordering the guards to leave everything where it was, he led them away carrying nothing but their arms; [5] then, choosing out the most prominent of their number, those whom the others declared to be accomplices in the nefarious plot, he brought them in chains to Rome. There, after being scourged with whips in the Forum, as was the established usage in the case of malefactors, the prisoners were put to death by having their heads cut off with an axe — all except Decius and the secretary, who, having outwitted their guards or having bribed them with money to permit them to escape an ignominious death, made away with themselves. So much on this subject.

[6.1] (19.2) Pyrrhus himself, having uttered the Homeric lines which Hector is represented by the poet as speaking to Ajax, as if they had been addressed by the Romans to himself,

I would not smite thee, then, who art so brave,

By stealth, but openly, if so I may.

and afterwards declaring that he had probably been wrong in planning his war against people who were more pious than the Greeks and more just, said he saw only one honourable and advantageous way of ending the war, and that was to make friends of them instead of enemies, beginning with some great act of kindness.

[2] (3) After ordering the Roman prisoners to be brought forward and giving to all of them raiment befitting free persons and expense money for the journey, he bade them remember how he had treated them and to tell all the others, and what they should come to their own cities, to strive with all zeal to make those cities friendly to him.

[3] A certain irresistible sight, indeed, has the gold of a king, and no defence has been found by mortals against this weapon.

[7.1] (19.4) Cleinias of Croton, when he was tyrant, took away from the cities their freedom after he had gathered together fugitives from every quarter and freed the slaves; and having strengthened his tyranny with their aid, he either slew or expelled from the city the most prominent of the Crotoniats. Anaxilas seized the acropolis of the Rhegians and, after holding it as long as he lived, handed down the rule to Leophron, his son. Others too, following their example, founded dynasties in the various cities and thus brought everything to ruin. [2] (5) But the final and worst mischief of all that came to any of the cities was the tyranny of Dionysius, who had mastered Sicily. For he crossed into Italy against the Rhegians at the summons of the Locrians, with whom the Rhegians were at odds; and when the Italiots united against him with large forces, he joined battle, slew many and took by storm two of their cities. [3] Then making another crossing later on, he removed the people of Hipponium from their native land, taking them to Sicily; and capturing Croton and Rhegium, he continued to lord it over those cities for twelve years. Then some, who stood in dread of the tyrant, entrusted themselves to the barbarians, while others, who were being warred upon by the barbarians, handed over their cities to the tyrant; and no matter at whose hands they were suffering, they were always wretched and discontented, so that, like a Euripus, they veered this way and that according to the fortunes that befell them.

[8.1] (19.6) Pyrrhus crossed for the second time into Italy, since matters were not going to his liking in Sicily, inasmuch as it had become evident to the chief cities that his leadership was not that of a king but of a despot. For after he had been brought into Syracuse by Sosistratus, the ruler of the city at that time, and by Thoenon, the commander of the garrison, and had received from them the money in the treasury and some two hundred bronze-beaked ships, and after he had brought under his power all Sicily with the exception of the city of Lilybaeum, the one city which the Carthaginians still held, he assumed the arrogance of a tyrant.

(7) For Pyrrhus took away the estates of Agathocles' relatives and friends from those who had received them at that ruler's hands and presented them to his own friends, and he assigned the chief magistracies in the cities to his own shield-bearers and captains, not in accordance with the local laws of each city nor for the customary period, but as was pleasing to him. [2] Lawsuits and controversies and all the other matters of civil administration he would in some cases decide himself and in other cases would refer them either for reversal or for determination to those who hung about the court, men who had an eye for nothing except making gains and squandering wealth in the pursuit of luxury. Because of all this he was burdensome to the cities which had received him and was hated by them. [3] (8) Perceiving that many people were already secretly hostile to him, he introduced garrisons into the cities, taking as an excuse the war threatening from the Carthaginians; and arresting the most prominent men in each city, he put them to death, falsely alleging that he had discovered plots and treasonable acts. Among these was Thoenon, the commander of the garrison, who was admitted by all to have shown the greatest ardour and zeal in aiding him to cross over and take possession of the island; for he had gone to meet him at the head of a naval squadron and had turned over to him the Island of Syracuse, of which he himself had the command. [4] When, however, Pyrrhus attempted to arrest Sosistratus also, he was disappointed; for the man had become aware of his intention and had fled from the city. Furthermore, when matters had begun to be unsettled, the city of Carthage also, believing it had found an opportunity suitable for the recovery of places it had lost, sent an army against the island.

[9.1] (19.9) Observing that Pyrrhus was embarrassed and was seeking funds from every possible source, the worst and most depraved of his friends, Euegorus, the son of Theodorus, Balacrus, the son of Nicander, and Deinarchus, the son of Nicias, followers of godless and accursed doctrines, suggested an impious source for the raising of funds, namely, to open up the sacred treasures of Persephonê. [2] For there was a holy temple in this city that contained much wealth, guarded and untouched from the earliest times; included in this there was an unfathomed quantity of gold, buried in the earth out of sight of the multitude. Pyrrhus, misled by these flatterers and because of his necessity that was stronger than any scruples, employed as his agents in the sacrilege the men who had made the proposal; and placing the gold plundered from the temple in ships, he sent it along with his other funds to Tarentum, having now become filled with great cheer.

[10] But a just Providence showed its power. For, though the ships, upon putting out from the harbour, found a land breeze and made progress, an adverse wind sprang up, and holding through the entire night, sank some of them, drove others into the Sicilian strait, and, in the case of those in which the offerings and the gold yielded by the offerings was being transported, drove them ashore on the beaches of Locri. The men on board the ships were submerged and perished in the backwash of the waves, and the sacred moneys, when the ships broke up, were cast ashore on the sand-banks nearest to Locri. [2] The king, terror-stricken, restored all the ornaments and treasures to the goddess, hoping thereby to appease her wrath;

The fool, nor wist that she would ne'er give ear:

For not so quickly do the deathless gods

as Homer has said. [3] Nay, since he had dared to lay hands on the sacred moneys and to pledge them as a war fund, the divinity brought his intention to naught, in order that he might serve as an example and lesson to all men who should come after him.

[10.1] (19.11) It was for this reason that Pyrrhus was defeated by the Romans also in a battle to the finish. For it was no mean or untrained army that he had, but the mightiest of those then in existence among the Greeks and one that had fought a great many wars; nor was it a small body of men that was then arrayed under him, but even three times as large as his adversary's, nor was its general any chance leader, but rather the man whom all admit to have been the greatest of all the generals who flourish at that same period; [2] nor was it any inequality in the position he occupied, nor the sudden arrival of reinforcements for the other side, nor any other mischance or unexpected excuse for failure that ruined the cause of Pyrrhus, but rather the wrath of the goddess whose sanctity had been violated, a wrath of which not even Pyrrhus himself was unaware, as Proxenus the historian relates and as Pyrrhus himself records in his own memoirs.

[11.1] (19.12) It was bound the happen, as might have been expected, that hoplites burdened with helmets, breastplates and shields and advancing against hilly positions by long trails that were not even used by people but were mere goat-paths through woods and crags, would keep no order and, even before the enemy came in sight, would be weakened in body by thirst and fatigue.

[2] Those who fight in close combat with cavalry spears grasped by the middle with both hands and who usually save the day in battles are called principes by the Romans.

[12.1] (19.13) During the night in which Pyrrhus was intending to lead his army against the hill to attack the Roman camp secretly it seemed to him in his dreams that most of his teeth fell out and a quantity of blood poured from his mouth. [2] Disturbed by this vision and divining that some great misfortune would ensue, since he had already on an earlier occasion beheld a similar vision in a dream and some dire disaster had followed, he wished to hold back that day, but was not strong enough to defeat fate; for his friends opposed the delay and demanded that he should not let the favourable opportunity slip from his grasp.

[3] (14) When Pyrrhus and those with him had ascended along with the elephants, and the Romans became aware of it, they wounded an elephant cub, which caused great confusion and flight among the Greeks. The Romans killed two elephants, and hemming eight others in a place that had no outlet, took them alive when the Indian mahouts surrendered them; and they wrought great slaughter among the soldiers.

[13.1] (20.1) The consul Fabricius, having become censor, expelled from the senatorial body a man who had been honoured with two consulships and one dictatorship, Publius Cornelius Rufinus, because he was believed to have been the first to be extravagant in supplying himself with silver goblets, having acquired ten pounds' weight of them; this is a little more than eight Attic minae.

[2] (2) The Athenians gained repute because they punished as harmful to the state the indolent and idle who followed no useful pursuits, and the Lacedaemonians because they permitted their oldest men to beat with their canes such of the citizens as were disorderly in any public place whatever; but for what took place in the homes they took no thought or precaution, holding that each man's house-door marked the boundary within which he was free to live as he pleased. [3] (3) But the Romans, throwing open every house and extending the authority of the censors even to the bed-chamber, made that office the overseer and guardian of everything that took place in the homes; for they believed that neither a master should be cruel in the punishments meted out to his slaves, nor a father unduly harsh or lenient in the training of his children, nor a husband unjust in his partnership with his lawfully-wedded wife, nor children disobedient toward their aged parents, nor should own brothers strive for more than their equal share, and they thought there should be no banquets and revels lasting all night long, no wantonness and corrupting of youthful comrades, no neglect of the ancestral honours of sacrifices and funerals, no any other of the things that are done contrary to propriety and the advantage of the state.

They plundered the possessions of the citizens on the ground that they were affecting the ways of a king.

[14.1] (20.4) Numerius Fabius Pictor, Quintus Fabius Maximus and Quintus Ogulnius, who had gone as ambassadors to Ptolemy Philadelphus, the second to rule Egypt after the Macedonian Alexander, and had been honoured by him with individual gifts, [2] upon returning to Rome not only reported all that they had accomplished during their absence, but also turned over to the public treasury the gifts which they had received from the king. But the senate, admiring the men for all their achievements, did not permit them to turn the royal gifts over to the state, but allowed them to take them back to their homes as rewards of merit and decorations for their descendants.

[15.1] (20.5) The Bruttians, after submitting willingly to the Romans, delivered up to them one-half of their mountainous district, called Sila, which is full of timber suitable for the building of houses and ships and every other kind of construction. For much fir grows there, towering to the sky, much black poplar, much pitch pine, beech, stone pine, wide-spreading oak, ash trees enriched by the streams flowing through their midst, and every other kind of tree with densely-intertwined branches that keep the mountain in shadow throughout the whole day.

[16.] (6) Of this timber, that which grows nearest the sea and rivers is felled at the root and taken down in full lengths to the nearest harbours, sufficient in quantity to serve all Italy for shipbuilding and the construction of houses. That which grows inland from the sea and remote from rivers is cut up in sections for the making of oars, poles and all kinds of domestic implements and equipment, and is carried out on men's shoulders. But the largest and most resinous part of the timber is made into pitch, furnishing the most fragrant and sweetest pitch known to us, the kind called Bruttian, from the farming out of which the Roman people receive large revenues every year.

[16.1] (20.7) There was a second uprising in Rhegium, on the part of the garrison of the Romans and allies which had been left there, and it resulted in the slaying and exile of many persons. To punish these rebels one of the consuls, Gaius Genucius, led out the army. After becoming master of the city, he restored their possessions to the keeping of the Rhegian exiles, and arresting those who had made the attack upon the city, he took them back in chains to Rome. The senate and the people were so enraged and indignant at them that no moderate sentiment was expressed concerning them, but by the vote of all the tribes sentence was passed against all the accused that they should die in the manner prescribed by the laws for malefactors. [2] (8) When the decree concerning their punishment had been ratified, stakes were fixed in the Forum and the men, being brought forward three hundred at one time, were bound naked to the stakes, with their elbows bent behind them. Then, after they had been scourged with whips in the sight of all, the back tendons of their necks were cut with an axe. After them another three hundred were destroyed, and then other groups of like size, a total of forty-five hundred in all. And they did not even receive burial, but were dragged out of the Forum into an open space before the city, where they were torn asunder by birds and dogs.

[17.1] (20.9) The multitude of the needy, who had no thought for what was honourable and just, flocked together, misled by a certain Samnite. And at first they led a life of hardship in the open upon the mountains; but when at length they seemed to have become more numerous and to be adequate for battle, they seized a strong city and with that as their base plundered all the country round about. [2] Against these men the consuls led forth an army, and having without much difficulty taken their city, they scourged with rods and put to death the authors of the revolt and sold the rest as booty. It chanced that the land had been sold the previous year along with the other conquests of the spear, and the money realized from its price had been divided among the citizens.

PREFACE

It is a happy instinct that leads Pope to find in Dionysius a gifted interpreter of Homer's poetry, who can 'call new beauties forth from every line.' In his entire attitude, not only towards Homer but towards Sappho and Simonides, Herodotus and Demosthenes, Dionysius has proved that he can rise above the debased standards of the ages immediately preceding his own, and can discern and proclaim a classic excellence. He has thus contributed not a little to confirm our belief in the essential continuity of critical principles — in the existence of a firm and permanent basis for the judgments of taste.

The breadth of interest and the discriminating enthusiasm with which in the present treatise Dionysius of Halicarnassus (or 'Denis of Halicarnasse', as we might prefer to call him) approaches his special subject of literary composition, or word-order, may be inferred from the table of contents, the detailed summary, and the brief statement on page 10 of the Introduction. It is an interest which impels him to touch, incidentally but most suggestively, on such topics as Greek Pronunciation, Accent, Music. It is an enthusiasm which prompts him to speak of 'words soft as a maiden's cheek' (ὀνόματα μαλακὰ καὶ παρθενωπά), to describe Homer as 'of all poets the most many-voiced' (πολυφωνότατος πάντων τῶν ποιητῶν), and to attribute to Thucydides 'an old-world and masterful nobility of style' (ἀρχαϊκὸν τι καὶ αὐθαδὲς κάλλος). Expressions so apt and vivid as these, together with the easy flow and natural arrangement of the whole treatise, tend to prove that Dionysius is not laboriously compiling his matter as he goes along, but is writing out of a full mind, is dealing with a subject which has long occupied his thoughts, and is imparting one section only of a large and well-ordered body of critical doctrine in the command of which he feels secure.

*That to the Greeks literature was an art — that with them, the sound was echo to the sense — that they were keenly alive to all the magic and music of beautiful speech: where shall we find these truths more vividly brought out than in the present treatise? And if we are still to teach the great Greek authors in the original language and not in translations, surely it is of supreme importance to lay stress on points of artistic form, most especially in a literature where form and substance are so indissolubly allied as in that of Greece and when we are fortunate enough to have the aid of a writer who knows so well as does Dionysius (see page 41) that noble style is but the reflection of those noble thoughts and feelings which should inspire a nation's life. Nevertheless, the de Compositione lies almost dead and forgotten, seldom mentioned and still more seldom read; and one is sometimes tempted to think of the eager curiosity with which it would most certainly be welcomed had it lately been discovered in the sands of Egypt or in some buried house at Herculaneum. A new ode of Sappho, and a 'precious tender-hearted scroll of pure Simonides,' would rejoice the man of letters, while the philologist would revel in the stray hints upon Greek pronunciation. So striking an addition to* the Greek criticism of Greek literature would be hailed with acclamation, and it would be gladly acknowledged that its skilful author had known how to enliven a difficult subject by means of eloquence, enthusiasm, humour, variety in vocabulary and in method of presentation generally, and had made his readers realize that the beauty of a verse or of a prose period largely depends upon the harmonious collocation of those sounds of which human speech primarily consists.

A word may be said upon some of the modern bearings of the treatise. Dionysius is undoubtedly right in holding that consummate poets are consummate craftsmen — that even so early a poet as Homer φιλοτεχνεῖ. Our British habit of thought leads us to dwell on the spontaneity of literary achievement rather than on its artistic finish. We are apt to sneer, as some degenerate Greeks did in Dionysius' time (pages 262-270), at the contention that even genius cannot dispense with literary pains, and to insist in a one-sided way on the axiom that where genius begins rules end. But a reference to the greatest names in our own literature will confirm the view that the highest excellence must be preceded by study and practice, however eminent the natural gifts of an author may be. Would any one hesitate to say whether Paradise Lost or Lycidas is the more mature example of Miltonic poetry? Shakespeare, with his creative genius and all-embracing humanity, may seem to soar far above these so-called artificial trammels. But, here again, could any one doubt, on grounds of style alone, whether Hamlet or The Two Gentlemen of Verona was the earlier play? To be able fully to appreciate such differences is no small result of a literary education; and though the rhetoric of each language is in a large degree special to that language, it is notwithstanding true that our western literatures are closely interrelated — that they should continually be compared and contrasted — and that modern literary theory can gain much in stimulus and suggestion from that ancient literary theory which had its origin in Greece, and which by way of Rome (where Dionysius taught Greek literature in the age of Horace) was transmitted to the modern world.

In the present edition an endeavour has been made to suggest some of the many points at which Dionysius' principles and precepts are applicable to the modern languages and literatures. Efforts, too, have been made to smooth away, by means of the Glossary and the English Translation, those technical difficulties which might easily deter even the advanced Greek student (not to mention the wider of cultivated readers generally) from seeking in the de Compositione that literary help which it is so well able to give. The edition has been many years in preparation; and special pains have been taken with the English Translation, as it is the first to be published and as its execution presents great and obvious difficulties. The Glossary will show how rich and varied is Dionysius' rhetorical terminology, and it may also serve as a contribution towards that new Lexicon of Greek and Roman Rhetoric which is a pressing need. It seems not unnatural to treat thus fully a work of which no annotated edition in any language has appeared for a hundred years. For the constitution of the Greek text, on the other hand, the recent critical edition of Dionysius' literary essays by Usener and Radermacher is of the highest importance. The present editor desires here to acknowledge the debt he owes to their admirable apparatus criticus, the exhaustiveness of which he has not attempted to equal, though he has thought it desirable to report (with their aid) a good many seemingly insignificant errors or variants which may serve to throw some light on the comparative value of the chief documentary authorities. He may add that he has himself collated, for the purposes of the present recension, the best Paris manuscript (P 1741, which contains Aristotle's Rhetoric and Poetics, Demetrius de Elocutione, Dionysius de Compositione Verborum and Ep. ii. ad Amm., etc.), and that he has explained on pages 56-60 his views with regard to some of the textual problems presented by the treatise.

It is a pleasure further to acknowledge the ever ready aid he has received from his personal friends — from Dr. A. S. Way, who has not only contributed the verse-translations throughout the treatise but has given help of unusual range and worth in other directions also, and from Mr. L. H. G. Greenwood, Mr. G. B. Mathews, Mr. P. N. Ure, and Professor T. Hudson Williams, who have read the proofs and made most valuable suggestions. Nor should the great care shown in the printing of the book by Messrs. R. & R. Clark's able staff of compositors and readers be passed over without a word of grateful mention.

It may perhaps not be out of place to state in conclusion that the editor hopes next to publish, in continuation of this series of contributions to the study of the Greek literary critics, a number of essays and dissertations grouped round the Rhetoric of Aristotle. The Rhetoric is a remarkable product of its great author's maturity, in reading which constant reference should be made to Aristotle's other works, to the writings of his predecessors, and to those later Greek and Roman critics who illustrate it in so many ways. Studies of the kind indicated ought to contain much of modern and permanent interest. Not long ago a distinguished man of science wrote, 'one literary art, the art of rhetoric, may be weakened and lost when the scientific spirit becomes predominant — that sort of rhetoric, I mean, which may be fitly described as insincere eloquence. Rhetoric seeks above all to persuade, and in a completely scientific age men will only allow themselves to be persuaded by force of reason.' The writer seems to recognize that there may be a good as well as a bad rhetoric, but perhaps it hardly falls within his scope to make it clear that the Greeks, from whom the art and the term come, were themselves well aware of this fact, even though the age in which they lived might not be completely scientific. The vicious type of rhetoric which he justly censures is exemplified in the Rhetorica ad Alexandrum. In this book — for whose date the antiquity of a recently-discovered manuscript (published in the Hibeh Papyri i.114 ff.) suggests the age of Aristotle, though Aristotle himself is certainly not the author — the aim of rhetoric is assumed to be persuasion at any price. But how different is the spirit of Plato in the Phaedrus and the Gorgias, and of Aristotle in the Rhetoric. To take Aristotle only. He looks at rhetoric with the sincerity of a lover of truth and with the breadth of a lover of wisdom. He recognizes that the art may be abused; but 'so may all good things except virtue itself, and particularly the most useful things, such as strength, health, wealth, generalship.' Its function is 'not to persuade, but to ascertain in any given case the available means of persuasion.' Mental self-defence is a duty no less than physical self-defence; but though it is necessary to know bad arguments in order to be ready to parry them, we must not use them ourselves (for 'one must not be the advocate of evil'), nor must we try to warp the feelings of the judge (for this would be like 'making crooked a carpenter's rule which you are about to use'). Reason must be our weapon, and we must have confidence that the truth will prevail (for 'truth and justice are by nature stronger than their opposites' and 'what is true and better is by nature the easier to prove and the more convincing'). The whole work is conceived in the same spirit — that of attention to truth rather than to mere persuasion, to matter rather than to manner, to the solid facts of human nature rather than to the shallow blandishments of style. The author of the most scientific treatise that has yet been written on rhetoric manifestly held a lofty view of his subject; and so far from commending an insincere eloquence, he says less than we could wish about literary beauties and the arts of style. Here Dionysius, in his various critical works, happily serves to supplement him. Though he has the art of speaking specially in view, Dionysius draws his literary illustrations from so wide a field that the art of literature may be regarded as his theme. The method he inculcates is that which every literary aspirant follows, consciously or unconsciously, in regard to his own language — the reading and imitation of the great writers by whom its capacities have been enlarged. To us, no less than to his Roman pupil Rufus, the practice and the precepts of those Greeks who attained an unsurpassed excellence in the art of literature have an enduring interest. For they help the fruitful study of our own literature; and that literature, we all rejoice to think, has not only a great past behind it but a great future in store for it.

INTRODUCTION

I

Summary of the de Compositione

A general account of the life and literary activities of Dionysius will be found in the volume entitled Dionysius of Halicarnassus: the Three Literary Letters, where the de Compositione Verborum is briefly described in connexion with the other critical essays of its author. Here a fuller summary of the treatise seems necessary before an attempt is made to estimate its value and to follow up some of the highly interesting questions which it raises.

The date of the de Compositione is not known, but may be conjectured to lie between the years 20 and 10 B.C. The book is a birthday offering from Dionysius, as a teacher of rhetoric in Rome, to his pupil Rufus Metilius.

c. 1. This book is a birthday present which deals with the art of speech, and so will be found particularly useful to youths who look forward to a public career. Oratorical excellence depends on skill exercised in two directions — in the sphere of subject matter and in the sphere of expression (πραγματικὸς τύπος and λεκτικὸς τύπος). In the former sphere, maturity of judgment and experience is required: in the latter the young are more at home, but they need careful guidance at the start. The λεκτικὸς τύπος has two subdivisions, ἐκλογή ὀνομάτων and σύνθεσις ὀνομάτων. The composition of words is to be treated now: the choice of words is to be treated next year, if Heaven keeps the author “safe and sound.” The chief headings in the present treatise are to be the following: —

- (1) The nature of composition, and its effect;
- (2) Its aims, and how it attains them;
- (3) Its varieties, with their characteristic features and the author’s preferences among them;
- (4) The poetical element in prose and the prose element in verse, and the means of cultivating both — of imparting the flavour of poetry to prose and the ease of prose to poetry.

c. 2. “Composition is, as the very name indicates, a certain mutual arrangement of the parts of speech, or elements of diction, as some prefer to call them.” The parts of speech recognized by Theodectes and Aristotle and their contemporaries were three in number, viz. nouns, verbs, and connectives. The number was raised, by the Stoics and others, to four through the separation of the article from the connectives. Later were added the adjective, the pronoun, the adverb, the preposition, the participle, and certain other subdivisions. These principal parts of speech form, when joined and set side by side, the cola (‘members,’ ‘clauses’). The union of cola completes the “periods,” and these make up the entire discourse. The functions of composition are to arrange the words fittingly, to assign the proper structure to the cola, and to divide the discourse carefully into periods.

In its effects, though not in order of time, the composition of words comes before the choice of words.

c. 3. Our thoughts are uttered either in verse or in prose. In both alike, composition can invest the lowliest words with charm and distinction. By way of foretaste, two passages (one of poetry, the other of prose) may be quoted in illustration. The first is from the opening of the 16th Odyssey, where the lines allure not by elaborate language or lofty theme, but by the sheer beauty with which the words are grouped. The prose example is furnished by that passage of Herodotus (i. 8-10) which describes the unworthy behaviour of Candaules towards his wife. Here, too, the charm resides not in the incident nor in the words which describe it, but in the deft arrangement of the language.

c. 4. The powerful effect of composition will be still further realized if some choice passages of verse and prose be taken and the order of the words disturbed. Homer and Herodotus once more provide examples. Certain lines in the twelfth and thirteenth books of the Iliad are chosen, and transformed, with disastrous effects, from hexameters into two varieties of tetrameters. A short passage of Herodotus is turned about in a similar way, one of the two versions being in the style of Thucydides, the other in the odious manner of Hegesias. Composition may in fact be likened to the Homeric Athena, who with a touch of her magic wand could make the same Odysseus resemble either a beggar or a gallant prince. The neglect of composition has lamentable results in writers like Duris, Polybius, Chrysippus, and others. Failing to find the subject satisfactorily treated by previous authors, Dionysius has himself endeavoured to discover some natural principle to form a starting-point (φυσικὴ ἀφορμή). He has not succeeded, but he will describe his attempt.

c. 5. It had occurred to him that, in a natural order, verbs would follow nouns and precede adverbs, while things which happened first in time would come first in narration. But these (and other) rules were seen to be untrustworthy, when tested by the actual practice of the great authors.

c. 6. As far as words (or elements of discourse) are concerned, the art of composition operates in three ways — through (1) the choice of elements likely to combine effectively; (2) the discernment of the particular shapes or constructions (i.e. singular or plural number, nominative or oblique case, active or passive voice, etc.) to be given to each element in order that the structure may be improved; (3) the perception of the modification which these shapes need in view of the materials. Each of the processes can be illustrated from the arts of house-building and ship-building — of civil and marine architecture. This analogy is developed at some length.

c. 7. In the case of the cola, the processes are two. (1) The cola must be rightly arranged. For instance, in a passage of Thucydides (iii. 57) the order in which they come makes all the difference. So, too, in Demosthenes de Corona § 119.

c. 8. (2) The right “turn,” or “shaping,” must be given to the cola, so that they may faithfully reflect the various aims and moods of the speaker or writer. A good example will be found in Demosthenes de Corona § 179.

c. 9. Under (2) it is to be noted that the cola may be lengthened or shortened for the sake of literary effect. Examples are given from Demosthenes, Plato, Sophocles, and again Demosthenes. — The same remarks will apply to periods as to cola. Further, the art of composition must determine when it is fitting to employ periods and when not.

c. 10. Next come the aims and methods of good composition. The two chief aims are charm and beauty or nobility: the ear craves these in composition, just as the eye in a work of pictorial art. The two qualities are, however, not identical. Thucydides, for example, and Antiphon possess beauty but lack charm. Ctesias, on the other hand, and Xenophon are charming (pleasing, agreeable), but deficient in beauty. Herodotus combines the two excellences.

c. 11. The chief sources of charm and beauty (or nobility) are four: music, rhythm, variety, and propriety. Charm and beauty, themselves, have many subdivisions. The instinctive appreciation of music and rhythm on the part of a popular audience may be noticed during a performance in some house of entertainment. Variety, too, and propriety are indispensable. As to the music of speech, it is to be observed that there is a sort of oratorical cadence which differs from music proper in quantity only, not in quality. The speaking voice does not rise in pitch above three tones and a half: it confines itself to the interval of the Fifth. The singing voice, on the other hand, uses a greater number of intervals, not only the Fifth but (beginning with the Octave) the Fifth, the Fourth, the Tone, and the Semitone, and, as some think, still slighter intervals. Other points of difference are that, in singing, the words are subordinate to the air, and the length of the syllables is regulated by the musical time. So the speaking voice can show good melody without being “melodic,” and show good rhythms without being “rhythmic.” There is, in fact, music in speech, but not the whole of music.

c. 12. Various sounds affect the ear in various ways. The cause lies in the nature of the letters; and as their nature cannot be changed, there should be a judicious intermixture of pleasant with unpleasant sounds. Short words, too, must be mingled with long, and long with short. The same variety, too, must be practised in the use of figures, and in other ways. But even variety must not be carried to excess: uniformity is sometimes equally pleasant. Tact is needed, and to impart tact is no easy task. It is to be remembered that not even the commonest words need be shunned by good writers: they can all be dignified by means of composition, as is seen in Homer’s poems.

c. 13. Beauty of composition will be attained by the same means as charm of composition, — by melody, rhythm, variety, propriety. And the nature of the letters themselves will play an equal part in determining the character of the composition.

c. 14. The twenty-four letters of the Greek alphabet are now examined from the phonetic point of view. The object is to trace to some of its ultimate elements the secret of the variety and music found in beautiful language. The nature and the qualities of the letters must be understood by the writer who would know how to vary his style in an ever-changing and musical way. The letters (γράμματα), or elements (στοιχεῖα), may be divided into vowels (φωνήεντα, φωναί) and consonants (ψόφοι), and the consonants into semivowels (ῥιμίφωνα) and mutes (ἄφωνα). The vowels can be pronounced by themselves; the semivowels sound best when combined with vowels; the mutes cannot be uttered at all except in combination. There are seven vowels: two short, ε and ο; two long, η and ω; and three common, — α, ι, and υ. The semivowels are eight in number: five single, viz. λ, μ, ν, ρ, ζ, and three double, viz. ζ, ξ, ψ. The nine mutes may be classified as: ψιλὰ (tenues) κ, π, τ; δασέα (aspiratae) χ, φ, θ; and μέσα (mediae) γ, β, δ. Or they may be arranged according to the part chiefly concerned in their production: whether it is the lip, — π, φ, β; the teeth, — τ, θ, δ; or the throat, — κ, χ, γ. That is to say, Dionysius recognizes (though he does not use the technical adjectives) a division into labials, dentals, and gutturals. Among these various letters a regular hierarchy is established by him. Long vowels are held to be more euphonious than short vowels. The order of euphony for the vowels is, from the top downwards, as follows: ᾱ, η, ω, υ, ι, ο, ε; and (for the semivowels) first the double consonants, then λ, μ, ν, ρ, and lastly ζ, which is condemned in strong terms. Among the mutes, the rough (the aspirates) are regarded as superior to the middle, and the middle to the smooth. The physiological processes by which the several letters are produced are described with some particularity in the light of the phonetics of the day.

c. 15. Syllables, as well as letters considered singly, contribute to variety of style. Of the syllables (or small groups of letters) there are many different kinds. The principal difference is that some are short and others long. But the difference does not end there, since some are shorter than the short and others longer than the long. The fact is that, from the metrical point of view, the vowels and final consonants alone count in determining the length of a syllable, whereas in actual delivery the initial consonants also have to be considered. For instance, a speaker will find that the initial syllable of στροφή takes more time to utter than that of τρόπος; and so with τρόπος by the side of Πρόδος, and with Πρόδος by the side of ὁδός. In the same way, σπήν is really longer than the vowel η standing by itself. And further: syllables differ not only in quantity but in sound, some being pleasant and others unpleasant, according to the nature of the letters which compose them. Great poets and prose-writers have an instinctive perception of these facts, and skilfully adapt their very syllables and letters to the emotions which they wish to portray; e.g. Homer in Odyss. ix. 415, 416, and in Il. xvii. 265, xxii. 220, 221, 476, xviii. 225.

c. 16. Poets and prose-writers frame, or borrow from their predecessors in earlier generations, such imitative forms (words whose sound suggests their sense) as ῥοχθεῖ, κλάγξας, βρέμεται, σμαραγεῖ, ῥοῖζος: all of which are found in Homer. Nature is here the great teacher; she prompts us to use, in their right connexion, words so expressive as μύκημα, χρεμετισμός, φριμαγμός, βρόμος, πάταγος, συριγμός, and the like. The first writer to broach the subject of etymology was Plato, particularly in his Cratylus.

With regard to the music of sounds, the general conclusion is that variety and beauty of style depend upon variety and beauty of words, syllables, and letters. To clinch the matter, Dionysius quotes (with appropriate comments) further illustrations from Homer — Odyssey xvii. 36, 37, vi. 162, 163, etc. Theophrastus, in his work on Style, has distinguished two classes of words — those which are beautiful (or noble) and those which are mean and paltry. Our aim should be to intermingle the latter kind, when we are forced to employ them (as sometimes we are), with the better sort, as has been done by Homer (Il. ii. 494-501) in his enumeration of the Boeotian towns.

c. 17. Rhythm, also, is an important element in good composition. For our present purpose, a rhythm and a foot may be regarded as synonymous. Of disyllabic and trisyllabic feet the following descriptive list is given: —

A. Disyllabic Feet.

Name.	Quantities.	Qualities.
1. ἡγεμών, πυρρήχιος.	υ υ	Wanting in seriousness and dignity.
2. σπονδεῖος.	— —	Full of dignity.
3. ἱαμβος.	υ —	Not lacking in nobility.
4. τροχαῖος.	— υ	Less manly and noble than the iambus.

B. Trisyllabic Feet

Name.	Quantities.	Qualities.
1. χορεῖος, τρίβραχυσ.	υ υ υ	Mean and unimpressive.
2. μολοττός.	— — —	Dignified and far-striding.
3. ἀμφίβραχυσ.	υ — υ	Effeminate and unattractive.
4. ἀνάπαιστος.	υ υ —	Stately.
5. δάκτυλος.	— υ υ	Contributes greatly to beauty of style.
6. κρητικός.	— υ —	Not lacking in nobility.
7. βακχεῖος.	— — υ	Virile and grave.
8. ὑποβακχεῖος.	υ — —	Virile and grave.

Various lines are quoted from the poets in order to illustrate the effect of

c. 18. As each word has a rhythmical value (great or small) which cannot be changed, all depends on the skill with which we arrange the words at our disposal so as to blend artistically the inferior with the better. To illustrate his meaning, Dionysius quotes, and gives a rhythmical analysis of, passages from Thucydides, Plato, and Demosthenes. The excerpt from Thucydides is a part of the Funeral Oration attributed to Pericles (ii. 35). The rhythms here used are shown to be dignified ones, such as spondees, anapaests, dactyls, etc. Thucydides, we are told, deservedly has a name for elevation and for choice language, since he habitually introduces noble rhythms. From Plato is taken a short passage of the Menexenus (236 D); and this too is shown to owe its dignity and beauty to the beautiful and striking rhythms that compose it. If Plato had only been as clever in the choice of words as he is unrivalled in the art of combining them, he “had even outstript” Demosthenes, as far as beauty of style is concerned, or “had left the issue in doubt.” Demosthenes is the foremost of orators, and may be regarded as a model alike in his choice of words and in the beauty with which he arranges them. The opening of the Crown, with its careful avoidance of all ignoble rhythms, will prove his pre-eminence. Deficiency in this respect can be illustrated just as conspicuously by the writings of Hegesias, who would seem to have shunned good rhythms out of sheer wilfulness. A passage is quoted from Hegesias’ History — a passage which, if well written, would have moved to sympathetic tears rather than to derisive laughter. With it are contrasted some famous lines of the Iliad (xxii. 395-411) which, we are told, owe their nobility largely to the beauty of their rhythms.

c. 19. The third element in good composition is variety (ἡ μεταβολή). In the use of rhythms to impart variety, prose enjoys much greater freedom than poetry. Epic poets must needs employ the hexameter line: the writers of lyric verse must make antistrophe correspond to strophe, however greatly they may strive for liberty in other respects. That prose style is best which exhibits the greatest variety in the way of periods, clauses, rhythms, figures, and the like; and its charm is all the greater if the art that fashions it lies hidden. In point of variety, Herodotus, Plato and Demosthenes hold the foremost place: Isocrates and his followers are distinguished rather by monotony of style.

c. 20. The fourth element is fitness or propriety (τὸ πρέπον). Propriety is described as the harmony which an author establishes between his style, and the actions and persons of which he treats. Common experience proves that ordinary people, in describing an event, will vary the order of their words (and the point here is the arrangement, not the choice of words) in accordance with the emotions which it excites in them. Similarly, artistic writers should follow their own aesthetic instincts in the matter. Homer has done so with surpassing effect. A fine instance is furnished by the lines (Odyssey xi. 593-598) which depict the torment of Sisyphus — the slow upheaval of his rock, and its rapid rolling down the hill once it has reached the top.

c. 21. After these theoretical and technical discussions there arises the question: what are the different kinds of composition or arrangement, — what are the different harmonies? The answer given is that there are three: (1) the austere (αὐστηρά), (2) the smooth (γλαφυρά), (3) the harmoniously blended (εὐκράτος) or intermediate (κοινή).

c. 22. The characteristic features of austere composition are set forth in considerable detail: both generally and in reference to words, clauses, periods. Among its principal representatives are mentioned: Antimachus of Colophon and Empedocles in epic poetry, Pindar in lyric, Aeschylus in tragic; in history, Thucydides; in oratory, Antiphon. The beginning of a Pindaric dithyramb and the opening sentences of the introduction to Thucydides' History are minutely examined from this point of view. [Any attempt to summarize fully this chapter and those which follow is hardly possible owing to the nature of the subject matter. The chapters are important, and will repay a careful study.]

c. 23. Smooth composition is next characterized in a similar way. Its chief representatives may be taken to be: Hesiod, Sappho, Anacreon, Simonides, Euripides, Ephorus, Theopompus, Isocrates. In illustration are quoted (with sundry comments) Sappho's Hymn to Aphrodite and the introductory passage from Isocrates' Areopagiticus.

c. 24. "The third, the mean of the two kinds already mentioned, which I call harmoniously blended (or intermediate) for lack of a proper and better name, has no form peculiar to itself, but is a judicious blend of the other two and a selection from the most effective features of each." This third is the best variety of composition because it is a kind of golden mean; and its highest representative is Homer, in whom we find a union of the severe and the polished forms of arrangement. On a lower plane are other votaries of the golden mean: among lyric poets Stesichorus and Alcaeus, among tragedians Sophocles, among historians Herodotus, among orators Demosthenes, and among philosophers Democritus, Plato and Aristotle. Illustrative examples are, in this case, unnecessary.

c. 25. These discussions lead up to a final question, — that of the relations between prose and poetry. And first: in what way can prose be made to resemble a beautiful poem or lyric? It is in metre, even more than in the choice of words, that poetry differs from prose. Consequently prose cannot become like metrical and lyrical writing, unless it contains, though not obtrusively, metres and rhythms within it. It must not be manifestly in metre or in rhythm (for in that case it will be a poem or a lyric and will desert its own specific character), but it is enough that it should simply appear rhythmical and metrical. It will thus be poetical, although not a poem; lyrical, although not a lyric. Passages are then taken from the opening of the Aristocrates and the Crown of Demosthenes and are subjected to a minute metrical analysis. The result of the scrutiny is (it is claimed) to show that many metrical lines are latent in good prose, the author having taken care to disguise slightly their metrical character. In an eloquent passage Dionysius then submits that the great end in view warranted all these anxious pains on the part of Demosthenes. Demosthenes was no mere peddler, but a consummate artist who had the judgment of posterity always before his mind. Isocrates, also, and Plato spent no less trouble on their writings, as witness the story about the opening passage of the Republic. It is, further, to be noticed that such careful processes, though deliberate at first, become in the end unconscious and almost instinctive, just as accomplished musicians do not think of every note they strike on their instrument, nor skilled readers of every single letter which meets their eyes in the book that lies open before them.

c. 26. Secondly (and lastly) comes a question which is the counterpart of that asked in c. 25: namely, in what way can a poem or lyric be made to resemble beautiful prose? The two principal means are: (1) so to arrange the clauses that they do not invariably begin and end together with the lines; (2) to vary the clauses and periods in length and form. These things are more difficult to do where the metre is uniform, as in heroic and iambic verse. In lyric poems the task is easier, since the variety of their metres brings them a point nearer to prose. At the same time, while avoiding monotony and while generally causing his verse to resemble beautiful prose, the poet must remember that the so-called "prosaic character" is a defect. We are, however, here thinking not of vulgar prose but of the highest civil oratory. In order to show that, in poetry, clauses can be of different sorts and sizes, and can also be so far independent of the metre as almost to give the effect of an unbroken prose-narrative, Dionysius draws some concluding illustrations from the 14th Odyssey, the Telephus of Euripides, and the Danaë of Simonides.

The following Tabular Analysis may help to make the general structure of the treatise still clearer: —

I. Chapters 1-5. Introductory. The nature of composition, and its effect. — Instances of the fatal neglect of composition. — The secret of composition not to be found in grammatical rules.

II. Chapters 6-20. General Theory and Technique of Composition: —

1. cc. 6-9:

- (α) Three processes in the art of composition, c. 6.
- (β) Grouping of clauses, c. 7.
- (γ) Shaping of clauses, c. 8.
- (δ) Lengthening and shortening of clauses and periods, c. 9.

2. cc. 10-20: Charm and beauty of composition, and the four means of attaining these qualities: —

- (α) Preliminary remarks, cc. 10-13.
- (β) Four means:
 - (1) μέλος, cc. 14-16.
 - (2) ῥυθμός, cc. 17, 18.
 - (3) μεταβολή, c. 19.

(4) τὸ πρῆπον, c. 20.

III. Chapters 21-24. Three Modes of Composition: —

- (1) σύνθεσις αὐστηρά, c. 22.
- (2) σύνθεσις γλαφυρά, c. 23.
- (3) σύνθεσις εὐκράτος (or κοινή), c. 24.

IV. Chapters 25, 26. Relation of Prose to Poetry, and of Poetry to Prose.

Note. — The existing division into chapters is not always a happy one. As a help to the reader, a few words of summary have been prefixed to each chapter of the English Translation.

The Greek Epitome is about one-third the length of the original. It is of early but uncertain date (cp. Usener de Dionysii Halicarnassensis Libris Manuscriptis p. viii, n. 7), and is preserved in the following codices: Darmstadiensis, Monacensis, Rehdigeranus, Vaticanus Urbinas. It has survived along with the original; and instead of superseding and extinguishing the unabridged work, as ancient epitomes seem often to have done, it contributes not a little to its elucidation. Had it been preserved at the expense of the original, we should have still possessed the Sappho, but should have lost the Simonides. Towards the end, the Epitome is executed with less care than at the beginning.

II

The Order of Words in Greek

The strong and the weak points of the de Compositione Verborum will appear from the foregoing summary, and still more from the treatise itself and the notes appended to it. Dionysius' book is unique: no other of its kind has come down to us from classical antiquity. Its immediate subject is the Order of Words in Greek. But its author is happily led to raise fundamental questions such as the relations between Prose and Poetry, together with incidental points of Greek Pronunciation and Accentuation; and generally to take so wide a range that no English title less comprehensive than On Literary Composition seems to fit the contents of the work. The discursive enthusiasm of the writer is obvious. Not less striking, however, is the sound literary taste which converts his quotations into a true anthology and preserves some priceless remains of Sappho and Simonides. It will be necessary to point out certain weaknesses of Dionysius from time to time. But his weaknesses are far more than counterbalanced by his great excellences. Some of his shortcomings are those of his age, — an age which was a stranger to the modern method of comparison as applied to literary investigation. Others, again, are more apparent than real. When, for example, certain omissions are observable in some directions along with ample expatiations in others, it is to be remembered (1) that Dionysius is dealing with the department of expression and not with that of subject matter, (2) that, in the department of expression, he is concerned with the composition (or arrangement) of words and not with their selection, and (3) that, in regard to composition, he is here interested primarily not in lucidity nor in emphasis, but in euphony. Hence we must not expect him to dwell on that great governing principle of literary composition, — logical connexion. To its importance, however, he is fully alive, as is clear from a passage in his essay on Isocrates: “The thought” [in Isocrates, who pays excessive heed to smoothness of style and a pleasant cadence] “is often the slave of rhythmical expression, and truth is sacrificed to elegance.... But the natural course is for the expression to follow the ideas, not the ideas the expression.” And though, in the de Compositione, it is his business to discourse rather upon sound than upon sense, yet the orderly way in which the subject matter of the treatise is presented shows in itself that Dionysius was well aware that the chief essential for a book is a basis of clear thinking and broad logical arrangement, and that, as a consequence, its excellence is to be sought even more in its chapters and its paragraphs than in its flowing periods. It may be well to touch, with a similar regard to sequence and with occasional references to modern parallels or contrasts, upon one or two aspects of his main theme which his own treatment of it suggests as suitable for further discussion and elucidation.

A. Freedom and Elasticity

In his fifth chapter Dionysius shows, with no difficulty and with much vivacity, that it is impossible to lay down universal rules governing the order of words in Greek. He admits that he had been inclined to entertain a priori views on the question of the natural precedence of certain parts of speech and to hold that nouns should precede verbs, verbs adverbs, and so forth.

But he had proceeded, with that sound practical judgment which distinguishes him, to test his theories in the light of Homer’s usage. He had then found them wanting. “Trial invariably wrecked my views and revealed their utter worthlessness.” The examples of variety in word-order which he quotes from the Iliad and the Odyssey are most interesting and instructive. But a modern reader, familiar with languages whose paucity of inflexions often offers freedom only at the price of ambiguity, has more cause than any ancient writer to wonder at the liberty which Greek enjoys in this respect. No doubt the long gap between πολὺν and χρόνον in the Frogs has, and is intended to have, a comic effect. But there is no sort of ambiguity in the sentence, since the poet takes care to use no noun with which the adjective could agree until the right noun at length comes and relieves the listener of his suspense and growing curiosity, —

οὐ πολὺν οὐδ’ ὁ πίθηκος οὔτος ὁ νῦν ἐνοχλῶν,

Κλειγένης ὁ μικρός,
ὁ πονηρότατος βαλανεὺς ὅποσοι κρατοῦσι κυκησιτέφρου ψευδολίτρου κονίας καὶ Κιμωλίας γῆς, χρόνον ἐνδιατρίψει.

Aristophanes Ranae 706-13.

Here as many as twenty-one words divide an adjective from its noun, though noun and adjective are usually placed close together. But, even in serious poetry, the same thing is to be noticed, though on a less surprising scale. For example:

ἦν δ' οὐδὲν αὐτοῖς οὔτε χείματος τέκμαρ οὔτ' ἀνθεμῶδους ἦρος οὔτε καρπίμου θέρους βέβαιον.

Aeschylus Prometheus Vincitus 454-6.

Here the adjective follows the noun, but (as before) there is no ambiguity, though there is much added emphasis due to the apparent afterthought. Similarly:

ἐν δὲ νομὸν ποίησε περικλυτὸς ἀμφιγυήεις ἐν καλῇ βήσση μέγαν οἰῶν ἀργεννάων.

Homer Iliad xviii. 587, 588.

And in prose the dependence of a genitive may be quite clear, though the distance between it and the words on which it depends be great: e.g.

τῶν μὲν οὖν λόγων, οὓς οὗτος ἄνω καὶ κάτω διακυκλῶν ἔλεγε περὶ τῶν παραγεγραμμένων νόμων, οὔτε μὰ τοὺς θεοὺς οἶμαι ὑμᾶς μανθάνειν οὔτ' αὐτὸς ἐδυνάμην συνεῖναι τοὺς πολλοὺς.

Demosthenes de Corona § 111 (cp. § 57).

In prose, again, the extremely antithetic and artificial arrangement of words possible (without complete loss of clearness) in a highly inflected language may be illustrated from Thucydides: — καὶ οὐ περὶ τῆς ἐλευθερίας ἄρα οὔτε οὗτοι τῶν Ἑλλήνων οὔθ' οἱ Ἕλληνες τῆς ἑαυτῶν τῷ Μήδῳ ἀντέστησαν, περὶ δὲ οἱ μὲν σφίσιν ἀλλὰ μὴ ἐκείνῳ καταδουλώσεως, οἱ δ' ἐπὶ δεσπότης μεταβολῇ οὐκ ἀξυνετωτέρου, κακοξυνετωτέρου δέ.

Thucydides vi. 76.

The following sentence of Demosthenes, with its carefully chosen position for the main subject Φίλιππος and the main verb ἐπηγγέλατο, shows how well suspense and the period can be worked in such a language: — ὡς δὲ ταλαιπωροῦμενοι τῷ μήκει τοῦ πολέμου οἱ τότε μὲν βαρεῖς νῦν δ' ἀτυχεῖς Θηβαῖοι φανεροὶ πᾶσιν ἦσαν ἀναγκασθησόμενοι καταφεύγειν ἐφ' ὑμᾶς, Φίλιππος, ἵνα μὴ τοῦτο γένοιτο μηδὲ συνέλθοιεν αἱ πόλεις, ὑμῖν μὲν εἰρήνην ἐκείνοις δὲ βοήθειαν ἐπηγγέλατο.

Demosthenes de Corona § 19.

In an analytical language such as English a separate introductory sentence would be almost necessary in order to bring out the point of a familiar passage in the Cyropaedia: — παῖς μέγας μικρὸν ἔχων χιτῶνα ἕτερον παῖδα μικρὸν μέγαν ἔχοντα χιτῶνα, ἐκδύσας αὐτόν, τὸν μὲν ἑαυτοῦ ἐκεῖνον ἡμφίεσε, τὸν δὲ ἐκείνου αὐτὸς ἐνέδου.

Xenophon Cyropaedia i. 3. 17.

And the force and variety gained by juxtaposition, or by chiasmic arrangement, is obvious in such examples as: —

(1) τίπτε με, Πηλέος υἱέ, ποσὶν ταχέεσσιν διώκεις, αὐτὸς θνητὸς ἐὼν θεὸν ἄμβροτον;

Homer Iliad xxii. 8, 9.

(2) τί δῆτα, ὦ Μέλητε; τοσοῦτον σὺ ἑμοῦ σοφώτερος εἶ τηλικούτου ὄντος τηλικόσδε ὦν;

Plato Apology 25 D.

(3) οὐ γὰρ ἐπὶ κρίσει μὲν τις δικασθεὶς οὐκ ἂν ἐπὶ τῶν δικαίων καὶ καλῶν ἐλεύθερος καὶ ὑγιῆς ἂν κριτῆς γένοιτο· ἀνάγκη γὰρ τῷ δωροδόκῳ τὰ οἰκεῖα μὲν φαίνεσθαι καλὰ καὶ δίκαια.

Longinus de Sublimitate c. xlv.

(4) καὶ τῶν κώλων ... ἀνίσων τε ὄντων καὶ ἀνομοίων ἀλλήλοις ἀνομοίους τε καὶ ἀνίσους ποιοῦμενοι τὰς διαιρέσεις.

Dionys. Halic. de Comp. Verb. c. xxvi.

The two last examples of elegant variation might, no doubt, be closely reproduced in modern languages. To the more important matter of emphasis, which arises in some of the other instances, a separate section must be devoted later.

B. Normal Order

Though Dionysius does right to deny the existence of a natural or inevitable order in Greek and to emphasize the essential freedom of the language, he might well have recognized more explicitly that there is what may be termed a normal or usual order, and that it is precisely the departure from this normal usage which does much to give a definite character (good or bad, as the case may be) to the style of individual Greek authors. For instance, it is usual in Greek for an adjective to follow its noun, and for a negative to precede the word or words which it qualifies. There are, further, certain customary positions for the article (according as it is attributive or predicative); for the demonstrative pronouns in conjunction with the article; for αὐτός, according to the meaning which it bears; for the particles; for prepositions, conjunctions, and relative pronouns; and so forth. There is, in short, a grammatical order sanctioned by prevailing usage, an order which might be shown to hold good, commonly though not universally, in some of the grammatical constructions indicated by Dionysius in his fifth chapter. Now between this normal order, and lucidity of expression, there exists a close connexion.

C. Lucidity

It might easily be concluded, by a reader who knew the de Compositione alone among Dionysius' critical essays, that he set little store by that clear writing which, as it presupposes clear thinking, is a rare and cardinal excellence of style. As the noun σαφήνεια occurs but once in the treatise and the adjective σαφής not much oftener, it might be supposed that he underrated a quality to which Aristotle and other writers of antiquity assign so high a place. Aristotle, indeed, regards it as a first essential of good style, which must be "clear without being mean" (λέξεως δὲ ἀρετὴ σαφὴ καὶ μὴ ταπεινὴν εἶναι, Aristot. Poet. xxii. 1: cp. Rhet. iii. 2. 1). Similarly Cicero puts clearness (sermo dilucidus) before ornament, asking how it is possible, "qui non dicat quod intellegamus, hunc posse quod admiremur dicere" (Cic. de Orat. iii. 9. 38). Horace's approving reference to lucidus ordo has become proverbial. And Quintilian allots the primacy to the same great quality: "nobis prima sit virtus perspicuitas, propria verba, rectus ordo, non in longum dilata conclusio; nihil neque desit neque superfluat" (Inst. Or. viii. 2. 22), and puts a high and not always attainable ideal before the orator in relation to his judicial auditor: "quare non, ut intellegere possit, sed, ne omnino possit non intellegere, curandum" (ibid. viii. 2. 24).

If Dionysius in the present treatise says little about lucidity, the sole reason is that he assumes it as a necessary and indispensable quality of style. In the de Thucydide c. 23 it is classed (together with purity and brevity) as one of the ἀρεταὶ ἀναγκαῖαι (in contradistinction to the ἀρεταὶ ἐπιθετοί, such as ἐνάργεια, ἡ τῶν ἡθῶν τε καὶ παθῶν μίμησις, etc.). The Greek critics recognized, however, that the plainer styles were more likely than the more elaborate ones to excel in lucidity, — that, in this respect, a Herodotus and a Lysias might be expected to surpass a Thucydides and a Demosthenes. Among these authors let us choose Lysias and Thucydides, and see what praise or blame Dionysius awards to them upon this score. In the fourth chapter of the de Lysia, the lucidity of Lysias is contrasted with the obscurity often found in Thucydides and Demosthenes; and it is pointed out that this excellence is, in him, all the more admirable in that it is combined with a studious brevity, an opulent vocabulary, and a mind of great native force. And no finer example of pellucid clearness of narration could well be imagined than that quoted from Lysias in the sixth chapter of the de Isaeo: ἀναγκαῖόν μοι δοκεῖ εἶναι, ὃ ἄνδρες δικασταί, περὶ τῆς φιλίας τῆς ἐμῆς καὶ τῆς Φερενίκου πρῶτον εἰπεῖν πρὸς ὑμᾶς, κτλ. To the obscurities of Thucydides, on the other hand, as seen in his History and particularly in his Speeches, constant and mournful reference is made in the essay which has the historian for its subject. "You can almost count on your fingers," says Dionysius, "the people who are capable of comprehending the whole of Thucydides; and not even they can do so without occasional recourse to a grammatical commentary." Dionysius, further, gives it as his opinion that the language of Thucydides was unique even in his own day; and he combats the view that a historian (as distinguished, say, from an advocate) may plead in excuse for an artificial style that he does not write for "people in the market-place, in workshops or in factories, nor for others who have not shared in a liberal education, but for men who have reached rhetoric and philosophy after passing through a full curriculum of approved studies, to whom therefore none of these expressions will appear unfamiliar." Obscurity and eccentricity, he says in effect, are not virtues except in the eyes of literary coteries; presumably a speaker speaks, and a writer writes, in order to be understood.

D. Emphasis

Dionysius' inadequate recognition of a normal order is naturally attended by some uncertainty in his attitude towards that kind of emphasis which a departure from the normal order produces. It may, indeed, be thought that the effect of emphasis, and the best means of attaining it, are considered at the opening of the sixth chapter of the treatise, and that it comes under the heading both of σχηματισμός and of ἁρμονία. In the fifth chapter, however, we should have welcomed a clearer recognition of the emphasis which, as it seems to modern readers, falls upon ἄνδρα, μῆνιν, and ἥέλιος, when they come at the beginning of the line and so are the first words to accost the ear. Certainly in his own writing Dionysius shows that he appreciates the emphasis gained by thrusting a word to the front of the sentence: e.g. καιροῦ δὲ οὔτε ῥήτωρ οὔδεις οὔτε φιλόσοφος εἰς τόδε χρόνου τέχνην ὥρισεν (132 21). Towards the end of chapter 7 he quotes from Demosthenes the words τὸ λαβεῖν οὖν τὰ διδόμενα ὁμολογῶν ἔννομον εἶναι, τὸ χάριν τούτων ἀποδοῦναι παρανόμων γράφη. He changes the order to ὁμολογῶν οὖν ἔννομον εἶναι τὸ λαβεῖν τὰ διδόμενα, παρανόμων γράφη τὸ τούτων χάριν ἀποδοῦναι, and then asks whether the passage will be ὁμοίως δικανικὴ καὶ στρογγύλη. To us it would seem that the chief loss is the loss of emphasis which is entailed (in Greek) by removing from the beginning of the clauses the important and contrasted phrases τὸ λαβεῖν τὰ διδόμενα and τὸ χάριν τούτων ἀποδοῦναι. Possibly this loss of emphasis is implied (among other things) in the words "δικανικὴ καὶ στρογγύλη."

Where it occurs in Dionysius, the word ἔμφασις bears the sense of 'hint,' 'suggestion,' 'sourçon' (de Thucyd. c. 16 ῥαθύμως ἐπιτετροχασμένα καὶ οὐδὲ τὴν ἐλαχίστην ἔμφασιν ἔχοντα τῆς δεινότητος ἐκείνης): a sense which is akin to its technical use of 'hidden meaning' ("significatio maior quam oratio," Cic. Orat. 40. 139; cp. Quintil. viii. 3. 83, ix. 2. 3, 64). In our sense of emphasis due to position, the word ἔμφασις is perhaps hardly used even in the scholiasts; and it is possible that Greek has no single term to express the idea, though it may doubtless be one of the elements in view when a writer uses such expressions as ἁρμονία, σχηματισμός, and ὑπερβατόν.

A modern student of Greek, having to feel his way with practically no help from ancient authorities, will probably reach the conclusion that the rhetorical emphasis he has in mind is attained by placing a word in one of the less usual positions open to it. The word thus emphasized may come at the beginning, in the middle, or at the end of a sentence, the real point being that the position should be (for that particular word) a little out of the ordinary. In Greek, however, as contrasted with English, the emphasis tends to fall on the earlier rather than the later words. In delivery, it would seem that the Greeks found it more natural to stress the beginning than the conclusion of a sentence. But an emphatic word may be found at the end as well as at the beginning, and may sometimes be placed neither at the end nor at the beginning.

Allusion has already been made to the rhetorical emphasis which falls upon the opening words of the Iliad and the Odyssey. As with “arma virumque cano” in the Aeneid, the words μῆνιν and ἄνδρα seem to strike the keynote of the following Epics. And, in a less degree, a certain emphasis due to initial position (and contributing either to emotional effect or to logical clearness) is to be discerned throughout the poems: e.g. in the sixth book of the Iliad: —

Homer Iliad vi. 127.

πέπλον δ', ὅς τις τοι χαριέστατος ἢ δὲ μέγιστος ἔστιν ἐνὶ μεγάρῳ καὶ τοι πολὺ φίλτατος αὐτῇ, τὸν θὲς Ἀθηναίης ἐπὶ γούνασιν ἤϊκόμοιο, κτλ.

Similarly with the following ten miscellaneous examples of various emphasis, taken chiefly from Dionysius' favourite speech: —

(1) ἐκεῖνος γὰρ πολλοὺς ἐπθυμητὰς καὶ ἀστοὺς καὶ ξένους λαβών, οὐδένα πώποτε μισθὸν τῆς συνουσίας ἐπράξατο, ἀλλὰ πᾶσιν ἀφθόνως ἐπῆρκει τῶν ἑαυτοῦ.

Xenophon Memorabilia i. 2. 60.

(2) καὶ ταραχώδης ἦν ἡ ναυμαχία, ἐν ἣ αἱ Ἀττικαὶ νῆες παραγιγνόμεναι τοῖς Κερκυραίοις, εἴ πη πιέζοιντο, φόβον μὲν παρεῖχον τοῖς ἐναντίοις, μάχης δὲ οὐκ ἦρχον δεδιότες οἱ στρατηγοὶ τὴν πρόρρησιν τῶν Ἀθηναίων.

Thucydides i. 49.

(3) Ἀναξαγόρου οἶει κατηγορεῖν, ὧ φίλε Μέλητε, κτλ.

Plato Apology 26 D.

(4) οὐ γὰρ τὰ ῥήματα τὰς οἰκειότητος ἔφη βεβαιοῦν, μάλα σεμνῶς ὀνομάζων, ἀλλὰ τὸ ταῦτά συμφέρειν.

Demosthenes de Corona § 35.

(5) οἱ μὲν κατάπτυστοι Θετταλοὶ καὶ ἀναίσθητοι Θηβαῖοι φίλον, εὐεργέτην, σωτήρα τὸν Φίλιππον ἡγοῦντο· πάντ' ἐκεῖνος ἦν αὐτοῖς· οὐδὲ φωνὴν ἤκουον εἰ τις ἄλλο τι βούλοιτο λέγειν.

id. ib. § 43.

(6) οὕς σὺ ζῶντας μέν, ὦ κίναδος, κολακεύων παρηκολούθεις, τεθνεώτων δ' οὐκ αἰσθάνει κατηγορῶν.

id. ib. § 162.

(7) καὶ τότ' εὐθύς ἐμοῦ διαμαρτυρομένου καὶ βοῶντος ἐν τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ “πόλεμον εἰς τὴν Ἀττικὴν εἰσάγεις, Αἰσχίνη, πόλεμον Ἀμφικτυονικόν, κτλ.”

id. ib. § 143.

(8) ὅς γὰρ ἐμοῦ φιλιππισμόν, ὦ γῆ καὶ θεοί, κατηγορεῖ, τί οὗτος οὐκ ἂν εἴποι;

id. ib. § 294.

(9) ἀλλ' οἷμαι οὐ δυνάμεθα· ἐλεεῖσθαι οὖν ἡμᾶς πολὺ μᾶλλον εἰκός ἐστίν· που ὑπὸ ὑμῶν τῶν δεινῶν ἢ χαλεπαίνεσθαι.

Plato Republic i. 336 E.

(10) μηδ' εἴμασι στρώσας' ἐπίφθονον πόρον τίθει· θεοὺς τοι τοῖοδε τιμαλφεῖν χρεών.

Aeschylus Agamemnon 921.

It will be seen from some of the above examples that words may have emphasis if, though not actually placed at the very beginning of a sentence or a clause, they come as early as they well can. The three following passages will further illustrate this point: —

(1) καὶ ἐς Νικίαν τὸν Νικηράτου στρατηγὸν ὄντα ἀπεσήμενεν, ἐχθρὸς ὢν καὶ ἐπιτιμῶν, ῥάδιον εἶναι παρασκευῇ, εἰ ἄνδρες εἶεν οἱ στρατηγοί, πλεύσαντας λαβεῖν τοὺς ἐν τῇ νήσῳ, καὶ αὐτός γ' ἄν, εἰ ἦρχε, ποιῆσαι τοῦτο.

Thucydides iv. 27.

(2) ὃ τι μὲν ὑμεῖς, ὦ ἄνδρες Ἀθηναῖοι, πεπόνθατε ὑπὸ τῶν ἐμῶν κατηγορῶν, οὐκ οἶδα· ἐγὼ δ' οὖν καὶ αὐτὸς ὑπ' αὐτῶν ὀλίγου ἐμαντοῦ ἐπελαθόμην· οὕτω πιθανῶς ἔλεγον. καίτοι ἀληθές γε, ὡς ἔπος εἰπεῖν, οὐδὲν εἰρήκασιν.

Plato Apology init.

(3) ἀλλὰ μὴν τὸν τότε συμβάντα ἐν τῇ πόλει θόρυβον ἴστε μὲν ἅπαντες, μικρὰ δ' ἀκούσατε ὅμως, αὐτὰ τὰναγκαιότατα ... οἱ δὲ τοὺς στρατηγοὺς μετεπέμποντο καὶ τὸν σαλπικτὴν ἐκάλουν, καὶ θορύβου πλήρης ἦν ἡ πόλις.

Demosthenes de Corona §§ 168, 169.

Sometimes, however, emphatic words will be thrust right to the front through such devices as the postponement of an interrogative particle: e.g.

ἐστάναι, εἶπον, καὶ κινεῖσθαι τὸ αὐτὸ ἅμα κατὰ τὸ αὐτὸ ἄρα δυνατόν;

Plato Republic iv. 436 C.

and

οἷον δίψα ἐστὶ δίψα ἄρ' αὖ γε θερμοῦ ποτοῦ ἢ ψυχροῦ, ἢ πολλοῦ ἢ ὀλίγου, ἢ καὶ ἐνὶ λόγῳ ποιοῦ τινος πώματος;

id. ib. iv. 437 D.

An uninflected language may well envy the grammatical resources which enable Greek or Latin poets to secure at once clearness and the utmost height of emotion in such lines as:

Ζεῦ πάτερ, ἀλλὰ σὺ ῥῦσαι ὑπ' ἡέρος νῆας Ἀχαιῶν, ποίησον δ' αἶθρην, δὸς δ' ὀφθαλμοῖσιν ἰδέσθαι· ἐν δὲ φάει καὶ ὄλεσσον, ἐπεὶ νύ τοι εὖαδεν οὔτως.

Homer Iliad xvii. 645.

Me, me, adsum qui feci, in me convertite ferrum, O Rutuli.

Virgil Aeneid ix. 427.

The end as well as the beginning of a clause or sentence may bring emphasis when it is an unusual position for the particular word or phrase which stands there. Illustrations may perhaps be drawn from expressions conveying the idea of “death,” which (according to Dionysus in the Frogs) is the “heaviest of ills,” and which (be that as it may) is as little likely as any to be entertained lightheartedly, or to be mentioned without some degree of feeling and emphasis. At the beginning of a sentence, τεθνᾶσι clearly has emphasis in τεθνᾶσ' ἀδελφοὶ καὶ πατήρ οὐμὸς γέρων.

Euripides Hercules Furens 539.

And in the following passage of Plato, it will be seen that the τὸν θάνατον which comes near the beginning of a clause is more emphatic than the τὸν θάνατον which comes at the end of a clause: — οἷσθα δ', ἢ δ' ὅς, ὅτι τὸν θάνατον ἡγοῦνται πάντες οἱ ἄλλοι τῶν μεγάλων κακῶν; — καὶ μάλ', ἔφη. — οὐκοῦν φόβῳ μειζόνων κακῶν ὑπομένουσιν αὐτῶν οἱ ἄνδρες; τὸν θάνατον, ὅταν ὑπομένωσιν; — ἔστι ταῦτα.

Plato Phaedo 68 D.

The τὸν θάνατον before ἡγοῦνται is here emphatic on the same principle as the θάνατον before εἰσέθηκε in the passage (already alluded to) of the Frogs: — θάνατον γὰρ εἰσέθηκε βαρύτατον κακόν.

Aristophanes Ranae 1394.

But a word like θάνατος may also come with emphasis at the end of a sentence, if that order is rendered unusual by the interposition of additional words or by any other means which create a feeling of suspense and even of afterthought. For example:

τί δέ; τὰν Αἰδοῦ ἡγούμενον εἶναι τε καὶ δεινὰ εἶναι οἶει τινὰ θάνατον ἄδεῃ ἔσεσθαι καὶ ἐν ταῖς μάχαις αἰρήσεσθαι πρὸ ἥττης τε καὶ δουλείας θάνατον;

Plato Republic iii. 386 B.

Here the θάνατον seems intended to repeat with emphasis the preceding θανάτου to which, itself, a considerable degree of prominence is assigned. So, perhaps, ἀλλὰ νόμον δημοσίᾳ τὸν ταῦτα κωλύσοντα τέθεινται τουτονὶ καὶ πολλοὺς ἤδη παραβάοντας τὸν νόμον τοῦτον ἐζημιώκασιν θανάτῳ.

Demosthenes Midias § 49.

and

... καὶ φοβερωτέρας ἡγήσεται τὰς ὕβρεις καὶ τὰς ἀτιμίας, ἃς ἐν δουλευούσῃ τῇ πόλει φέρειν ἀνάγκη, τοῦ θανάτου.

Demosthenes de Corona § 205.

Some miscellaneous examples of words coming emphatically at the end of a clause or sentence are: —

(1) αἰτοῦμαι δ' ὑμᾶς δοῦναι καὶ νῦν παισὶ μὲν καὶ γυναικὶ καὶ φίλοις καὶ πατρίδι εὐδαιμονίαν, ἐμοὶ δὲ οἶόν περ αἰῶνα δεδώκατε τοιαύτην καὶ τελευτήν δοῦναι.

Xenophon Cyropaedia viii. 7.

(2) ἀλλὰ καὶ τούτους κολυμβηταὶ δυόμενοι ἐξέπριον μισθοῦ.

Thucydides vii. 25.

(3) ὕψοῦ δὲ θάσσω ὑψόθεν χαμαιπετῆς πίπτει πρὸς οὐδας μυρίοις οἰώγμασι Πενθεύς.

Euripides Bacchae 1111.

(4) ἴστε γὰρ δήπου τοῦθ' ὅτι πάντες οἱ ξεναγοῦντες οὔτοι πόλεις καταλαμβάνοντες Ἑλληνίδας ἄρχειν ζητοῦσιν, καὶ πάντων, ὅσοι περ νόμοις οἰκεῖν βούλονται τὴν αὐτῶν ὄντες ἐλεύθεροι, κοινοὶ περιέρχονται κατὰ πᾶσαν χώραν, εἰ δεῖ τάληθες εἰπεῖν, ἐχθροί.

Demosthenes Aristocrates § 139.

(5) δεῖ δὲ τοὺς ἀγαθοὺς ἄνδρας ἐγχειρεῖν μὲν ἅπασιν ἀεὶ τοῖς καλοῖς, τὴν ἀγαθὴν προβαλλομένους ἐλπίδα, φέρειν δ' ἂν ὁ θεὸς διδῶ γενναίως.

Demosthenes de Corona § 97.

(6) εἴθ' οὔτοι τὰ ὄπλα εἶχον ἐν ταῖς χερσὶν ἀεὶ.

id. ib. § 235.

(7) εἰ γὰρ ταῦτα προεῖτ' ἀκονιτεῖ, περὶ ὧν οὐδένα κίνδυνον ὄντιν' οὐχ ὑπέμειναν οἱ πρόγονοι, τίς οὐχὶ κατέπτυσεν ἂν σοῦ; μὴ γὰρ τῆς πόλεώς γε, μηδ' ἐμοῦ.

id. ib. § 200.

(8) ... ἡμῖν δὲ τοῖς λοιποῖς τὴν ταχίστην ἀπαλλαγὴν τῶν ἐπηρτημένων φόβων δότε καὶ σωτηρίαν ἀσφαλῆ.

id. ib. § 324.

It may be added that, occasionally, both the earlier and the later positions are emphatic in the same clause or sentence: e.g.

(1) τέκνα γὰρ κατακτενῶ τάμ’.

Euripides Medea 792.

(2) ὦτα γὰρ τυγχάνει ἀνθρώποισι ἐόντα ἀπιστότερα ὀφθαλμῶν.

Herodotus i. 8.

(3) νῦν δὲ τὸ μὲν παρὸν ἀεὶ προϊέμενοι, τὰ δὲ μέλλοντ’ αὐτόματ’ οἰόμενοι σχήσειν καλῶς, ἠϋξήσαμεν, ὧ ἄνδρες Ἀθηναῖοι, Φίλιππον ἡμεῖς, καὶ κατεστήσαμεν τηλικούτον ἡλίκος οὐδεὶς πω βασιλεὺς γέγονεν Μακεδονίας.

Demosthenes Olynthiacs i. § 9.

(4) πολλάκις δὲ τοῦ κήρυκος ἐρωτῶντος οὐδὲν μᾶλλον ἀνίστατ’ οὐδεὶς, ἀπάντων μὲν τῶν στρατηγῶν παρόντων, κτλ.

Demosthenes de Corona § 117.

(5) καὶ μὴν καὶ Φερὰς πρώην ὡς φίλος καὶ σύμμαχος εἰς Θετταλίαν ἐλθὼν ἔχει καταλαβὼν, καὶ τὰ τελευταῖα τοῖς ταλαιπώροις Ὠρεῖταις τουτοῖσι ἐπισκεφομένους ἔφη τοὺς στρατιώτας πεπομφέναι κατ’ εὖνοιαν· πυνθάνεσθαι γὰρ αὐτοὺς ὡς νοσοῦσι καὶ στασιάζουσιν, συμμάχων δ’ εἶναι καὶ φίλων ἀληθινῶν ἐν τοῖς τοιούτοις καιροῖς παρεῖναι.

Demosthenes Philippics iii. § 12.

(6) οὐ λίθοις ἐτείχισα τὴν πόλιν οὐδὲ πλίνθοις ἐγώ, οὐδ’ ἐπὶ τοῦτοις μέγιστον τῶν ἐμαντοῦ φρονῶ.

(7) ὑπὲρ τῶν ἐχθρῶν πεπολίτευσαι πάντα, ἐγὼ δ’ ὑπὲρ τῆς πατρίδος.

id. ib. § 265.

In connexion with the imperfect appreciation which the de Compositione Verborum shows of a normal order and of an emphasis produced by departure from it, attention may be drawn to the fact that the treatise contains no reference to the ‘figure’ hyperbaton; and this although the figure had been recognized long before Dionysius’ time, and continued to be recognized long afterwards. It is first mentioned by Plato, who probably took over the notion from the Sophists: ἄλλ’ ὑπερβατὸν δεῖ θεῖναι ἐν τῷ ἄσματι τὸ “ἀλαθέως” (Plato Protag. 343 E, where the reference is to a poem of Simonides). The author of the Rhetorica ad Alexandrum (c. 30) indicates it in the following terms: ἐὰν μὴ ὑπερβατῶς αὐτὰ [sc. τὰ ὀνόματα] τιθῶμεν, ἀλλ’ ἀεὶ τὰ ἐχόμενα ἐξῆς τάττωμεν. Quintilian treats of it in the passage beginning “Hyperbaton quoque, id est verbi transgressionem, quoniam frequenter ratio comparationis et decor poscit, non immerito inter virtutes habemus” (Inst. Or. viii. 6. 62). The author of the Treatise on the Sublime describes and defines it thus: ἔστι δὲ λέξεων ἢ νοήσεων ἐκ τοῦ κατ’ ἀκολουθίαν κεκινημένη τάξις καὶ οἶονεῖ χαρακτηρ ἑναγωνίου πάθους ἀληθέστατος (Longinus de Sublim. c. 22). And, later still, Hermogenes and other writers on rhetoric are well acquainted with the figure. Dionysius, however, mentions it but seldom in any of his writings, and even then (e.g. τὰς ὑπερβατοὺς καὶ πολυπλόκους καὶ ἐξ ἀποκοπῆς πολλὰ σημαίνειν πράγματα βουλομένας καὶ διὰ μακροῦ τὰς ἀποδόσεις λαμβανούσας νοήσεις, de Thucyd. c. 52; cp. c. 31 ibid.) is clearly thinking not of desirable but of highly undesirable “inversions.” He may have thought that its proper place was in poetry rather than in prose.

E. Euphony

A modern writer on style would probably lay more stress on clearness and emphasis than on euphony. The ancient critics, on the other hand, seem to have taken the two former elements more or less for granted. Because they were easily attainable in languages so fully inflected as Greek and Latin, their attainment was regarded as an important matter indeed, but one which called for no special recognition of any kind. As Quintilian says, in reference to clearness, “nam emendate quidem ac lucide dicentium tenue praeium est, magisque ut vitiis carere quam ut aliquam magnam virtutem adeptus esse videaris” (Inst. Or. viii. 3. 1). Dionysius, too, in the de Compositione Verborum, passes more readily over the two qualities of clearness and emphasis because he is not concerned with the πραγματικὸς τόπος. He keeps rigorously to his real subject; and that is not the relation of words to the ideas of which they are the symbols. It is, rather, their relation to their own constituent elements (letters and syllables of diverse qualities and quantities) and to the pleasant impression which the apt collocation of many various words can make upon the ear. His task is to investigate the emotional power of the sound-elements of language when alone and when in combination — their euphonic and their symphonic effects. Hence the constant recurrence, throughout the treatise, of words like εὐφωνία, εὐρυθμία, εὐστομία, λειότης, ἁρμονία, σύνθεσις. The illustrative excerpts which he gives are so numerous and so happily chosen that no others need be added here. A careful study of his examples, in the context in which they occur, will suggest many reflexions upon the freedom and adaptability of Greek order. But no absolute test of euphony can be based upon them. Dionysius himself formulates no invariable rules upon the subject. In the last resort, the court of appeal must, as he sees, be the instinctive judgment of the ear (τὸ ἄλογον τῆς ἀκοῆς πάθος). The part played by the ear has been well described by Quintilian: “ergo quem in poëmate locum habet versificatio, eum in oratione compositio. optime autem de illa iudicant aures, quae plena sentiunt et parum expleta desiderant et fragosis offenduntur et levibus mulcentur et contortis excitantur et stabilia probant, clauda deprehendunt, redundantia ac nimia fastidiunt” (Inst. Or. ix. 4. 116). Naturally the ear in question must be the individual ear (“aurem tuam interroga, quo quid loco conveniat dicere,” Aulus Gellius Noctes Att. xiii. 21); the criterion is subjective, not absolute. But it is assumed that the ear in question has been trained and attuned by constant converse with the great masters, and that (like Flaubert in modern times) an author never writes without repeating the words aloud to himself. Thus trained, the ear will work in harmony with the mind: “aures enim vel animus aurium nuntio naturalem quandam in se continet vocum omnium mentionem” (Cic. Orat. 53. 177). Both Cicero and Dionysius are well aware that style is personal and individual, — that it is no uniform and mechanical thing. Dionysius’ own position has been misunderstood by those who have judged the de Compositione as if it were a complete treatise on the entire subject of style. In the eyes of Dionysius, words are not what dead stone and timber are in the eyes of the ordinary workman. They are, rather, the living elements which, in the secret places of his mind, the master-builder views as potential parts of some great temple. They are what an individual makes them. Hence, just as Cicero writes “qua re sine, quaeso, sibi quemque scribere, Suam quoique sponsam, mihi meam; suum quoique amorem, mihi meum”: so Dionysius long ago anticipated the saying that the style is the man.

Among the minor debts we owe to him is the fact that his minute analysis of rhythms, or feet, in passages of Thucydides, Pindar and others, helps to disclose the inner workings of the beautiful Greek language and to impress us with the importance attached by the ancients to what we moderns find it so hard fully to appreciate, — the effect on a Greek ear of syllabic quantity in prose as well as verse. And he insists no less upon the charm of variety, — the paramount necessity of avoiding monotony. He saw, for example, that the Greek inflexions (notwithstanding the many advantages which they brought with them) had at least one drawback: they are apt to lead to a certain sameness in case-endings. Accordingly he would, for instance, have approved (though he does not mention this particular passage) of the separation of the words σωτηρίαν ἀσφαλῆ from the other accusatives at the end of the de Corona: ἡμῖν δὲ τοῖς λοιποῖς τὴν ταχίστην ἀπαλλαγὴν τῶν ἐπηρτημένων φόβων δότε καὶ σωτηρίαν ἀσφαλῆ. Further reference to these minutiae of style may fitly be made later, when the topics of “rhythm” and “music” are considered.

F. Greek and Latin compared with Modern Languages, in regard to Word-Order Something has already been said, incidentally, about certain differences in word-order between the ancient and the modern European languages. In such a comparison Greek and Latin may be placed upon the same footing, as their points of contact are vastly more numerous than their points of divergence, considerable though these are.

The points of contact become manifest when an attempt is made to translate into Latin, and into English, the sentence from Herodotus which

Dionysius quotes, and twice recasts, in his fourth chapter: —

(1) Κροῖσος ἦν Λυδὸς μὲν γένος, παῖς δ' Ἀλυάττου, τύραννος δ' ἔθνῳ τῶν ἐντὸς Ἄλυσ ποταμοῦ· ὃς ῥέων ἀπὸ μεσημβρίας μεταξὺ Σύρων τε καὶ Παφλαγόνων ἐξίησι πρὸς βορέαν ἄνεμον εἰς τὸν Εὐξείνιον καλούμενον πόντον.

Herodotus i. 6.

Croesus genere quidem fuit Lydus, patre autem Alyatte; earum vero nationum tyrannus, quae intra Halym amnem sunt: qui, a meridie Syros ac Paphlagonες interfluens, contra ventum Aquilonem in mare, quid vocant Euxinum, evolvitur.

(2) Κροῖσος ἦν υἱὸς μὲν Ἀλυάττου, γένος δὲ Λυδός, τύραννος δὲ τῶν ἐντὸς Ἄλυσ ποταμοῦ ἔθνῳ· ὃς ἀπὸ μεσημβρίας ῥέων μεταξὺ Σύρων καὶ Παφλαγόνων εἰς τὸν Εὐξείνιον καλούμενον πόντον ἐκδίδωσι πρὸς βορέαν ἄνεμον.

Croesus erat filius quidem Alyattis, genere autem Lydus, tyrannusque earum, quae intra sunt Halym amnem nationes; qui, a meridie interfluens Syros ac Paphlagonες, in mare, quod vocant Euxinum, evolvitur contra ventum Aquilonem.

(3) Ἀλυάττου μὲν υἱὸς ἦν Κροῖσος, γένος δὲ Λυδός, τῶν δ' ἐντὸς Ἄλυσ ποταμοῦ τύραννος ἔθνῳ· ὃς ἀπὸ μεσημβρίας ῥέων Σύρων τε καὶ Παφλαγόνων μεταξὺ πρὸς βορέαν ἐξίησιν ἄνεμον ἐς τὸν καλούμενον πόντον Εὐξείνιον.

Alyattis quidem filius erat Croesus, genere autem Lydus, earum, quae intra sunt Halym amnem, tyrannus nationum; qui, a meridie fluens Syros inter ac Paphlagonες, contra Boream erumpit ventum in mare, quod vocant Euxinum.

In these sentences the Latin follows the Greek order closely, and might be made to follow it still more faithfully were it not that it seems better to diverge occasionally for special reasons: e.g. it is desirable, in rendering the original passage of Herodotus, to secure (as far as possible) a good rhythm. In English, on the other hand, the choice lies between a wide deviation and a rendering which is ambiguous and possibly grotesque. In fact (to recur once more to the main point) the freedom with which the order of words can be varied in a Greek or Latin sentence is without parallel in any modern analytical language, and the attendant gain in variety, rhythm, and nicety of emphasis is incalculable.

Still, the modern languages have great powers, in this as in other ways: powers which will be incidentally illustrated later. M. Jules Lemaître has written, with reference to Ernest Renan: “Je trahis peut-être sa pensée en la traduisant; tant pis! Pourquoi a-t-il des finesses qui ne tiennent qu'à l'arrangement des mots?” These finesses are perhaps, as is here implied, hardly communicable, even though an earlier French writer has commended Malherbe as an author who

It may well be that these matters, if not altogether the “mysteries” which Dionysius terms them, are eternally elusive because they depend upon the infinite variety of the human mind. Yet some studies in English literary theory, such as might be suggested by Dionysius’ treatise, could not fail to be of interest, and might be instructive also. Something of the kind has been already done, without reference to Dionysius or other Greek critics, by Robert Louis Stevenson in his essay on Some Technical Elements of Style in Literature. Each language has, in truth, a rhetoric of its own. But the various languages, ancient and modern, can help one another in the way of comparison and contrast.

These methods of comparison and contrast have — as regards word-order — been excellently applied to the ancient and the modern languages by Henri Weil and T. D. Goodell. Weil’s chief service is to have pointed out so clearly the principle that the order of syntax must be separated in thought from the order of ideas, and was by both Greeks and Romans freely so separated in practice, whereas in the modern languages (owing to the lack of inflexions) this practical separation is less frequent. Goodell, starting from the postulate that the order of words in a language represents the order in which the speaker or writer chooses, for various reasons, to bring his ideas before the mind of another, discusses (with constant reference to modern languages) the order of words in Greek, from the standpoint of syntax, rhetoric, and euphony. In the course of a carefully reasoned exposition, he corrects and supplements many of Weil’s observations.

The full title of Weil’s book is De l’ordre des mots dans les langues anciennes comparées aux langues modernes: question de grammaire générale (3rd edition, Paris, 1879). There is an English translation by C. W. Super (Boston, 1887), with notes and additions. Goodell’s paper on “The Order of Words in Greek” is printed in the Transactions of the American Philological Association vol. xxi. Other writings on the subject are: Charles Short’s “Essay on the Order of Words in Attic Greek Prose,” — prefixed to Drisler’s edition of C. D. Yonge’s English-Greek Lexicon, — which is an extensive collection of examples, but is weak in scientific classification and in clear enunciation of principles; H. L. Ebeling’s “Some Statistics on the Order of Words in Greek,” contributed to Studies in Honour of Basil Lanneau Gildersleeve, and including some valuable investigations into the order in which subject, object, and verb usually come in Greek; inquiries into the practice of individual authors, e.g. Spratt on the “Order of Words in Thucydides” (Spratt’s edition of Thucydides, Book VI.), and Riddell on the “Arrangement of Words and Clauses in Plato” (Riddell’s edition of Plato’s Apology), or various dissertations such as Th. Harmsen de verborum collocatione apud Aeschylum, Sophoclem, Euripidem capita selecta, Ph. Both de Antiphontis et Thucydidis genere dicendi, J. J. Braun de collocatione verborum apud Thucydidem observationes, F. Darpe de verborum apud Thucydidem collocatione; and in Latin such elaborate studies as Hilberg’s Die Gesetze der Wortstellung im Pentameter des Ovid. An interesting book which compares Cicero's Latin translations (prose and verse) with their Greek originals is V. Clavel's de M. T. Cicerone Graecorum Interprete. In Harvard Studies in Classical Philology vol. vii. p.233, J. W. H. Walden discusses Weil's statement that "an emphatic word, if followed by a word which, though syntactically necessary to the sentence, is in itself unemphatic, receives an access of emphasis from the lingering of the attention which results from the juxtaposition of the two." Reference may also be made to A. Bergaigne's "Essai sur la construction grammaticale considérée dans son développement historique, en Sanskrit, en Grec, en Latin, dans les langues romanes et dans les langues germaniques," in the Mémoires de la Société de Linguistique de Paris vol. vii. The subject is, further, glanced at in the Greek Grammars of Kühner and others. But in modern times, as in those of Dionysius, it has on the whole failed to receive the attention which its importance would seem to demand.

G. Prose and Poetry: Rhythm and Metre

Readers of the de Compositione cannot fail to notice that, catholic as he is in his literary tastes, Dionysius reserves his highest admiration for two authors, — Homer in poetry and Demosthenes in prose; and that he seems to regard them as equally valid authorities for the immediate purpose which he has in view. Homer is quoted throughout the treatise, on the first page and on the last; and Demosthenes inspires (in c. 25) its most eloquent passage. That outburst is a triumphant vindication of Demosthenes' methods as a sedulous artist. Dionysius sees that he is one of those men who spare no pains over the art they love — that Demosthenes, like Homer, φιλοτεχνεῖ (200 18; c 20).

In seeming thus to draw no very clear line between verse and prose, Dionysius is at one with most of the Greek and Roman critics; and this attitude is readily intelligible in the light of the historical development of Greek literature, in which Homer (who was a master of oratory as well as of poetry) heralds the intellectual life of all Greece, while Demosthenes is the last great voice of free Athens. But the approximations of prose to poetry, and of poetry to prose, which Dionysius describes in his twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth chapters should not create the impression that, in his opinion, the prose-writer was free to borrow any and every weapon from the armoury of the poet. Of one poetical artifice he says, in c. 6, "this principle can be applied freely in poetry, but sparingly in prose"; and elsewhere he calls attention to qualities which he regards as over-poetical in the styles of Thucydides and Plato. Yet he did clearly wish that good prose should borrow as much as possible from poetry, while still remaining good prose. And although he agrees, in general, with Aristotle's exposition of the formal differences between prose and poetry, he does not adhere quite firmly to the Aristotelian principles.

In the Rhetoric, Aristotle insists that the styles of poetry and prose are distinct. The difference is this: "prose should have rhythm but not metre, or it will be poetry. The rhythm, however, should not be of too marked a character: it should not pass beyond a certain point." In the same way, Dionysius (C.V. c. 25) declares that prose must not be manifestly metrical or rhythmical, lest it should desert its own specific character. It should simply appear to be the one and the other, so that it may be poetical although not a poem, and lyrical although not a lyric. But, in practice, Dionysius is found to cast longing eyes upon the formal advantages which poetry possesses, and to wish to infuse into public speeches a definite metrical element, which seems alien to the genius of prose, and which would have failed to gain the sanction of Aristotle, though this appears to be claimed for it. It is not here a question of the ordinary methods of imparting force and variety to word-arrangement. In regard to these, Dionysius' precepts are, in general, sound and helpful enough; and if, now and then, the process is extolled in what may seem extravagant terms, we have only to think of the vast difference which slight variations of word-order will make even in our modern analytical languages. For example:

Cut is the branch that might have grown full straight.

Marlowe Doctor Faustus.

Goethe Faust.

The effect of these lines would be sadly marred if we were to read "the branch is cut," "that eloquent old man," and "ich war auch schön." In Greek prose, no less than in Greek poetry, inversions like those just quoted would be quite legitimate. This at least we can affirm, though it would be rash to attempt to lay down any general rules with regard to the differences between Greek order in verse and in prose. It is better to follow Dionysius' example and to cull illustrations from both alike impartially, with only two qualifications. First, the Greek word-arrangement is even freer in verse than in prose, though the clause-arrangement and the sentence-arrangement of Greek poetry show (as Dionysius implies in c. 26) a general tendency to coincide with the metrical arrangement. Second, an absolutely metrical arrangement is foreign to the best traditions of Greek prose. It is the second point that is of importance here; and notwithstanding the almost furtive character which he attributes to the metrical lines detected by him in the Aristocrates, it is obvious that Dionysius has in mind a very close and deliberate approximation to the canons of verse and is prepared to strain his material in order to attain it. Here, again, some modern illustrations may be of interest. The writers of the Tudor period seem to have had a special fondness for, and an ear attuned to, what may be roughly regarded as hexameter measures. This predilection appears both in their rendering of the Bible and in the Book of Common Prayer: —

How art thou | fallen from | Heaven, O | Lucifer, | son of the | morning.
 How art | thou cut | down to the | ground, which didst | weaken the | nations.
 Why do the | heathen | rage, and the | people im | agine a | vain thing?
 (He) poureth con | tempt upon | princes and | weakeneth the | strength of the | mighty.
 God is gone | up with a | shout, the | Lord with the | sound of a | trumpet.
 (The) kings of the | earth stood | up, and the | rulers took | counsel to | gether.
 Dearly be | loved | brethren, the | Scripture | moveth us |.

The rhythms into which modern prose-writers drop are usually iambic or trochaic. This is so with Ruskin and Carlyle, and it would be easy to quote examples from their writings. But, as in ancient so in modern times, the best criticism looks with favour on rhythmical, with disfavour on metrical prose. Prose, it is held, loses its true character — as the minister primarily of reason rather than of emotion — if it is made to conform to the rigid laws of metre.

If Dionysius fails to prove that metrical lines, thinly disguised, are a marked feature of the style of Demosthenes, no greater fortune has attended some attempts made in our own day to establish such exact rhythmical laws as that of the systematic avoidance, in Greek oratory, of a number of short syllables in close succession. It is clear that Demosthenes' ear, with that kind of instinct which comes from musical aptitude and long training (cp. C.V. 266 13 ff., 268 12), shunned undignified accumulations of short syllables, but not with so pedantic a persistency that he could not on occasion use forms like πεφενάκιεν or διατετέλεκεν or προσαγαγόμενον. If he formulated to himself a principle, instead of trusting to inspiration controlled by long experience, this principle would be that which Cicero attributes to a critic who was almost contemporary with Demosthenes: “namque ego illud adsentior Theophrasto, qui putat orationem, quae quidem sit polita atque facta quodam modo, non astrictae, sed remissius numerosam esse oportere” (Cic. de Orat. iii. 48. 184). The necessary limits to be observed in these curious inquiries are well indicated by Quintilian, who utters some sensible warnings against any attempts continually to scent metre in prose or to ban some feet while admitting others: “neque enim loqui possumus nisi syllabis brevibus ac longis, ex quibus pedes fiunt ... miror autem in hac opinione doctissimos homines fuisse, ut alios pedes ita eligerent aliosque damnarent, quasi ullus esset, quem non sit necesse in oratione prehendi” (Quintil. Inst. Or. ix. 4. 61 and 87).

On the subject of prose and poetry, Coleridge's Biographia Literaria (ed. Shawcross, Clarendon Press, 1907) is likely long to hold its unique position. Theodore Watts-Dunton's article on “Poetry” in the Encyclopaedia Britannica contains an appreciative estimate of the good service done to criticism by Dionysius in the de Compositione. The article by Louis Havet on La Prose métrique (in La Grande Encyclopédie, xxvii. 804-806) deals with what we should call “rhythmical prose,” the French terminology differing here from our own. Some account of enjambement (with ancient and modern illustrations) will be found in the Notes, p ff. The recent writings on Greek rhythm and metre are almost endless. Some of them will be suggested by the names of: Rossbach, Westphal, Weil, Schmidt, Christ, Gleditsch, Wilamowitz-Moellendorff, Goodell, Masqueray, Blass.

With regard to the relation between metre and rhythm, there is not a little suggestiveness in the saying of the historical Longinus: μέτρον δὲ πατήρ ῥυθμὸς καὶ θεός (Proleg. in Heph. Ench.; Westphal Script. Metr. Graeci i. 82). There is also, in our day, an increasing recognition of the intimate alliance between Greek poetry and Greek music; it is more and more seen that lyric stanzas are formed out of figures and phrases, rather than from mere mechanical feet. Nor is it to be forgotten that poetic rhythm may probably be traced back to the regular movements of the limbs in dancing. The views of Blass on ancient prose rhythm are given in his Die attische Beredsamkeit, Die Rhythmen der attischen Kunstprosa (Isokrates, Demosthenes, Platon), and Die Rhythmen der asianischen und römischen Kunstprosa (Paulus, Hebräerbrief, Pausanias, Cicero, Seneca, Curtius, Apuleius); and some of them are summarized in an article which he contributed, shortly before his death, to Hermathena ("On Attic Prose Rhythm" Hermathena No. xxxii., 1906). Probably his tendency was to seek after too much uniformity in such matters as the avoidance of hiatus and of successive short syllables, or as the symmetrical correspondences between clauses within the period. The best Attic orators were here guided, more or less consciously, by two principles to which Dionysius constantly refers: (1) μεταβολή, or the love of variety; (2) τὸ πρέπον, or the sense of propriety. This sense of propriety rejected all such obvious and systematic art as should cause a speech to seem, in Aristotle's words, πεπλασμένος and ἀπίθανος (Rhet. iii. 2. 4; 8. 1). Still, Demosthenes' greatest speeches were no doubt carefully revised before they were given to the world; and so the blade may have been cold-polished, after leaving the forge of the imagination. It is to be noticed that, in the matter of hiatus, for example, some of the best manuscripts of Demosthenes do seem to observe a strict parsimony; and this careful avoidance of open vowels may be due ultimately rather to Demosthenes himself than to an early scholar-editor. Whatever the final judgment on Blass's work may be, he will have done good service by directing attention anew to a point so hard for the modern ear to appreciate as the great part played in artistic Greek prose by the subtle use of time, — of long and short syllables arranged in a kind of general equipoise rather than in any regular and definite succession. How singularly important that part was reckoned to be, such passages of Dionysius as the following help to indicate: οὐ γὰρ δὴ φαῦλόν τι πρᾶγμα ῥυθμὸς ἐν λόγοις οὐδὲ προσθήκης τινὸς μοῖραν ἔχον οὐκ ἀναγκαίᾳς, ἀλλ' εἰ δεῖ τάληθές, ὥς ἐμὴ δόξα, εἰπεῖν, ἀπάντων κυριώτατον τῶν γοητεύειν δυναμένων καὶ κληεῖν τὰς ἀκοάς (de Demosth. c. 39).

A. Greek Music: in Relation to the Greek Language

For the modern student there is perhaps no more valuable chapter of the de Compositione than that (c. 11) which treats of the musical element in Greek speech. It helps to bring home the fact that, among the ancient Greeks, “the science of public oratory was a musical science, differing from vocal and instrumental music in degree, not in kind” (μουσικὴ γὰρ τις ἦν καὶ ἡ τῶν πολιτικῶν λόγων ἐπιστήμη τῷ ποσῷ διαλλάττουσα τῆς ἐν ᾧ καὶ ὀργάνοις, οὐχὶ τῷ ποιῷ, 124 20). The extraordinary sensitiveness of Greek audiences to the music of sounds is described by Dionysius, who also indicates the musical intervals observed in singing and in speaking, and touches on the relation borne by the words to the music in a song. His statements, further, give countenance to the view that “the chief elements of utterance — pitch, time, and stress — were independent in ancient Greek speech, just as they are in music. And the fact that they were independent goes a long way to prove our main contention, viz. that ancient Greek speech had a peculiar quasi-musical character, and consequently that the difficulty which modern scholars feel in understanding the ancient statements on such matters as accent and quantity is simply the difficulty of conceiving a form of utterance of which no examples can now be observed.” Even Aristotle, Greek though he was, seems to have felt imperfectly those harmonies of balanced cadence which come from the poet, or artistic prose-writer, to whom words are as notes to the musician. And if Aristotle, a Greek though not an Athenian, shows himself not fully alive to the music of the most musical of languages, it is hardly matter for wonder that writers of our own rough island prose should be far from feeling that they are musicians playing on an instrument of many strings, and should be ready, as Dionysius might have said in his most serious vein, εἰς γέλωτα λαμβάνειν τὰ σπουδαιότατα δι’ ἀπειρίαν (252 16). It is true that, on the other side, we have R. L. Stevenson, who writes: “Each phrase of each sentence, like an air or recitative in music, should be so artfully compounded out of longs and shorts, out of accented and unaccented syllables, as to gratify the sensual ear. And of this the ear is the sole judge.” Dionysius and Stevenson are, admittedly, slight names to set against that of Aristotle. But this is no reason why they should not be allowed to supplement his statements when he is too deeply concerned with matter and substance to say much about manner and the niceties and enchantments of form. And Dionysius is — it must in justice be conceded — no mere word-taster but a man genuinely alive to the great issues that dignify and ennoble style. He can, for example, thus describe the effect, subsequent and immediate, of Demosthenes’ speeches: “When I take up one of his speeches, I am entranced and am carried hither and thither, stirred now by one emotion, now by another. I feel distrust, anxiety, fear, disdain, hatred, pity, good-will, anger, jealousy. I am agitated by every passion in turn that can sway the human heart, and am like those who are being initiated into wild mystic rites.... When we who are centuries removed from that time, and are in no way affected by the matters at issue, are thus swept off our feet and mastered and borne wherever the discourse leads us, what must have been the feelings excited by the speaker in the minds of the Athenians and the Greeks generally, when living interests of their own were at stake, and when the great orator, whose reputation stood so high, spoke from the heart and revealed the promptings of his inmost soul?"

In addition to D. B. Monro's book on Greek music, reference may be made to such works as Rossbach and Westphal's Theorie der musischen Künste der Hellenen, H. S. Macran's edition of Aristoxenus' Harmonics (from the Introduction to which a quotation of some length will be found in the note on 194 7), and the edition of Plutarch's de Musica by H. Weil and Th. Reinach. The articles, by W. H. Frere and H. S. Macran, on Greek Music in the new edition of Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians should also be consulted, as well as the essay, by H. R. Fairclough, on "The Connexion between Music and Poetry in Early Greek Literature" in Studies in Honour of Basil Lanneau Gildersleeve. The close connexion between music and verbal harmony is brought out in Longinus de Sublim. cc. 39-41. In Grenfell and Hunt's Hibeh Papyri, Part i. (1906), , there is a short "Discourse on Music" which the editors are inclined to attribute to Hippias of Elis, the contemporary of Socrates.

B. Accent in Ancient Greek

If there were any doubt that the Greek accent was an affair of pitch rather than of stress, the eleventh chapter of this treatise would go far to remove it. It is clear that Dionysius describes the difference between the acute and the grave accent as a variation of pitch, and that he considers this variation to be approximately the same as the musical interval of a fifth, or (as he himself explains) three tones and a semitone. Similarly Aristoxenus (Harm. i. 18) writes λέγεται γὰρ δὴ καὶ λογῶδες τι μέλος, τὸ συγκείμενον ἐκ τῶν προσωδιῶν τῶν ἐν τοῖς ὀνόμασιν· φυσικὸν γὰρ τὸ ἐπιτείνειν καὶ ἀνιέναι ἐν τῷ διαλέγεσθαι ('for there is a kind of melody in speech which depends upon the accent of words, as the voice in speaking rises and sinks by a natural law,' Macran). The expression προσωδία itself (cp. τάσεις φωνῆς αἱ καλούμεναι προσωδία, 196 16) implies a melodic character, and the adjectives (ὀξύς and βαρύς) which denote 'acute' and 'grave' are used regularly in Greek music for what we call 'high' and 'low' pitch. It would be hard to believe that βαρύς could ever have indicated an absence of stress.

That such a musical pitch — such a rising or falling of tone — can be quite independent of quantity seems to be proved by the analogy of Vedic Sanskrit, inasmuch as, when reciting verses in that language, the native priests are said to succeed in keeping quantity and musical accent altogether distinct. "We cannot now say exactly how Homer's verse sounded in the ears of the Greeks themselves; and yet we can tell even this more nearly than Matthew Arnold imagined. Sanskrit verse, like Greek, had both quantity and musical accent; and the recitation of the Vedic poems, as handed down by immemorial tradition, and as it may be heard to-day, keeps both these elements clear. It is a sort of intoned recitative, most impressive and agreeable to the sensitive ear."

A useful handbook on the general subject of Greek Accentuation (including its musical character) is Vendryes' Traité d'accentuation grecque, which is prefaced by a bibliographical list. The volume is noticed, in the Classical Review xix. 363-367, by J. P. Postgate, who supplements it in some important directions. There is also a discussion of the nature and theory of the Greek accent in Hadley's Essays p-127. As Monro (Modes) remarks, it is our habit of using Latin translations of the terms of Greek grammar that has tended to obscure the fact that those terms belong in almost every case to the ordinary vocabulary of music. The point of the illustration drawn from the Orestes, in the C.V. c. 11, is that the musical setting in question neglected entirely the natural tune, or accent, of the words. It is not to be assumed that Dionysius approved (except within narrow limits) of this practice or of the corresponding neglect of syllabic quantity (128 19). He probably regarded such excesses as innovations due to inferior schools of music and rhythm. In the hymns found at Delphi (and also in an inscription discovered by W. M. Ramsay) there is a remarkable correspondence between the musical notes and the accentuation of the words, as was pointed out by Monro (Modes p, 91, 116, 141; and Classical Review ix. 467-470). It is the hymns to Apollo (belonging probably to the early part of the third century B.C.), in which the acute accents usually coincide with a rise of pitch, that Dionysius would doubtless have regarded as embodying the classical practice. In early times, it must be remembered, words and music were written by the same man; cp. G. S. Farnell Greek Lyric Poetry p, 42. The chief surviving fragments of Greek music (including the recent discoveries at Delphi) will be found in C. Jan's Musici Scriptores Graeci (with Supplement), as published by Teubner.

C. Pronunciation of Ancient Greek

The de Compositione is not a treatise on Greek Pronunciation, or even on Greek Phonetics. The sections which touch upon these subjects are strictly subsidiary to the main theme; they are literary rather than philological in aim. There was, in fact, no independent study of phonetics in Greek antiquity; the subject was simply a handmaid in the service of music and rhetoric. Hence the reference early in c. 14 to the authority of Aristoxenus "the musician," and the constant endeavour to rank the letters according to standards of beautiful sound. Still, though Dionysius' object in describing the way in which the different letters are produced is not scientific but aesthetic and euphonic, much praise is due to the rigorous thoroughness which led him to undertake such an investigation at all. And it has had important incidental results.

One modern authority claims that, notwithstanding difficulties in the interpretation of the de Compositione due either to vague statements in the text or to defective knowledge on our own part, it is possible to reconstruct, with essential accuracy, the "Dionysian Pronunciation of Greek," or (in other words) the pronunciation current among cultivated Greeks during the fifty years preceding the birth of Christ; while another authority has given a transliteration of the Lord's Prayer, according to the original text, in the Hellenistic pronunciation of the first century A.D. It is, further, maintained that, thanks to the general progress of philological research, we can in the main reproduce with certainty the sounds (including even the aspirates) actually heard at Athens in the fourth century B.C. — with such certainty, at all events, as will suffice for the practical purposes of the modern teacher.

Two circumstances render it unsafe to lean unduly on Dionysius' evidence in determining the pronunciation of the earlier Greek period. Although he studied with enthusiasm the literature produced by Greece in her prime, and would certainly desire to read it to his pupils in the same tones as might have been used by its original authors, it is hardly likely that the pronunciation of the language had changed less in three or four hundred years than that (say) of English has changed since the days of Shakespeare. The other circumstance is the uncertainty which attends some of his statements, quite apart from any question of the period which they may be supposed to cover. This uncertainty is due to the fact that there was no science of phonetics in his day, and that consequently his explanations are sometimes obscure, either in themselves or at all events to their modern interpreters. But in many other cases he is, fortunately, explicit and easily understood. One example only shall be given, but that an important one: the pronunciation of ζ. In 144 9-12, it is clearly indicated that ζ is a double letter, and that it is composed of σ and δ (in that order): διπλᾶ δὲ τρία τό τε ζ̄ καὶ τὸ ξ̄ καὶ τὸ ψ̄. διπλᾶ δὲ λέγουσιν αὐτὰ ἦτοι διὰ τὸ σύνθετα εἶναι τὸ μὲν ζ̄ διὰ τοῦ σ̄ καὶ δ̄, τὸ δὲ ξ̄ διὰ τοῦ κ̄ καὶ σ̄, τὸ δὲ ψ̄ διὰ τοῦ π̄ καὶ σ̄, κτλ. The manuscript testimony is here in favour of σ̄ καὶ δ̄ (rather than the reverse order), and it may be noticed that the similar reading, ὑπασ-δ̄-εὐχαισα, is well supported in Sappho's Hymn to Aphrodite (238 9). The statement is not in any way contradicted by the further statements in 146 5 and 148 6; and taken together with other evidence (e.g. such forms as συρίσδειν = συρίζειν, κωμάσδειν = κωμάζειν, Ἀθήναζε = Ἀθήνασδε), it seems to establish this as at least one pronunciation of ζ. The actual pronunciation may well have varied at different times and in different places. Some authorities think that in fifth-century Greece the sound was like that of English zd in the word 'glazed,' while in the fourth century it roughly resembled dz in the word 'adze' (Arnold and Conway, op. cit. p. 7).

The book which deals most directly with the de Compositione in relation to Greek pronunciation is A. J. Ellis' English, Dionysian, and Hellenic Pronunciation of Greek, considered in reference to School and College Use. In applying great phonetic skill to the interpretation of Dionysius' statements, the author of this pamphlet has done much service; but he abandons too lightly any attempt to recover a still earlier pronunciation, and shows an uncritical spirit in so readily believing () that Erasmus could be hoaxed in the matter of Greek pronunciation. A more trustworthy work is F. Blass' Pronunciation of Ancient Greek (translated by W. J. Purton), in which the scientific aids towards a reconstruction of the old pronunciation are marshalled with much force. Arnold and Conway's Restored Pronunciation of Greek and Latin, and Giles' Manual of Comparative Philology (p-118: especially for ζ), contain a succinct statement of probable results. There is also a good article, by W. G. Clark, on Greek Pronunciation and Accentuation in the Journal of Philology i. p-108; with which should be compared the papers by Wratishaw and Geldart in vol. ii. of the same journal. The entire conflict on the subject of Greek pronunciation, as waged by the early combatants in England and Holland, is reflected in Havercamp's two volumes entitled Sylloge Scriptorum qui de linguae Graecae vera et recta pronuntiatione commentarios reliquerunt, videlicet Adolphi Mekerchi, Theodori Bezae, Jacobi Ceratini et Henrici Stephani (Leyden, 1736), and his Sylloge Altera Scriptorum qui ... reliquerunt, videlicet Desiderii Erasmi, Stephani Vintoniensis Episcopi, Cantabrigiensis Academiae Cancellarii, Joannis Checi, Thomae Smith, Gregorii Martini, et Erasmi Schmidt (Leyden, 1740). Erasmus' dialogue de recta Latini Graecique sermonis pronuntiatione (Basle, 1528) was, in its way, a true work of science in that it laid stress on the fact that variety of symbols implied variety of sounds, and that diphthongal writing implied a diphthongal pronunciation. Attention has lately been directed to the fact that Erasmus claims no originality for his views on this subject, and that he had been anticipated, in varying degrees, by Jerome Aleander in France, by Aldus Manutius in Italy, and (earlier still) by the Spanish humanist, Antonio of Lebrixa (Bywater The Erasmus Pronunciation of Greek and its Precursors Oxford, 1908). It may be noted, in passing, that when enumerating the errors of his Byzantine contemporaries, Antonio mentions that they pronounced Z "as a single letter, whereas it was really composite, and stood for SD" (Bywater,). Among the immediate successors of Erasmus in this field the most interesting, perhaps, is Sir Thomas Smith (1513-1577), who, like Cheke, was one of the "etists" and so incurred the wrath of Stephen Gardiner and drew out that edict which threatened various penalties (including corporal punishment for boys) against the practice of unlawful innovations in the province of Greek pronunciation. It was Smith who, in his treatise de recta et emendata linguae Graecae pronuntiatione (Havercamp, ii. 542), detected a lacuna in the text of C.V. 140 16 as current in his time, and secured the right sense by the insertion of δῦο δὲ βραχέα τό τε ε̄ καὶ τὸ ο̄ after τὸ ω̄ (in l. 17). Echoes, more or less distinct, of the long dispute as to the pronunciation of the ancient classical languages may be heard in such various quarters as: (1) [Beaumont and] Fletcher's Elder Brother ii. 1, "Though I can speak no Greek, I love the sound on't; it goes so thundering as it conjur'd devils"; (2) King James I. (in an address to the University of Edinburgh, delivered at Stirling), "I follow his [George Buchanan's] pronunciation, both of his Latin and Greek, and am sorry that my people of England do not the like; for certainly their pronunciation utterly fails the grace of these two learned languages"; and (3) Gibbon's reference to "our most corrupt and barbarous mode of uttering Latin." In modern times a constant effort is being made to get nearer to the true pronunciation of the two classical languages; and (to speak of Greek alone) some interesting side-lights have been shed on the subject by the discovery of Anglo-Saxon or Oriental transliterations (cp. Hadley Essays p-140, and Bendall in Journal of Philology xxix. 199-201). The application of well-ascertained results to the teaching of Greek pronunciation could be injurious only if it were allowed to impede the principal object of Greek study — contact with the great minds of the past. But an attempt to recapture some part of the music of the Greek language is hardly likely to have this disastrous effect.

D. Greek Grammar

Grammar, like phonetics, was by the ancients often regarded as a part of "music." It would not, therefore, seem unnatural to his readers that, in a treatise on euphony, Dionysius should continually be referring to the parts of speech (τὰ μέρη τοῦ λόγου). He also uses freely such technical terms of grammar as: πτῶσις, ἔγκλισις, ἀπαρέμφατος, πληθυντικῶς, ὕπτιος, ἄρρενικός, θηλυκός, οὐδέτερος, ἄρθρον, ὄνομα, πρόθεσις, σύνδεσμος, etc. Though himself concerned more immediately with the euphonic relations of words, he is fully alive to the phenomena of their syntactical relations. His remarks on grammatical points show, as might have been expected, many points of contact with the brief treatise of another Dionysius — Dionysius Thrax, who was born a full century earlier than himself. Dionysius Thrax was a pupil of Aristarchus, and produced the earliest formal Greek Grammar. Some interesting hints as to the successive steps in grammatical analysis which had made such a Grammar possible may be found in the second chapter of the de Compositione, where special mention is made of Theodectes, Aristotle, and "the leaders of the Stoic School." In c. 5, a useful protest is raised against the tyranny of grammar, which so often seeks to control by iron "rules" the infinite variety and living flexibility of language.

The standard edition of Dionysii Thracis Ars Grammatica is that by Uhlig (Leipzig, 1883). The whole question of ancient views on grammar can be studied in Steinthal's Geschichte der Sprachwissenschaft bei den Griechen und Römern, mit besonderer Rücksicht auf die Logik (2nd ed., Berlin, 1890-91).

E. Sources of the de Compositione

It must strike every reader of the treatise, that Dionysius combines some assertion of originality with many acknowledgments of indebtedness to predecessors. In this there is, of course, no necessary inconsistency. The work covers a wide field, and implies an acquaintance with many special studies. While referring with gratitude and respect to the admitted authorities in these various branches of learning or science, Dionysius claims for himself a certain originality of idea and of treatment. He is among the first to have written a separate treatise on this particular subject, and he is the first to have attempted an adequate treatment of it.

In making these acknowledgments, Dionysius does not specify any Latin writers, nor indeed any recent writers whatsoever. When Quintilian, in the fourth chapter of his Ninth Book, is himself writing a short de Compositione, he mentions "Halicarnasseus Dionysius" and (with special respect) "M. Tullius." But Dionysius says not a word about Cicero or Horace, although the former was partly and the latter fully contemporary with himself, and although they, like himself, were students of literary composition. As his work on early Roman history shows, Dionysius was not ignorant of Latin; and it is unfortunate that he did not think of comparing Greek writers with Latin. But the comparative method of literary criticism hardly existed in Greek antiquity, notwithstanding the reference to Cicero and Demosthenes in the de Sublimitate, whose author (it may be added here) not only treats of σύνθεσις in two of his chapters, but also tells us that he had already dealt with the subject in two separate treatises.

To his Greek predecessors Dionysius often refers in general terms. For example, they are called οἱ πρὸ ἡμῶν in 140 7, οἱ πρότερον in 96 7, and οἱ ἀρχαῖοι in 68 9. The last term best suggests Dionysius' habitual attitude, which was that of looking to the past for the finest work in criticism as well as in literature. And so it will be found that, though the de Compositione Verborum contains incidental references to the Stoics and to other leaders of thought, its highest respect seems to be reserved for Aristotle and his disciples Theophrastus and Aristoxenus. But the question of Dionysius' obligations to his predecessors (and to the Peripatetics particularly) is so large and far-reaching that it must be treated separately elsewhere. Meanwhile, let it be noted how considerably his various writings illustrate, and are illustrated by, the Rhetoric of Aristotle.

As to its originality, the book may well be left to answer for itself. It does not read like a dull compilation. The learning is there, but it is lightly borne, and none can doubt that the writer has long thought over his subject and can give to others the fruits of his reflexions with verve and a contagious enthusiasm. The work has an easy flow of its own, as though it had been rapidly (but not carelessly) written, out of a well-stored mind, while its author was busy with his teaching and with the many literary enterprises to which he so often refers. It must be conceded that a literary critic who deals with so difficult, many-sided, and elusive a subject as that of composition can hardly avoid some errors of detail, since he cannot hope to be a master in all the accessory sciences upon which he has to lean. But we may well be content if he preserves for later ages much invaluable literature and teaching which would otherwise have been lost, — if he himself maintains (amid corrupting influences) high standards in his literary preferences and in his own writing, — and if he sheds a ray of light upon many a hidden beauty of Greek style which would but for him be shrouded in darkness.

Reference may be made to G. Ammon de Dionysii Halicarnassensis Librorum Rhetoricorum Fontibus and to G. Mestwerdt de Dionysii Halicarnassensis in libro de Compositione Verborum Studiis. One section of the subject is also treated in G. L. Hendrickson's valuable papers on the 'Peripatetic Mean of Style and the Three Stylistic Characters' and on the 'Origin and Meaning of the Ancient Characters of Style' in the American Journal of Philology vols. xxv. and xxvi.; and in H. P. Breitenbach's dissertation on The 'De Compositione' of Dionysius of Halicarnassus considered with reference to the 'Rhetoric' of Aristotle.

F. Quotations and Literary References in the de Compositione

The greatest of all the lyrical passages quoted in the treatise is Sappho's Hymn to Aphrodite. But great as this is, it does not stand alone. It has companions, if not equals, in the Danaë of Simonides and in the opening of a Pindaric dithyramb. The very preservation of these splendid relics, as of some slighter ones, we owe to Dionysius alone. The total extent of the quotations made in the course of the treatise may be judged from the references given at the foot of the translation: these illustrative extracts form a substantial part of the work they illustrate. The width of Dionysius' literary outlook may also be inferred from the following roughly-drawn Chronological Table, which (for the sake of completeness) includes some authors who are mentioned but not actually quoted: —

To this list might be added the minor historians, of the third and second centuries B.C., who are mentioned together with Polybius in c. 4, and of whom some account will be found in the notes on that chapter: Phylarchus, Duris, Psaon, Demetrius of Callatis, Hieronymus, Antigonus, Heracleides, and Hegesianax. And it will be noticed, further, that the treatise contains a large number of unassigned verse-fragments, which can only be referred, vaguely, to some lyric poet or to the lyric portions of some tragic poet. By such anonymous fragments, as well as by the poems quoted under the names of Sappho and Simonides, we are reminded of the many lost works of Greek literature and of the happy surprises which Egypt or Herculaneum or the Sultan's Library may still have in store for us. If the quotations as a whole — identified and unidentified, previously known and previously unknown — are passed in review, it will be found that Dionysius has given us a small Anthology of Greek prose and verse. While strictly relevant to the main theme, his illustrations are chosen with so much taste, and from so wide a field of study, that (to adapt his own words) οὐκ ἀδηΐς ὁ λόγος ἐγένετο πολλοῖς ὥσπερ ἄνθεσι διαποικιλλόμενος τοῖς ἔαρινοῖς.

Two prose-writers mentioned by Dionysius seem to invite special comment: Polybius and Hegesias. It is not without a kind of shock that we find the great historian Polybius classed, along with Phylarchus and the rest, among writers whose works no man can bring himself to read from cover to cover. But we have to remember that the judgment is passed solely from the standpoint of style; and from this restricted standpoint, it can hardly be said that subsequent critics have ventured to reverse it and to maintain that Polybius is (to use the modern expression) an eminently "readable" author. Let one modern estimate be quoted, and that from a writer who appreciates fully the greatness of Polybius' theory of history, and who, on the other hand, is not concerned to vindicate the soundness of Dionysius' judgment: "Unfortunately, his [Polybius'] style is a serious deterrent to the reader. We long for the ease, the finished grace, the flowing simplicity of Herodotus; or again, for the terse and rapid phrase of Thucydides, the energy, the precision of each single word, the sentence packed with thought. Polybius has lost the Greek artistic feeling for writing, the delicate sense of proportion, the faculty of reserve. The freshness and distinction of the Attic idiom are gone. He writes with an insipid and colourless monotony. In arranging his materials he is equally inartistic. He is always anticipating objections and digressing; he wearies you with dilating on the excellence of his own method; he even assures you that the size and price of his book ought not to keep people from buying it. Admirable as is the substance of his writing, he pays the penalty attaching to neglect of form — he is read by the few.”

Hegesias is not only mentioned, but quoted, in the treatise. A few detached sentences are given from his writings, and one longer passage. In c. 4 Dionysius rewrites a brief extract from Herodotus in utter defiance of the customary rules (or practices) of Greek word-order, and then exclaims, “This form of composition resembles that of Hegesias: it is affected, degenerate, enervated.” He proceeds: “In such trumpery arts the man is a hierophant. He writes, for instance, ‘After a goodly festival another goodly one keep we.’ ‘Of Magnesia am I, the mighty land, a man of Sipylus I.’ ‘No little drop into the Theban waters spewed Dionysus: O yea, sweet is the stream, but madness it engendereth.’”

In c. 18 Dionysius illustrates the beauty of prose-rhythm from Thucydides, Plato, and Demosthenes. He then assigns to Hegesias a bad pre-eminence among writers who have neglected this essential of their art. Quoting a passage of some length from his History, he asks how it compares with Homer’s description of a similar scene; and he holds the vast superiority of the latter to be due ‘chiefly, if not entirely, to the difference in the rhythms.’ In the words just cited there is obviously much exaggeration. But we must allow for Dionysius’ preoccupation in this treatise (cp. τοῦτ’ ἦν σχεδὸν ὃ μάλιστα διαλλάττει ποιητῆς τε ποιητοῦ καὶ ῥήτωρ ῥήτορος, τὸ συντιθέναι δεξιῶς τὰ ὀνόματα, 92 18-20), and must, at any rate, try to discover wherein the main defect of Hegesias’ rhythms is supposed to lie. It is probable that no single thing in the passage offends the ear of Dionysius so much as the double trochees (or their metrical equivalent) which are found at the end of so many of the clauses. This double trochee, or dichoree, is found in its normal form (– ∪ – ∪) at the end of such cola as those which terminate in: τοῖς ἀρίστοις, καὶ τὸ πλῆθος, εἰς τὸ τολμᾶν, τῇ μαχαίρᾳ, καὶ Φιλωτᾷς, καὶ τὸ χρῶμα, σκαιὸν ἐχθρόν. The metrical equivalent ∪ ∪ ∪ – ∪ occurs in such instances as: πρότερον οὕτως, ἔνεκα πρᾶξι, κατακοπῆναι, καθικετεύων. It is interesting to observe that this final dichoree is regarded both by Cicero and by Quintilian as characteristic of the Asiatic orators. Let it be added that, in the extract from Hegesias, the dichorees are not confined to the close of clauses but occur freely in other positions, while many of the sentences are short and the reverse of periodic; and it will be granted that Cicero has good ground for calling attention to the jerky, or staccato, character of the style in question. In the Orator (67. 226) the effect of Hegesias’ writing is thus described: “quam (sc. numerosam comprehensionem) perverse fugiens Hegesias, dum ille quoque imitari Lysiam volt, alterum paene Demosthenem, saltat incidens particulas." And his manner is amusingly parodied in one of the letters to Atticus (ad Att. xii. 6): "de Caelio vide, quaeso, ne quae lacuna sit in auro: | ego ista non novi; | sed certe in collubo est detrimenti satis. | huc aurum si accedit | — sed quid loquor? | tu videbis. | habes Hegesiae genus! quod Varro laudat." Two further specimens (not given by Dionysius) of Hegesias' style will add point to Cicero's parody. The first is preserved by Strabo (Geogr. 396): ὀρῶ τὴν ἀκρόπολιν | καὶ τὸ περιττῆς τριαίνης | ἐκεῖθι σημείον· | ὀρῶ τὴν Ἑλευσίνα, | καὶ τῶν ἱερῶν γέγονα μύστης· | ἐκεῖνο Λεωκόριον· | τοῦτο Θησεῖον· | οὐ δύναμαι δηλῶσαι | καθ' ἓν ἕκαστον. The other specimen is quoted by Photius (Bibl. cod. 250) from Agatharchides, the geographer of Cnidus: ὁμοιον πεποίηκας, Ἀλέξανδρε, Θήβας κατασκάψας, ὡς ἂν εἰ ὁ Ζεὺς ἐκ τῆς κατ' οὐρανὸν μερίδος ἐκβάλλοι τὴν σελήνην. ὑπολείπομαι γὰρ τὸν ἥλιον ταῖς Ἀθήναις. δύο γὰρ αὐταὶ πόλεις τῆς Ἑλλάδος ἦσαν ὄψεις. διὸ καὶ περὶ τῆς ἐτέρας ἀγωνιῶ νῦν. ὁ μὲν γὰρ εἷς αὐτῶν ὀφθαλμὸς ἡ Θηβαίων ἐκκέκοπται πόλις.

It is quite clear, from his express statements, that Dionysius, in his criticisms, has in view, mainly if not entirely, the bad rhythms of Hegesias. But the passages which he quotes seem open to criticism on other grounds as well. The long extract in c. 18 contains metaphors which might well seem violent to the Greeks, who allowed themselves less licence than the moderns do in this direction (e.g. ἡ μὲν οὖν ἐλπίς αὕτη συνέδραμεν εἰς τὸ τολμᾶν, and τοὺς δ' ἄλλους ὀργὴν πρόσφατος ἐπίμπρα); and it is high-flown expressions of this kind which the author of the de Sublimitate has in view when he writes: τὰ γε μὴν Ἀμφικράτους τοιαῦτα καὶ Ἥγησιου καὶ Ματρίδος· πολλαχοῦ γὰρ ἐνθουσιᾶν ἑαυτοῖς δοκοῦντες οὐ βακχεύουσιν ἀλλὰ παίζουσιν (iii. 2). False emphasis, too, and a general desire to purchase notoriety by the cheap method of eccentric word-order, would appear to be implied in Dionysius' own parody in c. 4 (90 15-19). For example, Ἀλυσάπτου and ἐθνῶν, though not in themselves important, are assigned prominent positions at the beginning and the end of the sentence. But the greatest of all the defects of Hegesias — especially when compared with Homer — is a certain vulgarity of tone.

The contrast drawn between Hegesias and Homer may seem overstrained, but it is eminently characteristic of Dionysius. Homer was to him the great pure fount of Greek, and his own constant desire was "antiquos accedere fontes." Hegesias, on the other hand, typifies to him the decline in Greek literature which followed the death of Alexander, whose exploits he records with so feeble a magniloquence. And yet the curious thing is that Hegesias, who lived probably in the earlier part of the third century, aspires (as Cicero tells us) to copy Lysias. But while endeavouring thus to imitate one of the most Attic of the Attic writers, he came, by the irony of fate, to be regarded as the founder of the degenerate Asiatic school: Ἥγησίας ὁ ῥήτωρ, ὃς ἦρξε μάλιστα τοῦ Ἀσιανοῦ λεγομένου ζήλου, παραφθείρας τὸ καθεστηκὸς ἔθος τὸ Ἀττικόν (Strabo Geogr. xiv. 1. 41). In the terms “Attic” and “Asiatic” there often lurks some confusion of thought, as well as no little prejudice and rhetorical animosity. But of Dionysius, as compared with Hegesias, it is clearly within the mark to say that, though he lived two centuries later, he has vastly more of the true Attic feeling for purity of style; and that, though he may himself have cherished wild dreams of turning back the tide of language, yet in league with some leading Romans of his day he did good service by showing how the best Attic models may hold out to future ages shining examples of the skill and beauty which all men should strive after in handling the language of their birth.

For Dionysius in relation to contemporary Romans, and to the struggle between Asianism and Atticism, reference may be made to Dionysius of Halicarnassus: the Three Literary Letters p-49.

G. Manuscripts and Text

The chief authorities for the text of the de Compositione are indicated in the following list of abbreviations employed in the apparatus criticus of the present edition: —

Siglorum in notulis criticis adhibitorum Index

F = cod. Florentinus Laurentianus lix. 15. saec. xii.

The Florentine manuscript (F) contains, besides certain writings of other authors, the following works of Dionysius: (1) the essays on Lysias, Isocrates, Isaeus, and Dinarchus: and (2) the de Compositione Verborum (as far as the words πειρατέον δὴ καὶ περὶ τούτων λέγειν ἃ φρονῶ in c. 25). The Paris manuscript 1741 (P) is the famous codex which contains not only the de Comp. Verb., but also Aristotle's Rhetoric and Poetics, Demetrius de Elocutione, Dionysius Halic. Ep. ad Amm. II., De Vet. Scr., etc. Some notes upon the manuscript are given in Demetrius on Style p-11; and the editor has examined it once more at Paris for the purposes of the present recension. The remaining manuscripts are considerably later than F and P. M belongs to the fifteenth century, and V was copied by the Cretan calligrapher Ange Vergèce (as he was called in France) in the sixteenth century. The edition of Robert Stephens is based upon V. In the Journal of Philology xxvii. p ff., there is a careful collation, by A. B. Poynton, of "Some Readings of MS. Canonici 45" (C: sixteenth century) in the Bodleian Library, with regard to which the collator says: "Despite the care with which the work is done, the manuscript is not of much value as a presentation of the Florentine tradition, since F exists and the writer of C is rather a διασκευαστής than a copyist. The interest of the manuscript is antiquarian and bibliographical.... It is a copy made at some time in the sixteenth century, probably after 1560. It is based on the Florentine MS. with variae lectiones and marginal notes. It has not the appearance of being a mechanical copy: rather it seems to be the work of a scholar who was conversant with the MSS. of the treatise and, while he was aware of the importance of the Florentine MS., saw that in many cases it needed to be corrected."

The dates of the Epitome and of the Rhetor Graecus are uncertain. But both are early and highly important authorities. The latter quotes c. 14 only of the treatise, but the quotation enabled Usener to show that the text of F agreed in the main with that of the Rhetor and of the Epitome. The result was to enhance greatly the authority of F, with which earlier editors had merely an indirect and imperfect acquaintance. But by a not unnatural reaction against the excessive attention paid to what may be called the P group (PMV: though M and V sometimes coincide with F against P), Usener is inclined too readily to follow F, or even E, when standing alone. Still, while the readings supported only by F, or E, or P should be carefully scrutinized and independently judged, the concurrent testimony of FE and any other MS. is very strong indeed.

Two passages taken almost at a venture (say, the first twenty lines of c. 12 and the last twenty of c. 19) would be enough to show that neither F nor P can be exclusively followed, and that Usener himself is often (more often than is indicated in this edition) driven to desert F, which in fact contains, in these or other places, a large number of impossible or even absurd readings. Where, however, there are genuine instances of various readings (as εὐκαιροτέραις: εὐπωτέραις in the last of the passages just specified), it seems best to follow F (especially when supported by other authorities), even though the hand of an ingenious early scholar may sometimes with reason be suspected.

One reason for accepting with reserve the unsupported testimony of F is that its evidence is sometimes far from sound in regard to quotations from authors whose text is well established from other sources. In the principal quotations from Pindar and Thucydides this defect is not so manifest; and it may even be claimed that its text of the Pindaric dithyramb, and of the Herodotus extract on , is distinguished by many excellent features, though not so many as Usener was at first inclined to claim in the case of the Pindar. But in the extract from the Areopagiticus of Isocrates which is given in c. 23, the text presented by F (as compared with that presented by P) seems to suggest that, in dealing with Dionysius' own words as well as with his quotations, the transcriber may have felt entitled to make rather free alterations on his own account. In order to provide readers with the means of judging for themselves, the critical apparatus has been made specially full at this point.

Usener's text of the de Compositione deserves the highest respect: it is the last undertaking of one of the greatest philologists of the nineteenth century, and every succeeding editor must find himself deep in its debt. Its record of readings is full to exhaustiveness. In the present edition less wealth of detail is attempted (especially in regard to F and R), though all really important and typical variations have, it is hoped, been duly registered, and particular attention has been paid to the minute collation of P. But apart from the correction of misprints (as on p 13, 132 23, 250 7), it is hoped that the following among other readings will commend themselves (on an examination of the sections of the Notes or Glossary in which they are defended) as superior to those adopted by Usener (and indicated here in brackets) from conjecture or on manuscript authority: 64 11 (σὸ omitted), 70 5 (εὖ τί), 78 17 (παλαιαί), 80 13 (παιδικόν), 94 13 (προβαῖεν), 94 16 (σπουδάζεσθαι), 98 20 (οἷά τινα), 106 13 (εὖ ἦ), 132 20 (θηρᾶν), 142 9 (σπανίξει), etc.

H. Recent Writings connected with the de Compositione

A full bibliography, covering not only the de Compositione of Dionysius but his rhetorical and critical works generally, is given in the present editor's Dionysius of Halicarnassus: the Three Literary Letters (published in January 1901), p-219. The following are (in chronological order) the early editors who have done most to further the study of the de Compositione: Aldus Manutius (editio princeps), Robertus Stephanus, F. Sylburg, J. Upton, J. J. Reiske, G. H. Schaefer, and F. Goeller. Much interest still attaches to C. Batteux' publication (1788): Traité de l'arrangement des mots: traduit du grec de Denys d'Halicarnasse; avec des réflexions sur la langue française, comparée avec la langue grecque. The translation is too free and based on too poor a text to meet the needs of exact scholarship. But the Réflexions (which accompany the translation, in vol. vi. of the author's Principes de littérature) are full of suggestive remarks. Another excellent literary study of Dionysius is that of Max. Egger: Denys d'Halicarnasse: essai sur la critique littéraire et la rhétorique chez les Grecs au siècle d'Auguste (Paris, 1902). As its title indicates, this volume takes a wide range; and it reveals that full competence in these matters which it is natural to expect from the son of Émile Egger. A short general account, by Radermacher, of Dionysius' critical essays will be found in Pauly-Wissowa's Realencyclopädie vol. v.

The first volume of Usener and Radermacher's text was included in the bibliographical list mentioned above. In 1904 appeared the second volume, containing the de Compositione and some other critical writings of Dionysius (Dionysii Halicarnasei opuscula ediderunt Hermannus Usener et Ludovicus Radermacher. Voluminis sec. fasc. prior. Lipsiae, 1904). The second volume is on a par with the first, which was welcomed, as a notable achievement, in the Classical Review xiv. p-455, where also attention was drawn (a) to a questionable emendation previously introduced by Usener into the text of the de Imitatione. This emendation is withdrawn in Usener's second volume — a fact which may be mentioned as one proof among many that his tendency was to grow more conservative and, in particular, more attentive to the testimony of P 1741. The titles of A. B. Poynton's articles on Dionysius are: "Oxford MSS. of Dionysius Halicarnasseus, De Compositione Verborum" (Journal of Philology xxvii. p-99), and "Oxford MSS. of the Opuscula of Dionysius of Halicarnassus" (Journal of Philology xxviii. p-185). Among other useful subsidia lately published may be mentioned: W. Kroll's "Randbemerkungen" in Rhein. Mus. lxii. p-101, and Larue van Hook's Metaphorical Terminology of Greek Rhetoric and Literary Criticism (Chicago, 1905). R. H. Tukey (Classical Review, September 1909,) makes the interesting suggestion that "the De Compositione belongs chronologically between the two parts of the De Demosthene." The use of the present tense δηλοῦται, in C.V. 182 8 may be held to countenance this view.

In some recent books of larger scope it is pleasant to notice an increased appreciation of the high value of the work done by Dionysius in the field of literary criticism. Certain of these estimates may be quoted in conclusion. R. C. Jebb, in the Companion to Greek Studies : "The maturity of the 'Attic revival' is represented at Rome, in the Augustan age, by the best literary critic of antiquity, Dionysius of Halicarnassus." A. and M. Croiset Histoire de la littérature grecque v. : "Les uns et les autres [les contemporains et les rhéteurs des âges suivants] appréciaient avec raison l'érudition de Denys, la justesse de son esprit, sa finesse dans le discernement des ressemblances et des différences, la solidité de sa doctrine, son goût dans le choix des exemples. De plus, ils se sentaient touchés, comme nous et plus que nous, par la vivacité de ses admirations, par cette sorte de foi communicative, qui faisait de lui le défenseur des traditions classiques." Wilamowitz-Moellendorff Die griechische Literatur des Altertums p and 148: "Von unbestreitbar hohem und dauerndem Werte ist die andere Seite der rhetorischen Theorie und Praxis, die sich auf den Ausdruck erstreckt, die Stilistik.... Es ist ein hohes Lob, dass er (Dionysios von Halikarnass) im Grunde dieselbe stilistische Überzeugung vertritt wie Cicero, und wir sind ihm für die Erhaltung von ungemein viel Wichtigem zu Dank verpflichtet; seine Schriften über die attischen Redner und über die Wortfügung sind auch eine nicht nur belehrende, sondern gefällige Lektüre." J. E. Sandys History of Classical Scholarship i. : "In the minute and technical criticism of the art and craft of Greek literature, the works of Dionysius stand alone in all the centuries that elapsed between the Rhetoric of Aristotle and the treatise On the Sublime." G. Saintsbury History of Criticism i. p, 137, 132: “Dionysius is a very considerable critic, and one to whom justice has not usually, if at all, yet been done.... A critic who saw far, and for the most part truly, into the proper province of literary criticism.... This treatise [sc. the de Compositione], if studied carefully, must raise some astonishment that Dionysius should have been spoken of disrespectfully by anyone who himself possesses competence in criticism. From more points of view than one, the piece gives Dionysius no mean rank as a critic.” S. H. Butcher Harvard Lectures on Greek Subjects p, 239: “Of his fine perception of the harmonies of Greek speech we can entertain no reasonable doubt.... We cannot dismiss his general criticism as unsound or fanciful. The whole history of the evolution of Greek prose, and the practice of the great masters of the art, support his main contention.” With these extracts may be coupled one from the Spectator of March 23, 1901: “In this treatise Dionysius reviews and attempts to explain the art of literature. It is a brilliant effort to analyse the sensuous emotions produced by the harmonious arrangement of beautiful words. Its eternal truth might make it a textbook for to-day.”

In the Notes and Glossary, as in the Introduction, references are usually given to the lines, as well as the pages, of the Greek text here printed: e.g. 80 7 = page 80 line 7 of the De Compositione. — The following abbreviations are used in referring to volumes already issued by the editor: —

D.H. = ‘Dionysius of Halicarnassus: the Three Literary Letters.’

Demetr. = ‘Demetrius on Style.’

CHAPTER I. OCCASION AND PURPOSE OF THE TREATISE

To you, Rufus Metilius, whose worthy father is my most honoured friend, “I also offer this gift, dear child,” as Helen, in Homer, says while entertaining Telemachus. To-day you are keeping your first birthday after your arrival at man’s estate; and of all feasts this is to me the most welcome and most precious. I am not, however, sending you the work of my own hands (to quote Helen’s words when she offers the robe to her young guest), nor what is fitted only for the season of marriage and “meet to pleasure a bride withal.” No, it is the product and the child of my studies and my brain, and also something for you to keep and use in all the business of life which is effected through speech: an aid most necessary, if my estimate is of any account, to all alike who practise civil oratory, whatever their age and temperament, but especially to youths like you who are just beginning to take up the study.

We may say that in practically all speaking two things must have unremitting attention: the ideas and the words. In the former case, the sphere of subject matter is chiefly concerned; in the latter, that of expression; and all who aim at becoming good speakers give equally earnest attention to both these aspects of discourse. But the science which guides us to selection of matter, and to judgment in handling it, is hampered with difficulties for the young; indeed, for beardless striplings, its difficulties are insurmountable. The perfect grasp of things in all their bearings belongs rather to a matured understanding, and to an age that is disciplined by grey hairs, — an age whose powers are developed by prolonged investigation of discourse and action, and by many experiences of its own and much sharing in the fortunes of others. But the love of literary beauty flourishes naturally in the days of youth as much as in later life. For elegance of expression has a fascination for all young minds, making them feel impulses that are instinctive and akin to inspiration. Young people need, at the beginning, much prudent oversight and guidance, if they are not to utter

What word soe’er may have sprung
To the tip of an ill-timed tongue, nor to form at random any chance combinations, but to select pure and noble words, and to place them in the beautiful setting of a composition that unites charm to dignity. So in this department, the first in which the young should exercise themselves, “for love’s service I lend you a strain,” in the shape of this treatise on literary composition. The subject has occurred to but few of all the ancients who have composed manuals of rhetoric or dialectic, and by none has it been, to the best of my belief, accurately or adequately treated up to the present time. If I find leisure, I will produce another book for you — one on the choice of words, in order that you may have the subject of expression exhaustively treated. You may expect that treatise next year at the same festive season, the gods guarding us from accident and disease, if it so be that our destiny has reserved for us the secure attainment of this blessing. But now accept the treatise which my good genius has suggested to me.

The chief heads under which I propose to treat the subject are the following: what is the nature of composition, and where its strength lies; what are its aims and how it attains them; what are its principal varieties, what is the distinctive feature of each, and which of them I believe to be the most effective; and still further, what is that poetical element, so pleasant on the tongue and so sweet to the ear, which naturally accompanies composition in prose, and wherein lies the effectiveness of that poetical art which imitates plain prose and succeeds excellently in doing so, and by what method each of those two results may be attained. Such, in broad outline, are the topics with which I intend to deal, and on this programme my treatise is based.

CHAPTER II. COMPOSITION DEFINED

Composition is, as the very name indicates, a certain arrangement of the parts of speech, or elements of diction, as some call them. These were reckoned as three only by Theodectes and Aristotle and the philosophers of those times, who regarded nouns, verbs and connectives as the primary parts of speech. Their successors, particularly the leaders of the Stoic school, raised the number to four, separating the articles from the connectives. Then the later inquirers divided the appellatives from the substantives, and represented the primary parts of speech as five. Others detached the pronouns from the nouns, and so introduced a sixth element. Others, again, divided the adverbs from the verbs, the prepositions from the connectives and the participles from the appellatives; while others introduced still further subdivisions, and so multiplied the primary parts of speech. The subject would afford scope for quite a long discussion. Enough to say that the combination or juxtaposition of these primary parts, be they three, or four, or whatever may be their number, forms the so-called “members” (or clauses) of a sentence. Further, the fitting together of these clauses constitutes what are termed the “periods,” and these make up the complete discourse. The function of composition is to put words together in an appropriate order, to assign a suitable connexion to clauses, and to distribute the whole discourse properly into periods.

Although in logical order arrangement of words occupies the second place when the department of expression is under investigation, since the selection of them naturally takes precedence and is assumed to be already made; yet it is upon arrangement, far more than upon selection, that persuasion, charm, and literary power depend. And let no one deem it strange that, whereas many serious investigations have been made regarding the choice of words, — investigations which have given rise to much debate among philosophers and political orators, — composition, though it holds the second place in order, and has been the subject of far fewer discussions than the other, yet possesses so much solid strength, so much active energy, that it triumphantly outstrips all the other’s achievements. It must be remembered that, in the case of all the other arts which employ various materials and produce from them a composite result, — arts such as building, carpentry, embroidery, and the like, — the faculties of composition are second in order of time to those of selection, but are nevertheless of greater importance. Hence it must not be thought abnormal that the same principle obtains with respect to discourse. But we may as well submit proofs of this statement, that we may not be thought to assume off-hand the truth of a doubtful proposition.

CHAPTER III. THE MAGICAL EFFECT OF COMPOSITION, OR WORD-ORDER

Every utterance, then, by which we express our thoughts is either in metre or not in metre. Whichever it be, it can, when aided by beautiful arrangement, attain beauty whether of verse or prose. But speech, if flung out carelessly at random, at the same time spoils the value of the thought. Many poets, and prose-writers (philosophers and orators), have carefully chosen expressions that are distinctly beautiful and appropriate to the subject matter, but have reaped no benefit from their trouble because they have given them a rude and haphazard sort of arrangement: whereas others have invested their discourse with great beauty by taking humble, unpretending words, and arranging them with charm and distinction. It may well be thought that composition is to selection what words are to ideas. For just as a fine thought is of no avail unless it be clothed in beautiful language, so here too pure and elegant expression, is useless unless it be attired in the right vesture of arrangement.

But to guard myself against the appearance of making an unsupported assertion, I will try to show by an appeal to facts the reasons which have convinced me that composition is a more important and effective art than mere selection of words. I will first examine a few specimen passages in prose and verse. Among poets let Homer be taken, among prose-writers Herodotus: from these may be formed an adequate notion of the rest.

Well, in Homer we find Odysseus tarrying in the swineherd's hut and about to break his fast at dawn, as they used to do in ancient days. Telemachus then appears in sight, returning from his sojourn in the Peloponnese. Trifling incidents of everyday life as these are, they are inimitably portrayed. But wherein lies the excellence of expression? I shall quote the lines, and they will speak for themselves: —

As anigh came Telemachus' feet, the king and the swineherd wight Made ready the morning meat, and by this was the fire alight; —
They had sent the herdmen away with the pasturing swine at the dawning; — Lo, the dogs have forgotten to bay, and around the prince are they fawning!
And Odysseus the godlike marked the leap and the whine of the hounds That ever at strangers barked; and his ear caught footfall-sounds.
Straightway he spake, for beside him was sitting the master of swine:
"Of a surety, Eumæus, hitherward cometh a comrade of thine,
Or some one the bandogs know, and not with barking greet,
But they fawn upon him; moreover I hear the treading of feet."
Not yet were the words well done, when the porchway darkened: a face Was there in the door, — his son! and Eumæus sprang up in amaze.

Dropped from his hands to the floor the bowls, wherein erst he began

The flame-flushed wine to pour, and to meet his lord he ran;
And he kissed that dear-loved head, and both his beautiful eyes;
And he kissed his hands, and he shed warm tears in his glad surprise.

Everybody would, I am sure, testify that these lines cast a spell of enchantment on the ear, and rank second to no poetry whatsoever, however exquisite it may be. But what is the secret of their fascination, and what causes them to be what they are? Is it the selection of words, or the composition? No one will say "the selection": of that I am convinced. For the diction consists, warp and woof, of the most ordinary, the humblest words, such as might have been used off-hand by a farmer, a seaman, an artisan, or anybody else who takes no account of elegant speech. You have only to break up the metre, and these very same lines will seem commonplace and unworthy of admiration. For they contain neither noble metaphors nor hypallages nor catachreses nor any other figurative language; nor yet many unusual terms, nor foreign or new-coined words. What alternative, then, is left but to attribute the beauty of the style to the composition? There are countless passages of this kind in Homer, as everybody of course is well aware. It is enough to quote this single instance by way of reminder.

Let us now pass on to the language of prose and see if the same principle holds good of it too — that great graces invest trifling and commonplace acts and words, when they are cast into the mould of beautiful composition. For instance, there is in Herodotus a certain Lydian king whom he calls Candaules, adding that he was called Myrsilus by the Greeks. Candaules is represented as infatuated with admiration of his wife, and then as insisting on one of his friends seeing the poor woman naked. The friend struggled hard against the constraint put upon him; but failing to shake the king's resolve, he submitted, and viewed her. The incident, as an incident, is not only lacking in dignity and, for the purpose of embellishment, intractable, but is also vulgar and hazardous and more akin to the repulsive than to the beautiful. But it has been related with great dexterity: it has been made something far better to hear told than it was to see done. And, that no one may imagine that it is to the dialect that the charm of the story is due, I will change its distinctive forms into Attic, and without any further meddling with the language will give the conversation as it stands: —

"Of a truth, Gyges, I think that thou dost not believe what I say concerning the beauty of my wife; indeed, men trust their ears less fully than their eyes. Contrive, therefore, to see her naked.' But he cried out and said: 'My lord, what is this foolish word thou sayest, bidding me look upon my lady naked? for a woman, when she puts off her dress, puts off her shamefastness also. Men of old time have found out excellent precepts, which it behoves us to learn and observe; and among them is this— "Let a man keep his eyes on his own." As for me, I am fully persuaded that she is the fairest of all women, and I beseech thee not to require of me aught that is unlawful.'

Thus he spoke, and strove with him. But the other answered and said: 'Be of good cheer, Gyges, and fear not that I say this to prove thee, or that harm will come to thee from my wife. For, in the first place, I will contrive after such a fashion that she shall not even know that she has been seen by thee. I will bring thee into the room where we sleep, and set thee behind the door that stands ajar; and after I have entered, my wife will come to bed. Now, near the entrance there is a seat; and on this she will place each of her garments as she puts them off, so that thou wilt have time enough to behold. But when she passes from the seat to the couch, and thou art behind her back, then take heed that she see thee not as thou goest away through the door.' Forasmuch, then, as he could not escape, he consented to do after this manner." Here again no one can say that the grace of the style is due to the impressiveness and the dignity of the words. These have not been picked and chosen with studious care; they are simply the labels affixed to things by Nature. Indeed, it would perhaps have been out of place to use other and grander words. I take it, in fact, to be always necessary, whenever ideas are expressed in proper and appropriate language, that no word should be more dignified than the nature of the ideas. That there is no stately or grandiose word in the present passage, any one who likes may prove by simply changing the arrangement. There are many similar passages in this author, from which it can be seen that the fascination of his style does not after all lie in the beauty of the words but in their combination. We need not discuss this question further.

CHAPTER IV. TO CHANGE ORDER IS TO DESTROY BEAUTY

To show yet more conclusively the great force wielded by the faculty of composition both in poetry and prose, I will quote some passages which are universally regarded as fine, and show what a different air is imparted to both verse and prose by a mere change in their arrangement. First let these lines be taken from the Homeric poems: —

But with them was it as with a toil-bowed woman righteous-souled — In her scales be the weights and the wool, and the balance on high doth she hold Poised level, that so may the hard-earned bread to her babes be doled.

This metre is the complete heroic metre of six feet, the basis of which is the dactyl. I will change the order of the words, and will turn the same lines into tetrameters instead of hexameters, into prosodiacs instead of heroics. Thus: —

But it was with them as with a righteous-souled woman toil-bowed,
In her scales weights and wool lie, on high doth she hold the balance Level-poised, so that bread hardly-earned may be doled to her babes.

Such are the following Priapean, or (as some call them) ithyphallic, lines:

I am no profane one, O young Dionysus' votaries;
By his favour come I too initiate as one of his.

Taking again other lines of Homer, and neither adding nor withdrawing anything, but simply varying the order, I will produce another kind of verse, the so-called Ionic tetrameter: —

So there outstretched was he lying, his steeds and his chariot before, Groaning, convulsively clutching the dust that was red with his gore.

So there outstretched was he lying, his steeds and his chariot before,
At the dust that was red with his gore clutching convulsively, groaning.

Such are the following Sotadean lines: —

There upon the summit of the burning pyres their corpses lay In an alien land, the widowed walls forsaken far away, Walls of sacred Hellas; and the hearths upon the homeland shore, Winsome youth, the sun's fair face — forsaken all for evermore!

I could, if I wished, adduce many more different types of measures all belonging to the class of the heroic line, and show that the same thing is true of almost all the other metres and rhythms, namely that, when the choice of words remains unaltered and only the arrangement is changed, the verses invariably lose their rhythm, while their formation is ruined, together with the complexion, the character, the feeling, and the whole effectiveness of the lines. But in so doing I should be obliged to touch on a number of speculations, with some of which very few are familiar. To many speculations, perhaps, and particularly to those bearing on the matter in hand, the lines of Euripides may fitly be applied: —

Wherefore be overwise, except in thy fellows' eyes Thou lookest to be revered as for wisdom divine?

So I think it wise to leave this ground unworked for the present. But anyone who cares may satisfy himself that the diction of prose can be affected in the same way as that of verse when the words are retained but the order is changed. I will take from the writings of Herodotus the opening of his History, since it is familiar to most people, simply changing the nature of the dialect: "Croesus was a Lydian by birth and the son of Alyattes. He was lord over all the nations on this side of the river Halys, which flows from the south between Syria and Paphlagonia, and falls, towards the north, into the sea which is called the Euxine." I change the order here, and the cast of the passage will become no longer that of a spacious narrative, but tense rather and forensic: "Croesus was the son of Alyattes, and by birth a Lydian. He was lord, on this side of the river Halys, over all nations; which river from the south flowing between Syria and Paphlagonia runs into the sea which is called the Euxine and debouches towards the north." This style would seem not to differ widely from that of Thucydides in the words: "Epidamnus is a city on the right as you enter the Ionian Gulf: its next neighbours are barbarians, the Taulantii, an Illyrian race." Once more I will recast the same passage and give a new form to it as follows: "Alyattes' son was Croesus, by birth a Lydian. Lord over all nations he was, on this side of the river Halys; which river, from the south flowing between Syria and Paphlagonia, falls, with northward run, into the Euxine-called sea." This affected, degenerate, emasculate way of arranging words resembles that of Hegesias, the high-priest of this kind of nonsense. Hewrites, for instance, "After a goodly festival another goodly one keep we." "Of Magnesia am I, the mighty land, a man of Sipylus I." "No little drop into the Theban waters spewed Dionysus: Oh yea, sweet it is, but madness it engendereth."

Enough of examples. I think I have sufficiently proved my point that composition is more effective than selection. In fact, it seems to me that one might fairly compare the former to Athena in Homer. For she used to make the same Odysseus appear now in one form, now in another, — at one time puny and wrinkled and ugly,

In semblance like to a beggar wretched and eld-forlorn, at another time, by a fresh touch of the selfsame wand,

She moulded him taller to see, and broader: his wavy hair
She caused o'er his shoulders to fall as the hyacinth's purple rare.

So, too, composition takes the same words, and makes the ideas they convey appear at one time unlovely, beggarly and mean; at another, exalted, rich and beautiful. A main difference between poet and poet, orator and orator, really does lie in the aptness with which they arrange their words. Almost all the ancients made a special study of this; and consequently their poems, their lyrics, and their prose are things of beauty. But among their successors, with few exceptions, this was no longer so.

At last, in later times, it was utterly neglected; no one thought it absolutely indispensable, or that it contributed anything to the beauty of discourse. Consequently they left behind them lucubrations that no one has the patience to read from beginning to end. I mean men like Phylarchus, Duris, Polybius, Psaon, Demetrius of Callatis, Hieronymus, Antigonus, Heracleides, Hegesianax, and countless others: a whole day would not be enough if I tried to repeat the bare names of them all. But why wonder at these, when even those who call themselves professors of philosophy and publish manuals of dialectic fail so wretchedly in the arrangement of their words that I shrink from even mentioning their names? It is quite enough to point, in proof of my statement, to Chrysippus the Stoic: for farther I will not go. Among writers who have achieved any name or distinction, none have written their treatises on dialectic with greater accuracy, and none have published discourses which are worse specimens of composition. And yet some of them claimed to make a serious study of this department also, as being absolutely essential to good writing, and wrote some manuals on the grouping of the parts of speech. But they all went far astray from the truth and never even dreamt what it is that makes composition attractive and beautiful. At any rate, when I resolved to treat of this subject methodically, I tried to find out whether anything at all had been said about it by earlier writers, and particularly by the philosophers of the Porch, because I knew that these worthies were accustomed to pay no little attention to the department of discourse: one must give them their due. But in no single instance did I light upon any contribution, great or small, made by any author, of any reputation at all events, to the subject of my choice. As for the two treatises which Chrysippus has bequeathed to us, entitled "on the grouping of the parts of speech," they contain, as those who have read the books are aware, not a rhetorical but a dialectical investigation, dealing with the grouping of propositions, true and false, possible and impossible, admissible and variable, ambiguous, and so forth. These contribute no assistance or benefit to civil oratory, so far at any rate as charm and beauty of style are concerned; and yet these qualities should be the chief aim of composition. So I desisted from this inquiry, and falling back upon my own resources proceeded to consider whether I could find some starting-point indicated by nature itself, since nature is generally accepted as the best first principle in every operation and every inquiry. So applying myself to certain lines of investigation, I was beginning to think that the plan was making fair progress, when I became aware that my path of progress was leading me in a quite different direction, and not towards the goal which I sought and which I felt I must attain; and so I gave up the attempt. I may as well, perhaps, touch on that inquiry also, and state the reasons which led me to abandon it, so that I may not be open to the suspicion of having passed it by in ignorance, and not of deliberate choice.

CHAPTER V. NO GRAMMATICAL ORDER PRESCRIBED BY NATURE

Well, my notion was that we ought to follow mother nature to the utmost, and to link together the parts of speech according to her promptings. For example, I thought I must place nouns before verbs: the former, you see, indicate the substance, the latter the accident, and in the nature of things the substance takes precedence of its accidents! Thus we find in Homer: —

The hero to me chant thou, Song-queen, the resourceful man;

The Wrath sing, Goddess, thou;

The sun leapt up, as he left; and other lines of the same kind, where the nouns lead the way and the verbs follow. The principle is attractive, but I came to the conclusion that it was not sound. At any rate, a reader might confront me with other instances in the same poet where the arrangement is the opposite of this, and yet the lines are no less beautiful and attractive. What are the instances in point?

Hear me, thou Child of the Aegis-bearer, unwearied Power;

Tell to me, Muses, now in Olympian halls that abide;

and

Remember thy father, Achilles, thou godlike glorious man.

In these lines the verbs are in the front rank, and the nouns stationed behind them. Yet no one would impugn the arrangement of the words as unpleasant.

Moreover, I imagined it was better to place verbs in front of adverbs, since in the nature of things what acts or is acted upon takes precedence of those auxiliaries, modal, local, temporal, and the like, which we call adverbs. I relied on the following as examples: —

Smote them on this side and on that, and arose the ghastly groan;

Fell she backward-reeling, and gasped her spirit away;

Reeled he backward: the cup from his hand-grasp fell to the floor.

In all these cases the adverbs are placed after the verbs. This principle, like the other, is attractive; but it is equally unsound. For here are passages in the same poet expressed in the opposite way:

Clusterwise hover they ever above the flowers of spring;

To-day shall Eileithyia the Queen of Travail bring

A man to the light.

Well, are the lines at all inferior because the verbs are placed after the adverbs? No one can say so.

Once more, I imagined that I ought always most scrupulously to observe the principle that things earlier in time should be inserted earlier in the sentence. The following are examples: —

They drew back the beasts' necks first, then severed the throats and flayed;
and Clangeth the horn, loud singeth the sinew, and leapeth the shaft;

and

The ball by the princess was tossed thereafter to one of her girls;
But it missed the maid, and was lost in the river's eddying swirls.

"Certainly," a reader might reply, — "if it were not for the fact that there are plenty of other lines not arranged in this order of yours, and yet as fine as those you have quoted; as

And he smote it, upstrained to the stroke, with an oak-billet cloven apart.

Surely the arms must be raised before the blow is dealt! And further: —

He struck as he stood hard by, and the axe through the sinews shore Of the neck.

Surely a man who is about to drive his axe into a bull's sinews should take his stand near it first!"

Still further: I imagined it the correct thing to put my substantives before my adjectives, appellatives before substantives, pronouns before appellatives; and with verbs, to be very careful that primary should precede secondary forms, and indicatives infinitives, — and so on. But trial invariably wrecked these views and revealed their utter worthlessness. At one time charm and beauty of composition did result from these and similar collocations, — at other times from collocations not of this sort but the opposite. And so for these reasons I abandoned all such speculations as the above. Nor is it for any serious value it possesses that I recall this mental process now. I have cited those manuals on dialectic not because I think it necessary to have them, but in order to prevent anyone from supposing that they contain anything of real service for the present inquiry, and from regarding it as important to study them. It is easy to be inveigled by their titles, which suggest some affinity with the subject; or by the reputation of their compilers.

I will now revert to the original proposition, from which I have strayed into these digressions. It was that the ancients (poets and historians, philosophers and rhetoricians) were greatly preoccupied with this branch of inquiry. They never thought that words, clauses, or periods should be combined at haphazard. They had rules and principles of their own; and it was by following these that they composed so well. What these principles were, I shall try to explain so far as I can; stating, not all, but just the most essential, of those that I have been able to investigate.

CHAPTER VI. THREE PROCESSES IN THE ART OF COMPOSITION

My view is that the science of composition has three functions. The first is that of observing the combinations which are naturally adapted to produce a beautiful and agreeable united effect; the second is that of perceiving how to improve the harmonious appearance of the whole by fashioning properly the several parts which we intend to fit together; the third is that of perceiving what is required in the way of modification of the material — I mean abridgment, expansion and transformation — and of carrying out such changes in a manner appropriate to the end in view. The effect of each of these processes I will explain more clearly by means of illustrations drawn from industrial arts familiar to all — house-building, ship-building, and the like. When a builder has provided himself with the material from which he intends to construct a house — stones, timbers, tiling, and all the rest — he then puts together the structure from these, studying the following three things: what stone, timber and brick can be united with what other stone, timber and brick; next, how each piece of the material that is being so united should be set, and on which of its faces; thirdly, if anything fits badly, how that particular thing can be chipped and trimmed and made to fit exactly. And the shipwright proceeds in just the same way. A like course should, I affirm, be followed by those who are to succeed in literary composition. They should first consider in what groupings with one another nouns, verbs, or other parts of speech, will be placed appropriately, and how not so well; for surely every possible combination cannot affect the ear in the same way — it is not in the nature of things that it should be so. Next they should decide the form in which the noun or verb, or whatever else it may be, will occupy its place most gracefully and most in harmony with the ground-scheme. I mean, in the case of nouns, whether they will offer a better combination if used in the singular or the plural; whether they should be put in the nominative or in one of the oblique cases; or which gender should be chosen if they admit of a feminine instead of a masculine form, or a masculine instead of a feminine, or a neuter instead of either: and so on. With reference to verbs, again: which form it will be best to adopt, the active or the passive, and in what moods (or verbal cases, as some call them) they should be presented so as to receive the best setting, as also what differences of tense should be indicated; and so with all the other natural accidents of verbs. These same methods must be followed in regard to the other parts of speech also; there is no need to go into details. Further, with respect to the words thus selected, if any noun or verb requires a modification of its form, it must be decided how it can be brought into better harmony and symmetry with its neighbours. This principle can be applied more freely in poetry than in prose. Still, in prose also, it is applied, where opportunity offers. The speaker who says “εἰς τοῦτον τὸν ἄγῶνα” has added a letter to the pronoun with an eye to the effect of the composition. The bare meaning would have been sufficiently conveyed by saying “εἰς τοῦτον τὸν ἀγῶνα”. So in the words “κατιδὼν Νεοπτόλεμον τὸν ὑποκριτήν” the addition of the preposition has merely expanded the word into κατιδὼν, since ἰδὼν alone would have conveyed the meaning. So, too, in the expression “μήτ’ ἰδίας ἔχθρας μηδεμιᾶς ἔνεχ’ ἥκειν” the writer has cut off some of the letters, and has condensed the discourse through the elisions. So again by using “ἐποίησε” (without the ν) in place of ἐποίησεν, and “ἔγραψε” in place of ἔγραψεν, and “ἀφαιρήσομαι” in place of ἀφαιρεθήσομαι, and all instances of the kind; and by saying “ἔχωροφίλησε” for ἐφιλοχώρησε and “λελύσεται” for λυθήσεται, and things of that sort: — by such devices an author puts his words into a new shape, in order that he may fit them together more beautifully and appropriately.

CHAPTER VII. GROUPING OF CLAUSES

The foregoing, then, is one branch of the art of composition which requires consideration: namely, that which relates to the primary parts and elements of speech. But there is another, as I said at the beginning, which is concerned with the so-called “members” (“clauses”), and this requires fuller and more elaborate treatment. My views on this topic I will try to express forthwith.

The clauses must be fitted to one another so as to present an aspect of harmony and concord; they must be given the best form which they admit of; they must further be remodelled if necessary by shortening, lengthening, and any other change of form which clauses admit. As to each of these details experience itself must be your teacher. It will often happen that the placing of one clause before or after another brings out a certain euphony and dignity, while a different grouping sounds unpleasing and undignified. My meaning will be clearer if illustrated by an example. There is a well-known passage of Thucydides in the speech of the Plataeans, a delightfully arranged sentence full of deep feeling, which is as follows: “And we fear, men of Sparta, lest you, our only hope, should fail in steadfastness.” Now let this order be disturbed and the clauses be re-arranged as follows: “And we fear, men of Sparta, lest you should fail in steadfastness, that are our only hope.” When the clauses are arranged in this way, does the same fine charm remain, or the same deep feeling? Plainly not. Again, take this passage of Demosthenes, “So you admit as constitutional the acceptance of the offerings; you indict as unconstitutional the rendering of thanks for them.” Let the order be disturbed, and the clauses interchanged and presented in the following form: “So the acceptance of the offerings you admit as constitutional; the rendering of thanks for them you indict as unconstitutional.” Will the sentence be equally neat and effective? I, for my part, do not think so.

CHAPTER VIII. SHAPING OF CLAUSES

The principles governing the arrangement of clauses have now been stated. What principles govern their shaping?

The complete utterance of our thoughts takes more than one form. We throw them at one time into the shape of an assertion, at another into that of an inquiry, or a prayer, or a command, or a doubt, or a supposition, or some other shape of the kind; and into conformity with these we try to mould the diction itself. There are, in fact, many figures of diction, just as there are of thought. It is not possible to classify them exhaustively; indeed, they are perhaps innumerable. Their treatment would require a long disquisition and profound investigation. But that the same clause is not equally telling in all its various modes of presentation,

I will show by an example. If Demosthenes had expressed himself thus in the following passage, "Having spoken thus, I moved a resolution; and having moved a resolution, I joined the embassy; and having joined the embassy, I convinced the Thebans," would the sentence have been composed with the charm of its actual arrangement,— "I did not speak thus, and then fail to move a resolution; I did not move a resolution, and then fail to join the embassy; I did not join the embassy, and then fail to convince the Thebans"? It would take me a long time to deal with all the modes of expression which clauses admit. It is enough to say thus much by way of introduction.

CHAPTER IX. LENGTHENING AND SHORTENING OF CLAUSES AND PERIODS

I think I can in a very few words show that some clauses admit changes which take the form now of additions not necessary to the sense, now of curtailments rendering the sense incomplete; and that these changes are introduced by poets and prose-writers simply in order to add charm and beauty to the rhythm. Thus the following expression used by Demosthenes indisputably contains a pleonastic addition made for the sake of the rhythm: "He who contrives and prepares means whereby I may be captured is at war with me, though not yet shooting javelins or arrows." Here the reference to "arrows" is added not out of necessity, but in order that the last clause "though not yet shooting javelins," being rougher than it ought to be and not pleasant to the ear, may be made more attractive by this addition. Again, the famous period of Plato which that author inserts in the Funeral Speech has beyond dispute been extended by a supplement not necessary to the sense: "When deeds have been nobly done, then through speech finely uttered there come honour and remembrance to the doers from the hearers." Here the words "from the hearers" are not at all necessary to the sense; they are added in order that the last clause, "to the doers," may correspond with and balance what has preceded it. Again, take these words found in Aeschines, "you summon him against yourself; you summon him against the laws; you summon him against the democracy," a sentence of great celebrity, formed of three clauses: does it not belong to the class we are considering? What could have been embraced in one clause as follows, "you summon him against yourself and the laws and the democracy," has been divided into three, the same expression being repeated not from any necessity but in order to make the rhythm more agreeable.

In such ways, then, may clauses be expanded: how can they be abridged? This comes about when something necessary to the sense is likely to offend and jar on the ear, and when, consequently, its removal adds to the charm of the rhythm. An example, in verse, is afforded by the following lines of Sophocles: —

I close mine eyes, I open them, I rise — Myself the warder rather than the warded.

Here the second line is composed of two imperfect clauses. The expression would have been complete if it had run thus,

"myself warding others rather than being warder by others." But violence would have been done to the metre, and the line would not have acquired the charm which it actually has. In prose there are such instances as: "I will pass by the fact that it is a piece of injustice, simply because a man brings charges against some individuals, to attempt to withhold exemption from every one.” Here, too, each of the two first clauses is abbreviated. They would have been each complete in itself if worded thus: “I will pass by the fact that it is a piece of injustice, simply because a man brings charges against some individuals and declares them unfit for exemption, to attempt to withhold that privilege from every one — even those who are justly entitled to it.” But Demosthenes did not approve of paying more heed to the exactitude of the clauses than to the beauty of the rhythm.

I wish what I have just said to be understood as applying also to what are called “periods.” For, when it is fitting to express one’s meaning in periods, these too must be arranged so as to precede or follow each other appropriately. It must, of course, be understood that the periodic style is not suitable everywhere: and the question when periods should be used and to what extent, and when not, is precisely one of those with which the science of composition deals.

CHAPTER X. AIMS AND METHODS OF GOOD COMPOSITION

Now that I have laid down these broad outlines, the next step will be to state what should be the aims kept in view by the man who wishes to compose well, and by what methods his object can be attained. It seems to me that the two essentials to be aimed at by those who compose in verse and prose are charm and beauty. The ear craves for both of these. It is affected in somewhat the same way as the sense of sight which, when it looks upon moulded figures, pictures, carvings, or any other works of human hands, and finds both charm and beauty residing in them, is satisfied and longs for nothing more. And let not anyone be surprised at my assuming that there are two distinct objects in style, and at my separating beauty from charm; nor let him think it strange if I hold that a piece of composition may possess charm but not beauty, or beauty without charm. Such is the verdict of actual experience; I am introducing no novel axiom. The styles of Thucydides and of Antiphon of Rhamnus are surely examples of beautiful composition, if ever there were any, and are beyond all possible cavil from this point of view, but they are not remarkable for their charm. On the other hand, the style of the historian Ctesias of Cnidus, and that of Xenophon the disciple of Socrates, are charming in the highest possible degree, but not as beautiful as they should have been. I am speaking generally, not absolutely; I admit that in the former authors there are instances of charming, in the latter of beautiful arrangement. But the composition of Herodotus has both these qualities; it is at once charming and beautiful.

CHAPTER XI. GENERAL DISCUSSION OF THE SOURCES OF CHARM AND BEAUTY IN COMPOSITION

Among the sources of charm and beauty in style there are, I conceive, four which are paramount and essential, — melody, rhythm, variety, and the appropriateness demanded by these three. Under “charm” I class freshness, grace, euphony, sweetness, persuasiveness, and all similar qualities; and under “beauty” grandeur, impressiveness, solemnity, dignity, mellowness, and the like. For these seem to me the most important — the main heads, so to speak, in either case. The aims set before themselves by all serious writers in epic, dramatic, or lyric poetry, or in the so-called “language of prose,” are those specified, and I think those specified, and I think these are all. There are many excellent authors who have been distinguished in one or both of these qualities. It is not possible at present to adduce examples from the writings of each one of them; I must not waste time over such details; and besides, if it seems incumbent on me to say something about some of them individually, and to quote from them anywhere in support of my views, I shall have a more suitable opportunity for doing so, when I sketch the various types of literary arrangement. For the present, what I have said of them is quite sufficient. So I will now return to the division I made of composition into charming and beautiful, in order that my discourse may “keep to the track,” as the saying is.

Well, I said that the ear delighted first of all in melody, then in rhythm, thirdly in variety, and finally in appropriateness as applied to these other qualities. As a witness to the truth of my words I will bring forward experience itself, for it cannot be challenged, confirmed as it is by the general sentiment of mankind. Who is there that is not enthralled by the spell of one melody while he remains unaffected in any such way by another, — that is not captivated by this rhythm while that does but jar upon him? Ere now I myself, even in the most popular theatres, thronged by a mixed and uncultured multitude, have seemed to observe that all of us have a sort of natural appreciation for correct melody and good rhythm. I have seen an accomplished harpist, of high repute, hissed by the public because he struck a single false note and so spoilt the melody. I have seen, too, a flute-player, who handled his instrument with the practised skill of a master, suffer the same fate because he blew thickly or, through not compressing his lips, produced a harsh sound or so-called “broken note” as he played. Nevertheless, if the amateur critic were summoned to take up the instrument and himself to render any of the pieces with whose performance by professionals he was just now finding fault, he would be unable to do it. Why so? Because this is an affair of technical skill, in which we are not all partakers; the other of feeling, which is nature’s universal gift to man. I have noticed the same thing occur in the case of rhythms. Everybody is vexed and annoyed when a performer strikes an instrument, takes a step, or sings a note, out of time, and so destroys the rhythm.

Again, it must not be supposed that, while melody and rhythm excite pleasure, and we are all enchanted by them, variety and appropriateness have less freshness and grace, or less effect on any of their hearers. No, these too fairly enchant us all when they are really attained, just as their absence jars upon us intensely. This is surely beyond dispute. I may refer, in confirmation, to the case of instrumental music, whether it accompanies singing or dancing; if it attains grace perfectly and throughout, but fails to introduce variety in due season or deviates from what is appropriate, the effect is dull satiety and that disagreeable impression which is made by anything out of harmony with the subject. Nor is my illustration foreign to the matter in hand. The science of public oratory is, after all, a sort of musical science, differing from vocal and instrumental music in degree, not in kind. In oratory, too, the words involve melody, rhythm, variety, and appropriateness; so that, in this case also, the ear delights in the melodies, is fascinated by the rhythms, welcomes the variations, and craves always what is in keeping with the occasion. The distinction between oratory and music is simply one of degree.

Now, the melody of spoken language is measured by a single interval, which is approximately that termed a fifth. When the voice rises towards the acute, it does not rise more than three tones and a semitone; and, when it falls towards the grave, it does not fall more than this interval. Further, the entire utterance during one word is not delivered at the same pitch of the voice throughout but one part of it at the acute pitch, another at the grave, another at both. Of the words that have both pitches, some have the grave fused with the acute on one and the same syllable — those which we call circumflexed; others have both pitches falling on separate syllables, each retaining its own quality. Now in disyllables there is no space intermediate between low pitch and high pitch; while in polysyllabic words, whatever their number of syllables, there is but one syllable that has the acute accent (high pitch) among the many remaining grave ones. On the other hand, instrumental and vocal music uses a great number of intervals, not the fifth only; beginning with the octave, it uses also the fifth, the fourth, the third, the tone, the semitone, and, as some think, even the quarter-tone in a distinctly perceptible way. Music, further, insists that the words should be subordinate to the tune, and not the tune to the words. Among many examples in proof of this, let me especially instance those lyrical lines which Euripides has represented Electra as addressing to the Chorus in the Orestes: —

Hush ye, O hush ye! light be the tread Of the sandal; no jar let there be!
Afar step ye thitherward, far from his bed.

In these lines the words οἴγα οἴγα λευκόν are sung to one note; and yet each of the three words has both low pitch and high pitch. And the word ἄρβύλης has its third syllable sung at the same pitch as its middle syllable, although it is impossible for a single word to take two acute accents. The first syllable of τίθετε is sung to a lower note, while the two that follow it are sung to the same high note. The circumflex accent of κτυπεῖτε has disappeared, for the two syllables are uttered at one and the same pitch. And the word ἀποπρόβατε does not receive the acute accent on the middle syllable; but the pitch of the third syllable has been transferred to the fourth.

The same thing happens in rhythm. Ordinary prose speech does not violate or interchange the quantities in any noun or verb. It keeps the syllables long or short as it has received them by nature. But the arts of rhythm and music alter them by shortening or lengthening, so that often they pass into their opposites: the time of production is not regulated by the quantity of the syllables, but the quantity of the syllables is regulated by the time.

The difference between music and speech having thus been shown, some other points remain to be mentioned. If the melody of the voice — not the singing voice, I mean, but the ordinary voice — has a pleasant effect upon the ear, it will be called melodious rather than in melody. So also symmetry in the quantities of words, when it preserves a lyrical effect, is rhythmical rather than in rhythm. On the precise bearing of these distinctions I will speak at the proper time. For the present I will pass on to the next question, and try to show how a style of civil oratory can be attained which, simply by means of the composition, charms the ear with its melody of sound, its symmetry of rhythm, its elaborate variety, and its appropriateness to the subject. These are the headings which I have set before myself.

CHAPTER XII. HOW TO RENDER COMPOSITION CHARMING

It is not in the nature of all the words in a sentence to affect the ear in the same way, any more than all visible objects produce the same impression on the sense of sight, things tasted on that of taste, or any other set of stimuli upon the sense to which they correspond. No, different sounds affect the ear with many different sensations of sweetness, harshness, roughness, smoothness, and so on. The reason is to be found partly in the many different qualities of the letters which make up speech, and partly in the extremely various forms in which syllables are put together. Now since words have these properties, and since it is impossible to change the fundamental nature of any single one of them, we can only mask the uncouthness which is inseparable from some of them, by means of mingling and fusion and juxtaposition, — by mingling smooth with rough, soft with hard, cacophonous with melodious, easy to pronounce with hard to pronounce, long with short; and generally by happy combinations of the same kind. Many words of few syllables must not be used in succession (for this jars upon the ear), nor an excessive number of polysyllabic words; and we must avoid the monotony of setting side by side words similarly accented or agreeing in their quantities. We must quickly vary the cases of substantives (since, if continued unduly, they greatly offend the ear); and in order to guard against satiety, we must constantly break up the effect of sameness entailed by placing many nouns, or verbs, or other parts of speech, in close succession. We must not always adhere to the same figures, but change them frequently; we must not re-introduce the same metaphors, but vary them; we must not exceed due measure by beginning or ending with the same words too often.

Still, let no one think that I am proclaiming these as universal rules — that I suppose keeping them will always produce pleasure, or breaking them always produce annoyance. I am not so foolish. I know that pleasure often arises from both sources — from similarity at one time, from dissimilarity at another. In every case we must, I think, keep in view good taste, for this is the best criterion of charm and its opposite. But about good taste no rhetorician or philosopher has, so far, produced a definite treatise. The man who first undertook to write on the subject, Gorgias of Leontini, achieved nothing worth mentioning. The nature of the subject, indeed, is not such that it can fall under any comprehensive and systematic treatment, nor can good taste in general be apprehended by science, but only by personal judgment. Those who have continually trained this latter faculty in many connexions are more successful than others in attaining good taste, while those who leave it untrained are rarely successful, and only by a sort of lucky stroke.

To proceed. I think the following rules should be observed in composition by a writer who looks to please the ear. Either he should link to one another melodious, rhythmical, euphonious words, by which the sense of hearing is touched with a feeling of sweetness and softness, — those which, to put it broadly, come home to it most; or he should intertwine and interweave those which have no such natural effect with those that can so bewitch the ear that the unattractiveness of the one set is overshadowed by the grace of the other. We may compare the practice of good tacticians when marshalling their armies: they mask the weak portions by means of the strong, and so no part of their force proves useless. In the same way I maintain we ought to relieve monotony by the tasteful introduction of variety, since variety is an element of pleasure in everything we do. And last, and certainly most important of all, the setting which is assigned to the subject matter must be appropriate and becoming to it. And, in my opinion, we ought not to feel shy of using any noun or verb, however hackneyed, unless it carries with it some shameful association; for I venture to assert that no part of speech which signifies a person or a thing will prove so mean, squalid, or otherwise offensive as to have no fitting place in discourse. My advice is that, trusting to the effect of the composition, we should bring out such expressions with a bold and manly confidence, following the example of Homer, in whom the most commonplace words are found, and of Demosthenes and Herodotus and others, whom I will mention a little later so far as is suitable in each case. I think I have now spoken at sufficient length on charm of style. My treatment has been but a brief survey of a wide field, but will furnish the main heads of the study.

CHAPTER XIII. HOW TO RENDER COMPOSITION BEAUTIFUL

So far, so good. But, if some one were to ask me in what way, and by attention to what principles, literary structure can be made beautiful, I should reply: In no other way, believe me, and by no other means, than those by which it is made charming, since the same elements contribute to both, namely noble melody, stately rhythm, imposing variety, and the appropriateness which all these need. For as there is a charming diction, so there is another that is noble; as there is a polished rhythm, so also is there another that is dignified; as variety in one passage adds grace, so in another it adds mellowness; and as for appropriateness, it will prove the chief source of beauty, or else the source of nothing at all. I repeat, the study of beauty in composition should follow the same lines throughout as the study of charm. The prime cause, here as before, is to be found in the nature of the letters and the phonetic effect of the syllables, which are the raw material out of which the fabric of words is woven. The time may perhaps now have come for redeeming my promise to discuss these.

CHAPTER XIV. THE LETTERS: THEIR CLASSIFICATION, QUALITIES, AND MODE OF PRODUCTION

There are in human and articulate speech a number of first-beginnings admitting no further division which we call elements and letters: “letters” (γράμματα) because they are denoted by certain lines (γραμμαί), and “elements” (στοιχεῖα) because every sound made by the voice originates in these, and is ultimately resolvable into them. The elements and letters are not all of the same nature. Of the differences between them, the first is, as Aristoxenus the musician makes clear, that some represent vocal sounds, while others represent noises: the former being represented by the so-called “vowels,” the latter by all the other letters. A second difference is that some of the non-vowels by their nature give rise to some noise or other, — a whizzing, a hissing, a murmur, or suggestions of some such sounds, whereas others are devoid of all voice or noise and cannot be sounded by themselves. Hence some writers have called the latter “voiceless” (“mutes”), the others “semi-voiced” (“semi-vowels”). Those writers who make a threefold division of the first or elemental powers of the voice give the name of voiced (vowels) to all letters which can be uttered, either by themselves or together with others, and are self-sufficing; semi-vowels to all which are pronounced better in combination with vowels, worse and imperfectly when taken singly; mutes to all which by themselves admit of neither perfect nor half-perfect utterance, but are pronounced only in combination with others.

It is not easy to say exactly what the number of these elements is, and our predecessors also have felt much doubt upon the question. Some have held that there are only thirteen elements of speech all told, and that the rest are but combinations of these; others that there are more than even the twenty-four which we now recognize. The discussion of this point belongs more properly to grammar and prosody, or even, perhaps, to philosophy. It is enough for us to assume the elements of speech to be neither more nor less than twenty-four, and to specify the properties of each, beginning with the vowels.

These are seven in number: two short, viz. ε and ο; two long, viz. η and ω; and three common, viz. α, ι and υ. These last can be either long or short, and some call them “common,” as I have just done, others “variable.” All these sounds are produced from the windpipe, which resounds to the breath, while the mouth assumes a simple shape; the tongue takes no part in the process but remains at rest. But the long vowels, and those common vowels that are pronounced long, have an extended and continuous passage of breath, while those that are short or pronounced as short are uttered abruptly, with one burst of breath, the movement of the windpipe being but brief. Of these the strongest, which also produce the most pleasing sound, are the long ones and those common ones which are lengthened in utterance, the reason being that they are sounded for a long time, and do not cut short the tension of the breath. The short ones, or those pronounced short, are inferior, because they lack sonorousness and curtail the sound. Again, of the long vowels themselves the most euphonious is α , when prolonged; for it is pronounced with the mouth open to the fullest extent, and with the breath forced upwards to the palate. η holds the second place, inasmuch as it drives the sound down against the base of the tongue and not upwards, and the mouth is fairly open. Third comes ω : in pronouncing this the mouth is rounded, the lips are contracted, and the impact of the breath is on the edge of the mouth. Still inferior to this is υ ; for, through a marked contraction taking place right round the lips, the sound is strangled and comes out thin. Last of all stands ι : for the impact of the breath is on the teeth as the mouth is slightly open and the lips do not clarify the sound. Of the short vowels none has beauty, but o is less ugly than ϵ : for the former parts the lips better than the latter, and receives the impact more in the region of the windpipe.

So much for the nature of the vowels. The semi-vowels are as follows. They are eight in number, and five of them are simple, viz. λ , μ , ν , ρ , and σ , while three are double, viz. ζ , ξ , ψ . They are called double either because they are composite, receiving a distinctive sound through the coalescence respectively of σ and δ into ζ , of κ and σ into ξ , and of π and σ into ψ ; or because they each occupy the room of two letters in the syllables where they are found. Of these semi-vowels, the double are superior to the single, since they are ampler than the others and seem to approximate more to perfect letters. The simple ones are inferior because their sounds are confined within smaller spaces. They are severally pronounced somewhat as follows: λ by the tongue rising to the palate, and by the windpipe helping the sound; μ by the mouth being closed tight by means of the lips, while the breath is divided and passes through the nostrils; ν by the tongue intercepting the current of the breath, and diverting the sound towards the nostrils; ρ by the tip of the tongue sending forth the breath in puffs and rising to the palate near the teeth; and σ by the entire tongue being carried up to the palate and by the breath passing between tongue and palate, and emitting, round about the teeth, a light, thin hissing. The sound of the three remaining semi-voiced letters is of a mixed character, being formed of one of the semi-voiced letters (σ) and three of the voiceless letters (δ , κ and π).

Such are the formations of the semi-vowels. They cannot all affect the sense of hearing in the same way. λ falls pleasantly on it, and is the sweetest of the semi-vowels; while ρ has a rough quality, and is the noblest of its class. The ear is affected in a sort of intermediate way by μ and ν , which are pronounced with nasal resonance, and produce sounds similar to those of a horn. σ is an unattractive, disagreeable letter, positively offensive when used to excess. A hiss seems a sound more suited to a brute beast than to a rational being. At all events, some of the ancients used it sparingly and guardedly.

There are writers who used actually to compose entire odes without a sigma. Pindar shows the same feeling when he writes: —

Ere then crept in the long-drawn dithyrambic song,
And san that rang false on the speaker's tongue.

Of the three other letters which are called “double,” ζ falls more pleasurably on the ear than the others. For ξ and ψ give the hiss in combination with κ and π respectively, both of which letters are smooth, whereas ζ is softly rippled by the breath and is the noblest of its class. So much with regard to the semi-vowels.

Of the so-called “voiceless letters,” which are nine in number, three are smooth, three rough, and three between these. The smooth are κ, π, τ; the rough θ, φ, χ; the intermediate, β, γ, δ. They are severally pronounced as follows: three of them (π, θ, β) from the edge of the lips, when the mouth is compressed and the breath, being driven forward from the windpipe, breaks through the obstruction. Among these π is smooth, φ rough, and β comes between the two, being smoother than the latter and rougher than the former. This is one set of three mutes, all three spoken with a like configuration of our organs, but differing in smoothness and roughness. The next three are pronounced by the tongue being pressed hard against the extremity of the mouth near the upper teeth, then being blown back by the breath, and affording it an outlet downwards round the teeth. These differ in roughness and smoothness, τ being the smoothest of them, θ the roughest, and δ medial or common. This is the second set of three mutes. The three remaining mutes are spoken with the tongue rising to the palate near the throat, and the windpipe echoing to the breath. These, again, differ in no way from one another as regards formation; but κ is pronounced smoothly, χ roughly, γ moderately and between the two. Of these the best are those which are uttered with a full breath; next those with moderate breath; worst those with smooth breath, since they have their own force alone, while the rough letters have the breath also added, so that they are somewhere nearer perfection than the others.

CHAPTER XV. SYLLABLES AND THEIR QUALITIES

Such is the number of the letters, and such are their properties. From them are formed the so-called syllables. Of these syllables, those are long which contain long vowels or variable vowels when pronounced long, and those which end in a long letter or a letter pronounced long, or in one of the semi-vowels and one of the mutes. Those are short which contain a short vowel or one taken as short, and those which end in such vowels. There is more than one kind of length and shortness of syllables: some are longer than the long and some shorter than the short. And this will be made clear by consideration of the examples which I am about to adduce.

It will be admitted that a syllable is short which is formed by the short vowel ο, as, for example, in the word ὀδός. To this let the semi-vowel ρ be prefixed and ῥόδος be formed. The syllable still remains short; but not equally so, for it will show some slight difference when compared with the former. Further, let one of the mutes, τ, be prefixed and τρόπος be formed. This again will be longer than the former syllables; yet it still remains short. Let still a third letter, σ, be prefixed to the same syllable and στρόφος be formed. This will have become longer than the shortest syllable by three audible prefixes; and yet it still remains short. So, then, here are four grades of short syllables, with only our instinctive feeling for quantity as a measure of the difference. The same principle applies to the long syllable. The syllable formed from η, though long by nature, yet when augmented by the addition of four letters, three prefixed and one suffixed, as in the word σπλήν, would surely be said to be ampler than that syllable, in its original form, that consisted of a single letter. At all events, if it were in turn deprived, one by one, of the added letters, it would show perceptible changes in the way of diminution. As to the reason why long syllables do not transcend their natural quality when lengthened to five letters, nor short syllables drop from their shortness when reduced from many letters to one, the former being still regarded as double the shorts, and the latter as half the longs, — this does not at present demand examination. It is sufficient to say what is really germane to the present subject, namely, that one short syllable may differ from another short, and one long from another long, and that every short and every long syllable has not the same quality either in prose, or in poems, or in songs, whether these be metrically or rhythmically constructed.

The foregoing is the first aspect under which we view the different qualities of syllables. The next is as follows. As letters have many points of difference, not only in length and shortness, but also in sound — points of which I have spoken a little while ago — it must necessarily follow that the syllables, which are combinations or interweavings of letters, preserve at once both the individual properties of each component, and the joint properties of all, which spring from their fusion and juxtaposition. The sounds thus formed are soft or hard, smooth or rough, sweet to the ear or harsh to it; they make us pull a wry face, or cause our mouths to water, or bring about any of the countless other physical conditions that are possible.

These facts the greatest poets and prose-writers have carefully noted, and not only do they deliberately arrange their words and weave them into appropriate patterns, but often, with curious and loving skill, they adapt the very syllables and letters to the emotions which they wish to represent. This is Homer's way when he is describing a wind-swept beach and wishes to express the ceaseless reverberation by the prolongation of syllables: —

Echo the cliffs, as bursteth the sea-surge down on the strand.

Or again when, after the Cyclops has been blinded, Homer desires to express the greatness of his anguish, and his hands' slow search for the door of the cavern: —

The Cyclops, with groan on groan and throes of anguish sore, With hands slow-groping.

And when in another place he wishes to indicate a long impassioned prayer: —

Not though in an agony Phoebus the Smiter from Far should entreat Low-grovvelling at Father Zeus the Aegis-bearer's feet.

Such lines are to be found without number in Homer, representing length of time, hugeness of body, stress of emotion, immobility of position, or similar effects, simply by the manipulation of the syllables. Conversely, others are framed to give the impression of abruptness, speed, hurry, and the like. For instance,

Wailing with broken sobs amidst of her handmaids she cried,

And scared were the charioteers, that tireless flame to behold.

In the first passage the stoppage of Andromache's breath is indicated, and the tremor of her voice; in the second, the startled dismay of the charioteers, and the unexpectedness of the terror. The effect in both cases is due to the docking of syllables and letters.

CHAPTER XVI. POETIC SKILL IN THE CHOICE AND IN THE COMBINATION OF WORDS

The poets and prose-writers themselves, then, with their eye on each object in turn, frame — as I said — words which seem made for, and are pictures of, the things they connote. But they also borrow many words from earlier writers, in the very form in which those writers fashioned them — when such words are imitative of things, as in the following instances: —

For the vast sea-swell on the beach crashed down with a thunder-shock.
And adown the blasts of the wind he darted with one wild scream.

Even as when the surge of the seething sea falls dashing (On a league-long strand, with the roar of the rollers thunderous-crashing).

And his eyes for the hiss of the arrows, the hurtling of lances, were keen.

The great originator and teacher in these matters is Nature, who prompts us to imitate and to assign words by which things are pictured, in virtue of certain resemblances which are founded in reason and appeal to our intelligence. It is by her that we have been taught to speak of the bellowing of bulls, the whinnying of horses, the snorting of goats, the roar of fire, the rushing of winds, the creaking of hawsers, and numerous other similar imitations of sound, form, action, emotion, movement, stillness, and anything else whatsoever. On these points much has been said by our predecessors, the most important contributions being by the first of them to introduce the subject of etymology, Plato the disciple of Socrates, in his Cratylus especially, but in many other places as well.

What is the sum and substance of my argument? It is that it is due to the interweaving of letters that the quality of syllables is so multifarious; to the combination of syllables that the nature of words has such wide diversity; to the arrangement of words that discourse takes on so many forms. The conclusion is inevitable — that style is beautiful when it contains beautiful words, — that beauty of words is due to beautiful syllables and letters, — that language is rendered charming by the things that charm the ear in virtue of affinities in words, syllables, and letters; and that the differences in detail between these, through which are indicated the characters, emotions, dispositions, actions and so forth of the persons described, are made what they are through the original grouping of the letters.

To set the matter in a clearer light, I will illustrate my argument by a few examples. Other instances — and there are plenty of them — you will find for yourself in the course of your own investigations. When Homer, the poet above all others many-voiced, wishes to depict the young bloom of a lovely countenance and a beauty that brings delight, he will use the finest of the vowels and the softest of the semi-vowels; he will not pack his syllables with mute letters, nor impede the utterance by putting next to one another words hard to pronounce. He will make the harmony of the letters strike softly and pleasingly upon the ear, as in the following lines: —

Now forth of her bower hath gone Penelope passing-wise Lovely as Artemis, or as Aphrodite the Golden.

Only once by the Sun-god's altar in Delos I chanced to espy
So stately a shaft of a palm that gracefully grew thereby.

Rose Chloris, fair beyond word, whom Nereus wedded of old,
For her beauty his heart had stirred, and he wooed her with gifts untold.

But when he introduces a sight that is pitiable, or terrifying, or august, he will not employ the finest of the vowels. He will take the hardest to utter of the fricatives or of the mutes, and will pack his syllables with these. For instance: —

But dreadful he burst on their sight, with the sea-scum all fouled o'er.

And thereon was embossed the Gorgon-demon, with stony gaze Grim-glaring, and Terror and Panic encompassed the Fearful Face.

When he wishes to reproduce in his language the rush of meeting torrents and the roar of confluent waters, he will not employ smooth syllables, but strong and resounding ones: —

And even as Wintertide torrents down-rushing from steep hill-sides Hurl their wild waters in one where a cleft of the mountain divides.

When he depicts a hero, though heavy with his harness, putting forth all his energies against an opposing stream, and now holding his own, now being carried off his feet, he will contrive counter-buffetings of syllables, arresting pauses, and letters that block the way: —

Round Achilles the terrible surge towered seething on every side,
And a cataract dashed and crashed on his shield: all vainly he sought Firm ground for his feet.

When men are being dashed against rocks, and he is portraying the noise and their pitiable fate, he will linger on the harshest and most ill-sounding letters, altogether avoiding smoothness or prettiness in the structure: —

And together laid hold on twain, and dashed them against the ground Like whelps: down gushed the brain, and bespattered the rock-floor round.

It would be a long task to attempt to adduce specimens of all the artistic touches of which examples might be demanded in this one field. So, contenting myself with what has been said, I will pass to the next point.

I hold that those who wish to fashion a style which is beautiful in the collocation of sounds must combine in it words which all carry the impression of elegance, grandeur, or dignity. Something has been said about these matters, in a general way, by the philosopher Theophrastus in his work on Style, where he distinguishes two classes of words — those which are naturally beautiful (whose collocation, for example, in composition will, he thinks, make the phrasing beautiful and grand), and those, again, which are paltry and ignoble, of which he says neither good poetry can be constructed nor good prose. And, really and truly, our author is not far from the mark in saying this. If, then, it were possible that all the parts of speech by which a given subject is to be expressed should be euphonious and elegant, it would be madness to seek out the inferior ones. But if this be out of the question, as in many cases it is, then we must endeavour to mask the natural defects of the inferior letters by interweaving and mingling and juxtaposition, and this is just what Homer is accustomed to do in many passages. For instance, if any poet or rhetorician whatsoever were to be asked what grandeur or elegance there is in the names which have been given to the Boeotian towns, — Hyria, Mycalessus, Graia, Eteonus, Scolus, Thisbe, Onchestus, Eutresis, and the rest of the series which the poet enumerates, — no one would be able to point to any trace of such qualities. But Homer has interwoven and interspersed them with pleasant-sounding supplementary words into so beautiful a texture that they appear the most magnificent of all names: —

Lords of Boeotia's host came Leitus, Peneleos, Prothoenor and Arcesilaus and Clonius for battle uprose,
With the folk that in Hyrie dwelt, and by Aulis's crag-fringed steep,
And in Schoinus and Scolus, and midst Eteonus' hill-clefts deep,
In Thespeia and Graia, and green Mycalessus the land broad-meadowed,
And in Harma and Eilesius, and Erythrae the mountain-shadowed,
And they that in Eleon abode, and in Hyle and Peteon withal,
And in Ocalee and in Medeon, burg of the stately wall.

As I am addressing men who know their Homer, I do not think there is need to multiply examples. All his Catalogue of the towns is on the same high level, and so are many other passages in which, being compelled to take words not naturally beautiful, he places them in a setting of beautiful ones, and neutralizes their offensiveness by the shapeliness of the others. On this branch of my subject I have now said enough.

CHAPTER XVII. ON RHYTHMS, OR FEET

I have mentioned that rhythm contributes in no small degree to dignified and impressive composition; and I will treat of this point also. Let no one suppose that rhythm and metre belong to the science of song only; that ordinary speech is neither rhythmical nor metrical; and that I am going astray in introducing those subjects here.

In point of fact, every noun, verb, or other part of speech, which does not consist of a single syllable only, is uttered in some sort of rhythm. (I am here using “rhythm” and “foot” as convertible terms.) A disyllabic word may take three different forms. It may have both syllables short, or both long, or one short and the other long. Of this third rhythm there are two forms: one beginning in a short and ending in a long, the other beginning in a long and ending in a short. The one which consists of two shorts is called hegemon or pyrrhich, and is neither impressive nor solemn. Its character is as follows: —

That which has both its syllables long is called a spondee, and possesses great dignity and much stateliness. Here is an example of it: —

Ah, which way must I haste? — had I best flee
By this path? or by that path shall it be?

That which is composed of a short and a long is called iambus if it has the first syllable short; it is not ignoble. If it begins with the long syllable, it is called a trochee, and is less manly than the other and more ignoble. The following is an example of the former: —

My leisure serves me now, Menoetius’ son.

Of the other: —

Heart of mine, O heart in turmoil with a throng of crushing cares!

These are all the varieties, rhythms, and forms of disyllabic words. Those of the trisyllabic are distinct; they are more numerous than those mentioned, and the study of them is more complicated. First comes that which consists entirely of short syllables, and is called by some choree (or tribrach), of which the following is an example: —

Bromius, wielder of spears, Lord of war and the onset-cheers.

This foot is mean and wanting in dignity and nobility, and nothing noble can be made out of it. But that which consists entirely of long syllables — molossus, as the metrists call it — is elevated and dignified, and has a mighty stride. The following is an example of it: —

O glorious saviours, Zeus’ and Leda’s sons.

That which consists of a long and two shorts, with the long in the middle, bears the name of amphibrachys, and has no strong claim to rank with the graceful rhythms, but is enervated and has about it much that is feminine and ignoble, e.g. —

Triumphant Iacchus that leadeſt this chorus.

That which commences with two ſhorts is called an anapaest, and poſſeſſes much dignity. Where it is neceſſary to inveſt a ſubject with grandeur or pathos, this foot may be appropriately uſed. Its form may be illuſtrated by —

Ah, the coif on mine head all too heavily weighs.

That which begins with the long and ends with the ſhorts is called a dactyl; it is decidedly impressive, and remarkable for its power to produce beauty of ſtyle. It is to this that the heroic line is mainly indebted for its grace. Here is an example: —

Sped me from Ilium the breeze, and anigh the Ciconians brought me.

The rhythmists, however, ſay that the long ſyllable in this foot is ſhorter than the perfect long. Not being able to ſay by how much, they call it “irrational.” There is another foot having a rhythm correſponding to this, which ſtarts with the ſhort ſyllables and ends with the “irrational” one. This they diſtinguiſh from the anapaest and call it “cyclic,” adducing the following line as an example of it: —

On the earth is the high-gated city laid low.

This queſtion cannot be diſcuſſed here; but both rhythms are of the diſtinctly beautiful ſort. One claſs of triſyllabic rhythms ſtill remains, which is composed of two longs and a ſhort. It takes three ſhapes. When the ſhort is in the middle and the longs at the ends, it is called a cretic and has no lack of nobility. A ſample of it is: —

On they ſped, borne on ſea-wains with prows brazen-beaked.

But if the two long ſyllables occupy the beginning, and the ſhort one the end, as in the line

Phoebus, to thee and the Muses worſhipped with thee, the ſtructure is exceſſionally virile, and is appropriate for ſolemn language. The effect will be the ſame if the ſhort be placed before the longs; for this foot alſo has dignity and grandeur. Here is an example of it: —

To what ſhore, to what grove ſhall I flee for refuge?

To the former of theſe two feet the name of bacchius is aſſigned by the metrists, to the other that of hypobacchius. Theſe are the twelve fundamental rhythms and feet which meaſure all language, metrical or unmetrical, and from them are formed lines and claſes. All other feet and rhythms are but combinations of theſe. A ſimple rhythm, or foot, will not be leſs than two ſyllables, nor will it exceed three. I do not know that more need be ſaid on this ſubject.

CHAPTER XVIII. EFFECT OF VARIOUS RHYTHMS

The reason why I have been led to make these preliminary remarks (for certainly it was no part of my design to touch without due cause on metrical and rhythmical questions, but only so far as it was really necessary) is this, that it is through rhythms which are noble and dignified, and contain an element of greatness, that composition becomes dignified, noble, and splendid, while it is made a paltry and unimpressive sort of thing by the use of those rhythms that are ignoble and mean, whether they are taken severally by themselves, or are woven together according to their mutual affinities. If, then, it is within human capacity to frame the style entirely from the finest rhythms, our aspirations will be realized; but if it should prove necessary to blend the worse with the better, as happens in many cases (for names have been attached to things in a haphazard way), we must manage our material artistically. We must disguise our compulsion by the gracefulness of the composition: the more so that we have full liberty of action, since no rhythm is banished from non-metrical language, as some are from metrical.

It remains for me to produce proofs of my statements, in order that my argument may carry conviction. Wide as the field is, a few proofs will suffice. Thus it is surely beyond dispute that the following passage in the Funeral Speech of Thucydides is composed with dignity and grandeur: "Former speakers on these occasions have usually commended the statesman who caused an oration to form part of this funeral ceremony: they have felt it a fitting tribute to men who were brought home for burial from the fields of battle where they fell." What has made the composition here so impressive? The fact that the clauses are composed of impressive rhythms. For the three feet which usher in the first clause are spondees, the fourth is an anapaest, the next a spondee once more, then a cretic, — all stately feet. Hence the dignity of the first clause. The next clause, "have usually commended the statesman who caused an oration to form part of this funeral ceremony," has two hypobacchii as its first feet, a cretic as its third, then again two hypobacchii, and a syllable by which the clause is completed; so that this clause too is naturally dignified, formed as it is of the noblest and most beautiful rhythms.

The third clause, "they have felt it a fitting tribute to men who were brought home for burial from the fields of battle where they fell," begins with the cretic foot, has an anapaest in the second place, a spondee in the third, in the fourth an anapaest again, then two dactyls in succession, closing with two spondees and the terminal syllable. So this passage also owes its noble ring to its rhythmical structure; and most of the passages in Thucydides are of this stamp; indeed, there are few that are not so framed. So he thoroughly deserves his reputation for loftiness and beauty of language, since he habitually introduces noble rhythms.

Again, take the following passage of Plato. What can be the device that produces its perfect dignity and beauty, if it is not the beautiful and striking rhythms that compose it? The passage is one of the best known and most often quoted, and it is found near the beginning of our author's Funeral Speech: "In very truth these men are receiving at our hands their fitting tribute: and when they have gained this guerdon, they journey on, along the path of destiny." Here there are two clauses which constitute the period, and the feet into which the clauses fall are as follows: — The first is a bacchius, for certainly I should not think it correct to scan this clause as an iambic line, bearing in mind that not swift, tripping movements, but retarded and slow times are appropriate to those over whom we make mourning. The second is a spondee; the next is a dactyl, the vowels which might coalesce being kept distinct; after that, a spondee; next, what I should call a cretic rather than an anapaest; then, according to my view, a spondee; in the last place a hypobacchius or, if you prefer to take it so, an anapaest; then the terminal syllable. Of these rhythms none is mean nor ignoble. In the next clause, "when they have gained this guerdon, they journey on, along the path of destiny," the two first feet are cretics, and next after them two spondees; after which once more a cretic, then lastly a hypobacchius. Thus the discourse is composed entirely of beautiful rhythms, and it necessarily follows that it is itself beautiful. Countless instances of this kind are to be found in Plato as well as in Thucydides. For this author has a perfect genius for discovering true melody and fine rhythm, and if he had only been as able in the choice of words as he is unrivalled in the art of combining them, he "had even outstript" Demosthenes, so far as beauty of style is concerned, or "had left the issue in doubt." As it is, he is sometimes quite at fault in his choice of words; most of all when he is aiming at a lofty, unusual, elaborate style of expression. With respect to this I explain myself more explicitly elsewhere. But he does most assuredly put his words together with beauty as well as charm; and from this point of view no one could find any fault with him.

I will cite a passage of one other writer, — the one to whom I assign the palm for oratorical mastery. Demosthenes most certainly forms a sort of standard alike for choice of words and for beauty in their arrangement. In the Speech on the Crown there are three clauses which constitute the first period; and the rhythms by which they are measured are as follows: "first of all, men of Athens, I pray to all the gods and goddesses." A bacchius begins this first clause; then follows a spondee; next an anapaest, and after this another spondee; then three cretics in succession, and a spondee as the last foot. In the second clause, "that all the loyal affection I bear my whole life through to the city and all of you," first comes a hypobacchius; then a bacchius or, if you prefer to take it so, a dactyl; then a cretic; after which there are two composite feet called paeons. Next follows a molossus or a bacchius, for it can be scanned either way. Last comes the spondee. The third clause, "may as fully be accorded by you to support me in this trial," is opened by two hypobacchii. A cretic follows, to which a spondee is attached. Then again a bacchius or a cretic; last a cretic once more; then the terminal syllable. Is not a beautiful cadence inevitable in a passage which contains neither a pyrrhic, nor an iamb, nor an amphibrachys, nor a single choree or trochee? Still, I do not affirm that none of those writers ever uses the more ignoble rhythms also. They do use them; but they have artistically masked them, and have only introduced them at intervals, interweaving the inferior with the superior.

Those authors who have not given heed to this branch of their art have published writings which are either mean, or flabby, or have some other blemish or deformity. Among them the first and midmost and the last is the Magnesians, the sophist Hegesias. Concerning him, I swear by Zeus and all the other gods, I do not know what to say. Was he so dense, and so devoid of artistic feeling, as not to see which the ignoble or noble rhythms are? or was he smitten with such soul-destroying lunacy, that though he knew the better, he nevertheless invariably chose the worse? It is to this latter view that I incline. Ignorance often blunders into the right path: only wilfulness never does. At all events, in the host of writings which the man has left behind him, you will not find one single page successfully put together. He seems, indeed, to have regarded his own methods as better than those of his predecessors, and to have followed them with enthusiasm; and yet anybody else, if he were to be driven into such errors in an impromptu speech, would blush for them, were he a man of any self-respect. Well, I will quote a passage from him also, taken from his History, in order to make clear to you, by means of a comparison, how splendid noble rhythms are, and how disgraceful are their opposites. The following is the subject treated by the sophist. Alexander when besieging Gaza, an unusually strong position in Syria, is wounded during the assault and takes the position after some delay. In a transport of anger he massacres all the prisoners, permitting the Macedonians to slay all who fall in their way. Having captured their commandant, a man of distinction for his high station and good looks, he gives orders that he should be bound alive to a war-chariot and that the horses should be driven at full speed before the eyes of all; and in this way he kills him. No one could have a story of more awful suffering to narrate, nor one suggesting a more horrible picture. It is worth while to observe in what style our sophist has represented this scene — whether with gravity and elevation or with vulgarity and absurdity: —

“The King advanced, at the head of his division. It seems that the leaders of the enemy had formed the design of meeting him as he approached. For they had come to the conclusion that, if they overcame him personally, they would be able to drive out all his host in a body. Now this hope ran with them on the path of daring, so that never before had Alexander been in such danger. One of the enemy fell on his knees, and seemed to Alexander to have done so in order to ask for mercy. Having allowed him to approach, he eluded (not without difficulty) the thrust of a sword which he had brought under the skirts of his corselet, so that the thrust was not mortal. Alexander himself slew his assailant with a blow of his sabre upon the head, while the king’s followers were inflamed with a sudden fury. So utterly was pity, in the breasts of those who saw and those who heard of the attempt, banished by the desperate daring of the man, that six thousand of the barbarians were cut down at the trumpet-call which forthwith rang out. Baetis himself, however, was brought before the king alive by Leonatus and Philotas. And Alexander seeing that he was corpulent and huge and most grim (for he was black in colour too), was seized with loathing for his very looks as well as for his design upon his life, and ordered that a ring of bronze should be passed through his feet and that he should be dragged round a circular course, naked. Harrowed by pain, as his body passed over many a rough piece of ground, he began to scream. And it was just this detail which I now mention that brought people together. The torment racked him, and he kept uttering outlandish yells, asking mercy of Alexander as 'my lord'; and his jargon made them laugh. His fat and his bulging corpulence suggested to them another creature, a huge-bodied Babylonian animal. So the multitude scoffed at him, mocking with the coarse mockery of the camp an enemy who was so repulsive of feature and so uncouth in his ways."

Is this description, I ask, comparable with those lines of Homer in which Achilles is represented as maltreating Hector after his death? And yet the suffering in the latter case is less, for it is on a mere senseless body that the outrage is inflicted. But it is worth while, nevertheless, to note the vast difference between the poet and the sophist: —

He spake, and a shameful mishandling devised he for Hector slain;
For behind each foot did he sunder therefrom the sinews twain
From the ankle-joint to the heel: hide-bands through the gashes he thrust;
To his chariot he bound them, and left the head to trail in the dust.
He hath mounted his car, and the glorious armour thereon hath he cast,
And he lashed the horses, and they with eager speed flew fast.
And a dust from the haling of Hector arose, and tossed wide-spread His dark locks: wholly in dust his head lay low — that head Once comely: ah then was the hero delivered over of Zeus
In his very fatherland for his foes to despitefully use.
So dust-besprent was his head; but his mother was rending her hair
The while, and she flung therefrom her head-veil glistening-fair Afar, and with wild loud shriek as she looked on her son she cried;
And in piteous wise did his father wail, and on every side

Through the city the folk brake forth into shriek and wail at the sight.
It was like unto this above all things, as though, from her topmost height
To the ground, all beetling Troy in flame and in smoke were rolled.

That is the way in which a noble corpse and terrible sufferings should be described by men of feeling and understanding. But after the fashion of this Magnesian they could be described by women only or effeminate men, and even by them not in earnest, but in a spirit of derision and mockery. To what, then, is due the nobility of these lines, as compared with the miserable absurdities of the other passage? Chiefly, if not entirely, to the difference in the rhythms. In the quotation from Homer there is not one unimpressive or unworthy verse, while in that from Hegesias every single sentence will prove offensive.

Having now discussed the importance of rhythm, I will pass on to the topics that remain.

CHAPTER XIX. ON VARIETY

The third cause of beautiful arrangement that was to be examined is variety. I do not mean the change from the better to the worse (that would be too foolish), nor yet that from the worse to the better, but variety among things that are similar. For satiety can be caused by all beautiful things, just as by things sweet to the taste, when there is an unvarying sameness about them; but if diversified by changes, they always remain new. Now writers in metre and in lyric measures cannot introduce change everywhere; or rather, I should say, cannot all introduce change, and none as much as they wish. For instance, epic writers cannot vary their metre, for all the lines must necessarily be hexameters; nor yet the rhythm, for they must use those feet that begin with a long syllable, and not all even of these. The writers of lyric verse cannot vary the melodies of strophe and antistrophe, but whether they adopt enharmonic melodies, or chromatic, or diatonic, in all the strophes and antistrophes the same sequences must be observed. Nor, again, must the rhythms be changed in which the entire strophes and antistrophes are written, but these too must remain unaltered. But in the so-called epodes both the tune and the rhythm may be changed. Great freedom, too, is allowed to an author in varying and elaborating the clauses of which each period is composed by giving them different lengths and forms in different instances, until they complete a strophe; but after that, similar metres and clauses must be composed for the antistrophe. Now the ancient writers of lyric poetry — I refer to Alcaeus and Sappho — made their strophes short, so that they did not introduce many variations in the clauses, which were few in number, while the use they made of the epode was very slight. Stesichorus and Pindar and their schools framed their periods on a larger scale, and divided them into many measures and clauses, simply from the love of variety. The dithyrambic poets used to change the modes also, introducing Dorian and Phrygian and Lydian modes in the same song; and they varied the melodies, making them now enharmonic, now chromatic, now diatonic; and in the rhythms they continually showed the boldest independence, — I mean Philoxenus, Timotheus, Telestes, and men of their stamp, — since among the ancients even the dithyramb had been subject to strict metrical laws.

Prose-writing has full liberty and permission to diversify composition by whatever changes it pleases. A style is finest of all when it has the most frequent rests and changes of harmony; when one thing is said within a period, another without it; when one period is formed by the interweaving of a larger number of clauses, another by that of a smaller; when among the clauses themselves one is short, another longer, one roughly wrought, another more finished; when the rhythms take now one form, now another, and the figures are of all kinds, and the voice-pitches — the so-called “accents” — are various, and skilfully avoid satiety by their diversity. There is considerable charm, among efforts of this kind, in what is so composed that it does not seem to be artificially composed at all. I do not think that many words are needed on this point. Everybody, I believe, is aware that, in prose, variety is full of charm and beauty. And as examples of it I reckon all the writings of Herodotus, all those of Plato, and all those of Demosthenes. It is impossible to find other writers who have introduced more episodes than these, or better-timed variations, or more multiform figures: the first in the narrative form, the second in graceful dialogue, the third in the practical work of forensic oratory. As for the methods of Isocrates and his followers, they are not to be compared with the styles of those writers. The Isocratic authors have composed much with charm and distinction; but in regard to change and diversity they are anything but happy. We find in them one continually recurring period, a monotonous order of figures, the invariable observance of vowel-blending, and many other similar things which fatigue the ear. I cannot approve that school on this side. In Isocrates himself, it may be conceded, many charms were displayed which helped to hide this blemish. But among his successors, by reason of their fewer redeeming excellences, the fault mentioned stands out more glaringly.

CHAPTER XX. ON APPROPRIATENESS

It still remains for me to speak about appropriateness. All the other ornaments of speech must be associated with what is appropriate; indeed, if any other quality whatever fails to attain this, it fails to attain the main essential, — perhaps fails altogether. Into the question as a whole this is not the right time to go; it is a profound study, and would need a long treatise. But let me say what bears on the special department which I am actually discussing; or if not all that bears on it, nor even the largest part, at all events as much as is possible.

It is admitted among all critics that appropriateness is that treatment which suits the actors and actions concerned. Just as the choice of words may be either appropriate or inappropriate to the subject matter, so also surely must the composition be. This statement I had best illustrate from actual life. I refer to the fact that we do not put our words together in the same way when angry as when glad, nor when mourning as when afraid, nor when under the influence of any other emotion or calamity as when conscious that there is nothing at all to agitate or annoy us.

These few words on a wide subject are merely examples of the countless other things which could be added if one wished to treat fully all the aspects of appropriateness. But I have one obvious remark to make of a general nature. When the same men in the same state of mind report occurrences which they have actually witnessed, they do not use a similar style in describing all of them, but in their very way of putting their words together imitate the things they report, not purposely, but carried away by a natural impulse. Keeping an eye on this principle, the good poet and orator should be ready to imitate the things of which he is giving a verbal description, and to imitate them not only in the choice of words but also in the composition. This is the practice of Homer, that surpassing genius, although he has but one metre and few rhythms. Within these limits, nevertheless, he is continually producing new effects and artistic refinements, so that actually to see the incidents taking place would give no advantage over our having them thus described. I will give a few instances, which the reader may take as representative of many. When Odysseus is telling the Phaeacians the story of his wanderings and of his descent into Hades, he brings the miseries of the place before our eyes. Among them, he describes the torments of Sisyphus, for whom they say that the gods of the nether world have made it a condition of release from his awful sufferings to have rolled a stone over a certain hill, and that this is impossible, as the stone invariably falls down again just as it reaches the top. Now it is worth while to observe how Homer will express this by a mimicry which the very arrangement of his words produces: —

There Sisyphus saw I receiving his guerdon of mighty pain:

A monster rock upheaving with both hands aye did he strain;
With feet firm-fixed, palms pressed, with gasps, with toil most sore, That rock to a high hill's crest heaved he.

Here it is the composition that brings out each of the details — the weight of the stone, the laborious movement of it from the ground, the straining of the man's limbs, his slow ascent towards the ridge, the difficulty of thrusting the rock upwards. No one will deny the effect produced. And on what does the execution of each detail depend? Certainly the results do not come by chance or of themselves. To begin with: in the two lines in which Sisyphus rolls up the rock, with the exception of two verbs all the component words of the passage are either disyllables or monosyllables. Next, the long syllables are half as numerous again as the short ones in each of the two lines. Then, all the words are so arranged as to advance, as it were, with giant strides, and the gaps between them are distinctly perceptible, in consequence of the concurrence of vowels or the juxtaposition of semi-vowels and mutes; and the dactylic and spondaic rhythms of which the lines are composed are the longest possible and take the longest possible stride. Now, what is the effect of these several details? The monosyllabic and disyllabic words, leaving many intervals between each other, suggest the duration of the action; while the long syllables, which require a kind of pause and prolongation, reproduce the resistance, the heaviness, the difficulty. The inhalation between the words and the juxtaposition of rough letters indicate the pauses in his efforts, the delays, the vastness of the toil. The rhythms, when it is observed how long-drawn-out they are, betoken the straining of his limbs, the struggle of the man as he rolls his burden, and the upheaving of the stone. And that this is not the work of Nature improvising, but of art attempting to reproduce a scene, is proved by the words that follow these. For the poet has represented the return of the rock from the summit and its rolling downward in quite another fashion; he quickens and abbreviates his composition. Having first said, in the same form as the foregoing,

And atop of the ridge would it rest —

he adds to this,

some Power back turned it again:
Rushing the pitiless boulder went rolling adown to the plain.

Do not the words thus arranged roll downhill together with the impetus of the rock? Indeed, does not the speed of the narration outstrip the rush of the stone? I certainly think so. And what is the reason here again? It is worth noticing. The line which described the downrush of the stone has no monosyllabic words, and only two disyllabic. Now this, in the first place, does not break up the phrases but hurries them on. In the second place, of the seventeen syllables in the line ten are short, seven long, and not even these seven are perfect. So the line has to go tumbling down-hill in a heap, dragged forward by the shortness of the syllables. Moreover, one word is not divided from another by any appreciable interval, for vowel does not meet vowel, nor semi-vowel or mute meet semi-vowel — conjunctions the natural effect of which is to make the connexions harsher and less close-fitting. There is, in fact, no perceptible division if the words are not forced asunder, but they slip into one another and are swept along, and a sort of great single word is formed out of all owing to the closeness of the junctures. And what is most surprising of all, not one of the long feet which naturally fit into the heroic metre — whether spondee or bacchius — has been introduced into the line, except at the end. All the rest are dactyls, and these with their irrational syllables hurried along, so that some of the feet do not differ much from trochees. Accordingly nothing hinders the line from being rapid, rounded and swift-flowing, welded together as it is from such rhythms as this. Many such passages could be pointed out in Homer. But I think the foregoing lines amply sufficient, and I must leave myself time to discuss the remaining points.

The aims, then, which should be steadily kept in view by those who mean to form a charming and noble style, alike in poetry and in prose, are in my opinion those already mentioned. These, at all events, are the most essential and effective. But those which I have been unable to mention, as being more minute and more obscure than these, and, owing to their number, hard to embrace in a single treatise, I will bring before you in our daily lessons, and I will draw illustrations in support of my views from many good poets, historians, and orators. But now I will go on to add to this work, before concluding it, the remainder of the points which I promised to treat of, and the discussion of which is as indispensable as any: viz. what are the different styles of composition and what the usual distinguishing mark of each is. I will include some mention of those who have been eminent in them, and will also add examples from each author. When the treatment of these points is completed, I must proceed to dispose of certain difficulties very generally felt: what it can be that makes prose appear like a poem though retaining the form of prose, and verse like prose though maintaining the loftiness of poetry; for almost all the best writers of prose or poetry have these excellences in their style. I must do my best, then, to set forth my views on these matters also. I will begin with the first.

CHAPTER XXI. THREE MODES, OR STYLES, OF COMPOSITION

I assert without any hesitation that there are many specific differences of composition, and that they cannot be brought into a comprehensive view or within a precise enumeration; I think too that, as in personal appearance, so also in literary composition, each of us has an individual character. I find not a bad illustration in painting. As in that art all painters from life take the same pigments but mix them in the most diverse ways, so in poetry and in prose, though we all use the same words, we do not put them together in the same manner. I hold, however, that the essentially different varieties of composition are the three following only, to which any one who likes may assign the appropriate names, when he has heard their characteristics and their differences. For my own part, since I cannot find recognized names for them, inasmuch as none exist, I call them by metaphorical terms — the first austere, the second smooth (or florid), the third harmoniously blended. How I am to say the third is formed I am at a loss to know— “my mind is too divided to utter truth”: I cannot see whether it is formed by eliminating the two extremes or by fusing them — it is not easy to hit on any clear answer. Perhaps, then, it is better to say that it is by relaxation and tension of the extremes that the means, which are very numerous, arise. The case is not as in music, where the middle note is equally removed from the lowest and the highest. The middle style in writing does not in the same way stand at an equal distance from each of the two extremes; “middle” is here a vague general term, like “herd,” “heap,” and many others. But the present is not the right time for the investigation of this particular point. I must say what I undertook to say with regard to the several styles — not all that I could (I should need a very long treatise to do that), but just the most salient points.

CHAPTER XXII. AUSTERE COMPOSITION

The characteristic feature of the austere arrangement is this: — It requires that the words should be like columns firmly planted and placed in strong positions, so that each word should be seen on every side, and that the parts should be at appreciable distances from one another, being separated by perceptible intervals. It does not in the least shrink from using frequently harsh sound-clashings which jar on the ear; like blocks of building stone that are laid together unworked, blocks that are not square and smooth, but preserve their natural roughness and irregularity.

It is prone for the most part to expansion by means of great spacious words. It objects to being confined to short syllables, except under occasional stress of necessity.

In respect of the words, then, these are the aims which it strives to attain, and to these it adheres. In its clauses it pursues not only these objects but also impressive and stately rhythms, and tries to make its clauses not parallel in structure or sound, nor slaves to a rigid sequence, but noble, brilliant, free. It wishes them to suggest nature rather than art, and to stir emotion rather than to reflect character. And as to periods, it does not, as a rule, even attempt to compose them in such a way that the sense of each is complete in itself: if it ever drifts into this accidentally, it seeks to emphasize its own unstudied and simple character, neither using any supplementary words which in no way aid the sense, merely in order that the period may be fully rounded off, nor being anxious that the periods should move smoothly or showily, nor nicely calculating them so as to be just sufficient (if you please) for the speaker's breath, nor taking pains about any other such trifles. Further, the arrangement in question is marked by flexibility in its use of the cases, variety in the employment of figures, few connectives; it lacks articles, it often disregards natural sequence; it is anything rather than florid, it is aristocratic, plain-spoken, unvarnished; an old-world mellowness constitutes its beauty.

This mode of composition was once zealously practised by many authors in poetry, history, and civil oratory; pre-eminently in epic poetry by Antimachus of Colophon and Empedocles the natural philosopher, in lyric poetry by Pindar, in tragedy by Aeschylus, in history by Thucydides, and in civil oratory by Antiphon. At this point the subject would naturally call for the presentation of numerous examples of each author cited, and possibly the discourse would have been rendered not unattractive if bedecked with many such flowers of spring. But then the treatise would probably be felt to be excessively long — more like a course of lectures than a manual. On the other hand, it would not be fitting to leave the statements unsubstantiated, as though they were obvious and not in need of proof. The right thing, no doubt, is after all to take a sort of middle course, neither to exceed all measure, nor yet to fall short of carrying conviction. I will endeavour to do so by selecting a few samples from the most distinguished authors. Among poets it will be enough to cite Pindar, among prose-writers Thucydides; for these are the best writers in the austere style of composition. Let Pindar come first, and from him I take a dithyramb which begins —

Shed o'er our choir, Olympian Dominations,
The glory of your grace,
O ye who hallow with your visitations
The curious-carven place,

The heart of Athens, steaming with oblations, Wide-thronged with many a face.
Come, take your due of garlands violet-woven,
Of songs that burst forth when the buds are cloven.

Look on me — linked with music's heaven-born glamour Again have I drawn nigh
The Ivy-wreathed, on earth named Lord of Clamour, Of the soul-thrilling cry.
We hymn the Babe that of the Maid Kadmeian Sprang to the Sire throned in the empyrean.

By surest tokens is he manifested: —
What time the bridal bowers Of Earth and Sun are by their crimson-vested Warders flung wide, the Hours.
Then Spring, led on by flowers nectar-breathing, O'er Earth the deathless flings Violet and rose their love-locks interwreathing:
The voice of song outrings
An echo to the flutes; the dance his story Echoes, and circlet-crowned Semele's glory.

That these lines are vigorous, weighty and dignified, and possess much austerity; that, though rugged, they are not unpleasantly so, and though harsh to the ear, are but so in due measure; that they are slow in their time-movement, and present broad effects of harmony; and that they exhibit not the showy and decorative prettiness of our day, but the austere beauty of a distant past: this will, I am sure, be attested by all readers whose literary sense has been tolerably developed. I will attempt to show by what method such results have been achieved, since it is not by spontaneous accident, but by some kind of artistic design, that this passage has acquired its characteristic form.

The first clause consists of four words — a verb, a connective, and two appellatives. Now the mingling and the amalgamation of the verb and the connective have produced a rhythm which is not without its charm; but the combination of the connective with the appellative has resulted in a junction of considerable roughness. For the words ἐν χορόν are jarring and uneuphonious, since the connective ends with the semivowel ν, while the appellative begins with one of the mutes, χ. These letters by their very nature cannot be blended and compacted, since it is unnatural for the combination νχ to form part of a single syllable; and so, when ν and χ are the boundaries of adjacent syllables, the voice cannot be continuous, but there must necessarily be a pause separating the letters if each of them is uttered with its proper sound. So, then, the first clause is roughened thus by the arrangement of its words. (You must understand me to mean by “clauses” not those into which Aristophanes or any of the other metrists has arranged the odes, but those into which Nature insists on dividing the discourse and into which the disciples of the rhetoricians divide their periods.)

The next clause to this — ἐπί τε κλυτὰν πέμπετε χάριν θεοί — is separated from the former by a considerable interval and includes within itself many dissonant collocations. It begins with one of the vowels, ε, in close proximity to which is another vowel, ι — the letter which came at the end of the preceding clause. These letters, again, do not coalesce with one another, nor can ι stand before ε in the same syllable. There is a certain silence between the two letters, which thrusts apart the two elements and gives each a firm position. In the detailed arrangement of the clause the postposition of the appellative part of speech κλυτὰν to the connectives ἐπί τε with which the phrase opens (though perhaps the first of these connectives should rather be called a preposition) has made the composition dissonant and harsh. For what reason? Because the first syllable of κλυτὰν is ostensibly short, but actually longer than the ordinary short, since it is composed of a mute, a semi-vowel, and a vowel. It is the want of unalloyed brevity in it, combined with the difficulty of pronunciation involved in the combination of the letters, that causes retardation and interruption in the harmony. At all events, if you were to remove the κ from the syllable and to make it ἐπί τε λυτὰν, there would be an end to both the slowness and the roughness of the arrangement. Further: the verbal form πέμπετε, subjoined to the appellative κλυτὰν, does not produce a harmonious or well-tempered sound. The ν must be firmly planted and the π be heard only when the lips have been quite pressed together, for the π cannot be tacked on to the ν. The reason of this is the configuration of the mouth, which does not produce the two letters either at the same spot or in the same way. ν is sounded on the arch of the palate, with the tongue rising towards the edge of the teeth and with the breath passing in separate currents through the nostrils; π with the lips closed, the tongue doing none of the work, and the breath forming a concentrated noise when the lips are opened, as I have said before. While the mouth is taking one after another shapes that are neither akin nor alike, some time is consumed, during which the smoothness and euphony of the arrangement is interrupted. Moreover, the first syllable of πέμπετε has not a soft sound either, but is rather rough to the ear, as it begins with a mute and ends with a semi-vowel. θεοί coming next to χάριν pulls the sound up short and makes an appreciable interval between the words, the one ending with the semi-vowel ν, the other beginning with the mute θ. And it is unnatural for a semi-vowel to stand before any mute.

Next follows this third clause, πολύβατον οἳ τ' ἄστεος ὀμφαλὸν θυόεντα ἐν ταῖς ἱεραῖς Ἀθάναις οἰχνεῖτε. Here θυόεντα which begins with θ, being placed next to ὀμφαλὸν which ends in ν, produces a dissonance similar to that previously mentioned; and ἐν ταῖς ἱεραῖς which opens with the vowel ε, being linked to θυόεντα which ends with the vowel α, interrupts the voice by the considerable interval of time there is between them. Following these come the words πανδαίδαλόν τ' εὐκλέ' ἄγοράν. Here, too, the combination is rough and dissonant. For the mute τ is joined to the semi-vowel ν; and the interval between the appellative πανδαίδαλον and the elided syllable which follows it is quite an appreciable gap; for both syllables are long, but the syllable which unites the two letters ε and ν, consisting as it does of a mute and two vowels, is considerably longer than the average. At any rate, if the τ in the syllable be removed and πανδαίδαλον εὐκλέ' ἄγοράν be read, the syllable, falling into the normal measure, will make the composition more euphonious.

The words ἰοδέτων λάχετε στεφάνων are open to the same criticism as those already mentioned. For here two semi-vowels, ν and λ, come together, although they do not naturally admit of amalgamation owing to the fact that they are not pronounced <at the same regions nor> with the same configurations of the mouth. The words that follow these have their syllables lengthened and are widely divided from one another in arrangement: στεφάνων τᾶν τ' ἐαριδρόπων. For here also there is a concurrence of long syllables which exceed the normal measure, — the final syllable of the word στεφάνων which embraces between two semi-vowels a vowel naturally long, and the syllable linked with it, which is lengthened by means of three letters, a mute, a vowel pronounced long, and a semi-vowel. Separation is produced by the lengths of the syllables, and dissonance by the juxtaposition of the letters, since the sound of τ does not accord with that of ν, as I have said before. Next to αἰοιδᾶν, which ends in ν, comes Διόθεν τε, which begins with the mute δ, and next to σὺν ἀγλαΐᾳ, which ends in ι, comes ἴδετε πορευθέντ' αἰοιδᾶν, which begins with ι. Many such features may be found on a critical examination of the whole ode.

But in order to leave myself time for dealing with what remains, no more of Pindar. From Thucydides let us take this passage of the Introduction: —

“Thucydides, an Athenian, composed this history of the war which the Peloponnesians and the Athenians waged against one another. He began as soon as the war broke out, in the expectation that it would be great and memorable above all previous wars. This he inferred from the fact that both parties were entering upon it at the height of their military power, and from noticing that the rest of the Greek races were ranging themselves on this side or on that, or were intending to do so before long. No commotion ever troubled the Greeks so greatly: it affected also a considerable section of the barbarians, and one may even say the greater part of mankind. Events previous to this, and events still more remote, could not be clearly ascertained owing to lapse of time. But from such evidence as I find I can trust however far back I go, I conclude that they were not of great importance either from a military or from any other point of view. It is clear that the country now called Hellas was not securely settled in ancient times, but that there were migrations in former days, various peoples without hesitation leaving their own land when hard pressed by superior numbers of successive invaders. Commerce did not exist, nor did men mix freely with one another on land or by sea. Each tribe aimed at getting a bare living out of the lands it occupied. They had no reserve of capital, nor did they plant the ground with fruit-trees, since it was uncertain, especially as they had no fortifications, when some invader would come and rob them of their property. They also thought that they could command the bare necessities of daily life anywhere; and so, for all these reasons, they made no difficulty about giving up their land."

There is no need for me to say, when all educated people know it as well as I, that this passage is not smooth or nicely finished in its verbal arrangement, and is not euphonious and soft, and does not glide imperceptibly through the ear, but shows many features that are discordant and rough and harsh; that it does not make the slightest approach to attaining the grace appropriate to an oration delivered at a public festival or to a speech on the stage, but is marked by a sort of antique and self-willed beauty. Indeed, the historian himself admits that his narrative is but little calculated to give pleasure when heard: "it has been composed as a possession for all time rather than as an essay to be recited at some particular competition." I will briefly point out to you the principles by following which the author has made the arrangement so rugged and austere. Small things will readily serve you as samples of great: you can easily go on noting resemblances and making comparisons for yourself.

At the very beginning the verb ξυνέγραψε, being appended to the appellative Ἀθηναῖος, makes an appreciable break in the verbal structure, since σ is never placed before ξ with a view to being pronounced in the same syllable with it. The sound of σ must be sharply arrested by an interval of silence before the ξ is heard; and this circumstance causes roughness and dissonance. Moreover, the interruptions of the voice in what follows, in consequence of the four successive juxtapositions νπ, ντ, νπ, νκ, grate violently upon the ear, and cause a remarkable succession of jolts when he says τὸν πόλεμον τῶν Πελοποννησίων καὶ Ἀθηναίων. Of these words there is not one that must not first be checked by the mouth with a stress on the last letter, in order that the next letter to it may be uttered clearly and purely with its own proper quality. Furthermore, the juxtaposition of vowels which is found at the end of this clause in the words καὶ Ἀθηναίων has broken and made a gap in the continuity of the arrangement, by demanding quite an appreciable interval, since the sounds of ι and α are unmingled and there is an interruption of the voice between them: whereas euphony is caused by sounds which are continuous and smoothly blended.

Again, in the second period the first clause ἀρξάμενος εὐθὺς καθισταμένου has been pretty successfully arranged by the author in the way in which it would produce the most smooth and euphonious effect. But he roughens and dislocates the very next clause by sundering its joints: καὶ ἐλπίσας μέγαν τε ἔσεσθαι καὶ ἀξιολογώτατον τῶν προγεγενημένων. For thrice in close succession vowels are juxtaposed which cause clashings and obstructed utterance, and make it impossible for the ear to take in the impression of one continuous clause; and the period which he ends with the words τῶν προγεγενημένων has no well-defined and rounded close, but seems to be without beginning or conclusion, as if it were part of the second period and not its termination.

The third period has the same characteristics. There is a lack of roundness and stability in its foundation, since it has for its concluding portion τὸ δὲ καὶ διανοοῦμενον. Further, it too contains many clashings of vowel against vowel and of semi-vowels against semi-vowels and mutes — discords produced by things in their very nature inharmonious. To sum up, here are some twelve periods adduced by me — if the breathing-space be taken as the criterion for the division of period from period; and they contain no fewer than thirty clauses. Yet of these not six or seven clauses in all will be found to be euphoniously composed and finished in their structure; while of hiatus between vowels in the twelve periods there are almost thirty instances, together with meetings of semi-vowels and mutes which are dissonant, harsh, and hard to pronounce. It is to this that the stoppages and the many retardations in the passage are due; and so numerous are these concurrences that there is one of the kind in almost every single section of it. There is a great lack of symmetry in the clauses, great unevenness in the periods, much innovation in the figures, disregard of sequence, and all the other marks which I have already noted as characteristic of the unadorned and austere style. I do not consider it necessary to waste our time by going over the whole ground once more with the illustrative passages.

CHAPTER XXIII. SMOOTH COMPOSITION

The smooth (or florid) mode of composition, which I regarded as second in order, has the following features. It does not intend that each word should be seen on every side, nor that all its parts should stand on broad, firm bases, nor that the time-intervals between them should be long; nor in general is this slow and deliberate movement congenial to it. It demands free movement in its diction; it requires words to come sweeping along one on top of another, each supported by that which follows, like the onflow of a never-resting stream. It tries to combine and interweave its component parts, and thus give, as far as possible, the effect of one continuous utterance. This result is produced by so nicely adjusting the junctures that they admit no appreciable time-interval between the words. From this point of view the style resembles finely woven stuffs, or pictures in which the lights melt insensibly into the shadows. It requires that all its words shall be melodious, smooth, soft as a maiden's face; and it shrinks from harsh, clashing syllables, and carefully avoids everything rash and hazardous.

It requires not only that its words should be properly dove-tailed and fitted together, but also that the clauses should be carefully inwoven with one another and all issue in a period. It limits the length of a clause so that it is neither shorter nor longer than the right mean, and the compass of the period so that a man's full breath will be able to cover it. It could not endure to construct a passage without periods, nor a period without clauses, nor a clause without symmetry. The rhythms it uses are not the longest, but the intermediate, or shorter than these. It requires its periods to march as with steps regulated by line and rule, and to close with a rhythmical fall. Thus, in fitting together its periods and its words respectively, it employs two different methods. The latter it runs together; the former it keeps apart, wishing that they may be seen as it were from every side. As for figures, it is wont to employ not the most time-honoured sort, nor those marked by stateliness, gravity, or mellowness, but rather for the most part those which are dainty and alluring, and contain much that is seductive and fanciful. To speak generally: its attitude is directly opposed to that of the former variety in the principal and most essential points. I need not go over these points again.

Our next step will be to enumerate those who have attained eminence in this style. Well, among epic poets Hesiod, I think, has best developed the type; among lyric poets, Sappho, and, after her, Anacreon and Simonides; of tragedians, Euripides alone; of historians, none exactly, but Ephorus and Theopompus more than most; of orators, Isocrates. I will quote examples of this style also, selecting among poets Sappho, and among orators Isocrates. And I will begin with the lyric poetess: —

Child of Zeus, spell-weaver, I bow before thee — Harrow not my spirit with anguish, mighty Queen, I implore thee!

Nay, come hither, even as once thou, bending Down from far to hearken my cry, didst hear me, From thy Father's palace of gold descending Drewest anear me

Chariot-wafted: far over midnight-sleeping Earth, thy fair fleet sparrows, through cloudland riven Wide by multitudinous wings, came sweeping Down from thine heaven,

Swiftly came: thou, smiling with those undying Lips and star-eyes, Blessed One, smiling me-ward, Said'st, "What ails thee? — wherefore uprose thy crying Calling me thee-ward?

Say for what boon most with a frenzied longing Yearns thy soul — say whom shall my glamour chaining Hale thy love's thrall, Sappho — and who is wronging Thee with disdain?

Who avoids thee soon shall be thy pursuer:
Aye, the gift-rejecter the giver shall now be:
Aye, the loveless now shall become the wooer, Scornful shalt thou be!" Once again come! Come, and my chains dis sever, Chains of heart-ache! Passionate longings rend me — Oh fulfil them! Thou in the strife be ever Near, to defend me.

Here the euphonious effect and the grace of the language arise from the coherence and smoothness of the junctures. The words nestle close to one another and are woven together according to certain affinities and natural attractions of the letters. Almost throughout the entire ode vowels are joined to mutes and semi-vowels, all those in fact which are naturally prefixed or affixed to one another when pronounced together in one syllable. There are very few clashings of semi-vowels with semi-vowels or mutes, and of mutes and vowels with one another, such as cause the sound to oscillate. When I review the entire ode, I find, in all those nouns and verbs and other kinds of words, only five or perhaps six unions of semi-vowels and mutes which do not naturally blend with one another, and even they do not disturb the smoothness of the language to any great extent. As for juxtaposition of vowels, I find that those which occur in the clauses themselves are still fewer, while those which join the clauses to one another are only a little more numerous. As a natural consequence the language has a certain easy flow and softness; the arrangement of the words in no way ruffles the smooth waves of sound.

I would go on to mention the remaining characteristics of this kind of composition, and would show as before by means of appropriate illustrations that they are such as I say, were it not that my treatise would become too long and would create an impression of needless repetition. It will be open to you, as to any one else, at your full leisure and convenience, to take each single point enumerated by me in describing the type, and to examine and review them with illustrations. But I really have no time to do this. It is quite enough simply to give an adequate indication of my views to all who will be able to follow in my steps.

I will quote a passage of one more writer who has fashioned himself into the same mould — Isocrates the orator. Of all prose-writers he is, I think, the most finished master of this style of composition. The passage is from the Areopagiticus, as follows: —

“Many of you, I imagine, are wondering what can be my view in coming before you to speak on the question of the public safety, as though the State were actually in danger, or its interests imperilled, and as though it did not as a matter of fact possess more than two hundred warships, and were not at peace throughout its borders and supreme at sea, and had not many allies ready to help us in case of need, and many more who regularly pay their contributions and perform their obligation. Under these circumstances it might be said that we have every reason for confidence on the ground that all danger is remote; and that it is our enemies who have reason to be afraid and to form plans for self-preservation. Now you, I know, are inclined on this account to make light of my appeal; you expect to maintain supremacy over the whole of Greece by means of your existing forces. But it is precisely on these grounds that I really am alarmed. I observe that it is those States which think they are at the height of prosperity that adopt the worst policy, and that it is the most confident that incur the greatest danger. The reason is that no good or evil fortune comes to men entirely by itself: folly and its mate intemperance have been appointed to wait on wealth and power, self-restraint and great moderation to attend on poverty and low estate. So that it is hard to decide which of these two lots a man would desire to bequeath to his children, since we can see that from what is popularly regarded as the inferior condition men’s fortunes commonly improve, while from that which is apparently the better they usually decline and fall.”

The instinctive perception of the ear testifies that these words are run and blended together; that they do not individually stand on a broad foundation which gives an all-round view of each; and that they are not separated by long time-intervals and planted far apart from one another, but are plainly in a state of motion, being borne onwards in an unbroken stream, while the links which bind the passage together are gentle and soft and flowing. And it is easy to see that the sole cause lies in the character of this style as I have previously described it. For no dissonance of vowels will be found, at any rate in the harmonious clauses which I have quoted, nor any, I think, in the entire speech, unless some instance has escaped my notice. There are also few dissonances of semi-vowels and mutes, and those not very glaring or continuous. The euphonious flow of the passage is due to these circumstances, combined with the balance of the clauses and the cycle of the periods which has about it something rounded and well-defined and perfectly regulated in respect of symmetrical adjustment. Above all there are the rhetorical figures, full of youthful exuberance: antithesis, parallelism in sound, parallelism in structure, and others like these, by which the language of panegyric is brought to its highest perfection. I do not think it necessary to lengthen the book by dealing with the points that are still untouched. This kind of composition also has now received adequate treatment on all points where it was appropriate.

CHAPTER XXIV. HARMONIOUSLY-BLENDED, OR INTERMEDIATE, COMPOSITION

The third kind of composition is the mean between the two already mentioned. I call it harmoniously blended for lack of a proper and better name. It has no form peculiar to itself, but is a sort of judicious blend of the two others and a selection from the most effective features of each. This kind, it seems to me, deserves to win the first prize; for it is a sort of mean, and excellence in life and conduct [and the arts] is a mean, according to Aristotle and the other philosophers of his school. As I said before, it is to be viewed not narrowly but broadly. It has many specific varieties. Those who have adopted it have not all had the same aims nor the same methods; some have made more use of this method, others of that; while the same methods have been pursued with less or greater vigour by different writers, who have yet all achieved eminence in the various walks of literature. Now he who towers conspicuous above them all,

Out of whose fulness all rivers, and every sea, have birth,
And all upleaping fountains, is, we must admit, Homer. For whatever passage you like to take in him has had its manifold charms brought to perfection by a union of the severe and the polished forms of arrangement. Of the other writers who have cultivated the same golden mean, all will be found to be far inferior to Homer when measured by his standard, but still men of eminence when regarded in themselves: among lyric poets Stesichorus and Alcaeus, among tragedians Sophocles, among historians Herodotus, among orators Demosthenes, and among philosophers (in my opinion) Democritus, Plato, and Aristotle. It is impossible to find authors who have succeeded better in blending their writings into harmonious wholes. As regards types of composition the foregoing remarks will suffice. I do not think it necessary to quote specimen passages from the authors just mentioned, since they are known to all and need no illustration.

Now if any one thinks that these things are worth much toil and great effort, he is, according to Demosthenes, decidedly in the right. Nay, if he considers the credit which attends success in them and the sweetness of the fruit they yield, he will count the toil a pleasure. I beg pardon of the Epicurean choir who care nothing for these things. The doctrine that "writing," as Epicurus himself says, "is no trouble to those who do not aim at the ever-varying standard" was meant to forestall the charge of gross laziness and stupidity.

CHAPTER XXV. HOW PROSE CAN RESEMBLE VERSE

Now that I have finished this part of the subject, I think you must be eager for information on the next point — how unmetrical language is made to resemble a beautiful poem or lyric, and how a poem or lyric is brought into close likeness to beautiful prose. I will begin with the language of prose, choosing by preference an author who has, I think, in a pre-eminent degree taken the impress of poetical style. I could wish to mention a larger number, but have not time for all. Who, then, will not admit that the speeches of Demosthenes are like the finest poems and lyrics: particularly his harangues against Philip and his pleadings in public law-suits? It will be enough to take the following exordium from one of these: —

“Let none of you, O ye Athenians, think that I have come forward to accuse the defendant Aristocrates with intent to indulge personal hate of my own, or that it is because I have got my eye on some small and petty error that I am thrusting myself with a light heart in the path of his enmity. No, if my calculations and point of view be right, my one aim and object is that you should securely hold the Chersonese, and should not again be deprived of it by political chicanery.”

I must endeavour, here again, to state my views. But the subject we have now reached is like the Mysteries: it cannot be divulged to people in masses. I shall not, therefore, be discourteous in inviting those only “for whom it is lawful” to approach the rites of style, while bidding the “profane” to “close the gates of their ears.” There are some who, through ignorance, turn the most serious things into ridicule, and no doubt their attitude is natural enough. Well, my views are in effect as follows: —

No passage which is composed absolutely without metre can be invested with the melody of poetry or lyric grace, at any rate from the point of view of the word-arrangement considered in itself. No doubt, the choice of words goes a long way, and there is a poetical vocabulary consisting of rare, foreign, figurative and coined words in which poetry takes delight. These are sometimes mingled with prose-writing to excess: many writers do so, Plato particularly. But I am not speaking of the choice of words: let the consideration of that subject be set aside for the present. Let our inquiry deal exclusively with word-arrangement, which can reveal possibilities of poetic grace in common everyday words that are by no means reserved for the poets’ vocabulary. Well, as I said, simple prose cannot become like metrical and lyrical writing, unless it contains metres and rhythms unobtrusively introduced into it. It does not, however, do for it to be manifestly in metre or in rhythm (for in that case it will be a poem or a lyric piece, and will absolutely desert its own specific character); it is enough that it should simply appear rhythmical and metrical. In this way it may be poetical, although not a poem; lyrical, although not a lyric.

The difference between the two things is easy enough to see. That which embraces within its compass similar metres and preserves definite rhythms, and is produced by a repetition of the same forms, line for line, period for period, or strophe for strophe, and then again employs the same rhythms and metres for the succeeding lines, periods or strophes, and does this at any considerable length, is in rhythm and in metre, and the names of “verse” and “song” are applied to such writing. On the other hand, that which contains casual metres and irregular rhythms, and in these shows neither sequence nor connexion nor correspondence of stanza with stanza, is rhythmical, since it is diversified by rhythms of a sort, but not in rhythm, since they are not the same nor in corresponding positions. This is the character I attribute to all language which, though destitute of metre, yet shows markedly the poetical or lyrical element; and this is what I mean that Demosthenes among others has adopted. That this is true, that I am advancing no new theory, any one can convince himself from the testimony of Aristotle; for in the third book of his Rhetoric the philosopher, speaking of the various requisites of style in civil oratory, has described the good rhythm which should contribute to it. He names the most suitable rhythms, shows where each of them is clearly serviceable, and adduces some passages by which he endeavours to establish his statement. But apart from the testimony of Aristotle, experience itself will show that some rhythms must be included in prose-writing if there is to be upon it the bloom of poetical beauty.

For example, the speech against Aristocrates which I mentioned a moment ago begins with a comic tetrameter line (set there with its anapaestic rhythms), but it is a foot short of completion and in consequence escapes detection: μηδεὶς ὑμῶν, ὦ ἄνδρες Ἀθηναῖοι, νομίσῃ με. If this line had an additional foot either at the beginning, in the middle, or at the end, it would be a perfect anapaestic tetrameter, to which some give the name “Aristophanic.”

Let none of you, O ye Athenians, think that I am standing before you, corresponds to the line

Now then shall be told what in days of old was the fashion of boys’ education.

It will perhaps be said in reply that this has happened not from design, but accidentally, since a natural tendency in us often improvises metrical fragments. Let the truth of this be granted. Yet the next clause as well, if you resolve the second elision, which has obscured its true character by linking it on to the third clause, will be a complete elegiac pentameter as follows: —

Come with intent to indulge personal hate of my own, similar to these words: —

Maidens whose feet in the dance lightly were lifted on high.

Let us suppose that this, too, has happened once more in the same spontaneous way without design. Still, after one intermediate clause arranged in a prose order, viz. ἦκειν Ἀριστοκράτους κατηγορήσοντα τουτουί, the clause which is joined to this consists of two metrical lines, viz. μήτε μικρὸν ὀρῶντά τι καὶ φαῦλον ἁμάρτημα ἐτοίμως οὕτως ἐπὶ τούτῳ. For if we were to take this line from Sappho's Bridal Song —

For never another maiden there was, O son-in-law, like unto this one, and were also to take the last three feet and the termination of the following comic tetrameter, the so-called "Aristophanic"

When of righteousness I was the popular preacher, and temperance was in fashion, and then were to unite them thus — οὐ γὰρ ἦν ἀτέρα πάις, ὧ γαμβρέ, τοιαύτα <ποτα> καὶ σωφροσύνη

'νενόμιστο,

it will precisely correspond to μήτε μικρὸν ὀρῶντά τι καὶ φαῦλον ἁμάρτημα, ἐτοίμως οὕτως ἐπὶ τούτῳ. What follows is like an iambic trimeter docked of its final foot, προάγειν ἑμαυτὸν εἰς ἀπέχθειαν. It will be complete if a foot is added and it takes this shape: — προάγειν ἑμαυτὸν εἰς ἀπέχθειάν τινα.

Are we once more to neglect these facts as if they were brought about not on purpose but by accident? What, then, is the significance of the next clause to this? For this too is a correct iambic trimeter line — ἀλλ' εἴπερ ἄρ' ὀρθῶς ἐγὼ λογίζομαι, if the connective ἄρα has its first syllable made long, and if further — by your leave! — the words καὶ σκοπῶ are regarded as an intermediate excrescence by means of which the metre is obscured and vanishes from sight. The clause placed next to this is composed of anapaestic feet, and extends to eight feet, still keeping the same form: — πρὸ τοῦ Χερόνησον ἔχειν ἀσφαλῶς ὑμᾶς καὶ μὴ παρακρουσθέντας, like to this in Euripides —

O King of the country with harvests teeming, O Cisseus, the plain with a fire is gleaming.

And the part of the same clause which comes next to it — ἀποστερηθῆναι πάλιν αὐτῆς — is an iambic trimeter short of a foot and a half. It would have been complete in this form — ἀποστερηθῆναι πάλιν αὐτῆς ἐν μέρει.

Are we to say that these effects too are spontaneous and unstudied, many and various as they are? I cannot think so; for it is easy to see that the clauses which follow are similarly full of many metres and rhythms of all kinds.

But lest it be thought that he has constructed this speech alone in this way, I will touch on another where the style is admitted to show astonishing genius, that on behalf of Ctesiphon, which I pronounce to be the finest of all speeches. In this, too, immediately after the address to the Athenians, I notice that the cretic foot, or the paeon if you like to call it so (for it will make no difference), — the one which consists of five time-units, — is interwoven, not fortuitously (save the mark!) but with the utmost deliberation right through the clause —

τοῖς θεοῖς εὖχομαι πᾶσι καὶ πάσαις.

Is not the following rhythm of the same kind —

Cretan strains practising, Zeus's son sing we?

In my judgment, at all events, it is; for with the exception of the final foot there is complete correspondence. But suppose this too, if you will have it so, to be accidental. Well, the adjacent clause is a correct iambic line, falling one syllable short of completion, with the object (here again) of obscuring the metre. With the addition of a single syllable the line will be complete — ὄσσην εὐνοίαν ἔχων ἐγὼ διατελῶ.

Further, that paeon or cretic rhythm of five beats will appear in the words which follow: τῇ πόλει καὶ πᾶσιν ὑμῖν τοσαύτην ὑπάρξει μοι παρ' ὑμῶν εἰς τοῦτον τὸν ἄγωνα. This, except that it has two broken feet at the beginnings, resembles in all respects the passage in Bacchylides: —

This is no time to sit still nor wait:

Even gold-aegis'd Queen Pallas' shrine,

And the rich vesture there show.

I have a presentiment that an onslaught will be made on these statements by people who are destitute of general culture and practise the mechanical parts of rhetoric unmethodically and unscientifically. Against these I am bound to defend my position, lest I should seem to let the case go by default. Their argument will doubtless be: “Was Demosthenes, then, so poor a creature that, whenever he was writing his speeches, he would work in metres and rhythms after the fashion of clay-modellers, and would try to fit his clauses into these moulds, shifting the words to and fro, keeping an anxious eye on his longs and shorts, and fretting himself about cases of nouns, moods of verbs, and all the accidents of the parts of speech? So great a man would be a fool indeed were he to stoop to all this niggling and peddling.” If they scoff and jeer in these or similar terms, they may easily be countered by the following reply: First, it is not surprising after all that a man who is held to deserve a greater reputation than any of his predecessors who were distinguished for eloquence was anxious, when composing eternal works and submitting himself to the scrutiny of all-testing envy and time, not to admit either subject or word at random, and to attend carefully to both arrangement of ideas and beauty of words: particularly as the authors of that day were producing discourses which suggested not writing but carving and chasing — those, I mean, of the sophists Isocrates and Plato. For the former spent ten years over the composition of his Panegyric, according to the lowest recorded estimate of the time; while Plato did not cease, when eighty years old, to comb and curl his dialogues and reshape them in every way. Surely every scholar is acquainted with the stories of Plato's passion for taking pains, especially that of the tablet which they say was found after his death, with the beginning of the Republic ("I went down yesterday to the Piraeus together with Glaucon the son of Ariston") arranged in elaborately varying orders. What wonder, then, if Demosthenes also was careful to secure euphony and melody and to employ no random or untested word or thought? For it appears to me far more reasonable for a man who is composing public speeches, eternal memorials of his own powers, to attend even to the slightest details, than it is for the disciples of painters and workers in relief, who display the dexterity and industry of their hands in a perishable medium, to expend the finished resources of their art on veins and down and bloom and similar minutiae.

These arguments seem to me to make no unreasonable claim; and we may further add that though when Demosthenes was a lad, and had but recently taken up the study of rhetoric, he naturally had to ask himself consciously what the effects attainable by human skill were, yet when long training had issued in perfect mastery, and had graven on his mind forms and impressions of all that he had practised, he henceforth produced his effects with the utmost ease from sheer force of habit. Something similar occurs in the other arts whose end is activity or production. For example, when accomplished players on the lyre, the harp, or the flute hear an unfamiliar tune, they no sooner grasp it than with little trouble they run over it on the instrument themselves. They have mastered the values of the notes after much toiling and moiling, and so can reproduce them. Their hands were not at the outset in condition to do what was bidden them; they attained command of this accomplishment only after much time, when ample training had converted custom into second nature.

Why pursue the subject? A fact familiar to all of us is enough to silence these quibblers. What may this be? When we are taught to read, first we learn off the names of the letters, then their forms and their values, then in due course syllables and their modifications, and finally words and their properties, viz. lengthenings and shortenings, accents, and the like. After acquiring the knowledge of these things, we begin to write and read, syllable by syllable and slowly at first. And when the lapse of a considerable time has implanted the forms of words firmly in our minds, then we deal with them without the least difficulty, and whenever any book is placed in our hands we go through it without stumbling, and with incredible facility and speed. We must suppose that something of this kind happens in the case of the trained exponent of the literary profession as regards the arrangement of words and the euphony of clauses. And it is not unnatural that those who are ignorant of this or unversed in any profession whatsoever should be surprised and incredulous when they hear that anything is executed with such mastery by another as a result of artistic training. This may suffice as a rejoinder to those who are accustomed to scoff at the rules of the rhetorical manuals.

CHAPTER XXVI. HOW VERSE CAN RESEMBLE PROSE

Concerning melodious metrical composition which bears a close affinity to prose, my views are of the following kind. The prime factor here too, just as in the case of poetical prose, is the collocation of the words themselves; next, the composition of the clauses; third, the arrangement of the periods. He who wishes to succeed in this department must change the words about and connect them with each other in manifold ways, and make the clauses begin and end at various places within the lines, not allowing their sense to be self-contained in separate verses, but breaking up the measure. He must make the clauses vary in length and form, and will often also reduce them to phrases which are shorter than clauses, and will make the periods — those at any rate which adjoin one another — neither equal in size nor alike in construction; for an elastic treatment of rhythms and metres seems to bring verse quite near to prose. Now those authors who compose in epic or iambic verse, or use the other regular metres, cannot diversify their poetical works with many metres or rhythms, but must always adhere to the same metrical form. But the lyric poets can include many metres and rhythms in a single period. So that when the writers of monometers break up the lines by distributing them into clauses now one way now another, they dissolve and efface the regularity of the metre; and when they diversify the periods in size and form, they make us forget the metre. On the other hand, the lyric poets compose their strophes in many metres; and again, from the fact that the clauses vary from time to time in length and form, they make the divisions unlike in form and size. From both these causes they hinder our apprehension of any uniform rhythm, and so they produce, as by design, in lyric poems a great likeness to prose. It is quite possible, moreover, for the poems to retain many figurative, unfamiliar, exceptional, and otherwise poetical words, and none the less to show a close resemblance to prose.

And let no one think me ignorant of the fact that the so-called “pedestrian character” is commonly regarded as a vice in poetry, or impute to me, of all persons, the folly of ranking any bad quality among the virtues of poetry or prose. Let my critic rather pay attention and learn how here once more I claim to distinguish what merits serious consideration from what is worthless. I observe that, among prose styles, there is on the one side the uncultivated style, by which I mean the prevailing frivolous gabble, and on the other side the language of public life which is, in the main, studied and artistic; and so, whenever I find any poetry which resembles the frivolous gabble I have referred to, I regard it as beneath criticism. I think that alone to be fit for serious imitation which resembles the studied and artistic kind. Now, if each sort of prose had a different appellation, it would have been only consistent to call the corresponding sorts of poetry also by different names. But since both the good and the worthless are called “prose,” it may not be wrong to regard as noble and bad “poetry” that which resembles noble and contemptible prose respectively, and not to be in any way disturbed by mere identity of terms. The application of similar names to different things will not prevent us from discerning the true nature of the things in either case.

As I have gone so far as to deal with this subject, I will end by subjoining a few examples of the features in question. From epic poetry it will be enough to quote the following lines: —

But he from the haven went where the rugged pathway led.

Here we have one clause. Observe the next —

Up the wooded land.

It is shorter than the other, and cuts the line in two. The third is — through the hills:

a segment still shorter than a clause. The fourth — unto where Athene had said

That he should light on the goodly swineherd — consists of two half-lines and is in no way like the former. Then the conclusion — the man who best

Gave heed to the goods of his lord, of the thralls that Odysseus possessed, which leaves the third line unfinished, while by the addition of the fourth it loses all undue uniformity. Then again —

By the house-front sitting he found him, where once more the words do not run out the full course of the line.

there where the courtyard wall

Was builded tall.

This, too, does not balance the former. Further, the order of ideas in the continuation of the passage is unperiodic, though the words are cast into the form of clauses and sections. For, after adding we shall find him subjoining:

Massy and fair to behold, which is a segment shorter than a clause. Next we find

Free on every side,

where the one Greek word (περίδρομος) by itself carries a certain meaning. And so on: we shall find him elaborating everything that follows in the same way. Why go into unnecessary detail?

From iambic poetry may be taken these lines of Euripides: —

Hail!

Thus far the first clause extends.

Of Arcady.

So far the second extends.

Whereof I boast my birth.

That is the third. The former are longer than a line; the last is shorter.

Me Auge, Aleus' daughter, not of wedlock Bare to Tirynthian Heracles.

And afterwards —

Yon hill Parthenian.

Not one of these corresponds exactly to a line. Then once more we find another clause which is from one point of view less than a line and from the other longer — where the Travail-queen

From birth-pangs set my mother free.

And similarly with the lines which follow these.

From lyric poetry the subjoined lines of Simonides may be taken. They are written according to divisions: not into those clauses for which Aristophanes or some other metrist laid down his canons, but into those which are required by prose. Please read the piece carefully by divisions: you may rest assured that the rhythmical arrangement of the ode will escape you, and you will be unable to guess which is the strophe or which the antistrophe or which the epode, but you will think it all one continuous piece of prose. The subject is Danaë, borne across the sea lamenting her fate: —

And when, in the carved ark lying,
She felt it through darkness drifting
Before the drear wind's sighing
And the great sea-ridges lifting,
She shuddered with terror, she brake into weeping,
And she folded her arms round Perseus sleeping;

And "Oh my baby," she moaned, "for my lot Of anguish! — but thou, thou carest not:

Adown sleep's flood is thy child-soul sweeping, Though beams brass-welded on every side
Make a darkness, even had the day not died
When they launched thee forth at gloaming-tide.
And the surf-crests fly o'er thy sunny hair
As the waves roll past — thou dost not care:
Neither carest thou for the wind's shrill cry,
As lapped in my crimson cloak thou dost lie
On my breast, little face so fair — so fair!
Ah, were these sights, these sounds of fear Fearsome to thee, that dainty ear Would hearken my words — nay, nay, my dear, Hear them not thou! Sleep, little one, sleep;
And slumber thou, O unrestful deep!
Sleep, measureless wrongs; let the past suffice:
And oh, may a new day's dawn arise
On thy counsels, Zeus! O change them now!
But if aught be presumptuous in this my prayer,
If aught, O Father, of sin be there, Forgive it thou."

Such are the verses and lyrics which resemble beautiful prose; and they owe this resemblance to the causes which I have already set forth to you.

Here, then, Rufus, is my gift to you, which you will find "outweigh a multitude of others," if only you will keep it in your hands constantly like any other really useful thing, and exercise yourself in its lessons daily. No rules contained in rhetorical manuals can suffice to make experts of those who are determined to dispense with study and practice. They who are ready to undergo toil and hardship can alone decide whether such rules are trivial and useless, or worthy of serious consideration.

GLOSSARY

(Including Terms of Rhetoric, Grammar, Prosody, Music, Phonetics, and Literary Criticism)

In the Glossary, as in the Notes, the following abbreviations are used: —

D.H. = 'Dionysius of Halicarnassus: the Three Literary Letters.'

ἀγοράος. 262 20. Vulgar, colloquial, mechanical. Lat. circumforaneus, circulatorius. Cp. Lucian de conscrib. hist. § 44 μήτε ἀπορρήτοις καὶ ἔξω πάτου ὀνόμασι μήτε τοῖς ἀγοραίοις τοῦτοις καὶ καπηλικοῖς.

ἀγγίστροφος. 212 20. Quick-changing, flexible. Lat. mutabilis. Instances of its rhetorical use are cited in Long. . The word has more warrant as a term of rhetoric than ἀντίρροπος, which is given by F.

ἀγωγή. 68 1, training. 194 9, sequence, movement. 244 24, cast, or tendency. Cp. some uses of Lat. ductus. Other examples in D.H. : to which may be added de Isocr. c. 12 and de Thucyd. c. 27; Macran's Harmonics of Aristoxenus p. 143; Strabo xiv. 1. 41 παραφθείρας τήν τῶν προτέρων μελοποιῶν ἀγωγήν, and (later) ἀπεμιμήσατο τήν ἀγωγήν τῶν παρὰ τοῖς κιναίδοις διαλέκτων καὶ τῆς ἡθοποιίας. — In 124 10 the adjective ἀγωγός is used (as in Eurip. Hec. 536, Troad. 1131) with the genitive in the sense provocative of, conducive to: cp. de Demosth. c. 55 ἃ δὴ τῶν τοιούτων ἔσται παθῶν ἀγωγή. [In Troad. 1131 Dindorf, ed. v., gives ἀρωγός without comment, against the MSS.] ἀγών. 252 2, 262 23. Contest, pleading, trial. Lat. certamen, actio. Cp. Long. , D.H. , Demetr. .

ἀηδής. 100 7, 124 19, etc. Unpleasant, disagreeable. Lat. iniucundus, molestus. Similarly ἀηδία, 132 21, 134 14.

ἄθροος. 222 2. Compressed, concentrated. Lat. consertus, stipatus. In the passage specified it would seem that Dionysius compares the issue of the breath to the exit of people through a narrow door, whereby they are crowded together. The sound of p, which is under discussion, approaches whistling; and that is the maximum of breath-compression.

αἴσθησις. 130 17, 134 11, 152 15, 218 1. Sense, perception. Lat. sensus. So αἰσθητός, perceptible, 152 22, 206 6, etc.; and αἰσθητῶς, perceptibly, 126 20, 202 18.

ἀκατάστροφος. 232 1. Without rounding or conclusion. Lat. idonei exitus expers. Used of a period which does not turn back upon itself — which is, in fact, not a περίοδος. Cp. the use of εὐκαταστροφῶς in Demetr. de Eloc. § 10.

ἄκατονόμαστος. 208 25. Unnamed, nameless. Lat. appellationis expers.

ἄκέραστος. 230 18. Unmixed, or incapable of mixture. Lat. non permixtus, s. qui permisceri non potest.

ἀκοή. 70 3, 118 23, 146 8, etc. The sense of hearing: 'the ear.' Lat. auditus. So ἀκρόασις, 116 19, 198 8, etc.

ἀκόλλητος. 218 13. Uncompacted, or incapable of being compacted. Lat. non compactus, s. qui compingi non potest.

ἀκολουθία. 212 22, 232 20, 254 17. Sequence, the orderly progression of words. Lat. consecutio, ordo, series. ἐν πολλοῖς ὑπεροπτική τῆς ἀκολουθίας, 212 22 = prone to anacolouthon. Cp. Long. , D.H. , Demetr. . Similarly ἀκόλουθος is used of what follows naturally, 130 9, 228 17, etc.

ἀκόμψευτος. 212 23, 232 21. Unadorned. Lat. incomptus. Used of a style which is sans recherche, sans parure. Cp. Cic. Orat. 24. 78 “nam ut mulieres esse dicuntur non nullae inornatae, quas id ipsum deceat, sic haec subtilis oratio etiam incompta delectat.”

ἀκόρυφος. 230 31. Without a capital or beginning. Lat. sine fastigio, sine initio. Used of a period without a proper beginning and therefore imperfectly rounded: whereas true periods are εὐκόρυφοι καὶ στρογγύλαι ὥσπερ ἀπὸ τόρνου (de Demosth. c. 43).

ἀκρίβεια. 118 10, 206 8, 266 11, etc. Exactitude, precision, finish. Lat. perfectio, absolutio, subtilitas. Used of an ars exquisita, a style soigné. So ἀκριβής 196 15, and ἀκριβοῦν 94 14 and 242 9. Cp. D.H. , and Demetr. (where the slightly depreciatory sense of ‘correctness,’ ‘nicety,’ is also illustrated: cp. C.V. 274 22).

ἀκώλιστος. 234 23. Without members or clauses. Lat. sine membris. Used of a period not divided, or jointed, into clauses.

ἀλήθεια. 198 26. Human experience. Lat. veritas vitae, usus rerum, vita, usus. The actual facts of life are meant, as opposed to the theories of the schools. Cp. de Isaeo c. 18 ὅτι μοι δοκεῖ Λυσίας μὲν τὴν ἀλήθειαν (‘the truth of nature,’ ‘a natural simplicity’) διώκειν μᾶλλον, Ἰσαῖος δὲ τὴν τέχνην.

ἄλογος. 66 18, 146 14, 152 15, 174 2, 3, 206 13, 244 22. Irrational; unguided by reason; subconscious; incalculable; instinctive; spontaneous. Lat. rationis expers. With the use in 146 14 (where the Epitome has ἀάλου) may be compared the process by which ἄλογον in Modern Greek has come to mean ‘horse.’ With ἄλογος αἴσθησις in 152 15 and 244 22 cp. the use of “tacitus sensus” in Cic. de Orat. iii. 195 “omnes enim tacito quodam sensu sine ulla arte aut ratione quae sint in artibus ac rationibus recta ac prava diiudicant” and Orat. 60. 203 “aures ipsae tacito eum (modum) sensu sine arte definiunt”: see also de Lysia c. 11, de Demosth. c. 24, de Thucyd. c. 27. For the doctrine of ἀλογία in relation to metre see supra and Goodell Greek Metric p ff. (with references to Aristoxenus, Westphal, etc., p ff.). The notion of incommensurability is, of course, present in the term: cp. Aristox. ὥρισται δὲ τῶν ποδῶν ἕκαστος ἥτοι λόγῳ τινὶ ἢ ἀλογίᾳ τοιαύτῃ, ἣτις δύο λόγων γνωρίμων τῇ αἰσθήσει ἀνὰ μέσον ἔσται, which Goodell () translates, “each of the feet is determined and defined either by a precise ratio or by an incommensurable ratio such that it will be between two ratios recognizable by the sense.”

ἄμετρος. 74 4, 176 1, 21, etc. Unmetred, unmetrical. Lat. (oratio) soluta. It is interesting to note the variety of Dionysius’ expressions for ‘prose’ or ‘in prose’ — λέξις ἄμετρος, λέξις πεζή, λέξις φιλή, λόγος ἀποίητος, λόγοι ἄμετροι, λόγοι or λόγος simply (272 9, 13), δῖχα μέτρου (252 20), λεκτικῶς (258 3), etc. Cp. Plato Re E, 390 A, etc.

ἀμορφία. 184 18, 198 10. Unsignhtliness. Lat. deformitas. So ἄμορφος 92 16.

ἀναβολή. 164 5, 220 13. Retardation. Lat. mora, intervallum. So ἀναβάλλειν 180 15, 216 18: cp. de Demosth. c. 54 (ταῦτ' ἔσπευσμένως εἰπέ, ταῦτ' ἀναβεβλημένως), and c. 43.

ἀναισθησία. 184 21. Insensibility, stupidity. Lat. stupor. Compare ἀναίσθητος 190 8, and see the editor's Ancient Boeotians p-8.

ἀνακοπή. 164 5, 230 28, 232 16. Stoppage, clashing. Lat. impedimentum, offensio. Fr. refoulement. Cp. de Demosth. c. 38, and also the verb ἀνακόπτειν 222 9.

ἀνάπαιστος. 172 10, etc. Anapaest. The metrical foot υ υ –.

ἀνάπαυλα. 196 11. Rest, pause. Lat. mora, intermissio. The 'reliefs' afforded by variety of structure, etc., are meant.

ἀναπλέκειν. 264 23. To bind up the hair. Lat. caesariem reticulo colligere.

ἀνδρώδης. 174 17. Manly, virile. Lat. virilis. Cp. de Demosth. cc. 39, 43, and Quintil. v. 12. 18.

ἀνέδραστος. 232 4. Unsteady. Lat. instabilis. Used of a period which has no proper base or termination. The opposite of ἐδραῖος (Demetr.).

ἀνεπιτήδευτος. 84 3, 212 13, 260 14. Unsought, unstudied. Lat. nullo studio delectus, non exquisitus. So ἀνέκλεκτος 84 3: not picked with care.

ἄνεσις. 210 5. Loosening. Lat. remissio. Cp. Plato Rep. i. 349 E ἐν τῇ ἐπιτάσει καὶ ἀνέσει τῶν χορδῶν πλεονεκτεῖν, and ἀνίεται 126 5.

ἀνθηρός. 212 22 (c 26, 232 25). Florid. Lat. floridus. Fr. fleuri. Cp. Quintil. xii. 10. 58 "namque unum [dicendi genus] subtile, quod ἰσχνόν vocant, alterum grande atque robustum, quod ἄδρὸν dicunt, constituunt; tertium alii medium ex duobus, alii floridum (namque id ἀνθηρόν appellant) addiderunt." 'Florid' (like 'flowery') has acquired rather a bad sense, whereas the Greek word suggests 'flower-like,' 'full of colour,' 'with delicate touches and associations.'

ἀντίστροφος. 174 2, 194 6, 9, 11, 278 9. Corresponding, counterpart. Lat. respondens. Frequently used by Dionysius of the second stanza (ἀντιστροφή, 254 18), sung by the Chorus in its counter-movement. Cp. schol. ad Aristoph. Plut. 253 μεταξὺ τῆς τε στροφῆς καὶ τῆς ἀντιστροφῆς: and de Demosth. c. 50 κἄπειτα πάλιν τοῖς αὐτοῖς ῥυθμοῖς καὶ μέτροις ἐπὶ τῶν αὐτῶν στίχων ἢ περιόδων, ἃς ἀντιστρόφους ὀνομάζουσι, χρωμένη.

ἀντιτυπία. 202 25, 222 17, 224 15, 230 6, 232 6, 244 25. Repulsion, clashing, dissonance. Lat. conflictio, asperitas. So the adjective ἀντίτυπος in 162 23, 210 20, etc. Hesychius, ἀντιτύποις σκληροῖς.

ἀντονομασία. 70 19, 102 18. Pronoun. Lat. pronomen. In 108 14 ἀντωνυμία is found; and this (the more usual) form should perhaps be read throughout.

ἀνωμαλία. 232 19. Unevenness. Lat. inaequalitas. Fr. inégalité.

ἀξίωμα. 84 1, 120 23, 170 2, 174 19. Dignity. Lat. dignitas. Fr. dignité. In 96 16 the sense is a proposition (pronuntiatum, Cic. Tusc. i. 7. 14; enuntiatio, Cic. de Fato 10. 20). — The adjective ἀξιωματικός ('dignified') occurs in 136 11, 168 6, etc., and the adverb ἀξιωματικῶς in 176 24. — In 88 13, 186 7, ἀξίωσις = reputation, excellence.

ἀπαγγελία. 204 18. Narration. Lat. narratio. Sometimes the word is used, like ἑρμηνεία, of style (elocutio) in general: cp. de Demosth. c. 25, and Chrysostom (in a passage which, as revealing the pupil of Libanius and as illustrating many things in the C.V., may be quoted at some length): ἐγὼ δὲ εἰ μὲν τὴν λειότητα Ἰσοκράτους ἀπῆτουν, καὶ τὸν Δημοσθένους ὄγκον, καὶ τὴν Θουκυδίδου σεμνότητα, καὶ τὸ Πλάτωνος ὕψος, ἔδει φέρειν εἰς μέσον ταύτην τοῦ Παύλου τὴν μαρτυρίαν. νῦν δὲ ἐκεῖνα μὲν πάντα ἀφίημι, καὶ τὸν περίεργον τῶν ἔξωθεν καλλωπισμόν, καὶ οὐδὲν μοι φράσεως, οὐδὲ ἀπαγγελίας μέλει· ἀλλ' ἐξέστω καὶ τῇ λέξει πτωχεύειν, καὶ τὴν συνθήκην τῶν ὀνομάτων ἀπλῆν τινα εἶναι καὶ ἀσφαλῆ, μόνον μὴ τῇ γνώσει τις καὶ τῇ τῶν δογμάτων ἀκριβεῖα ἰδιώτης ἔστω (de Sacerdotio iv. 6). — The verb ἀπαγγέλλειν occurs in 200 9, 11.

ἀπαρέμφατος. 102 20. Infinitive. Lat. infinitivus (sc. modus). [The infinitive, unlike the indicative and other moods, does not indicate difference of meaning by means of inflexions denoting number and person. Whence the Greek name: cp. παρεμφατικός, infra.]

ἀπαριθμεῖν. 268 8. To recount, to run over. Lat. percensere.

ἀπαρτίζειν. 194 16. To round off, to complete. Lat. adaequare, absolvere. Cp. de Demosth. c. 50 καὶ μέτρα τὰ μὲν ἀπρητισμένα καὶ τέλεια, τὰ δ' ἀτελῆ: Ev. Luc. xiv. 28 τίς γὰρ ἐξ ὑμῶν, θέλων πύργον οἰκοδομῆσαι, οὐχὶ πρῶτον καθίσας ψηφίζει τὴν δαπάνην, εἰ ἔχει τὰ πρὸς ἀπαρτισμόν (completion); So κατὰ ἀπαρτισμόν, in 246 18, means completely, absolutely, narrowly. In Classical Review xxiii. 82, the present writer has suggested that κατὰ ἀπαρτισμόν are the words missing in Oxyrhynchus Papyri vi. 116, where Grenfell and Hunt give ἐν πλάτει καὶ οὐ κ[.....]ν. θεωρητέα ἐστίν, or the like, may have preceded: c 26 supra (and note).

ἀπερίγραφος. 232 4. Not circumscribed. Lat. nullis limitibus circumscriptus. ἀπερίοδος. 234 23, 276 1. Without a period. Lat. periodo non absolutus.

ἀπευθύνειν. 130 1. To regulate. Lat. tamquam ad regulam dirigere.

ἀπλοῦς. 144 8, 17, 176 3. Simple, uncompounded. Lat. simplex.

ἀπλοῖητος. 70 4. In plain prose. Lat. prosaicus. Cp. s.v. ἄμετρος.

ἀποκλείειν. 144 23. To shut off, to intercept. Lat. intercludere.

ἀποκόπτειν. 142 8, 230 19. To cut short. Lat. rescindere. So ἐξ ἀποκοπῆς (142 3) = with a snap, abruptly. See the exx. given, s.v. ἀποκοπή, in Demetr. .

ἀποκυματίζειν. 240 22. To ruffle. Lat. reddere inquietum, fluctibus agitare.

ἀπορριπίζειν. 144 24, 150 1. To blow away. Lat. flatu abigere. In both these passages there is some manuscript support for ἀπορραπίζειν. In 144 24 the sense (with ἀπορραπιζούσης) would be 'to send out the breath in beats,' 'to cause the breath to vibrate.'

ἀποτραχύνειν. 218 9, 230 24. To roughen. Lat. exasperare.

ἄρθρον. 70 17. Article. Lat. articulus. See D.H. p. 186; Demetr. . ἄρθρον (‘joint’) and σύνδεσμος (‘sinew’ or ‘ligament’) are terms borrowed from anatomy.

ἀριθμοί. 244 27. Numbers, cadences. Lat. numeri, numeri oratorii. Cp. de Demosth. c. 53 φέρε γὰρ ἐπιχειρεῖτω τις προφέρεισθαι τοῦσδε τοὺς ἀριθμούς· Ὀλυνθον μὲν δὴ καὶ Μεθώνην κτλ. As Aristotle (Rhet. iii. 8. 2) says, περαίνεται δὲ ἀριθμῷ πάντα· ὁ δὲ τοῦ σχήματος τῆς λέξεως ἀριθμὸς ῥυθμὸς ἐστίν, οὗ καὶ τὰ μέτρα τμητὰ.

ἀριστεῖα. 182 12. Lead, supremacy. Lat. primas (dare).

Ἀριστοφάνειος. 256 13, 258 9. Aristophanic. Lat. Aristophaneus. The reference is to the anapaestic tetrameter called ‘Aristophanic.’ Hephæstion (Ench. c. 8) explains the term thus: κέκληται δὲ Ἀριστοφάνειον, οὐκ Ἀριστοφάνους αὐτὸ εὐρόντος πρῶτον, ἐπεὶ καὶ παρὰ Κρατίνῳ ἐστὶ.

χαίρετε δαίμονες οἱ Λεβάρδειαν Βοιωτίον οὔθαρ ἀρούρης·

ἀρμογή. 112 13, 218 9, 236 5, 270 9. Junction, combination. Lat. coagmentatio.

ἁρμονία. 72 6, 9, 74 4, 10, 19, 84 9, 15, 90 5, 94 15, 104 19, 114 14, 17, 116 15, 20, passim. Adjustment, arrangement, balance, harmonious composition. Lat. apta structura, concinna orationis compositio, aptus ordo partium inter se cohaerentium. Fr. enchaînement. But, as distinguished from ἁρμογή or from σύνθεσις, ἁρμονία seems usually to connote ‘harmony’ in the more restricted (musical) sense of notes in fitting sequence: cp. our ‘arrangement’ of a song or piece of music. In fact, Dionysius’ three ἁρμονίαι might well be described as three ‘modes of composition,’ and ‘tune’ (the meaning which ἁρμονία bears in Aristot. Rhet. iii. 1. 4) might sometimes serve as a suitable rendering even in reference to literary composition or oratorical rhythm. The original use of the word in Greek carpentry (which employed dovetailing in preference to nails) finds an excellent illustration in the words of a contemporary of Dionysius, Strabo (Geogr. iv. 4): διόπερ οὐ συνάγουσι τὰς ἁρμονίας τῶν σανίδων, ἀλλ’ ἀραιώματα καταλείπουσιν. We have perhaps no single English word which can, like ἁρμονία, incline, according to the context, to the literal sense (‘a fitting,’ ‘a juncture’), or to the metaphorical meaning (‘harmony,’ as ‘harmony’ was understood by the Greeks); but see T. Wilson’s definition of ‘composition’ under σύνθεσις, infra, and compare one of the definitions of ‘harmony’ in the New English Dictionary: “pleasing combination or arrangement of sounds, as in poetry or in speaking: sweet or melodious sound.” — The verb ἁρμόττειν is found in 98 6, 104 17, etc.

ἀρχαῖσμός. 212 23. A touch of antiquity. Lat. sermonis prisci imitatio. Cp. ἀρχαῖκός, 216 20, 228 8. So ἀρχαιοπρεπὴ σχήματα (236 8) = figurae orationis quae vetustatem redolent. As Quintilian (viii. 3. 27) says, “quaedam tamen adhuc vetera vetustate ipsa gratius nitent.” Cp. D.H. (s.v. ἀρχαιοπρεπή) and Demetr. (s.v. ἀρχαιοειδής); also de Demosth. c. 48.

ἀρχαί. 136 22, 140 13. First beginnings. Lat. principia.

ῥισιγμος. 148 1. Without a sigma. Lat. carens littera sigma.

ῥισμα. 196 2. Song, lay. Lat. carmen, canticum.

ἀσύμμετρος. 124 8, 236 1. Incommensurable, disproportionate, incorrect. Lat. incommensurabilis, sine iusta proportione, inconcinnus. So ἀσυμμετρία 232 19. Some good illustrations (drawn from Cicero) of constructions symétriques will be found in Laurand's Études sur le style des discours de Cicéron p-21.

ἀσύμμικτος. 218 12. Unblended, or incapable of being blended. Lat. non permixtus, s. qui permisceri non potest.

αὐθάδης. 228 9. Wilful, headstrong, unbending. Lat. ferox, pertinax. Cp. Long. de Subl. xxxii. 3 ὁ δὲ Δημοσθένης οὐχ οὕτως μὲν αὐθάδης ὥσπερ οὕτος (sc. ὁ Θεουκυδίδης), κτλ.

αὐθέκαστος. 212 23. Outspoken, downright. Lat. rigidus. In Plutarch's Cato c. 6 Cato is described as ἀπαραίτητος ὦν ἐν τῷ δικαίῳ καὶ τοῖς ὑπὲρ τῆς ἡγεμονίας προοτάγμασιν ὁρθὸς καὶ αὐθέκαστος (cp. the rigida innocentia attributed to him by Livy xxxix. 40. 10). In Aristotle (Eth. Nic. iv. 7. 4) the αὐθέκαστος hits the mean between the ἀλαζῶν and the εἴρων.

αὐλός. 142 2. Passage, channel. Lat. meatus.

αὐστηρός. 208 26, 210 15, 216 17, 21, 228 15, 232 22, 248 9. Austere, severe. Lat. severus (cp. Quintil. ix. 4. 97, 120, 128). Compare the antithetic expressions quoted from Dionysius in D.H. , and add de Demosth. c. 38 init. Also see s.v. στρυφνός, infra.

αὐτίκα. 98 7, 194 2, 256 7, 268 6. To begin with, for example. Lat. exempli gratia.

αὐτόματος. 256 19. Self-acting, spontaneous. Lat. spontaneus, ultroneus. Cp. αὐτομάτως 212 12; αὐτοματίζειν 204 5; αὐτοματισμός 218 3, 258 1, 24. In 256 19 ἐκ τοῦ αὐτομάτου = sponte sua, fortuito.

αὐτοσχέδιος. 212 1, 260 14, 262 3. Improvised. Lat. fortuitus, extemporalis, inelaboratus, tumultuarius. So αὐτοσχεδίως 260 25, and αὐτοσχεδιάζειν 256 19 (πολλὰ γὰρ αὐτοσχεδιάζει μέτρα ἢ φύσις = multos versus sponte solet natura effundere). Cp. Demetr. s.v. αὐτοσχεδιάζειν, and see σχέδιος infra.

αὐτοτελής. 118 6, 140 1. Complete in itself, absolute. Lat. perfectus, absolutus. So αὐτοτελῶς 140 3. The meaning of the word is well illustrated by Diodorus Siculus xii. 1 init. οὐτε γὰρ τῶν νομιζομένων ἀγαθῶν οὐδὲν ὁλόκληρον εὐρίσκεται δεδομένον τοῖς ἀνθρώποις οὐτε τῶν κακῶν αὐτοτελὲς ἄνευ εὐχρησίας.

αὐτουργός. 196 15. Self-wrought, rudely wrought. Lat. rudis. Cp. de Demosth. c. 39 (as quoted s.v. συναπαρτίζειν, infra). — The active sense of αὐτουργός finds a good illustration in Euripides' well-known line: αὐτουργός, οὔτε καὶ μόνον σῶζουσι γῆν (Orest. 920).

ἀφαίρεσις. 104 20, 114 12, 116 17. Deduction, abridgment. Lat. detractio. In 116 17 τῆς ἀφαιρέσεως δὲ τίς (τρόπος) almost = 'what is the nature of ellipsis?' As line 18 shows, something necessary to the sense is supposed to be omitted: e.g. the presence of αὐτός in 116 22 implies a contrast with ἕτερος (118 1).

ἀφελής. 212 14. Simple, plain. Lat. simplex, subtilis. Cp. D.H. .

ἀφορμή. 96 23. Starting-point. Lat. initium, principium. Cp. Dionys. Hal. Antiq. Rom. i. 4 τῆς αἰοδίου γενομένης καθ' ἡμᾶς πόλεως, ἀδόξους πάνιν καὶ ταπεινὰς τὰς πρώτας ἀφορμὰς λαβοῦσης.

ἀφροδίτη. 74 13. Beauty. Lat. venustas, venus. Cp. de Lysia c. 11 ἂν δὲ μηδεμίαν ἡδονὴν μηδὲ ἀφροδίτην ὁ τῆς λέξεως χαρακτηρῇ ἔχῃ, δυσωπῶ καὶ ὑποπτεύω μήποτ' οὐ Λυσίου ὁ λόγος, καὶ οὐκέτι βιάζομαι τὴν ἄλογον αἴσθησιν: also c. 18 ibid.

ἄφωνος. 138 13, 140 3, 146 5, 148 11, 20, 220 10. Voiceless, mute. Lat. vocis expers, mutus. From the standpoint of the modern science of phonetics, in which the term 'voiceless' is reserved for sounds that are not accompanied by a vibration of the vocal chords, it might be well in the translation of this word to substitute 'non-vocalic' for 'voiceless,' and 'vocalic' for 'voiced.'

βαίνειν. 86 1. To scan. Lat. scandere. Cp. Aristot. Metaph. xiii. 6, 1093 a 30 βαίνεται δὲ [τὸ ἔπος] ἐν μὲν τῷ δεξιῷ ἑννέα συλλαβαῖς, ἐν δὲ τῷ ἀριστερῷ ὀκτώ. — In 236 4 βεβηκώς is used of a firm, regular tread: Lat. incedere.

βακχεῖος. 174 23, 180 12, 182 19. Bacchius. The metrical foot — ∪.

βαρύς. 126 6, 8, 10, 16, 128 5, 8. Grave (accent), low (pitch). Lat. gravis. Cp. Monro Modes of Ancient Greek Music : "Our habit of using Latin translations of the terms of Greek grammar has tended to obscure the fact that they belong in almost every case to the ordinary vocabulary of music. The word for 'accent' (τόνος) is simply the musical term for 'pitch' or 'key.' The words 'acute' (ὀξύς) and 'grave' (βαρύς) mean nothing more than 'high' and 'low' in pitch. A syllable may have two accents, just as in music a syllable may be sung with more than one note." So βαρύτης 126 13 = 'low pitch.' — In 120 23 and 236 8 βάρος = 'gravity' (in the sense of 'dignity'), Fr. gravité.

βάσις. 142 13, 210 22, 212 16, 220 4, 230 31, 232 4, 234 7. Base. Lat. basis, fundamentum. — The word is specially used of a measured step or metrical movement, — of a rhythmical clause in a period and particularly of its rhythmical close (Lat. clausula). In 230 30 and 232 5 it is the iambic endings προγεγεννημένων and διανοοῦμενον that are considered objectionable (ἀνέδραστοι, ἀπερίγραφοι: endings such as πορείαν and ἀκουσάντων would be regarded as ἀσφαλεῖς, de Demosth. cc. 24, 26). Terminations of this kind will be avoided in a style (like the γλαφυρὰ σύνθεσις) which desires τῶν περιόδων τὰς τελευτὰς εὐρύθμους εἶναι, — desires that the chutes of the periods should be nobreuses. — Further light on the meaning of βάσις will be found in de Demosth. cc. 24, 39, 43, 45.

βοστρυχίζειν. 264 22. To curl, to dress the hair. Lat. crines calamistro convertere. Cp. the use of concinni in Cic. de Orat. iii. 25. 100.

βούλεσθαι. 220 9, 234 5, 14, 19, 236 4, 7, etc. To aim, to aspire. Lat. studere. Cp. D.H. , Demetr. . This meaning ('aims at being,' 'tends to be') is, of course, Platonic and Aristotelian.

βραχυσύλλαβος. 168 17. Consisting of short syllables. Lat. brevibus syllabis constans.

γενναῖος. 68 4, 136 13, 146 10, 148 9, 172 1, 176 9, 10. Noble. Lat. generosus. Such English renderings as 'virile,' 'robust,' 'gallant,' 'splendid,' 'high-spirited' may also be suggested. In Plato Rep. ii. 372 B μάζας γενναίας = 'lordly cakes'; in Long. de Subl. xv. 7 οἱ γενναῖοι = 'fine, grand, gallant fellows.' Cp. C.V. 170 9 μαλακώτερος θατέρου καὶ ἀγεννέστερος.

γλαφυρός. 136 14, 208 26, 212 16, 216 20, 232 25, 248 9. Smooth, polished, elegant. Lat. politus, ornatus, elegans. Fr. élégant, orné, poli. Cp. Demetr. , and de Isocr. c. 2 ὁ γὰρ ἀνὴρ οὗτος τὴν εὐέπειαν ἐκ παντὸς διώκει καὶ τοῦ γλαφυρῶς λέγειν στοχάζεται μᾶλλον ἢ τοῦ ἀφελῶς, and de Demosth. c. 40 ἡ δὲ μετὰ ταύτην ἡ γλαφυρὰ καὶ θεατρικὴ καὶ τὸ κομψὸν αἰρουμένη πρὸ τοῦ σεμνοῦ τοιαύτη.

γλῶττα. 78 17. An unfamiliar term. Lat. vocabulum inusitatum. So γλωττηματικός, 252 23, 272 11, and D.H. , s.v. Obsolete, or obsolescent, words (mots surannés) are often meant. — In 80 17 γλῶττα = διάλεκτος (88 26).

γράμμα. 130 21, 138 5, etc. Letter of the alphabet. Lat. littera. ἡ γραμματικὴ (140 11) = grammar; γραμμαί (138 2) = the lines, or strokes, from which γράμματα are formed. In 264 18 γραπτός = written.

γραφὴ. 68 12, 184 18, 186 1, 206 23, 228 12. Writing, composition (in the wider sense). In 118 24 and 234 13 γραφαί = pictures.

δασύς. 148 12, 13, 18, 19, 150 3, 12. Rough, aspirated. Lat. asper. So δασύτης 148 21, 150 2 and δασύνειν 148 8. Cp. Aristot. Poet. c. 20 for δασύτης and φιλότης, and see A. J. Ellis English, Dionysian, and Hellenic Pronunciations of Greek p. 46, where δασύς and φιλός are translated by 'rough' and 'smooth,' which seems the safest course to follow when (as here) the terminology of Dionysius' phonetics is full of difficulties. Aristotle (De audibilibus 804 b 8) defines thus: δασεῖται δ' εἰσὶ τῶν φωνῶν ὅσαις ἔσωθεν τὸ πνεῦμα εὐθέως συνεκβάλλομεν μετὰ τῶν φθόγγων, φιλαὶ δ' εἰσὶ τοῦναντίον ὅσαι γίνονται χωρὶς τῆς τοῦ πνεύματος ἐκβολῆς.

δεινότης. 182 13, 264 12. Oratorical mastery. Lat. facultas dicendi, eloquentia. So δεινός 282 3: see also 182 3. Cp. D.H. p. 188; Demetr. p. 274.

δεξιῶς. 80 14, 92 20. Defly. Lat. sollerter, feliciter. In 80 14 σφόδρα δεξιῶς = 'with great dexterity, or adroitness,' 'with great delicacy of touch.'

δημηγορία. 110 22, 252 2. A public discourse, or harangue. Lat. contio. Cp. D.H. .

δημιούργημα. 64 8, 120 1. A piece of workmanship. Lat. opus, opificium. So δημιουργικός ('industrial') 104 23. Cp. D.H. . Quintil. (ii. 15. 4) translates πειθοὺς δημιουργός by persuadendi opifex.

διαβεβηκέναι. 172 3, 202 16, 212 1, 216 18, 218 23, 222 23, 244 19. To have a mighty stride, to be planted wide apart. Lat. latis passibus incedere. Fr. marcher à grands pas. In 202 17, 20, 218 23, and 222 23 the noun διάβασις is used with reference to the intervals which long syllables and clashing consonants make in pronunciation by retarding the utterance. The μεγάλα τε καὶ διαβεβηκότα εἰς πλάτος ὀνόματα of 212 1 are les grands mots à larges allures.

διαρεῖν. 180 17, 184 5, 194 15, 218 20, 21, 272 17. To divide, to resolve. Lat. seüngere, resolvere. So διαίρεσις 122 8, 138 1, 272 7.

διακεκλάσθαι. 172 7. To be broken or enervated. Lat. frangi, corrumpi, in delicias effundi. Cp. similar uses of διαθρύπτεσθαι. In de Demosth. c. 43 ῥυθμοὶ διακλώμενοι are opposed to ῥυθμοὶ ἀνδρώδεις.

διακλέπτειν. 176 19. To disguise. Lat. obscurare, occultare.

διακόπτειν. 268 15. To cut short, to silence. Lat. praecidere.

διάλεκτος. 78 16, 80 3, 16, 88 26, 126 3, 160 14, 168 8, 208 19, 246 7. Language. Lat. sermo. Sometimes used with special reference to a 'dialect,' as in 80 16, 88 26 (so τὴν Ἀθηναίων γλῶτταν 80 17 = τὴν Ἀθηναίων διάλεκτον de Demosth. c. 41); and in other passages, with much the same sense as λέξις (elocutio). — In 68 9, 94 10, 14, 96 15, 104 1, the adjective διαλεκτικός means 'pertaining to dialectic.'

διαλλαγὴ. 126 1. Difference. Lat. differentia. So διαλλάττειν, 92 19, 150 2, 152 29.

διαλύειν. 132 9, 272 1. To break up, to resolve. Lat. dissolvere. So διάλυσις 138 4.

διὰ πέντε. 126 4, 17. The interval of a fifth. Lat. diapente, quinque tonorum intervallum. So διὰ πασῶν 126 18, of the octave.

διαρτᾶν. 206 6. To separate, to break up. Lat. seüngere. Cp. de Demosth. c. 40 ἵνα δὲ μὴ δόξωμεν διαρτᾶν τὰς ἀκολουθίας.

διασαλεύειν. 102 21, 230 9, 240 13. To shake (as by storm), to disturb. Lat. perturbare, concutere. In 230 9 and 240 13 the reference is to troubling the smooth waters of the cadences by sounds that jolt and jar.

διασπᾶν. 222 19, 230 24. To dislocate. Lat. divellere. Cp. Demetr. , s.v. διασπασμός, and Quintil. ix. 4. 33 "tum vocalium concursus; qui cum accidit, hiat et intersistit et quasi laborat oratio."

διάστημα. 126 3, 16, 270 12. Interval. Lat. spatium, intervallum.

διαστολή. 278 5, 7. Division. Lat. divisio. By διαστολαί (which he opposes to metrical cola) Dionysius means the natural divisions, or pauses, observed in prose in order to bring out the sense and to secure good delivery, in accordance with the requirements of grammar and rhetoric. Cp. the later use of διαστολή for division by means of a comma — for punctuation, as we should say.

διατέμνειν. 270 13. To cut up. Lat. discindere, concidere.

διάτονος. 194 8, 196 4. Diatonic. Lat. diatonicus. For the diatonic scale see n. on 194 8.

διαφορά. 68 21, 152 14, etc. Difference, variety. Lat. differentia.

διαχάλασμα. 230 24. Loosening. Lat. resolutio. Cp. Epicrates (ap. Athen. xiii. 570 B) on Lais in her old age: ἐπεὶ δὲ δολιχὸν τοῖς ἔτεσιν ἤδη τρέχει | τὰς ἁρμονίας τε διαχαλᾷ τοῦ σώματος.

διελκυσμός. 204 3. Struggle, tussle. Lat. luctatio. Cp. argum. Aristoph. Acharn. εἴτα γενομένου διελκυσμοῦ κατενεχθεὶς ὁ χορὸς ἀπολύει τὸν Δικαιόπολιν, i.e. “a tussle (wrangle) arises, in which the Chorus is overborne and lets go Dicaeopolis.”

διέξοδος. 150 1. Outlet, egress. Lat. exitus.

διερείδειν. 220 3. To thrust apart. Lat. disiungere. The object of the thrusting apart (or separation) is to give each word a firm position (as with the combination of strut and tie in Caesar's bridge over the Rhine, for which see E. Kitson Clark in Classical Review xxii. 144-147). So διερείσμός 222 10, 224 14. In 202 9 διερείδεσθαι = conniti.

δίεσις. 126 20. A quarter-tone, or any interval smaller than a semitone. Lat. diesis. As to the reason for the disappearance of the quarter-tone from our modern musical system see n. on 194 7 (extract from Macran's Harmonics of Aristoxenus). See, further, L. and S., s.v. δίεσις and λείμμα. The word occurs also in de Lys. c. 11 ὥστε μηδὲ τὴν ἐλαχίστην ἐν τοῖς διαστήμασι δίεσιν ἀγνοεῖν. Suidas defines δίεσις as τὸ ἐλάχιστον μέτρον τῶν ἐναρμονίων διαστημάτων. Cp. Vitruv. de Arch. v. 3. διευκρινεῖν. 208 4. To determine. Lat. diiudicare.

διθυραμβοποιός. 194 23. Writer of dithyrambs. Lat. dithyrambicus poeta. Cp. D.H., s.v. διθύραμβος.

διιστάναι. 144 4, 202 17, 204 21, 206 4, 222 5, 224 8, 236 6. To keep apart. Lat. diducere. Cp. Diog. Laert. iv. 6 ἦν δὲ [ὁ Ἀρκεσίλαος] ἐν τῇ λαλιᾷ διαστατικός τῶν ὀνομάτων, i.e. distinct in his enunciation. In 230 17 διέστακεν = διέσπακεν.

δίκαιος. 224 2, 10. Legitimate, regular. Lat. iustus. The normal measure of a long syllable is meant.

διορίζειν. 218 16. To separate by a boundary. Lat. determinare.

διοχλεῖν. 116 19, 122 18. To distress. Lat. sollicitare.

διπλοῦς. 144 9, 10, 15. Double, compound. Lat. duplex. Cp. Demetr. .

δισύλλαβος. 126 13, 168 12, 170 14, 202 14. Disyllabic. Lat. disyllabus. αἱ δισύλλαβοι (λέξεις) = disyllables.

δίχρονος. 140 17, 19, 142 1, 6, 150 18. Double-timed, doubtful, common. Lat. communis, anceps.

δόξα. 134 4. Opinion, personal judgment. Lat. opinio. Opposed to ἐπιστήμη.

δύναμις. 72 25, 26, 130 22, 23, 134 17, 136 20, etc. Power, faculty, function. Lat. potentia, facultas. Used, more than once in this treatise, of 'phonetic value' or 'effect.' Fr. valeur. In 266 7 τῆς ἑαυτοῦ δυνάμεως denotes 'mental powers,' τῆς ἑαυτοῦ διανοίας being used in the parallel passage of de Demosth. c. 51.

δυσέκφορος. 132 2, 162 5, 16, 232 15. Hard to pronounce. Lat. difficilis pronuntiatiu. Cp. δυσεκφώρητος in 220 13.

δυσηχής. 162 15. Ill-sounding. Lat. ingratus auditu. [According to Sauppe's conjecture on n.: cp. δυσηχές 144 4, as given by PMV.]

δυσπερίληπτος. 206 23. Not easily included. Lat. qui facile includi nequit.

δυσχέρεια. 134 24, 168 3. Offensiveness. Lat. molestia.

Δώριος. 196 1. Dorian. Lat. Dorius, Doricus. Cp. Monro's Modes of Ancient Greek Music, passim.

ἐγγίζειν. 144 16. To approach. Lat. appropinquare.

ἐγκάθισμα. 202 25, 232 16. Dwelling on a syllable, prolongation. Lat. sessio, mora vocis tamquam considentis. Fr. temps d'arrêt. Cp. de Demosth. c. 43 ἐν τούτοις γὰρ δὴ τὰ τε φωνήεντα πολλαχῇ συγκρουόμενα δὴλὰ ἔστι καὶ τὰ ἡμίφωνα καὶ ἄφωνα, ἐξ ὧν στηριγμούς τε καὶ ἐγκαθισμούς αἱ ἀρμονίαι λαμβάνουσι καὶ τραχύτητας αἱ φωναὶ συχνάς.

ἐγκαταπλέκειν. 134 12. To interweave. Lat. innectere. The uncompounded πλέκειν occurs in 154 9.

ἐγκλισις. 108 3, 264 5. Mood (of verb). Lat. modus. Cp. de Demosth. c. 52 γένη, πτώσεις, ἀριθμούς, ἐγκλίσεις. In 102 19 τῶν ἐγκλινομένων = 'derivative, or secondary, forms.'

ἐγκοπὴ. 220 13. Hindrance, interruption. Lat. impedimentum. Cp. Ep. i. ad Cor. ix. 12 ἵνα μὴ ἐγκοπὴν τινα δώμεν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ τοῦ Χριστοῦ. [In Long. de Subl. xli. 3 κατ' ἐγκοπὰς seems to refer to notches or incisions as made by carpenters in dovetailing.]

ἐγκύκλιος. 262 20. Broad, general (of education). Lat. orbis doctrinae. (Quintil. i. 10. 1.) Wilamowitz-Moellendorff Greek Historical Writing : "At latest in the school of Posidonius — and I think a little earlier — the so-called ἐγκύκλιος παιδεία, or 'universal instruction,' was formed into a system which has continued to our own Universities in the form of 'the seven liberal arts.' The study of history has no place in it; astronomy, architecture, and medicine have."

ἔδρα. 108 4, 234 2, 244 18. Position, foundation. Lat. sedes. Cp. Demetr. . So ἔδρᾶσαι 106 7, ἀνέδραστος 232 4, δύσεδρος 106 8, εὔεδρος 106 9.

εἰδικός. 208 12, 246 19. Specific. Lat. specialis.

εἰκάος. 74 10. Random, casual. Lat. temerarius.

εἰκόν. 124 20. Illustration. Lat. similitudo.

ἐκλογή. 68 4, 12, 74 15, 78 8, 182 6, 200 15, 246 13, 252 27. Choice. Lat. delectus. The ἐκλογή of words is constantly contrasted with their σύνθεσις. Cp. ἐκλέγειν 74 9, 182 3.

ἐκμαλάττειν. 134 10. To soften. Lat. emollire, mulcere.

ἐκμάττεσθαι. 250 14. To take the impress of. Lat. exprimere, imitari. Cp. de Demosth. c. 4 τὴν ἐπίθετον καὶ κατεσκευασμένην φράσιν τῶν περὶ Γοργίαν ἐκμέμακται, and c. 13 τὸν Λυσιακὸν χαρακτηρᾶ ἐκμέμακται εἰς ὄνυχᾶ (i.e. ad unguem, ad amussim).

ἐκμέλεια. 124 1. False note. Lat. dissonantia.

ἐκπληροῦν. 212 15. To fill out, to round off. Lat. orbem orationis implere.

ἔκστασις. 156 20. Astonishment. Lat. stupor. Cp. Ev. Marc. xvi. 8 εἶχε δὲ αὐτὰς τρόμος καὶ ἔκστασις.

ἔκτασις. 204 3, 268 19. Stretching, lengthening. Lat. productio. Cp. Demetr. .

ἐκτείνειν. 140 18, 142 10. To lengthen, to prolong. Lat. producere.

ἐκφανής. 246 1. Prominent. Lat. conspiciuus.

ἐκφέρειν. 68 12, 84 6, 94 10, 15, 106 19, 108 3, 112 9, 114 1, 116 24, 118 6, 15, etc. To utter, to produce: with various cognate meanings. Lat. edere, promere.

ἐκφορά. 112 15, 142 7. Utterance. Lat. pronuntiatio.

ἐκφωνεῖν. 140 5. To pronounce. Lat. pronuntiare. Cp. Demetr. .

ἐλάττωσις. 156 22. Curtailment. Lat. imminutio.

ἐλεῦθερος. 212 9. Unfettered. Lat. liber. Epithet applied to κῶλα.

ἐμπερίοδος. 118 15. In periods, periodic. Lat. periodo inclusus.

ἐμφαίνειν. 110 19, 212 13, 228 7, 254 17, 21. To indicate. Lat. indicare, ostendere.

ἐναρθρός. 136 22. Articulate. Lat. articulatus.

ἐναρμόνιος. 194 7, 196 3, 11. Enharmonic. Lat. enarmonicus. For the enharmonic scale see note on 194 7. — In 108 10 and 196 11 the word is used in a less restricted sense. Cp. de Demosth. c. 24 νῦν μὲν γὰρ δυσὶ περιλαμβανομένη κώλοισι σύμμετρος ἔστι [ἡ περίοδος] καὶ ἐναρμόνιος καὶ στρογγύλη καὶ βάσιν εἴληφεν ἀσφαλῆ.

ἐνέργεια. 204 1, 268 5. Activity. Lat. actio.

ἐνικῶς. 106 18. In the singular number. Lat. singulariter.

ἐντεχνος. 134 2, 272 21, 23. According to the rules of art, artistic, systematic. Lat. artificiosus.

ἐξάμετρος. 194 3. Of six measures, hexameter (line: στίχος). Lat. hexameter.

ἐξάπους. 84 21. Of six feet. Lat. sex constans pedibus.

ἔξις. 66 1, 122 24, 268 4, 11, 26. State or habit (of body or mind); skill based on practice. Lat. habitus, habitus, peritia.

ἐπαγγέλλεσθαι. 94 9. To profess to teach a subject. Lat. profiteri.

ἐπαγωγός. 162 2. Conducive to. Lat. aptus ad inducendum. For the genitive cp. s.v. ἀγωγή, supra.

ἐπανθεῖν. 198 10. To bloom. Lat. efflorescere.

ἐπεισόδιον. 196 24. Pleasure-giving addition, episode. Lat. episodium.

ἐπιγραφή. 96 13, 104 4. Title. Lat. inscriptio.

ἐπιθαλάμιον (sc. ποίημα). 258 7. Bridal song. Lat. epithalamium.

ἐπίθετον. 102 17. An addition, epithet, adjective ('the qualifier,' Puttenham's sixteenth-century Arte of English Poesie). Lat. ad nomen adiunctum, appositum (Quintil. viii. 3. 43; 6. 29). The ἐπίθετον seems to be regarded by Dionysius as a separate part of speech: cp. Steinthal Geschichte der Sprachwissenschaft bei den Griechen und Römern ii. "Was das ἐπίθετον betrifft: so ist es im Alterthum vielleicht von Niemandem, höchstens aber nur von dem einen oder andren Grammatiker zum besonderen Redetheil gemacht."

ἐπιλαμπρύνειν. 144 2. To make crisp and clear. Lat. clarum reddere. Cp. Plut. Mor. 912 C καὶ οἱ βράτραχοι, προσδοκῶντες ὄμβρον, ἐπιλαμπρύνουσι τὴν φωνήν ὑπὸ χαρᾶς.

ἐπίστασις. 68 1. Attention. Lat. cura. Cp. ἀνεπιστάτως, heedlessly, 74 6: so Long. de Subl. xxxiii. 4 ὑπὸ μεγαλοφυΐας ἀνεπιστάτως παρενηνεγμένα, ‘introduced with all the heedlessness of genius.’

ἐπίτασις. 210 5. Tightening. Lat. intentio.

ἐπιτάφιος. 116 2, 178 1, 180 8. Funeral speech (sub. λόγος). Lat. oratio funebris.

ἐπιταχύνειν. 204 8, 22. To quicken. Lat. accelerare.

ἐπιτείνειν. 126 4. To raise the pitch. Lat. intendere.

ἐπιτετηδευμένως. 260 25. Deliberately. Lat. de industria. Cp. ἐπιτηδεύειν 136 18, and ἀνεπιτήδευτος (supra).

ἐπιτήδευσις. 70 6, 212 19. Pains, study. Lat. studium, industria.

ἐπιτρόχαλος. 180 14. Running, tripping. Lat. velox, volubilis. Cp. de Demosth. c. 40 ἐπιτρόχαλος δὴ τις γίνεται καὶ καταφερής ἢ ῥύσις τῆς λῆξεως, ὥσπερ κατὰ πρανοῦς φερόμενα χωρίου νάματα μηδενὸς αὐτοῖς ἀντικρούοντος. — In Hom. Il. iii. 213 ἐπιτροχάδην = trippingly, unfalteringly.

ἐπιτυχής. 268 13. Successful. Lat. voti compos.

ἐπιφέρειν. 88 16. To quote. Lat. citare, laudare, proferre. Cp. Demetr. .

ἐπωδός. 194 12, 278 9. After-song, coda, epode. In this sense (that of the part of a lyric ode which is sung after the strophe and antistrophe) the word is feminine. In 194 20, if the masculine ὀλίγοις is rightly read, the special meaning of ἐπωδός will be refrain, burden: a meaning somewhat nearer that of the Latin epodos.

ἐρεΐδειν. 142 13. To thrust. Lat. trudere. So ἔρεισις 204 4. In 210 16 ἐρεΐδεσθαι = to be firmly planted.

ἐρμηνεία. 66 18, 76 9, 78 19, 84 11, 172 17, 182 5. Expression, style. Lat. elocutio. The word appears in the title of the treatise περὶ ἐρμηνείας which passes under the name of Demetrius. So ἐρμηνεύειν (to express) in 76 9, 186 18, 204 8, 260 20. Cp. Demetr. (s.v. ἐρμηνεία and ἐρμηνεύειν).

ἐτυμολογία. 160 6. Etymology: with reference to Plato’s Cratylus. For Latin equivalents cp. Quintil. i. 6. 28 “etymologia, quae verborum originem inquit, a Cicerone dicta est notatio, quia nomen eius apud Aristotelem invenitur σύμβολον, quod est nota; nam verbum ex verbo ductum, id est veriloquium, ipse Cicero, qui finxit, reformidat. sunt qui vim potius intuiti originationem vocent.” εὐγενής. 136 11, 178 14, 21, 180 3. Well-born, noble. Lat. generosus. So εὐγενεία 192 8. The εὐγενής is not necessarily γενναῖος (Aristot. Rhet. ii. 15. 3).

εὐγώνιος. 210 22. Four-square. Lat. quī angulis rectis constat, quadratus.

εὐέπεια. 240 5, 18, 246 1, 268 28. Beauty of language. Lat. verborum elegantia. In this treatise Dionysius clearly uses the word with special reference to his main subject — beauty of sound, euphony. So also εὐεπής 218 10, 222 6, 224 2, 228 5, 230 20; and εὐεπῶς 232 11. In the Classical Review xviii. 19 the present writer has tried to show that, even in an author so early as Sophocles (Oed. Tyr. 928), the word εὐέπεια is to be understood in a rhetorical sense ('elegant language,' 'neatly-turned phrase': with direct reference to the employment of a 'figure' of rhetoric). But, later, the word was used of 'eloquence' generally (as in the well-known epigram of Simmias on the tomb of Sophocles himself); and to this wider meaning Dionysius here gives a special turn of his own.

εὐκαταφρόνητος. 74 12. Contemptible. Lat. abiectus, humilis.

εὐκρατος. 210 1, 246 11. Well-blended. Lat. temperatus. Cp. de Demosth. c. 3 ἡ Θρασυμάχειος ἐρμηνεία, μέση τοῖν δυεῖν καὶ εὐκρατος: Cic. Orat. 6. 21 "est autem quidam interiectus inter hos medius et quasi temperatus," etc. — Both in 210 1 and in 246 11 the well-supported variant κοινήν is to be noted: it may conceivably have originated in a gloss on εὐκρατον. — In 220 17 the similar adjective εὐκέραστος is used, though not in reference to the three ἁρμονίαι.

εὐλογος. 158 12. Reasonable. Lat. rationi consentaneus. The reference is to resemblances which are not ἄλογοι, but have a natural basis and are grounded in reason.

εὐμελής. 130 6, 134 9. Melodious. Lat. canorus. — On the other hand, ἐμμελής = in melody, set to music: 124 10, 130 6, 254 2, 8, 270 5; and so ἐμμέλεια 122 21, 182 2, 266 4.

εὐμετρος. 254 6. Metrical; possessing good metrical qualities. Lat. metricus. — On the other hand, ἔμμετρος = in metre: 74 4, 76 1, 168 8, 176 1, 21, 254 2, 4, 14, 270 5. In 270 10 ἔμμετρία has good manuscript authority. Cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 8. 1 τὸ δὲ σχῆμα τῆς λέξεως δεῖ μῆτε ἔμμετρον εἶναι μῆτε ἄρρυθμον.

εὐμορφος. 84 2, 144 3, 162 1. Of beautiful form. Lat. formosus. So εὐμορφία 168 4, 264 16.

εὐπαίδεντος. 228 10. Scholarly, cultured. Lat. doctus.

εὐπετής. 218 10, 222 6. Flowing easily. Lat. volutilis. [According to the reading of P in each passage. But εὐπέξ should probably be read.] Cp. εὐρους in 240 21 and (according to P) in 196 25.

εὐπρόφορος. 132 2. Easy to pronounce. Lat. facilis pronuntiatus.

εὐρους. 240 21. Flowing, copious. Lat. copiosus. See also s.v. εὐπετής, supra.

εὐρυθμος. 124 10, 130 8, 134 9, 236 3, 254 6, 18. Rhythmical. Lat. numerosus, moderatus (Cic. de Orat. iii. 48. 184; ii. 8. 34). So εὐρυθμία 118 11, 122 21, 182 2, 254 27: cp. Cic. Orat. 65. 220 "multum interest utrum numerosa sit, id est, similis numerorum, an plane e numeris constet oratio," and Quintil. ix. 4. 56 "idque Cicero optime videt, ac testatur frequenter, se, quod numerosum sit, quaerere: ut magis non ἄρρηθμον, quod esset incситum atque agreste, quam ἔνρυθμον, quod poetіcum est, esse compositionem velit.” For ἔνρυθμος see 130 8.

εὐτέλης. 78 10, 136 3. Commonplace, cheap, vulgar. Lat. vilis. Cp. D.H. , and Aristot. Rhet. iii. 7. 2.

εὐτροχος. 206 14. Running easily. Lat. celer, volubilis. Cp. γλῶσσα εὐτροχος = a glib tongue (Eur. Bacch. 268).

εὐτυχῶς. 186 3. Happily, successfully. Lat. feliciter. Cp. εὐτυχοῦσιν 198 5, and ἀτυχεῖ 198 16.

εὐφωνία. 266 4. Euphony, musical sound. Lat. vocis dulcedo s. suavis. So εὐφωvos 132 1, 134 9, 142 10, 166 7, 17, 230 23, 234 14. For a modern view of the effect of euphony cp. the words of Jowett (Dialogues of Plato i. 310): “In all the higher uses of language the sound is the echo of the sense, especially in poetry, in which beauty and expressiveness are given to human thoughts by the harmonious composition of the words, syllables, letters, accents, quantities, rhythms, rhymes, varieties and contrasts of all sorts.” Hence, though no lover of the vicious style sometimes termed “poetic prose,” Jowett says in his Notes and Sayings: “If I were a professor of English, I would teach my men that prose writing is a kind of poetry.”

ἐφάμιλλος. 116 8. Rivalling, a match for. Lat. aemulus, haud impar.

ἡδονή. 80 16, 118 22, 120 20, 132 19, 21. Charm. Lat. iucunditas, dulcedo. Fr. charme, agrément, attrait. C 20-24 τάττω δὲ ὑπὸ μὲν τὴν ἡδονὴν τὴν τε ὥραν καὶ τὴν χάριν καὶ τὴν εὖστομίαν καὶ τὴν γλυκύτητα καὶ τὸ πιθανὸν καὶ πάντα τὰ τοιαῦτα, ὑπὸ δὲ τὸ καλὸν τὴν τε μεγαλοπρέπειαν καὶ τὸ βάρος καὶ τὴν σεμνολογίαν καὶ τὸ ἀξίωμα καὶ τὸν πίνον καὶ τὰ τοῦτοις ὅμοια. See also Demetr. . So ἡδύς (suavis, iucundus; sweet, pleasing, agreeable, attractive, charming), 68 6, 74 13, etc.

ἡδύνειν. 130 11, 146 8, 148 6, 160 15, 164 13. To sweeten; to delight, to charm. Lat. dulce reddere; demulcere.

ἥθος. 88 12, 160 17, 212 11. Character. Lat. mos, indoles. Cp. Demetr. , D.H. . See Jebb's Attic Orators i. 30, 31 for pathos and ethos in Antiphon (with reference to C.V. 212 10). According to Aristotle's Rhetoric, a speech may be in, or out of, character in reference to (1) speaker, (2) audience, (3) subject.

ἡμίτόνιον. 126 5, 19. A half-tone, semitone. Lat. hemitonium.

ἡμίφωνος. 138 13, 140 1, 144 7, 146 5, 220 11. Semi-voiced, semi-vocal. Lat. semivocalis. ἡμίφωνα γράμματα = litterae semivocales. Cp. s.v. ἄφωνος, supra.

ἡρεμία. 156 11, 160 4. Rest, immobility. Lat. quies, tranquillitas. So ἡρεμεῖν 142 1.

ἡσυχῇ. 148 8. Softly, gently. Lat. sensim.

ἡχεῖσθαι. 138 12, 142 7. To be sounded. Lat. pronuntiari, sonare.

ἦχος. 130 19, 138 11, 142 14, 19, etc. Sound. Lat. sonus.

θεατρικός. 212 16, 216 19, 228 8, 236 11. Theatrical, showy. Lat. theatralis. Cp. de Demosth. c. 25 ἐπὶ τὰ θεατρικὰ τὰ Γοργεία ταυτὶ παραγίνεται, τὰς ἀντιθέσεις καὶ τὰς παρισώσεις λέγω.

θεοβλάβεια. 184 23. Madness, blindness. Lat. mens divinitus laesa.

θεώρημα. 72 12, 16, 88 14, 96 25, 104 11, etc. Investigation, speculation; rule. Lat. quaestio; praeceptum artis. Cp. θεωρία 66 8, 96 14, 98 2, 102 25, 104 3, etc., and θεωρεῖν 152 26, 204 3, 210 9.

θηῖλος. 172 7. Effeminate. Lat. muliebris, effeminatus. Cp. Larue van Hook Metaphorical Terminology of Greek Rhetoric, s.v. ἀνδρώδης.

θηρίωδης. 146 13. Beast-like. Lat. ferinus. The term will, of course, apply to vipers as well as other animals: cp. τὸ θηρίον in Acta Apost. xxviii. 4, and ἡ θηριακή ('antidote against a poisonous bite'), whence the word treacle.

θορυβεῖν. 122 22. To hiss off the stage. Lat. explodere.

ἱάμβος. 170 7, 270 19. Iambus. The metrical foot ∪ –. The adjective ἱαμβικός in 184 11, 258 19, 276 10.

ιδίωμα. 240 23. Peculiarity. Lat. proprietas. Cp. Long., D.H. .

ιδιώτης. 124 2, 272 19. Amateur, uncultivated. Lat. imperitus. Idiots long bore this meaning of 'ordinary persons' in English: cp. Jeremy Taylor, "humility is a duty in great ones as well as in idiots."

ἰθυφάλλιον. 86 8. Ithyphallic poem. Lat. carmen ithyphallicum. A poem composed in the measure of the hymns to Priapus. Cp. Masqueray Abriss der griechischen Metrik p. 192.

ἰσομεγέθης. 270 16. Equal in size. Lat. par magnitudine.

ἱστορία. 214 1. History. Lat. historia. So ἱστορικός, suited to narrative, 90 6. In 66 14 ἱστορία = inquiry, investigation.

ἰσχυρός. 162 23, 210 17, 216 16. Strong, vigorous. Lat. firmus, robustus. In 216 16 there may be some sense of nerveux. — ἰσχύς occurs in 68 19, 72 19, etc.; ῥώμη in 84 13; κράτος in 72 14.

Ἴωνικός. 86 14. Ionic. Lat. Ionicus. The Ionic tetrameter is meant. Cp. Masqueray, op. cit. p ff.

καθαρός. 68 4, 74 18, 230 14. Pure. Lat. purus. For Greek and Latin authors as conscious purists, cp. Terence's "in hac est pura oratio," or Dionysius' τὸ καθαρῶς εἶναι τὴν διάλεκτον (de Lysia c. 2). See C. N. Smiley's dissertation on Latinitas and Ἑλληνισμός, and L. Laurand's Études sur le style des discours de Cicéron p ff. (the section headed "Pureté de la langue").

καινότης. 232 20. Novelty. Lat. novitas. Used in a condemnatory sense: ‘innovation,’ ‘singularity,’ ‘eccentricity.’

καινοτομεῖν. 254 23. To break new ground. Lat. novare. It is a mining metaphor — from the opening of a new vein. Cp. de Thucyd. c. 2. καινουργεῖν. 200 18. To introduce new features. Lat. novitati studere.

καιρός. 132 15, 20, 21. Sense of measure, tact, taste. See S. H. Butcher’s Harvard Lectures on Greek Subjects, p-120, for καιρός as a word without any single or precise equivalent in any other language. Cp. εὔκαιρος 134 18, 196 25; εὐκαίρως 132 3; εὐκαιρία 242 3.

κακόφωνος. 132 1, 164 11. Ill-sounding. Lat. male sonans. Cp. Demetr. .

καλλιπής. 180 3. Choice in diction. Lat. suaviloquens. It is the word used of Agathon in Aristoph. Thesm. 49 (Classical Review xviii. 20). Cp. D.H. , with the passages there quoted: to which may be added Plato Apol. 17 B κεκαλλιεπημένους λόγους, and (for ἔπος only) Thucyd. iii. 67 λόγοι ἔπεισι κοσμηθέντες and ii. 41 ὅστις ἔπεισι μὲν τὸ αὐτίκα τέρψει.

καλλιλογία. 164 20, 166 12. Elegant language. Lat. venusta elocutio. So καλλιλογεῖν of ‘verbal embellishment,’ 80 12.

κάλλος. 78 19, 84 10, 94 2, 160 13, 172 16, 182 5, 256 5. Beauty (of language). Lat. pulchritudo. Cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 2. 13.

καλός. 118 23, 120 22, 136 8, 160 13, 14, 178 15, passim. Beautiful. Lat. pulcher. The word is inadequately translated by ‘beautiful’; and ‘fine’ has unfortunate associations of its own, especially in relation to writing. ‘Noble’ would often be nearer the mark, but that rendering is needed for γενναῖος and εὐγενής (c 13, 178 15, etc.). In English we lack a single word to denote that noble beauty which is sometimes seen in a human face, and which suggests an ultimate harmony of things. The meaning of καλός, as distinguished from ἡδύς (in reference to composition), may be gathered from such passages as 68 5 (τῷ σεμνῷ τὸ ἡδύ) and 120 22-24 (see under ἡδονή, supra). The antithesis is not, as has sometimes been thought, that of pleasure to the ear and beauty to the mind. In this treatise Dionysius is dealing not with subject matter (ὁ πραγματικὸς τόπος) but with expression, and that chiefly from the euphonic point of view. καλός includes certain forms of pleasure — of the ear as well as of the mind: cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 1405 b and Demetr. de Eloc. § 177 ὠρίσαστο δ’ αὐτὰ (καλὰ ὀνόματα) Θεόφραστος οὕτως. κάλλος ὀνόματος ἐστὶ τὸ πρὸς τὴν ἀκοὴν ἢ πρὸς τὴν ὄψιν ἡδύ, ἢ τὸ τῇ διανοίᾳ ἔντιμον. Cp., further, gravitas (suavitas, Cic. Or. §§ 62, 182; honestus) (iucundus, Quintil. ix. 4. 146; ἡδεῖαν καὶ μεγαλοπρεπῇ Aristot. Rhet. iii. 12).

κατακεκλασμένος. 184 17. Broken, nerveless. Lat. fractus, mollis. Fr. faible, maigre, rompu. Cp. κατακλωμένους, 262 12, where Dionysius seems to indicate the broken (but by no means nerveless) foot — — — (τοσαύτην ὑπάρξει).

So Long. de Subl. xli. 1 μικροποιῶν δ’ οὐδὲν οὕτως ἐν τοῖς ὑψηλοῖς, ὥς ῥυθμὸς κεκλασμένος λόγων καὶ σεσοβημένος, οἷον δὴ πυρρίχιοι καὶ τροχαῖοι καὶ διχόρειοι, τέλεον εἰς ὀρηκτικὸν συνεκπίπτοντες. Cp. Demetr. .

καταλαμβάνειν. 230 4, 12. To check. Lat. cohibere, premere. Usener’s insertion of σιωπῇ in 230 12 is perhaps unnecessary. Herod. v. 21 ὁ τῶν Περσέων θάνατος οὕτω καταλαμφθεὶς ἐσιγήθη (i.e. “Persarum caedes ita silentio compressa est”) does not decide the point.

κατάληξις. 178 20, 184 9, 258 13. Final syllable. Lat. syllaba terminalis. With 178 20 c 13 καὶ συλλαβὴν ὕφ' ἧς τελειοῦται τὸ κῶλον. See also Long. de Subl. xli. 2 τὰς ὀφειλομένας καταλήξεις, and Demetr. (s.v. καταληκτικός).

κατάλογος. 168 1. Catalogue. Lat. enumeratio. The Homeric 'Catalogue' (in Il. ii.) is meant.

καταπυκνοῦν. 162 4, 16. To pack. Lat. stipare. Fr. charger.

κατασκευή. 70 4, 156 13, 160 19, 164 12. Artistic treatment. Lat. ornatus. The Latin apparatus, and French apprêt, will also give something of the meaning. Cp. κατασκευάζειν 106 3, 140 9, 154 3, 14, 17, 158 1, 4, etc. See also D.H., under κατασκευή (with the passages there quoted) and κατασκευάζειν.

κατασπᾶν. 204 24. To pull down. Lat. detrahere. Cp. the use of κατεσπυσμένα and κατεσπεῦσθαι in Long. de Subl. xix. 2, xl. 4. [It is possible that κατεσπεῦσθαι should be read in C.V. 204 24.]

καταχλευάζειν. 264 9. To jeer. Lat. cavillari, irridere.

κατάχρησις. 78 16. Catachresis. Lat. abusio. A definition is given by Quintil. viii. 6. 34 "eo magis necessaria κατάχρησις, quam recte dicimus abusionem, quae non habentibus nomen suum accommodat, quod in proximo est: sic Equum divina Palladis arte Aedificant." Cp. Cic. Orat. 27. 94, where the same Latin equivalent is given, though not the same description of the figure: "Aristoteles autem translationi et haec ipsa subiungit et abusionem, quam κατάχρησιν vocant, ut cum minutum dicimus animum pro parvo, et abutimur verbis propinquis, si opus est, vel quod delectat vel quod decet" (cp. Auct. ad Her. iv. c. 33). In Cic. Acad. ii. 47. 143, "Quid ergo Academici appellamur? an abutimur gloria nominis?" the meaning probably is: 'do we use the glorious name of 'Academic' in an unnatural way?'

κατεσπουδασμένος. 156 7. Earnest. Lat. anxius, instans. Cp. Herod. ii. 174.

κεραυνύναι. 218 7, 240 17, 246 12, 248 17, etc. To mix, to temper. Lat. commiscere, temperare. Cp. the adjectives εὐκρατος and εὐκέρastos, supra. The general sense in 248 17 is, 'qui aient su mieux qu'eux faire un heureux mélange des couleurs.'

κερατοειδής. 146 12. Sounding like a horn. Lat. sonus veluti corneus. κερατοειδείς ἦχους = 'sounds like (the sounds of) a horn': cp. Hymn. Hom. in Merc. 81 μυρσινοειδέας ὄζους, 'branches like (the branches of) myrtle.'

κηλεῖν. 124 13. To charm. Lat. permulcere.

κινεῖν. 146 8, 194 12. To excite, to disturb. Lat. movere. So κίνησις, movement, 124 8, 160 3, 244 20; and κινήτικός, 158 12.

κλέπτειν. 196 17. To cheat, to disguise. Lat. dissimulare, obtegere. Cp. Demetr. .

κοινός. 120 13, 122 14, 148 14, 164 22, 200 7, 210 1 (according to one reading), 236 11, 252 28. Common, mixed, general. Lat. communis. For the meaning 'in general terms' cp. de Dinarcho c. 8 λέγω δὲ ταῦτα οὕκ ἐν τῷ καθόλου τρόπῳ, ὥς μηδὲν τούτων κατορθοῦντος, ἀλλ' ἐν τῷ κοινοτέρῳ καὶ ὥς ἐπὶ τὸ πολὺ.

κολακικός. 236 9. Alluring. Lat. blandus.

κόμμα. 270 15, 276 2. Short clause, phrase. Lat. incisum (Cic. Orat. 62. 211; Quintil. ix. 4. 22). Fr. incise. Cp. Demetr. ; Quintil. ix. 4. 122 “incisum (quantum mea fert opinio) erit sensus non expleto numero conclusus, plerisque pars membri”; C.V. 270 15 κόμματα ... βραχύτερα κώλων. So κομμάτιον 274 14, 276 6. [The terms comma, colon, and period are now specially applied to punctuation.] For illustrations of κῶλα and κόμματα drawn from Cicero see Laurand’s Études. In de Demosth. c. 39 the adjective κομματικῶς is found: ἀποιήτως δὲ πως καὶ ἀφελῶς καὶ τὰ πλείω κομματικῶς (i.e. per brevia commata et incisa) κατεσκευάσθαι βούλεται.

κόπτειν. 132 4, 198 7. To smite upon, to weary. Lat. obtundere. Used in reference to the ear, when it receives ‘hammer-strokes of sound.’

κόρος. 124 18, 132 11, 192 18, 196 18, 252 25. Satiety. Lat. satietas (Cic. Orat. 65. 219). In using this word Dionysius often has in mind Pindar Nem. vii. 52 (κόρον δ’ ἔχει καὶ μέλι καὶ τὰ τέρπν’ ἄνθε’ ἀπροδίσια): a passage which he quotes in Ep. ad Pomp. c. 3.

κορυφή. 248 4. Top, head. Lat. caput. Cp. κορυφαῖος (headman) and ἀκόρυφος (230 31).

κοῤῥσις. 130 25, 154 10, 220 12. A mixing, blending. Lat. mistura.

κράτιστος. 70 1, 120 18, 134 20, 142 5, 150 10, 160 5, 162 3, 15, 176 15, 196 10, 206 21, 214 16, 250 16, 260 21. Strongest, finest, best. Lat. fortissimus, optimus. It is not always easy to determine in these passages whether the meaning is general or special. But in 162 3 κρατίστοις is opposed to μαλακωτάτοις. When he wishes to be quite explicit, Dionysius can use ἰσχυρός (162 23), or βέλτιστος.

κράτος. 70 5, 72 14, etc. Force, power. Lat. vis, robur.

κρητικός. 174 11, 260 23, 262 9. Cretic. The metrical foot – ∪ –. For the cretic foot cp. Cic. de Orat. iii. 47. 183 and Or. 64. 218; Quintil. ix. 4. 81, 97, 104, 107. In the Epitome c. 17 the equivalent term ἀμφιακρός is used instead of κρητικός. For the excessive use in prose of the cretic (as, indeed, of any other distinctly metrical) rhythm cp. Walter C. Summers in Classical Quarterly ii. 173.

κτενίζειν. 264 22. To comb. Lat. pectere. Parallel metaphors from Latin literature are quoted in Larue van Hook’s Metaphorical Terminology of Greek Rhetoric.

κυκλικός. 174 4. Cyclic. Lat. cyclicus. Goodell (Greek Metric p ff.) points out that the much-debated question of ‘cyclic’ or ‘three-timed’ anapaests and dactyls hinges on this passage (174 4), together with part of c. 20 (204 16–206 16). As he says (ibid.), “It is clear that Dionysius does not regard even these irrational dactyls as three-timed merely; the nearest approach to that view is in the remark that some are not much longer than trochees. But that implies that even the briefest are somewhat longer than trochees.” Goodell also suggests () that κυκλικός in Dionysius corresponds to στρογγύλος in a passage of Aristides Quintilianus. Clearly the elaborate structure of the ‘cyclic dactyl’ cannot stand securely upon so slight a foundation as these statements of Dionysius. See further in Goodell (op. cit.), and also in L. Vernier Traité de métrique grecque et latine c. 14 p ff.

κύκλος. 198 6, 212 14, 246 3. A circle, a round. Lat. orbis, ambitus.

κύριος. 84 5, 208 24, 246 11. Accredited, regular, proper. Lat. proprius. Fr. propre (in le mot propre). Cp. D.H., Demetr.; and (in addition to the passages there quoted) Quintil. i. 5. 71 “propria sunt verba, cum id significant, in quod primo denominata sunt: translata, cum alium natura intellectum, alium loco praebent.” The meaning ‘proper,’ ‘literal,’ is well illustrated by 208 24, where κυρίως (‘used in the ordinary sense’) is opposed to μεταφορικῶς.

κῶλον. 72 6, 9, 104 9, 110 10, 176 2, 178 6, 7, 194 13, 22, 218 18, 230 16, 234 20, 21, 276 2, 6, 14, 278 6, etc., passim. Member, clause, group of words. Lat. membrum. Fr. membre de phrase. Cp. Demetr. , and Aristot. Rhet. iii. 9. 5 κῶλον δ’ ἐστὶν τὸ ἕτερον μῦθον ταύτης [sc. περιόδου], Quintil. ix. 4. 22 “membra, quae κῶλα (dicuntur),” Long, de Subl. xl. 1 ἡ τῶν μελῶν [this illustrates the metaphor in κῶλον] ἐπισύνθεσις. For the length of the κῶλον cp. Sandys’ Orator of Cicero and Laurand’s Études p-9; and see, generally, A. du Mesnil Über die rhetorischen Kunstformen, Komma, Kolon, Periode.

λεαίνειν. 130 19, 164 12. To smooth, to fall softly on. Lat. polire, mulcere.

λεῖος. 132 1, 154 12, 162 23, 222 5, 228 4, 234 14. Smooth. Lat. levis. So λειότης (douceur) 240 6. Cp. Demetr. de Eloc. § 176 παρὰ δὲ τοῖς μουσικοῖς λέγεται τι ὄνομα λεῖον, καὶ ἕτερον τὸ τραχύ, καὶ ἄλλο εὐπαγές, καὶ ἄλλ’ ὀγκρὸν. λεῖον μὲν οὖν ἐστὶν ὄνομα τὸ διὰ φωνηέντων ἢ πάντων ἢ διὰ πλειόνων, οἷον Αἴας, τραχὺ δὲ οἷον βέβρωκεν.

λεκτικός. 66 7, 96 9. Relating to style or expression. Lat. qui ad elocutionem spectat. ὁ λεκτικός τόπος = the province of expression, as distinguished from ὁ πραγματικός τόπος. — λεκτικῶς, 258 3, = after the manner of prose.

λέξις. 66 16, 70 3, 11, 14, 74 3, 8, 84 15 (‘passages’), 88 22, 25, 90 4, 110 9, 112 6, passim. Speech or language; utterance; diction; style; word, expression, passage. Lat. dictio, elocutio, verbum s. locutio. For the broad meaning ‘word’ or ‘phrase,’ common in Greek writers of the later periods, c 16, 124 23, 128 5, 168 10, 202 22, 206 6, 268 19.

λιτός. 76 8. Trifling. Lat. exiguus, humilis. For λιτός = plain, simple, cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 16 ποικίλος καὶ οὐ λιτός.

λογάδην. 210 21. Casually. Lat. fortuito. Dionysius has in mind not selected stones, but stones collected (picked up) as they lie. Cp. Joseph. Antiqq. Iud. iv. 8. 5 (Naber) καὶ βωμὸς εἷς ἐκ λίθων μὴ κατεργασμένων ἀλλὰ λογάδην συγκειμένων (i.e. collecticiis), and Thucyd. iv. 31 καὶ γάρ τι καὶ ἔρυμα αὐτόθι ἦν παλαιὸν λίθων λογάδην πεποιημένον, vi. 66 καὶ ἐπὶ τῷ Δάσκωνι ἔρυμα τι, ἧ εὐεφοδῶτατον ἦν τοῖς πολέμοις, λίθοις λογάδην καὶ ξύλοις διὰ ταχέων ὠρθωσαν.

λογικός. 146 14. Rational. Lat. rationalis. This passage (θηριώδους γὰρ καὶ ἀλόγου μᾶλλον ἢ λογικῆς ἐφάπτεσθαι δοκεῖ φωνῆς ὁ συριγμός) helps to illustrate the use of λογικός in 130 3 (δεδειγμένης τῆς διαφορᾶς ἧ διαφέρει μουσικῆ λογικῆς), where singing and ordinary speech (the sounds of music and those of spoken language) are contrasted.

λογογράφος. 158 1. Prose-writer. Lat. solutae orationis scriptor. So perhaps Aristot. Rhet. ii. 11 καὶ ὧν ἔπαινοι καὶ ἐγκώμια λέγονται ἢ ὑπὸ ποιητῶν ἢ λογογράφων, and Thucyd. i. 21 καὶ οὕτε ὡς ποιηταὶ ὕμνηκασιν ... οὕτε ὡς λογογράφοι ἐξυνέθεσαν κτλ.: though in both these passages ‘chroniclers’ may be specially meant. For the meaning ‘professional speech-writer’ cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 12. 2. In C.V. 154 17 συγγραφέων is found in the same sense (‘prose-writers’) as λογογράφοι in 158 1.

λογοεῖδεια. 272 15. Prose-character. Lat. color prosaicus. Fr. la couleur prosaïque. The word is well explained and illustrated by a scholiast on Hephaestion (Westphal Scriptores Metrici Graeci i. 167): πολιτικὸν δὲ ἐστὶ τὸ ἄνευ πάθους ἢ τρόπου πεποιημένον, οἷον

λόγος. 64 13, 66 5, 8, 70 10, 72 7, 10, 14, 74 6, 76 2, 84 14, 16, 92 23, 94 2, passim. Discourse, language. Lat. oratio, sermo. Often used of prose, as opposed to poetry: c 14, 16, 108 11 (λόγοις πεζοῖς), 118 22, 154 2 (λόγοις ψιλοῖς), 166 4, 208 6, 270 17, 272 9, 13, 17, 19, 28, 278 6, 9 (where the meaning probably is 'a piece of continuous prose'), 280 18; so καὶ ἐν ποιήσει καὶ ἐν λόγοις (Aristot. Rhet. iii. 2. 7; further references in Bonitz' Index Aristotelicus). In many passages (e.g. 66 5, 210 8, 218 1, 248 4) 'writing' or 'literature' (cp. ἡ τῶν λόγων φιλοσοφία = 'the study of literature,' Rhet. ad Alex. c. 1) will be a possible modern equivalent, though we must always bear in mind the Greek point of view, that what we call 'literature' was something conveyed by the living voice, — something spoken or read aloud. — See also s.v. ἄμετρος supra.

μαλακός. 132 1, 154 11, 162 3, etc. Soft. Lat. mollis. So μαλθακός 90 20. In some passages (90 20, 170 9) the word suggests the idea of 'lacking in backbone,' 'unmanly,' 'effeminate.' Fr. délicat, or (rather) mou.

μεγαλοπρεπής. 136 12, 166 2, 18, etc. Grand, impressive, splendid. Lat. magnificus. Fr. magnifique. So μεγαλοπρέπεια (la grandeur), 120 22, 164 20.

μεθαρμόζειν. 112 2. To arrange differently, to re-arrange. Lat. aliter componere.

μειοῦν. 128 18, 152 20. To lessen, to curtail. Lat. minuere. Fr. retrancher. So μέωσις 110 15. The word does not, in the C.V., bear the special sense of extenuare.

μελικός. 130 7, 252 21, 254 21, 278 4. Melodious, lyric. Lat. lyricus. In English 'lyric' is a more generally intelligible rendering than 'melic,' though less exact. "To the writers of the Alexandrian age, who introduced and gave currency to the expression, 'lyric' meant primarily what the name imports — poetry sung to the accompaniment of the lyre.... More appropriate than 'lyric,' as an exact and comprehensive designation of all poetry that was sung to a musical accompaniment, is 'melic,' the term in vogue among the Greeks of the classic ages," Weir Smyth Greek Melic Poets pp. xvii, xviii. Apparently the adjectives μελικός and λυρικός are both late.

μέλος. 204 3, limb: 122 24, 126 21 (bis), 194 7, 13, tune, melody: 120 18, 122 11, 130 4, 11, melodious effect, tunefulness: 92 22, 120 26, 126 23, 154 2, 192 21, 194 5, 250 11, 16, 254 5, 8, 15, 272 10, 278 6, 280 18, words set to music, song, aria, chant, lay, lyric. Lat. cantus, carmen, etc. Similarly also μελοποιία 214 3: μελοποιοῖς 194 18, 236 16, 22, 248 13, 270 22, 272 5: μελωδεῖν 126 18, 128 5: μελωδία 122 16, 194 8, 196 2.

μέρος. 68 6, 70 14, 96 1, etc. Part. Lat. pars. τὰ τῆς λέξεως μέρη = 'the parts of speech,' 70 14, 96 14, etc. See also μόριον, .

μέσος. 148 18, 150 11, 210 6, 7, 8, 236 2, 246 10. Middle, intermediate, average. Lat. medius. So μέσως 146 10, and μεσότης 246 15 (bis) (with reference to Aristotle's use of the word for le juste milieu), 248 11.

μεταβάλλειν. 194 1, 2. To change, to vary. Lat. mutare. As its passive, μετακειμένην 266 1.

μεταβολή. 120 19, 122 12, 124 11, 25, 134 18, 19. Variety. Lat. varietas, diversitas. The object of μεταβολή, as conceived by Dionysius, is to diversify style in order to avoid a monotonous uniformity. Variety is one of the chief essentials of good writing, not only in Greek but in all other languages.

μεταλαμβάνειν. 132 7. To interchange. Lat. commutare.

μετασκευή. 104 19, 108 9, 110 16 (e coni. Schaeff.), 114 10. Modification. Lat. mutatio. So μετασκευάζειν 110 6. Cp. text in 110 16 with 104 19, 108 9.

μετρικός. 140 11, 172 2, 174 22, 176 7, 218 19. Metrical. Lat. metricus. 172 2 and 174 22 οἱ μετρικοί = ‘the metrists,’ ‘the theorists on metre’: cp. οἱ ῥυθμικοί 172 20.

μέτριος. 132 8, 150 9, 214 12, 222 26, 230 22, 234 22, 246 13. Moderate, fair. Lat. aequus.

μέτρον. 74 5, 84 16, 88 6, 8, 92 22, 118 22, 120 26, 172 17, passim. Measure, metre, verse, line. Lat. metrum, versus. In Aristot. Poet. iv. 7 metres are described as sections of rhythm (τὰ γὰρ μέτρα ὅτι μῦρια τῶν ῥυθμῶν ἔστι φανερόν): that is, they are ‘measures,’ or ‘verses’; ‘parts of rhythm,’ which is indefinite and never comes to an end — μέτρον being rhythm cut, as it were, into definite lengths (Cope Introduction to Aristotle’s Rhetoric). When contrasted with μέλη (cp. Plato Gorg. 502 C τό τε μέλος— ‘the music’ — καὶ τὸν ῥυθμὸν καὶ τὸ μέτρον), μέτρα seems to denote the non-lyrical metres generally (hexameters, iambic trimeters, etc.): see 92 22, 120 26, 192 21, and especially 270 18-23.

μήκος. 150 22, 154 6, 204 2, 224 15, 264 4. Length. Lat. longitudo. So μηκύνειν (to lengthen) 132 7, 152 24, 224 8, 13, 246 8. In 246 8 (and also in 276 9, where P gives μηκύνειν and MV give μηκύνειν τὸν λόγον) μηκύνειν is used absolutely (= μακρηγορεῖν: cp. Aristoph. Lys. 1131 πόσους εἴποιμ’ ἂν ἄλλους, εἰ με μηκύνειν δέοι;). In 132 7 the meaning is ‘to prolong, or continue, in the same case with similar terminations’: just as Dionysius himself, inadvertently no doubt, repeats -ων in 132 9, 10.

μίγμα. 208 18. Mixture, blend. Lat. mistura. Cp. μῖξις 130 25, 166 9; and also D.H. . It is possible that Dionysius may have written μεῖγμα, as in earlier Greek: in Ep. ad Pomp. c. 2 it is to be noticed that the manuscripts give δεῖγμα, where the sense clearly calls for μεῖγμα.

μικρόκομπος. 90 20. Affected, finical. Lat. bellulus.

μικρολογία. 266 11. Trifling, pettiness. Lat. rerum minutarum cura. In Theophrastus’ Characters the word is used of attention to trifles on the part of the mean or parsimonious man. Cp. also Demetr. , s.v. μικρολογεῖν.

μιμητικός. 158 4, 11, 200 11. Imitative. Lat. ad imitandum aptus. So μιμητικῶς 202 1.

μονόμετρος. 270 23. Consisting of one metre. Lat. monometer. Applicable to poems, like the Iliad and the Aeneid, which are written throughout in a single metre.

μόριον. 70 10, 96 3, 98 6, 106 11, 12, passim. Part, especially part of speech. Lat. pars, pars orationis. The meaning 'part of speech' appears in such passages as ποῖον ὄνομα ἢ ῥῆμα ἢ τῶν ἄλλων τι μορίων (106 12), τὰ μόρια τοῦ λόγου (110 1), ἐν μόριον λόγου (126 7), πᾶν ὄνομα καὶ ῥῆμα καὶ ἄλλο μόριον λέξεως (168 10). 'Words' simply might serve as a rendering in many cases, except that it is usually well to preserve Dionysius' idea of 'words in their syntactical relations,' 'words in a sentence.' In 232 18 the meaning may be 'in every word': so 130 7, 134 25, 220 3, 222 10, 224 11.

μοῦσα. 126 16, 252 20. Music, melody. Lat. musica concinnitas. So μουσική 124 20, 128 18; ὁ μουσικός 138 6.

νεαρός. 66 16, 246 5. Youthful. Lat. iuvenilis. Cp. note on μειρακιώδης in D.H. .

νόημα. 66 5, 74 16, 84 6, 92 17, 112 15, 264 16. Idea. Lat. sententia. Cp. νόησις (thought, perception) 74 3, 268 9; and D.H. .

οἰκεῖος. 110 13, 126 1, 134 20, 140 12, 154 19, 158 2, 168 7. Akin, appropriate, fitting. Lat. cognatus, domesticus, decorus. So οἰκέως 72 8, 118 14, 134 10: οἰκειότης 122 21, 240 7: οἰκειοῦν 122 17. If the metaphors are to be fully pressed, we might render οἰκεῖα καὶ φίλα in 110 13 by 'to seem loving members of the same family,' and οἰκέως in 118 14 by 'in harmony with their inner significance.' In 122 21 οἰκειότης is 'a natural inclination or instinct.' On 122 17 there is the following scholium in M: οἰκειοῦται ἀντὶ τοῦ εὐσταθῶς ἥδεται. In 126 1 τὸ οἰκεῖον (appropriateness) seems almost to stand for τὸ πρέπον and to be an illustration of Dionysius' own love for variety. It is this unusually copious vocabulary of his that does much to relieve the dull monotony of a technical treatise. "In the works of Dionysius, the great representative of a later school of criticism [sc. than that of Aristotle], we meet for the first time a wealth of rhetorical terminology. In his numerous writings we find freely used a fully developed vocabulary, which is completely adequate for the purposes of the professional rhetorician and the broad literary critic" (Larue van Hook Metaphorical Terminology, etc.).

οἰκονομεῖν. 176 18. To manage. Lat. administrare, tractare. So οἰκονομία 264 16. Cp. Aristot. Poet. xiii. 6 καὶ ὁ Εὐρυπίδης, εἰ καὶ τὰ ἄλλα μὴ εὖ οἰκονομεῖ, ἀλλὰ τραγικώτατός γε τῶν ποιητῶν φαίνεται: Long. de Subl. i. 4 καὶ τὴν τῶν πραγμάτων τάξιν καὶ οἰκονομίαν: Quintil. Inst. Or. iii. 3. 9 "oeconomiae, quae Graece appellata ex cura rerum domesticarum et hic per abusionem posita nomine Latino caret."

ὁμογενής. 146 10, 148 9. Of the same race or family. Lat. congener. Cp. ὁμοιογενής (of like kind) 72 24, 132 19, 156 15; also ἀνομοιογενής 132 19.

ὁμοειδής. 192 18, 198 6, 270 19. Of the same species or kind. Lat. uniformis. So ὁμοείδεια 274 1. Cp. Cic. ad Att. ii. 6 “etenim γεωγραφικά quae constitueram magnum opus est ... et hercule sunt res difficiles ad explicandum et ὁμοειδεῖς nec tam possunt ἀνθηγογραφεῖσθαι quam videbantur.”

ὁμοσυγία. 176 13, 254 17. Connexion, affinity. Lat. coniugatio.

ὄνομα. 66 5, 70 9, 13, 20, 74 12, 84 6 passim. Word, noun. Lat. vocabulum, nomen. In 168 10, 264 5, etc., the meaning is ‘noun’; in 264 3, etc., ‘word.’

ὀνομασία. 74 17, 234 5, 252 23, 274 2. Wording, naming, language. Lat. elocutio, appellatio. Cp. Rhet. ad Alex. c. 27 ἀντίθετον μὲν οὖν ἐστὶ τὸ ἐναντίαν τὴν ὀνομασίαν ἅμα καὶ τὴν δύναμιν τοῖς ἀντικειμένοις ἔχον, ἢ τὸ ἕτερον τοῦτων: Aristot. Poet. vi. 18 λέγω δέ, ὥσπερ πρότερον εἴρηται, λέξιν εἶναι τὴν διὰ τῆς ὀνομασίας ἐρμηνείαν: Dionys. Hal. de Demosth. cc. 18, 34, 40: Demetr. de Eloc. §§ 91, 304.

ὀξύς. 126 5, 8, 10, 128 6, 8. Acute (accent), high (pitch). Lat. acutus. So ὀξύτης 126 14. Cp. s.v. βαρύς, supra. In Aristot. Poet. c. 20 ὀξύτητι καὶ βαρύτητι καὶ τῷ μέσῳ = ‘according as they [the letters] are acute, grave, or of an intermediate tone.’

ὀξύτονος. 128 9. With high pitch or acute accent. Lat. qui acutum tonum s. accentum habet.

ὄργανον. 122 25, 124 4, 22. Musical instrument. Lat. instrumentum. So the adjective ὀργανικός (instrumental) in 124 16, 126 16.

ὀρθός. 106 19. Nominative. Lat. rectus (casus): viz. ‘uninflected.’ In 102 19 ‘primary,’ as opposed to ‘secondary’; in 108 3 ‘active,’ as opposed to ‘passive.’ In 258 25 and 262 5 the meaning is ‘correct’; in 90 6 perhaps ‘tense’ (see the exx. given in L. & S. under the heading ‘excited’), the opposite of ὕπριος (supinus).

ὄρος. 182 13, 200 25, 210 5. Standard, condition, boundary. Lat. regula, condicio, finis. With the sense norma et regula in 182 13 cp. Long. de Subl. xxxii. 1 ὁ γὰρ Δημοσθένης ὄρος καὶ τῶν τοιοῦτων, Dionys. H. de Demosth. c. 1 ἥς (λέξεως) ὄρος καὶ κανὼν ὁ Θεουκυδίδης.

οὐδέτερος. 106 21. Neuter. Lat. qui neutri generis est. Cp. D.H. .

οὐρανός. 142 12, 144 19, 150 6, 220 23. Palate. Lat. palatum. In the margin of R (with reference to 142 12) there is the note: τὴν ὑπερώαν φησίν. This sense of οὐρανός is found several times in Aristotle (see Bonitz’ Index), and not (as has sometimes been supposed) for the first time in Dionysius. Cp. the converse caeli palatum in Ennius apud Cic. de Nat. Deor. ii. 18. 48 “sed dum, palato quid sit optimum, iudicat [Epicurus], caeli palatum (ut ait Ennius) non suscepit.”

πάθος. 66 15, 88 12, 110 23, 112 5, 122 15, passim. Feeling, experience, emotion, affection, passion. Lat. affectus (Quintil. vi. 2. 8), animi motus (Cic. de Or. i. 5. 17), perturbatio (id. Tusc. iv. 5. 10). Cp. D.H. p, 199. — In 154 5, 268 18 πάθη = ‘properties,’ ‘modifications,’ ‘differences.’

παίαν. 184 3, 260 23, 262 9. Paeon. Lat. paeon. The metrical foot so called, consisting of three short syllables and one long in four possible orders — (1) -υυυ, (2) υ-υυ, (3) υυ-υ, (4) υυυ-. These four varieties are sometimes called the first, second, third, and fourth paeon respectively. Cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 8. 4-6, Cic. de Orat. iii. 47. 183, Quintil. ix. 4. 47; and see Demetr. , s.v. παίων. Demetrius (§§ 38, 39) refers to two varieties only: cp. the note on 182 22 supra.

παρὰβολή. 232 15. Meeting, juxtaposition. Lat. concursum.

παράγγελμα. 270 3, 282 2, 7. Rule, precept. Lat. artis praeceptum. Cp. Long. de Subl. c. 2 τεχνικά παραγγέλματα, c. 6 ὡς εἰπεῖν ἐν παραγγέλματι (‘if I must speak in the way of precept’). So παραγγέλλειν 132 16, 268 11 (cp. de Lysia c. 24 ταῦτα μὲν δὴ παραγγέλλουσι ποιεῖν οἱ τεχνογράφοι), and παραγγελματικός 214 9 (= plenus praeceptis, doctrinis, regulis).

παράδειγμα. 92 5, 136 2, 152 3, 214 6, 232 23, 240 24, etc. Instance. Lat. exemplum. τὰ παραδείγματα is often used of appropriate (perhaps customary, or stock) examples: cp. de Isocr. cc. 10, 15, de Demosth. cc. 13 (middle), 53, and contrast de Lysia c. 34 and de Demosth. cc. 13 (end), 20.

παρὰιδώκειν. 206 13. To hurry along. Lat. abripere. Cp. the use of συνδεδιωγμένον in Long. de Subl. c. 21, and of κατεσπυσμένα c. 19 ibid. — Usener adopts, in this passage, his own conjecture παραμεμιγμένας.

παρακεκινδυνευμένος. 234 16. Daring, bold, venturesome. Lat. audax (as in Hor. Carm. iv. 2. 10). Fr. aventuré. Cp. Aristoph. Ran. 99 τοιουτονί τι παρακεκινδυνευμένον, | αἰθέρα Διδὸς δωματίον, ἢ χρόνου πόδα: and see s.v. ἐπικίνδυνος supra. The word is used also in de Lys. c. 13, de Isocr. c. 13, Ep. ad Pomp. c. 2.

παρακολουθεῖν. 108 6, 130 26, 136 12. To accompany. Lat. accidere, consequi.

παράλλαγή. 152 8, 15, 22. Divergence. Lat. discrimen, permutatio.

παραπλήρωμα. 116 3, 166 17. Supplement, expletive. Lat. explementum, complementum. Cp. Cic. Or. 69. 230 “apud alios autem et Asiaticos maxime numero servientes inculcata reperias inania quaedam verba quasi complementa numerorum”; and also Demetr. , s.v. παραπληρωματικός. The word occurs elsewhere in Dionysius: de Isocr. c. 3, de Demosth. cc. 19, 39.

παρθενωπός. 234 15. Of maiden aspect. Lat. qui virgineo vultu est. The word seems to occur elsewhere only in Eurip. El. 948 ἀλλ' ἔμοιγ' εἴη πόσις | μὴ παρθενωπός, ἀλλὰ τάνδρείου τρόπου [Gilbert Murray: "Ah, that girl-like face! | God grant not that, not that, but some plain grace | Of manhood to the man who brings me love"]. Cp. Cic. Orat. 19. 64 "nihil iratum habet [oratio philosophorum], nihil invidium, nihil atrox, nihil miserabile, nihil astutum; casta, verecunda, virgo incorrupta quodam modo."

παρίσος. 116 8, 212 7, 246 6. Parallel in structure. Lat. qui constat similibus membris. Cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 9. 9 παρίσωσης δ' ἐὰν ἴσα τὰ κῶλα, παρομοίωσης δ' ἐὰν ὅμοια τὰ ἔσχατα ἔχη ἑκάτερον τὸ κῶλον (where ὅμοια τὰ ἔσχατα indicates final letters that rhyme).

πεζός. 70 3, 76 2, 80 3, 108 11, etc. In prose, prosaic. Lat. pedester. πεζὴ λέξις, πεζὴ διάλεκτος, πεζὸς λόγος, πεζοὶ λόγοι = oratio soluta. Cp. Quintil. x. 1. 81 "multum enim supra prosam orationem et quam pedestrem Graeci vocant surgit [Plato]." In 120 27 the metaphor seems still to be strongly felt—'marching on foot,' 'pedestrian.'

πεποιημένος. 78 17, 252 24. Invented, original, newly-coined. Lat. factus, novatus (Cic. de Orat. iii. 38. 154; i. 34. 155). Fr. foré tout exprès. Cp. Aristot. Poet. xxi. 9; Demetr. ; Quintil. viii. 6. 32 "vix illa, quae πεποιημένα vocant, quae ex vocibus in usum receptis quocunque modo declinantur, nobis permittimus, qualia sunt Sullaturit et proscripturit." περίοδος. 72 7, 10, 104 10, 116 2, etc. Period. Lat. periodus, comprehensio, verborum ambitus, etc. See Demetr. for various references and equivalents, and also (Index); Sandys' Orator ; Laurand's Études p. 128. — According to Dionysius, the period should not be used to excess [see n. on 118 15]. Another weakness of the periodic construction is elsewhere noted by him: τοῦτο δὲ [sc. τὸ παθητικὸν] ἥκιστα δέχεται περίοδος (de Isocr. c. 2).

περισπασμός. 128 10. The circumflex accent. Lat. circumflexio, accentus circumflexus. Cp. περισπωμένης 126 11: 'drawn around,' 'twisted,' 'circumflexed.' Aristotle denotes the circumflex

περιστέλλειν. 142 16. To contract, to pucker up. Lat. contrahere.

περιττός. 74 13, 84 8, 182 4, 7. Extraordinary, richly wrought; exceedingly good, unsurpassed. Lat. excellens, curiosus, elaboratus. Cp. Long. de Subl. xl. 2 (where the word is opposed to κοινὸς καὶ δημώδης), iii. 4, xxxv. 3. See also de Isocr. c. 3, de Demosth. cc. 8, 56, Ep. ad Pomp. c. 2 (περιττολογία); also Demetr. (περισσοτεχνία).

περιφανής. 244 18. Seen on every side. Lat. conspiciuus. So περιφάνεια 210 17, 234 2 (‘so that each word should admit an all-round view of it’). — PMV give περιφανές (not περιφερές) in 246 3.

πεφυκέναι (c. infin.). 66 16, 70 3, 104 16, etc. To have a gift for, a liking for. Lat. solere, amare.

πεφυλαγμένως. 148 1. Guardedly. Lat. caute. The word is used in the Attic period by Xenophon and Isocrates.

πίνος. 120 23, 136 16, 212 24, 236 8. Mellowing deposit, tinge of antiquity, flavour of archaism. Lat. antiquitas, antiquitas impexa (Tac. Dial. c. 20), nitor obsoletus (Auct. ad Her. iv. 4. 46). There is a suggestion of négligé or abandon about the word, but on the whole it is not uncomplimentary: cp. Ep. ad Pomp. c. 2 ὃ τε πίνος ὁ τῆς ἀρχαιοφύτου ἡρέμα αὐτῇ καὶ λεληθότως ἐπιτρέχει, and de Demosth. c. 38 ἀλλ’ [ἵνα] ἐπανθῇ τις αὐταῖς χνοῦς ἀρχαιοπινῆς καὶ χάρις ἀβίαστος. The compound εὐπίνεια is found in Long. de Subl. xxx. 1. There is a scholium (preserved in M) on 120 23, which is, unfortunately, vague and uncertain: πίνος κυρίως ὁ ῥύπος, ἀφ’ οὗ πιναρὰ ῥάκη. λέγεται δὲ καὶ τὸ ἐπανθοῦν τισὶ χνοῶδες ὡς ἐπὶ μῆλων καὶ ἀπίων. ἀπὸ τούτου καὶ ἐπὶ τοῦ λόγου τὸ ἐπφαινόμενον αὐτῷ ἐν τῇ συνθήκῃ τῆς λέξεως ποῖον πίνον ὀνομάζει. ἔστι δὲ πίνος καὶ ὄνομα τόπου.

πλανᾶσθαι. 254 16, 270 18. To wander, to be irregular. Lat. vagari. Used in reference to vague, elastic metre. So περιπεπλανημένα μέτρα in de Demosth. c. 50.

πλάσμα. 90 6, 118 24. Cast, form. Lat. imago, forma dicendi. Cp. Ep. ad Pomp. c. 4 ὕψος δὲ καὶ κάλλος καὶ μεγαλοπρέπειαν καὶ τὸ λεγόμενον ἰδίως πλάσμα ἱστορικὸν Ἡρόδοτος ἔχει (viz. ‘elevation, beauty, stateliness, and what is specifically called the ‘historical vein’); Long. de Subl. xv. 8 ποιητικὸν τοῦ λόγου καὶ μυθῶδες τὸ πλάσμα (the ‘form’). In de Demosth. c. 34 πλάσμα seems to have the same meaning as χαρακτήρ in c. 33 ibid. [The musical meaning of moulded delivery, modulation does not emerge in the C.V.]

πλάτος. 210 9, 212 1, 246 19. Breadth. Lat. latitudo. So πλατύς 244 18. In 210 9 the meaning is, ‘belongs to the class of ideas which are regarded with a wide indefiniteness.’ So in Latin placite = πλατικῶς = ‘broadly,’ ‘generally’: cp. Usener Rhein. Mus. xxiv. 311. See also under ἀπαρτίζειν, supra.

πλεονάζειν. 146 13, 214 12. To exceed due bounds. Lat. redundare. So πλεονασμός, redundantia, 110 15.

πληθυντικός. 106 18. In the plural number. Lat. pluraliter.

πλοκή. 72 5, 130 22, 166 9. Combination. Lat. copulatio.

πλούσιος. 92 18. Rich. Lat. opulentus. The word is contrasted with πτωχός (92 17), beggarly, mendicus: for which cp. the expression τῇ λέξει πτωχεύειν in the passage quoted, from Chrysostom, under ἀπαγγελία supra.

ποίημα. 76 10, 78 5, 100 23, 154 2, 166 4, 192 8, 250 10, 16, 254 4, 7, 272 14. Poem; line of a poem (in this sense, more commonly στίχος or ἔπος). Lat. poëma, versus. So ποιεῖν 208 9, ‘to write poetry,’ and ποιητής 74 8 (but in 214 16 ποιηταί means ‘writers’ generally: cp. de Demosth. c. 37 παρ’ οὐδενὶ οὐτε ἑμμέτρων οὐτε πεζῶν ποιητῇ λόγων). ποίημα sometimes refers specially to epic and dramatic poetry (in contrast to song-poetry). In 64 10 the meaning is ‘product’ simply. For ‘poetry’ ποίησις is found: 214 1, 2, 252 24, 270 21, 274 7, 276 10.

ποιητικός. 70 2, 4, 108 11, 206 20, 208 8, 19, 252 20, 23, 29, etc. Poetical. Lat. poëticus. In 136 11 the meaning is ‘productive of.’

ποικιλία. 130 13, 192 18, 196 17, 25, 198 5. Variety, decoration. Lat. varietas. So ποικίλλειν 132 13, 192 20, 196 9; and ποικίλος 110 11, 154 19, 160 10, etc. ποικίλος may be rendered by such adjectives as ‘elaborate,’ ‘curious,’ ‘laborious,’ ‘multifarious,’ ‘kaleidoscopic,’ ‘ever-varying.’

πολιτικός. 64 15, 72 17, 124 21, 130 10, 214 1, 5, 254 25, 266 7, 272 20. Civil, parliamentary, political, public. Lat. civilis. See D.H. for an explanatory note on πολιτικός. In 72 17, P has ῥητορικοῖς ἀνδράσι, which is an unlikely periphrasis for ῥήτοροι (104 8), but may well indicate the general meaning of πολιτικοῖς ἀνδράσι: cp. de Demosth. c. 23 ταῦτα δὲ πολιτικοῖς καὶ ῥήτορσιν ἀνδράσι μελήσει. Compare generally, in Aristot. Poet. c. vi., the words τῆς πολιτικῆς καὶ ῥητορικῆς ἔργον ἐστίν, and οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἀρχαῖοι πολιτικῶς ἐποιοῦν λέγοντας, οἱ δὲ νῦν ῥητορικῶς.

πολύφωνος. 160 23. Of many voices. Lat. qui multas voces emittit. Used of the variety of tones in Homer’s ‘composition.’ In the de Sublim. c. xxxiv. the term is applied to Hypereides, who οὐ πάντα ἐξῆς καὶ μονοτόνως [i.e. at one sustained high pitch] ὡς ὁ Δημοσθένης λέγει.

πούς. 86 1, 168 12, 172 20, 174 22, 24, 178 7, 184 1, 256 9, 12, 258 19, 260 3. Metrical foot. Lat. pes. τὸ δ’ αὐτὸ καλῶ πόδα καὶ ῥυθμόν 168 11. Aristoxenus, Ῥυθμικὰ στοιχεῖα ii. 16, writes: ᾧ σημαινόμεθα τὸν ῥυθμόν καὶ γνῶριμον ποιοῦμεν τῇ αἰσθήσει, πούς ἐστιν εἷς ἡ πλείους. Cope (Introduction to Aristotle’s Rhetoric) thinks that Dionysius neglects the important distinction between βάσις, the unit of rhythm, and πούς, the unit of metre. Goodell (Greek Metric) thus paraphrases a passage of Marius Victorinus (K.): “Between foot and ‘rhythmus’ there is this difference, that a foot cannot exist without rhythm, but a ‘rhythmus’ moves rhythmically without being divisible into feet.” [It is this kind of ‘rhythmus’ that counts in rhythmical prose.]

πραγματεία. 68 8, 14, 17, 70 8, etc. Inquiry, treatise, work. Lat. studium, commentatio, opus. So πραγματεύεσθαι 106 5, 10, 140 22, 268 7.

πραγματικός. 66 6. Pertaining to subject matter or invention. Lat. negotialis. Cp. Quintil. iii. 7. 1 “a parte negotiali, hoc est πραγματικῇ.” The πραγματικός τόπος (“tractatio rerum et sententiarum”) covers subject matter, things, thoughts; the λεκτικός τόπος includes expression, form, style.

πραῦς. 162 5, 244 21. Gentle. Lat. lenis. Cp. Demetr. .

πρέπον, τό. 120 19, 122 13, 124 11, 136 12, 198 13, 14. Propriety, appropriateness, fitness. Lat. decorum. Fr. la convenance. Cp. Cic. Orat. 21. 70 “ut enim in vita, sic in oratione nihil est difficilius quam quid deceat videre. πρέπον appellant hoc Graeci; nos dicamus sane decorum; de quo praeclare et multa praecipiuntur et res est cognitione dignissima: huius ignoracione non modo in vita, sed saepissime et in poëmatis et in oratione peccatur.” The Greek rhetoricians drew the term from the language of ethics. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 7. 1 τὸ δὲ πρέπον ἔξει ἢ λέξις, ἐὰν ᾗ παθητικὴ τε καὶ ἠθικὴ καὶ τοῖς ὑποκειμένοις πράγμασιν ἀνάλογον. So περὶ ὧδε 106 17.

πρίαιπος. 86 8. Priapean: as a metrical term. Lat. Priapeius. Effeminate and ribald verse, written in honour of Priapus, and involving a mutilation of the heroic line.

πρόνοια. 184 16, 186 1. Deliberation. Lat. consilium.

προοίμιον. 224 24, 252 3. Introduction. Lat. exordium.

προσαγόρευσις. 260 22. Address. Lat. allocutio, compellatio.

προσερανίζειν. 116 4. To augment. Lat. cumulare. The period in question has been aided (so to say) by the alms of expletives. For the metaphor cp. συνερανιζόμενα de Isocr. c. 3 and ἔρανον de Imitat. B. vi. 2.

προσερείδειν. 148 22. To drive against. Lat. impingere, allidere. In 220 24 προσανίστασθαι is similarly used of ‘rising against.’

προσεχής. 84 6. Obvious, natural, allied, appropriate. Lat. proximus, cognatus (cum re coniunctus). In 258 24 the sense is ‘adjoining.’

προσηγορικός. 70 17, 102 17, 18, 218 6, 11, 220 7, 16, 222 24, 230 1. Appellative. Lat. appellativus. ὄνομα προσηγορικόν = common noun, Lat. nomen appellativum. It would appear from Dionysius Thrax (Ars Grammatica Uhlig) that ὄνομα might include προσηγορία (= ὄνομα προσηγορικόν), while προσηγορία could cover participles (μετοχαί) and adjectives (ἐπίθετα) as well as common nouns. But the strict division is that of proper names and general terms, as given by Dionysius Thrax (ibid. p. 34): κύριον μὲν οὖν ἔστι τὸ τὴν ἰδίαν οὐσίαν, σημαῖνον, οἷον Ὀμηρος, Σωκράτης. προσηγορικὸν δὲ ἔστι τὸ τὴν κοινήν οὐσίαν σημαῖνον, οἷον ἄνθρωπος, ἵππος. In such passages as 222 24 and 230 1 ‘adjective’ would be an appropriate modern rendering. Quintil. i. 4. 21 “vocabulary an appellatio dicenda sit προσηγορία et subicienda nomini necne, quia parvi refert, liberum opinaturis relinquo.” In 272 25 προσηγορία = appellation.

προσιόσασθαι. 132 8. To offend. Lat. obstrepere. Cp. de Isocr. c. 2 προσιστάμενος ταῖς ἀκοαῖς, c. 14 ibid. τῷ γὰρ μὴ ἐν καιρῷ γίνεσθαι, μηδ’ ἐν ὥρᾳ, προσιόσασθαι φημι ταῖς ἀκοαῖς, Antiqq. Rom. i. 8 μονοειδεῖς γὰρ ἐκεῖναί τε καὶ ταχὺ προσιστάμενα (= cito offendunt) τοῖς ἀκούουσιν.

προσῳδία. 128 12, 196 17, 268 20. Accent. Lat. accentus. The word is defined in 196 17 τᾶσαις φωνῆς αἱ καλούμεναι προσῳδαί. See further s.v. τόνος infra, and compare Bywater Aristotle on the Art of Poetry “προσῳδία with Aristotle comprises accent, breathing, and quantity — all the elements in the spoken word which in the ancient mode of writing were left to be supplied by the reader.” The symbols used in accentuation are supposed to have been introduced by Aristophanes of Byzantium, if not by some still earlier scholar, in order to recall to Greeks and teach foreign learners the true intonation of the language, which was in danger of being corrupted and forgotten when the Greek world grew vast and came to include so many foreign elements.

πτῶσις. 106 20, 108 4, 132 7, 212 20, 264 4. Grammatical case. Lat. casus. ‘Verbal cases’ are mentioned in 108 4; in Aristotle the term πτῶσις includes inflexions in general.

πυρρήχιος. 168 17. Pyrrhic. Lat. pyrrhichius. The metrical foot ∪ ∪.

ῥῆμα. 70 13, 21, 168 10, 218 6, 7, 264 5. Verb. Lat. verbum. So ῥηματικός 108 4 (verbal), 220 17 (verbal form).

ρήτωρ. 74 8, 132 22, 166 12, 200 14, 206 25, 218 21, 236 20, 242 7, 248 15. Orator, rhetorician. Lat. orator, rhetor. As in English we have no similarly two-sided word, it is often hard to decide between the renderings, ‘speaker’ and ‘teacher of speaking.’ So ῥητορικός 68 9, 254 25, 262 20.

ῥυθμός. 120 18, 122 12, 124 6, 9, passim. Rhythm, harmonious movement of speech. Lat. numerus. For le nombre oratoire in Cicero (whose prose, however, like Roman prose generally, must not be taken to follow exclusively Attic standards) see Laurand's Études p-11, and cp. Cic. Orat. 20. 67 "quicquid est enim, quod sub aurum mensuram aliquam cadat, etiamsi abest a versu — nam id quidem orationis est vitium — numerus vocatur, qui Graece ῥυθμός dicitur." Quintil. Inst. Or. ix. 4. 45 "omnis structura ac dimensio et copulatio vocum constat aut numeris (numeros ῥυθμούς accipi volo) aut μέτροις, id est dimensione quadam." It was a suggestive saying of Scaliger's that metre gives the exact 'measure' of the line, rhythm its 'temperament.' As Dionysius identifies ῥυθμός and πούς (168 11; c 2, 3), we may translate ῥυθμός by 'foot' in 180 11, 182 19 (cp. σπονδεῖος πούς 178 7), 200 17, 206 9, etc. — Cp. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 8. 2 τὸ δὲ ἄρρυθμον ἀπέραντον, δεῖ δὲ πεπεράνθαι μὲν, μὴ μέτρῳ δέ· ἀηδὲς γὰρ καὶ ἄγνωστον τὸ ἄπειρον. περαίνεται δὲ ἀριθμῷ πάντα· ὁ δὲ τοῦ σχήματος τῆς λῆξεως ἀριθμὸς ῥυθμός ἐστιν, οὗ καὶ τὰ μέτρα τμητὰ· διὸ ῥυθμὸν δεῖ ἔχειν τὸν λόγον, μέτρον δὲ μὴ· ποίημα γὰρ ἔσται. ῥυθμὸν δὲ μὴ ἀκριβῶς· τοῦτο δὲ ἔσται ἔαν μέχρι τοῦ ἤ. So ῥυθμικός 128 18 (where the reference is to lyric metres), 168 8, 172 20 (cp. οἱ μετρικοί), 176 7. Quintilian (ix. 4. 68) provides a good example of the divisions recognized by the rhythmicī: "quis enim dubitet, unum sensum in hoc et unum spiritum esse: animadverti, iudices, omnem accusatoris orationem in duas divisam esse partes? tamen et duo prima verba et tria proxima et deinceps duo rursus ac tria suos quasi numeros habent spiritum sustinentes, sicut apud rhythmicos aestimantur."

ῥυσός. 92 10. Wrinkled. Lat. rugosus.

ῥώθωνες. 144 22, 23, 146 11, 220 25. Nostrils. Lat. nares. In 146 11 διὰ τῶν ῥωθόνων συνηχοῦμενα = nasal.

Σαπφικός. 258 7. Of Sappho. Lat. Sapphicus.

σεμνότης. 84 2, 110 19, 164 20, 166 12, 170 2, 172 11, 236 8. Gravity, majesty. Lat. granditas, dignitas, gravitas. Fr. majesté. So σεμνολογία 120 23, 174 17; σεμνός 68 5, 80 12, 84 8, etc. It is not easy to find a good equivalent for σεμνός, as 'dignified' comes nearer to ἀξιοματικός; 'impressive' (or the like) to μεγαλοπρεπής; 'lofty', 'elevated', or 'sublime', to ὑψηλός. 'Solemn,' 'majestic,' 'august,' or 'stately' will sometimes serve.

σιωπή. 218 16, 220 2, 230 4. Silence, interval, pause. Lat. silentium, intermissio. Modern metrists who confine their attention to syllables are apt to neglect the interrelations of silence and sound. Dionysius would, on the contrary, have recognized that the pauses denoted by punctuation are the key to the metre in such lines as "Thy rankest fault; all of them; and require" (Tempest v. 1).

σκαϊότης. 250 8. Clumsiness, stupidity. Lat. rusticitas, imperitia. Fr. gaucherie: cp. the editor's Ancient Boeotians.

σομόρος. 122 25. Thick, husky. Lat. subraucus, fuscus. Cp. Schol. in M, σομόρον ἤγουν θρυλιγμόν καὶ ἐκμέλειαν. Some of the MSS. give ἀσύμφωνον, thus repeating a word used a few lines earlier.

σοφιστής. 190 10, 264 19. Sophist. Lat. sophista. The comprehensiveness of the term is well illustrated by the fact that in the former passage it is applied to Hegesias, in the latter to Isocrates and Plato. In the parallel passage of the de Demosth. (c. 51) ὁρῶν γε δὴ τούτους τοὺς θαυμαζομένους ἐπὶ σοφίᾳ καὶ κρατίστων λόγων ποιητὰς νομιζομένους Ἰσοκράτην καὶ Πλάτωνα γλυπτοῖς καὶ τορευτοῖς ἐοικότας ἐκφέροντας λόγους. Cp. Demetr. .

σπαδονίζειν. 142 9. To emasculate, to cramp. Lat. spadonium sonum reddere. This reading seems preferable on several grounds: (1) it is the more difficult of the two; (2) the sense of 'choke the voice' seems to agree well with οὐδὲ συγκόψει τοὺς ἤχους (162 4 'and will not impede the voice'); (3) σπανίζειν (intransitive: cp. de Demosth. c. 32, de Thucyd. c. 19) τοῦ ἤχου would be more common than σπανίζειν τὸν ἤχον; (4) σπαδονισμούς τῶν ἤχων ('impediments to sound,' 'arrested sounds') occurs, without variant, in de Demosth. c. 40, and is adopted by U.-R. as well as by other editors; (5) the authority of R seems to support σπαδονίζει rather than (as U.-R. think) σπανίζει.

σπονδεῖος. 170 2, 178 7 (with πόδες), 202 20. Spondee. The metrical foot – –. Vossius thus describes the effect of the spondee: "hic pes incessum habet tardum et magnificum; itaque rebus gravibus, et maxime sacris, vel ipso attestante vocabulo, imprimis adhibetur." Cp. Hor. Ars Poet. 255 "tardior ut paulo graviorque veniret ad aures, | spondeos stabiles in iura paterna recepit [sc. iambus]," and Cic. Orat. 64. 216.

σπουδάειν. 66 8, 94 16. To be eager. Lat. studere, sedulo operam navare. For the middle voice of this verb see note on supra. The noun σπουδή occurs in 156 14, 186 4, 192 7, 212 16.

στάθμη. 236 4. A carpenter's line or rule. Lat. amussis. ἀπὸ στάθμης = velut ad amussim, 'regulated by line and rule, by square and level.'

στενός. 142 19, 146 3. Narrow. Lat. angustus. In 146 3 it is coupled with λεπτός.

στηριγμός. 202 24. A sustaining (of the voice on certain syllables), a pause. Lat. mora. See under ἐγκάθισμα, supra; and under ἀντιστηριγμός, supra. So στηριχθῆναι 220 18, 'to be firmly planted,' 'to be sustained.'

στιβαρός. 216 16. Hardy, robust. Lat. robustus. The word occurs also in de Thucyd. c. 24. Cp. the French nerveux. Hesych. στιβαρόν· εὐρωστον, βαρὺ, εὐτονον, στεῖρόν, ἰσχυρόν. As is pointed out by Larue van Hook (Metaphorical Terminology of Greek Rhetoric), both Latin and English abound in similar terms of style drawn from good physical condition: nervi, vires, vigor, lacerti, ossa, robur: full-blooded, hearty, lively, lusty, muscular, nervous, robust, sinewy, supple, strenuous, vigorous, etc.

στίχος. 86 2, 12, 88 7, etc. A line of poetry. Lat. versus. In de Thucyd. c. 19 the word is used with reference to prose: ὅτι πολλὰ καὶ μεγάλα πράγματα παραλιπών, τὸ προοίμιον τῆς ἱστορίας μέχρι πεντακοσίων ἐκμηκύνει στίχων.

στοιχεῖον. 70 11, 20, 108 10, 110 9, 138 1, etc. Element. Lat. elementum. So στοιχειώδης 138 14. With the use of στοιχεῖον in c. 14 cp. Aristot. Poet. c. 20, where the word is defined as φωνῇ ἀδιάτρετος, οὐ πᾶσα δέ, ἀλλ' ἐξ ἧς πέφυκε συνετὴ γίνεσθαι φωνή. In 108 10 the meaning practically is 'principle,' 'rule.'

στρέφειν. 264 3, 270 11. To turn, to twist. Lat. torquere. In 270 11 the meaning may be conveyed by 'to change the words about,' 'to permute or vary the order of the words,' 'to give a new turn to the sentence.'

στρογγύλος. 112 11. Compact, rounded, terse. Lat. rotundus. Fr. arrondi. See the examples quoted in D.H. , and add de Lys. c. 9 στρογγύλη καὶ πυκνή, de Isaeo c. 3 στρογγύλη τε καὶ δικανικὴ οὐχ ἥττον ἐστὶν ἢ Ἰσαίου λέξις τῆς Λυσίου. So στρογγυλίζειν 142 15. Latin equivalents, or parallels, may be found in Horace's ore rotundo (Ars P. 323), Cicero's contortus (Orat. 20. 66), Quintilian's corrotundare (xi. 3. 102). "στρογγύλος is used of the new stylistic artifices of the sophistical rhetoric by Aristophanes Acharn. 686 (στρογγύλοις τοῖς ῥήμασι), and by Plato Phaedr. 234 E. In later usage it is constantly used of periodic composition" (G. L. Hendrickson in American Journal of Philology xxv. 138).

στροφῆ. 194 6, 9, 10, 16, 19, 254 13, 272 5, 278 8. Strophe, stanza. Lat. strophæ.

στρυφνός. 228 7. Harsh, astringent. Lat. acerbus. See D.H. (s.v. στρυφνός; in C.V. 228 7 F has στρυφνόν), with the reference to Jebb's equivalent 'biting flavour' (Att. Orr. i. 35).

στύφειν. 154 13. To draw up the mouth. Lat. astringere. Used of sounds that make the hearer pull a wry face and screw up his lips. Cp. de Demosth. c. 38 ἀνακοπὰς καὶ ἀντιστηριγμούς λαμβάνειν καὶ τραχύτητας ἐν ταῖς συμπλοκαῖς τῶν ὀνομάτων ἐπιστυφούσας τὴν ἀκοήν ἡσυχῇ βούλεται.

συγγραφεύς. 74 8, 76 3, 154 17, 206 25, 214 15, 228 11, 236 18, 248 14. Prose-writer, historian. Lat. scriptor (prosaicus); (scriptor) historicus. ἱστοριογράφος (de Thucyd. c. 2) is a less ambiguous expression than συγγραφεύς (c. 5 ibid.) or than λογογράφος (c. 20 ibid.). — In 68 9 συγγράφειν = to compose (a treatise).

συγκοπή. 156 19, 230 7. Stoppage. Lat. impeditio. So συγκόπτειν ('impede the voice,' 'check the utterance') 162 4. [This meaning seems to bring the three passages fairly into line: otherwise συγκοπαὶ τῶν ἤχων, in 230 7, might well mean 'duræ sonorum collisiones et concursiones.'] συγκροτεῖν. 206 16. To weld together. Lat. compingere, coagmentare.

σύγκρουσις. 230 27. Collision, concurrence, consonance. Lat. concursus. Fr. rencontre. So συγκρούειν 202 18, 224 10. Cp. Demetr. . The reference is to a succession of two vowels which do not form a diphthong, either in the same word (e.g. λαῖαν) or with hiatus between two words (e.g. ἄλλγε' ἔχοντα: or καὶ ἐλπίσας, τε ἔσεσθαι, καὶ ἀξιολογώτατον). Cp. de Demosth. c. 43. Cicero's opinion of the 'concourse of vowels' (quoted by Quintil. ix. 4. 37) is given in Orat. 23. 77 "verba etiam verbis quasi coagmentare neglegat; habet enim ille tamquam hiatus et concursus vocalium molle quiddam et quod indicet non ingratam neglegentiam de re hominis magis quam de verbis laborantis." On the other hand, Pope (Essay on Criticism) states and exemplifies the weak side of hiatus by means of the line, 'Tho' oft the ear the open vowels tire'; and Cicero himself (Orat. 44. 150) writes, "quod quidem Latina lingua sic observat, nemo ut tam rusticus sit qui vocales nolit coniungere." In English, the question of hiatus raises sundry points of an interesting kind. Should we, for example, say 'an historian' and 'an historical book,' on the ground that the initial aspirate is evanescent when the accent falls on the second syllable; and similarly 'an united family' but 'a union of hearts'?

συγκρύπτειν. 130 26. To hide, to disguise. Lat. occulere.

συχρῶζεσθαι. 244 17. To be closely joined. Lat. cohaerere, mutuo se contingere.

συζυγία. 84 11, 104 17, 106 19, etc. Coupling, grouping, combination. Lat. coniunctio. Fr. liaison. So de Demosth. c. 40 (the passage quoted s.v. συμβολή, infra).

συλλαβή. 150 16. Syllable. Lat. syllaba. Words like this serve to remind us how much of our modern rhetorical and grammatical terminology is taken direct from the Greek.

συλλεαίνειν. 230 20. To rub smooth, to polish. Lat. levigare, polire. Cp. de Demosth. c. 43 ἐν δὲ τῇ συμβεηκότα, τά. 98 8, 9, 140 14, 264 6, 268 19. The accidental, non-essential, qualities of a thing. Lat. accidentia. In 268 19 the reference is to the changes which words undergo in the way of contraction, expansion, acute or grave accentuation, etc.

συβολή. 210 20, 232 13. Clashing. Lat. concursum. In 232 13 the reference is to les chocs des voyelles. Cp. de Demosth. c. 40 καὶ διὰ τοῦτο φεύγει μὲν ἀπάσῃ σπουδῇ τὰς τῶν φωνηέντων συμβολὰς ὡς τὴν λειότητα καὶ τὴν εὐέπειαν διασπώσας, φεύγει δέ, ὅση δύναμις αὐτῇ, τῶν ἡμιφώνων τε καὶ ἀφώνων γραμμάτων τὰς συζυγίας, ὅσαι τραχύνουσι τοὺς ἤχους καὶ παράττειν δύνανται τὰς ἀκοάς.

συμμετρία. 130 7, 12, 246 2, 4, 270 10. Due proportion. Lat. iusta mensura. In 270 10 συμμετρία would seem to mean the arrangement of the periods within the lines or verses (μέτρα: the variant ἔμμετρία is to be noticed); and with it should be compared συμμέτρως in 270 13, though there Upton suggests ἀσυμμέτρως and Schaefer συμμέτροις. συμμέτρως occurs also in 232 9; and συμμετρεῖν in 212 18, 276 26. Cp. de Demosth. c. 43 ὥστε συμμετρηθῆναι πρὸς ἀνδρὸς πνεῦμα.

συμπληροῦν. 180 11, 182 16. To complete, to constitute. Lat. absolvere.

συμπλοκή. 160 9, 198 6, 240 16. Intertwining, blending. Lat. implicatio. So συμπλέκειν 154 17, 258 4. For the metaphor from weaving cp. ῥάπτειν and ὑφαίνειν: Pindar Nem. iv. 153 ῥήματα πλέκων: Swinburne Erechtheus 1487 “I have no will to weave too fine or far, | O queen, the weft of sweet with bitter speech.”

σύμπτωσις. 240 12. Concurrence. Lat. concursum.

συναλοιφή. 108 18, 180 17, 218 7, 222 24, 256 22. Blending, fusion, amalgamation. Lat. coitus, vocalium elisio. Fr. synalèphe (contraction, ou jonction de plusieurs voyelles). So συναλείφειν 220 1, 222 26, 234 8, 236 6, 244 17. Compare Demetr., together with the passage there quoted from Quintil. ix. 4. 35-7 (including the words “coëuntes litterae, quae συναλοιφαί dicuntur”), and see (as to hiatus) Sandys' Orator p ff. and Laurand's Études p-6. Cp. de Demosth. c. 43 καὶ κατ' ἄλλους δύο τόπους ἡ τρεῖς τὰ ἡμίφωνα <καὶ ἄφωνα> παραπίπτοντα ἀλλήλοις τὰ φύσιν οὐκ ἔχοντα συναλείφεσθαι ἐν τε τῷ “τὸν Φίλιππον” καὶ ἐν τῷ “ταύτῃ φοβερὸν προσπολεμῆσαι” παράττει τοὺς ἤχους μετρίως καὶ οὐκ ἔφαίνεσθαι μαλακοῦς· ἐν δὲ τῇ δευτέρᾳ περιόδῳ κτλ. (the remainder of the passage is given under συλλαεῖναι, supra).

συναρπάζειν. 212 11, 270 13. To complete (the sense) simultaneously. Cp. Demetr. de Eloc. §§ 2, 10 (together with ἀπαρπάζειν in Glossary ibid.), and also the note on p, 271 supra. Cp. de Demosth. c. 39 ἔτι τῆς ἁρμονίας ταύτης οἰκεῖόν ἐστι καὶ τὸ τὰς περιόδους αὐτουργοὺς τινὰς εἶναι καὶ ἀφελεῖς καὶ μῆτε συναρπατίζουσας ἐαυταῖς τὸν νοῦν μῆτε συμμεμετρημένας τῷ πνεύματι τοῦ λέγοντος μὴδὲ γε παραπληρώμασι τῶν ὀνομάτων οὐκ ἀναγκαίους ὡς πρὸς τὴν ὑποκειμένην διάνοιαν χρωμένας μὴδ' εἰς θεατρικούς τινὰς καὶ γλαφυροὺς καταληγούσας ῥυθμούς.

σύνδεσμος. 70 14, 17, 72 1, 218 7, 220 5, 258 27. Conjunction, connective, connecting word. Lat. copula, conjunctio. ‘Particle,’ or ‘connecting-particle,’ will sometimes be a suitable rendering, as the term includes particles like ἄρα (258 27) and μέν and δὴ (Demetr. de Eloc. §§ 55, 56, 196), and may even be applied to prepositions (220 5, 6). In a difficult passage of Aristot. Poetics (xx. 6), among the examples offered of σύνδεσμος are ἀμφί, περί, μέν, ἦτοι, as well as δέ. A good account of the word will be found in Cope’s Introduction to Aristotle’s Rhetoric p-4, 392-7. See further Quintil. i. 4. 18; Aristot. Rhet. iii. 6. 6. συνεδρεύειν. 100 10, 160 19. To attend, to accompany. Lat. assidere, adiungi. Used, in 100 10, of the accompanying relations (mode, place, time, etc.), which adverbs denote in reference to verbs.

συνεφθαρμένος. 126 10, 144 12, 234 13. Imperceptibly blended, melting into each other. Lat. commistus. φθορά is the technical term for the mixing of colours in painting: e.g. Plut. Mor. 346 A καὶ γὰρ Ἀπολλόδωρος ὁ ζωγράφος, ἀνθρώπων πρῶτος ἐξευρών φθοράν καὶ ἀποχρῶσιν σκιᾶς, Ἀθηναῖος ἦν. Perhaps it is this sense of ‘fusion’ that led to φθορά being used, in Byzantine music, in some such sense as ‘modulation.’

συνεχής. 230 17, 20, 244 21, 246 1. Continuous, unbroken. Lat. continuus. So συνεχῶς 132 9, 230 29, 280 21. συνέχεια (240 5) = coherence, ‘continuous compositionis tenor.’

συνηεῖν. 140 21, 144 20, 146 11. To sound at the same time. Lat. consonare. In 140 21 the translation of the manuscript reading συνεχοῦσης may be “while all these are pronounced, the windpipe constricts the breath,” A. J. Ellis op. cit. (with the note, “probably this is what Dionysius considered the cause of voice”).

σύνθεσις. 68 5, 7, 19, 70 3, 9, 72 8, 74 15, 78 9, 86 2, 13, 90 19, 134 26 etc., 200 10, 16, 202 1, 7, 204 9, 232 25, 240 23, 270 9. Composition. Lat. compositio. ‘Composition’ (with the addition of ‘literary,’ to mark it off from other kinds of composition) seems the least inadequate English rendering of σύνθεσις, and comes nearest to the usual Latin title. To judge by the actual contents of the treatise (which go beyond Dionysius’ occasional and fragmentary definitions), the term ‘putting-together’ can be applied not only to ὀνόματα, but (on the one side) to γράμματα and συλλαβαί and (on the other) to κῶλα and περίοδοι, and to a poem of Sappho or the poem of Thucydides. Hence ‘arrangement (or order, ordonnance) of words’ proves, in practice, too narrow a title, though the euphonic and symphonic arrangement of words and the elements of words is the main theme, and though there is (as has been pointed out in the Introduction, supra) some danger of ‘literary composition’ seeming to promise a treatment of the πραγματικὸς τόπος. One of the definitions of composition in the New English Dictionary will apply very fairly to the de Compositione Verborum: “the due arrangement of words into sentences, and of sentences into periods; the art of constructing sentences and of writing prose or verse,” while ἁρμονία (which is σύνθεσις in special reference to skilful and melodious combination) might well be defined in the words there quoted from the Arte of Rhetorique of T. Wilson (1553 A.D.): “composition ... is an apt joyning together of wordes in such order, that neither the eare shall espie any jerre, nor yet any man shalbe dilled with overlong drawing out of a sentence.” The form συνθήκη is found, in practically the same sense as σύνθεσις, in the Epitome c. 3; in Lucian de conscrib. hist. c. 46 καὶ μὴν καὶ συνθήκη τῶν ὀνομάτων εὐκράτῳ καὶ μέσῃ χρηστῶν; and in Chrysostom de Sacerdotio iv. 6 (quoted under ἀπαγγελία supra). As Latin equivalents (in addition to ‘de Compositione Verborum’), ‘de Collocatione Verborum’ or ‘de Construtione Verborum’ might be supported out of Cicero’s Orator and de Oratore; and something might be said, too, in favour of ‘de Structura Orationis’ or (more fully) ‘de compositione, seu orationis partium apta inter se collocatione.’ — συνθετικός occurs in 104 15, and σύνθετος in 144 11, 176 3, 184 3.

συντάττεσθαι. 80 5, 94 15, 96 6, 98 19, 20, 104 5, 106 13, 264 21. To put together, to compose, to treat of. Lat. componere, tractare. So σύνταγμα 214 9, and σύνταξις ('arrangement,' 'co-ordination,' 'treatise') 94 3, 96 2, 13, 16, etc.

συντιθέναι. 68 3, 74 12, 106 11, etc. To arrange words or sounds, to compose. Lat. componere.

συνυφαίνειν. 134 12, 166 17, 184 14, 234 9, 20, 240 7. To weave together. Lat. contexere. Lucian (de conscrib. hist. 48) uses the word: καὶ ἐπειδὴν ἀθροίσῃ ἅπαντα ἢ τὰ πλεῖστα, πρῶτα μὲν ὑπόμνημά τι συνυφαίνετω αὐτῶν κτλ. [The passage is given in full under χρῶμα, infra.]

συνωδός. 220 17, 224 16, 232 8. In harmony with, accordant. Lat. concors.

σურიγμός. 146 14, 148 7, 160 1. A hissing. Lat. sibilus. So σύριγμα 146 3. In 160 1 the reference is to the 'whistling of ropes,' the 'shrieking of tackle': cp. Virg. Aen. i. 87 "insequitur clamorque virum stridorque rudentum."

σύρρυσις. 162 21. A flowing together, conflux. Lat. concursum. Two forms of the word are found: σύρρευσις and (as here) σύρρυσις.

συστέλλειν. 140 19, 152 25, 206 1. To compress. Lat. contrahere, corripere. So συστολή 142 18, 268 20.

συστρέφειν. 204 9. To abbreviate. Lat. contrahere. Cp. D.H. , and Demetr. (s.v. συστροφή). The condensation indicated in 204 9 consists in the fact that the rolling down of the stone is described in a single line, whereas the rolling up takes four lines.

σχῆμα. 88 12, 90 19, 130 7, 132 11, 148 20 etc., 196 25, 26, 198 6, passim. Figure, attitude. Lat. figura. See D.H. , and Demetr. , for various quotations and references (to which may be added Causeret La Langue de la rhétorique et de la critique littéraire dans Cicéron p ff.). Sometimes 'construction' will be a good rendering (e.g. de Isocr. c. 3), or 'form' (de Thucyd. c. 37): cp. Cic. Brut. 17. 69 ('sententiarum orationisque formae'). 'Turns of expression' (tours de phrase) will also serve occasionally.

σχηματισμός. 112 14, 20, 146 7, 212 21, etc. Configuration, construction; the employment of figures or turns of phrase. Lat. conformatio, figuratio.

σχολικός. 214 9. After the manner of lectures, tedious. Lat. longus. Dionysius has in mind treatises which are 'academic' rather than practical. Cp. Long. de Sublim. iii. 5 πολλὰ γὰρ ὥσπερ ἐκ μέθης τινὲς εἰς τὰ μηκέτι τοῦ πράγματος, ἴδια ἑαυτῶν καὶ σχολικὰ παραφέρονται πάθη.

σῶμα. 134 25. Person. Lat. persona. Same sense as πρόσωπον: compare, in Ep. ii. ad Amm. c. 14, πρόσωπα δὲ παρ' αὐτῷ τὰ πράγματα γίνεται with πράγματα δὲ ἀντὶ σωματῶν τὰ τοιαῦτα ὑπ' αὐτοῦ γίνεται.

Σωτάδειος. 88 1. Sotadean. Lat. Sotadeus. So called from Sotades, a native of Maroneia or of Crete, who lived under the early Ptolemies. The structure of the Sotadean verse is analyzed in P. Masqueray's Abriss der griechischen Metrik p-4. For some further references see Demetr. .

ταμιεύειν. 246 4. To regulate, to manage. Lat. temperare, dispensare.

τάξις. 72 12, 18, 198 6, etc. Order. Lat. dispositio. Not identical in sense with σύνθεσις, which (in 72 18) forms part of one and the same sentence as τάξις. τάξις often (e.g. Aristot. Rhet. iii. 12. 6) refers to the marshalling of the subject matter of a speech. — The verb τάττειν occurs (with various senses) in 126 7, 196 6, 254 10, etc.

ταπεινός. 74 12, 78 10, 80 13, 92 17, 134 23, 166 3, 176 11, 186 19. Low, mean, vulgar. Lat. humilis, abiectus. So ταπεινότης 192 9.

τάσις. 126 7, 9, 128 5, 11, 196 16. Tension, pitch, accent. Lat. intentio (vocis), accentus. Cp. προσῳδία supra, and τόνος infra. Definition in 196 16: τάσεις φωνῆς αἱ καλούμεναι προσῳδαί. Quintil. i. 5. 22 “adhuc difficilior observatio est per tenores, (quos quidem ab antiquis dictos tonores comperi, videlicet declinato a Graecis verbo, qui τόνους dicunt) vel accentus, quas Graeci προσῳδίας vocant,” etc.

ταυτολογία. 240 26. Verbal reiteration, tautology. Lat. eiusdem verbi iteratio. This is, apparently, the earliest recorded use of the word, though Polybius employs the verb ταυτολογεῖν. Quintil. viii. 3. 50 “sicut ταυτολογία, id est eiusdem verbi aut sermonis iteratio. haec enim quamquam non magnopere a summis auctoribus vitata, interim vitium videri potest, in quod saepe incidit etiam Cicero, securus tam parvae observationis: sicut hoc loco, Non solum igitur illud iudicium iudicii simile, iudices, non fuit.” The English word tautology must have been unfamiliar when Philemon Holland translated the Morals of Plutarch, since it is one of the terms included in the “explanation of certain obscure words” appended to Holland’s volume.

ταυτότης. 134 18, 192 20. Sameness, monotony. Lat. rerum earundem iteratio. Contrasted with μεταβολή: as in 134 18 διαναπαύειν δὲ τὴν ταυτότητά φημι δεῖν μεταβολὰς εὐκαίρους εἰσφέροντα. — Aristotle uses the word several times, in the sense of ‘identity.’

τέλειος. 84 21, 116 24, 144 17, 150 13, etc. Complete, perfect. Lat. absolutus, perfectus. See, further, note on 204 24. — So τελειοῦν 178 13. — In 120 4, 268 5, τέλος = ‘end,’ ‘object.’

τελευταί. 252 15. Rites, mysteries. Lat. sacra arcana, ritus et caerimoniae. αἱ τελευταὶ τοῦ λόγου = sacra eloquentiae.

τετράμετρος. 86 3, 14, 256 8, 13. Consisting of four metres or measures. Lat. tetrametrus (sc. versus: στιχός).

τετριμμένος. 252 29. Homely, ordinary. Lat. tritus. Fr. ordinaire. The word sometimes inclines to the sense ‘vulgar,’ ‘hackneyed,’ ‘banal,’ ‘rebutted’: cp. τέτριπται 134 22.

τέχνη. 68 9, 94 10, 14, 96 2, 104 10, 132 22, etc. Art, handbook. Lat. ars. αἱ τέχναι in Dionysius (cp. αἱ τέχναι τῶν λόγων, Aristot. Rhet. i. 1. 3) refers specially to rhetorical handbooks: e.g. 270 4, 282 3. αἱ ῥητορικαὶ τέχναι is often used to designate the Rhetoric of Aristotle: e.g. 254 25, and Ep. i. ad Amm. cc. 1, 2, etc. — In 124 3 τεχνίτης = ‘craftsman,’ ‘professional.’

τόνος. 126 5, 15, 19, 142 8. Tone, tension, pitch, accent. Lat. tonus, intentio (vocis), accentus. If τόνον be read in 136 16 and τόνος in 236 8, the meaning will be energy: cp. D.H. . See also under τάσις supra, and under περισπασμός supra (for a passage of Aristot. Rhet. iii. 1. 4).

τόπος. 66 6, 96 9, 144 18, 164 17, 248 8. Place, heading, department. Lat. locus. The πραγματικὸς τόπος (66 6) is the locus rerum, as opposed to the λεκτικὸς τόπος (96 9). In this connexion not only τόπος, but τρόπος, τύπος, χαρακτήρ and μέρος are sometimes used by Dionysius.

τορευτός. 264 18. Worked in relief, chased. Lat. caelatus. So τορευτής = caelator, 266 8.

τραγωδοποιός. 236 17, 248 14. Tragic poet, tragedian. Lat. tragicus poëta. [For the Greek expressions

τρανός. 230 14. Clear, distinct. Lat. perspicuus. In earlier Greek the form τρανής is used: cp. Soph. Ajax 23 ἴσμεν γὰρ οὐδὲν τρανές, ἀλλ' ἀλώμεθα.

τραχύτης. 230 5, 232 8. Roughness. Lat. asperitas. Fr. âpreté, dureté. So τραχύς 130 26, 154 12, 228 7, 234 15, etc.; and τραχύνειν 130 19, 146 9, 202 26, 206 4, 216 17, 218 18, 240 17. By 'rough' letters, in 202 26, Dionysius may probably mean the following letters found in the four lines quoted in 202 3-6: Σ, σ, φ (?), σ, γ, χ, στ, ζ, σ, σκ, πτ, σχ, σκ, φ (?); and among these, σκ, σχ and πτ may be regarded as 'juxtapositions of rough letters.'

τρίκωλον. 116 11. A sentence consisting of three members or clauses. Lat. oratio trimembris. τὸ τρίκωλον is here a noun: on the same principle as, for example, ἡ τρίδος (= trivium).

τρισύλλαβος. 170 15, 174 8. Consisting of three syllables. Lat. trisyllabus.

τρόπος. 196 1. Mode (in music). Lat. modus. Cp. Monro's Modes of Ancient Greek Music. In 132 12 the word means trope (metaphor particularly: cp. Quintil. viii. 6. 4): so τροπικός (figurative; Fr. figuré) 78 16, 252 24, 272 10.

τροχαῖος. 170 8, 184 11. Trochee. The metrical foot – υ.

τύπος. 70 7, 268 2, 17, 24. Outline, form. Lat. forma, figura.

ὕλη. 266 9. Material. Lat. materia. Fr. matière.

ὕπαγωγικός. 90 5. Drawn slowly out, prolonged. Lat. dilatatus. Cp. de Demosth. c. 4 διώκει δ' ἐκ παντὸς τρόπου τὴν περίοδον οὐδὲ ταύτην στρογγύλην καὶ πυκνήν ἀλλ' ὑπαγωγικὴν τινα καὶ πλατεῖαν καὶ πολλοὺς ἀγκῶνας, ὥσπερ οἱ μὴ κατ' εὐθείας ῥέοντες ποταμοὶ ποιοῦσιν, ἐγκολπιζομένην. It is possible, however, that in the de Comp. Verb. the word has an active meaning similar to that of ἐπαγωγικός, in which case the rendering will be 'the effect of the passage will no longer be that of a narrative which gently carries the reader on.'

ὕπαλλαγή. 78 16. Hypallage. Lat. hypallage. Quintil. ix. 6. 23 "nec procul ab hoc genere discedit μετωνυμία, quae est nominis pro nomine positio. cuius vis est, pro eo, quod dicitur, causam, propter quam dicitur, ponere; sed, ut ait Cicero, ὑπαλλαγὴν rhetores dicunt. haec inventas ab inventore et subiectas res ab obtinentibus significat: ut Cererem corruptam undis, et receptus Terra Neptunus classes Aquilonibus arceat." Cp. Cic. Orat. 27. 93 "hanc ὑπαλλαγὴν rhetores, quia quasi summutantur verba pro verbis, μετωνυμίαν grammatici vocant, quod nomina transferuntur."

ὕπερβολή. 156 11. Excess, violence. Lat. impetus, ardor. [Not here used in the technical sense of superlatio, traiectio.]

ὑπέμετρος. 214 8. Exceeding due measure, excessively long. Lat. excedens mensuram. [Not here used in the technical sense of passing beyond the bounds of metre: Demetr. de Eloc. § 118 ποίημα γὰρ ἄκαιρον ψυχρόν, ὥσπερ καὶ τὸ ὑπέμετρον, 'a bit of verse out of place is just as inartistic as the disregard of metrical rules in poetry.']

ὑπηχεῖν. 150 7. To sound in answer to, to re-echo. Lat. resonare.

ὑποβάκχειος. 174 23, 178 11, 13. Hypobacchius. The metrical foot υ – –. The Epitome (c. 17) gives παλιμβάκχειος in the same sense as ὑποβάκχειος.

ὑπογράφειν. 122 7. To sketch. Lat. adumbrare. Fr. esquisser.

ὑπόδειγμα. 174 12. Pattern, specimen. Lat. documentum, exemplum.

ὑπόθεσις. 104 6. Subject, theme. Lat. argumentum operis. So τὰ ὑποκείμενα (the subject matter) 74 9, 106 17, 130 13, 134 21, 158 2.

ὑπόμνησις. 80 1. Reminder. Lat. admonitio. ὑπομνήσεως ἕνεκα = memoriae causa.

ὑποτακτικός. 220 19. Subordinate. Lat. subditus. Dionysius seems to mean that π is not apt to be amalgamated with, or absorbed in, a preceding ν. [The second vowel in a diphthong could be described as ὑποτακτικὸν φωνῆεν.] The verb ὑποτάττειν occurs in 100 23 and 126 21.

ὑποτίθεσθαι. 194 8. To take as a subject. Lat. argumentum sibi sumere. This (rather than ‘to postulate’) seems to be the meaning.

ὑπιτιος. 108 3. Passive. Lat. supinus.

ὕφος. 234 12. Woven stuff, a web. Lat. tela. The word is used metaphorically in Long. de Subl. i. 4 τοῦ ὄλου τῶν λόγων ὕφους.

ὑψηλός. 92 18, 172 2, 180 2, 182 7. Lofty, elevated. Lat. sublimis.

φάρμακον. 208 17. Colour (for painting). Lat. pigmentum. For φάρμακα (= βάμματα, χρώματα) cp. Horace’s “Iana Tarentino violas imitata veneno” (Ep. ii. 1. 207).

φάρυγξ. 150 7. Throat. Lat. guttur. Here used in the masculine gender, according to the best-supported reading. Galen (on Hippocr. Progn.), ὅτι φάρυγγα τὴν προκειμένην χώραν στομάχου τε καὶ λάρυγγος ὀνομάζει δῆλόν ἐστι.

φθαρτός. 266 9. Perishable. Lat. mortalis, periturus.

φιλοπονία. 264 25. Loving care; industry. Lat. diligentia: which (etymologically) contains the same suggestion of ‘work done con amore.’

φιλόσοφος. 74 8, 132 22, 164 22, 248 15. Philosopher. Lat. philosophus. The comprehensive sense in which philosophy is understood may be illustrated from φιλοσοφία (140 12) and φιλοσοφεῖν (70 12). Cp. in modern times such academic vestiges of ancient usage as ‘Natural Philosophy’ or ‘Ph. D.’ In Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme (ii. 4) rhetoric is taught by the Maître de Philosophie; and Dionysius is fond of contrasting the philosophical, or scientific, rhetoric (ἡ φιλόσοφος ῥητορική) of the best Attic times with the later and purely empirical Asiatic rhetoric, to which he applies the epithet ἀμαθής. See further in D.H. . φιλοτεχνεῖν. 154 20, 200 18. To practise an art lovingly, to be devoted to it. Lat. artem amare, in artem incumbere. So φιλοτέχνως 176 18. φιλοτεχνεῖν, φιλότεχνος and φιλοτεχνία are all used by Plato in reference to art pursued con amore; and Cicero (ad Att. xiii. 40. 1) uses φιλοτέχνημα of an elaborate work of art — a chef-d'œuvre: “Ubi igitur φιλοτέχνημα illud tuum quod vidi in Parthenone, Ahalam et Brutum?”

φιλοχωρεῖν. 110 5. To cling to a place, to haunt it. Lat. libenter in loco commorari. φιλοχωρεῖν is used repeatedly by Dionysius in the Antiqq. Rom. (e.g. i. 13 Ἀρκαδικὸν γὰρ τὸ φιλοχωρεῖν ὄρεσιν and v. 63 παρεκελεύοντο ἀλλήλοις μὴ φιλοχωρεῖν ἐν πόλει μηδενὸς αὐτοῖς ἀγαθοῦ μεταδιδούσῃ) and φιλοχωρία in i. 27 (ὑπὸ τῆς φιλοχωρίας κρατουμένων). Plutarch uses the word in reference to his birthplace Chaeroneia, telling us that he ‘clung fondly to the spot,’ lest by leaving it he should make a small place, but one which had witnessed thrilling scenes, ‘smaller yet’ (ἡμεῖς δὲ μικρὰν οἰκοῦντες πόλιν, καὶ ἵνα μὴ μικροτέρα γένηται φιλοχωροῦντες, Plut. Demosth. c. 2). The form χωροφιλεῖν seems to occur twice only in good Greek authors: (1) Antiphon de Caede Herodis § 78 εἰ δ’ ἐν Αἴνῳ χωροφιλεῖ [probably it is to this passage that Dionysius here refers]; (2) Ep. Thaletis ap. Diog. L. i. 44 οὐ μέντοι χωροφιλέων ὀλίγα φοιτᾷ ἐς Ἰωνίην.

φλυαρία. 264 7, 268 15. Nonsense, foolery. Lat. nugae, ineptiae. So φλυάρημα (futility) 192 9. Notwithstanding the remarks in Stephanus, it would seem more natural to take φλύαρος as an adjective (than as a noun) in 272 20, 22, and this for two reasons: (1) the form φλυαρία has been used shortly before; (2) the adjectival use is sufficiently established by Hesychius’ note (φαῦλος, εὐήθης) and by that of Thom. M. Ritschl (πολύλογος), while ἡ φλύαρος φιλοσοφία occurs in the Septuagint (Maccab. iv. 5, 10) and καὶ ὅλως ἀποδείκνυσιν τὸν Πυθαγόρου λόγον φλύαρον in Plut. Mor. 169 E.

φράσις. 84 2, 166 3, 182 8, 206 1, 15, 208 7, 250 14. Style, expression. Lat. elocutio. Cp. Quintil. viii. 1. 1 “igitur, quam Graeci φράσιν vocant, Latine dicimus elocutionem. ea spectatur verbis aut singulis aut coniunctis.”

φριμαγμός. 158 14. Snorting. Lat. fremitus. It is hardly likely that the word here means no more than βληχή, bleating.

φυλακή. 198 6. Preservation. Lat. conservatio. — In the de Imitat. B. vi. 3 the reading φυλακή (if correct) will correspond to the middle φυλάττεσθαι (not to φυλάττειν).

φυσικός. 96 23, 214 3, 224 5, 240 8, etc. Natural. Lat. naturalis. So φυσικῶς 200 12. ὁ φυσικός, in 214 3, = ‘the natural philosopher,’ ‘the physicist’ (of Empedocles). In 134 2 οὐδ’ ἔχει φύσιν τὸ πρᾶγμα ... πεσεῖν the meaning is ‘nor is the subject of such a nature that it can fall.’

φωνή. 130 4, 21, 136 22, 138 7, etc. Voice, sound. Lat. vox, sonus, sonus vocalis. Cp. φωνεῖν (‘to pronounce,’ etc.) 140 1, 20, 144 18, 148 14.

φωνήεις. 138 8, 9, 15, 140 2, 144 7, 150 17, 152 4, 220 11. Voiced. Lat. vocalis. φωνήεντα γράμματα = litterae vocales = vowels. For the term ‘voiced’ see s.v. ἄφωνος supra. Cp. Dionys. Thrax Ars Gramm. (ed. Uhlig) φωνήεντα δὲ λέγεται, ὅτι φωνὴν ἄφ’ ἑαυτῶν ἀποτελεῖ.

χαρακτήρ. 68 21, 80 17, 90 10, etc. Characteristic stamp, type. Lat. forma, nota. So the adjective χαρκτηρικὸς in 232 21 (cp. de Demosth. c. 39 init.). See further in D.H. , Demetr. . — In 230 9 the verb χαράττειν = ‘to irritate.’

χάρις. 112 5, 120 20, 124 12, etc. Charm, grace. Lat. venustas, lepor. Fr. grâce. Cp. Demetr. . So χαρίεις (‘refined,’ ‘elegant,’ ‘accomplished,’ ‘consummate’) 106 16, 116 1, 154 16; χαριέντως 110 22.

χορδή. 122 23. String, note. Lat. chorda.

χορεῖος. 170 17, 184 11. Choree. Lat. choreus. The metrical foot ∪ ∪ ∪. In 170 18 the reading τριβραχὺς ποὺς (τροχαῖος ποὺς F) seems to be a gloss. The term χορεῖος is applied to the trochee more commonly than to the tribrach. The Epitome (c. 17) gives χορεῖος (without addition).

χρεία. 104 21, 198 2. Use, practical work. Lat. usus. Cp. de Demosth. c. 45, de Thucyd. c. 55. There may also be some notion of practical need, stress: cp. ἐν χρείᾳ δορός (Soph. Aj. 963) and ὑπὸ τῆς χρείας αὐτῆς (schol. on Hom. Odys. viii. 163).

χρόνοι. 130 1, 164 5, 204 22 (lit. ‘does not divide the times’), 210 19, 216 18, 234 4, 244 19, 264 4. Times, time-intervals, time-spaces, rests, pauses. Lat. tempora, morae. So in 128 15 χρόνους = ‘the length of syllables,’ and in 130 7 ἐν τοῖς χρόνοις τῶν μορίων = ‘in the duration of words,’ ‘in quantity.’ χρόνων = ‘tenses,’ 108 5; χρόνιος = diuturnus, 202 23; χρονίζειν = immorari, 164 12.

χρῶμα. 88 12, 198 14. Colour. Lat. color. In 198 14 χρώμασιν should be retained (in place of Usener’s χρήμασιν) in the sense of ‘ornaments’; the ornaments in question being μέλος εὐγενές, ῥυθμός ἀξιωματικός, μεταβολὴ μεγαλοπρεπῆς (136 11, where compare τὸ πᾶσι τούτοις παρακολουθοῦν πρέπον with τοῖς ἄλλοις χρώμασιν ἅπασι παρῆναι δεῖ τὸ πρέπον in 198 14). Compare too de Demosth. c. 22 κομοῦντος ἅπαντα καὶ χρωματίζοντος τῇ πρεπούσῃ ὑποκρίσει ἥς δεινότητος ἀσκητῆς ἐγένετο, and the use of χρῶμα (or χρώματα) in de Isaeo c. 4 and de Thucyd. c. 42. Photius (Bibl. Cod. 214) has ἔστι δὲ ἡ φράσις τῷ ἀνδρὶ σαφῆς μὲν καὶ καθαρὰ καὶ σπουδῇ φιλοσόφῳ πρέπουσα, οὐ μὴν γε τοῖς κεκαλωπισμένοις καὶ περιττοῖς ἐξωραϊζομένην χρώμασι καὶ ποικίλμασι τῆς ῥητορείας. Similarly color in Quintil. x. 1. 116, and Cic. de Orat. iii. 25. 100. The stage at which the χρῶμα would best be introduced in a historical work is suggested in a passage of Lucian (de conscrib. hist. 48): καὶ ἐπειδὴν ἀθροίσῃ ἅπαντα ἢ τὰ πλεῖστα, πρῶτα μὲν ὑπόμνημά τι συνυφαινέτω αὐτῶν καὶ σῶμα ποιεῖτω ἀκαλλῆς ἔτι καὶ ἀδιάρθρωτον· εἴτα ἐπιθείς τὴν τάξιν ἐπαγέτω τὸ κάλλος καὶ χρωonnύτω (i.e. ‘tinge’) τῇ λέξει καὶ σχηματίζετω καὶ ῥυθμιζέτω. But might it not be more truly said that a great historian like Gibbon has his χρῶμα from the beginning, — from the moment when he stands in the Forum and conceives his vast theme? It is in fact one aspect of his inspiration.

φιλός. 130 5, 148 7, 12 (bis), 18, 19, 150 3, 9, 154 2, 250 12, 254 1. Bare, smooth, unaspirated. Lat. lenis. So φιλότης 148 21. See s.v. δασύς supra, with the reference there given to A. J. Ellis’ pamphlet. In 148 7 Ellis takes ‘smooth’ to mean ‘unaccompanied by voice, but in this case possibly not mute.’ In 130 5 the ‘ordinary’ voice, the voice ‘pure and simple’ (or ‘without addition’), is meant: c 2, 250 12, 254 1. So ἐν τοῖς φιλοῖς λόγοις Aristot. Rhet. iii. 2. 3, and “nuda oratio” Cic. Orat. 55. 183.

φοφοειδής. 162 15. Sounding. Lat. sonans. If the term is technical, it may perhaps be translated by fricative; it can hardly be so wide as consonantal.

ψόφος. 138 7, 8, 9, 12, 146 4, 222 2. A sound, a noise. Lat. sonus, strepitus. The consonants (litterae consonantes) are called ψόφοι, as contrasted with the φωνήεντα γράμματα.

ψῦγμα. 202 26. Inhalation. Lat. respiratio. Used particularly of the ‘catch of the breath’ (interspiratio) between one word and another. [ψῦγμα must, of course, be distinguished from ψῆγμα: cp. Long. .]

ὠδή. 124 16, 22, 148 1, 224 21, 278 8. Song, lay, ode. Lat. cantus, carmen. So ὠδικός = vocal (of the voice accompanied by music), 126 16, 130 5.

ῥα. 78 12. Care, heed. Lat. cura. Cp. Hesychius: ῥα ... ψιλῶς δὲ φροντίς, ἐπιμέλεια· ὅθεν ὀλίγωρον (i.e. ‘a poco curante,’ ‘a Hippocleides’) λέγομεν τὸν ὀλίγην ἔχοντα φροντίδα. In 78 12 M has γρ φροντίδα in the margin.

ῥα. 120 20, 124 12, 162 1. Freshness, bloom, beauty. Lat. venustas, flos. Fr. fraîcheur. Cp. Ep. ad Cn. Pomp. c. 2 (quoted from de Demosth. c. 5: in reference to Plato’s style ὃ τε πίνος ὁ τῆς ἀρχαιότητος ἡρέμα αὐτῇ καὶ λεληθότως ἐπιτρέχει ἱλαρόν τέ τι καὶ τεθληδὸς καὶ μεστόν ῥας ἄνθος ἀναδίδωσι, καὶ ὥπερ ἀπὸ τῶν εὐωδεστάτων λειμώνων αὔρα τις ἡδεῖα ἐξ αὐτῆς φέρεται). — In 68 14 and 76 6 ῥα = ‘time,’ ‘season.’

ῥαῖσμός. 66 18. Adornment, elegance. Lat. elegantia.

APPENDIX A/ OBSCURITY IN GREEK

The natural lucidity of the Greek language is sometimes assumed by its modern admirers to extend to all the writings of Greek authors. But the ancients themselves made no such extravagant claims. They might praise Lysias as a model of clearness; but they knew well the difficulties, of subject matter or expression, to be met with not only in Heracleitus or Lycophron, but in masters so great as Pindar, Aeschylus, Thucydides, and the author of that excellent definition which sees in lucidity a fundamental virtue of style — Aristotle himself. Thucydides (to take one writer only out of this group of four) is taxed with obscurity by critics other than Dionysius. Marcellinus, although not otherwise in entire agreement with Dionysius, attributes this particular defect to Thucydides and regards it as deliberate: ἀσαφῶς δὲ λέγων ἐπίτηδες, ἵνα μὴ πᾶσιν εἴη βατὸς μηδὲ εὐτελὴς φαίνεται παντὶ τῷ βουλομένῳ νοοῦμενος εὐχερῶς, ἀλλὰ τοῖς λίαν σοφοῖς δοκιμαζόμενος παρὰ τούτοις θαυμάζεται ... τὸ δὲ τῆς συνθέσεως τραχύτητος μεστὸν καὶ ἐμβριθὲς καὶ ὑπερβατικόν, ἐνίοτε δὲ ἀσαφές ... ἀσαφὴς τὴν διάνοιαν διὰ τὸ ὑπερβατοῖς χαίρειν (Marcell. Vita Thucyd. §§ 35, 50, 56). An epigram in the Greek Anthology is pitched in the same key: — ὦ φίλος, εἰ σοφὸς εἶ, λάβε μ' ἐς χέρας· εἰ δέ γε πάμπαν νῆϊς ἔφυς Μουσέων, ῥίπον ἃ μὴ νοεῖς.

εἰμὶ δέ γ' οὐ πάντεσσι βατός· παῦροι δ' ἀγάσαντο Θουκυδίδην Ὀλόρου, Κεκροπίδην τὸ γένος.

Anth. Pal. ix. 583.

And Cicero, in a more uncompromising way, condemns the Speeches as scarcely intelligible: “ipsae illae contiones ita multas habent obscuras abditasque sententias, vix ut intellegantur; quod est in oratione civili vitium vel maximum” (Cic. Orat. 9. 30).

Obscurity in matter and obscurity in expression are intimately allied. Euripides, in the Frogs, says of Aeschylus that he was obscure in setting forth his plots (ἀσαφὴς γὰρ ἦν ἐν τῇ φράσει τῶν πραγμάτων, Aristoph. Ran. 1122). Dionysius attributes to Lysias, as compared with Thucydides and Demosthenes, a lucidity which embraces matter as well as expression and treats words as the servants of thought: τρίτην ἀρετὴν ἀποφαίνομαι περὶ τὸν ἄνδρα τὴν σαφήνειαν, οὐ μόνον τὴν ἐν τοῖς ὀνόμασιν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὴν ἐν τοῖς πράγμασιν· ἔστι γάρ τις καὶ πραγματικὴ σαφήνεια οὐ πολλοῖς γνώριμος. τεκμαίρομαι δέ, ὅτι τῆς μὲν Θουκυδίδου λέξεως καὶ Δημοσθένους, οἱ δεινότατοι πράγματα ἐξεῖπεν ἐγένοντο, πολλὰ δυσεῖκαστά ἐστιν ἡμῖν καὶ ἀσαφῆ καὶ δεόμενα ἐξηγητῶν ... τοῦτου δὲ αἴτιον, ὅτι οὐ τοῖς ὀνόμασι δουλεύει τὰ πράγματα παρ' αὐτῷ [sc. Λυσίᾳ], τοῖς δὲ πράγμασιν ἀκολουθεῖ τὰ ὀνόματα (de Lysia, c. 4). So far as the two can be separated, it is with wording rather than with subject matter that the present appendix is

One principal cause of obscurity is the anxious search for brevity. Dionysius sees this, especially in regard to Thucydides; and “brevis esse laboro, | obscurus fio” has many an analogue in his critical pages (e.g. ἀσαφὲς γίνεται τὸ βραχὺ and διὰ τὸ τάχος τῆς ἀπαγγελίας ἀσαφὴς ἡ λέξις γίνεται, de Thucyd. c. 24 and Ep. ii. ad Amm. c. 2). At the same time, he does not seem to concede enough to the claims of brevity in C.V. 118 1, 2, where it is not simply a question of ‘offending the ear,’ or of ‘spoiling the metre,’ or even of ‘charm.’ The two lines there quoted from Sophocles have something of that πολύνους βραχυλογία which has been justly attributed to Thucydides.

But too many words may be just as fatal to clearness as too few. As Aristotle says (Rhet. iii. 12. 6), lucidity is imperilled when a style is prolix, no less than when it is condensed. A disjointed and rambling diffuseness is condemned by Demetrius (de Eloc. § 192); and Dionysius (Ep. ii. ad Amm. c. 15) remarks that numerous parentheses make the meaning hard to follow (... αἱ μεταξύ παρεμπτώσεις πολλάι γινόμεναι καὶ μόλις ἐπὶ τὸ τέλος ἀφικνούμεναι, δι’ ἃς ἡ φράσις δυσπαρακολούθητος γίνεται).

It is, however, the arrangement of words (even more than their number, large or small) that contributes to lucidity or its opposite. Quintilian (ix. 4. 32) says “amphiboliam quoque fieri vitiosa locatione verborum, nemo est qui nesciat”; and certainly the importance of a right order, in its bearing on clearness, is very great even in the highly inflected languages. Elsewhere (viii. 2. 16) Quintilian gives some good examples of ambiguities to be avoided: “vitanda est in primis ambiguitas, non haec solum, de cuius genere supra dictum est, quae incertum intellectum facit, ut Chremetem audiui percussisse Demean, sed illa quoque, quae, etiamsi turbare non potest sensum, in idem tamen verborum vitium incidit, ut si quis dicat, visum a se hominem librum scribentem. nam etiamsi librum ab homine scribi patet, male tamen composuerit feceritque ambiguum, quantum in ipso fuit.” Quintilian’s ideal is a fine one, but it is not always possible to attain it in Latin or in Greek. The freedom of the classical word-order, so desirable on other grounds, stands in the way here.

Illustrations of a certain degree of ambiguity will be found in some instances of the dependent genitive in Greek, as used especially in Thucydides. Thucydides usually places the dependent genitive before the noun on which it depends. As, however, his rule is not invariable, it cannot be said that in all the following examples (which are designedly of a promiscuous character) the reader is absolved, as Quintilian evidently thinks he should be, from making his conception of the general sense help in determining the grammatical construction: —

(1) καὶ μετὰ τῆς ἡσσοнос ἄμα ἐλπίδος ὀλίγων ἡμερῶν ἔνεκα μεγάλου μισθοῦ δόσεως ἐκείνοις ξυναγωνίζεσθαι, Thucyd. i. 143.

(2) εἴ τις ὑπομένοι καὶ μὴ φόβῳ ροθίου καὶ νεῶν δεινότητος κατάπλου ὑποχωροίη, iv. 10.

(3) Κερκυραῖοι δὲ μετὰ τῆς ξυμμαχίας τῆς αἰτήσεως καὶ ταῦτα πιστεύοντες ἔχρῦα ὑμῖν παρέξεσθαι ἀπέστειλαν ἡμᾶς, i. 32.

(4) οἵπερ τῶν ὀλκάδων ἔνεκα τῆς ἐς Σικελίαν κομιδῆς ἀνθῶρμουν πρὸς τὰς ἐν Ναυπάκτῳ ναῦς, vii. 34.

(5) ἄπιστα μὲν ἴσως, ὥσπερ καὶ ἄλλοι τινές, δόξω ὑμῖν περὶ τοῦ ἐπίπλου τῆς ἀληθείας λέγειν, vi. 33.

(6) τά τε τῆς ἀντιμιμήσεως αὐτῶν τῆς παρασκευῆς ἡμῶν τῷ μὲν ἡμετέρῳ τρόπῳ ξυνήθη τέ ἐστι κτλ., vii. 67.

(7) τοὺς γὰρ ἂν ψιλοὺς τοὺς σφῶν καὶ τὸν ὄχλον τῶν Συρακοσίων τοὺς ἱππέας πολλοὺς ὄντας, σφίσι δ' οὐ παρόντων ἱππέων, βλάπτειν ἂν μεγάλα, vi. 64.

(8) καὶ τοῦ Κλέωνος καίπερ μανιώδης οὔσα ἢ ὑπόσχεσις ἀπέβη, iv. 39.

(9) καὶ τριήρης τῇ αὐτῇ ἡμέρᾳ ἀλίσκεται τῶν Ἀθηναίων ὑπὸ τῶν Συρακοσίων ἐφορμοῦσα τῷ λιμένι, vii. 3.

Similarly in other authors: e.g. καὶ δὴ καὶ τότε τοῦ Θρασυμάχου τὴν ἀπόρρησιν οὐκ ἀπεδέξατο, Plato Rep. ii. 357 A (where, however, the meaning may be “would not accept from Thrasymachus his withdrawal”); and ὡς φάτο, τῷ δ' ἄρα πατρὸς ὑφ' ἱμερον ὤρσε γόοιο, Hom. Il. xxiv. 507; and

τοὔτων ἐγὼ οὐκ ἔμελλον, ἀνδρὸς οὐδενὸς φρόνημα δείσας, ἐν θεοῖσι τὴν δίκην δώσειν.

Soph. Antig. 458-60.

If in some of these instances the order is not absolutely unambiguous, still less is it so in other and more miscellaneous extracts about to be given. The writer of artistic prose, as of poetry, has to satisfy claims which are often hard to reconcile: those of clearness, of emphasis, and of euphony. The result may often be a more or less unconscious compromise in which one of the elements prospers at the expense of the others. Euphony, to take that element alone, is expected to please the ear in many different ways — by the avoidance of harsh letters (found singly or in combination), of short syllables in close succession, of monotony in word-terminations, of monotony in every shape and form. Obscurity may well ensue, especially in a literature which does not aid the eye by means of punctuation, capital letters (to denote proper names or the beginning of a sentence), italic type, or division into paragraphs and chapters. To set against these deficiencies, there was the help provided by the reciter or the skilled anagnostes; and it is often interesting to speculate how, by a slight pause or modulation of the voice, a practised reader would be able to remove a seeming ambiguity. In poetry, again, metre would often be an aid to clear delivery, though its exigencies might on the other hand have led to some ambiguities in the actual writing. No careful modern student of a highly-wrought speech, like the Crown of Demosthenes, can have failed to be arrested momentarily, here and there, by some slight ambiguity which, as far as he can judge, might have been removed by an equally slight change in the word-order; and he gains much in the appreciation of Demosthenes if he is thus led to consider what are the subtle laws of rhythm and melody to which an absolutely unimpeachable lucidity has (in however small a degree) given way. He will certainly be led to the conclusion that, in Greek, good order is by no means the simple thing it may seem when achieved, but rather is the highly complex result of the play of many forces. The following examples, drawn from various authors in poetry and in prose, may be found suggestive. They are of set purpose presented without any attempt at sequence or classification, except that a considerable number of extracts from the de Corona are grouped together: —

ἐκεῖνον, εἴφ', ὃν ἀρτίως εἰσήγαγες.

Aristoph. Nub. 1148.

(2) ἀλλά μιν αὖτις ἀναρπάξασα θύελλα πόντον ἐπ' ἰχθυόεντα φέρεν βαρέα στενάχοντα.

Hom. Odys. xxiii. 316.

(3) ἥδ' ὥς εἰς Αἶδεω δόμον ἦλϑεν εὐρώεντα, ψυχῇ χρησόμενος Θηβαίου Τειρεσίαο, νηϊ πολυκλήϊδι.

id. ib. xxiii. 322.

(4) ὅτι Ἰππίας μὲν πρεσβύτατος ὢν ἦρχε τῶν Πεισιστράτου υἱέων.
Thucyd. i. 20.

Here τῶν Πεισιστράτου υἱέων depends on πρεσβύτατος ὢν, not on ἦρχε.

(5) κράτιστα τοίνυν τῶν παρόντων ἐστὶ νῶν θεῶν ἰόντε προοπeseῖν του πρὸς βρέτας.

Aristoph. Eq. 30, 31.

Here the actor would pause slightly after νῶν, at the end of the metrical line.

(6) τοῦτ' οὖν ἔβλαψα τί δράσας;
id. Ran. 1064.

Careful delivery would make it quite plain that the meaning is: τί οὖν ἔβλαψα, δράσας τοῦτο;

(7) σαφῶς γὰρ ἄν, εἰ πείθοιμι ὑμᾶς καὶ τῷ δεῖσθαι βιαζοίμην ὁμωμοκότας, θεοὺς ἂν διδάσκοιμι μὴ ἡγεῖσθαι ὑμᾶς εἶναι.

Plato Apol. c. 24.

(8) καὶ ἐς τύχας πρὸς πολλῷ δυνατωτέρους ἀγωνιζόμενοι καταστῆναι.
Thucyd. i. 69.

(9) οὐδ' ἐκλογίσασθαι πώποτε πρὸς οἷους ὑμῖν Ἀθηναίους ὄντας καὶ ὅσον ὑμῶν καὶ ὡς πᾶν διαφέροντας ὁ ἀγὼν ἔσται.

id. i. 70.

ὑμῖν is probably to be connected with ὁ ἀγὼν ἔσται. Its present position has the effect of marking the contrast between ὑμῖν and Ἀθηναίους, and further of breaking the monotony of the accusative-endings οἷους Ἀθηναίους ὄντας. It should, however, be remembered that in a highly inflected language like Greek a noun may stand in a vague general case relation (genitive, dative, or accusative) to the whole sentence in a way that is impossible in an uninflected language. This may be so here, and in some of the other passages quoted.

(10) ῥηθήσεται δὲ οὐ παραιτήσεως μᾶλλον ἔνεκα ἢ μαρτυρίου καὶ δηλώσεως πρὸς οἶαν ὑμῖν πόλιν μὴ εὖ βουλευομένοις ὁ ἀγὼν καταστήσεται.

Similarly ὑμῖν ('you will find,' etc.) is to be taken with ὁ ἀγὼν καταστήσεται. It is contrasted with πόλιν and paves the way for βουλευομένοις.

(11) ἔνθ' ὃ γε τοὺς ἐλεεινὰ κατήσθεε τετριγῶτας· μήτηρ δ' ἀμφεποτᾶτο ὀδυρομένη φίλα τέκνα.

Hom. Il. ii. 314-15.

Connect ἐλεεινὰ τετριγῶτας, and ἀμφεποτᾶτο φίλα τέκνα.

(12) ὡς οὖν δεινὰ πέλωρα θεῶν εἰσιῆλθ' ἐκατόμβας.

id. ib. ii. 321.

Connect θεῶν ἐκατόμβας.

(13) καίτοι σ' ἐγὼ 'τίμησα τοῖς φρονοῦσιν εὖ.

Soph. Antig. 904.

εὖ with ἐτίμησα. The line occurs in the suspected portion of the Antigone.

But, so far as this particular point is concerned, cp. the order of μόνος in — τὰ κοινὰ χαίρων οὐ δίκαια δρᾷ μόνος.

Eurip. Ion 358.

(14) τίνος δ' Ἀτρεΐδαι τοῦδ' ἄγαν οὕτω χρόνῳ τοσῶδ' ἐπεστέφοντο πράγματος χάριν, ὅν γ' εἶχον ἤδη χρόνιον ἐκβεβληκότες;

Soph. Philoct. 598.

Here strict lucidity is sacrificed to emphasis. τίνος must be joined with πράγματος (not with τοῦδε).

(15) στέμματ' ἔχων ἐν χερσὶν ἐκηβόλου Ἀπόλλωνος χρυσέῳ ἀνὰ σκήπτρῳ.

Hom. Il. i. 14.

(16) περὶ τούτων δ' ὄντος τουτουὶ τοῦ ἀγῶνος, ἀξιῶ καὶ δέομαι πάντων ὁμοίως ὑμῶν ἀκοῦσαί μου περὶ τῶν κατηγορημένων ἀπολογουμένων δικαίως, ὥσπερ οἱ νόμοι κελεύουσιν, οὓς ὁ τιθεὶς ἐξ ἀρχῆς Σόλων κτλ.

δικαίως qualifies ἀκοῦσαι: cp. the position of γενναίως in de Cor. § 97 (quoted in Introduction supra). The present order is not only emphatic, but also serves to connect δικαίως closely with ὥσπερ κτλ., and thus to a certain extent actually to avoid ambiguity.

(17) σκέψασθ' ὧ ἄνδρες Ἀθηναῖοι καὶ θεωρήσατε ὅσῳ καὶ ἀληθέστερον καὶ ἀνθρωπινώτερον ἐγὼ περὶ τῆς τύχης τούτου διαλεχθήσομαι.

Demosth. de Cor. § 252.

(18) τὸ μὲν τοίνυν προελέσθαι τὰ κάλλιστα καὶ τὸ τῶν οἰηθέντων Ἑλλήνων, εἰ πρόοινο ἡμᾶς, ἐν εὐδαιμονίᾳ διάξειν, αὐτῶν ἄμεινον πράττειν τῆς ἀγαθῆς τύχης τῆς πόλεως εἶναι τίθημι.

id. ib. § 254.

(19) τοῦ μὲν οὖν γράψαι πράττοντα καὶ λέγοντα τὰ βέλτιστά με τῷ δῆμῳ διατελεῖν καὶ πρόθυμον εἶναι ποιεῖν ὅ τι ἂν δύνωμαι ἀγαθόν, καὶ ἐπαινεῖν ἐπὶ τούτοις, ἐν τοῖς πεπολιτευμένοις τὴν κρίσιν εἶναι νομίζω.

id. ib. § 56.

(20) οὐ γὰρ ἂν ἦψατ' αὐτῶν | παρόντων ἡμῶν, κτλ.

id. ib. § 30.

The vertical stroke, here and elsewhere, may serve to indicate the possibility of a slight pause in utterance, and Aristotle's remarks on the obscurity of Heracleitus may be recalled: τὰ γὰρ Ἡρακλείτου διαστίξαι ('to punctuate') ἔργον διὰ τὸ ἄδηλον εἶναι ποτέρῳ πρόσκειται, τῷ ὕστερον ἢ τῷ πρότερον, οἷον ἐν τῇ ἀρχῇ αὐτοῦ τοῦ συγγράμματος· φησὶ γὰρ "τοῦ λόγου τοῦδ' ἐόντος ἀεὶ ἀξύνετοι ἄνθρωποι γίνονται". ἄδηλον γὰρ τὸ ἀεὶ, πρὸς ὁποτέρῳ <δεῦ> διαστίξαι.

Aristot. Rhet. iii. 5.

(21) λοιπὸν τοίνυν ἦν καὶ ἀναγκαῖον ἅμα | πᾶσιν οἷς ἐκεῖνος ἔπραττ' ἀδικῶν ὑμᾶς ἐναντιοῦσθαι δικαίως.

Demosth. de Cor. § 69.

(22) ταῦτα τοίνυν εἰδὼς Αἰσχίνης οὐδὲν ἥττον ἐμοῦ | πομπεύειν ἀντὶ τοῦ κατηγορεῖν εἵλετο.

id. ib. § 124.

(23) συνέβαινε δ' αὐτῷ | τῷ πολέμῳ κρατοῦντι, κτλ.

id. ib. § 146.

(24) τότε τοίνυν κατ' ἐκεῖνον τὸν καιρὸν ὁ Παιανεὺς ἐγὼ Βάπταλος Οἰνομάου τοῦ Κοθωκίδου σοῦ | πλείονος ἄξιος ὢν ἐφάνην τῇ πατρίδι.

id. ib. § 180.

(25) εἰ γὰρ ὥς οὐ τὰ βέλτιστα ἐμοῦ πολιτευσαμένου | τουδὲ καταψηφιέσθε, ἡμαρτηκέναι δόξετε, οὐ τῇ τῆς τύχης ἀγνωμοσύνῃ τὰ συμβάντα παθεῖν.

id. ib. § 207.

(26) οὐκ ἂν οἶα σὺ νῦν ἔλεγες, τοιαῦτα κατηγορεῖ, παραδείγματα πλατῶν | καὶ ῥήματα καὶ σχήματα μιμούμενος κτλ.

id. ib. § 232.

id. ib. § 272.

Here may be added, from R. Y. Tyrrell's edition of Eurip. Bacchae, an interesting note suggested by the distance which parts μόσχων from ἀγελαῖα βοσκήματα in Bacch. 678: "The Greek writers are not nearly so sensitive about the order of words as we are. Surely we have something at least as strange in the order of words in 684 where ἐλάτης certainly depends on φόβην not on νῶτα. See Comm. on 860 for more curious inversions of the natural order; and compare in Soph. Oed. R. 1251 χῶπως μὲν ἐκ τῶνδ' οὐκέτ' οἶδ' ἀπόλλυται; O.C. 1427 τίς δὲ τολμήσει κλύων | τὰ τοῦδ' ἔπεσθαι τάνδρος; Perhaps the best instance in Greek of a violent hyperbaton is Ar. Thesm. 811 οὐδ' ἂν κλέψασα γυνὴ ζεύγει κατὰ πεντήκοντα τάλαντα | ἐς πόλιν ἔλθοι τῶν δημοσίων 'nor would a lady ride in her chariot to the town after pilfering the public exchequer to the tune of 50 talents.'" Probably the Greek authors, in such instances, were not blind to the liberties they were taking with the natural and lucid order of words; but they trusted to delivery's artful aid. And about the order adopted in the passage quoted from the Thesmophoriazusae there seems to be a touch of intentional comedy.

It is worth notice, in connexion with Thucydides and word-order, that the Vatican manuscript B, which is at its best from vi. 92 to the end of viii., frequently exhibits an order of words which is peculiar to it and may point to a reviser's deliberate effort after greater lucidity. In reference to the text presented by the newly discovered Commentary on Thucydides ii., Grenfell and Hunt (Oxyrhynchus Papyri vi.) say: "As usual, the text of the papyrus is of an eclectic character and does not consistently agree with either family [of the MSS. of Thucydides]; but it supports the ABEFM group seven times against only four agreements with the other [viz. CG]. Several new readings occur of which we append a list."

With regard to the 27 passages quoted above from various authors it may be remarked in general that, while in some of them there are real obscurities, in others the ambiguity is purely grammatical. And it might almost be laid down as a principle of Greek language that grammatical rules may be freely neglected where the neglect of them does not make the meaning seriously ambiguous, and is desirable in order to secure emphasis, euphony, or some similar object.

APPENDIX B. ILLUSTRATIONS OF WORD-ORDER IN GREEK AND MODERN LANGUAGES

A few modern translations of some short Greek passages may be appended, in order to exemplify some of the leading differences, in regard to word-order, between ancient and modern languages. From these it will be seen how much English, French, and German differ among themselves; and, indeed, how great is the variety presented by good English versions of one and the same Greek passage. Dionysius himself (supra) refers to the opening of Plato's Republic, and that opening passage may here be given at sufficient length to illustrate sentence-order and clause-order as well as word-order. Then will be added, from the de Corona (which Dionysius regards as the greatest of all speeches), the opening, the conclusion, and a famous piece of narrative.

MODERN TRANSLATIONS

I. Opening of Plato's Republic

(1) Κατέβην χθὲς εἰς Πειραιᾶ μετὰ Γλαύκωνος τοῦ Ἀρίστωνος προσευξόμενός τε τῇ θεῷ καὶ ἅμα τὴν ἑορτὴν βουλόμενος θεάσασθαι τίνα τρόπον ποιήσουσιν ἅτε νῦν πρῶτον ἄγοντες. καλὴ μὲν οὖν μοι καὶ ἡ τῶν ἐπιχωρίων πομπὴ ἔδοξεν εἶναι, οὐ μέντοι ἦττον ἐφαίνετο πρέπειν ἢν οἱ Θοῤᾰκες ἔπεμπον. προσευξάμενοι δὲ καὶ θεωρήσαντες ἀπῆμεν πρὸς τὸ ἄστυ. κατιδὼν οὖν πόρρωθεν ἡμᾶς οἴκαδε ὠρμημένους Πολέμαρχος ὁ Κεφάλου ἐκέλευσε δραμόντα τὸν παῖδα περιμεῖναι ἐ κελεῦσαι. καὶ μου ὀπισθεν ὁ παῖς λαβόμενος τοῦ ἱματίου, Κελεύει ὑμᾶς, ἔφη, Πολέμαρχος περιμεῖναι. Καὶ ἐγὼ μετεστράφην τε καὶ ἡρόμην ὅπου αὐτὸς εἴη. Οὔτος, ἔφη, ὀπισθεν προσέρχεται· ἀλλὰ περιμένετε. Ἀλλὰ περιμενοῦμεν, ἦ δ' ὅς ὁ Γλαῦκων.

(2) J'étais descendu hier au Pirée avec Glaucon, fils d'Ariston, pour faire notre prière à la déesse et voir aussi comment se passerait la fête, car c'était la première fois qu'on la célébrait. La pompe, formée par nos compatriotes, me parut belle, et celle des Thraces ne l'était pas moins. Après avoir fait notre prière et vu la cérémonie, nous regagnâmes le chemin de la ville. Comme nous nous dirigions de ce côté, Polémarque, fils de Céphale, nous aperçut de loin, et dit à son esclave de courir après nous et de nous prier de l'attendre. Celui-ci m'arrêtant par derrière par mon manteau: Polémarque, dit-il, vous prie de l'attendre. Je me retourne et lui demande où est son maître: Le voilà qui me suit, attendez-le un moment. Eh bien, dit Glaucon, nous l'attendrons.

Victor Cousin.

hatten, gingen wir fort nach der Stadt. Wie nun Polemarchos, der Sohn des Kephalos, uns von fern nach Hause zu steigen sah, hiess er seinen Knaben laufen und uns heissen, ihn erwarten. Der Knabe also fasste mich von hinten beim Mantel und sprach: Polemarchos heisst Euch, ihn erwarten. Ich wendete mich um und fragte, wo denn er selbst wäre. Hier, sprach er, kommt er hinter Euch, wartet nur. Nun ja, wir wollen warten, sagte Glaukon.

Friedrich Schleiermacher.

(4) I went down yesterday to the Piraeus with Glaucon the son of Ariston, to offer up prayer to the goddess, and also from a wish to see how the festival, then to be held for the first time, would be celebrated. I was very much pleased with the native Athenian procession; though that of the Thracians appeared to be no less brilliant. We had finished our prayers and satisfied our curiosity, and were returning to the city, when Polemarchus the son of Cephalus caught sight of us at a distance, as we were on our way towards home, and told his servant to run and bid us wait for him. The servant came behind me, took hold of my cloak, and said, 'Polemarchus bids you wait.' I turned round and asked him where his master was. 'There he is,' he replied, 'coming on behind: pray wait for him.' 'We will wait,' answered Glaucon.

Davies and Vaughan.

(5) I went down yesterday to the Piraeus with Glaucon the son of Ariston, that I might offer up my prayers to the goddess; and also because I wanted to see in what manner they would celebrate the festival, which was a new thing. I was delighted with the procession of the inhabitants; but that of the Thracians was equally, if not more, beautiful. When we had finished our prayers and viewed the spectacle, we turned in the direction of the city; and at that instant Polemarchus the son of Cephalus chanced to catch sight of us from a distance as we were starting on our way home, and told his servant to run and bid us wait for him. The servant took hold of me by the cloak behind, and said: Polemarchus desires you to wait. I turned round, and asked him where his master was. There he is, said the youth, coming after you, if you will only wait. Certainly we will, said Glaucon.

B. Jowett.

(6) I went down to the Peiraeus yesterday with Glaucon, the son of Ariston. As this was the first celebration of the festival, I wished to make my prayers to the goddess and see the ceremony. I liked the procession of the residents, but I thought that the Thracian ordered theirs quite as successfully. We had offered our prayers and finished our sight-seeing, and were leaving for the city, when from some way off, Polemarchus, the son of Cephalus, saw that we were starting homewards, and sent his slave to run after us and bid us wait. The lad caught my cloak from behind and said: 'Polemarchus bids you wait.' I turned round and asked him where his master was. 'He is coming behind,' he said; 'but will you please wait?' 'Surely we will,' said Glaucon.

II. Opening of Demosthenes' Speech on the Crown

(1) Πρῶτον μὲν, ὦ ἄνδρες Ἀθηναῖοι, τοῖς θεοῖς εὐχομαι πᾶσι καὶ πάσαις, ὅσῃν εὖνοιαν ἔχων ἐγὼ διατελῶ τῇ τε πόλει καὶ πᾶσιν ὑμῖν, τοσαύτην ὑπάρξαι μοι παρ' ὑμῶν εἰς τουτονὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα, ἔπειθ' ὅπερ ἐστὶ μάλισθ' ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν καὶ τῆς ὑμετέρας εὐσεβείας τε καὶ δόξης, τοῦτο παραστῆσαι τοὺς θεοὺς ὑμῖν, μὴ τὸν ἀντίδικον σύμβουλον ποιήσασθαι περὶ τοῦ πῶς ἀκούειν ὑμᾶς ἐμοῦ δεῖ (σχέτλιον γὰρ ἂν εἶη τοῦτό γε), ἀλλὰ τοὺς νόμους καὶ τὸν ὄρκον, ἐν ᾧ πρὸς ἅπασιν τοῖς ἄλλοις δικαίοις καὶ τοῦτο γέγραπται, τὸ ὁμοίως ἀμφοῖν ἀκροάσασθαι. τοῦτο δ' ἐστὶν οὐ μόνον τὸ μὴ προκατεγνώσκοναι μηδέν, οὐδὲ τὸ τὴν εὖνοιαν ἴσῃν ἀποδοῦναι, ἀλλὰ τὸ καὶ τῇ τάξει καὶ τῇ ἀπολογίᾳ, ὡς βεβούληται καὶ προήρηται τῶν ἀγωνιζομένων ἕκαστος, οὕτως ἔἰσαι χρήσασθαι.

(2) Athéniens, j'adresse d'abord une prière à tous les dieux, à toutes les déesses. Si j'ai toujours voulu le bien de la république et de vous tous, fassent ces dieux qu'aujourd'hui, dans cette lutte, je trouve en vous la même bienveillance! Puissent-ils vous persuader aussi, comme le veulent votre intérêt, votre religion, votre gloire, que, sur la manière de m'entendre, ce n'est pas mon adversaire qu'il est juste de consulter, — ma condition en deviendrait trop dure, — ce sont les lois et votre serment! Votre serment, où sont écrites ces paroles, pleines d'équité, comme tout le reste: écouter également les deux parties. Cela ne veut pas dire seulement: nous n'apporterons aucune prévention, et nous donnerons à tous deux une faveur égale. Cela veut dire aussi: nous ne contraindrons personne, ni dans la disposition de ses moyens ni dans l'ordre de sa défense; quel que soit le plan adopté par celui qui vient plaider sa cause, nous lui permettrons de le suivre en toute liberté.

Rodolphe Dareste.

(3) Für das Erste, Ihr Männer Athens, flehe ich alle Götter und Göttinnen an, dass so viel Wohlwollen, als ich jederzeit der Stadt und Euch allen bewiesen, mir in gleichem Maasse von Euch für den gegenwärtigen Handel zu Theil werde; dann, dass die Götter Euch das in den Sinn geben, was Euch und Euerm Gewissen und Ansehn am meisten ziemt: nicht von dem Gegner Rath zu nehmen, wie Ihr mich anhören sollt — denn arg wäre das — sondern von den Gesetzen und dem Eide, in welchem, ausser allen andern Rechten, auch diess verordnet ist: beiden Parteien auf gleiche Weise Gehör zu geben. Diess heisst aber nicht bloss, keine Meinung vorher zu fassen; auch nicht, beiden gleiches Wohlwollen zu schenken; sondern ebenfalls, Jedem der Streitenden diejenige Anordnung und Vertheidigungsart zu gestatten, die er gut gefunden und gewählt hat.

Friedrich Jacobs.

(4) I begin, men of Athens, by praying to every God and Goddess, that the same goodwill, which I have ever cherished towards the commonwealth and all of you, may be requited to me on the present trial. I pray likewise — and this specially concerns yourselves, your religion, and your honour — that the Gods may put it in your minds, not to take counsel of my opponent touching the manner in which I am to be heard — that would indeed be cruel! — but of the laws and of your oath; wherein (besides the other obligations) it is prescribed that you shall hear both sides alike. This means, not only that you must pass no pre-condemnation, not only that you must extend your goodwill equally to both, but also that you must allow the parties to adopt such order and course of defence as they severally choose and prefer.

C. R. Kennedy.

III. Conclusion of Demosthenes' Speech on the Crown

(1) Μὴ δῆτ', ὦ πάντες θεοί, μηδεὶς ταῦθ' ὑμῶν ἐπινεύσειεν, ἀλλὰ μάλιστα μὲν καὶ τοῦτοις βελτίω τινὰ νοῦν καὶ φρένας ἐνθείητε, εἰ δ' ἄρ' ἔχουσιν ἀνιάτως, τούτους μὲν αὐτοὺς καθ' ἑαυτοὺς ἐξώλεις καὶ προώλεις ἐν γῇ καὶ θαλάττῃ ποιήσατε, ἡμῖν δὲ τοῖς λοιποῖς τὴν ταχίστην ἀπαλλαγὴν τῶν ἐπηρετμημένων φόβων δότε καὶ σωτηρίαν ἀσφαλῆ.

(2) Dieux puissants! n'écoutez pas ces vœux impies! inspirez plutôt à ces hommes un autre esprit et des pensées meilleures! Ou, si leur méchanceté est incurable, frappez-les, exterminatez-les sur terre et sur mer. Pour nous, délivrez-nous au plus tôt des dangers qui nous menacent, sauvez-nous, protégez-nous à jamais!

R. Dareste.

F. Jacobs.

(4) Never, Powers of Heaven, may any brow of the Immortals be bent in approval of that prayer! Rather, if it may be, breathe even into these men a better mind and heart; but if so it is that to these can come no healing, then grant that these, and these alone, may perish utterly and early on land and on the deep: and to us, the remnant, send the swiftest deliverance from the terrors gathered above our heads, send us the salvation that stands fast perpetually.

R. C. Jebb.

(5) Never, ye gods, vouchsafe assent to such a prayer! Rather, if it may be, inspire even these men with a better mind and heart; but, if they are indeed past healing, bring them, and them alone, to swift and utter ruin by land and sea; and to us who yet remain grant the speediest release from the terrors that hang over us; grant us a sure salvation!

IV. Narrative Passage from Demosthenes' Speech on the Crown

δειπνοῦντες τοὺς τ' ἐκ τῶν σκηνῶν τῶν κατὰ τὴν ἀγορὰν ἐξεῖργον καὶ τὰ γέρρ' ἐνεπίμπρασαν, οἱ δὲ τοὺς στρατηγοὺς μετεπέμποντο καὶ τὸν σαλπικτὴν ἐκάλουν· καὶ θορύβου πλήρης ἦν ἡ πόλις. τῇ δ' ὑστεραία, ἅμα τῇ ἡμέρᾳ, οἱ μὲν πρυτάνεις τὴν βουλὴν ἐκάλουν εἰς τὸ βουλευτήριον, ὑμεῖς δ' εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἐπορεύεσθε, καὶ πρὶν ἐκείνην χρηματίσαι καὶ προβουλευσάι πᾶς ὁ δῆμος ἄνω κάθητο. καὶ μετὰ ταῦτα ὡς ἤλθεν ἡ βουλὴ καὶ ἀπήγγειλαν οἱ πρυτάνεις τὰ προσηγγελέμην' ἑαυτοῖς καὶ τὸν ἥκοντα παρήγαγον· κἀκεῖνος εἶπεν, ἡρώτα μὲν ὁ κῆρυξ “τίς ἀγορεύειν βούλεται;” παρήει δ' οὐδεὶς. πολλάκις δὲ τοῦ κήρυκος ἐρωτῶντος οὐδὲν μᾶλλον ἀνίστατ' οὐδεὶς, ἀπάντων μὲν τῶν στρατηγῶν παρόντων, ἀπάντων δὲ τῶν ῥητόρων, καλούσης δὲ τῆς κοινῆς τῆς πατρίδος φωνῆς τὸν ἐροῦνθ' ὑπὲρ σωτηρίας· ἦν γὰρ ὁ κῆρυξ κατὰ τοὺς νόμους φωνὴν ἀφήσι, ταύτην κοινὴν τῆς πατρίδος δίκαιον ἡγεῖσθαι.

R. Dareste.

(3) Es war Abend. Da kam Einer mit der Meldung zu den Prytanen, dass Elateia eingenommen sey. Hierauf standen diese sogleich von der Mahlzeit auf, trieben die Leute aus den Buden auf dem Markte fort, und steckten das Holzwerk davon in Brand; andere schickten nach den Strategen, und riefen den Trompeter herbei. Die Stadt war in grösster Bewegung. Am folgenden Morgen, bei Tages Anbruch, riefen die Prytanen den Senat auf das Stadthaus, Ihr aber begabt Euch in die Versammlung, und ehe der Senat noch sein Geschäft vollbracht und einen vorläufigen Beschluss gefasst hatte, sass das ganze Volk schon oben. Und als hierauf der Senat eintrat, und die Prytanen das, was ihnen gemeldet worden war, öffentlich bekannt machten, und den Überbringer der Nachricht vorführten, und auch dieser gesprochen hatte, fragte der Herold: Wer will sprechen? Niemand aber meldete sich. Wiewohl nun der Herold seine Frage oft wiederholte, trat darum, doch Keiner auf, obgleich alle Strategen gegenwärtig waren, und alle Redner und das Vaterland mit gemeinsamer Stimme einen Sprecher für seine Rettung aufrief; denn die Stimme, die der Herold dem Gesetze gemäss ertönen lässt, kann mit allem Rechte für die Stimme des gesammten Vaterlandes gehalten werden.

F. Jacobs.

(4) It was evening when a courier came to the presidents of the assembly with the news that Elateia had been seized. The presidents instantly rose from table — they were supping at the moment: some of them hastened to clear the market-place of the shopmen, and to burn the wickerwork of the booths: others, to send for the generals and order the sounding of the call to the Assembly. The city was in a tumult. At dawn next day the presidents convoked the Senate, you hurried to the Ekklesia, and before the Senate could go through its forms or could report, the whole people were in assembly on the hill. Then, when the Senate had come in, when the presidents had reported the news that they had received, and had introduced the messenger, who told his tale, the herald repeatedly asked, Who wishes to speak? But no one came forward. Again and again he put the question — in vain. No one would rise, though all the generals, though all the public speakers were present, though our Country was crying aloud, with the voice that comes home to all, for a champion of the commonwealth — if in the solemn invitation given by the herald we may truly deem that we hear our Country's summons.

APPENDIX C. GREEK PRONUNCIATION: SCHEME OF THE CLASSICAL ASSOCIATION

In October 1908 the Classical Association adopted a number of recommendations made by its Greek Pronunciation Committee, and has since published them for the use of teachers and others. They are put forward “not as constituting a complete scientific scheme, but as approximations which, for teaching purposes, may be regarded as practicable, and at the same time as a great advance on the present usage, both for clearness in teaching and for actual likeness to the ancient sounds.” The period (the early fourth century B.C.) to which they are intended mainly to apply is one whose literature Dionysius studied rather than that in which he lived (cp. pages 43-46 above). But his scattered hints are of great moment in the whole inquiry; and if they are read with care and with reference to their bearing, not only on disputed points, but on points which (largely through the evidence they furnish) are undisputed, it will be seen how much we owe to them when making any attempt to reconstruct the pronunciation of the classical period. The principal passages of Dionysius’ text which throw light upon the question of Greek pronunciation and accentuation will be found on pages 126-130, 136-150, 218-224, 230 above. The following are the suggestions made by the Classical Association: — ᾱ and α, ῑ and ι, ε and ο, η and ω may be pronounced as the corresponding vowels in Latin, i.e.

ᾱ, as a in father, α, as a in aha.

ι, as i in Fr. piquet, nearly as Eng. i in fit.

η (long e), as e in Lat. mēta, Eng. a in mate.

ω (long o), as o in Lat. Rōma, Eng. home.

The pronunciation recommended for η and ω is dictated by practical considerations. But in any school where the pupils have been accustomed to distinguish the sounds of French è and é, the Committee feels that the open sound (of è in il mène), which is historically correct for η, may well be adopted. In the same way there is no doubt that the pronunciation of ω in the fifth century B.C. was the open sound of oa in Eng. broad, not that of the ordinary English ō. But since the precise degree of openness varied at different epochs, the Committee, though preferring the open pronunciation, sees no sufficient reason for excluding the obviously convenient practice of sounding ω just as Latin ō. For both Greek and Latin the diphthongal character of the English vowels in mate and home, i.e. the slight ĩ sound in mate and the slight ũ sound in home, own, is incorrect. But the discrepancy is not one which any but fairly advanced students need be asked to notice, unless indeed they happen to be already familiar with the pure vowel sounds of modern Welsh or Italian.

Ū as French ũ in rue or Germ. ũ in grün.

In recommending this sound for the Greek υ, the Committee is partly guided by the fact that its correct production is now widely and successfully taught in English schools in early stages of instruction in French and German. But in any school where the sound is strange to the pupils at the stage at which Greek is begun, if it is felt that the effort to acquire the sound would involve a serious hindrance to progress, the Committee can only suggest that, for the time, the υ should be pronounced as Latin u (short as oo in Eng. took, long as oo in Eng. loose), though this obscures the distinction between words like λύω and λοῦω.

Diphthongs

οι = ο + ι as Eng. oi in oil.

υι = υ + ι as Fr. ui in lui.

In α, η, ω the first vowel was long, and the second only faintly heard.

ει. The precise sound of ει is difficult to determine, but in Attic Greek it was never confused with η till a late period, and to maintain the distinction clearly it is perhaps best for English students to pronounce it as Eng. eye, though in fact it must have been nearer to Fr. ée in passée, Eng. ey in grey. The Greek Ἀλφειός is Latin Alphēus.

Consonants

π, β, τ, δ, κ, and γ as p, b, t, d, k, and g respectively in Latin; except that γ (before γ, κ, and χ) is used to denote the nasal sound heard in Eng. ankle, anger.

ρ, λ, μ, ν as Lat. r, l, m, n.

σ, ζ always as Lat. s (Eng. s in mouse), except before β, γ and μ, where the sound was as in Eng. has been, has gone, has made: e.g. ἄσβεστος, φάσγανον, ἔσμός.

ξ as Eng. x in wax, and ψ as Eng. ps in lapse.

ζ as Eng. dz in adze, ds in treads on.

Aspirates

The Committee has carefully considered the pronunciation of the aspirated consonants in Greek. It is certain that the primitive pronunciation of χ, θ, φ was as k.h, t.h, p.h, that is as k, t, p followed by a strong breath, and the Committee is not prepared to deny that this pronunciation lasted down into the classical period. Further, there is no doubt that the adoption of this pronunciation makes much in Greek accidence that is otherwise obscure perfectly comprehensible. If φαίνω be pronounced πθαίνω, it is readily understood why the reduplicated perfect is πεπληνᾶ; but if it be pronounced φαινω, the perfect, pronounced πεψηνα, is anomalous. The relation of ἀφίστημι and the like to ἵστημι, of φροῦδος to ὁδός, of θρίξ to τρίχα becomes intelligible when it is seen that θ, φ, and χ contain a real h-sound. This advantage seems to be one of the reasons why it has been adopted in practice by a certain number of English teachers.

In the course of time the pronunciation of the aspirates changed by degrees to that of fricatives, which is now current in most districts of Greece, φ becoming f, θ pronounced as th, in English thin, and χ acquiring the sound of the German ch.

If the later sounds are accepted, no change in the common pronunciation of θ and φ in England will be required, but it will remain desirable to distinguish between the sounds of κ and χ, which are at present confused: ἄκος and ἄχος, καίνω and χαίνω being now pronounced alike. This may be done by giving χ the sound of kh, or of German ch, as in auch. The Committee would, on the whole, recommend the latter alternative as being more familiar in German, Scotch, and Irish place-names.

The Committee, though loath to do anything to discourage the primitive pronunciation of the aspirates, has not been able to satisfy itself that it would be easy to introduce this pronunciation into schools to which it is strange; and it is of opinion that it is not advisable to recommend anything at present that might increase the labour of the teacher or the student of Greek. It therefore abstains from recommending any change in the common pronunciation of the aspirates except in the case of χ.

Accentuation

There is no doubt that in the Classical period of Greek the accented syllables were marked by a higher pitch or note than the unaccented, and not by more stress, not, that is, with a stronger current of breath and more muscular effort. Therefore, unless the student is capable of giving a musical value to the Greek signs of accent, it is doubtful whether he should attempt to represent them in pronunciation; for in many cases we should make our pronunciation more, not less remote from that of the Greeks themselves if we gave to their accented syllables the same stress as we do to the accented syllables in English; for example, in paroxytone dactyls (κεχρημένος) when the penult is stressed, the quantity of the long antepenult is apt to be shortened and its metrical value destroyed. But where there is no conflict between accent and quantity (ἀγαθός), something may be said for stressing moderately the accented syllable, and so distinguishing e.g. καλῶς and κάλως, Διός and δῖος, ταῦτά and ταῦτα.

DIONYSIUS TO HIS FRIEND AMMAEUS

I

Our age has produced many strange paradoxes; and among them I was inclined to class the following proposition when I first heard it from yourself. You said that a certain Peripatetic philosopher, in his desire to do all homage to Aristotle the founder of his school, undertook to demonstrate that it was from him that Demosthenes learnt the rules of rhetoric which he applied in his own speeches, and that it was through conformity to the Aristotelian precepts that he became the foremost of all orators. Now my first impression was that this bold disputant was a person of no consequence, and I advised you not to pay heed to every chance paradox. But when on hearing his name I found him to be a man whom I respect on account of his high personal qualities and his literary merits, I did not know what to think; and after careful reflection I felt that the matter needed a more attentive inquiry. It was possible that I had failed to discern the truth and that he had not spoken at random. I wished, therefore, either to relinquish my previous opinion if convinced that the Rhetoric of Aristotle preceded the speeches of Demosthenes, or to induce the person who has adopted this view, and is prepared to put it in writing, to change it before giving his treatise to the world.

II

You have yourself furnished me with a powerful motive for a thorough investigation of the truth. For you have invited me to state the arguments by which I have convinced myself that it was not till Demosthenes had reached his prime, and had delivered his most celebrated speeches, that Aristotle wrote his Rhetoric. And you seemed to me, further, to be right in counselling me not to rest my case on mere indications or probabilities or pieces of extraneous evidence, since no such proof is absolutely conclusive, but rather to bring forward Aristotle himself as witnessing by means of his own treatise to the truth of my view. This I have done, my dear Ammaeus, out of regard not only for the truth, which I think ought to be fully sifted in every issue, but for the satisfaction of all who are interested in civil oratory. I would not have them think that all the precepts of rhetoric are included in the Peripatetic philosophy, and that nothing important has been devised by men such as Theodorus and Thrasyarchus and Antiphon, nor by Isocrates and Anaximenes and Alcidamas, nor by their contemporaries who composed rhetorical handbooks and engaged in oratorical contests — such men as Theodectes and Philiscus and Isaeus and Cephisodorus, together with Hyperides and Lycurgus and Aeschines. Nor would I have it thought that Demosthenes himself, who surpassed all his predecessors and contemporaries and defies the rivalry of the ages, would not have risen so high if he had only obeyed the precepts of Isocrates and Isaeus and had not mastered the Rhetoric of Aristotle

III

‘That story is not true,’ my dear Ammaeus, nor did the Rhetoric of Aristotle, which was issued at a later date, govern the composition of the speeches of Demosthenes. These were indebted to other teachers, concerning whom I will state my views in a separate work, since the subject needs full discussion and could not well be treated by the way. Meanwhile I will endeavour to show that, at the time when Aristotle wrote his Rhetoric, Demosthenes was already at the height of his public career and had delivered his most celebrated speeches, forensic and deliberative, and was famous throughout Greece for his eloquence. And perhaps I ought first of all to mention the facts I have taken from the current histories, which the compilers of biographies have bequeathed to us. I will begin with Demosthenes.

IV

Demosthenes was born in the year preceding the hundredth Olympiad. In the archonship of Timocrates he had entered upon his seventeenth year....He commenced to write public speeches in the archonship of Callistratus, when twenty-five years of age. The first of his forensic speeches is that against Androtion, written for Diodorus, who was arraigning the proposal of Androtion as unconstitutional. Another belonging to the same period — that of the archonship of Callistratus — is the speech on the Exemptions. This he delivered himself; it is the most graceful and the best written of all his speeches. Under Diotimus, who succeeded Callistratus, he pronounced before the Athenians his first parliamentary oration, that entitled On the Navy Boards in the bibliographical lists of the orators. In this speech he urged the Athenians not to break the peace concluded with the Persian King nor be the first to make war, unless they should have organised their navy, in which their chief strength lay. He himself suggests a method of organisation. Under Thudemus, who succeeded Diotimus as archon, he wrote the speech Against Timocrates for the use of Diodorus, who was prosecuting Timocrates as the proposer of an unconstitutional measure. The oration On the Relief of the Megalopolitans he delivered himself in the assembly. Thudemus was succeeded by Aristodemus, in whose archonship Demosthenes began his orations against Philip, and delivered a speech before the people on the dispatch of the mercenary force and of the flying squadron of ten galleys to Macedonia. At this time he also wrote his speech Against Aristocrates for Euthycles, who was arraigning an unconstitutional proposal. Under Theellus, who came next after Aristodemus, he delivered his oration On the Rhodians, in which he sought to persuade the Athenians to abolish the Rhodian oligarchy and enfranchise the commons. Under Callimachus, the second archon in succession to Theellus, he delivered three orations, urging the Athenians to send re-inforcements to the Olynthians, against whom war was being waged by Philip. The first begins, 'In many instances, men of Athens, one may see'; the second, 'Not the same thoughts present themselves to my mind, men of Athens'; the third, 'You would, men of Athens, give a great price.' During this same archonship was written the speech Against Meidias which Demosthenes composed after the vote of censure passed on Meidias by the people.

I have so far mentioned twelve public speeches, seven of the deliberative, five of the forensic order. All of these are earlier than the Rhetoric of Aristotle, as I will prove both from what others relate concerning that author and from his own writings. I begin with his biography.

Aristotle was the son of Nicomachus, who traced his pedigree and his profession to Machaon, the son of Aesculapius. His mother, Phaestis, was descended from one of those who led the colony to Stageira from Chalcis. He was born in the ninety-ninth Olympiad, when Diotrephes was archon at Athens, and was, therefore, three years older than Demosthenes. In the archonship of Polyzelus, after his father's death, he went to Athens, being then eighteen years of age. Having been introduced to the society of Plato, he spent a period of twenty years with him. Upon Plato's death, in the archonship of Theophilus, he repaired to Hermias, despot of Atarneus, and after spending three years with him retired to Mytilene in the archonship of Eubulus. Thence he proceeded, during the archonship of Pythodotus, to the court of Philip, and spent eight years there as Alexander's tutor. After the death of Philip, in the archonship of Evaenetus, he returned to Athens, and taught in the Lyceum for a space of twelve years. In the thirteenth year, after the death of Alexander in the archonship of Cephisodorus, he betook himself to Chalcis, where he fell ill and died at the age of sixty-three.

Such, then, are the records transmitted to us by the biographers of Aristotle. What the philosopher says of himself in his own writings completely cuts away the ground beneath the feet of those who wish to assign him honours to which he is not entitled. In addition to many other proofs, none of which I need recall at present, there is the passage he has written in the First Book of the treatise in question. Here we have the strongest evidence that he was no stripling when he composed the Rhetoric, but in the prime of life, having previously published his treatises the Topics, the Analytics, and the Methodics. At the commencement of the section in which he sets forth the advantages embraced in the art of rhetoric, he has the following words which are here quoted as they stand: 'Rhetoric is useful because truth and justice are, by nature, stronger than their opposites. If, therefore, judicial trials do not end as they should, a man's defeat must be due to himself; and this is deserving of censure. Moreover, in addressing some audiences, it is not easy, even when we possess the most exact and methodical knowledge, to carry conviction by means of it For methodical statement is a kind of instruction; and instruction is here out of the question. But in our proofs and arguments we must make use of processes understood by all, as we remarked in the Topics when treating of the manner of addressing the multitude.

In the passage in which he sets himself to show that 'examples' and 'enthymemes' are equivalent to 'inductions' and 'syllogisms,' Aristotle has the following references to his Analytics and his Methodics. 'Of proofs obtained by real or apparent demonstration there are, in Dialectic, these varieties: induction, syllogism, and apparent syllogism. So also in Rhetoric, where example corresponds to induction, enthymeme to syllogism, and apparent enthymeme to apparent syllogism. By "enthymeme" I mean a rhetorical syllogism, and by "example" a rhetorical induction. Everyone relies for demonstrative proof in Rhetoric upon examples and enthymemes; upon these and these only. If, therefore, it is absolutely necessary that whatever is proved should be proved either by syllogism or by induction — and this is plain to us from the Analytics — it follows of necessity that enthymeme and example are respectively identical with syllogism and induction. The difference between example and enthymeme is clear from the Topics. In that work we have already said, when treating of syllogism and induction, that the proving of a rule in many similar instances is called an induction in Dialectic and an example in Rhetoric; while the conclusion that from certain premisses something different follows, because of these and owing to the fact that these are true either universally or as a general rule, is called a syllogism in Dialectic and an enthymeme in Rhetoric. It is evident that each form of rhetorical argument has its own strong points, the statement made in the Methodics holding good here also.' In writing thus Aristotle has given unequivocal evidence about himself to the effect that he composed the Rhetoric in his later years and after the publication of his most important treatises. These are the proofs by which I think I have sufficiently demonstrated what I proposed to make clear, that the orator had practised the art of speaking before the philosopher had formulated the theory. In fact, Demosthenes began at the age of twenty-five to engage in public affairs, to address the assembly, and to write speeches for the law-courts. About the same period Aristotle was still a disciple of Plato, and he lived to be seven-and-thirty without any school to lead and without any body of personal adherents.

VIII

Possibly, however, some captious critic will raise an objection even in the face of these conclusions. He may admit that the Rhetoric was written later than the Analytiks and Methodics and Topics, but maintain that Aristotle may very well have composed all these treatises while still a disciple in the school of Plato. Such a contention is absurdly improbable; it is a violent attempt to commend the wretched paradox that it is likely that the unlikely may at times occur. Omitting, therefore, what I could have said in reply, I turn to the pieces of evidence which Aristotle himself furnishes in the Third Book of the Rhetoric, where he has these words (here quoted word for word) on the subject of metaphor: 'Of the four kinds of metaphor, the proportional are the most in repute. It is thus that Pericles compared the loss of the youth of a state in war to taking the spring out of the year....So also, when Chares was eager to have his conduct in the Olynthian War submitted to a scrutiny, Cephisodotus impatiently exclaimed that he wanted to secure such a scrutiny while he had the people by the throat.'

IX

Thus does the philosopher himself clearly prove that he wrote the Rhetoric after the Olynthian War. Now that war took place in the archonship of Callimachus, as Philochorus shows in the Sixth Book of his Atthis, where his words (exactly given) are: 'Callimachus of the deme Pergase. In his time the Olynthians, attacked by Philip, sent ambassadors to Athens. The Athenians made an alliance with them — and sent to their aid two thousand targeteers, and thirty galleys under the command of Chares, as well as eight others which they put into commission for the occasion.' Next, after describing the few intervening events, he proceeds: 'About the same time the Chalcidians of the Thracian seaboard were harassed by the war and sent an embassy to Athens. The Athenians dispatched to their assistance Charidemus, who held command in the Hellespont. Charidemus brought with him eighteen galleys and four thousand targeteers and a hundred and fifty horsemen. Supported by the Olynthians, he advanced into Pallene and Bottiaea, and ravaged the country.' Later on he writes thus on the subject of the third alliance: 'The Olynthians sent a fresh embassy to the Athenians, begging them not to see them irretrievably ruined, but to send out, in addition to the troops already there, a force consisting not of mercenaries but of Athenian citizens. Thereupon the Athenian people sent them other seventeen galleys, together with two thousand heavy-armed infantry and three hundred horsemen conveyed in transports, the whole force being composed of citizens. The entire expedition was under the command of Chares.'

Enough has been already said to expose the vain pretensions of those who affirm that the Rhetoric of Aristotle inspired Demosthenes. Before the date of the Rhetoric, Demosthenes had already delivered four orations against Philip and three on the affairs of Greece. He had also written for the law-courts five public speeches, which no one could brand as inferior, poor, and showing no signs of technical mastery, because composed earlier than the Rhetoric. Having, however, advanced thus far, I shall not halt, but show that his most famous speeches generally, whether addressed to the people or to the law-courts, had been delivered before the publication of the Rhetoric. Once more Aristotle himself shall be my witness. After the archonship of Callimachus, in whose year of office the Athenians sent their reinforcements to Olynthus at the instance of Demosthenes, came the archonship of Theophilus, in whose time Olynthus fell into the hands of Philip. Next came Themistocles, under whom Demosthenes pronounced the fifth of his orations against Philip. This speech, which is concerned with the protection of the islanders and the cities of the Hellespont, begins as follows: ‘This, men of Athens, is what I have been able to contrive.’ Under Archias, the successor of Themistocles, Demosthenes urged the Athenians not to attempt to hinder Philip from becoming a member of the Amphietyonic Council, nor to give him an occasion for reopening the war, now that they had recently made peace with him. This oration begins thus: ‘I see, men of Athens, that the present crisis.’ Archias was succeeded by Eubulus, and he by Lyciscus. It was in Lyciscus’ year of office that Demosthenes pronounced the seventh of his orations against Philip. He there replies to the envoys from the Peloponnese, and begins thus: ‘When, men of Athens, speeches are made.’ The next archon to Lyciscus was Pythodotus, under whom Demosthenes replied to the envoys of Philip by the delivery of the eighth of the orations which bear the king’s name. The opening of this speech is: ‘It is not possible, men of Athens, that the accusations.’ At the same time he also composed the speech against Aeschines, who had to render an account of his conduct in the second embassy, the object of which was to bind Philip by oaths. The successor of Pythodotus was Sosigenes, under whom he delivered the ninth oration against Philip, that on the soldiers in the Chersonese, the aim of which was to prevent the disbandment of the mercenaries commanded by Diopieithes. This begins:

‘It would be best, men of Athens, that all public speakers.’ Under the same archon he delivered the tenth speech, in which he endeavoured to show that Philip was violating the peace and was the aggressor in the war. The speech begins:

‘Although many speeches, men of Athens, are made.’ After Sosigenes the next archon was Nicomachus, in whose time he delivered the eleventh oration, on the subject of the violation of the peace by Philip, and urged the Athenians to send reinforcements to the people of Byzantium. It begins:

‘Serious as I consider, men of Athens.’ In the archonship of Theophrastus, who followed Nicomachus, Demosthenes urged the Athenians to sustain the war bravely, Philip having already declared it This, the last of the orations against Philip, opens thus: ‘The fact that Philip did not, men of Athens, make peace with you, but only deferred the war.’

XI

To show that all the speeches I have enumerated were delivered by Demosthenes before the publication of the Rhetoric of Aristotle, I will bring forward Aristotle himself as witness. In the course of the passage in the Second Book of the Rhetoric, in which he defines the topics from which enthymemes are derived, he deals with that of time and illustrates it by examples. I will quote his actual words. ‘Another topic has reference to time. For example, Iphicrates in defending himself against Harmodius said, “If before rendering these services I had claimed the statue in the event of rendering them, you would have granted it. Will you refuse it, when they are already rendered? Nay, do not promise a reward in anticipation, and withhold it after realisation.” Again, with the object of inducing the Thebans to allow Philip a passage through their territory into Attica, it might be urged that if he had made the demand before he helped them against the Phocians they would have promised, and it would therefore be a scandal if they refused the request now because he then trusted to their honour and forbore to extort pledges.’

Now the date at which Philip called upon the Thebans to grant him a passage into Attica reminding them of his help in the Phocian War, is clear from known facts. The circumstances were as follows. In the archonship of Themistocles, after the capture of Olynthus, Philip made a treaty of friendship and alliance with the Athenians. This covenant lasted seven years, till the year of Nicomachus. It was brought to an end under the archon Theophrastus, who succeeded Nicomachus. The Athenians accused Philip of beginning the war, while Philip blamed the Athenians. The reasons for which the two parties, each of which claimed to be in the right, engaged in the war, and the date at which they violated the peace, are precisely indicated by Philochorus in the Sixth Book of his Atthis, from which I will quote simply the essential particulars: ‘Theophrastus of the deme Halae. Under his archonship Philip, first of all, attacked Perinthus by sea. Failing here, he next laid siege to Byzantium and brought engines of war against it.’ Afterwards he recounts the allegations which Philip made against the Athenians in his letter, and adds these words which I quote as they stand: ‘The people, after listening to the letter and to the exhortations of Demosthenes, who advocated war and framed the necessary resolutions, passed a resolution to demolish the column erected to record the treaty of peace and alliance with Philip, and further to man a fleet and in every other way to prosecute the war energetically.’

After assigning these events to the archonship of Theophrastus, he describes the occurrences of the succeeding year when Lysimachides was archon after the violation of the peace. Here again I will quote only the most essential particulars. 'Lysimachides of the deme Achamae. Under this archon the Athenians, in consequence of the war against Philip, deferred the construction of the docks and the arsenal. They resolved, on the motion of Demosthenes, that all the funds should be devoted to the campaign. But Philip seized Elateia and Cytinium, and sent to Thebes representatives of the Thessalians, Aenianians, Aetolians, Dolopians, Phthiotians. An embassy, headed by Demosthenes, was at the same time despatched by the Athenians, with whom the Thebans resolved to enter into alliance.' Now it is clear that it was under the archonship of Lysimachides, when both sides had already made preparations for war, that the Athenian envoys headed by Demosthenes and those sent by Philip. entered Thebes Demosthenes himself, in his speech On the Crown, will show clearly what were the claims preferred by the two embassies. I will quote from the actual text the parts which bear upon the question. 'By these means Philip sowed discord among the Greek states; and encouraged by the decrees and answers already mentioned, he came with his army and seized Elateia. He assumed that, whatever happened, we and the Thebans could never again act in concert.' Moreover, after describing the events which then ensued and describing also the speeches delivered by himself before the public assembly and the circumstances under which he was sent by the Athenians as an ambassador to Thebes, he adds (to quote his actual words): 'When we arrived at Thebes, we found representatives of Philip, of the Thessalians and of the rest of the allies, already there and our friends in a state of alarm, his full of confidence.' Then, after requesting a certain letter to be read, he continues: 'So when the Thebans had convened the assembly, they introduced Philip's representatives first, because they had the status of allies. And these came forward and addressed the people, paying many compliments to Philip, and laying to your charge many faults, recalling every instance in which you at any time opposed the Thebans. In brief, they urged them to show their gratitude for the favours conferred upon them by Philip, and to seek satisfaction for the wrongs done them by you. They might avenge themselves in either of the two following ways as they pleased; they might allow Philip's troops to pass through their territory to attack you, or they might join him in invading Attica.' Now if it was in the archonship of Lysimachides, the successor of Theophrastus, and after the peace had been dissolved, that the ambassadors of Philip were sent to the Thebans urging them to join in invading Attica, or (failing that) to allow Philip the right of passage in recognition of his services in the Phocian War, and if further this is the embassy mentioned by Aristotle, as I showed a little earlier when I cited his own words, then surely it is demonstrated by irrefutable proofs that all the speeches of Demosthenes which were addressed to public assemblies and to law-courts before the archonship of Lysimachides are earlier than the Rhetoric of Aristotle.

I will add another piece of evidence furnished by the philosopher, from which it will appear still more plainly that his Rhetoric was composed after the war which broke out between Philip and the Athenians, when Demosthenes had reached his prime as a statesman and had delivered all the deliberative and the forensic speeches which I mentioned a little while ago. Among the topics of enthymemes enumerated by him, the philosopher includes that of cause. I will adduce his own words. 'Another topic consists in regarding what is no cause as a cause, because (it may be) one thing happens with or after another. Post hoc is assumed to be identical with propter hoc; and this is specially the case in the world of politics. Demades, for example, considered the administration of Demosthenes to have caused all the troubles of the state, for it was thereafter that the war occurred.' Now what can the speeches have been which Demosthenes composed under the guidance of the Rhetoric of Aristotle if (as I have previously shown) all the public addresses on which his reputation and fame depend preceded the war? The sole exception is the speech On the Crown. This, and this alone, came before a tribunal after the war, in the archonship of Aristophon, eight years after the battle of Chaeroneia, six years after the death of Philip, at the time of Alexander's victory at Arbela.

If some captious critic suggests that possibly Demosthenes did not write this, the best of all his speeches, before he had perused the Rhetoric of Aristotle, I have much to say in reply to him. But in order that my discussion may not run to undue length, I engage to show, on the evidence of Aristotle himself, that this oration also was completed before the publication of the Rhetoric. In dealing with the topic of enthymemes derived from relative terms, he writes the exact words which follow. 'Another topic is that derived from relative terms. If the terms "honorably" or "justly" can be applied to the man who acts, they can also be applied to the man who is affected by the action; if they can be applied to a command, they can also be applied to its execution. In this spirit the tax-gatherer Diomedon exclaimed: "If it is no discredit to you to sell the taxes, it is no discredit to us to buy them." And if the terms "honorably" or "justly" can be applied to a man affected by an action, they can also be applied to the action itself and to the man who has done or is doing it. This is a case of unsound argument. For if a man has been justly treated, it does not necessarily follow that he has been justly treated by a particular agent. Accordingly we must consider separately whether the treatment is right and whether the action is right, and then deal with the case in whichever of the two ways seems the more suitable. For sometimes there is a distinction to be made, as in the Alcmaeon of Theodectes — Another example is the trial in which Demosthenes and those who slew Nicanor were involved.' What, then, is the trial of Demosthenes [and of those who slew Nicanor] to which Aristotle here refers, in which the most important point in the controversy was derived from the topic of relative terms? It is that in which he defended, against Aeschines, Ctesiphon, who had proposed to crown Demosthenes and was on his trial as the author of an unconstitutional measure. For in this case the point at issue was not the general question whether Demosthenes deserved honours and crowns as having provided for the construction of the fortifications out of his own means, but whether he deserved these things while he was an official liable to account, and notwithstanding the fact that it was illegal to crown men who were so liable. Here we have the topic of relative terms: the point is whether a man liable to account had the same right to receive, as the people to give, the crown. It is my opinion, therefore, that Aristotle refers to this trial. If, however, it is maintained that the reference is to the accusation of corruption against which Demosthenes pleaded in the archonship of Articles, about the time of the death of Alexander, this will prove that the Rhetoric of Aristotle is later than the speeches of Demosthenes by a still greater interval.

But enough. The orator did not derive from the philosopher the rules of rhetoric which he embodied in his celebrated speeches. On the contrary, Aristotle wrote his Rhetoric with the works of Demosthenes, and the other orators, within his reach. I have, I think, proved my point.

DIONYSIUS TO GNAEUS POMPEIUS

I

I have received with great pleasure the scholarly letter you sent me. Zeno, our common friend, has supplied you (so you write) with a copy of my treatises. In going through them and making them your own, on the whole you admire them, but are dissatisfied, you say, with one portion of their contents, namely, the criticism of Plato. Now you are right in the reverence you feel for that writer, but not right in your view of my position. You may rest assured that I must be numbered among those who have fallen most completely under the spell of Plato's gifts of expression. But I will explain to you my attitude towards all thinkers who are public benefactors and desire to reform our lives and words. And what is more, I mean to convince you that I have discovered nothing new, or startling, or contrary to the universally accepted view.

Now I think it is an author's duty, when he elects to write a panegyric of some achievement or some person, to give prominence to merits rather than to any deficiencies.

But when he wishes to determine what is most excellent in some walk of life and what is the best among a number of deeds of the same class, he ought to apply the most rigorous investigation and to take account of every quality whether good or bad. For this is the surest way of discovering truth, than which there is no more precious boon. So much premised, I make a further declaration. If there is any writing of mine which, like the work of Zoilus the rhetorician, contains an attack upon Plato, I plead guilty of impiety. And if when my design is to write a eulogy of him I interweave some fault-finding with my praises, I admit that I am in the wrong and am transgressing the laws by which eulogies are governed among us. For in my opinion they should not contain even vindications, much less detractions. On the other hand, when after undertaking to examine varieties of style, together with their foremost representatives among philosophers and orators, I chose from the entire number three who are generally held to be the most brilliant — Isocrates and Plato and Demosthenes — and among these again I gave the preference to Demosthenes, I thought I did no wrong either to Plato or to Isocrates.

That may be, you say, but you should not have exposed the faults of Plato, in your desire to extol Demosthenes. How then would my argument have undergone the most searching test had I not compared the best discourses of Isocrates and Plato with the finest of Demosthenes, and thus shown with the utmost candour in what respect their discourses are inferior to his, not maintaining that those two writers were always at fault (for that would be sheer lunacy), but not maintaining, either, that they were always and uniformly successful? If I had avoided this course, and had simply eulogised Demosthenes and detailed all his excellences, I should certainly have convinced my readers of the orator's worth; but unless I had compared him with the best of his rivals, I should not have proved that he holds the very first place among all who have distinguished themselves in oratory. For many things which in themselves are thought beautiful and worthy of admiration appear to fall short of their reputation when set side by side with other things that are better. Thus gold when contrasted with other gold is found to be superior or inferior, and this is true of all manufactured articles, and of all objects designed to produce a brilliant effect.

But if in the province of civil oratory the comparative method of inquiry be judged ungracious, and a demand made for the examination of each writer individually, the same restriction will inevitably be introduced everywhere. Poetry will no longer be compared with poetry, nor historical treatise with historical treatise, nor constitution with constitution, nor law with law, general with general, king with king, life with life, tenet with tenet. And yet no reasonable man would acquiesce in this. But if you need also the proofs which personal testimonies supply, to render it more plain to you that the best mode of examination is the comparative, I will pass over all others and appeal to Plato himself as my witness. Desiring to exhibit his own proficiency in civil oratory, he was not satisfied with the rest of his writings, but [in rivalry with] the foremost orator of the time, himself composed in the Phaedrus another speech with Love as its subject. Nor after advancing so far did he pause and leave to his readers to decide which speech was the better, but he actually assailed the faults of Lysias, allowing that he had excellences of style, but attacking his treatment of subject-matter. Since, therefore, Plato when engaging in the most vulgar and most invidious of tasks, that of praising himself in respect of his oratorical power, thought he was doing nothing blameworthy in claiming that his own speeches should be examined side by side with those of the best orator of the day, and in exhibiting the errors of Lysias and his own merits, what is there so astonishing in my comparison of the speeches of Plato with those of Demosthenes and my scrutiny of anything I found amiss in them? I forbear to quote from his writings generally, in which he attacks his predecessors, Parmenides, Hippias, Protagoras, Prodicus, Gorgias, Polus, Theodorus, Thrasyarchus and many others, not writing of them in a spirit of perfect fairness, but (you must pardon me for saying so) with a touch of vainglory. There was, there really was in Plato's nature, with all its excellences, something of vainglory. He showed this particularly in his jealousy of Homer, whom he expels from his imaginary commonwealth, after crowning him with a garland and anointing him with myrrh. Strange indeed to suppose that Homer needed such compliments in the hour of his expulsion, when it is through him that every refinement, and in the end philosophy itself, passed into human life! But let us suppose that Plato said all this in a spirit of perfect fairness and simply in the interest of truth. What, then, was there to excite surprise in our action when we obeyed his ordinances, and wished to compare the discourses of his successors with his own?

Furthermore, it will be seen that I am not the first and only critic that has ventured to speak his mind about Plato. Nor could anyone justly take me to task on the special ground that I essayed to examine the most distinguished of philosophers, and one more than a dozen generations earlier than myself, in the hope forsooth of obtaining some credit thereby. No, it will be found that many have done so before me, whether in his own time or at a much later date. For his tenets have met with disparagement and his discourses with criticism. First on the list is his most representative disciple Aristotle, and next Cephisodorus, Theopompus, Zoilus, Hippodamas, Demetrius, and many others. These did not attack him out of envy or malice, but in the search for truth. Encouraged accordingly by the example of so many eminent men, and above all of the great Plato himself, I considered that my action was in no way alien to the spirit of philosophic rhetoric when I matched good writers against good. As regards, therefore, the principle on which I acted in comparing style with style, I have defended myself sufficiently even in your eyes, my dear friend.

II

I have now to refer to my actual remarks on Plato in the treatise on the Attic Orators. I will quote the passage in the words there written. 'The language of Plato, as I have said before, aspires to unite two several styles, the elevated and the plain. But it does not succeed equally in both. When it uses the plain, simple, and unartificial mode of expression, it has an extraordinary charm and attraction. It is altogether pure and translucent, like the most transparent of streams, and it is correct and precise beyond that of any other writer who has adopted this mode of expression. It pursues familiar words and cultivates clearness, disdaining all extraneous ornament. The gentle and imperceptible lapse of time invests it with a mellow tinge of antiquity; it still blooms in all its radiant vigour and beauty; a balmy breeze is wafted from it as though from meadows full of the most fragrant odours; and its clear utterance seems to show as little trace of loquacity as its elegance of display. But when, as often happens, it rushes without restraint into unusual phraseology and embellished diction, it deteriorates greatly. For it loses in charm, in purity of idiom, in lightness of touch. It obscures what is clear and makes it like unto darkness; it conveys the meaning in a prolix and circuitous way. When concise expression is needed, it lapses into tasteless periphrases, displaying a wealth of words. Contemning the regular terms found in common use, it seeks after those which are newly-coined, strange, or archaic. It is in the sea of figurative diction that it labours most of all. For it abounds in epithets and ill-timed metonymies. It is harsh and loses sight of the point of contact in its metaphors. It affects long and frequent allegories devoid of measure and fitness. It revels, with juvenile and unseasonable pride, in the most wearisome poetical figures, particularly in those of Gorgias; and "in matters of this kind there is a good deal of the hierophant about him," as Demetrius of Phalerum has somewhere said as well as many others: for "not mine the word."

I should be sorry to be so perverse as to conceive this opinion with respect to so great a man. On the contrary, I am well aware that often and on many subjects he has produced writings which are great and admirable and of the utmost power. What I desire to show is that he is apt to commit errors of this description in his more ornate passages, and that he sinks below his own level when he pursues what is grand and exceptional in expression, and is far superior when he employs the language which is plain and exact and seems to be natural but is really elaborated with unoffending and simple artifice. For then he commits either no errors at all or only such as are extremely slight and venial. My own view, however, is that so great a man should have been perpetually on his guard against any censure. Now all his contemporaries, whose names I need not recall, reproach him with the same fault; and the most striking thing is that he does so himself. He was aware of his own lapse from good taste and gave it the name of "dithyramb": a thing I had thought shame to say, true though it be. This trait in him appears to me to be due to the fact that, although he was bred among the Socratic dialogues, which were most spare and most exact, he did not continue under their influence, but became enamoured of the artificiality of Gorgias and Thucydides. It was, therefore, no unnatural result that he should imbibe some of the errors, together with the good points, exhibited by the styles of those authors.

'I will cite examples of the plain and the elevated style from one of the most celebrated books, in which Socrates has addressed the discourses on Love to one of his associates, Phaedrus, from whom the book takes its title....'

In this passage I blame in no way the subject-matter of the writer, but the tendency in the department of expression to figurative and dithyrambic diction, matters wherein Plato loses command of the due mean. And I criticise him not as an ordinary mortal but as a great man who has come near the standard of the divine nature. His fault is that, in imitation of the school of Gorgias, he has introduced the pomp of poetical artifice into philosophical discourses, so that some of his productions are of the dithyrambic order. And what is more, he does not even attempt to hide this failing but avows it. It is clear from your own letter, excellent Geminus, that you yourself entertain the same opinion as I with regard to him. For you write thus, to quote your own words: 'In other forms of expression there may well occur something which deserves mingled praise and blame. But in embellishment whatever is not success is utter failure. So that, in my opinion, these men should be judged not by their few most hazardous attempts but by their many successes.' And a little later you add the following words: 'Although I could defend all, or at any rate most, of these passages, I do not venture to gainsay you. But this one thing I strongly affirm, that it is not possible to succeed greatly in any way without such daring and recklessness as must needs fail now and then.' There is no quarrel between us. You admit that the man who aspires to great things must sometimes fail, while I say that Plato, in his desire for elevated and stately and audacious diction, did not succeed in every detail, but that his mistakes are nevertheless only a small fraction of his successes. And in this one respect, I say, Plato is inferior to Demosthenes, that with him elevation of diction sometimes lapses into emptiness and dreariness, whereas with Demosthenes this is never so, or only very rarely. This is what I have to say with reference to Plato.

You wished also to learn my view with regard to Herodotus and Xenophon, and you wished me to write about them. This I have done in the essays I have addressed to Demetrius on the subject of imitation. The first of these contains an abstract inquiry into the nature of imitation. The second asks what particular poets and philosophers, historians and orators, should be imitated. The third, which treats of the proper manner of imitation, remains unfinished. In the second I write as follows concerning Herodotus, Thucydides, Xenophon, Philistus and Theopompus, these being the writers whom I select as most suitable for imitation:

These are my opinions concerning Herodotus and Thucydides, if I must extend my remarks to them. The first, and one may say the most necessary, task for writers of any kind of history is to choose a noble subject and one pleasing to their readers. In this Herodotus seems to me to have succeeded better than Thucydides. He has produced a national history of the conflict of Greeks and barbarians, 'in order that neither should the deeds of men fade into oblivion, nor should achievements,' to quote from his opening words. For this same proem forms both the beginning and the end of his History. Thucydides, on the other hand, writes of a single war, and that neither glorious nor fortunate; one which, best of all, should not have happened, or (failing that) should have been ignored by posterity and consigned to silence and oblivion. In his Introduction he makes it clear himself that he has chosen a bad subject, for he says that many cities of the Greeks were desolated because of the war, partly by the barbarians and partly by themselves, while proscriptions and massacres greater than any before known occurred, together with earthquakes and droughts and plagues and many other calamities. The natural consequence is that readers of the Introduction feel an aversion to the subject, for it is of the misfortunes of Greece that they are about to hear. As dearly as the story of the wonderful deeds of Greeks and barbarians is superior to the story of the sad and terrible disasters of the Greeks, so clearly does Herodotus show better judgment than Thucydides in his choice of subject. Nor can it truthfully be said that Thucydides was driven, with full knowledge that the earlier events were grander, into this piece of writing by a desire not to treat of the same theme as others. On the contrary, he makes extremely light in his Introduction of the events of ancient days, and says that the achievements of his own time were the most remarkable. It is clear, therefore, that his choice was deliberate. Very different was the course taken by Herodotus. Although his predecessors, Hellanicus and Charon, had previously issued works on the same subject, he was not deterred, but trusted his own ability to produce something better. And this in fact he has done.

A second function of historical investigation is to determine where to begin and how far to proceed. In this respect, again, Herodotus displays far better judgment than Thucydides. He begins with the cause of the original injuries done to the Greeks by the barbarians, and goes on his way till he ends with the punishment and retribution which befell them. Thucydides, on the contrary, starts with the incipient decline of the Greek world. This should not have been done by a Greek and an Athenian, and (what is more) no unappreciated citizen but one to whom his countrymen assigned a foremost place, entrusting him with commands and offices generally. In his malice, he finds the overt causes of the war in the conduct of his own city, although he might have found many other grounds for the outbreak. He might have begun his narrative not with the affairs of Corcyra, but with the magnificent achievements of his country immediately after the Persian War, achievements which subsequently he mentions at the wrong point and in a perfunctory and cursory way. After he had described these events with all the enthusiasm of a patriot, he should then have added that it was through envy and dread thus occasioned that the Lacedaemonians were led to engage in the war, for which they suggested motives of a different nature. He should next have related the occurrences at Corcyra and the decree against the Megarians, together with anything else of the kind he wished to mention. The conclusion of his work is tainted by a more serious error. Although he states that he watched the entire course of the war and promises a complete account of it, yet he ends with the sea-fight which took place off Cynossema between the Athenians and Peloponnesians in the twenty-second year of the war. It would have been better, after he had described all the details of the war, to end his History with a most remarkable incident and one right pleasing to his hearers, the return of the exiles from Phyle, from which event dates the recovery of freedom by Athens.

A third task of the historian is to consider which occurrences he should embody in his work and which he should omit. In this respect, again, it seems to me that Thucydides is inferior. Herodotus, on his part, wished, in imitation of Homer, to give variety to his History. He was aware that every prolonged narrative affects the mind of the hearer pleasantly if it contains a number of pauses, but wearies and satiates (however successful it may otherwise be) if confined to one and the same series of events. If we take up his book, we are filled with admiration till the last syllable and always seek for more. Thucydides, on the other hand, in breathless haste and straining every nerve, describes a single war, heaping battle on battle, armament on armament, word on word. The hearer's mind is in consequence exhausted. 'Even honey,' as Pindar says, 'and the pleasant flowers of love bring satiety.' Occasionally Thucydides has himself realised the truth of my contention that, in a historical writing, change is pleasant and gives variety, and he has taken this course in two or three passages — in inquiring into the cause of the growth of the Odrysian kingdom and in describing the cities of Sicily.

Next it is the function of a historian so to arrange his materials that everything shall be found in its proper place. How, then, do these authors respectively arrange and divide what they have to say? Thucydides keeps close to the chronological order, Herodotus to the natural grouping of events. Thucydides is found to be obscure and hard to follow. As naturally many events occur in different places in the course of the same summer or winter, he leaves half-finished his account of one set of affairs and takes other events in hand. Naturally we are puzzled, and follow the narrative impatiently, as our attention is distracted. Herodotus, on the other hand, begins with the dominion of the Lydians and comes down to that of Croesus, and then passes at once to Cyrus who destroyed the empire of Croesus. Then he begins the story of Egypt, Scythia, and Libya. He relates some of the events as a sequel, takes up others as a missing link, and introduces others as likely to add to the charm of the narrative. Although he recounts affairs of Greeks and barbarians which occurred in the course of some two hundred and twenty years on the three continents and finally reaches the story of the flight of Xerxes, he does not break the continuity of the narrative. The general result is that, whereas Thucydides takes a single subject and divides one whole into many members, Herodotus has chosen a number of subjects, which are in no way alike, and has produced one harmonious whole.

I will mention one other feature of the treatment of subject-matter, a feature which in all histories we look for no less than for any of those already mentioned. I mean the attitude which the historian himself adopts towards the events which he describes. The attitude of Herodotus is fair throughout, showing pleasure in the good and grief at the bad. That of Thucydides, on the contrary, is severe and harsh and proves that he bears a grudge against his country because of his exile. For he details her misdeeds with the utmost exactitude, but when things go right, either he does not mention them at all, or only like a man under compulsion.

In subject-matter Thucydides is for these reasons inferior to Herodotus; in expression he is partly inferior, partly superior, partly equal. I will state my views on these points also.

The first of excellences is that without which style is of no worth in any of its aspects, — language pure in vocabulary and true to Greek idiom. In this respect both are correct writers. Herodotus represents the highest standard of the Ionic dialect, Thucydides of the Attic.... Third in order comes the so-called 'concision.' In this Thucydides is commonly held to excel Herodotus. It might, indeed, be objected that it is only when united with clearness that brevity is found to be attractive; if it fails in this, it is harsh. However, let us suppose that Thucydides is in no way inferior because of his obscurity. Vividness comes next in order as the first of the extraneous excellences. In this respect both authors are decidedly successful. After this excellence the imitation of traits of character, and of emotions, presents itself. Here the historians divide the credit, for Thucydides excels expressing the emotions, whilst — Herodotus has greater skill in representing aspects of character. Next come the excellences which exhibit loftiness and grandeur of composition. Here, again, the historians are on a par. Then come the excellences which comprise strength and energy and similar qualities of style. In these Thucydides is superior to Herodotus. But in grace, persuasiveness, charm and the like excellences, Herodotus is far superior to Thucydides. In his choice of language Herodotus aims naturalness, Thucydides at intensity. Of all literary virtues the most important is propriety. In this Herodotus is more careful than Thucydides who everywhere (and in his speeches still more than in his narrative) shows a want of variety. My friend Caecilius, however, thinks with me that his enthymemes have been imitated and emulated in a special degree by Demosthenes. It may be said in general that the poetical compositions (as I should not shrink from calling them) of both are beautiful. The chief point of difference is that the beauty of Herodotus is radiant, that of Thucydides awe-inspiring. Enough has been said about these historians, although much more could be said, for which there will be another opportunity.

Xenophon and Philistus, who flourished at a later time than these writers, did not resemble one another either in nature or in principles. Xenophon was an emulator of Herodotus in both kinds, matter and language. In the first place, the historical subjects he chose are fine and impressive and such as befit a philosopher: the Education of Cyrus, the portrait of a good and prosperous king; the Expedition of the Younger Cyrus, in which Xenophon, who himself took part in the campaign, extols so highly the bravery of the Greek auxiliaries; and also the Greek History, the story which Thucydides left unfinished, in which are described the overthrow of 'the Thirty' and the restoration of the Athenian walls razed by the Lacedaemonians. It is not only for his subjects, chosen in emulation of Herodotus, that Xenophon deserves commendation, but also for his arrangement of his material. Everywhere he begins and ends in the most fitting and appropriate way. His divisions are good, and so is his order and the variety of his writing. He displays piety, rectitude, resolution, geniality, in a word all the virtues which adorn the character. Such is the manner in which he deals with his subject-matter.

In expression he is partly like Herodotus, partly inferior. He resembles him in marked purity and lucidity of vocabulary; he chooses terms that are familiar and consonant to the theme; and he puts them together with no less charm and grace than Herodotus. But Herodotus also possesses elevation and beauty and stateliness and what is specifically called the historical vein.' Not only was Xenophon powerless to borrow this from him, but if occasionally he wishes to enliven his style, like a land-breeze he blows but for a short time and quickly drops. Indeed, in many passages he is unduly long. So far from equalling the success of Herodotus in adapting his language to his characters, he is found on strict examination to be often careless in this respect.

Philistus would seem to resemble Thucydides more nearly and to have the same general stamp. Like Thucydides, he has not taken a subject of great utility and public interest, but a single and local one. He has divided it into two parts, entitling the former 'Concerning Sicily,' the latter 'Concerning Dionysius.' But the subject is one, as may be seen from the conclusion of the Sicilian section. He has not presented his narrative in the best order, but has made it hard to follow; his arrangement is inferior to that of Thucydides. No more than Thucydides does he desire to admit extraneous matter, and he is therefore wanting in variety. He displays a character which is obsequious, subservient, mean, and petty. He shuns what is peculiar and curious in the style of Thucydides, and reproduces what is rounded and terse and enthymematic. He falls, however, very far behind the beauty of language and the wealth of enthymemes found in Thucydides. And not only in these respects is he inferior, but also in his composition. The style of Thucydides is full of variety, a fact which is so obvious that I consider it needs no further demonstration. But the language of Philistus is exceedingly uniform and lacking in variety. Many successive sentences will be found to be constructed by him in the same way. For example, at the beginning of the Second Book of his Sicilian History: 'The Syracusans having associated with themselves the Megarians and Ennàeans, and the Camarinaeans having mustered the Sicels and the rest of the allies except the Geloans (now the Geloans said that they would not wage war against the Syracusans); and the Syracusans learning that the Camarinaeans had crossed the Hyrminus—'; all this is to me obviously most displeasing. He is trivial and commonplace whatever his subject may be, whether he describes sieges or settlements, whether he deals in eulogium or in censure. Moreover, he does not write speeches worthy of the greatness of the speakers, but he makes even his parliamentary orators, one and all, abandon in a panic alike their faculties and their principles. He possesses, however, a sort of natural euphony of style and a well-balanced judgment. And he is a better model for actual pleadings than Thucydides.

Theopompus of Chios was the most celebrated of all the disciples of Isocrates. He composed many panegyrics and many deliberative speeches, as well as the 'Chian' Letters and some noteworthy treatises. As a student of history he deserves praise on several grounds. His historical subjects are both good, one of them embracing the conclusion of the Peloponnesian War, the other the career of Philip. His arrangement, also, is good, being in both cases lucid and easy to follow. Especially admirable are the care and industry which mark his historical writing, for it is clear, even if he had said nothing to that effect, that he prepared himself most fully for his task and incurred heavy expense in the collection of his material. Moreover, he was an eye-witness of many events, and came in contact with many leading men and generals of his day, whether popular leaders or more cultivated persons. All this he did in order to improve his History. For he did not (as some do) consider the recording of his researches as a pastime, but as the one thing needful in life. The trouble he took may be inferred from the comprehensiveness of his work. He has related the foundation of nations, described the establishment of cities, portrayed royal lives and peculiar customs, and incorporated in his work everything wonderful or strange found on any land or sea. Nor must it be supposed that this is merely a form of entertainment. It is not so. Such particulars are, it may in general be said, of the greatest utility.

In fine, who will not admit that it is necessary for the votaries of philosophic rhetoric to study the various customs both of foreigners and of Greeks, to hear about various laws and forms of government, the lives of men and their actions, their deaths and fortunes? For such votaries he has provided material in all plenty, not divorced from the events narrated, but in close connexion with them. All these qualities of the historian are worthy of admiration. The same may be said of the philosophical reflections scattered throughout his History, for he has many fine observations on justice, piety, and the rest of the virtues. There remains his crowning and most characteristic quality, one which is found developed with equal care and effect in no other writer, whether of the older or the younger generation. And what is this quality? It is the gift of seeing and stating in each case not only what is obvious to the multitude, but of examining even the hidden motives of actions and actors and the feelings of the soul (things not easily discerned by the crowd), and of laying bare all the mysteries of seeming virtue and undiscovered vice. Indeed, I can well believe that the fabled examination, before the judges in the other world, of souls in Hades when separated from the body is of the same searching kind as that which is conducted by means of the writings of Theopompus. In consequence he was thought malicious on the ground that, where reproaches against distinguished persons were necessary, he added unnecessary details; while in truth he acted like surgeons who cut and cauterize the morbid parts of the system, carrying their operations far down, and yet in no way assailing the healthy and normal organs. Such is an account of the way in which Theopompus deals with his subject-matter.

In style he is most like to Isocrates. His diction is pure, familiar and clear; it is elevated, grand, and full of stateliness; it is formed according to the middle harmony, having a pleasant and easy flow. It differs from that of Isocrates in pungency and energy in some passages, when he gives free play to his emotions, and particularly when he taxes cities or generals with evil counsels and unjust actions. In such criticisms he abounds, and he falls not one whit behind the intensity of Demosthenes, as may be seen from many other writings and from his Chian Letters, in composing which he has obeyed his native instincts. If in the passages on which he has bestowed the greatest pains, he had paid less attention to the blending of vowels, the measured cadence of periods, and the uniformity of constructions, he would have far surpassed himself in expression.

He is also guilty of errors in the sphere of subject-matter, and particularly in regard to his digressions, some of which are neither necessary nor opportune, but childish in the extreme. An instance is the story of the Silenus who appeared in Macedonia, and that of the fight between the serpent and the galley, and not a few other things of the kind.

The study of these historians will suffice to furnish to those who practise civil oratory a suitable flourish at a later time for every variety of style.

EPISTULA AD AMMAEUM II

DIONYSIUS TO HIS FRIEND AMMAEUS WITH GREETINGS.

I

I thought I had sufficiently indicated the characteristics of Thucydides when describing the most important and remarkable of those peculiarities which seemed to me to distinguish him from all previous orators and historians. I have, in fact, previously treated the subject in the essays, inscribed with your name, on the Ancient Orators, and a little time before in the treatise on Thucydides himself which I addressed to Aelius Tubero, in which I have, to the best of my ability, gone into all the points needing discussion, and have added suitable illustrations. But your view is that these writings lack precision, in that I do not give the proofs till I have specified the characteristics. You think that the exposition of characteristic peculiarities would gain in precision if, side by side with each single statement, I were to set down the expressions of the historian, as is the practice of the authors of rhetorical handbooks and introductions to the art of composition. Desiring, therefore, to meet every criticism, I have taken this course, and have followed the didactic method in place of the epideictic.

II

In order that the argument may be easy for you to follow, I will first quote word for word what I have previously said with regard to the historian, and will then cursorily review each several proposition, and will supply the illustrations as you desire. The passage about to be cited follows the remarks on Herodotus. 'Coming after Herodotus and the authors previously mentioned, and taking a comprehensive view of their several excellences, Thucydides aspired to form and to introduce into historical composition an individual manner of his own, one which was neither absolute prose nor downright metre, but something compounded of the two. In the choice of words he often adopts a figurative, obscure, archaic and strange diction, in place of that which was in common use and familiar to the men of his day. He takes the greatest trouble to vary his constructions, since it was in this respect chiefly that he wished to excel his predecessors. At one time he makes a phrase out of a word, at another time he condenses a phrase into a word. Now he gives a nominal in place of a verbal form, and again he converts a noun into a verb. He inverts the ordinary use of nouns and verbs themselves, interchanging common with proper nouns and active with passive verbs. He varies the normal use of the plural and the singular number, and predicates the one in place of the other. He combines feminines with masculines, masculines with feminines, and neuters with the other genders; and the natural agreement of gender is violated thereby. He wrests the cases of nouns or participles at times from the expression to the sense, at other times from the sense to the expression. In the employment of conjunctions and prepositions, and especially of the particles which serve to bring out the meanings of individual words, he allows himself full poetic liberty. There will be found in him a large number of constructions which by changes of person and variations of tense, and by the strained use of expressions denoting place, differ from ordinary speech and have all the appearance of solecisms. Further, he frequently substitutes things for persons and persons for things. In his enthymemes and his sentences the numerous parentheses often delay the conclusion for a long time, while there is much in him that is tortuous, involved, perplexed, and similarly defective. Moreover, not a few of the showy figures will be found to be employed by him, — I mean those parisoses, paromoeoses, paronomasia and antitheses, which are so lavishly used by Gorgias of Leontini, by the school of Polus and Licymnius, and by many others who flourished in his time. The most obvious of his characteristics is the attempt to indicate as many things as possible in as few words as possible, to combine many ideas in one, and to leave the listener expecting to hear something more. The consequence is that brevity becomes obscurity. In fine, there are four “instruments,” so to say of the style of — Thucydides. — the artificial character of the vocabulary the variety of the constructions, the roughness of the harmony, the speed of the narrative. Its “colours” are solidity, pungency, condensation, austerity, gravity, terrible vehemence, and above all his power of stirring the emotions. Such is Thucydides in respect of those characteristics of his style which distinguish him from all other writers.’

Examples of expressions which are obscure, and archaic, puzzling to ordinary people are:

τὸ ἀκραιφνές, ὁ ἐπι-λογισμός, ἡ περιωπή, ἡ ἀνακωχή, and so forth. Of artificial words instances are: ἡ κωλύμη, ἡ πρέσβευσις, ἡ καταβολή, ἡ ἀχθηδών, ἡ δικαίωσις, and so on.

His novelty and variety in his constructions, and his departure from established usage, which we consider to be the chief point of difference between him and all other writers, may be illustrated by the following instances.

παρεξαιρεσία, and his shield slipped of.' What he means is: 'he fell overboard on to the projecting parts of the oars.'

When he amplifies a single idea and uses a number of nouns or verbs in place of one nominal or verbal expression, he expresses himself thus: 'Themistocles exhibited his natural force in the most convincing way, and in this respect he was especially worthy of admiration beyond any rival.' Again, in the Funeral Speech he writes: 'nor yet on the score of poverty is a man who has it in his power to confer a service on the state debarred through the obscurity of his rank.' For in these cases the sens. He expresses himself as in his description of the Spartan Brasidas when in the engagement at Pylus he was wounded and fell overboard. 'He fell,' he says, 'on to the

When he gives the form of nouns to the verbal parts of speech, he expresses himself as follows. In his First Book the Corinthian envoy addresses the Athenians thus: 'such are the pleas for justice we can bring before you, together with the following exhortation and claim to gratitude.' Here the verbs 'we can exhort' and 'we can claim' have been changed into the nouns 'exhortation' and 'claim.' Parallel expressions are 'the non-circumvallation of the Plemmyrium' in the Seventh Book, and 'the lamentation' which in the First Book he has mentioned in the course of a speech. For to the verbs 'to circumvallate' and 'to lament' he has given the form of the nouns 'circumvallation' and 'lamentation.'

VI

But when conversely he turns his nouns into verbs, he produces such an expression as we find in the First Book when the cause of the war is under discussion. 'The most real cause, though that which was least acknowledged, I consider to have been the fact that the growth of the Athenian power compelled them to wage war.' His meaning is that the growth of the Athenian power caused a compulsion to the war. But for the nouns 'compulsion' and 'war' he has substituted the verbs 'to compel' and 'to wage war.'

When he interchanges the passive and active forms of verbs, he writes in this fashion: 'for neither the one hinders by the truce nor the other.' The active verb 'hinders' is employed in place of the passive 'is hindered.' The real meaning of the expression is: 'for neither the one is hindered by the truce nor the other.'

And so also with the words found in his introduction:

‘for in the absence of commerce, they did not mingle freely with one another.’ Here the active verb ‘did not mingle’ occupies the place of the passive ‘were not mingled.’

When instead of the active he uses the passive, he constructs a sentence of this kind: ‘all of us who had by this time been brought into contact with the Athenians.’ His meaning is: ‘all of us who dealt with the Athenians.’ But he has used the passive form ‘been brought into contact with in place of the active ‘dealt with.’ And so with what next follows: ‘those who had been settled more in the interior.’ For instead of the active verb ‘who had settled’ he has used the passive ‘who had been settled.’

IX

As regards the distinction of singular and plural, he changes the two numbers about and uses singular for plural thus: ‘and if perchance it occurs to some one that not he, but the Syracusan, is the enemy of the Athenian.’ He means ‘Syracusans’ and ‘Athenians,’ but he has put each of the proper names in the singular. Another instance is the passage: ‘and we shall find the enemy more formidable, if his retreat is made difficult.’ Here he has put ‘enemies’ in the singular, not in the plural. Deviating in the same way from customary language, he uses the plural in place of the singular. This mode of expression will be found in the first part of the Funeral Speech: ‘for eulogies bestowed on others are endurable only so far as each person thinks that he is himself capable of any of the deeds of which he hears.’ Here the words ‘each person’ and ‘hears’ are singular, but the following words are put in the plural: ‘but when this point is passed, they begin to feel envy and incredulity.’ Such expressions would naturally be used not of one person but of many.

Examples of the interchange of the three genders, in contravention of the ordinary rules of language, are such as these.

He uses τάραχος in the masculine for ταραχή in the feminine, and similarly δχλος for δχλησις. In place of τὴν βούλησιν and τὴν δύναμιν he uses τὸ βουλόμενον and τὸ δυνάμενον. For instance, he says of the Athenians when they were considering the dispatch of their forces to Sicily: 'the Athenians were not robbed of their wishing (τὸ βουλόμενον) by the burden of the preparations'. There is a similar instance in the passage in which he refers to the Thessalians: 'ὥστε εἰ μὴ δυναστείᾳ μᾶλλον ἢ ἰσονομίᾳ ἐχρῶντο τῇ ἐπιχωρίῳ οἱ Θεσσαλοί.' Here he has made the feminine neuter. The real signification of the expression is: 'ὥστε εἰ μὴ δυναστείᾳ μᾶλλον ἢ ἰσονομίᾳ ἐχρῶντο τῇ ἐπιχωρίῳ οἱ Θεσσαλοί.'

XI

Sometimes he gives an unusual turn to the cases of proper nouns and appellatives and participles and the articles attached to them. He will then frame such a sentence as this: 'for the states, having obtained a tempered liberty and security in their undertakings, advanced towards downright freedom, scorning the "specious pretence of law and order" offered by the Athenians.' Now writers whose syntax conforms to ordinary usage would have coupled the feminine form (sc of the participle) with the feminine gender of the noun, and would have used the accusative instead of the genitive case as follows: 'σφαφροσύνην γὰρ λαβοῦσαι αἱ πόλεις καὶ ἄδειαν τῶν πρασσομένων ἐχώρησαν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀντικρυς ἐλευθερίαν, τὴν ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀθηναίων ὑπουλον εὐνομίαν οὐ προτιμήσασαι.' Whereas authors who construct masculines with feminines, as Thucydides has done, and use genitives instead of accusatives, would be said by us to be guilty of solecism. This is true also of the following words: 'καὶ μὴ τῷ πλήθει αὐτῶν καταπλεγύντες.' The sentence ought to have been constructed not in the dative case but in the accusative: 'καὶ μὴ τὸ πλῆθος τῶν πολεμίων καταπλεγύντες.' Just as no one would be said 'τῇ παρὰ τῶν θεῶν ὀργῇ φοβεῖσθαι,' but rather 'τὴν τῶν θεῶν ὀργήν.'

kind: 'And yet, if we should choose to face danger unconcernedly rather than after careful training, and with a courage born of habit rather than in obedience to law, we have the advantage of not being afflicted by troubles which are in the future, while we show ourselves, in the midst of troubles, to be no less daring than those who are always toiling'. Here ἐθέλομεν is a verbal form which indicates the future, while περιγίνεται indicates the present. The construction would have been regular if he had joined περίστα with ἐθέλομεν. * * 'I consider the inaccessibility of the spot to be in our favour; but this helps us only if we stand our ground; if we retire, the position, though difficult in itself, will easily be mastered by the enemy'. Now γίνεται refers to the present, but ἵστα to the future. The cases also are irregularly constructed. For he has put the participle μενόντων and the pronoun ἡμῶν in the genitive case, but ὑποχωρήσασιν in the dative. Whereas the latter should, more properly, have corresponded in case to the two former.

When he makes the transition from the sense to the expression or from the expression to the sense, he uses a construction of the following kind: 'the populace of the Syracusans were at great odds with one another.' Although he begins with the singular noun 'populace,' he assimilates the expression to the sense, which is plural, 'the Syracusans.' And again: 'for when the Athenians quitted Sicily after the convention, the men of Leontini enrolled many new citizens, and the populace entertained the idea of redistributing the land.' From the plural 'men of Leontini' he passes to the singular noun 'the populace.'

XIV

In his History things are treated as persons, as in the address of the Corinthians to the Lacedaemonians. The Corinthian speaker urges the leading men of the Peloponnese to maintain its prestige, in the eyes of external states, such as their fathers transmitted it to them. These are his words: 'You must, therefore, be well advised, and strive that the Peloponnese which you lead forth may be no less powerful than when your fathers left it to your care.' He has used the expression 'to lead forth' in the sense 'to guide the Peloponnese outside as its leaders.' Now this could not apply to the territory, but it can apply to its glory and its power, and this is what he means to say.

Persons are transformed into things by him in the following way. When the same Corinthian envoy, addressing the Lacedaemonians, compares the characters of the Athenians and Lacedaemonians, he says: 'They are innovators and quick to conceive plans and to execute their resolves. But your alertness is directed to preserving what you have and to forming no fresh resolve, and to refraining even from the execution of what is absolutely essential.' Now up to this point the construction is normal, the two persons forming its basis. But afterwards in the second clause the expression is changed, and instead of persons a thing is used in reference to the Lacedaemonians, when he says: 'and once more they are daring even beyond their power, and venturesome beyond their better judgment, and full of hope in the hour of danger; but your way is to act below the measure of your power and to trust not even the safe conclusions of your judgment.' Here 'your way' is used instead of 'you,' a thing taking the place of a person.

In his enthymemes and sentences the parentheses are numerous and reach their conclusion with difficulty. This makes the meaning hard to follow. There are many of them in every part of the History; but two only, taken from the Introduction, will suffice. One is the passage which shows the weakness of Primitive Greece and assigns the causes. 'For in the absence of commerce, they did not mingle freely with one another whether by land or over sea: each tribe possessing property enough of its own to support existence and having no superfluous goods; none cultivating the land, for it was uncertain when some invader would come and rob them, as there were no fortifications to protect them: and feeling that they could command the bare means of subsistence everywhere alike, they readily migrated.' If he had added the word 'readily migrated' to the first period and shaped it thus, 'In the absence of commerce they did not mingle freely with one another by land or by sea, but each tribe possessing enough property of its own to support existence, they migrated readily,' he would have made his meaning clearer, but by the insertion of many parenthetical clauses he has made it obscure and hard to follow. The second passage is that which refers to the invasion of Attica by Eurystheus. 'Eurystheus was slain in Attica by the Heracleidae. His maternal uncle was Atreus, to whom as being his kinsman Eurystheus entrusted the kingdom of Mycenae when he went to the wars. Atreus had been banished by his father because of the murder of Chrysippus. When Eurystheus failed to return, Atreus succeeded to the sovereignty over the Mycenaeans and over all others who had been under the rule of Eurystheus. He did so at the desire of the Mycenaeans, who feared the Heracleidae. He had also courted the multitude, and was thought to be a man of power.’

XVI

The plan of his enthymemes is sometimes tortuous and involved and hard to unravel, as in the following passage of the Funeral Speech: ‘They found a dearer delight in the punishment of their foes; danger thus incurred they considered the noblest of all, and wished to subordinate all other aims to that of vengeance. They committed the uncertainty of success to hope, but in action deemed it right to trust themselves as concerning what was now before their eyes. Thinking it right to suffer in self-defence rather than save their lives by submission, they escaped a shameful reputation by exposing themselves to the brunt of the fray; and in a moment of time they were removed, at the height of their fortune, from the scene of their glory rather than their fear.’ Of this kind also is the characterisation of Themistocles given by the historian in his First Book: ‘For Themistocles exhibited his natural force in the most convincing way, and in this respect he was especially worthy of admiration beyond any rival. Through his native shrewdness, and unaided by knowledge acquired previously or at the time, he surpassed all others whether in judging present needs on the spur of the moment or in conjecturing the events of the most distant future. He had the power of explaining whatever he had in hand, and was well able to form a competent opinion of things of which he had no experience. He could foresee the better or worse course, while it was still in the dim future. In a word, through sheer natural capacity he could, however short the time for preparation might be, excel all men in improvising the right thing to be done.’

XVII

The affected figures of antithesis and paromoeosis and pariosis, in which Gorgias and his followers were particularly fertile, little become this style, which has an austere cast and is very far removed from preciosity. But instances of the following kind are found in the History of Thucydides: ‘For it is clear that what is denominated Hellas now-a-days was not securely populated in ancient days.’ And again: ‘They are daring beyond their power, and venturesome beyond their better judgment; but your way is to act below the measure of your power, and to trust not even the safe conclusions of your judgment, and to think you will never escape from the dangers that threaten you.’ Another instance will be found in the passage in which he describes, in the following terms, the calamities which had overtaken Greece in consequence of party-spirit: ‘For reckless audacity was considered loyal courage; cautious hesitation was specious cowardice; moderation was the cloak of unmanliness; universal wisdom was general ineffectiveness.’ Many passages of this kind will be found throughout his History; but those already given will serve as a sample of the rest Thus you have, my dear Ammaeus, the observations examined, as you desired, one by one, according to the ordinary method.

The Greek Texts

The ancient forum at Rome — Dionysius tells us that he came to Italy at the time when Augustus Caesar put an end to the civil war in the middle of the 187th Olympiad (late in 30 B.C. or in 29), and that he had spent the following twenty-two years in acquainting himself with the language and the literature of the Romans, gathering his materials and writing his History.

Roman Antiquities

τοὺς εἰωθότας ἀποδίδοσθαι τοῖς προοιμίοις τῶν ἱστοριῶν λόγους ἥκιστα βουλόμενος ἀναγκάζομαι περὶ ἑμαυτοῦ προειπεῖν, οὐτ' ἐν τοῖς ἰδίοις μέλλων πλεονάζειν ἐπαίνοις, οὐς ἐπαχθεῖς οἶδα φαινομένους τοῖς ἀκούουσιν, οὐτε διαβολὰς καθ' ἑτέρων ἐγνωκῶς ποιεῖσθαι συγγραφέων, ὥσπερ Ἀναξιμένης καὶ Θεόπομπος ἐν τοῖς προοιμίοις τῶν ἱστοριῶν ἐποίησαν, ἀλλὰ τοὺς ἑμαυτοῦ λογισμοὺς ἀποδεικνύμενος, οἷς ἐχρησάμην ὅτε ἐπὶ ταύτην ὥρμησα τὴν πραγματείαν, καὶ περὶ τῶν ἀφορμῶν ἀποδίδους λόγον, ἐξ ὧν τὴν ἐμπειρίαν ἔλαβον τῶν γραφησομένων. [2] ἐπεισθην γὰρ ὅτι δεῖ τοὺς προαιρουμένους μνημεῖα τῆς ἑαυτῶν ψυχῆς τοῖς ἐπιγιγνομένοις καταλιπεῖν, ἃ μὴ συναφανισθῆσεται [p. 2] τοῖς σώμασιν αὐτῶν ὑπὸ τοῦ χρόνου, καὶ πάντων μάλιστα τοὺς ἀναγράφοντας ἱστορίας, ἐν αἷς καθιδρῦσθαι τὴν ἀλήθειαν πάντες ὑπολαμβάνομεν ἀρχὴν φρονήσεως τε καὶ σοφίας οὔσαν, πρῶτον μὲν ὑποθέσεις προαιρεῖσθαι καλὰς καὶ μεγαλοπρεπεῖς καὶ πολλὴν ὠφέλειαν τοῖς ἀναγνωσομένοις φερούσας, ἔπειτα παρασκευάζεσθαι τὰς ἐπιτηδεῖους εἰς τὴν ἀναγραφὴν τῆς ὑποθέσεως ἀφορμὰς μετὰ πολλῆς ἐπιμελείας τε καὶ φιλοπονίας. [3] οἱ μὲν γὰρ ὑπὲρ ἀδόξων πραγμάτων ἢ πονηρῶν ἢ μηδεμιᾶς σπουδῆς ἀξίων ἱστορικὰς καταβαλλόμενοι πραγματείας, εἴτε τοῦ προελθεῖν εἰς γνῶσιν ὀρεγόμενοι καὶ τυχεῖν ὅποιουδήποτε ὀνόματος, εἴτε περιουσίαν ἀποδείξασθαι τῆς περὶ λόγους δυνάμεως βουλόμενοι, οὐτε τῆς γνώσεως ζηλοῦνται παρὰ τοῖς ἐπιγιγνομένοις οὔτε τῆς δυνάμεως ἐπαινοῦνται, δόξαν ἐγκαταλιπόντες τοῖς ἀναλαμβάνουσιν αὐτῶν τὰς ἱστορίας, ὅτι τοιούτους ἐζήλωσαν αὐτοὶ βίους, οἷας ἐξέδωκαν τὰς γραφάς: ἐπεικῶς γὰρ ἅπαντες νομίζουσιν εἰκόνας εἶναι τῆς ἐκάστου ψυχῆς τοὺς λόγους. [4] οἱ δὲ προαιρούμενοι μὲν τὰς κρατίστας ὑποθέσεις, εἰκὴ δὲ καὶ ῥαθύμως αὐτὰς συντιθέντες ἐκ τῶν ἐπιτυχόντων ἀκουσμάτων, οὐδένα ὑπὲρ τῆς προαιρέσεως ἔπαινον κομίζονται: οὐ γὰρ ἀξιοῦμεν αὐτοσχεδίου οὐδὲ ῥαθύμους εἶναι τὰς περὶ τε πόλεων ἐνδόξων καὶ ἀνδρῶν ἐν δυναστείᾳ γεγονότων ἀναγραφομένας ἱστορίας. [5] ταῦτα δὴ νομίσας ἀναγκαῖα [p. 3] καὶ πρῶτα θεωρήματα τοῖς ἱστορικοῖς εἶναι καὶ πολλὴν ποιησάμενος ἀμφοτέρων ἐπιμέλειαν οὐτε παρελθεῖν τὸν ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν λόγον ἐβουλήθην, οὐτε ἐν ἄλλῳ τινὶ τόπῳ καταχωρίσαι μᾶλλον ἢ τῷ προοιμίῳ τῆς πραγματείας.

τὴν μὲν οὖν ὑπόθεσιν ὅτι καλὴν εἶληφα καὶ μεγαλοπρεπῆ καὶ πολλοῖς ὠφέλιμον οὐ μακρῶν οἶμαι δεήσειν λόγων τοῖς γε δὴ μὴ παντάπασιν ἀπείρως ἔχουσι τῆς κοινῆς ἱστορίας. εἰ γὰρ τις ἐπιστήσας τὴν διάνοιαν ἐπὶ τὰς παραδεδομένας ἐκ τοῦ παρεληλυθότος χρόνου πόλεων τε καὶ ἐθνῶν ἡγεμονίας, ἔπειτα χωρὶς ἐκάστην σκοπῶν καὶ παρ' ἀλλήλας ἐξετάζων διαγνῶναι βουληθεῖη, τίς αὐτῶν ἀρχὴν τε μεγίστην ἐκτήσατο καὶ πράξεις ἀπεδείξατο λαμπροτάτας ἐν εἰρήνῃ τε καὶ κατὰ πολέμους, μακρῶς δὴ τινι τὴν Ῥωμαίων ἡγεμονίαν ἀπάσας ὑπερβεβλημένην ὄψεται τὰς πρὸ αὐτῆς μνημονευόμενας, οὐ μόνον κατὰ τὸ μέγεθος τῆς ἀρχῆς καὶ κατὰ τὸ κάλλος τῶν πράξεων, αἷς οὕτω κεκόσμηκε λόγος οὐδεὶς ἀξίως, ἀλλὰ καὶ κατὰ τὸ μήκος τοῦ περιειληφότος αὐτὴν χρόνου μέχρι τῆς καθ' ἡμᾶς ἡλικίας. [2] ἡ μὲν γὰρ Ἀσσυρίων ἀρχὴ παλαιὰ τις οὕσα καὶ εἰς τοὺς μυθικοὺς ἀναγομένη χρόνους ὀλίγου τινὸς ἐκράτησε τῆς Ἀσίας μέρους. ἡ δὲ Μηδικὴ καθελοῦσα τὴν Ἀσσυρίων καὶ μείζονα δυναστείαν περιβαλομένη χρόνον οὐ πολὺν κατέσχευεν, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τῆς τετάρτης κατελύθη γενεᾷς. Πέρσαι δὲ οἱ [p. 4] Μήδους καταγωνισάμενοι τῆς μὲν Ἀσίας ὀλίγου δεῖν πάσης τελευτῶντες ἐκράτησαν, ἐπιχειρήσαντες δὲ καὶ τοῖς Εὐρωπαίοις ἔθνεσιν οὐ πολλὰ ὑπηγάγοντο, χρόνον τε οὐ πολλῷ πλείονα διακοσίων ἐτῶν ἔμειναν ἐπὶ [3] τῆς ἀρχῆς. ἡ δὲ Μακεδονικὴ δυναστεία τὴν Περσῶν καθελοῦσα ἰσχὺν μεγέθει μὲν ἀρχῆς ἀπάσας ὑπερεβάλετο τὰς πρὸ αὐτῆς, χρόνον δὲ οὐδὲ αὕτη πολὺν ἦνθησεν, ἀλλὰ μετὰ τὴν Ἀλεξάνδρου τελευτὴν ἐπὶ τὸ χεῖρον ἥρξατο φέρεσθαι. διασπασθεῖσα γὰρ εἰς πολλοὺς ἡγεμόνας εὐθύς ἀπὸ τῶν διαδόχων καὶ μετ' ἐκείνους ἄχρι τῆς δευτέρας ἢ τρίτης ἰσχύσασα προελθεῖν γενεᾷς, ἀσθενῆς αὐτὴ δι' ἑαυτῆς ἐγένετο καὶ τελευτῶσα ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων ἠφανίσθη. [4] καὶ οὐδὲ αὕτη μέντοι πᾶσαν ἐποίησατο γῆν τε καὶ θάλασσαν ὑπῆκοον: οὔτε γὰρ Λιβύης ὅτι μὴ τῆς πρὸς Αἰγύπτῳ οὐ πολλῆς οὐσης ἐκράτησεν, οὔτε τὴν Εὐρώπην ὅλην ὑπηγάγετο, ἀλλὰ τῶν μὲν βορείων αὐτῆς μερῶν μέχρι Θράκης προῆλθε, τῶν δ' ἐσπερίων μέχρι τῆς Ἀδριανῆς κατέβη θαλάσσης.

αἱ μὲν οὖν ἐπιφανέσταται τῶν πρόσθεν ἡγεμονιῶν, ἃς παρειλήφαμεν ἐκ τῆς ἱστορίας, τοσαύτην ἀκμὴν τε καὶ ἰσχὺν λαβοῦσαι κατελύθησαν: τὰς γὰρ Ἑλληνικὰς δυνάμεις οὐκ ἄξιον αὐταῖς ἀντιπαρεξετάζειν, οὔτε μέγεθος ἀρχῆς οὔτε χρόνον ἐπιφανείας [p. 5] [2] τοσοῦτον ὅσον ἐκεῖναι λαβοῦσας. Ἀθηναῖοι μὲν γε αὐτῆς μόνον ἥρξαν τῆς παραλίου дуεῖν δέοντα ἐβδομήκοντα ἔτη καὶ οὐδὲ ταύτης ἀπάσης, ἀλλὰ τῆς ἐντὸς Εὐξείνου τε πόντου καὶ τοῦ Παμφυλίου πελάγους, ὅτε μάλιστα ἐθαλασσοκράτουν. Λακεδαιμόνιοι δὲ Πελοποννήσου καὶ τῆς ἄλλης κρατοῦντες Ἑλλάδος ἕως Μακεδονίας τὴν ἀρχὴν προὔριβασαν, ἐπαύσθησαν δὲ ὑπὸ Θηβαίων οὐδὲ ὅλα τριάκοντα ἔτη τὴν ἀρχὴν κατασχόντες. [3] ἡ δὲ Ῥωμαίων πόλις ἀπάσης μὲν ἄρχει γῆς ὅση μὴ ἀνέμβατός ἐστιν, ἀλλ' ὑπ' ἀνθρώπων κατοικεῖται, πάσης δὲ κρατεῖ θαλάσσης, οὐ μόνον τῆς ἐντὸς Ἡρακλείων στηλῶν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τῆς Ὠκεανίτιδος ὅση πλεῖσθαι μὴ ἀδύνατός ἐστι, πρώτη καὶ μόνη τῶν ἐκ τοῦ παντὸς αἰῶνος μνημονευομένων ἀνατολὰς καὶ δύσεις ὅρους ποιησαμένη τῆς δυναστείας: χρόνος τε αὐτῇ τοῦ κράτους οὐ βραχύς, ἀλλ' ὅσος οὐδεμιᾶ τῶν ἄλλων οὔτε πόλεων οὔτε βασιλειῶν. [4] εὐθύς μὲν γὰρ ἐξ ἀρχῆς μετὰ τὸν οἰκισμὸν τὰ πλησίον ἔθην πολλὰ καὶ μάχιμα ὄντα προσήγετο καὶ προὔβαινεν αἰεὶ πᾶν δουλουμένη τὸ ἀντίπαλον: ταῦτα δὲ πέντε καὶ τετταράκοντα ἦδη πρὸς τοῖς ἑπτακοσίοις ἔτεσιν ἐστιν εἰς ὑπάτους Κλαύδιον Νέρωνα τὸ δεῦτερον ὑπατεῦοντα καὶ Πείσωνα Καλπούρνιον, οἱ κατὰ τὴν τρίτην ἐπὶ ταῖς ἐνενήκοντα καὶ ἑκατὸν ὀλυμπιάσιν ἀπεδείχθησαν. [p. 6] ἐξ οὗ δὲ ὅλης ἐκράτησεν Ἰταλίας καὶ ἐπὶ τὴν ἀπάντων ἐθάρρησεν ἀρχὴν προελθεῖν, ἐκβαλοῦσα μὲν ἐκ τῆς θαλάττης Καρχηδονίους, οἱ πλείστην ἔσχον ναυτικὴν δύναμιν, ὑποχείριον δὲ λαβοῦσα Μακεδονίαν, ἣ [5] τέως ἐδόκει μέγιστον ἰσχύειν κατὰ γῆν, οὐδὲν ἔτι ἀντίπαλον ἔχουσα οὔτε βάρβαρον φύλον οὔτε Ἑλληνικὸν γενεὰν ἐβδόμην ἤδη τὴν ἐπ’ ἑμοῦ διαμένει παντὸς ἄρχουσα τόπου· ἔθνος δὲ οὐδὲν ὡς εἰπεῖν ἐστίν, ὃ περὶ τῆς κοινῆς ἡγεμονίας ἢ τοῦ μὴ ^[6] ἄρχεσθαι πρὸς αὐτὴν διαφέρεται. ἀλλὰ γὰρ ὅτι μὲν οὔτε τὴν ἐλαχίστην τῶν ὑποθέσεων προήρημαι, καθάπερ ἔφην, οὔτε περὶ φαύλας καὶ ἀσήμευς πράξεις ἔγνωκα διατρίβειν, ἀλλὰ περὶ τε πόλεως γράφω τῆς περιφανεστάτης καὶ περὶ πράξεων ὧν οὐκ ἂν ἔχοι τις ἐτέρας ἐπιδείξασθαι λαμπροτέρας, οὐκ οἶδ’ ὅ,τι δεῖ πλείω λέγειν.

ὅτι δ’ οὐκ ἄνευ λογισμοῦ καὶ προνοίας ἔμφρονος ἐπὶ τὰ παλαιὰ τῶν ἱστορουμένων περὶ αὐτῆς ἐτραπόμην, ἀλλ’ ἔχων εὐλογίστους ἀποδοῦναι τῆς προαιρέσεως αἰτίας, ὀλίγα βούλομαι προειπεῖν, ἵνα μὴ τινες ἐπιτιμήσωσί μοι τῶν πρὸς ἅπαντα φιλατίων, οὐδὲν πω τῶν μελλόντων δηλοῦσθαι προακηκοότες, ὅτι τῆς ἀοιδίμου γενομένης καθ’ ἡμᾶς πόλεως ἀδόξους καὶ πάνυ ταπεινὰς τὰς πρώτας ἀφορμὰς λαβοῦσης καὶ οὐκ ἀξίας ἱστορικῆς ἀναγραφῆς, οὐ πολλὰς δὲ γενεαῖς πρότερον εἰς ἐπιφάνειαν καὶ δόξαν ἀφιγμένης, [p. 7] ἐξ οὗ τὰς τε Μακεδονικὰς καθεῖλε δυναστείας καὶ τοὺς Φοινικικοὺς κατῴρωσε πολέμους, ἐξόν μοι τῶν ἐνδόξων τινὰ λαβεῖν αὐτῆς ὑποθέσεων, ἐπὶ τὴν οὐδὲν ἔχουσαν ἐπιφανὲς ἀρχαιολογίαν ἀπέκλινα. ^[2] ἔτι γὰρ ἀγνοεῖται παρὰ τοῖς Ἑλλήσιν ὀλίγου δεῖν πᾶσιν ἢ παλαιὰ τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως ἱστορία, καὶ δόξαι τινὲς οὐκ ἀληθεῖς, ἀλλ’ ἐκ τῶν ἐπιτυχόντων ἀκουσμάτων τὴν ἀρχὴν λαβοῦσαι τοὺς πολλοὺς ἐξηπατήκασιν, ὡς ἀνεστίους μὲν τινὰς καὶ πλάνητας καὶ βαρβάρους καὶ οὐδὲ τοῦτους ἐλευθέρους οἰκιστὰς εὐχομένης, οὐ δι’ εὐσέβειαν δὲ καὶ δικαιοσύνην καὶ τὴν ἄλλην ἀρετὴν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀπάντων ἡγεμονίαν σὺν χρόνῳ παρελθούσης, ἀλλὰ δι’ αὐτοματισμὸν τινὰ καὶ τύχην ἄδικον εἰκῇ δωρουμένην τὰ μέγιστα τῶν ἀγαθῶν τοῖς ἀνεπιτηδαιοτάτοις· καὶ οἳ γε κακοηθέστεροι κατηγορεῖν εἰώθασιν τῆς τύχης κατὰ τὸ φανερόν ὡς βαρβάρων τοῖς πονηροτάτοις τὰ τῶν Ἑλλήνων ποριζομένης ἀγαθὰ. ^[3] καὶ τί δεῖ περὶ τῶν ἄλλων λέγειν, ὅπου γε καὶ τῶν συγγραφέων τινὲς ἐτόλμησαν ἐν ταῖς ἱστορίαις ταῦτα γράψαντες καταλιπεῖν, βασιλεῦσι βαρβάροις μισοῦσι τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, οἷς δουλεῦντες αὐτοὶ καὶ τὰ καθ’ ἡδονὰς ὁμιλοῦντες διετέλεσεν, οὔτε δικαίας οὔτε ἀληθεῖς ἱστορίας χαριζόμενοι; [p. 8] ταύτας δὴ τὰς πεπλανημένας, ὥσπερ ἔφην, ὑπολήψεις ἐξελέσθαι τῆς διανοίας τῶν πολλῶν προαιρούμενος καὶ ἀντικατασκευάσαι τὰς ἀληθεῖς, περὶ μὲν τῶν οἰκισάντων τὴν πόλιν, οἵτινες ἦσαν καὶ κατὰ τινὰς ἑκαστοὶ καιροὺς συνῆλθον καὶ τίσι τύχαις χρησάμενοι τὰς πατρίους οἰκῆσεις ἐξέλιπον, ἐν ταύτῃ δηλώσω τῇ γραφῇ, δι’ ἧς Ἑλληνὰς τε αὐτοὺς ὄντας ἐπιδείξω ὑποσχοῦμαι καὶ οὐκ ἐκ τῶν ἐλαχίστων ἢ ^[2] φαυλοτάτων ἐθνῶν συνεληλυθότας. περὶ δὲ τῶν πράξεων, αἷς μετὰ τὸν οἰκισμὸν εὐθέως ἀπεδείξαντο, καὶ περὶ τῶν ἐπιτηδευμάτων, ἐξ ὧν εἰς τοσαύτην ἡγεμονίαν προῆλθον οἱ μετ’ αὐτοὺς, ἀπὸ τῆς μετὰ ταύτην ἀρξάμενος ἀναγραφῆς ἀφηγήσομαι, παραλιπὼν οὐδὲν ὅση μοι δύναμις τῶν ἀξίων ἱστορίας, ἵνα τοῖς γε μαθοῦσι τὴν ἀλήθειαν ἃ προσήκει περὶ τῆς πόλεως τῆσδε παραστῇ φρονεῖν, εἰ μὴ παντάπασι ἀγρίως καὶ δυσμενῶς διάκεινται πρὸς αὐτήν, καὶ μήτε ἄχθεσθαι τῇ ὑποτάξει κατὰ τὸ εἶκός γενομένη (φύσεως γὰρ δὴ νόμος ἅπανσι κοινός, ὃν οὐδεὶς καταλύσει χρόνος, ἄρχειν αἰεὶ τῶν ἡττώνων τοὺς κρείττονας· μήτε κατηγορεῖν τῆς τύχης, ὥς οὐκ ἐπιτηδεῖω πόλει τηλικαύτην ἡγεμονίαν καὶ τοσοῦτον ἤδη χρόνον προῖκα δωρησαμένης· [3] μαθοῦσι γε δὴ παρὰ τῆς ἱστορίας, ὅτι μυρίας ἡνεγκεν ἀνδρῶν ἀρετὰς εὐθὺς ἐξ ἀρχῆς μετὰ τὸν οἰκισμὸν, [p. 9] ὧν οὐτ' εὐσεβεστέρους οὔτε δικαιότερους οὔτε σωφροσύνῃ πλείονι παρὰ πάντα τὸν βίον χρησαμένους οὐδὲ γε τὰ πολέμια κρείττους ἀγωνιστὰς οὐδεμία πόλις ἡνεγκεν οὔτε Ἑλλὰς οὔτε βάρβαρος, εἰ δὴ ἀπέσται τοῦ λόγου τὸ ἐπιφθονον· ἔχει γάρ τι καὶ τοιοῦτον ἢ τῶν παραδόξων καὶ θαυμαστῶν ὑπόσχεσις. [4] οἱ δὲ σύμπαντες οἱ τοσοῦτο περιθέντες αὐτῇ δυναστείας μέγεθος ἀγνοοῦνται πρὸς Ἑλλήνων, οὐ τυχόντες ἀξιολόγου συγγραφέως· οὐδεμία γὰρ ἀκριβῆς ἐξελέλυθε περὶ αὐτῶν Ἑλληνὶς ἱστορία μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων, ὅτι μὴ κεφαλαιώδεις ἐπιτομαὶ πάννυ βραχεῖαι, πρώτου μὲν, ὅσα κάμει εἰδέναι, τὴν Ῥωμαϊκὴν ἀρχαιολογίαν ἐπιδραμόντος Ἱερωνόμου τοῦ Καρδιανοῦ συγγραφέως ἐν τῇ περὶ τῶν ἐπιγόνων πραγματείᾳ· ἔπειτα Τιμαίου τοῦ Σικελιώτου τὰ μὲν ἀρχαῖα τῶν ἱστοριῶν ἐν ταῖς κοιναῖς ἱστορίαις ἀφηγησαμένου, τοὺς δὲ πρὸς Πύρρον τὸν Ἡπειρώτην πολέμους εἰς ἰδίαν καταχωρίσαντος πραγματεῖαν· ἅμα δὲ τοῦτοις Ἀντιγόνου τε καὶ Πολυβίου καὶ Σιληνοῦ καὶ μυρίων ἄλλων τοῖς αὐτοῖς πράγμασιν οὐχ ὁμοίως ἐπιβαλόντων, ὧν ἕκαστος ὀλίγα καὶ οὐδὲ ἀκριβῶς αὐτῷ διεσπουδασμένα, ἀλλ' ἐκ τῶν ἐπιτυχόντων ἀκουσμάτων συνθεῖς ἀνέγραψεν. [2] ὁμοίως δὲ τοῦτοις [p. 10] καὶ οὐδὲν διαφόρους ἐξέδωκαν ἱστορίας καὶ Ῥωμαίων ὅσοι τὰ παλαιὰ ἔργα τῆς πόλεως Ἑλληνικῇ διαλέκτῳ συνέγραψαν, ὧν εἰσι πρεσβύτατοι Κόιντος τε Φάβιος καὶ Λεύκιος Κίγκιος, ἀμφοτέρω κατὰ τοὺς Φοινικικοὺς ἀκμάσαντες πολέμους. τούτων δὲ τῶν ἀνδρῶν ἐκάτερος, οἷς μὲν αὐτὸς ἔργοις παρεγένετο, διὰ τὴν ἐμπειρίαν ἀκριβῶς ἀνέγραψε, τὰ δὲ ἀρχαῖα τὰ μετὰ τὴν κτίσιν τῆς πόλεως γενόμενα κεφαλαιωδῶς ἐπέδραμεν. [3] διὰ ταύτας μὲν δὴ τὰς αἰτίας ἔδοξε μοι μὴ παρελθεῖν καλὴν ἱστορίαν ἐγκαταλειφθεῖσαν ὑπὸ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων ἀμνημόνευτον, ἐξ ἧς ἀκριβῶς γραφείσης συμβήσεται τὰ κράτιστα καὶ δικαιότατα τῶν ἔργων· τοῖς μὲν ἐκπεπληρωκόσι τὴν ἑαυτῶν μοῖραν ἀνδράσιν ἀγαθοῖς δόξης αἰωνίου τυχεῖν καὶ πρὸς τῶν ἐπιγιγνομένων ἐπαινεῖσθαι, ἃ ποιεῖ τὴν θνητὴν φύσιν ὁμοιοῦσθαι τῇ θεῇ καὶ μὴ συναποθνήσκειν αὐτῆς τὰ ἔργα τοῖς σώμασι· [4] τοῖς δὲ ἀπ' ἐκείνων τῶν ἰσοθέων ἀνδρῶν νῦν τε οἷσι καὶ ὕστερον ἐσομένοις μὴ τὸν ἡδιστὸν τε καὶ ῥᾶστον αἰρεῖσθαι τῶν βίων, ἀλλὰ τὸν εὐγενέστατον καὶ φιλοτιμότατον, ἐνθυμουμένους ὅτι τοὺς εὐλιπόμενους καλὰς τὰς πρώτας ἐκ τοῦ γένους ἀφορμὰς μέγα ἐφ' ἑαυτοῖς προσήκει φρονεῖν καὶ μηδὲν ἀνάξιον ἐπιτηδεύειν τῶν προγόνων· [5] ἐμοὶ δὲ, ὅς οὐχὶ κολακείας χάριν ἐπὶ ταύτην [p. 11] ἀπέκλινα τὴν πραγματείαν, ἀλλὰ τῆς ἀληθείας καὶ τοῦ δικαίου προνοούμενος, ὧν δεῖ στοχάζεσθαι πᾶσαν ἱστορίαν, πρῶτον μὲν ἐπιδείξασθαι τὴν ἑαυτοῦ διάνοιαν, ὅτι χρηστὴ πρὸς ἅπαντας ἀνθρώπους ἐστὶ τοὺς ἀγαθοὺς καὶ φιλοθεώρους τῶν καλῶν ἔργων καὶ μεγάλων· ἔπειτα χαριστηρίους ἀμοιβὰς, ἃς ἐμοὶ δύνამις ἦν, ἀποδοῦναι τῇ πόλει, παιδείας τε

ἀποδεδωκώς δὲ τὸν ὑπὲρ τῆς προαιρέσεως λόγον ἔτι βούλομαι καὶ περὶ τῶν ἀφορμῶν εἰπεῖν, αἷς ἐχρησάμην ὅτ' ἔμελλον ἐπιχειρεῖν τῇ γραφῇ: ἴσως γὰρ οἱ προανεγνωκότες Ἰερώνυμον ἢ Τίμαιον ἢ Πολύβιον ἢ τῶν ἄλλων τινὰ συγγραφέων, ὑπὲρ ὧν ἐποίησάμην λόγον ὀλίγῳ πρότερον ὡς ἐπισευσρκότων τὴν γραφὴν, πολλὰ τῶν ὑπ' ἐμοῦ γραφομένων οὐχ εὐρηκότες παρ' ἐκείνοις κείμενα σχεδιάζειν υπολήφονται με καὶ πόθεν ἡ τούτων γνῶσις εἰς ἐμὲ παραγέγονεν ἀζιώσουσι μαθεῖν. ἵνα δὴ μὴ τοιαύτη δόξα παραστῇ τισι περὶ ἐμοῦ, βέλτιον ἀφ' ὧν ὠρμήθηον λόγων τε καὶ [2] ὑπομνηματισμῶν προειπεῖν. ἐγὼ καταπλεύσας εἰς Ἰταλίαν ἅμα τῷ καταλυθῆναι τὸν ἐμφύλιον πόλεμον ὑπὸ τοῦ Σεβαστοῦ Καίσαρος ἐβδόμης καὶ ὀγδοηκοστῆς καὶ ἑκατοστῆς Ὀλυμπιάδος μεσοῦσης, καὶ τὸν ἐξ ἐκείνου χρόνον ἐτῶν δύο καὶ εἴκοσι μέχρι τοῦ παρόντος γενόμενον ἐν Ῥώμῃ διατρίψας, διᾶλεκτόν τε τὴν Ῥωμαϊκὴν ἐκμαθὼν καὶ γραμμάτων τῶν ἐπιχωρίων [p. 12] λαβὼν ἐπιστήμην, ἐν παντὶ τούτῳ τῷ χρόνῳ τὰ συντείνοντα πρὸς τὴν ὑπόθεσιν ταύτην διετέλουν πραγματευόμενος. [3] καὶ τὰ μὲν παρὰ τῶν λογιστῶν ἀνδρῶν, οἷς εἰς ὁμιλίαν ἦλθον, διδασκῇ παραλαβὼν, τὰ δ' ἐκ τῶν ἱστοριῶν ἀναλεξάμενος, ἃς οἱ πρὸς αὐτῶν ἐπαινούμενοι Ῥωμαίων συνέγραψαν Πόρκιός τε Κάτων καὶ Φάβιος Μάξιμος καὶ Οὐαλέριος ὁ Ἀντιεὺς καὶ Λικίνιος Μάκερ Αἴλιοι τε καὶ Γέλλιοι καὶ Καλπούρνιοι καὶ ἕτεροι συχνοὶ πρὸς τοῦτοις ἄνδρες οὐκ ἀφανεῖς, ἀπ' ἐκείνων ὀρμώμενος τῶν πραγματειῶν εἰσὶ δὲ ταῖς Ἑλληνικαῖς χρονογραφίαις ἔοικυαί, τότε ἐπεχείρησα τῇ γραφῇ. [4] ταῦτα μὲν οὖν ὑπὲρ ἐμαυτοῦ διείλεγμαί. λοιπὸν ἔτι δέ μοι καὶ περὶ τῆς ἱστορίας αὐτῆς προειπεῖν, τίσι τε αὐτὴν περιλαμβάνω χρόνοις καὶ περὶ τίνων ποιοῦμαι πραγμάτων τὴν διήγησιν καὶ ποταπὸν ἀποδίδωμι τὸ σχῆμα τῇ πραγματείᾳ.

ἄρχομαι μὲν οὖν τῆς ἱστορίας ἀπὸ τῶν παλαιωτάτων μύθων, οὓς παρέλιπον οἱ πρὸ ἐμοῦ γενόμενοι συγγραφεῖς χαλεποὺς ὄντας ἄνευ πραγματείας μεγάλης ἐξευρεθῆναι: [2] καταβιβάζω δὲ τὴν διήγησιν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν τοῦ πρώτου Φοινικικοῦ πολέμου τὴν γενομένην ἐνιαυτῷ τρίτῳ τῆς ὀγδόης καὶ εἰκοστῆς ἐπὶ ταῖς ἑκατὸν Ὀλυμπιάσιν. ἀφηγοῦμαι δὲ τοὺς τε ὀθνεῖους πολέμους τῆς πόλεως ἅπαντας, ὅσους ἐν ἐκείνοις τοῖς χρόνοις ἐπολέμησε, καὶ τὰς ἐμφυλίους στάσεις [p. 13] ὅποσας ἐστασίασεν, ἐξ οἷων αἰτίων ἐγένοντο καὶ δι' οἷων τρόπων τε καὶ λόγων κατελύθησαν: πολιτειῶν τε ἰδέας διέξειμι πάσας ὅσαις ἐχρήσατο βασιλευσμένη τε καὶ μετὰ τὴν κατάλυσιν τῶν μονάρχων, καὶ τίς ἦν αὐτῶν ἐκάστης ὁ κόσμος: ἔθη τε τὰ κράτιστα καὶ νόμους τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους διηγοῦμαι καὶ συλλήβδην ὅλον ἀποδείκνυμι τὸν ἀρχαῖον βίον τῆς πόλεως. [3] σχῆμα δὲ ἀποδίδωμι τῇ πραγματείᾳ οὗθ' ὅποιον οἱ τοὺς πολέμους μόνους ἀναγράψαντες ἀποδεδώκασιν ταῖς ἱστορίαις οὗθ' ὅποιον οἱ τὰς πολιτείας αὐτὰς ἐξ ἑαυτῶν διηγησάμενοι οὔτε ταῖς χρονικαῖς παραπλήσιον, ἃς ἐξέδωκαν οἱ τὰς Ἀθίδας πραγματευσάμενοι: μονοειδεῖς γὰρ ἐκείναι τε καὶ ταχὺ προσιστάμεναι τοῖς ἀκούουσιν: ἀλλ' ἐξ ἀπάσης ἰδέας μικτὸν ἐναγωνίου τε καὶ θεωρητικῆς καὶ ἡδείας, ἵνα καὶ τοῖς περὶ τοὺς πολιτικοὺς διατρίβουσι λόγους καὶ τοῖς περὶ τὴν φιλόσοφον ἔσπουδακόσι θεωρίαν καὶ εἴ τισιν ἀοχλήτου δεήσει διαγωγῆς ἐν ἱστορικοῖς ἀναγνώσμασιν, ^[4] ἀποχρῶντως ἔχουσα φαίνεται. ἡ μὲν οὖν ἱστορία περὶ τοιούτων τε γενήσεται πραγμάτων καὶ τοιούτου τεύξεται σχήματος· ὁ δὲ συντάξας αὐτὴν Διονύσιος εἰμι Ἀλεξάνδρου Ἀλικαρνασεύς· ἄρχομαι δ' ἐνθένδε.

ὁ δὲ χρόνος ἐν ᾧ τὸ Πελασγικὸν κακοῦσθαι ἤρξατο, δευτέρα γενεὰ σχεδὸν πρὸ τῶν Τρωικῶν ἐγένετο· διέτεινε δὲ καὶ μετὰ τὰ Τρωικά, ἕως εἰς ἐλάχιστον συνεστάλη τὸ ἔθνος. ἔξω γὰρ Κρότωνος τῆς ἐν Ὀμβρικοῖς πόλεως ἀξιολόγου, καὶ εἰ δὴ τι ἄλλο ἐν τῇ Ἀβοριγίνων οἰκισθὲν ἐτύγχανε, τὰ λοιπὰ τῶν Πελασγῶν διεφθάρη πολίσματα. ἡ δὲ Κρότων ἄχρι πολλοῦ διαφυλάξασα τὸ παλαιὸν σχῆμα χρόνος οὐ πολὺς ἐξ οὗ τὴν τε ὀνομασίαν καὶ τοὺς οἰκήτορας ἥλλαξε· καὶ νῦν ἐστὶ Ῥωμαίων ἀποικία, καλεῖται δὲ ^[2] Κορθωνία. οἱ δὲ τῶν ἐκλιπόντων τὴν χώραν Πελασγῶν κατασχόντες τὰς πόλεις ἄλλοι τε πολλοὶ ἦσαν, ὥς ἕκαστοί πρὸς ἑταίρους ὁμοτέρμονας τὰς οἰκήσεις ἔχοντες, καὶ ἐν τοῖς μάλιστα πλείστας τε καὶ ἀρίστας Τυρρηνοί. τοὺς δὲ Τυρρηνοὺς οἱ μὲν αὐτόχθονας Ἰταλίας ἀποφαινοῦσιν, οἱ δὲ ἐπὶ ἡλυσδας· καὶ τὴν ἐπωνυμίαν αὐτοῖς ταύτην οἱ μὲν αὐθιγενεὺς τὸ ἔθνος ποιοῦντες ἐπὶ τῶν ἐρυμάτων, ἃ πρῶτοι τῶν τῆδε οἰκούντων κατεσκεύασαντο, τεθῆναι λέγουσι: τύρσεις γὰρ καὶ παρὰ Τυρρηνοῖς αἱ ἐντεῖχιοι καὶ στεγαναὶ οἰκῆσεις ὀνομάζονται ὥσπερ παρ' Ἑλλήσιν. ἀπὸ δὴ τοῦ συμβεβηκότος αὐτοῖς ἀξιοῦσι τεθῆναι τοῦνομα, ὥς περ καὶ τοῖς ἐν Ἀσίᾳ Μοσυνοῖκοις: οἰκοῦσι μὲν γὰρ δὴ κάκεῖνοι ἐπὶ ξυλίνοις ὥσπερ ἀνὰ πύργοις ὑψηλοῖς σταυρώμασι, μόσυνας αὐτὰ καλοῦντες. [p. 42] οἱ δὲ μετανάστας μυθολογοῦντες αὐτοὺς εἶναι Τυρρηνὸν ἀποφαινοῦσιν ἡγεμόνα τῆς ἀποικίας γενόμενον ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ θέσθαι τῷ ἔθνει τοῦνομα: τοῦτον δὲ Λυδὸν εἶναι τὸ γένος ἐκ τῆς πρότερον Μηονίας καλουμένης, παλαιὸν δὴ τινα μετανάστην ὄντα: εἶναι δ' αὐτὸν πέμπτον ἀπὸ Διὸς, λέγοντες ἐκ Διὸς καὶ Γῆς Μάνην γενέσθαι πρῶτον ἐν τῇ γῇ ταύτῃ βασιλέα: τοῦτου δὲ καὶ Καλλιρόης τῆς Ὠκεανοῦ θυγατρὸς γεννηθῆναι Κότυν: τῷ δὲ Κότυϊ γῆμαντι θυγατέρα Τύλλου τοῦ γηγενοῦς Ἀλὶν δύο γενέσθαι παῖδας Ἀσίην καὶ Ἄτυν: [2] ἐκ δὲ Ἄτυος καὶ Καλλιθέας τῆς Χωραίου Λυδὸν φῦναι καὶ Τυρρηνόν: καὶ τὸν μὲν Λυδὸν αὐτοῦ καταμεῖναντα τὴν πατρῶαν ἀρχὴν παραλαβεῖν καὶ ἀπ' αὐτοῦ Λυδίαν τὴν γῆν ὀνομασθῆναι: Τυρρηνὸν δὲ τῆς ἀποικίας ἡγησάμενον πολλὴν κτήσασθαι τῆς Ἰταλίας καὶ τοῖς συναραμένοις τοῦ στόλου ταύτην θέσθαι τὴν ἐπωνυμίαν. [3] Ἡροδότῳ δὲ εἴρηνται Ἄτυος τοῦ Μάνεω παῖδες οἱ περὶ Τυρρηνὸν, καὶ ἡ μετανάστασις τῶν Μηόνων εἰς Ἰταλίαν οὐχ ἐκούσιος. φησὶ γὰρ ἐπὶ τῆς Ἄτυος ἀρχῆς ἀφορίαν καρπῶν ἐν τῇ γῇ Μηόνων γενέσθαι, τοὺς δὲ ἀνθρώπους τέως μὲν ὑπὸ τῆς φιλοχωρίας κρατούμενους πολλὰ διαμηχανήσασθαι πρὸς τὴν συμφορὰν [p. 43] ἀλεξητήρια, τῇ μὲν ἑτέρᾳ τῶν ἡμερῶν μέτρια σιτία προσφερομένους, τῇ δ' ἑτέρᾳ διακατεροῦντας: χρονίζοντος δὲ τοῦ δεινοῦ διανείμαντας ἅπαντα τὸν δῆμον διχῇ κλήρους ταῖς μοίραις ἐπιβαλεῖν: τὸν μὲν ἐπ' ἐξόδῳ τῆς χώρας, τὸν δ' ἐπὶ μονῇ, καὶ τῶν Ἄτυος παιδῶν τὸν μὲν τῇ προσνεῖμαι, τὸν δὲ τῇ. [4] λαχούσης δὲ τῆς ἅμα Λυδῷ μοίρας τὴν τοῦ μεῖναι τύχην, ἐκχωρήσαι τὴν ἑτέραν ἀπολαχοῦσαν τῶν χρημάτων τὰ μέρη, ὀρμισαμένην δ' ἐπὶ τοῖς ἐσπερίοις μέρεσι τῆς Ἰταλίας, ἔνθα ἦν Ὀμβρικοῖς ἢ οἰκησις, αὐτοῦ καταμεῖναςαν ἰδρύσασθαι πόλεις τὰς ἔτι καὶ κατ' αὐτὸν ἐκείνον οὔσας.

τούτῳ τῷ λόγῳ πολλοὺς καὶ ἄλλους συγγραφεῖς περὶ τοῦ Τυρρηνῶν γένους χρησαμένους ἐπίσταμαι, τοὺς μὲν κατὰ ταῦτά, τοὺς δὲ μεταθέντας τὸν οἰκισμὸν καὶ τὸν χρόνον. Ἐλεξαν γὰρ δὴ τινες Ἡρακλέους υἱὸν εἶναι τὸν Τυρρηνὸν ἐξ Ὀμφάλης τῆς Λυδῆς γενόμενον: τοῦτον δ' ἀφικόμενον εἰς Ἰταλίαν ἐκβαλεῖν τοὺς Πελασγοὺς ἐκ τῶν πόλεων οὐχ ἀπασῶν, ἀλλ' ὅσαι πέραν ἦσαν τοῦ Τεβέριος ἐν τῷ βορείῳ μέρει. ἕτεροι δὲ Τηλέφου παῖδα τὸν Τυρρηνὸν ἀποφαινοῦσιν, ἐλθεῖν δὲ μετὰ τὴν Τροίας ἄλωσιν εἰς Ἰταλίαν. [2] Ξάνθος δὲ ὁ Λυδὸς ἱστορίας παλαιᾶς εἰ καὶ τις ἄλλος [p. 44] ἔμπειρος ὢν, τῆς δὲ πατρίου καὶ βεβαιωτῆς ἂν οὐδενὸς ὑποδεέστερος νομισθεῖς, οὔτε Τυρρηνὸν ὠνόμακεν οὐδαμοῦ τῆς γραφῆς δυνάστην Λυδῶν οὔτε ἀποικίαν Μηόνων εἰς Ἰταλίαν κατασχοῦσαν ἐπίσταται Τυρρηνίας τε μνήμην ὡς Λυδῶν ἀποκτίσεως ταπεινοτέρων ἄλλων μεμνημένος οὐδεμίαν πεποιῆται: Ἄτυος δὲ παῖδας γενέσθαι λέγει Λυδὸν καὶ Τόρηβον, τοὺτους δὲ μερισμένους τὴν πατρῶαν ἀρχὴν ἐν Ἀσίᾳ καταμεῖναι ἀμφοτέρους: καὶ τοῖς ἔθνεσιν ὧν ἦρξαν ἐπ' ἐκείνων φησὶ τεθῆναι τὰς ὀνομασίας, λέγων ὧδε: ἅπὸ Λυδοῦ μὲν γίνονται Λυδοὶ, ἀπὸ Τορήβου δὲ Τόρηβοι. τούτων ἡ γλῶσσα ὀλίγον παραφέρει, καὶ νῦν ἔτι σιλλοῦσιν ἀλλήλους ῥήματα οὐκ ὀλίγα, ὥσπερ Ἰωνες καὶ ^[3] Δωριεῖς. Ἑλλάνικος δὲ ὁ Λέσβιος τοῦς Τυρρηνοὺς φησι Πελασγοὺς πρότερον καλουμένους, ἐπειδὴ κατώκησαν ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ, παραλαβεῖν ἦν νῦν ἔχουσι προσηγορίαν. ἔχει δὲ αὐτῷ ἐν Φορωνίδι ὁ λόγος ὧδε: τοῦ Πελασγοῦ τοῦ βασιλέος αὐτῶν καὶ Μενίπτης τῆς Πηνιεοῦ ἐγένετο Φράστωρ, τοῦ δὲ Ἀμύντωρ, τοῦ δὲ Τευταμίδης, τοῦ δὲ Νάνας. ἐπὶ τούτου βασιλεύοντες οἱ Πελασγοὶ ὑπ' Ἑλλήνων ἀνέστησαν, καὶ ἐπὶ Σπινῆτι ποταμῷ ἐν τῷ Ἰονίῳ κόλπῳ τὰς νῆας καταλιπόντες [p. 45] Κρότωνα πόλιν ἐν μεσογείῳ εἶλον καὶ ἐντεῦθεν ὁρμώμενοι τὴν νῦν καλομένην Τυρρηνίην ἔκτισαν'. ^[4] Μυρσίλος δὲ τὰ ἔμπαλιν ἀποφαινόμενος Ἑλλανικῶς τοὺς Τυρρηνοὺς φησιν, ἐπειδὴ τὴν ἑαυτῶν ἐξέλιπον, ἐν τῇ πλάνῃ μετονομασθῆναι Πελαργοὺς, τῶν ὀρνέων τοῖς καλουμένοις πελαργοῖς εἰκασθέντας, ὡς κατ' ἀγέλας ἐφοίτων εἰς τε τὴν Ἑλλάδα καὶ τὴν βάρβαρον: καὶ τοῖς Ἀθηναίοις τὸ τεῖχος τὸ περὶ τὴν ἀκρόπολιν, τὸ Πελαργικὸν καλούμενον, τούτους περιβαλεῖν.

ἐμοὶ μέντοι δοκοῦσιν ἅπαντες ἀμαρτάνειν οἱ πεισθέντες ἐν καὶ τὸ αὐτὸ ἔθνος εἶναι τὸ Τυρρηνικὸν καὶ τὸ Πελασγικόν. τῆς μὲν γὰρ ὀνομασίας ἀπολαῦσαι ποτε αὐτοὺς τῆς ἀλλήλων οὐδὲν θαυμαστὸν ἦν, ἐπεὶ καὶ ἄλλα δὴ τινα ἔθνη, τὰ μὲν Ἑλλήνων, τὰ δὲ βαρβάρων, ταῦτόν ἔπαθεν, ὥσπερ τὸ Τρωικὸν καὶ τὸ Φρυγικὸν ἀγχοῦ οἰκοῦντα ἀλλήλων: πολλοῖς γέ τοι γένος ἐν ἄμφω ταῦτ' ἐνομίσθη, κλήσει διαλλάττον οὐ φύσει καὶ οὐχ ἥκιστα τῶν ἄλλοθι που συνωνυμίας ἐπικερασθέντων καὶ τὰ ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ ^[2] ἔθνη τὸ αὐτὸ ἔπαθεν. ἦν γὰρ δὴ χρόνος ὅτε καὶ Λατῖνοι καὶ Ὀμβρικοὶ καὶ Αὔσονες καὶ συχνοὶ ἄλλοι Τυρρηνοὶ ὑφ' Ἑλλήνων ἐλέγοντο, τῆς διὰ μακροῦ τῶν ἐθνῶν οἰκήσεως ἀσαφῆ ποιούσης τοῖς πρόσω τὴν ἀκρίβειαν: τὴν τε Ῥώμην αὐτὴν πολλοὶ τῶν συγγραφέων [p. 46] Τυρρηνίδα πόλιν εἶναι ὑπέλαβον. ὀνομάτων μὲν οὖν ἐναλλαγὴν, ἐπεὶ καὶ βίων, πείθομαι τοῖς ἔθνεσι γενέσθαι: κοινοῦ δὲ ἄμφω μετεिल्φέναι γένους οὐ πείθομαι, πολλοῖς τε ἄλλοις καὶ μάλιστα ταῖς φωναῖς αὐτῶν διηλλαγμέναις καὶ οὐδεμίαν ὁμοιότητα σωζούσαις τεκμαιρόμενος. ^[3] καὶ γὰρ δὴ οὔτε Κροτωνιῆταί ὥς φησιν Ἡρόδοτος 'οὐδαμοῖσι τῶν νῦν σφεας περιοικεόντων εἰσὶν ὁμόγλωσσοι οὔτε Πλακιηνοὶ, σφίσι δ' ὁμόγλωσσοι. δηλοῦσι δὲ ὅτι, τὸν ἠνείκαντο γλώσσης χαρακτηῖρα μεταβαίνοντες ἐς ταῦτα τὰ χωρία, τοῦτον ἔχουσιν ἐν φυλακῇ. καίτοι θαυμάσειεν ἂν τις, εἰ Πλακιανοῖς μὲν τοῖς περὶ τὸν Ἑλλήσποντον οἰκοῦσιν ὁμοίαν διάλεκτον εἶχον οἱ Κροτωνιᾶται, ἐπειδὴ Πελασγοὶ ἦσαν ἀμφοτέρω ἀρχῇθεν, Τυρρηνοῖς δὲ τοῖς ἔγγιστα οἰκοῦσι μηδὲν ὁμοίαν. εἰ γὰρ τὸ συγγενὲς τῆς ὁμοφωνίας αἴτιον ὑποληπτέον, θάτερον δὴ που τῆς διαφωνίας: ^[4] οὐ γὰρ δὴ κατὰ γε τὸ αὐτὸ ἐγχωρεῖ νομίζειν τὰμφοτέρα. καὶ γὰρ δὴ τὸ μὲν ἕτερον καὶ λόγον τιν' ἂν εἶχε γενόμενον, τὸ δὴ τοὺς πρόσω τὰς οἰκήσεις ἀπ' ἀλλήλων ποιησαμένους ὁμοεθνεῖς μηκέτι διασώζειν τὸν αὐτόν τῆς διαλέκτου χαρακτηῖρα διὰ τὰς πρὸς τοὺς πέλας ὁμιλίας: τὸ δὲ τοὺς ἐν τοῖς αὐτοῖς οἰκοῦντας χωρίοις μηδ' ὅτιοῦν κατὰ τὴν φωνὴν

τοῦτῳ μὲν διὴ τῷ τεκμηρίῳ χρώμενος ἑτέρους εἶναι πείθομαι τῶν Τυρρηνῶν τοὺς Πελασγούς. οὐ μὲν διὴ οὐδὲ Λυδῶν τοὺς Τυρρηνοὺς ἀποίκους οἶμαι γενέσθαι: οὐδὲ γὰρ ἐκείνοις ὁμόγλωσσοι εἰσιν, οὐδ' ἔστιν εἰπεῖν ὡς φωνῇ μὲν οὐκέτι χρῶνται παραπλησίᾳ, ἄλλα δὲ τινα διασώζουσι τῆς μητροπόλεως γῆς μηνύματα. οὔτε γὰρ θεοὺς Λυδοῖς τοὺς αὐτοὺς νομίζουσιν οὔτε νόμοις οὐτ' ἐπιτηδεύμασι κέχρηνται παραπλησίοις, ἀλλὰ κατὰ γε ταῦτα πλέον Λυδῶν διαφέρουσιν ἢ Πελασγῶν. [2] κινδυνεύουσι γὰρ τοῖς ἀληθέσι μᾶλλον εἰκότα λέγειν οἱ μηδαμόθεν ἀφιγμένον, ἀλλ' ἐπιχώριον τὸ ἔθνος ἀποφαίνοντες, ἐπειδὴ ἀρχαῖον τε πάνυ καὶ οὐδενὶ ἄλλῳ γένει οὔτε ὁμόγλωσσον οὔτε ὁμοδιαιτον ὄν εὐρίσκεται. ὠνομάσθαι δ' ὑφ' Ἑλλήνων αὐτὸ τῇ προσηγορίᾳ ταύτῃ οὐδὲν κωλύει, καὶ διὰ τὰς ἐν ταῖς τύρσεσιν οἰκήσεις καὶ [3] ἀπ' ἀνδρὸς δυνάστου. Ῥωμαῖοι μέντοι ἄλλαις αὐτὸ προσαγορεύουσιν ὀνομασίαις: καὶ γὰρ ἐπὶ τῆς χώρας, ἐν ἣ ποτε ὤκησαν, Ἐτρουρίας προσαγορευομένης Ἐτρούσκους καλοῦσι τοὺς ἀνθρώπους: καὶ ἐπὶ τῆς ἐμπειρίας τῶν περὶ τὰ θεῖα σεβάσματα λειτουργιῶν, διαφέροντας εἰς αὐτὴν ἑτέρων, νῦν μὲν Τοῦσκους ἀσαφέστερον, [p. 48] πρότερον δ' ἀκριβοῦντες τοῦνομα ὥσπερ Ἑλληνες Θυοσκόους ἐκάλουν: αὐτοὶ μέντοι σφᾶς αὐτοὺς ἐπὶ τῶν ἡγεμόνων τινὸς Ῥασέννα τὸν αὐτὸν ἐκείνῳ [4] τρόπον ὀνομάζουσι. πόλεις δὲ ἄστινας ὤκισαν οἱ Τυρρηνοὶ, καὶ πολιτευμάτων οὐς 2 πινὰς κατεστήσαντο κόσμους, δυνάμιν τε ὁπόσῃν οἱ σύμπαντες καὶ ἔργα εἴ τινα μνήμης ἄξια διεπράξαντο, τύχαις τε ὁποῖαις ἐχρήσαντο, ἐν ἑτέρῳ δηλωθήσεται λόγῳ. [5] τὸ δ' οὖν Πελασγικὸν φύλον, ὅσον μὴ διεφθάρη τε καὶ κατὰ τὰς ἀποικίας διεσπάρσθη, διέμεινε δὲ ὀλίγον ἀπὸ πολλοῦ, μετὰ τῶν Ἀβοριγίνων πολιτευόμενον ἐν τούτοις ὑπελείφθη τοῖς χωρίοις, ὅπου σὺν χρόνῳ τὴν Ῥώμην οἱ ἔκγονοι αὐτῶν σὺν τοῖς ἄλλοις ἐπολίσαντο. καὶ τὰ μὲν ὑπὲρ τοῦ Πελασγικοῦ γένους μυθολογούμενα τοιαῦδε ἐστί.

μετὰ δὲ οὐ πολὺν χρόνον στόλος ἄλλος Ἑλληνικὸς εἰς ταῦτα τὰ χωρία τῆς Ἰταλίας κατὰγεται, ἐξηκοστῷ μάλιστα ἔτει πρότερον τῶν Τρωικῶν, ὡς αὐτοὶ Ῥωμαῖοι λέγουσιν, ἐκ Παλλαντίου πόλεως Ἀρκαδικῆς ἀναστάς. ἡγεῖτο δὲ τῆς ἀποικίας Εὐάνδρος Ἐρμοῦ λεγόμενος καὶ νύμφης τινὸς Ἀρκάσιν ἐπιχωρίας, ἣν οἱ μὲν Ἑλληνες Θέμιν εἶναι λέγουσι καὶ θεοφόρητον ἀποφαίνουσιν, οἱ δὲ τὰς Ῥωμαϊκὰς συγγράψαντες [p. 49] ἀρχαιολογίας τῇ πατρίῳ γλώσσῃ Καρμέντην ὀνομάζουσιν: εἴη δ' ἂν Ἑλλάδι φωνῇ Θεσπιωδὸς τῇ νύμφῃ τοῦνομα: τὰς μὲν γὰρ ὠδὰς καλοῦσι Ῥωμαῖοι κάρμινα, τὴν δὲ γυναῖκα ταύτην ὁμολογοῦσι δαιμονίῳ πνεύματι κατάσχετον γενομένην τὰ μέλλοντα συμβαίνειν τῷ πλήθει δι' ὠδῆς προλέγειν. [2] ὁ δὲ στόλος οὗτος οὐκ ἀπὸ τοῦ κοινοῦ τῆς γνώμης ἐπέμφθη, ἀλλὰ στασιάσαντος τοῦ δήμου τὸ ἐλαττωθὲν μέρος ἐκούσιον ὑπεξῆλθεν. ἐτύγχανε δὲ τότε τὴν βασιλείαν τῶν Ἀβοριγίνων παρειληφὼς Φαῦνος, Ἄρεος ὡς φασιν ἀπόγονος, ἀνὴρ μετὰ τοῦ δραστηρίου καὶ συνετὸς, καὶ αὐτὸν ὡς τῶν ἐπιχωρίων τινὰ Ῥωμαῖοι δαιμόνων θυσίαις καὶ ὠδαῖς γεραίρουσιν. οὗτος ὁ ἀνὴρ δεξιόμενος κατὰ πολλὴν φιλότητα τοὺς Ἀρκάδας ὀλίγους ὄντας, δίδωσιν αὐτοῖς τῆς αὐτοῦ χώρας ὁπόσῃν ἐβούλοντο. [3] οἱ δὲ Ἀρκάδες, ὡς ἡ Θέμις αὐτοῖς ἐπιθειάζουσα ἔφραζεν, αἰροῦνται λόφον ὀλίγον ἀπέχοντα τοῦ Τεβέριου, ὃς ἐστὶ νῦν ἐν μέσῳ μάλιστα τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως, καὶ κατασκευάζονται πρὸς αὐτῷ κώμην βραχεῖαν, δυσὶ ναυτικοῖς πληρώμασιν ἐν οἷς ἀπανέστησαν τῆς Ἑλλάδος ἀποχρῶσαν, ἣν ἔμελλε τὸ πεπρωμένον σὺν χρόνῳ θήσειν ὅσπιν οὐθ' Ἑλλάδα πόλιν οὔτε βάρβαρον κατὰ τε οἰκήσεως μέγεθος καὶ κατὰ δυναστείας ἀξίωσιν καὶ τὴν ἄλλην ἅπασαν εὐτυχίαν, [p. 50] χρόνον τε ὁπόσον ἂν ὁ θνητός αἰὼν ἀντέχῃ ^[4] πόλεων μάλιστα πασῶν μνημονευθησομένην. ὄνομα δὲ τῷ πολισμάτι τούτῳ τίθενται Παλλάντιον ἐπὶ τῆς ἐν Ἀρκαδίᾳ σφῶν μητροπόλεως· νῦν μέντοι Παλάτιον ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων λέγεται συγχέαντος τοῦ χρόνου τὴν ἀκρίβειαν καὶ παρέχει πολλοῖς ἀτόπων ἐτυμολογιῶν ἀφορμὰς:

ὧς δὲ τινες ἱστοροῦσιν, ὧν ἐστὶ καὶ Πολύβιος ὁ Μεγαλοπολίτης, ἐπὶ τινος μεираκίου Πάλλαντος αὐτόθι τελευτήσαντος· τοῦτον δὲ Ἡρακλέους εἶναι παῖδα καὶ Λαύνας τῆς Εὐάνδρου θυγατρὸς· χῶσαντα δ' αὐτῷ τὸν μητροπάτορα τάφον ἐπὶ τῷ λόφῳ Παλλάντιον ἐπὶ τοῦ μεираκίου τὸν τόπον ὀνομάσαι. ^[2] ἐγὼ μέντοι οὔτε τάφον ἐθεασάμην ἐν Ῥώμῃ Πάλλαντος οὔτε χοὰς ἔμαθον ἐπιτελουμένας οὔτε ἄλλο τῶν τοιουτοτρόπων οὐδὲν ἡδυνήθην ἰδεῖν, καίτοι γε οὐκ ἀμνήστου τῆς οἰκίας ταύτης ἀφειμένης οὐδ' ἄμοιρου τιμῶν αἷς τὸ δαιμόνιον γένος ὑπ' ἀνθρώπων γεραίρεται. καὶ γὰρ Εὐάνδρῳ θυσίας ἔμαθον ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων ἐπιτελουμένας ὁσέτη δημοσίᾳ καὶ Καρμέντῃ, καθάπερ τοῖς λοιποῖς ἥρωσι καὶ δαίμοσι, καὶ βωμοὺς ἐθεασάμην ἰδρυμένους, Καρμέντῃ μὲν ὑπὸ τῷ καλουμένῳ Καπιτωλίῳ παρὰ ταῖς Καρμεντίσι πύλαις, Εὐάνδρῳ δὲ πρὸς ἑτέρῳ τῶν λόφων Αὐεντίνῳ λεγομένῳ τῆς Τριδύμου πύλης οὐ πρόσω· Πάλλαντι δὲ ^[3] οὐδὲν οἶδα τούτων γινόμενον. οἱ δ' οὖν Ἀρκάδες [p. 51] ὑπὸ τῷ λόφῳ συνοικισθέντες τὰ τε ἄλλα διεκόσμουσαν τὸ κτίσμα τοῖς οἴκοθεν νομίμοις χρώμενοι καὶ ἱερὰ ἰδρύνονται, πρῶτον μὲν τῷ Λυκαίῳ Πανὶ τῆς Θέμιδος ἐξηγουμένης Ἀρκάσι γὰρ θεῶν ἀρχαιότατός τε καὶ τιμιώτατος ὁ Πάν' χωρίον ἐξευρόντες ἐπιτήδειον, ὃ καλοῦσι Ῥωμαῖοι Λουπερκάλιον, ἡμεῖς δ' ἂν εἴποιμεν Λύκαιον. ^[4] νῦν μὲν οὖν συμπεπολισμένων τῷ τεμένει τῶν πέριξ χωρίων δυσεῖκαστος γέγονεν ἡ παλαιὰ τοῦ τόπου φύσις, ἣν δὲ τὸ ἀρχαῖον ὧς λέγεται σπήλαιον ὑπὸ τῷ λόφῳ μέγα, δρυμῶ λασίῳ κατηρεφές, καὶ κρηνίδες ὑπὸ ταῖς πέτραις ἐμβύθιοι, ἣ τε προσεχῆς τῷ κρημνῷ νάπη πυκνοῖς καὶ μεγάλοις δένδρεσιν ἐπίσκιος. ^[5] ἔνθα βωμὸν ἰδρυσάμενοι τῷ θεῷ τὴν πάτριον θυσίαν ἐπετέλεσαν, ἣν μέχρι τοῦ καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνου Ῥωμαῖοι θύουσιν ἐν μηνὶ Φεβρουαρίῳ μετὰ τὰς χειμερινὰς τροπὰς, οὐδὲν τῶν τότε γενομένων μετακινούντες· ὁ δὲ τρόπος τῆς θυσίας ἐν τοῖς ἔπειτα λεχθήσεται. ἐπὶ δὲ τῇ κορυφῇ τοῦ λόφου τὸ τῆς Νίκης τέμενος ἐξελόντες θυσίας καὶ ταύτῃ κατεστήσαντο διετησίους, αἷς καὶ ἐπ' ἐμοῦ Ῥωμαῖοι ἔθουν.

ταύτην δὲ Ἀρκάδες μυθολογοῦσι Πάλλαντος εἶναι θυγατέρα τοῦ Λυκάονος· τιμὰς δὲ παρ' ἀνθρώπων αἷς ἔχει νῦν Ἀθηναῖς βουλήσει λαβεῖν, γενομένην τῆς θεοῦ σὺντροφον. δοθῆναι γὰρ εὐθὺς ἀπὸ γονῆς τὴν Ἀθηναῖν Πάλλαντι ὑπὸ Διὸς καὶ παρ' ἐκείνῳ τέως εἰς ὥραν ἀφίκετο τραφῆναι. ἰδρύναντο [p. 52] δὲ καὶ Δήμητρος ἱερὸν καὶ τὰς θυσίας αὐτῇ διὰ γυναικῶν

ἐν ᾧ δὲ οὗτοι τὰς εὐχὰς ἐποίησαντο, ἡ μέλλουσα καθιεροῦσθαι ὕς ἐγκύμων οὔσα καὶ οὐ πρόσω τόκου καταρχομένων αὐτῆς τῶν θυτῶν διασεισαμένη καὶ ἀποφυγοῦσα τοὺς κατέχοντας ἄνω θαλάττης [p. 90] ἔθει. Αἰνείας δὲ μαθὼν ὅτι ταύτην ἄρα τὴν τετράποδα ἡγεμόνα τὸ θέσφατον αὐτοῖς ἐδήλου παρηκολούθει σὺν ὀλίγοις μικρὸν ὑπολειπόμενος, δεδοικὼς μὴ ὑπὸ θορύβου τῶν διωκόντων ἀποτραπείη τῆς κατὰ [2] δαίμονα ὁδοῦ. καὶ ἡ μὲν ἀμφὶ τοὺς εἴκοσι καὶ τέτταρας σταδίους ἀπὸ θαλάττης διελθοῦσα λόφον τινὰ προσανατρέχει, ἔνθα ὑπὸ καμάτου μοχθήσασα καθέζεται. τῷ δὲ Αἰνείᾳ τέλος γὰρ τὰ μαντεύματα ἐφαίνετο ἔχειν ὁρῶντι τὸ χωρίον γῆς τε οὐκ ἐν καλῷ καὶ θαλάττης πρόσω καὶ οὐδὲ ταύτης ἐνορμίσασθαι ἀγαθῆς, πολλὴ παρίσταται ἀμηχανία, πότερα χρή τῷ θεσφάτῳ πειθομένους αὐτοῦ κατοικεῖν, ἔνθα λυπηρὸν εἰσαεῖ βίον τρίψουσιν οὐδενὸς χρηστοῦ ἀπολαύοντες, ἢ προσωτέρω χωρητέον ἐπὶ γῆς ἀμείνονος μάστευσιν. [3] ταῦτα δὲ αὐτῷ διανοομένῳ καὶ τοὺς θεοὺς ἔχοντι δι' αἰτίας ἄφνω λέγεται φωνή τις ἐκ τῆς νάπης ἀφανοῦς ὄντος τοῦ φθεγγομένου προσπεσεῖν κελεύουσα μένειν τε αὐτόθι καὶ πολίξεσθαι διὰ ταχέων καὶ μὴ τῷ ἀπόρῳ τῆς παρούσης δόξης ἐπιτρέψαντα, εἰ μὴ ἐν εὐβότῳ γῇ τὸν βίον ἰδρύσεται, τὴν μέλλουσάν τε καὶ [4] ὅσον οὕτω παροῦσαν εὐτυχίαν ἀπώσασθαι. εἶναι γὰρ αὐτῷ πεπρωμένον ἐκ ταύτης ὁρμώμενον τῆς λυπρᾶς καὶ ὀλίγης τὸ πρῶτον οἰκήσεως πολλὴν καὶ ἀγαθὴν ἐπικτήσασθαι γῆν σὺν χρόνῳ: παισὶ δὲ αὐτοῦ καὶ ἐγγόνις ἔσεσθαι ἀρχὴν μεγίστην καὶ ἐπὶ πλεῖστον χρόνον ἐκμηκυνθησομένην ὑπάρξει. ταύτην μὲν οὖν [p. 91] ἐν τῷ παρόντι καταγωγὴν ἔσεσθαι τοῖς Τρωσὶ: μετὰ δὲ τοσοῦτους ἐνιαυτοὺς ὅσους ἂν ἡ ὕς τέκη χοίρους κτισθήσεσθαι πρὸς τῶν ἐξ ἐκείνου γενησομένων πόλιν ἑτέραν εὐδαίμονα καὶ μεγάλην. μαθόντα δὲ τὸν Αἰνείαν καὶ νομίσαντα δαιμόνιον τι τὸ χρῆμα τῆς φωνῆς εἶναι ποιεῖν ὥς ὁ θεὸς ἐκέλευεν. [5] ἕτεροι δὲ λέγουσιν ἀδημονοῦντι τῷ ἀνδρὶ καὶ παρειακότῳ τὸ σῶμα ὑπὸ λύπης καὶ οὔτε ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον καταβάντι οὔτε σῖτα προσενεγκαμένῳ, αὐτοῦ δὲ ὥς ἔτυχεν αὐλισθέντι τὴν νύκτ' ἐκείνην, ἐπιστῆναι μεγάλην τινὰ καὶ θαυμαστὴν ἐνυπνίου τῶν θεῶν τι τῶν πατρίων εἰκασθεῖσαν ὄψιν τὰ λεχθέντα μικρῷ πρότερον ὑποτιθεμένην: ὁποτέρως δὲ τάληθές ἔχει θεοῖς ἂν εἴη γνώριμον. τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ τριάκοντα λέγεται χοίρους ἡ ὕς ἐκτεκεῖν, καὶ τοσοῦτοις ἐνιαυτοῖς ὕστερον ὑπὸ τῶν Τρώων ἑτέρα κτισθῆναι πόλις κατὰ τὸ θέσφατον, ὑπὲρ ἧς ἐν τῷ οἰκείῳ τόπῳ διαλέξομαι.

Αἰνείας δὲ τῆς μὲν ὕδς τὸν τόκον ἅμα τῇ γειναμένη τοῖς πατρώοις ἀγίζει θεοῖς ἐν τῷ χωρίῳ τῷδ', οὗ νῦν ἐστὶν ἡ καλιάς, καὶ αὐτὴν οἱ Λαουινιάται τοῖς ἄλλοις ἄβατον φυλάττοντες ἱερὰν νομίζουσι: τοῖς δὲ Τρωσὶ μεταστρατοπεδεῦσαι κελεύσας ἐπὶ τὸν λόφον ἰδρύεται τὰ ἔδη τῶν θεῶν ἐν τῷ κρατίστῳ καὶ αὐτίκα περὶ τὴν κατασκευὴν τοῦ πολισματος ἀπάσῃ [p. 92] προθυμίᾳ ὥρμητο ἐλάμβανέ τε καταθέων ἐκ τῶν πέριξ χωρίων ὁπόσα εἰς τὸν πολιισμόν αὐτῷ ἦν χρήσιμα καὶ μάλιστα ἔμελλε λυπηρὰ τοῖς ἀφαιρεθεῖσι φανήσεσθαι, σίδηρον καὶ ξύλα καὶ τὰς γεωργικὰς παρασκευάς. [2] Λατίνῳ δὲ, ὃς ἦν τότε βασιλεὺς, πολεμοῦντι πρὸς ἔθνος ὁμορον τοὺς καλουμένους Ροτόλους καὶ δυσημεροῦντι κατὰ τὰς μάχας ἀγγέλλεται τὰ γινόμενα ἐπὶ τὸ φοβερώτατον, ὡς ἀνάστατος αὐτοῦ γίνεται πᾶσα ἡ παράλιος ὑπερορίῳ στρατιᾷ, καὶ εἰ μὴ σὺν τάχει κωλύσει τὰ δρώμενα χρυσὸς αὐτῷ φανήσεται ὁ πρὸς τοὺς ἀστυγεῖτονας ἀγών. ἀκούσαντι δὲ τῷ ἀνδρὶ δέος εἰσέρχεται καὶ αὐτίκα τοῦ παρόντος πολέμου μεθέμενος ἐπὶ τοὺς Τρῶας ἐλαύνει πολλῇ στρατιᾷ. [3] ὁρῶν δὲ αὐτοὺς ὠπλισμένους τε ὡς Ἕλληνας καὶ ἐν τάξει εὐκόσμῳ ἀκαταπλήκτως τὸ δεινὸν ὑπομένοντας, τῆς μὲν αὐτίκα παρακινδυνεύσεως, ὡς οὐκ ἂν ἐξ ἐφόδου αὐτοὺς ἔτι χειρωσάμενος, ἦν ἔσχε διάνοιαν οἴκοθεν ὁρμώμενος, ἀποτρέπεται: στρατοπεδευσάμενος δ' ἐπὶ λόφου τινὸς τὸ πρῶτον ἀναλαβεῖν ὥετο δεῖν τὴν δύναμιν ἐκ τοῦ παρόντος κόπου, ὃς πολλὺς ἐκ μακρᾶς ὁδοῦ καὶ συντόνου διώξεως αὐτοῖς ἐγένετο. [4] αὐλισάμενος δὲ διὰ νυκτὸς αὐτόθι γνώμην [p. 93] ἐποιεῖτο ἀρχομένης ἔω συμφέρεσθαι τοῖς πολεμίοις. ἐγνωκότε δὲ αὐτῷ ταῦτα λέγει τις ἐπιστὰς καθ' ὕπνον ἐπιχώριος δαίμων δέχεσθαι τοὺς Ἕλληνας τῇ χώρᾳ συνοίκους: ἦκειν γὰρ αὐτοὺς μέγα ὠφέλημα Λατίνῳ καὶ κοινὸν Ἀβοριγίνων ἀγαθόν: Αἰνεία τε οἱ πατρῷοι θεοὶ τῆς αὐτῆς νυκτὸς φανέντες παρακελεύονται πείθειν Λατῖνον ἐκόντα παρασχεῖν σφίσι τὴν οἴκησιν ἐν ᾧ βούλονται χωρίῳ, καὶ χρήσασθαι δυνάμει Ἑλληνικῇ συμμάχῳ μᾶλλον ἢ διαφόρῳ: ἀμφοτέρους δὲ τὸ ὄναρ ἐκώλυεν ἄρχειν μάχης. ὡς δὲ ἡμέρα τε ἐγένετο, καὶ διεκοσμήθησαν εἰς μάχην αἱ δυνάμεις, κήρυκες ἦκον ὡς τοὺς ἡγεμόνας ἐκατέρωθεν τὸ αὐτὸ ἀξιοῦντες, συνελθεῖν ἀλλήλοις εἰς λόγους: καὶ ἐγένετο τοῦτο.

πρῶτος δὲ ὁ Λατῖνος ἐγκλημα ποιούμενος τὸν αἰφνιδιὸν τε καὶ ἀκατάγγελτον πόλεμον ἡξίου τὸν Αἰνείαν λέγειν, ὅστις ὦν καὶ τί βουλόμενος ἄγει καὶ φέρει τὰ χωρία πεπονθὼς τε οὐδὲν δεινὸν πρότερος καὶ οὐκ ἀγνοῶν ὅτι τὸν ἄρχοντα πολέμου πᾶς ὁ προπαθὼν ἀμύνεται: παρασχόν τε ἂν αὐτῷ πᾶν, εἴ τινος ἐδεῖτο μετρίου, πρὸς φιλίαν καὶ παρ' ἐκόντων εὐρίσκεσθαι τῶν ἐγχωρίων, παρελθὼν τὴν ἀπάντων ἀνθρώπων δικαίωσιν αἴσχιον ἢ κάλλιον ἡξίωσε βίαν προσφέρων τὰ αὐτὰ λαμβάνειν. [2] τοιαῦτα δὲ αὐτοῦ διαλεχθέντος ἀπεκρίνατο Αἰνείας: ἡμεῖς γένος μὲν Τρῳέες ἐσμεν, πόλεως δὲ οὐ τῆς ἀφανεστάτης ἐν Ἑλλήσιν ἐγενόμεθα: ἦν ἀφαιρεθέντες ὑπ' Ἀχαιῶν δεκαετὶ πολέμῳ χειρωθεῖσαν, ἀλῆται περιερχόμενοι [p. 94] πόλεώς τε καὶ χώρας ἐν ἧ τὸ λοιπὸν οἰκήσομεν ἀπορία, θεοῖς δὲ κελεύουσι πειθόμενοι δεῦρ' ἀφίγμεθα: καὶ ἡμῖν ὡς τὰ θέσφατα λέγει λιμὴν τῆς πλάνης ἦδε ἡ γῆ μόνη λείπεται. ποριζόμεθα δὲ ἐκ τῆς χώρας ὧν ἡμῖν δεῖ δυστυχέστερον μᾶλλον ἢ εὐπρεπέστερον, ὡς ἥδιστα νεωστὶ ἐβουλόμεθα. [3] ἀμειψόμεθα δὲ αὐτὰ πολλαῖς καὶ ἀγαθαῖς ἔργων ἀμοιβαῖς παρέχοντες ὑμῖν καὶ σώματα καὶ ψυχὰς εὖ πρὸς τὰ δεινὰ πεπαιδευμένας χρῆσθαι ὅποσα βούλεσθε, τὴν ὑμετέραν γῆν φυλάττοντες ἀδῆλῳ, τὴν δὲ τῶν πολεμίων προθύμως συγκατακτώμενοι. ἰκέται δὲ ὑμῶν γινόμεθα μὴ πρὸς ὀργὴν τὰ πεπραγμένα λαμβάνειν, ἐνθυμηθέντας ὡς οὐ σὺν ὕβρει, ἀλλ' ὑπ' ἀνάγκης ταῦτα βιασθέντες ἐποιοῦμεν: ἅπαν δὲ σύγγνωμον τὸ ἀκούσιον. [4] καὶ δεῖ ὑμᾶς μηδὲν ἐναντίον βουλευῆσαι περὶ ἡμῶν χεῖρας προεχομένων, εἰ δὲ μή, θεοὺς καὶ δαίμονας οἳ κατέχουσι τήνδε τὴν γῆν παραιτούμενοι συγγνώμονας ἡμῖν γενέσθαι καὶ ὧν ἡναγκασμένοι δρῶμεν πειρασόμεθα πολέμου ἄρχοντας ὑμᾶς ἀμύνεσθαι. οὐ γὰρ ἂν νῦν πρώτου οὐδὲ μεγίστου πολέμου τοῦδε ἀπολαύσαιμεν. [5] ὥς δὲ ταῦτα ὁ Λατῖνος ἤκουσεν ἀπεκρίνατο πρὸς αὐτόν: ἀλλ' ἔγωγε εὖ νοιᾶν τε πρὸς ἅπαν τὸ Ἑλληνικὸν γένος ἔχω καὶ συμφοραῖς ἀνθρώπων [p. 95] ἀναγκαίαις πάνυ ἄχθομαι, σῶζεσθαι τε ὑμᾶς περὶ πολλοῦ ἂν ποιησαίμην, εἴ μοι δῆλοι γένοισθε οἰκήσεως δεόμενοι ἥκειν ἐν ἀποχρώσει τε γῆς μοῖρα καὶ πρὸς φιλίαν τῶν δοθησομένων μετέχοντες, ἀλλ' οὐ τὴν ἐμὴν δυναστείαν ἀφαιρησόμενοι πρὸς βίαν. εἰ δ' ἐπαληθεύεται ὑμῖν ὅδ' ὁ λόγος πίστεις τούτων ἀξιῶ δοῦναι καὶ λαβεῖν, αἶ φυλάξουσιν ἡμῖν ἀδόλους τὰς ὁμολογίας.

Αἰνείου δὲ ἐπαινέσαντος τὰ λεγόμενα γίνονται συνθήκαι τοῖς ἔθνεσιν ἐφ' ὀρκίῳν τοιαίδε: Ἀβοριγῖνας μὲν Τρωσὶ δοῦναι χώραν ὅσῃν ἤξiou ἀμφὶ τοὺς τετταράκοντα σταδίους πανταχοῦ πορευομένοις ἀπὸ τοῦ λόφου: Τρῶας δὲ Ἀβοριγῖσι τοῦ τ' ἐν χερσὶ πολέμου συλλαβέσθαι καὶ ὅπου ἂν ἄλλη παρακαλῶνται συστρατεύειν: κοινῇ δὲ ἀμφοτέρους τὰ κράτιστα ὑπὲρ ἀλλήλων πράττειν καὶ χειρὶ καὶ γνώμῃ. [2] συνθέμενοι δὲ ταῦτα καὶ τέκνων ὁμηρεῖαις τὰς πίστεις βεβαιώσαντες κοινῇ στρατεύουσιν ἐπὶ τὰς πόλεις τῶν Ῥοτόλων: δι' ὀλίγου δὲ τάκει πάντα χειρωσάμενοι παρῆσαν ἐπὶ τὸ πόλισμα τὸ Τρωικὸν ἡμιτελὲς ἔτ' ὄν καὶ μιᾷ προθυμίᾳ πάντες χρώμενοι τειχίζουσιν αὐτό. [3] ὄνομα δὲ τῷ κτίσματι Αἰνείας τίθεται Λαουίνιον, ὥς μὲν αὐτοὶ Ῥωμαῖοι λέγουσιν ἀπὸ τῆς Λατίνου θυγατρὸς, ἥ Λαῦναν εἶναι φασὶ τοῦνομα: ὥς δ' ἄλλοι [p. 96] τινὲς τῶν Ἑλληνικῶν μυθογράφων ἔλεξαν, ἀπὸ τῆς Ἀνίου τοῦ Δηλίων βασιλέως θυγατρὸς, Λαύνας καὶ τῆς 2δὲ ὀνομαζομένης, ἥς ἀποθανούσης νόσῳ περὶ τὸν οἰκισμὸν τῆς πόλεως πρώτης καὶ ἐν ᾧ ἔκαμε χωρίῳ ταφείσης μνήμα γενέσθαι τὴν πόλιν. συμπλεῦσαι δ' αὐτὴν τοῖς Τρωσὶ λέγεται δοθεῖσαν ὑπὸ τοῦ πατρὸς Αἰνεία δεηθέντι μαντικὴν οὖσαν καὶ σοφὴν. [4] λέγεται δὲ κατὰ τὸν πολισμὸν τοῦ Λαουίνιου σημεῖα τοῖς Τρωσὶ γενέσθαι τοιαύδε: πυρὸς αὐτομάτως ἀναφθέντος ἐκ τῆς νάπης λύκον μὲν κομίζοντα τῷ στόματι τῆς ξηρᾶς ὕλης ἐπιβάλλειν ἐπὶ τὸ πῦρ, ἀετὸν δὲ προσπετόμενον ἀναρριπίζειν τῇ κινήσει τῶν περυγῶν τὴν φλόγα: τούτοις δὲ τάναντία μηχανωμένην ἀλώπεκα τὴν οὐρὰν διάβροχον ἐκ τοῦ ποταμοῦ φέρουσαν ἐπυρραπίζειν τὸ καιόμενον πῦρ, καὶ τοτὲ μὲν τοὺς ἀνάπτοντας ἐπικρατεῖν, τοτὲ δὲ τὴν ἀποσβέσαι βουλομένην: τέλος δὲ νικῆσαι τοὺς δύο, καὶ τὴν ἑτέραν οἴχεσθαι μηδὲν ἔτι ποιεῖν δυναμένην. [5] ἰδόντα δὲ τὸν Αἰνείαν εἰπεῖν ὥς ἐπιφανῆς μὲν ἔσται καὶ θαυμαστὴ καὶ γνώσεως ἐπὶ πλεῖστον ἥξουσα ἡ ἀποικία, ἐπιφθονος δὲ τοῖς πέλας αὐξομένη καὶ λυπηρά, κρατήσῃ δ' ὅμως τῶν ἀντιπραπτόντων κρείττονα τὴν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ τύχην λαβοῦσα τοῦ παρ' ἀνθρώπων ἐναντιωσομένου φθόνου. ταῦτα μὲν δὴ οὕτω περιφανῇ μηνύματα [p. 97] λέγεται γενέσθαι τῶν συμβησομένων τῇ πόλει, καὶ ἔστιν αὐτῶν μνημεῖα ἐν τῇ Λαουῖνιαιτῶν ἐπειδὴ δὲ κατεσκευάσθη τοῖς Τρωσὶν ἡ πόλις, ἐπιθυμία πάντας ἴσχευ ἰσχυρὰ τοῦ παρ' ἀλλήλων ἀπολαῦσαι χρησίμου, καὶ οἱ βασιλεῖς αὐτῶν πρῶτοι ἄρχουσι μίξαντες τοῦ τε ἐπιχωρίου καὶ τοῦ ἐπήλυδος γένους τὴν ἀξίωσιν ἐπὶ συναλλαγαῖς γάμου, δόντος Λατίνου τὴν θυγατέρα Λαῦναν Αἰνεία γυναικα. [2] ἔπειτα καὶ οἱ ἄλλοι τὴν αὐτὴν τοῖς βασιλεῦσιν ἐπιθυμίαν λαβόντες καὶ δι' ὀλίγου πάνυ χρόνου συνενεγκάμενοι ἔθη καὶ νόμους καὶ θεῶν ἱερά, κηδεῖας τε συνάψαντες ἀλλήλοις καὶ κοινωνίαις πολέμων ἀνακεράσθέντες, οἱ σύμπαντες κοινῇ ὀνομασίᾳ προσαγορεύοντες ἑαυτοὺς ἀπὸ τοῦ βασιλέως τῶν Ἀβοριγίνων Λατίνους, οὕτω βεβαίως ἔμειναν ἐπὶ τοῖς συγκεκλιμένοις, ὥστ' οὐδεὶς αὐτοὺς ἔτι χρόνος ἀπ' ἀλλήλων διέστησε. [3] τὰ μὲν δὴ συνελθόντα ἔθη καὶ κοινωσάμενα τοὺς βίους, ἐξ ὧν τὸ Ῥωμαίων γένος ὥρμηται, πρὶν ἢ νῦν ἔχουσιν οἰκισθῆναι πόλιν, ταῦτά ἐστιν: Ἀβοριγῖνες μὲν πρῶτον, οἱ Σικελοὺς ἐξανέστησαν ἐκ τούτων τῶν χωρίων, Ἕλληνες ὄντες τὸ ἀρχαῖον ἐκ Πελοποννήσου [p. 98] τῶν σὺν Οἰνώτρῳ μετενεγκάμενων τὴν οἰκῆσιν ἐκ τῆς καλουμένης νῦν Ἀρκαδίας, ὡς ἐγὼ πεῖθομαι: ἔπειθ' οἱ μεταναστάντες ἐκ τῆς τότε μὲν Αἰμονίας, νῦν δὲ Θετταλίας καλουμένης, Πελαγοί: τρίτοι δὲ οἱ σὺν Εὐάνδρῳ παραγεννηθέντες εἰς Ἰταλίαν ἐκ Παλλαντίου πόλεως: μετὰ δὲ τούτους τῶν σὺν Ἡρακλεῖ στρατευομένων Πελοποννησίων Ἐπειοὶ τε καὶ Φενεᾶται, οἷς καὶ Τρωικὸν τι ἐμμέμικται: τελευταῖοι δὲ οἱ διασωθέντες σὺν Αἰνείᾳ Τρῶες ἐξ Ἰλίου τε καὶ Δαρδάνου καὶ τῶν ἄλλων Τρωικῶν πόλεων.

ὅτι δὲ καὶ τὸ τῶν Τρώων ἔθνος Ἑλληνικὸν ἐν τοῖς μάλιστα ἦν ἐκ Πελοποννήσου ποτὲ ὥρμημένον, εἴρηται μὲν καὶ ἄλλοις τισὶ πάλαι, λεχθήσεται δὲ καὶ πρὸς ἐμοῦ δι' ὀλίγων. ἔχει δὲ ὁ λόγος περὶ αὐτῶν ὧδε: Ἄτλας γίνεται βασιλεὺς πρῶτος ἐν τῇ καλουμένῃ νῦν Ἀρκαδίᾳ, ὥκει δὲ περὶ τὸ λεγόμενον Καυκῶνιον ὄρος. τούτῳ θυγατέρες ἦσαν ἐπτὰ αἱ νῦν ἐν οὐρανῷ κατῆστερίσθαι λεγόμεναι Πλειάδες ἐπὶ κλησιν, ὧν μίαν μὲν Ἥλεκτραν Ζεὺς γαμεῖ καὶ [2] γεννᾷ παῖδας ἐξ αὐτῆς Ἴασον καὶ Δάρδανον. Ἴασος μὲν οὖν ἡθεὸς μένει, Δάρδανος δὲ ἄγεται γυναικα Χρῦσιν Πάλλαντος θυγατέρα, ἐξ ἧς αὐτῷ γίνονται παῖδες Ἰδαῖος καὶ Δείμας. οὗτοι τέως μὲν ἐν Ἀρκαδίᾳ παραλαβόντες τὴν Ἄτλαντος δυναστείαν ἐβασίλευον, ἔπειτα κατακλυσμοῦ γενομένου μεγάλου περὶ τὴν Ἀρκαδίαν τὰ μὲν πεδία ἐξελιμνῶθη καὶ πολλοῦ [p. 99] χρόνου γεωργεῖσθαι ἀδύνατα ἦν, οἱ δὲ ἄνθρωποι ὥκουν γὰρ ἀνὰ τὰ ὄρη γλίσχρως ποριζόμενοι τὰς τροφὰς συμφρονήσαντες ὡς οὐχ ἱκανὴ βόσκειν ἔσται πάντας ἢ περισυῖν γῆ νέμονται σφᾶς αὐτοὺς διχῆ: καὶ αὐτῶν οἱ μὲν ἐν Ἀρκαδίᾳ ὑπομένουσι βασιλέα καταστησάμενοι Δείμαντα τὸν Δαρδάνου, οἱ δὲ λοιποὶ [3] ἀπανίστανται Πελοποννήσου στόλῳ μεγάλῳ. ποιοῦμενοι δὲ τὸν πλοῦν παρὰ τὴν Εὐρώπην εἰς τὸν Μέλανα καλούμενον ἀφικνοῦνται κόλπον καὶ τυγχάνουσιν ἐν νήσῳ πινὶ τῆς Θράκης ὀρμισάμενοι, ἣν οὐκ ἔχω εἰπεῖν εἶτε ἦν οἰκουμένη καὶ πρότερον, εἴτ' ἔρημος: ἣ τίθενται τοῦνομα σύνθετον ἐκ τε ἀνδρὸς καὶ τόπου, Σαμοθράκην: τὸ μὲν γὰρ χωρίον τῆς Θράκης, ὃ δὲ οἰκιστὴς Σάμων, υἱὸς Ἑρμοῦ καὶ νύμφης Κυλληνίδος Ῥήνης ὀνομαζομένης.

ἀπαιτεῖ δὲ ὁ λόγος καὶ τὸν Αἰνείαν ἐξ ὧν ἔφυ διηγήσασθαι: βραχεῖα δὲ καὶ τοῦτο δηλώσει σημανῶ. Δάρδανος ἐπειδὴ Χρῦσιν τὴν Πάλλαντος θυγατέρα, ἐξ ἧς οἱ πρότεροι παῖδες ἐγένοντο αὐτῷ, τελευτῆσαι συνέπεσε, Βάτειαν γαμῆ τὴν Τεύκρου θυγατέρα: καὶ γίνεται παῖς αὐτῷ Ἐριχθόνιος, ὃς ἀπάντων ἀνθρώπων εὐδαιμονέστατος λέγεται γενέσθαι τῆς τε πατρῴας καὶ τῆς ὑπὸ τῷ μητροπάτορι γενομένης [p. 101] [2] κληρονομήσας ἀρχῆς. Ἐριχθονίου δὲ καὶ Καλλιρρόης τῆς Σκαμάνδρου γίνεται Τρῶς, ἀφ' οὗ τὴν ἐπωνυμίαν τὸ ἔθνος ἔχει: Τρωὸς δὲ καὶ Ἀκαλλαρίδος τῆς Εὐμήδους Ἀσσάρακος ἦν: τούτου δὲ καὶ Κλυτοδώρας τῆς Λαομέδοντος Κάπυς: Κάπυος δὲ καὶ νύμφης Ναϊάδος Ἱερομνήμης Ἀγχίσης: Ἀγχίσου δὲ καὶ Ἀφροδίτης Αἰνείας. ὥς μὲν δὴ καὶ τὸ Τρωικὸν γένος Ἑλληνικὸν ἀρχῆθεν ἦν δεδῆλωται μοι.

περὶ δὲ τῶν χρόνων ἐν οἷς ἐκτίσθη τὸ Λαουῖνιον ἄλλοι μὲν ἄλλως λέγουσιν: ἐμοὶ μέντοι δοκοῦσιν οἱ δευτέρῳ μετὰ τὴν ἔξοδον τὴν ἐκ Τροίας ἔτει φέροντες αὐτὴν εἰκότα μᾶλλον λέγειν. Ἰλιος μὲν γὰρ ἐάλω τελευτῶντος ἤδη τοῦ θέρους, ἑπτακαίδεκα πρότερον ἡμέραις τῆς θερινῆς τροπῆς, ὀγδόῃ φθίνοντος μηνὸς Θαργηλιῶνος, ὥς Ἀθηναῖοι τοὺς χρόνους ἄγουσι, περιτταὶ δὲ ἦσαν αἱ τὸν ἐνιαυτὸν ἐκείνον ἐκπληροῦσαι μετὰ τὴν τροπὴν εἴκοσιν ἡμέραι. ἐν δὴ ταῖς ἑπτὰ καὶ τριάκοντα ταῖς ἀπὸ τῆς ἀλώσεως διαγενομέναις τὰ τε περὶ τὴν πόλιν οἶομαι διοικήσασθαι τοὺς Ἀχαιοὺς καὶ τὰς πρεσβείας ἐπιδέξασθαι τὰς παρὰ τῶν ἀφεστηκότων καὶ τὰ ὄρκια ποιήσασθαι πρὸς αὐτούς: [2] τῷ δ' ἐξῆς ἔτει, πρώτῳ δὲ μετὰ τὴν [p. 102] ἄλωσιν ὑπὸ τὴν μετοπωρινὴν ἰσημερίαν ἄραντες οἱ Τρῶες ἐκ τῆς γῆς περαιοῦνται τὸν Ἑλλήσποντον καὶ καταχθέντες εἰς τὴν Θράκην αὐτοῦ διατρίβουσι τὴν χειμερινὴν ὥραν δεχόμενοι τε τοὺς ἐπισυνιόντας ἐκ τῆς φυγῆς καὶ παρασκευαζόμενοι τὰ εἰς τὸν ἀπόπλουν. ἐκ δὲ τῆς Θράκης ἀναστάντες ἕαρος ἀρχομένου τελοῦσι τὸν μεταξὺ πλοῦν ἄχρι Σικελίας· ἐκεῖ δὲ ὀρμισσάμενοις αὐτοῖς τὸ ἔτος τοῦτο τελευτᾷ, καὶ διατρίβουσι τὸν δεῦτερον χειμῶνα τὰς πόλεις συνοικίζοντες τοῖς Ἑλύμοις ἐν Σικελίᾳ. [3] πλοῖμων δὲ γενομένων ἄραντες ἀπὸ τῆς νήσου περῶσι τὸ Τυρρηνικὸν πέλαγος καὶ τελευτῶντες εἰς Λωρεντὸν ἀφικνοῦνται τὸν Ἀβοριγίνων αἰγιαλὸν μεσοῦσης θερείας. λαβόντες δὲ τὸ χωρίον οἰκίζουσιν ἐν αὐτῷ Λαουίνιον τὸν δεῦτερον ἀπὸ τῆς ἀλώσεως ἐκπληρώσαντες ἐνιαυτὸν. καὶ περὶ μὲν τούτων ὥς ἔχω δόξης δεδήλωται μοι.

Αἰνείας δὲ κατασκευάσας ἱεροῖς τε καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις κόσμοις ἀποχρώντως τὴν πόλιν, ὣν τὰ πλεῖστα ἔτι καὶ εἰς ἐμὲ ἦν, τῷ μὲν ἐξῆς ἐνιαυτῷ, τρίτῳ δὲ ἀπὸ τῆς ἐξόδου, Τρώων ἐβασίλευσε μόνων· τῷ δὲ τετάρτῳ τελευτήσαντος Λατίνου καὶ τὴν ἐκείνου βασιλείαν παραλαμβάνει τῆς τε κηδεῖας οἰκειότητι τῆς πρὸς αὐτὸν ἐπικλήρου τῆς Λαύνας γενομένης μετὰ τὸν Λατίνου θάνατον καὶ τοῦ πρὸς τοὺς ἀστυγείτονας πολέμου τῆς στρατηγίας ἔνεκα. [2] ἀπέστησαν γὰρ αὖθις ἀπὸ τοῦ Λατίνου Ῥότολοι λαβόντες ἡγεμόνα τῶν αὐτομόλων τινὰ τῆς Λατίνου γυναικὸς [p. 103] Ἀμίτας ἀνεψιὸν ὄνομα Τυρρηνόν. ὁ δὲ ἀνὴρ οὗτος ἐπὶ τῷ γάμῳ τῆς Λαύνας τὸν κηδεστὴν μεμφόμενος, ὅτι παρελθὼν τὸ συγγενὲς ὀθνείοις ἐκέδευσε, τῆς τε Ἀμίτας παροξυνούσης καὶ ἄλλων τινῶν συλλαμβανόντων ἄγων τὴν δύναμιν, ἥς αὐτὸς ἦρχε, προστίθεται τοῖς Ῥοτόλοις. [3] πολέμου δ' ἐκ τῶν ἐγκλημάτων τούτων γενομένου καὶ μάχης ἰσχυρᾶς Λατίνος τε ἀποθνήσκει καὶ Τυρρηνὸς καὶ τῶν ἄλλων συχνοί, κρατοῦσι δ' ὅμως οἱ σὺν Αἰνείᾳ. ἐκ δὲ τούτου τὴν ὑπὸ τῷ κηδεστῇ γενομένην ἀρχὴν Αἰνείας παραλαμβάνει. τρία δὲ βασιλεύσας ἔτη μετὰ τὴν Λατίνου τελευτὴν τῷ τετάρτῳ θνήσκει κατὰ πόλεμον. [4] Ῥότολοι τε γὰρ ἐκ τῶν πόλεων στρατεύουσιν ἅπαντες ἐπ' αὐτὸν, καὶ σὺν αὐτοῖς βασιλεὺς Τυρρηνῶν Μεσέντιος δείσας περὶ τῆς αὐτοῦ χώρας, ἥδη γὰρ ἐπὶ μέγα χωροῦσαν τὴν Ἑλληνικὴν ὀρῶν δύναμιν ἤχθετο. μάχης δὲ γενομένης καρτερᾶς οὐ πρόσω τοῦ Λαουινίου καὶ πολλῶν ἐκατέρωθεν ἀπολομένων τὰ μὲν στρατεύματα νυκτὸς ἐπελθούσης διελύθη, τὸ δὲ Αἰνείου σῶμα φανερόν οὐδαμῇ γενόμενον οἱ μὲν εἰς θεοὺς μεταστῆναι εἰκαζόν, οἱ δ' ἐν τῷ ποταμῷ, παρ' ὃν ἡ μάχη ἐγένετο, διαφθαρῆναι. Ἀσκανίου δὲ ὀγδὼ καὶ τριακοστῷ ἔτει τῆς βασιλείας τελευτήσαντος παρέλαβε τὴν ἡγεμονίαν Σιλοῦιος ἀδελφὸς ὧν Ἀσκανίου, μετὰ τὸν Αἰνείου θάνατον γενόμενος ἐκ Λαύνας τῆς Λατίνου θυγατρὸς, ὃν φασιν ἐν τοῖς ὄρεσιν ὑπὸ τῶν νομέων ἐκτραφῆναι. [2] τοῦ γὰρ Ἀσκανίου παραλαβόντος τὴν βασιλείαν περιδεῖς ἡ Λαῦνα γενομένη μὴ τι δεινὸν ὑπ' αὐτοῦ πάθῃ κατὰ τὸ τῆς μητρὸς ὄνομα, ἐγκύμων οὖσα δίδωσιν ἑαυτὴν Τυρρηνῶ τινι συοφορβίῳ ἐπιμελητῇ βασιλικῶν, ὃν ἤδει Λατίνῳ γενόμενον ἐν τοῖς μάλιστα προσήγορον. ὁ δ' εἰς ὕλας ἐρήμους ἀγαγὼν αὐτὴν ὡς τῶν ἐπιτυχουσῶν τινα, φυλαττόμενος ὀφθῆναι τοῖς εἰδόσιν ἔτρεφεν ἐν τῇ νάπῃ κατασκευάσας οἴκησιν οὐ πολλοῖς γνώριμον καὶ τὸ παιδίον γενόμενον ἀναιρεῖται τε καὶ τρέφει Σιλοῦιον ὀνομάσας ἀπὸ τῆς ὕλης, ὥσπερ ἂν εἴ τις Ἑλλάδι γλώσσει [3] λέξειεν Ὑλαῖον. χρόνου δὲ προϊόντος ὡς πολλὴν ζητησιν ἔγνω τῆς γυναικὸς ὑπὸ τῶν Λατίνων γινομένην καὶ δι' αἰτίας ὄντα παρὰ τῷ πλήθει τὸν Ἀσκανίον, [p. 113] ὡς ἀνηρηκότα τὴν παιδίσκην, φράζει τῷ δῆμῳ τὸ πρᾶγμα καὶ τὴν ἀνθρωπὸν ἄγει μετὰ τοῦ παιδὸς ἐκ τῆς νάπης. τύχῃ μὲν δὴ τοιαύτῃ χρησάμενος ὁ Σιλοῦιος τὴν εἰρημένην ἔσχεν ὀνομασίαν καὶ τὸ ἐξ ἐκείνου γένος ἅπαν, τὴν δὲ βασιλείαν παρέλαβεν, ἐπειδὴ τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ τελευτῆσαι συνέπεσεν, ἀμφιλογον γενομένην πρὸς ἓνα τὸν πρεσβεύσαντα τῶν Ἀσκανίου παιδῶν Ἰούλον ἀξιοῦντα τὴν πατρώαν ἀρχὴν διαδέξασθαι. [4] τὴν δὲ δίκην ἐπεψήφισεν ὁ δῆμος ἄλλοις τε ὑπαχθεῖς λόγοις καὶ οὐχ ἥκιστα ὅτι μητρὸς ἦν ὁ Σιλοῦιος ἐπικλήρου τῆς ἀρχῆς. Ἰούλῳ δὲ ἀντὶ τῆς βασιλείας ἱερά τις ἐξουσία προστετέθη καὶ τιμὴ τῷ τε ἀκινδύνῳ προὔχουσα τῆς μοναρχίας καὶ τῇ ῥαστώνῃ τοῦ βίου, ἣν ἔτι καὶ εἰς ἐμὲ τὸ ἐξ αὐτοῦ γένος ἐκαρποῦτο, Ἰούλιοι κληθέντες ἀπ' ἐκείνου. ἐγένετο δὲ μέγιστος ἅμα καὶ λαμπρότατος οἴκων οὗτος, ὧν ἡμεῖς ἴσμεν, ἄνδρας τε διαφορωτάτους ἡγεμόνων ἤνεγκεν, οἷς τὸ εὐγενὲς αἰ ἀρεταὶ μὴ ἀπιστεῖσθαι παρέσχον: ὑπὲρ ὧν ἐν ἄλλῳ δηλωθήσεται λόγῳ τὰ προσήκοντα.

Σιλοῦίου δ' ἐνὸς δέοντα τριάκοντα ἔτη κατασχόντος τὴν ἀρχὴν Αἰνείας υἱὸς αὐτοῦ διαδεξάμενος τὴν δυναστείαν ἐνὶ πλείῳ τριάκοντα ἐτῶν ἐβασίλευσεν. μετὰ δὲ τοῦτον ἐν καὶ πεντήκοντα Λατίνος ἥρξεν ἔτη. Ἄλβας δὲ μετὰ τοῦτον ἐνὸς δέοντα τετταράκοντα [p. 114] ἔτη. μετὰ δὲ Ἄλβαν Κάπετος ἔξ ἐπὶ τοῖς εἴκοσιν. ἔπειτα Κάπυς δυεῖν δέοντα τριάκοντα. μετὰ δὲ Κάπυν Κάλπετος ἄχρι τρισκαίδεκα ἐτῶν κατέσχε τὴν ἀρχὴν. ἐξῆς δὲ Τιβερίνος ὀκταετῇ χρόνον ἐβασίλευσεν. [2] τελευτῆσαι δ' οὗτος ἐν μάχῃ παρὰ ποταμῷ γενομένη λέγεται: παρενεχθεὶς δὲ ὑπὸ τοῦ ρεύματος ἐπώνυμον ἑαυτῷ κατέλιπε τὸν ποταμὸν Ἀλβουλαν καλούμενον πρότερον. Τιβερίνου δὲ διάδοχος Ἀγρίππας ἐν καὶ τετταράκοντα ἐβασίλευσεν ἔτη. [3] μετὰ δὲ Ἀγρίππαν Ἀλλώδιος τυραννικὸν τι χρῆμα καὶ θεοῖς ἀπεχθόμενον ἐνὸς δέοντα εἴκοσιν: ᾧ περιφρονοῦντι τὰ δαιμόνια κατεσκεύαστο κεραυνῶν τε μιμήματα καὶ κτύποι βρονταῖς ἐμφερεῖς, οἷς δεδίττεσθαι τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ὡς θεὸς ἤξιον. ὄμβρων δὲ καὶ κεραυνῶν εἰς τὸν οἶκον αὐτοῦ κατασκῆψάντων τῆς τε λίμνης, παρ' ἣν οἰκῶν ἐτύγγανε, πλημμύραν οὐκ εἰσθῦσαν λαβούσης κατακλυσθεὶς πανοικίος ἀπόλλυται. καὶ νῦν ἔτι διαλαμπούσης τῆς λίμνης ἐν μέρει τινί, ὅταν ὑπονοστήσῃ τὸ νᾶμα καὶ σταθερὸς ὁ βυθὸς γένηται, παστάδων ἐρείπια καὶ ἄλλα οἰκήσεως ἔχνη φαίνεται. [4] Ἀουεντῖνος δὲ παρὰ τοῦτου τὴν δυναστείαν διαδεξάμενος, ἀφ' οὗ τῶν ἑπτὰ λόφων τις ἐπώνυμος ἐγένετο τῶν συμπεπολισμένων τῇ Ῥώμῃ, τριάκοντα καὶ ἑπτὰ ἔτη τὴν ἀρχὴν κατέσχευεν. πρόκας δὲ μετὰ τοῦτον ἔτη εἴκοσι [p. 115] καὶ τρία. ἔπειτα Ἀμόλιος οὐ σὺν δίκῃ τὴν βασιλείαν κατασχὼν Νεμέτορι προσήκουσαν, ὃς ἦν αὐτῷ πρεσβύτερος ἀδελφός, δύο καὶ τετταράκοντα ἔτη δυναστεύει. [5] Ἀμολίου δὲ ἀναιρεθέντος ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου καὶ Ῥώμου τῶν ἐκ τῆς ἱερᾶς κόρης γενομένων, ὡς αὐτίκα λεχθήσεται, μετὰ τὸν ἐκείνου θάνατον ἀπολαμβάνει τὴν κατὰ νόμον δυναστείαν Νεμέτωρ ὁ τῶν νεανίσκων μητροπάτωρ. τῷ δ' ἐξῆς ἔτει τῆς Νεμέτορος ἀρχῆς, δευτέρῳ δὲ καὶ τριακοστῷ καὶ τετρακοσιοστῷ μετὰ τὴν Ἰλίου ἄλωσιν, ἀποικίαν στείλαντες Ἀλβανοὶ Ῥωμύλου καὶ Ῥώμου τὴν ἡγεμονίαν αὐτῆς ἐχόντων κτίζουσι Ῥώμην ἔτους ἐνεστῶτος πρώτου τῆς ἐβδόμης Ὀλυμπιάδος, ἣν ἐνίκα στάδιον Δαϊκλῆς Μεσσήνιος, ἄρχοντος Ἀθήνησι Χάροπος ἔτος τῆς δεκαετίας πρώτων.

ἀμφισβητήσεως δὲ πολλῆς οὕσης καὶ περὶ τοῦ χρόνου τῆς κτίσεως καὶ περὶ τῶν οἰκιστῶν τῆς πόλεως οὐδὲ αὐτὸς ὥμην δεῖν ὥσπερ ὁμολογούμενα πρὸς ἀπάντων ἐξ ἐπιδρομῆς ἐπελθεῖν. Κεφάλων μὲν γὰρ ὁ Γεργίθιος συγγραφεὺς παλαιὸς πάνυ δευτέρα γενεᾷ μετὰ τὸν Ἰλιακὸν πόλεμον ἐκτίσθαι λέγει τὴν πόλιν ὑπὸ τῶν ἐξ Ἰλίου διασωθέντων σὺν Αἰνείᾳ, οἰκιστὴν δὲ αὐτῆς ἀποφαίνει τὸν ἡγησάμενον τῆς ἀποικίας Ῥώμον, τοῦτον δ' εἶναι τῶν Αἰνείου παίδων ἕνα: τέτταρας δὲ φησὶν Αἰνείᾳ γενέσθαι παῖδας, Ἀσκάνιον, Εὐρυλέοντα, Ῥωμύλον, Ῥώμον. εἴρηται [p. 116] δὲ καὶ Δημαγόρα καὶ Ἀγαθύλλῳ καὶ ἄλλοις συχνοῖς ὃ τε χρόνος καὶ ὁ τῆς ἀποικίας ἡγεμὼν ὁ [2] αὐτός. ὁ δὲ τὰς ἱερείας τὰς ἐν Ἀργεὶ καὶ τὰ καθ' ἐκάστην πραχθέντα συναγαγὼν Αἰνείαν φησὶν ἐκ Μολοττῶν εἰς Ἰταλίαν ἐλθόντα μετ' Ὀδυσσεά οἰκιστὴν γενέσθαι τῆς πόλεως, ὀνομάσαι δ' αὐτὴν ἀπὸ μιᾶς τῶν Ἰλιάδων Ῥώμης. ταύτην δὲ λέγει ταῖς ἄλλαις Τρωάσι παρακελευσαμένην κοινῇ μετ' αὐτῶν ἐμπρῆσαι τὰ σκάφη βαρυνομένην τῇ πλάνῃ. ὁμολογεῖ [3] δ' αὐτῷ καὶ Δαμαστῆς ὁ Σιγεὺς καὶ ἄλλοι τινές. Ἀριστοτέλης δὲ ὁ φιλόσοφος Ἀχαιῶν τινὰς ἱστορεῖ τῶν ἀπὸ Τροίας ἀνακομισαμένων περιπλέοντας Μαλέαν, ἔπειτα χειμῶνι βιαίῳ καταληφθέντας τέως μὲν ὑπὸ τῶν πνευμάτων φερομένους πολλαχῇ τοῦ πελάγους πλανᾶσθαι, τελευτῶντας δ' ἐλθεῖν εἰς τὸν τόπον τοῦτον τῆς Ὀπικῆς, ὃς καλεῖται Λατίνιον ἐπὶ τῷ [4] Τυρρηνικῷ πελάγει κείμενος. ἀσμένους δὲ τὴν γῆν ἰδόντας ἀνελκῦσαι τε τὰς ναῦς αὐτόθι καὶ διατρεῖν τὴν χειμερινὴν ὥραν παρασκευαζομένους ἕαρος ἀρχομένου πλεῖν. ἐμπρησθεισῶν δὲ αὐτοῖς ὑπὸ νύκτα τῶν νεῶν οὐκ ἔχοντας ὅπως ποιήσονται τὴν ἄπαρσιν, ἀβουλήτῳ ἀνάγκῃ τοὺς βίους ἐν ᾧ κατήχθησαν χωρίῳ ἰδρύσασθαι. συμβῆναι δὲ αὐτοῖς τοῦτο διὰ γυναικας αἰχμαλώτους, ἃς ἔτυχον ἄγοντες ἐξ Ἰλίου. ταύτας δὲ κατακαῦσαι τὰ πλοῖα φοβούμενας τὴν οἴκαδε τῶν Ἀχαιῶν ἄπαρσιν, ὡς εἰς δουλείαν ἀφιζομένας. [5] Καλλίας δὲ ὁ τὰς Ἀγαθοκλέους πράξεις ἀναγράφας Ῥώμην [p. 117] τινὰ Τρωάδα τῶν ἀφικνουμένων ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις Τρωσὶν εἰς Ἰταλίαν γήμασθαι Λατίνῳ τῷ βασιλεῖ τῶν Ἀβοριγίνων καὶ γεννηῖσαι τρεῖς παῖδας, Ῥώμον καὶ ἔχων δὲ πολλοὺς καὶ ἄλλους τῶν Ἑλληνικῶν παρέχεσθαι συγγραφέων, οἱ διαφόρους ἀποφαίνουσι τοὺς οἰκιστὰς τῆς πόλεως, ἵνα μὴ δόξω μακρηγορεῖν ἐπὶ τοὺς Ῥωμαίων ἐλεύσομαι συγγραφεῖς. παλαιὸς μὲν οὖν οὔτε συγγραφεὺς οὔτε λογογράφος ἐστὶ Ῥωμαίων οὐδὲ εἷς· ἐκ παλαιῶν μέντοι λόγων ἐν ἱεραῖς δέλτοις σωζομένων ἕκαστός τι παραλαβὼν ἀνέγραψεν. [2] τούτων δὲ τινες μὲν Αἰνείου γενέσθαι υἱοὺς λέγουσι Ῥωμύλον τε καὶ Ῥῶμον τοὺς οἰκιστὰς τῆς Ῥώμης, ἕτεροι δὲ θυγατρὸς Αἰνείου παῖδας, ὅτου δὲ πατρὸς οὐκέτι διορίζοντες· δοθῆναι δ' [p. 118] αὐτοὺς ὑπ' Αἰνείου Λατίνῳ τῷ βασιλεῖ τῶν Ἀβοριγίνων ὁμηρεύσοντας, ὅτε καὶ αἱ πίστεις τοῖς ἐπιχωρίοις πρὸς τοὺς ἐπήλυδας ἐγένοντο. ἀσπαζόμενον δὲ αὐτοὺς Λατῖνον τῇ τε ἄλλῃ θεραπεία περιέπειν εὖ καὶ ἐκγόνου ἄρρενος ἄπαιδα τελευτῶντα διαδόχους μέρους τινὸς τῆς ἑαυτοῦ ἀρχῆς καταλιπεῖν. [3] ἄλλοι δὲ λέγουσιν Αἰνείου τελευτήσαντος Ἀσκανίον ἄπασαν τὴν Λατίνων ἀρχὴν παραλαβόντα νείμασθαι πρὸς τοὺς ἀδελφοὺς Ῥωμύλον τε καὶ Ῥῶμον τὴν τε χώραν καὶ τὴν δύναμιν τὴν Λατίνων τριχῇ· αὐτὸν μὲν δὴ τὴν τε Ἄλβαν κτίσαι καὶ ἄλλ' ἄττα πολισμάτα· Ῥῶμον δὲ Καπύην μὲν ἀπὸ τοῦ προπάππου Κάπυος, Ἀγχίσην δὲ ἀπὸ τοῦ προπάτορος Ἀγχίσου, Αἰνείαν δὲ τὴν ὕστερον κληθεῖσαν Ἰάνικλον ἀπὸ τοῦ πατρὸς, Ῥώμην δὲ ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ, ταύτην δὲ χρόνους πινὰς ἐρημωθεῖσαν ἑτέρας αὖθις ἐλθούσης ἀποικίας, ἣν Ἀλβανοὶ ἔστειλαν ἡγουμένου Ῥωμύλου καὶ Ῥώμου, τὴν ἀρχαίαν κτίσιν ἀπολαβεῖν· ὥστε διττὰς εἶναι τῆς Ῥώμης τὰς κτίσεις· τὴν μὲν ὀλίγον ὕστερον τῶν Τρωικῶν γενομένην, τὴν δὲ πεντεκαίδεκα γενεαῖς ὕστεροῦσαν τῆς προτέρας. [4] εἰ δὲ τις ἀπιδεῖν βουλήσεται τὰ προσωτέρω καὶ τρίτῃ τις ἀρχαιοτέρα τούτων εὖρεθήσεται Ῥώμη γενομένη πρὶν Αἰνείαν καὶ Τρῶας ἐλθεῖν εἰς Ἰταλίαν. ταῦτα δὲ οὐ τῶν ἐπιτυχόντων τις οὐδὲ νέων συγγραφεὺς ἰστόρηκεν, ἀλλ' Ἀντίοχος ὁ Συρακούσιος, [p. 119] οὐ καὶ πρότερον ἐμνήσθην. φησὶ δὲ Μόργητος ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ βασιλεύοντος ἧν δὲ τότε Ἰταλία ἢ ἀπὸ Τάραντος ἄχρι Ποσειδωνίας παράλιος· ἐλθεῖν ὡς αὐτὸν ἄνδρα φυγάδα ἐκ Ῥώμης. λέγει δὲ ὧδε· ἑπεὶ δὲ Ἰταλὸς κατεγήρα, Μόργης ἐβασίλευσεν. ἐπὶ τούτου δὲ ἀνὴρ ἀφίκετο ἐκ Ῥώμης φυγάς· Σικελὸς ὄνομα αὐτῷ. [5] κατὰ μὲν δὴ τὸν Συρακούσιον συγγραφέα παλαιὰ τις εὕρισκεται καὶ προτεροῦσα τῶν Τρωικῶν χρόνων ἢ Ῥώμη. πότερον δὲ περὶ τοὺς αὐτοὺς ἦν τόπους, ἐν οἷς ἢ νῦν οἰκουμένη πόλις ἐστίν, ἢ χωρίον ἕτερον ἐτύγχανεν οὕτως ὀνομαζόμενον ἀσφὲς ἐκείνου καταλιπόντος οὐδ' ἐγὼ δύναμαι συμβαλεῖν. περὶ μὲν οὖν τῶν παλαιῶν κτίσεων ἱκανὰ ἡγοῦμαι τὰ προειρημένα.

Ῥωμύλον καὶ Τηλέγονον ... οἰκίσαντας δὲ πόλιν, ἀπὸ τῆς μητρὸς αὐτῇ θέσθαι τοῦνομα. Ξεναγόρας δὲ ὁ συγγραφεὺς Ὀδυσσεὺς καὶ Κίρκης υἱὸς γενέσθαι τρεῖς, Ῥῶμον, Ἀντείαν, Ἀρδεϊαν· οἰκίσαντας δὲ τρεῖς πόλεις ἀφ' ἑαυτῶν θέσθαι τοῖς κτίσμασι τὰς ὀνομασίας. [6] Διονύσιος δὲ ὁ Χαλκιδεὺς οἰκιστὴν μὲν ἀποφαίνει τῆς πόλεως Ῥῶμον· τοῦτον δὲ λέγει κατὰ μὲν τινὰς Ἀσκανίου, κατὰ δὲ τινὰς Ἡμαθίωνος εἶναι παῖδα. εἰσὶ δὲ τινες οἱ τὴν Ῥώμην ἐκτίσθαι λέγουσιν ὑπὸ Ῥώμου τοῦ Ἰταλοῦ, μητρὸς δὲ Λευκαρίας τῆς Λατίνου θυγατρὸς.

τὸν δὲ τελευταῖον γενόμενον τῆς Ῥώμης οἰκισμὸν ἢ κτίσιν ἢ ὅτι δῆποτε χρή καλεῖν Τιμαῖος μὲν ὁ Σικελιώτης οὐκ οἶδ' ὅτῳ κανόνι χρησάμενος ἅμα Καρχηδόνι κτιζομένην γενέσθαι φησὶν ὀγδῶ καὶ τριακοστῷ πρότερον ἔτει τῆς πρώτης Ὀλυμπιάδος. Λεύκιος δὲ Κίγκιος ἀνὴρ τῶν ἐκ τοῦ βουλευτικοῦ συνεδρίου περὶ τὸ τέταρτον ἔτος τῆς δωδεκάτης Ὀλυμπιάδος. Κοῖντος δὲ Φάβιος κατὰ τὸ πρῶτον ἔτος τῆς ὀγδῆς Ὀλυμπιάδος. [2] Κάτων δὲ Πόρκιος Ἑλληνικὸν μὲν οὐχ ὀρίζει χρόνον, ἐπιμελὴς δὲ γενόμενος, εἰ καὶ τις ἄλλος, περὶ τὴν συναγωγὴν τῆς ἀρχαιολογουμένης ἱστορίας ἔτεσιν ἀποφαίνει δυσὶ καὶ [p. 120] τριάκοντα καὶ τετρακοσίοις ὑστεροῦσαν τῶν Ἰλιακῶν. ὁ δὲ χρόνος οὗτος ἀναμετρηθεὶς ταῖς Ἑρατοσθένους χρονογραφίαις κατὰ τὸ πρῶτον ἔτος πίπτει τῆς ἐβδόμης Ὀλυμπιάδος. ὅτι δὲ εἰσιν οἱ κανόνες ὑγιεῖς, οἷς Ἑρατοσθένης κέχρηται, καὶ πῶς ἂν τις ἀπευθύνῃ τοὺς Ῥωμαίων χρόνους πρὸς τοὺς Ἑλληνικοὺς, ἐν ἐτέρῳ δεδήλωται μοι λόγῳ. [3] οὐ γὰρ ἤξιον ὡς Πολύβιος ὁ Μεγαλοπολίτης τοσοῦτο μόνον εἰπεῖν, ὅτι κατὰ τὸ δεῦτερον ἔτος τῆς ἐβδόμης Ὀλυμπιάδος τὴν Ῥώμην ἐκτίσθαι πειθόμαι, οὐδ' ἐπὶ τοῦ παρὰ τοῖς ἀρχιερεῦσι κειμένου πίνακος ἐνὸς καὶ μόνου τὴν πίστιν ἀβασάνιστον καταλιπεῖν, ἀλλὰ τοὺς ἐπιλογισμοὺς, οἷς αὐτὸς προσεθέμην, εἰς μέσον ὑπευθύνους τοῖς βουλευθεῖσιν ἐσομένους ἐξενεγκεῖν. [4] ἡ μὲν οὖν ἀκριβεία ἐν ἐκείνῳ δηλοῦται τῷ λόγῳ, λεχθήσεται δὲ καὶ διὰ τῆσδε τῆς πραγματείας αὐτὰ τἀναγκαιότατα. ἔχει δὲ οὕτως: ἡ Κελτῶν ἔφοδος, καθ' ἣν ἡ Ῥωμαίων πόλις ἔαλω, συμφωνεῖται σχεδὸν ὑπὸ πάντων ἀρχοντος Ἀθήνησι Πυργίωνος γενέσθαι κατὰ τὸ πρῶτον ἔτος τῆς ὀγδῆς καὶ ἐνενηκοστῆς Ὀλυμπιάδος. ὁ δὲ πρὸ τῆς καταλήψεως χρόνος ἀναγόμενος εἰς Λεύκιον Ἰούνιον Βροῦτον καὶ Λεύκιον Ταρκύνιον Κολλατῖνον τοὺς πρώτους ὑπατεύσαντας ἐν Ῥώμῃ μετὰ τὴν κατάλυσιν τῶν βασιλέων ἔτη περιεῖληφεν εἴκοσι πρὸς τοῖς ἑκατὸν. [5] δηλοῦται δὲ ἐξ ἄλλων τε πολλῶν καὶ τῶν καλουμένων τιμητικῶν ὑπομνημάτων, ἃ διαδέχεται παῖς [p. 121] παρὰ πατρὸς καὶ περὶ πολλοῦ ποιεῖται τοῖς μεθ' ἑαυτὸν ἐσομένοις ὥσπερ ἱερὰ πατρῶα παραδιδόναι: πολλοὶ δ' εἰσὶν ἀπὸ τῶν τιμητικῶν οἴκων ἄνδρες ἐπιφανεῖς οἱ διαφυλάττοντες αὐτά: ἐν οἷς εὕρισκω δευτέρῳ πρότερον ἔτει τῆς ἀλώσεως τίμησιν ὑπὸ τοῦ Ῥωμαίων δήμου γενομένην, ἣ παραγέγραπται καθάπερ καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις χρόνος οὗτος: 'ὑπατεύοντος Λευκίου Οὐαλερίου Ποτίτου καὶ Τίτου Μαλλίου Καπιτωνίου μετὰ τὴν ἐκβολὴν τῶν βασιλέων ἐνὸς δέοντι εἰκοστῷ καὶ ἑκατοστῷ ἔτει.' [6] ὥστε τὴν Κελτικὴν ἔφοδον, ἣν τῷ δευτέρῳ μετὰ τὴν τίμησιν ἔτει γενομένην εὕρισκόμεν, ἐκπεπληρωμένων τῶν εἴκοσι καὶ ἑκατὸν ἐτῶν γενέσθαι. εἰ δὲ τοῦτο τὸ διάστημα τοῦ χρόνου τριάκοντα Ὀλυμπιάδων εὕρισκεται γενόμενον, ἀνάγκη τοὺς πρώτους ἀποδειχθέντας ὑπάτους ὁμολογεῖν ἀρχοντος Ἀθήνησιν Ἰσαγόρου παρεληφέναι τὴν ἀρχὴν κατὰ τὸ πρῶτον ἔτος τῆς ὀγδῆς καὶ ἐξηκοστῆς Ὀλυμπιάδος.

καὶ μὴν ἀπὸ γε τῆς ἐκβολῆς τῶν βασιλέων ἐπὶ τὸν πρῶτον ἄρξαντα τῆς πόλεως Ῥωμύλον ἀναβιβασθεὶς ὁ χρόνος ἔτη τέτταρα πρὸς τοῖς τετταράκοντα καὶ διακοσίοις ἀποτελεῖ. γνωρίζεται δὲ τοῦτο ταῖς διαδοχαῖς τῶν βασιλέων καὶ τοῖς ἔτεσιν, οἷς ἕκαστοι κατέσχον τὴν ἀρχήν. Ῥωμύλος μὲν γὰρ ὁ κτίσας τὴν πόλιν ἑπτὰ καὶ τριάκοντα ἔτη λέγεται κατασχεῖν τὴν δυναστείαν· μετὰ δὲ τὸν Ῥωμύλου θάνατον ἀβασίλευτος ἡ πόλις γενέσθαι χρόνον ἑνιαύσιον. [2] ἔπειτα Νόμας Πομπίλιος [p. 122] αἰρεθεὶς ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου τρία καὶ τετταράκοντα ἔτη βασιλεύσαι. Τύλλος δὲ Ὅστιλιος μετὰ Νόμαν δύο καὶ τριάκοντα. ὁ δ' ἐπὶ τούτῳ βασιλεύσας Ἄγκος Μάρκιος τέτταρα πρὸς τοῖς εἴκοσι. μετὰ δὲ Μάρκιον Λεύκιος Ταρκύνιος ὁ κληθεὶς Πρίσκος ὀκτὼ καὶ τριάκοντα. τοῦτον δὲ διαδεξάμενος Σερούϊος Τύλλιος τετταράκοντα καὶ τέτταρα. ὁ Σερούϊον δὲ ἀνελὼν Λεύκιος Ταρκύνιος ὁ τυραννικὸς καὶ διὰ τὴν τοῦ δικαίου ὑπεροφίαν κληθεὶς Σούπερβος ἕως εἰκοστοῦ καὶ πέμπτου προαγαγεῖν τὴν ἀρχήν. [3] τεττάρων δὲ καὶ τετταράκοντα καὶ διακοσίων ἀναπληρουμένων ἐτῶν, ἃ κατέσχον οἱ βασιλεῖς, Ὀλυμπιάδων δὲ μιᾶς καὶ ἐξήκοντα πᾶσα ἀνάγκη τὸν πρῶτον ἄρξαντα τῆς πόλεως Ῥωμύλον ἔτει πρώτῳ τῆς ἐβδόμης Ὀλυμπιάδος παρεληφέναι τὴν βασιλείαν ἄρχοντος Ἀθήνησι τῆς δεκαετίας Χάροπας ἔτος πρῶτον. τοῦτο γὰρ ὁ λογισμὸς τῶν ἐτῶν ἀπαιτεῖ. ὅτι δὲ τοσαῦτα ἕκαστος τῶν βασιλέων ἥρξεν ἔτη δι' ἐκείνου δηλοῦται μοι τοῦ λόγου. [4] τὰ μὲν δὴ περὶ τοῦ χρόνου καθ' ὃν ἡ νῦν δυναστεύουσα πόλις ὤκισθη τοῖς τε πρὸ ἑμοῦ γενομένοις εἰρημένα κάμοι δοκοῦντα τοιάδ' ἐστίν. οἰκισταὶ δ' αὐτῆς οἵτινες ἦσαν καὶ τίσι τύχαις χρησάμενοι τὴν ἀποικίαν ἔστειλαν ὅσα τε ἄλλα περὶ τὴν κτίσιν ταύτην ἰστόρηται πολλοῖς μὲν εἴρηται καὶ διαφόρως τὰ πλεῖστα ἑνίοις, λεχθήσεται δὲ κάμοι τὰ πιθανώτατα τῶν μνημονευομένων. ἔχει δὲ ὧδε: [p. 123]

Ἀμόλιος ἐπειδὴ παρέλαβε τὴν Ἀλβανῶν βασιλείαν τὸν πρεσβύτερον ἀδελφὸν Νεμέτορα τῷ κατισχυῖσαι τῆς πατρίου τιμῆς ἀπείρξας, τὰ τε ἄλλα κατὰ πολλὴν ὑπεροφίαν τῶν δικαίων ἔδρα καὶ τελευτῶν ἔρημον γένους τὸν οἶκον τοῦ Νεμέτορος ἐπεβούλευσε ποιῆσαι, τοῦ τε δίκην ὑποσχεῖν φόβῳ καὶ ἔρωτι μὴ παυσθῆναι ποτε τῆς ἀρχῆς. [2] βουλευσάμενος δὲ ταῦτα ἐκ πολλοῦ πρῶτον μὲν τὸν υἱὸν τοῦ Νεμέτορος Αἰγέστον ἄρτι γενειάζοντα φυλάξας ἔνθα ἐκυνηγέται, προλοχίσας τοῦ χωρίου τὸ ἀφανέστατον, ἐξελθόντα ἐπὶ θήραν ἀποκτείνει καὶ παρεσκεύασε λέγεσθαι μετὰ τὸ ἔργον ὡς ὑπὸ ληστῶν ἀναιρεθεῖη τὸ μεираκιον. οὐ μέντοι κρείττων ἢ κατασκευαστὴ δόξα τῆς σιωπωμένης ἀληθείας ἐγένετο, ἀλλὰ πολλοῖς καὶ παρὰ τὸ [3] ἀσφαλὲς ἐτολμᾶτο λέγεσθαι τὸ πραχθέν. Νεμέτωρ δὲ ᾗδει μὲν τὸ ἔργον, λογισμῷ δὲ κρείττονι τοῦ πάθους χρώμενος ἄγνοιαν ἐσκῆπτετο εἰς ἀκινδυνότερον ἀναβαλέσθαι χρόνον τὴν ὀργὴν βουλευσάμενος. Ἀμόλιος δὲ τὰ τοῦ μεираκιου ὑπολαβὼν λεληθέναι δεῦτερα τὰδε ἐποίει: τὴν θυγατέρα τοῦ Νεμέτορος Ἰλιαν, ὡς δὲ τινες γράφουσι Ῥέαν ὄνομα, Σιλουίαν δ' ἐπὶ κλησιν, ἐν ἀκμῇ γάμου γενομένην ἰέρειαν ἀποδεικνυσιν Ἑστίας, ὡς μὴ τάχιον εἰς ἀνδρὸς ἐλθοῦσα τέκη τιμωροὺς τῷ γένει. πενταετοῦς δὲ οὐκ ἐλάττω χρόνου ἔδει τὰς ἱερὰς κόρας ἀγνάς διαμεῖναι γάμων, αἷς ἀνατίθεται [p. 124] τοῦ τε ἀσβέστου πυρὸς ἢ φυλακῇ καὶ εἴ τι ἄλλο θρησκευέσθαι τῷ κοινῷ διὰ παρθένων νόμιμον ἦν. [4] ἐπραττε δὲ Ἀμόλιος τοῦτο μετ' ὀνομάτων καλῶν, ὡς τιμὴν τῷ γένει καὶ κόσμον περιτιθεὶς οὔτε αὐτὸς εἰσηγησάμενος τὸν νόμον τόνδε οὔτε κοινῷ ὄντι πρῶτον ἀναγκάσας τῶν ἐν τὰ δὲ κατὰ τὴν κτίσιν αὐτὴν γενόμενα τοῦτο γὰρ ἔτι μοι τὸ μέρος τῆς γραφῆς λείπεται νῦν ἔρχομαι διηγησόμενος. ἐπειδὴ γὰρ Ἀμολίου τελευτήσαντος ἀνενεώσατο τὴν ἀρχὴν ὁ Νεμέτωρ ὀλίγον ἐπισχῶν χρόνον, ἐν ᾧ τὴν πόλιν ἐκ τῆς πρότερον ἐπεχούσης ἀκοσμίας εἰς τὸν ἀρχαῖον ἐκόσμηε τρόπον, εὐθὺς ἐπενόει τοῖς μεираκίοις ἰδίαν ἀρχὴν κατασκευάσαι ἐτέραν πόλιν οἰκίσας. [2] ἅμα δὲ καὶ τοῦ πολιτικοῦ πλήθους ἐπίδοσιν εἰς εὐανδρίαν ἐσχηκότες ἀπαναλῶσαι τι καλῶς ἔχειν ᾤετο, καὶ μάλιστα τὸ διάφορον αὐτῷ ποτε γενόμενον, ὡς μὴ δι' ὑποψίας αὐτοὺς ἔχοι. κοινωνῶντες δὲ τοῖς μεираκίοις, ἐπειδὴ κάκεινοις ἐδόκει, δίδωσιν αὐτοῖς χωρία μὲν ὧν ἄρξουσιν, ἔνθα παῖδες ὄντες ἐτράφησαν, ἐκ δὲ τοῦ λεῶ τὸν τε δι' ὑποψίας αὐτῷ γενόμενον, ὃς ἔμελλε νεωτερισμοῦ εἰσαυθις ἄρξειν, καὶ εἴ τι ἐκούσιον ἀπαναστῆναι ἐβούλετο. [3] ἦν δὲ ἐν τούτοις πολὺ μὲν ὥσπερ εἰκὸς ἐν πόλει κινουμένη τὸ δημοτικὸν γένος, ἱκανὸν δὲ καὶ τὸ ἀπὸ τοῦ κρατίστου γνῶριμον, ἐκ δὲ τοῦ Τρωικοῦ τὸ εὐγενέστατον δὴ νομιζόμενον, ἐξ οὗ καὶ γενεαὶ τινες ἔτι περιῆσαν εἰς ἐμέ, πεντήκοντα μάλιστα οἴκοι.

ἐχορηγεῖτο δὲ [p. 144] τοῖς νεανίσκοις καὶ χρήματα καὶ ὄπλα καὶ οἶτος καὶ ἀνδράποδα καὶ ὑποζύγια ἀχθοφόρα καὶ εἴ τι ἄλλο πόλεως ἦν κατασκευῇ πρόσφορον. [4] ὥς δὲ ἀνέστησαν ἐκ τῆς Ἄλβας οἱ νεανίσκοι τὸν λεῶν μίξαντες αὐτῷ τὸν αὐτόθεν, ὅσος ἦν ἐν τῷ Παλλαντίῳ καὶ περὶ τὴν Σατορνίαν ὑπολιπής, μερίζονται τὸ πλῆθος ἅπαν διχῇ. τοῦτο δὲ αὐτοῖς δόξαν παρέσχε φιλοτιμίας, ἵνα θᾶπτον ἀνύηται τῇ πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἀμίλλη τὰ ἔργα, [5] αἵτιον δὲ τοῦ μεγίστου κακοῦ, στάσεως, ἐγένετο. οἱ τε γὰρ προσνεμηθέντες αὐτοῖς τὸν ἑαυτῶν ἡγεμόνα ἕκαστοι κυδαινόντες ὥς ἐπιτήδειον ἀπάντων ἄρχειν ἐπῆρον, αὐτοὶ τε οὐκέτι μίαν γνώμην ἔχοντες οὐδὲ ἀδελφὰ διανοεῖσθαι ἀξιοῦντες, ὥς αὐτὸς ἄρξων ἑκάτερος θατέρου, παρῶσαντες τὸ ἴσον τοῦ πλείονος ὠρέγοντο. τέως μὲν οὖν ἀφανῇ τὰ πλεονεκτήματα αὐτῶν ἦν, ἔπειτα δὲ ἐξερράγη σὺν τοιᾷδε προφάσει. [6] τὸ χωρίον ἔνθα ἔμελλον ἰδρύσειν τὴν πόλιν οὐ τὸ αὐτὸ ἡρεῖτο ἑκάτερος. Ῥωμύλου μὲν γὰρ ἦν γνώμη τὸ Παλλάντιον οἰκίζειν τῶν τε ἄλλων ἔνεκα καὶ τῆς τύχης τοῦ τόπου, ἢ τὸ σωθῆναι τε αὐτοῖς καὶ τραφῆναι παρέσχε: Ῥώμῳ δὲ ἐδόκει τὴν καλουμένην νῦν ἀπ' ἐκείνου Ῥεμορίαν οἰκίζειν. ἔστι δὲ τὸ χωρίον ἐπιτήδειον ὑποδέξασθαι πόλιν λόφος οὐ πρόσω τοῦ Τεβέριος κείμενος, ἀπέχων τῆς Ῥώμης ἀμφὶ τοὺς τριάκοντα σταδίους. ἐκ δὲ τῆς φιλονεικίας ταύτης ἀκοινώνητος εὐθὺς ὑπεδηλοῦτο φιλαρχία. τῷ γὰρ εἰζαντι τὸ κρατῆσαν εἰς πάντα ὁμοίως ἐπιθήσεσθαι ἔμελλεν. [p. 145] χρόνου δὲ τινος ἐν τούτῳ διαγενομένου, ἐπειδὴ οὐδὲν ἐμειοῦτο τὸ τῆς στάσεως, δόξαν ἀμφοῖν τῷ μητροπάτορι ἐπιτέπει παρῆσαν εἰς τὴν Ἄλβαν. ὁ δὲ αὐτοῖς ταῦτα ὑποτίθεται: θεοὺς ποιήσασθαι δικαστάς, ὁποτέρου χρή τὴν ἀποικίαν λέγεσθαι καὶ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν εἶναι. ταξάμενος δὲ αὐτοῖς ἡμέραν ἐκέλευσεν ἐξ ἑωθινοῦ καθέζεσθαι χωρὶς ἀλλήλων, ἐν αἷς ἑκάτεροι ἀξιοῦσιν ἔδραις: προθύσαντας δὲ τοῖς θεοῖς ἱερὰ τὰ νομιζόμενα φυλάττειν οἰωνοὺς αἰσίους: ὁποτέρῳ δ' ἂν οἱ ὄρνιθες προτέρῳ κρείττους γένωνται, [2] τοῦτον ἄρχειν τῆς ἀποικίας. ἀπήεσαν οἱ νεανίσκοι ταῦτ' ἐπαινέσαντες καὶ κατὰ τὰ συγκείμενα παρῆσαν ἐν τῇ κυρίᾳ τῆς πράξεως ἡμέρᾳ. ἦν δὲ Ῥωμύλῳ μὲν οἰωνιστήριον, ἔνθα ἡξίου τὴν ἀποικίαν ἰδρύσαι, τὸ Παλλάντιον, Ῥώμῳ δ' ὁ προσεχῆς ἐκείνῳ λόφος Αὐεντίνος καλούμενος, ὥς δὲ τινες ἱστοροῦσιν ἢ Ῥεμορία: φυλακή τε ἀμφοῖν παρῆν οὐκ ἐπιτρέφουσα ὅ τι μὴ φανεῖν λέξειν. [3] ὥς δὲ τὰς προσηκούσας ἔδρας ἔλαβον ὀλίγον ἐπισχῶν χρόνον ὁ Ῥωμύλος ὑπὸ σπουδῆς τε καὶ τοῦ πρὸς τὸν ἀδελφὸν φθόνου, ὥς δὲ καὶ ὁ φθόνος ἴσως δὲ καὶ ὁ θεὸς οὕτως ἐνήγε, πρὶν ἢ καὶ ὅτιοῦν σημεῖον θεάσασθαι πέμψας ὥς τὸν ἀδελφὸν ἀγγέλους ἤκειν ἡξίου διαταχέων, ὥς πρότερος ἰδὼν οἰωνοὺς αἰσίους. ἐν ᾧ δὲ οἱ πεμφθέντες ὑπ' αὐτοῦ δι' αἰσχύνης ἔχοντες τὴν ἀπάτην οὐ σπουδῇ ἐχώρουν, τῷ Ῥώμῳ γῦπες [p. 146] ἐπισημαίνουσιν ἐξ ἀπὸ τῶν δεξιῶν πετόμενοι. καὶ ὁ μὲν ἰδὼν τοὺς ὄρνιθας περιχαρὴς ἐγένετο, μετ' οὐ πολὺ δὲ οἱ παρὰ τοῦ Ῥωμύλου πεμφθέντες ἀναστήσαντες αὐτὸν ἄγουσιν ἐπὶ τὸ Παλλάντιον. [4] ἐπεὶ δὲ ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ ἐγένοντο ἦρετο μὲν τὸν Ῥωμύλον ὁ Ῥῶμος, οὕς2πινας οἰωνοὺς ἴδοι πρότερος, ὁ δὲ ἐν ἀπόρῳ γίνεται ὅ τι ἀποκρίναιτο. ἐν δὲ τούτῳ δώδεκα γῦπες αἵσιοι πετόμενοι ὤφθησαν, οὓς ἰδὼν θαρρεῖ τε καὶ τῷ Ῥώμῳ δεῖξας λέγει, Τί γὰρ ἀξιοῖς τὰ πάλαι γενόμενα

ἀνίσταται δὴ ἐκ τοῦτου μείζων τῆς προτέρας ἔρις ἑκατέρου τὸ πλεον ἔχειν ἀφανῶς δικαιουμένου, τὸ δὲ μὴ μείον ἀναφανδὸν ἀπὸ δικαιώσεως τοιαύτης ἐπισυνάπτοντος. εἰρημένον γὰρ ἦν αὐτοῖς ὑπὸ τοῦ μητροπάτορος, ὅτῳ ἂν προτέρῳ κρείττους ὄρνιθες ἐπισημήνωσι, τοῦτον ἄρχειν τῆς ἀποικίας. γένους δὲ ὀρνίθων ἐνὸς ἀμφοῖν ὀφθέντος ὁ μὲν τῷ πρότερος, ὁ δὲ τῷ πλείους ἰδεῖν ἐκρατύνετο. συνελάμβανε δὲ αὐτοῖς τῆς φιλονεικίας καὶ τὸ ἄλλο πλῆθος ἥρξεν τε πολέμου δίχα τῶν ἡγεμόνων ὀπλισθέν, καὶ γίνεται μάχη καρτερὰ καὶ φόνος ἐξ ἀμφοῖν πολὺς. [2] ἐν ταύτῃ [p. 147] φασὶ τινες τῇ μάχῃ τὸν Φαιστύλον, ὃς ἐξεθρέψατο τοὺς νεανίσκους, διαλύσαι τὴν ἔριν τῶν ἀδελφῶν βουλόμενον, ὡς οὐδὲν οἶός τ' ἦν ἀνύσαι, εἰς μέσους ὥσασθαι τοὺς μαχομένους ἀνοπλον θανάτου τοῦ ταχίστου τυχεῖν προθυμούμενον, ὅπερ καὶ ἐγένετο. τινὲς δὲ καὶ τὸν λέοντα τὸν λίθινον, ὃς ἔκειτο τῆς ἀγορᾶς τῆς τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐν τῷ κρατίστῳ χωρίῳ παρὰ τοῖς ἐμβόλοις, ἐπὶ τῷ σώματι τοῦ Φαιστύλου τεθῆναι φασιν, ἔνθα ἔπεσεν ὑπὸ τῶν εὐρόντων ταφέντος. [3] ἀποθανόντος δ' ἐν τῇ μάχῃ Ῥώμου νίκην οἰκτίστην ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἀπὸ τε τοῦ ἀδελφοῦ καὶ πολιτικῆς ἀλληλοκτονίας ἀνελόμενος τὸν μὲν Ῥῶμον ἐν τῇ Ῥεμορία θάπτει, ἐπειδὴ καὶ ζῶν τοῦ χωρίου τῆς κτίσεως περιείχετο, αὐτὸς δὲ ὑπὸ λύπης τε καὶ μετανοίας τῶν πεπραγμένων παρεῖς ἑαυτὸν εἰς ἀπόγνωσιν τοῦ βίου τρέπεται. τῆς δὲ Λαυρεντίας, ἣ νεογνοὺς παραλαβοῦσα ἐξεθρέψατο καὶ μητρὸς οὐχ ἦττον ἡσπάζετο, δεομένης καὶ παρηγοροῦσης, ταύτῃ πειθόμενος ἀνίσταται· συναγαγὼν δὲ τοὺς Λατίνους, ὅσοι μὴ κατὰ τὴν μάχην διεφθάρησαν, ὀλίγῳ πλείους ὄντας τρισχιλίων ἐκ πάνυ πολλοῦ κατ' ἀρχὰς γενομένου πλήθους, ὅτε τὴν ἀποικίαν ἔστολλε, [4] πολίζει τὸ Παλλάντιον. ὁ μὲν οὖν πιθανώτατος τῶν λόγων περὶ τῆς Ῥώμου τελευτῆς οὗτος εἶναι μοι δοκεῖ. λεγέσθω δ' ὅμως καὶ εἰ τις ἐτέρως ἔχων παραδέδοται. φασὶ δὴ τινες συγχωρήσαντ' αὐτὸν τῷ Ῥωμύλῳ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, ἀχθόμενον δὲ καὶ δι' ὀργῆς ἔχοντα [p. 148] τὴν ἀπάτην, ἐπειδὴ κατεσκευάσθη τὸ τεῖχος φλαῦρον ἀποδεῖξαι τὸ ἔρμα βουλόμενον, Ἀλλὰ τοῦτο γ', εἰπεῖν, οὐ χαλεπῶς ἂν τις ὑμῖν ὑπερβαῖη πολέμιος, ὥσπερ ἐγώ· καὶ αὐτίκα ὑπεραλέσθαι· Κελέριον δὲ τίνα τῶν ἐπιβεβηκότων τοῦ τείχους, ὃς ἦν ἐπιστάτης τῶν ἔργων, Ἀλλὰ τοῦτόν γε τὸν πολέμιον οὐ χαλεπῶς ἂν τις ἡμῶν ἀμύναιτο, εἰπόντα, πλῆξαι τῷ σκαφεῖω κατὰ τῆς κεφαλῆς καὶ αὐτίκα ἀποκτεῖναι· τὸ μὲν δὴ τέλος τῆς στάσεως τῶν ἀδελφῶν τοιοῦτο λέγεται γενέσθαι.

ἐπεὶ δὲ οὐδὲν ἔτι ἦν ἐμποδῶν τῷ κτίσματι προειπῶν ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἡμέραν, ἐν ἣ τοὺς θεοὺς ἀρεσάμενος ἔμελλε τὴν ἀρχὴν τῶν ἔργων ποιήσασθαι, παρασκευασάμενός τε ὅσα εἰς θυσίας καὶ ὑποδοχὰς τοῦ λεῶ χρησίμως ἔξειν ἔμελλεν, ὡς ἦκεν ὁ συγκεκριμένος χρόνος αὐτὸς τε προθύσας τοῖς θεοῖς καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους κελεύσας κατὰ δύναμιν τὸ αὐτὸ δρᾶν ὀρνithας μὲν πρῶτον αἰσίους λαμβάνει· μετὰ δὲ τοῦτο πυρκαϊᾶς πρὸ τῶν σκηνῶν γενέσθαι κελεύσας ἐξάγει τὸν λεῶν τὰς φλόγας ὑπερθρώσκοντα τῆς ὀσιώσεως τῶν μισομάτων ἔνεκα. Ἐπεὶ δὲ πᾶν, ὅσον ἦν ἐκ λογισμοῦ [2] θεοῖς φίλον, ὥτετο πεπρᾶχθαι καλέσας ἅπαντας εἰς τὸν ἀποδειχθέντα τόπον περιγράφει τετράγωνον σχῆμα τῷ λόφῳ, βοδὸς ἄρρενος ἅμα θηλείᾳ ζευχθέντος ὑπ' ἄροτρον ἐλκύσας αὐλάκα διηνεκῇ τὴν μέλλουσαν ὑποδέξεσθαι τὸ τεῖχος: ἐξ οὗ Ῥωμαίοις τὸ ἔθος τοῦτο [p. 149] τῆς περιάρωσεως τῶν χωρίων ἐν οἰκισμοῖς πόλεων παραμένει. ἐργασάμενος δὲ ταῦτα καὶ τῶν βοῶν ἐκατέρους ἱερεύσας ἄλλων τε πολλῶν θυμάτων καταρξάμενος ἐφίστησι τοῖς ἔργοις τὸν λεών. ταύτην ἔτι καὶ [3] εἰς ἐμὲ τὴν ἡμέραν Ῥωμαίων ἡ πόλις ἐορτῶν οὐδεμιᾶς ἤττονα τιθεμένη καθ' ἕκαστον ἔτος ἄγει, καλοῦσι δὲ Παρίλια. θύουσι δ' ἐν αὐτῇ περὶ γονῆς τετραπόδων οἱ γεωργοὶ καὶ νομεῖς θυσίαν χαριστήριον ἕαρος ἀρχομένου. πότερον δὲ παλαιότερον ἔτι τὴν ἡμέραν ταύτην ἐν εὐπαθείαις διάγοντες ἐπιτηδειοτάτην οἰκισμῷ πόλεως ἐνόμισαν, ἢ τοῦ κτισματος ἄρξασαν ἱερὰν ἐποιήσαντο καὶ θεοὺς ἐν αὐτῇ τοὺς ποιμέσι φίλους γεραίρειν ὥντο δεῖν οὐκ ἔχω βεβαίως εἰπεῖν.

ἡ Ῥωμαίων πόλις ἴδρυται μὲν ἐν τοῖς ἐσπερίοις μέρεσι τῆς Ἰταλίας περὶ ποταμὸν Τέβεριν, ὃς κατὰ μέσσην μάλιστα τὴν ἀκτὴν ἐκδίδωσιν, ἀπέχουσα τῆς Τυρρηνικῆς θαλάττης ἑκατὸν εἴκοσι σταδίους, οἱ δὲ κατασχόντες αὐτὴν πρῶτοι τῶν μνημονευομένων βάρβαροί τινες ἦσαν αὐτόχθονες Σικελοὶ λεγόμενοι πολλὰ καὶ ἄλλα τῆς Ἰταλίας χωρία κατασχόντες, ὧν οὐκ ὀλίγα διέμεινεν οὐδ' ἀφανῆ μνημεῖα μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων, ἐν οἷς καὶ τόπων τινῶν ὀνόματα Σικελικὰ λεγόμενα, μνηνύοντα τὴν πάλαι ποτὲ αὐτῶν ἐνοίκησιν. [2] τούτους ἐκβαλόντες Ἀβοριγῖνες αὐτοὶ κατέσχον τὸν τόπον Οἰνώτρων ὄντες ἀπόγονοι τῶν κατοικούντων τὴν ἀπὸ Τάραντος ἄχρι Ποσειδωνίας παράλιον. ἱερά τις αὕτη νεότης καθοσιωθεῖσα θεοῖς κατὰ τὸν ἐπιχώριον νόμον ὑπὸ τῶν πατέρων ἀποσταλῆναι λέγεται χώραν οἰκήσουσα τὴν ὑπὸ τοῦ δαιμονίου σφίσι [p. 154] δοθησομένην. τὸ δὲ τῶν Οἰνώτρων γένος Ἀρκαδικὸν ἦν ἐκ τῆς τότε μὲν καλουμένης Λυκαονίας, νῦν δὲ Ἀρκαδίας, ἐκουσίως ἐξελθὼν ἐπὶ γῆς κτῆσιν ἀμείνωνος ἡγουμένου τῆς ἀποικίας Οἰνώτρου τοῦ Λυκάονος, [3] ἐφ' οὗ τὴν ἐπὶ κλησιν τὸ ἔθνος ἔλαβεν. Ἀβοριγίνων δὲ κατεχόντων τὰ χωρία πρῶτοι μὲν αὐτοῖς γίνονται σύνοικοι Πελασγοὶ πλάνητες ἐκ τῆς τότε μὲν καλουμένης Αἰμονίας, νῦν δὲ Θετταλίας, ἐν ἣ χρόνον τινὰ ὤκησαν· μετὰ δὲ τοὺς Πελασγοὺς Ἀρκάδες ἐκ Παλλαντίου πόλεως ἐξελθόντες Εὐανδρον ἡγεμόνα ποιησάμενοι τῆς ἀποικίας Ἑρμοῦ καὶ νύμφης Θέμιδος υἱόν, οἱ πρὸς ἐνὶ τῶν ἑπτὰ λόφων πολιζονται ὃς ἐν μέσῳ μάλιστα κεῖται τῆς Ῥώμης, Παλλάντιον ὀνομάσαντες τὸ χωρίον ἐπὶ τῆς ἐν Ἀρκαδίᾳ πατρίδος. [4] χρόνοις δ' οὐ πολλοῖς ὕστερον Ἡρακλέους καταχθέντος εἰς Ἰταλίαν, ὅτε τὴν στρατιὰν ἐξ Ἑρυθείας οἴκαδε ἀπήγαγε, μοῖρὰ τις ὑπολειφθεῖσα τῆς σὺν αὐτῷ δυνάμεως Ἑλληνικὴ πλησίον ἰδρύεται τοῦ Παλλαντίου, πρὸς ἐτέρῳ τῶν ἐμπεπολισμένων τῇ πόλει λόφων, ὃς τότε μὲν ὑπὸ τῶν ἐπιχωρίων Σατόρνιος ἐλέγετο, νῦν δὲ Καπιτωλῖνος ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων· Ἐπειοὶ οἱ πλείους τούτων ἦσαν ἐκ πόλεως Ἥλιδος ἐξαναστάντες διαπεπορθημένης αὐτοῖς τῆς πατρίδος ὑφ' Ἡρακλέους. [p. 155] γενεᾷ δ' ἑκκαίδεκάτῃ μετὰ τὸν Τρωικὸν πόλεμον Ἀλβανοὶ συνοικίζουσιν ἄμφω τὰ χωρία ταῦτα τείχει περιλαβόντες καὶ τάφρῳ. τέως δὲ ἦν αὐλία βουφορβίων τε καὶ ποιμνίων καὶ τῶν ἄλλων καταγωγῶν βοτῆρων ἄφθονον ἀναδιδούσης πᾶν τῆς αὐτόθι γῆς οὐ μόνον τὴν χειμερινήν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὴν θερινόμον διὰ τοὺς ἀναψύχοντάς τε καὶ κατάρδοντας αὐτὴν ποταμούς. [2] γένος δὲ τὸ τῶν Ἀλβανῶν μικτὸν ἦν ἐκ τε Πελασγῶν καὶ Ἀρκάδων καὶ Ἐπειῶν τῶν ἐξ Ἥλιδος ἐλθόντων, τελευταίων δὲ τῶν μετὰ τὴν Ἰλίου ἄλωσιν ἀφικομένων εἰς Ἰταλίαν Τρώων, οὓς ἦγεν Αἰνείας ὁ Ἀγχίσου καὶ Ἀφροδίτης. εἰκὸς δὲ τι καὶ βαρβαρικὸν ἐκ τῶν προσοίκων ἢ παλαιῶν οἰκητόρων ὑπολιπεῖς τῷ Ἑλληνικῷ συγκαταμιγῆναι. ὄνομα δὲ κοινὸν οἱ σύμπαντες οὗτοι Λατῖνοι ἐκλήθησαν ἐπ' ἀνδρὸς δυναστεύσαντος τῶν τόπων Λατίνου τὰς κατὰ τὸ ἔθνος ὀνομασίας ἀφαιρεθέντες. [3] ἐτειχίσθη μὲν ζοῦν ἡ πόλις ὑπὸ τούτων τῶν ἔθνῶν ἐνιαυτῷ δευτέρῳ καὶ τριακοστῷ καὶ τετρακοσιοστῷ μετὰ τὴν Ἰλίου ἄλωσιν ἐπὶ τῆς ἑβδόμης ὀλυμπιάδος. οἱ δὲ ἀγαγόντες τὴν ἀποικίαν ἀδελφοὶ διδυμοὶ τοῦ βασιλείου γένους ἦσαν: Ῥωμύλος αὐτῶν ὄνομα θατέρῳ, [p. 156] τῷ δ' ἐτέρῳ Ῥῶμος: τὰ μητρόθεν μὲν ἀπ' Αἰνείου τε καὶ Δαρδανίδαι, πατὴρ δὲ ἀκριβείαν μὲν οὐ ῥᾶδιον εἰπεῖν ἐξ ὅτου φόντες, πεπίστευνται δὲ ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων Ἄρεος υἱοὶ γενέσθαι. [4] οὐ μέντοι διέμεινάν γε ἀμφοτέροι τῆς ἀποικίας ἡγεμόνες ὑπὲρ τῆς ἀρχῆς στασιάσαντες, ἀλλ' ὁ περιλειφθεὶς αὐτῶν Ῥωμύλος ἀπολομένου θατέρου κατὰ τὴν μάχην οἰκιστὴς γίνεται τῆς πόλεως καὶ τοῦνομα αὐτῇ τῆς ἰδίας κλήσεως ἐπώνυμον τίθεται. ἀριθμὸς δὲ τῶν μετασχόντων αὐτῷ τῆς ἀποικίας ἀπὸ πολλοῦ τοῦ κατ' ἀρχὰς ἐξαποσταλέντος ὀλίγος ἦν ὁ καταλειφθεὶς, τρισχίλιοι πεζοὶ καὶ ἵππεῖς τριακόσιοι.

ἐπεὶ οὖν ἡ τε τάφρος αὐτοῖς ἐξείργαστο καὶ τὸ ἔρυμα τέλος εἶχεν αἱ τε οἰκῆσεις τὰς ἀναγκαίους κατασκευὰς ἀπειλήφεσαν, ἀπῆται δ' ὁ καιρὸς καὶ περὶ κόσμου πολιτείας ὧς χρῆσονται σκοπεῖν, ἀγορὰν ποιησάμενος αὐτῶν ὁ Ῥωμύλος ὑποθεμένου τοῦ μητροπάτορος καὶ διδάξαντος ἃ χρὴ λέγειν, τὴν μὲν πόλιν ἔφη ταῖς τε δημοσίαις καὶ ταῖς ἰδίαις κατασκευαῖς ὡς νεόκτιστον ἀποχρώντως κεκοσμηθῆσαι: ἡξίου δ' ἐνθυμεῖσθαι πάντας ὡς οὐ ταῦτ' ἐστὶ τὰ πλείστου ἄξια ἐν ταῖς πόλεσιν. [2] οὔτε γὰρ ἐν τοῖς ὀθνείοις πολέμοις τὰς βαθείας τάφρους καὶ τὰ ὑψηλὰ ἐρύματα ἱκανὰ εἶναι τοῖς ἔνδον ἀπράγμονα σωτηρίας ὑπόληψιν παρασχεῖν, ἀλλ' ἐν τι μόνον ἐγγυᾶσθαι τὸ μηθὲν ἐξ ἐπιδρομῆς κακὸν ὑπ' ἐχθρῶν παθεῖν προκαταληφθέντας, οὐθ' ὅταν ἐμφύλιοι ταραχαὶ τὸ κοινὸν κατάσχωσι, [p. 157] τῶν ἰδίων οἰκῶν καὶ ἐνδιατημάτων τὰς καταφυγὰς ὑπάρχειν τινὲς ἀκινδύνους. [3] σχολῆς γὰρ ἀνθρώποις ταῦτα καὶ ῥαστώνης βίῳ ἐυρῆσθαι παραμύθια, μεθ' ὧν οὔτε τὸ ἐπιβουλευόν τῶν πέλας κωλύεσθαι μὴ οὐ πονηρὸν εἶναι οὐτ' ἐν τῷ ἀκινδύνῳ βεβηκέναι θαρρεῖν τὸ ἐπιβουλευόμενον, πόλιν τε οὐδεμίαν πῶ τοῦτοις ἐκλαμπρυνθεῖσαν ἐπὶ μήκιστον εὐδαίμονα γενέσθαι καὶ μεγάλην, οὐδ' αὖ παρὰ τὸ μὴ τυχεῖν τινὰ κατασκευῆς ἰδίας τε καὶ δημοσίας πολυτελοῦς κεκωλύσθαι μεγάλην γενέσθαι καὶ εὐδαίμονα: ἀλλ' ἕτερα εἶναι τὰ σώζοντα καὶ ποιοῦντα μεγάλας ἐκ μικρῶν τὰς πόλεις: [4] ἐν μὲν τοῖς ὀθνείοις πολέμοις τὸ διὰ τῶν ὀπλῶν κράτος, τοῦτο δὲ τόλμη παραγίνεσθαι καὶ μελέτη, ἐν δὲ ταῖς ἐμφυλίαις ταραχαῖς τὴν τῶν πολιτευομένων ὁμοφροσύνην, ταύτην δὲ τὸν σῶφρονα καὶ δίκαιον ἐκάστου βίον ἀπέφηνεν ἱκανώτατον ὄντα τῷ κοινῷ παρασχεῖν. [5] τοὺς δὲ τὰ πολέμια τε ἀσκοῦντας καὶ τὰ τῶν ἐπιθυμιῶν κρατοῦντας ἄριστα κοσμεῖν τὰς ἑαυτῶν πατρίδας τείχη τε ἀνάλωτα τῷ κοινῷ καὶ καταγωγὰς τοῖς ἑαυτῶν βίοις ἀσφαλεῖς τοῦτους εἶναι τοὺς παρασκευαζομένους: μαχητὰς δὲ γε καὶ δικαίους ἄνδρας καὶ τὰς ἄλλας ἀρετὰς ἐπιτηδεύοντας τὸ τῆς πολιτείας σχῆμα ποιεῖν τοῖς φρονίμως αὐτὸ καταστησάμενοις, μαλθακοὺς τε αὖ καὶ πλεονέκτας καὶ δούλους αἰσχροῶν ἐπιθυμιῶν τὰ πονηρὰ [p. 158] [6] ἐπιτηδεύματα ἐπιτελεῖν. ἔφη τε παρὰ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων καὶ διὰ πολλῆς ἱστορίας ἐληλυθότων ἀκοῦειν, ὅτι πολλοὶ μὲν ἀποικίαι μεγάλαι καὶ εἰς εὐδαίμονας ἀφικόμεναι τόπους, αἱ μὲν αὐτίκα διεφθάρησαν εἰς στάσεις ἐμπεσοῦσαι, αἱ δ' ὀλίγον ἀντισχοῦσαι χρόνον ὑπῆκοοι τοῖς πλησιοχώροις ἠναγκάσθησαν γενέσθαι καὶ ἀντὶ κρείττονος χώρας, ἣν κατέσχον, τὴν χείρονα τύχην διαλλάξασθαι δοῦλαι ἐξ ἑλευθέρων γενόμεναι: ἕτεροι δ' ὀλιγάνθρωποι καὶ εἰς χωρία οὐ πάνυ σπουδαῖα παραγενόμεναι ἑλευθεραὶ μὲν πρῶτον, ἔπειτα δ' ἐτέρων ἄρχουσαι διετέλεσαν: καὶ οὔτε ταῖς εὐπραγίαις τῶν ὀλίγων οὔτε ταῖς δυστυχίαις τῶν πολλῶν ἕτερόν τι ἢ τὸ τῆς πολιτείας σχῆμα ὑπάρχειν αἴτιον. [7] εἰ μὲν οὖν μία τις ἦν παρὰ πᾶσιν ἀνθρώποις βίου τάξις ἢ ποιουσα εὐδαίμονας τὰς πόλεις, οὐ χαλεπὴν ἂν γενέσθαι σφίσι τὴν αἵρεσιν αὐτῆς: νῦν δ' ἔφη πολλὰς πυθάνεσθαι τὰς κατασκευὰς παρ' Ἑλλησὶ τε καὶ βαρβάρους ὑπαρχούσας, τρεῖς δ' ἐξ ἀπασῶν ἐπαίνουμένους μάλιστα ὑπὸ τῶν χρωμένων ἀκούειν, καὶ τούτων οὐδεμίαν εἶναι τῶν πολιτειῶν εἰλικρινῆ, προσεῖναι δέ τινας ἐκάστη κῆρας συμφύτους, ὥστε χαλεπὴν αὐτῶν εἶναι τὴν αἵρεσιν. ἡξίου τε αὐτοὺς βουλευσαμένους ἐπὶ σχολῆς εἰπεῖν εἴτε ὑφ' ἐνὸς ἄρχεσθαι θέλουσιν ἀνδρὸς εἴτε ὑπ' ὀλίγων εἴτε νόμους καταστησάμενοι πᾶσιν ἀποδοῦναι τὴν τῶν κοινῶν προστασίαν. [8] ἐγὼ δ' ὑμῖν, ἔφη, πρὸς ἣν ἂν καταστήσῃσθε πολιτείαν εὐτρεπῆς καὶ οὔτε ἄρχειν ἀπαξιῶ [p. 159] οὔτε ἄρχεσθαι ἀναίνομαι. τιμῶν δέ, ἃς μοι προσεθήκατε ἡγεμόνα με πρῶτον ἀποδείξαντες τῆς ἀποικίας, ἔπειτα καὶ τῇ πόλει τὴν ἐπωνυμίαν ἐπ' ἐμοῦ θέντες, ἅλις ἔχω. ταύτας γὰρ οὔτε πόλεμος ὑπερόριος οὔτε στάσις ἐμφύλιος οὔτε ὁ πάντα μαραίνων τὰ καλὰ χρόνος ἀφαιρήσεται με οὔτε ἄλλη τύχη παλίγκοτος οὐδεμία: ἀλλὰ καὶ ζῶντι καὶ τὸν βίον ἐκλιπόντι τούτων ὑπάρξει μοι τῶν τιμῶν παρὰ πάντα τὸν λοιπὸν αἰῶνα τυγχάνειν.

τοιαῦτα μὲν ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐκ διδαχῆς τοῦ μητροπάτορος, ὥσπερ ἔφη, ἀπομνημονεύσας ἐν τοῖς πλήθεσιν ἔλεξεν. οἱ δὲ βουλευσάμενοι κατὰ σφᾶς αὐτοὺς ἀποκρίνονται τοιάδε: ἡμεῖς πολιτείας μὲν καινῆς οὐδὲν δεόμεθα, τὴν δ' ὑπὸ τῶν πατέρων δοκιμασθεῖσαν εἶναι κρατίστην παραλαβόντες οὐ μετατιθέμεθα γνώμη τε ἐπόμενοι τῶν παλαιότερων, οὐς ἀπὸ μείζονος οἴομεθα φρονήσεως αὐτὴν καταστήσασθαι, καὶ τύχη ἄρεσκόμενοι. οὐ γὰρ τήνδε μεμψαίμεθ' ἂν εἰκότως, ἢ παρέσχεν ἡμῖν βασιλευσόμενοις τὰ μέγιστα τῶν ἐν ἀνθρώποις ἀγαθῶν, ἑλευθερίαν τε καὶ ἄλλων ἀρχήν. [2] περὶ μὲν δὴ πολιτείας ταῦτα ἐγνώκαμεν: τὴν δὲ τιμὴν ταύτην οὐχ ἐτέρῳ τινὶ μᾶλλον ἢ σοὶ προσήκειν ὑπολαμβάνομεν τοῦ τε βασιλείου γένους ἕνεκα καὶ ἀρετῆς, μάλιστα δ' ὅτι τῆς ἀποικίας ἡγεμόνι κεκρήμεθά σοι καὶ πολλὴν συνίσμεν δεινότητα, πολλὴν δὲ σοφίαν, οὐ λόγῳ μᾶλλον ἢ ἔργῳ μαθόντες. ταῦτα ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἀκούσας ἀγαπᾶν μὲν ἔφη [p. 160] βασιλείας ἄξιος ὑπ' ἀνθρώπων κριθεῖς: οὐ μέντοι γε λήψεσθαι τὴν τιμὴν πρότερον, ἐὰν μὴ καὶ τὸ δαιμόνιον ἐπιθεσπίσῃ δι' οἰωνῶν αἰσίων.

ὡς δὲ κάκεινοις ἦν βουλομένοις προειπὼν ἡμέραν, ἐν ἣ διαμαντεύεσθαι περὶ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἔμελλεν, ἐπειδὴ καθῆκεν ὁ χρόνος ἀναστὰς περὶ τὸν ὄρθρον ἐκ τῆς σκηνῆς προῆλθεν: στάς δὲ ὑπαίθριος ἐν καθαρῷ χωρίῳ καὶ προθύσας ἃ νόμος ἦν εὐχετο Διὶ τε βασιλεῖ καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις θεοῖς, οὐς ἐποίησατο τῆς ἀποικίας ἡγεμόνας, εἰ βουλομένοις αὐτοῖς ἐστί βασιλεύεσθαι τὴν πόλιν ὑφ' ἑαυτοῦ, σημεῖα οὐράνια φανῆναι καλά. [2] μετὰ δὲ τὴν εὐχὴν ἀστραπὴ διῆλθεν ἐκ τῶν ἀριστερῶν ἐπὶ τὰ δεξιὰ. τίθενται δὲ Ῥωμαῖοι τὰς ἐκ τῶν ἀριστερῶν ἐπὶ τὰ δεξιὰ ἀστραπαῖς αἰσίους, εἴτε παρὰ Τυρρηγῶν διδοχθέντες, εἴτε πατέρων καθηγησαμένων κατὰ τοιόνδε: τινὰ, ὡς ἐγὼ πείθομαι, λογισμόν, ὅτι καθέδρα μὲν ἐστὶ καὶ στάσις ἀρίστη τῶν οἰωνοῖς μαντευομένων ἢ βλέπουσα πρὸς ἀνατολὰς, ὅθεν ἡλίου τε ἀναφοραὶ γίνονται καὶ σελήνης καὶ ἀστέρων πλανήτων τε καὶ ἀπλανῶν, ἢ τε τοῦ κόσμου περιφορά, δι' ἣν τοτὲ μὲν ὑπὲρ γῆς ἅπαντα τὰ ἐν αὐτῷ γίνεται, τοτὲ δὲ ὑπὸ γῆς, ἐκεῖθεν ἀρξαμένη τὴν ἐγκύκλιον ἀποδίδωσι κινήσιν. [3] τοῖς δὲ πρὸς ἀνατολὰς βλέπουσιν ἀριστερὰ μὲν γίνεται τὰ πρὸς τὴν ἄρκτον ἐπιστρέφοντα μέρη, δεξιὰ δὲ τὰ πρὸς μεσημβρίαν φέροντα: τιμιώτερα δὲ τὰ πρότερα πέφυκεν [p. 161] εἶναι τῶν ὑστέρων. μετεωρίζεται γὰρ ἀπὸ τῶν βορείων μερῶν ὁ τοῦ ἄξονος πόλος, περὶ ὃν ἡ τοῦ κόσμου στροφή γίνεται, καὶ τῶν πέντε κύκλων τῶν διεζωκῶτων τὴν σφαῖραν ὁ καλούμενος ἀρκτικός αἰὲ τῇδε φανερός: ταπεινοῦται δ' ἀπὸ τῶν νοτίων ὁ καλούμενος ἀνταρκτικός κύκλος ἀφανὴς κατὰ τοῦτο τὸ μέρος. [4] εἰκὸς δὲ κράτιστα τῶν οὐρανίων καὶ μεταρσίων σημείων ὑπάρχειν, ὅσα ἐκ τοῦ κρατίστου γίνεται μέρους, ἐπεὶ δὲ τὰ μὲν ἐστραμμένα πρὸς τὰς ἀνατολὰς ἡγεμονικωτέραν μοῖραν ἔχει τῶν προσεσπερίων, αὐτῶν δὲ γε τῶν ἀνατολικῶν ὑψηλότερα τὰ βόρεια τῶν νοτίων, ταῦτα ἂν εἴη κράτιστα. [5] ὡς δὲ τινες ἱστοροῦσιν ἐκ παλαιοῦ τε καὶ πρὶν ἢ παρὰ Τυρρηγῶν μαθεῖν τοῖς Ῥωμαίων προγόνοις αἴσιοι ἐνομίζοντο αἰ ἐκ τῶν ἀριστερῶν ἀστραπαί. Ἀσκανίῳ γὰρ τῷ ἐξ Αἰνείου γεγονότι, καθ' ὃν χρόνον ὑπὸ Τυρρηγῶν, οὓς ἦγε βασιλεὺς Μεσέντιος, ἐπολεμεῖτο καὶ τειχέρης ἦν, περὶ τὴν τελευταίαν ἔξοδον, ἦν ἀπεγνωκῶς ἥδη τῶν πραγμάτων ἔμελλε ποιεῖσθαι, μετ' ὀλοφυρμοῦ τὸν τε Δία καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους αἰτουμένῳ θεοῦς αἴσια σημεῖα δοῦναι τῆς ἐξόδου φασὶν αἰθρίας οὕσης ἐκ τῶν ἀριστερῶν ἀστράψαι τὸν οὐρανόν. τοῦ δ' ἀγῶνος ἐκείνου λαβόντος τὸ κράτιστον τέλος διαμεῖναι παρὰ τοῖς ἐκγόνοις αὐτοῦ νομιζόμενον αἴσιον τότε τὸ σημεῖον.

τότε δ' οὖν ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐπεὶ δὲ τὰ παρὰ τοῦ δαιμονίου βέβαια προσέλαβε, συγκαλέσας τὸν δῆμον [p. 162] εἰς ἐκκλησίαν καὶ τὰ μαντεῖα δηλώσας βασιλεὺς ἀποδείκνυται πρὸς αὐτῶν καὶ κατεστήσατο ἐν ἔθει τοῖς μετ' αὐτὸν ἅπασιν μήτε βασιλείας μήτε ἀρχὰς λαμβάνειν, ἐὰν μὴ καὶ τὸ δαιμόνιον αὐτοῖς ἐπιθεσπίση, διέμεινέ τε μέχρι πολλοῦ φυλαττόμενον ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων τὸ περὶ τοὺς οἰωνισμοὺς νόμιμον, οὐ μόνον βασιλευομένης τῆς πόλεως, ἀλλὰ καὶ μετὰ κατὰλυσιν τῶν μονάρχων ἐν ὑπάτων καὶ στρατηγῶν καὶ τῶν [2] ἄλλων τῶν κατὰ νόμους ἀρχόντων αἰρέσει. πέπαυται δ' ἐν τοῖς καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνοις, πλὴν οἷον εἰκὼν τις αὐτοῦ λείπεται τῆς ὁσίας αὐτῆς ἔνεκα γινομένη. ἐπαυλίζονται μὲν γὰρ οἱ τὰς ἀρχὰς μέλλοντες λαμβάνειν καὶ περὶ τὸν ὄρθρον ἀνιστάμενοι ποιοῦνται τινὰς εὐχὰς ὑπαίθριοι, τῶν δὲ παρόντων τινὲς ὀρνιθοσκόπων μισθὸν ἐκ τοῦ δημοσίου φερόμενοι ἀστραπὴν αὐτοῖς μηνύειν ἐκ τῶν ἀριστερῶν φασὶν τὴν οὐ [3] γενομένην. οἱ δὲ τὸν ἐκ τῆς φωνῆς οἶωνόν λαβόντες ἀπέρχονται τὰς ἀρχὰς παραληφόμενοι οἱ μὲν αὐτὸ τοῦθ' ἱκανὸν ὑπολαμβάνοντες εἶναι τὸ μηδένα γενέσθαι τῶν ἐναντιουμένων τε καὶ κωλύοντων οἶωνῶν, οἱ δὲ καὶ παρὰ τὸ βούλημα τοῦ θεοῦ κωλύοντος, ἔστι γὰρ ὅτε βιαζόμενοι καὶ τὰς ἀρχὰς ἀρπάζοντες μᾶλλον ἢ λαμβάνοντες.

Ὁ δὲ Ῥωμύλος ἀποδειχθεὶς τοῦτον τὸν τρόπον ὑπὸ τε ἀνθρώπων καὶ θεῶν βασιλεὺς τὰ τε πολέμια δεινὸς καὶ φιλοκίνδυνος ὡμολόγηται γενέσθαι καὶ πολιτείαν ἐξηγήσασθαι τὴν κρατίστην φρονιμώτατος. διέξειμι δ' αὐτοῦ τὰς πράξεις τὰς τε πολιτικὰς καὶ τὰς κατὰ πολέμους, ὧν καὶ λόγον ἂν τις ἐν ἱστορίας ἀφηγήσῃ ποιήσαιο. [2] ἐρῶ δὲ πρῶτον ὑπὲρ τοῦ κόσμου τῆς πολιτείας, ὃν ἐγὼ πάντων ἡγοῦμαι πολιτικῶν κόσμων αὐταρκέστατον ἐν εἰρήνῃ τε καὶ κατὰ πολέμους. ἦν δὲ τοιόσδε: τριχῇ νεῖμας τὴν πληθὺν ἅπασαν ἐκάστη τῶν μοιρῶν τὸν ἐπιφανέστατον ἐπέστησεν ἡγεμόνα. ἔπειτα τῶν τριῶν πάλιν μοιρῶν ἐκάστην εἰς δέκα μοίρας διελών, ἴσους ἡγεμόνας καὶ τούτων ἀπέδειξε [p. 164] τοὺς ἀνδρειοτάτους: ἐκάλει δὲ τὰς μὲν μείζους μοίρας τρίβους, τὰς δ' ἐλάττους κουρίας, ὡς καὶ κατὰ τὸν ἡμέτερον βίον ἔτι προσαγορεύονται. [3] εἶη δ' ἂν Ἑλλάδι γλώττῃ τὰ ὀνόματα ταῦτα μεθερμηνευόμενα φυλὴ μὲν καὶ τριττὺς ἢ τρίβους, φράτρα δὲ καὶ λόχος ἢ κουρία, καὶ τῶν ἀνδρῶν οἱ μὲν τὰς τῶν τρίβων ἡγεμονίας ἔχοντες φύλαρχοι τε καὶ τριττῶν, οὓς καλοῦσι Ῥωμαῖοι τριβούρους: οἱ δὲ ταῖς κουρίαις ἐφεστηκότες καὶ φρατρίαρχοι καὶ λοχαγοί, οὓς ἐκεῖνοι κουρίωνας ὀνομάζουσι. [4] διήρηντο δὲ καὶ εἰς δεκάδας αἱ φράτραι πρὸς αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἡγεμῶν ἐκάστην ἐκόσμη δεκάδα, δεκουρίων κατὰ τὴν ἐπιχώριον γλῶτταν προσαγορευόμενος. ὡς δὲ διεκρίθησαν ἅπαντες καὶ συνετάχθησαν εἰς φυλάς καὶ φράτρας, διελών τὴν γῆν εἰς τριάκοντα κλήρους ἴσους ἐκάστη φράτρα κλῆρον ἀπέδωκεν ἓνα, ἐξελών τὴν ἀρκοῦσαν εἰς ἱερὰ καὶ τεμένη καὶ τινα καὶ τῷ κοινῷ γῆν καταλιπών. μία μὲν αὕτη διαίρεσις ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου τῶν τε ἀνδρῶν καὶ τῆς χώρας ἡ περιέχουσα τὴν κοινὴν καὶ μεγίστην ἰσότητα, τοιάδε τις ἦν.

ἑτέρα δὲ αὐτῶν πάλιν τῶν ἀνδρῶν ἢ τὰ φιλόφθονα καὶ τὰς τιμὰς διανεμούσα κατὰ τὴν ἀξίαν, ἣν μέλλω διηγέσθαι. τοὺς ἐπιφανεῖς κατὰ γένος καὶ δι' ἀρετὴν ἐπαινούμενους καὶ χρήμασι ὡς ἐν τοῖς τότε καιροῖς εὐπόρους, οἷς ἤδη παῖδες ἦσαν, [p. 165] διώριζεν ἀπὸ τῶν ἀσήμεων καὶ ταπεινῶν καὶ ἀπόρων. ἐκάλει δὲ τοὺς μὲν ἐν τῇ καταδεεστέρᾳ τύχῃ πληβεῖους, ὡς δ' ἂν Ἕλληνες εἴποιεν δημοτικούς: τοὺς δ' ἐν τῇ κρείττονι πατέρας εἴτε διὰ τὸ πρεσβεύειν ἡλικίᾳ τῶν ἄλλων, εἴθ' ὅτι παῖδες αὐτοῖς ἦσαν, εἴτε διὰ τὴν ἐπιφάνειαν τοῦ γένους, εἴτε διὰ πάντα ταῦτα: ἐκ τῆς Ἀθηναίων πολιτείας, ὡς ἂν τις εἰκάσειε, τῆς κατ' ἐκεῖνον τὸν χρόνον ἔτι διαμενούσης τὸ παράδειγμα λαβών. [2] ἐκεῖνοι μὲν γὰρ εἰς δύο μέρη νειμαντες τὸ πλῆθος εὐπατρίδας μὲν ἐκάλουν τοὺς ἐκ τῶν ἐπιφανῶν οἴκων καὶ χρήμασι δυνατοὺς, οἷς ἡ τῆς πόλεως ἀνέκειτο προστασία, ἀγροίκους δὲ τοὺς ἄλλους πολίτας, οἱ τῶν κοινῶν οὐδενὸς ἦσαν κύριοι: σὺν χρόνῳ ^[3] δὲ καὶ οὗτοι προσελήφθησαν ἐπὶ τὰς ἀρχάς. οἱ μὲν δὴ τὰ πιθανώτατα περὶ τῆς Ῥωμαίων πολιτείας ἱστοροῦντες διὰ ταύτας τὰς αἰτίας κληθῆναι φασὶ τοὺς ἄνδρας ἐκείνους πατέρας καὶ τοὺς ἐκγόνους αὐτῶν πατρικίους, οἱ δὲ πρὸς τὸν ἴδιον φθόνον ἀναφέροντες τὸ πρᾶγμα καὶ διαβάλλοντες εἰς δυσγένειαν τὴν πόλιν οὐ διὰ ταῦτα πατρικίους ἐκείνους κληθῆναι φασιν, ἀλλ' ὅτι πατέρας εἶχον ἀποδειῖξαι μόνοι, ὡς τῶν γε ἄλλων δραπετῶν ὄντων καὶ οὐκ ἐχόντων ὀνομάσαι πατέρας ἐλευθέρους. ^[4] τεκμήριον δὲ τούτου παρέχουσιν, ὅτι τοὺς μὲν πατρικίους, ὅποτε δόξειε τοῖς βασιλεῦσι συγκαλεῖν, οἱ κήρυκες ἐξ ὀνόματός τε καὶ πατρώθεν ἀνηγόρευον, τοὺς δὲ δημοτικούς ὑπηρεταί τινές ἀθρόους κέρασι βοείοις ἐμβυκανῶντες ἐπὶ τὰς [p. 166] ἐκκλησίας συνῆγον. ἔστι δὲ οὔτε ἡ τῶν κηρύκων ἀνάκλησις τῆς εὐγενείας τῶν πατρικίων τεκμήριον, οὔτε ἡ τῆς βυκάνης φωνῇ τῆς ἀγνωσίας τῶν δημοτικῶν σύμβολον, ἀλλ' ἐκείνη μὲν τιμῆς, αὕτη δὲ τάχους. οὐ γὰρ οἶόντε ἦν ἐν ὀλίγῳ χρόνῳ τὴν πληθὺν καλεῖν ἐξ ὀνόματος.

ὁ δὲ Ῥωμύλος ἐπειδὴ διέκρινε τοὺς κρείττους ἀπὸ τῶν ἡττόνων, ἐνομοθέτει μετὰ τοῦτο καὶ διέταπτεν, ἃ χρὴ πράττειν ἐκατέρους: τοὺς μὲν εὐπατρίδας ἱερᾶσθαι τε καὶ ἄρχειν καὶ δικάζειν καὶ μεθ' ἑαυτοῦ τὰ κοινὰ πράττειν ἐπὶ τῶν κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ἔργων μένοντας, τοὺς δὲ δημοτικούς τούτων μὲν ἀπολελυσθαι τῶν πραγματειῶν ἀπείρους τε αὐτῶν ὄντας καὶ δι' ἀπορίαν χρημάτων ἀσχόλους, γεωργεῖν δὲ καὶ κτηνοτροφεῖν καὶ τὰς χρηματοποιοὺς ἐργάζεσθαι τέχνας, ἵνα μὴ στασιάσωσιν, ὥσπερ ἐν ταῖς ἄλλαις πόλεσιν, ἡ τῶν ἐν τέλει προπηλακίζοντων τοὺς ταπεινοὺς ἢ τῶν φαύλων καὶ ἀπόρων τοῖς ἐν ταῖς ὑπεροχαῖς φθονοῦντων. ^[2] παρακαταθήκας δὲ ἔδωκε τοῖς πατρικίοις τοὺς δημοτικούς ἐπιτρέψας ἐκάστῳ τῶν ἐκ τοῦ πλήθους, ὃν αὐτὸς ἐβούλετο, νέμειν προστατὴν ἔθος Ἑλληνικὸν καὶ ἀρχαῖον, ὃ Θετταλοὶ τε μέχρι πολλοῦ χρώμενοι διετέλεσαν καὶ Ἀθηναῖοι κατ' ἀρχάς, ἐπὶ τὰ κρείττω λαβῶν. ἐκεῖνοι μὲν γὰρ ὑπεροπτικῶς ἐχρῶντο τοῖς πελάταις ἔργα τε ἐπιτάττοντες οὐ προσήκοντα ἐλευθέροις, καὶ ὅποτε μὴ πράξειάν τι τῶν κελευομένων, πληγὰς ἐντείνοντες καὶ [p. 167] τᾶλλα ὥσπερ ἀργυρωνήτοις παραχρῶμενοι. ἐκάλουν δὲ Ἀθηναῖοι μὲν θήτας τοὺς πελάτας ἐπὶ τῆς λατρείας, Θετταλοὶ δὲ πενέστας ὀνειδίζοντες αὐτοῖς εὐθύς ἐν τῇ κλήσει τὴν τύχην. ^[3] ὁ δὲ Ῥωμύλος ἐπικλήσει τε εὐπρεπεῖ τὸ πρᾶγμα ἐκόσμησε πατρωνεῖαν ὀνομάσας τὴν τῶν πενήτων καὶ ταπεινῶν προστασίαν, καὶ τὰ ἔργα χρηστὰ προσέθηκεν ἐκατέροις, καὶ φιλανθρώπους καὶ πολιτικὰς κατασκευαζόμενος αὐτῶν τὰς συζυγίας.

ἦν δὲ τὰ ὑπ' ἐκείνου τότε ὀρισθέντα καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ παραμείναντα χρόνου Ῥωμαίοις ἔθη περὶ τὰς πατρωνείας τοιάδε: τοὺς μὲν πατρικίους ἔδει τοῖς ἑαυτῶν πελάταις ἐξηγεῖσθαι τὰ δίκαια, ὧν οὐκ εἶχον ἐκεῖνοι τὴν ἐπιστήμην, παρόντων τε αὐτῶν καὶ μὴ παρόντων τὸν αὐτὸν ἐπιμελεῖσθαι τρόπον ἅπαντα πράττοντας, ὅσα περὶ παιδῶν πράττουσι πατέρες, εἰς χρημάτων τε καὶ τῶν περὶ χρήματα συμβολαίων λόγον: δίκας τε ὑπὲρ τῶν πελατῶν ἀδικουμένων λαγχάνειν, εἴ τις βλάπτοιοτο περὶ τὰ συμβόλαια, καὶ τοῖς ἐγκαλοῦσιν ὑπέχειν: ὡς δὲ ὀλίγα περὶ πολλῶν ἂν τις εἴποι πᾶσαν αὐτοῖς εἰρήνην τῶν τε ἰδίων καὶ τῶν κοινῶν πραγμάτων, ἥς μάλιστα ἐδέοντο, παρέχειν. [2] τοὺς δὲ πελάτας ἔδει τοῖς ἑαυτῶν προστάταις θυγατέρας τε συνεκδίδοσθαι γαμουμένας, εἰ σπανίζοιεν οἱ πατέρες χρημάτων, καὶ λύτρα καταβάλλειν πολεμίοις, εἴ τις αὐτῶν ἢ παιδῶν αἰχμάλωτος γένοιτο: δίκας τε [p. 168] ἀλόντων ἰδίας ἢ ζημίας ὀφλόντων δημοσίας ἀργυρικὸν ἐχούσας τιμήμα ἐκ τῶν ἰδίων λύεσθαι χρημάτων, οὐ δανείσματα ποιοῦντας, ἀλλὰ χάριτας: ἔν τε ἀρχαῖς καὶ γερηφορίαις καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις ταῖς εἰς τὰ κοινὰ δαπάναις τῶν ἀναλωμάτων ὡς τοὺς γένει προσήκοντας μετέχειν. [3] κοινῇ δ' ἀμφοτέροις οὔτε ὅσιον οὔτε θέμις ἦν κατηγορεῖν ἀλλήλων ἐπὶ δίκαις ἢ καταμαρτυρεῖν ἢ ψῆφον ἐναντίαν ἐπιφέρειν ἢ μετὰ τῶν ἐχθρῶν ἐξετάζεσθαι. εἰ δὲ τις ἐξελεγχθεῖη τούτων τι διαπραπτόμενος ἔνοχος ἦν τῷ νόμῳ τῆς προδοσίας, ὃν ἐκύρωσεν ὁ Ῥωμύλος, τὸν δὲ ἀλόντα τῷ βουλομένῳ κτείνειν ὅσιον ἦν ὡς θυμὰ τοῦ καταχθονίου Διός. ἐν ἔθει γὰρ Ῥωμαίοις, ὅσους ἐβούλοντο νηποινὶ τεθνάναι, τὰ τούτων σώματα θεῶν ὀτωδῆτινι, μάλιστα δὲ τοῖς καταχθονίοις κατονομάζειν: ὃ καὶ τότε ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐποίησε. [4] τοιγάρτοι διέμειναν ἐν πολλαῖς γενεαῖς οὐδὲν διαφέρουσαι συγγενικῶν ἀναγκαιοτήτων αἱ τῶν πελατῶν τε καὶ προστατῶν συζυγίαι παισὶ παιδῶν συνιστάμεναι, καὶ μέγας ἔπαινος ἦν τοῖς ἐκ τῶν ἐπιφανῶν οἴκων ὡς πλείστους πελάτας ἔχειν τὰς τε προγονικὰς φυλάττουσι διαδοχὰς τῶν πατρωνειῶν καὶ διὰ τῆς ἑαυτῶν ἀρετῆς ἄλλας ἐπικτωμένοις, ὃ τε ἀγῶν ὑπὲρ τῆς εὐνοίας ὑπὲρ τοῦ μὴ λειφθῆναι τῆς ἀλλήλων χάριτος ἔκτοπος ἡλικίος ἀμφοτέροις ἦν τῶν μὲν πελατῶν ἅπαντα τοῖς προστάταις ἀξιοῦντων ὡς δυνάμεως [p. 169] εἶχον ὑπηρετεῖν, τῶν δὲ πατρικίων ἥκιστα βουλομένων τοῖς πελάταις ἐνοχλεῖν χρηματικὴν τε οὐδεμίαν δωρεάν προσιεμένων: οὕτως ἐγκρατὴς ὁ βίος ἦν αὐτοῖς ἀπάσης ἡδονῆς καὶ τὸ μακαρίον ἀρετῇ μετρῶν, οὐ τυχῇ.

οὐ μόνον δ' ἐν αὐτῇ τῇ πόλει τὸ δημοτικὸν ὑπὸ τὴν προστασίαν τῶν πατρικίων ἦν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τῶν ἀποίκων αὐτῆς πόλεων καὶ τῶν ἐπὶ συμμαχίᾳ καὶ φιλίᾳ προσελθουσῶν καὶ τῶν ἐκ πολέμου κεκρατημένων ἐκάστη φύλακας εἶχε καὶ προστάτας οὓς ἐβούλετο Ῥωμαίων. καὶ πολλάκις ἡ βουλὴ τὰ ἐκ τούτων ἀμφισβητήματα τῶν πόλεων καὶ ἐθνῶν ἐπὶ τοῦς προῖσταμένους αὐτῶν ἀποστέλλουσα, τὰ ὑπ' ἐκείνων δικασθέντα κύρια ἡγεῖτο. [2] οὕτω δὲ ἄρα βέβαιος ἦν ἡ Ῥωμαίων ὁμόνοια τὴν ἀρχὴν ἐκ τῶν ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου κατασκευασθέντων λαβοῦσα ἐθῶν, ὥστε οὐδέποτε δι' αἵματος καὶ φόνου τοῦ κατ' ἀλλήλων ἐχώρησαν ἐντὸς ἐξακοσίων καὶ τριάκοντα ἐτῶν, πολλῶν καὶ μεγάλων ἀμφισβητημάτων γενομένων τῷ δήμῳ πρὸς τοὺς ἐν τέλει περὶ τῶν κοινῶν, ὡς ἐν ἀπάσαις φιλεῖ γίνεσθαι μικραῖς τε καὶ μεγάλαις πόλεσιν: [3] ἀλλὰ πειθοντες καὶ διδάσκοντες ἀλλήλους καὶ τὰ μὲν εἰκοντες, τὰ δὲ παρ' εἰκόντων λαμβάνοντες, πολιτικὰς ἐποιοῦντο τὰς τῶν ἐγκλημάτων διαλύσεις. ἐξ οὗ δὲ Γάιος Γράκχος ἐπὶ τῆς δημαρχικῆς ἐξουσίας γενόμενος διέφθειρε τὴν τοῦ πολιτεύματος ἀρμονίαν, οὐκέτι πέπαινανται σφάττοντες [p. 170] ἀλλήλους καὶ φυγάδας ἐλαύνοντες ἐκ τῆς

ὁ δὲ Ῥωμύλος ἐπειδὴ ταῦτα διεκόσμησε βουλευτὰς εὐθύς ἔγνω καταστήσασθαι, μεθ' ὧν πράττειν τὰ κοινὰ ἔμελλεν, ἐκ τῶν πατρικίων ἄνδρας ἑκατὸν ἐπιλεξάμενος. ἐποιεῖτο δὲ αὐτῶν τοιάνδε τὴν διαίρεσιν: αὐτὸς μὲν ἐξ ἀπάντων ἓνα τὸν ἄριστον ἀπέδειξεν, ὃ τὰς κατὰ πόλιν ὤετο δεῖν ἐπιτρέπειν οἰκονομίας, ὅτε αὐτὸς ἐξάγοι στρατιὰν ὑπερόριον: [2] τῶν δὲ φυλῶν ἑκάστη προσέταξε τρεῖς ἄνδρας ἐλεσθαι τοὺς ἐν τῇ φρονιμωτάτῃ τότε ὄντας ἡλικίᾳ καὶ δι' εὐγένειαν ἐπιφανεῖς. μετὰ δὲ τοὺς ἐννέα τούτους ἑκάστην φράτρην πάλιν ἐκέλευσε τρεῖς ἐκ τῶν πατρικίων ἀποδείξαι τοὺς ἐπιτηδειοτάτους: ἔπειτα τοῖς πρώτοις ἐννέα τοῖς ὑπὸ τῶν φυλῶν ἀποδειχθεῖσι τοὺς ἐνενήκοντα προσθεῖς, οὓς αἱ φράτραι προεχειρίσαντο, καὶ τούτων, ὃν αὐτὸς προέκρινεν, ἡγεμόνα ποιήσας τὸν τῶν ἑκατὸν ἐξεπλήρωσε βουλευτῶν ἀριθμόν. [3] τοῦτο τὸ συνέδριον Ἑλληνιστὶ ἐρμηνευόμενον γερουσίαν δύναται δηλοῦν καὶ μέχρι τοῦ παρόντος ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων οὕτως καλεῖται. πότερον δὲ διὰ γῆρας τῶν [p. 171] καταλεγέντων εἰς αὐτὸ ἀνδρῶν ἢ δι' ἀρετὴν ταύτης ἔτυχε τῆς ἐπικλήσεως οὐκ ἔχω τὸ σαφὲς εἰπεῖν. καὶ γὰρ τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους καὶ τοὺς ἀρίστους γέροντας εἴωθεσαν οἱ παλαιοὶ καλεῖν. οἱ δὲ μετέχοντες τοῦ βουλευτηρίου πατέρες ἔγγραφοι προσηγορεύθησαν καὶ μέχρις ἐμοῦ ταύτης ἐτύγχανον τῆς προσηγορίας. [4] Ἑλληνικὸν δὲ ἄρα καὶ τοῦτο τὸ ἔθος ἦν. τοῖς γοῦν βασιλεῦσιν, ὅσοι τε πατρίους ἀρχὰς παραλάβοιεν καὶ ὅσους ἢ πληθὺς αὐτῇ καταστήσαιτο ἡγεμόνας, βουλευτήριον ἦν ἐκ τῶν κρατίστων, ὡς Ὅμηρός τε καὶ οἱ παλαιότατοι τῶν ποιητῶν μαρτυροῦσι: καὶ οὐχ ὥσπερ ἐν τοῖς καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνοις αὐθάδεις καὶ μονογνώμονες ἦσαν αἱ τῶν ἀρχαίων βασιλέων δυναστεῖαι.

ὥς δὲ κατεσκευάσατο καὶ τὸ βουλευτικὸν τῶν γερόντων συνέδριον ἐκ τῶν ἑκατὸν ἀνδρῶν, ὁρῶν ὅπερ εἰκὸς ὅτι καὶ νεότητος αὐτῷ δεήσει τινὸς συντεταγμένης, ἣ χρήσεται φυλακῆς ἕνεκα τοῦ σώματος καὶ πρὸς τὰ κατεπείγοντα τῶν ἔργων ὑπηρεσίᾳ, τριακοσίους ἄνδρας ἐκ τῶν ἐπιφανεστάτων οἴκων τοὺς ἐρρωμενεστάτους τοῖς σώμασιν ἐπιλεξάμενος, οὓς ἀπέδειξαν αἱ φράτραι τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον, ὃνπερ τοὺς βουλευτὰς ἑκάστη φράτρα δέκα νέους, τούτους τοὺς ἄνδρας αἱ περὶ αὐτὸν εἶχεν: [2] ὄνομα δὲ κοινὸν ἅπαντες οὗτοι ἔσχον κελέριοι, ὡς μὲν οἱ πλείους γράφουσιν [p. 172] ἐπὶ τῆς ὀξύτητος τῶν ὑπηρεσιῶν, 'τοὺς γὰρ ἐτοίμους καὶ ταχεῖς περὶ τὰ ἔργα κέλερας οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι καλοῦσιν' ὡς δὲ Οὐαλέριος ὁ Ἀντιεὺς φησιν ἐπὶ τοῦ [3] ἡγεμόνος αὐτῶν τοῦτ' ἔχοντος τοῦνομα. ἦν γὰρ καὶ τούτων ἡγεμὼν ὁ διαφανέστατος, ὃ τρεῖς ὑπετάγησαν ἑκατόνταρχοι καὶ αὐθις ὑπ' ἐκείνοις ἕτεροι τὰς ὑποδεεστέρας ἔχοντες ἀρχάς, οἱ κατὰ πόλιν μὲν αἰχμοφόροι τε αὐτῷ παρηκολούθουν καὶ τῶν κελευομένων ὑπηρεταί, κατὰ δὲ τὰς στρατείας πρόμαχοι τε ἦσαν καὶ παρασπισταί: καὶ τὰ πολλὰ οὗτοι κατῴρθουν ἐν τοῖς ἀγῶσι πρῶτοι τε ἄρχοντες μάχης καὶ τελευταῖοι τῶν ἄλλων ἀφιστάμενοι, ἵππεῖς μὲν ἔνθα ἐπιτῆδιον εἶη πεδίον ἐνιππομαχῆσαι, πεζοὶ δὲ ὅπου τραχὺς εἶη καὶ ἀνιππος τόπος. [4] τοῦτό μοι δοκεῖ παρὰ Λακεδαιμονίων μετενέγκασθαι τὸ ἔθος μαθὼν ὅτι καὶ παρ' ἐκείνοις οἱ

καταστησάμενος δὴ ταῦτα διέκρινε τὰς τιμὰς καὶ τὰς ἐξουσίας, ἃς ἐκάστους ἐβούλετο ἔχειν. βασιλεῖ μὲν οὖν ἐξήρητο τάδε τὰ γέρα: πρῶτον μὲν ἱερῶν καὶ θυσιῶν ἡγεμονίαν ἔχειν καὶ πάντα δι' ἐκείνου πράττεσθαι τὰ πρὸς τοὺς θεοὺς ὅσια, ἔπειτα νόμων τε καὶ πατρίων ἐθισμῶν φυλακὴν ποιῆσθαι καὶ παντὸς τοῦ κατὰ φύσιν ἢ κατὰ συνθήκας δικαίου προνοεῖν τῶν τε ἀδικημάτων τὰ μέγιστα μὲν αὐτὸν [p. 173] δικάζειν, τὰ δ' ἐλάττονα τοῖς βουλευταῖς ἐπιτρέπειν προνοοῦμενον ἵνα μηδὲν γίγνηται περὶ τὰς δίκας πλημμελές, βουλὴν τε συνάγειν καὶ δῆμον συγκαλεῖν καὶ γνώμης ἄρχειν καὶ τὰ δόξαντα τοῖς πλείοσιν ἐπιτελεῖν. ταῦτα μὲν ἀπέδωκε βασιλεῖ τὰ γέρα καὶ ἔτι πρὸς τοῦτοις ἡγεμονίαν ἔχειν αὐτοκράτορα ἐν πολέμῳ. [2] τῷ δὲ συνεδρίῳ τῆς βουλῆς τιμὴν καὶ δυναστείαν ἀνέθηκε τοιάνδε: περὶ παντὸς ὅτου ἂν εἰσηγῇται βασιλεὺς διαγινώσκειν τε καὶ ψῆφον ἐπιφέρειν, καὶ ὃ τι ἂν δόξη τοῖς πλείοσι τοῦτο νικᾶν: ἐκ τῆς Λακωνικῆς πολιτείας καὶ τοῦτο μετενεγκάμενος. οὐδὲ γὰρ οἱ Λακεδαιμονίων βασιλεῖς αὐτοκράτορες ἦσαν ὃ τι βούλιντο πράττειν, ἀλλ' ἡ γερουσία πᾶν εἶχε τῶν κοινῶν τὸ κράτος. [3] τῷ δὲ δημοτικῷ πλήθει τρία ταῦτα ἐπέτρεψεν: ἀρχαιρεσιάζειν τε καὶ νόμους ἐπικυροῦν καὶ περὶ πολέμου διαγινώσκειν, ὅταν ὁ βασιλεὺς ἐφῇ, οὐδὲ τούτων ἔχοντι τὴν ἐξουσίαν ἀνεπίληπτον, ἂν μὴ καὶ τῇ βουλῇ ταῦτά δοκῇ. ἔφερε δὲ τὴν ψῆφον οὐχ ἅμα πᾶς ὁ δῆμος, ἀλλὰ κατὰ τὰς φράτρας συγκαλούμενος: ὃ τι δὲ ταῖς πλείοσι δόξειε φράτραις τοῦτο ἐπὶ τὴν βουλὴν ἀνεφέρετο. ἐφ' ἡμῶν δὲ μετάκειται τὸ ἔθος: οὐ γὰρ ἡ βουλὴ διαγινώσκει τὰ ψηφισθέντα ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου, τῶν δ' ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς γνωσθέντων ὁ δῆμος ἐστὶ κύριος: πότερον δὲ τῶν ἐθῶν κρεῖττον, ἐν κοινῷ τίθημι τοῖς βουλομένοις σκοπεῖν. [4] ἐκ δὲ τῆς διαιρέσεως ταύτης οὐ μόνον τὰ πολιτικὰ πράγματα σὺφφρονας ἐλάμβανε καὶ τεταγμένας τὰς διοικήσεις, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰ πολεμικὰ ταχείας καὶ [p. 174] εὐπειθεῖς. ὁπότε γὰρ αὐτῷ φανεῖη στρατιὰν ἐξάγειν, οὔτε χιλιάρχους τότε ἔδει ἀποδεικνύσθαι κατὰ φυλὰς οὔτε ἑκατοντάρχους κατὰ λόχους οὔτε ἱππέων ἡγεμόνας οὔτε ἐξαριθμεῖσθαι τε καὶ λοχιζεσθαι καὶ τάξιν ἐκάστους τὴν προσήκουσαν λαμβάνειν: ἀλλὰ βασιλεὺς μὲν τοῖς χιλιάρχοις παρήγγελλεν, ἐκεῖνοι δὲ τοῖς λοχαγοῖς: παρὰ δὲ τούτων οἱ δεκάδαρχοι μαθόντες ἐξῆγον τοὺς ὑποτεταγμένους ἑαυτοῖς ἕκαστοι, ἀφ' ἐνός τε κελεύσματος εἴτε πᾶσα ἡ δύναμις εἴτε μοῖρά τις ἐξ αὐτῆς κληθεῖν τὰ ὄπλα ἔχουσα παρῆν εἰς τὸν ἀποδειχθέντα τόπον εὐτρεπῆς.

τεταγμένην μὲν οὖν καὶ κεκοσμημένην πρὸς εἰρήνην τε ἀποχρῶντως καὶ πρὸς τὰ πολέμια ἐπιτηδεύς ἐκ τούτων τῶν πολιτευμάτων τὴν πόλιν ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἀπειργάσατο, μεγάλην δὲ καὶ πολυάνθρωπον ἐκ τῶνδε: [2] πρῶτον μὲν εἰς ἀνάγκην κατέστησε τοὺς οἰκήτορας αὐτῆς ἅπασαν ἄρρενα γενεὰν ἐκτρέφειν καὶ θυγατέρων τὰς πρωτογόνους, ἀποκτινύναι δὲ μηδὲν τῶν γεννωμένων νεώτερον τριετοῦς, πλὴν εἴ τι γένοιτο παιδίον ἀνάπηρον ἢ τέρας εὐθύς ἀπὸ γονῆς. ταῦτα δ' οὐκ ἐκώλυσεν ἐκτιθέναι τοὺς γειναμένους ἐπιδειξάντας πρότερον πέντε ἀνδράσι τοῖς ἔγγιστα οἰκοῦσιν, ἐὰν κάκεινοισιν συνδοκῇ. κατὰ δὲ [p. 175] τῶν μὴ πετιομένων τῷ νόμῳ ζημίας ὥρισεν ἄλλας τε καὶ τῆς οὐσίας αὐτῶν τὴν ἡμίσειαν εἶναι δημοσίαν. [3] ἔπειτα καταμαθὼν πολλὰς τῶν κατὰ τὴν Ἰταλίαν πόλεων πονηρῶς ἐπιτροπευομένας ὑπὸ τυραννίδων τε καὶ ὀλιγαρχιῶν, τοὺς ἐκ τούτων ἐκπίπτοντας τῶν πόλεων συχνοὺς ὄντας, εἰ μόνον εἶεν ἐλεύθεροι, διακρίνων οὔτε συμφορὰς οὔτε τύχας αὐτῶν ὑποδέχεσθαι καὶ μετὰγειν ὡς ἑαυτὸν ἐπεχείρει, τὴν τε Ῥωμαίων δύναμιν αὐξῆσαι βουλευθεὶς καὶ τὰς τῶν περιοίκων ἐλαττώσαι: ἐποίει δὲ ταῦτα πρόφασιν ἐξευρών εὐπρεπῇ καὶ εἰς θεοῦ τιμὴν τὸ ἔργον ἀναφέρων. [4] τὸ γὰρ μεταξὺ χωρίον τοῦ τε Καπιτωλίου καὶ τῆς ἄκρας, ὃ καλεῖται νῦν κατὰ τὴν Ῥωμαίων διάλεκτον μεθόριον δυεῖν δρυμῶν καὶ ἦν τότε τοῦ συμβεβηκότος ἐπώνυμον, ὕλαις ἀμφιλαφέσι κατ' ἀμφοτέρας τὰς συναπτούσας τοῖς λόφοις λαγόνας ἐπίσκιον, ἱερὸν ἀνεῖς ἄσυλον ἰκέταις καὶ ναὸν ἐπὶ τοῦτῳ κατασκευασάμενος ὅτῳ δὲ ἄρα θεῶν ἢ δαιμόνων οὐκ ἔχω τὸ σαφὲς εἰπεῖν τοῖς καταφεύγουσιν εἰς τοῦτο τὸ ἱερὸν ἰκέταις τοῦ τε μηδὲν κακὸν ὑπ' ἐχθρῶν παθεῖν ἐγγυητῆς ἐγίνετο τῆς εἰς τὸ θεῖον εὐσεβείας προφάσει καὶ εἰ βούλοιντο παρ' αὐτῷ μένειν πολιτείας μετεδίδου καὶ γῆς μοῖραν, ἣν κτήσαιο πολεμίους ἀφελόμενος. οἱ δὲ συνέρρεον ἐκ παντὸς τόπου τὰ οἰκεῖα φεύγοντες κακὰ καὶ οὐκέτι ἐτέρωσε ἀπανίσταντο ταῖς καθ' ἡμέραν ὁμιλίαις καὶ χάρισιν ὑπ' αὐτοῦ κατεχόμενοι. [p. 176] τρίτον ἦν ἔτι Ῥωμύλου πολιτεύμα, ὃ πάντων μάλιστα τοὺς Ἕλληνας ἀσκεῖν ἔδει, κράτιστον ἀπάντων πολιτευμάτων ὑπάρχον, ὡς ἐμὴ δόξα φέρει, ὃ καὶ τῆς βεβαίου Ῥωμαίους ἐλευθερίας ἤρχε καὶ τῶν ἐπὶ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ἀγόντων οὐκ ἐλαχίστην μοῖραν παρέσχε, τὸ μῆτε κατασφάττειν ἡβηδὸν τὰς ἀλούσας πολέμῳ πόλεις μῆτε ἀνδραποδίζεσθαι μηδὲ γῆν αὐτῶν ἀνιέναι μηλόβοτον, ἀλλὰ κληροῦχους εἰς αὐτὰς ἀποστελλεῖν ἐπὶ μέρει τινὶ τῆς χώρας καὶ ποιεῖν ἀποικίας τῆς Ῥώμης τὰς κρατηθείσας, ἐνίαις δὲ καὶ πολιτείας μεταδιδόναι. [2] ταῦτά τε δὴ καὶ τᾶλλα τούτοις ὅμοια καταστησάμενος πολιτεύματα μεγάλην ἐκ μικρᾶς ἐποίησε τὴν ἀποικίαν, ὡς αὐτὰ τὰ ἔργα ἐδήλωσεν. οἱ μὲν γὰρ συνοικίσαντες μετ' αὐτοῦ τὴν Ῥώμην οὐ πλείους ἦσαν ἀνδρῶν τρισχιλίων πεζοὶ καὶ τριακοσίων ἐλάττους ἵππεῖς: οἱ δὲ καταλειφθέντες ὑπ' ἐκείνου, ὅτ' ἐξ ἀνθρώπων ἠφανίσθη, πεζοὶ μὲν ἑξακισχίλιοι πρὸς τέτταρσι μυριάσιν, ἵππεῖς δ' οὐ πολὺ ἀπέχοντες χιλίων. [3] ἐκείνου δὲ ἄρξαντος τῶν πολιτευμάτων τούτων οἱ τε βασιλεῖς οἱ μετ' αὐτὸν ἡγησάμενοι τῆς πόλεως τὴν αὐτὴν ἐφυλάξαντο προαίρεσιν καὶ οἱ μετ' ἐκείνους τὰς ἐνιαυσίους λαμβάνοντες ἀρχὰς ἔστιν ἃ καὶ προστιθέντες, οὕτως ὥστε μηδενὸς ἔθνους τοῦ δοκοῦντος εἶναι πολυανθρωποτάτου τὸν Ῥωμαίων γενέσθαι δῆμον ἐλάττονα. [p. 177] τὰ δὲ Ἑλλήνων ἔθνη παρὰ ταῦτα ἐξετάζων οὐκ ἔχω πῶς ἐπαινέσω τὰ τε Λακεδαιμονίων καὶ τὰ τῶν Θηβαίων καὶ τῶν μέγιστον ἐπὶ σοφίᾳ φρονούντων Ἀθηναίων, οἱ φυλάττοντες τὸ εὐγενὲς καὶ μηδενὶ μεταδιδόντες εἰ μὴ σπανίοις τῆς παρ' ἑαυτοῖς πολιτείας ἑῷ γὰρ λέγειν ὅτι καὶ ξηνηλατοῦντες ἔνιοι πρὸς τῷ μηδὲν ἀπολαῦσαι ταύτης τῆς μεγαληγορίας ἀγαθὸν καὶ τὰ μέγιστα δι' αὐτὴν ἐβλάβησαν. [2] Σπαρτιᾶται μὲν γε πταίσαντες μάχῃ τῇ περὶ Λεῦκτρα, ἐν ἧ' χιλίους καὶ ἑπτακοσίους ἀνδρας ἀπέβαλον, οὐκέτι τὴν πόλιν ἡδυνήθησαν ἐκ τῆς συμφορᾶς ταύτης ἀναλαβεῖν, ἀλλ' ἀπέστησαν τῆς ἡγεμονίας σὺν αἰσχύνη. Θηβαῖοι δὲ καὶ Ἀθηναῖοι ἐξ ἑνὸς τοῦ περὶ Χαιρώνειαν ἀτυχήματος ἅμα τὴν τε προστασίαν τῆς Ἑλλάδος καὶ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν τὴν πάτριον ὑπὸ Μακεδόνων ἀφῆρέθησαν. [3] ἡ δὲ Ῥωμαίων πόλις ἐν Ἰβηρίᾳ τε καὶ Ἰταλίᾳ πολέμους ἔχουσα μεγάλους Σικελίαν τε ἀφεστῶσαν ἀνακτωμένη καὶ Σαρδόνια καὶ τῶν ἐν Μακεδονίᾳ καὶ κατὰ τὴν Ἑλλάδα πραγμάτων ἐκπεπολεμμένων πρὸς αὐτὴν καὶ Καρχηδόνοιο ἐπὶ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν πάλιν ἀνισταμένης καὶ τῆς Ἰταλίας οὐ μόνον ἀφεστῶσης ὀλίγου δεῖν πάσης, ἀλλὰ καὶ συνεπαγοῦσης τὸν Ἀννιβιακὸν κληθέντα πόλεμον, τοσοῦτοις περιπετῆς γενομένη κινδύνους κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν χρόνον οὐχ ὅπως ἐκακώθη διὰ τὰς τότε τύχας, ἀλλὰ καὶ προσέλαβεν ἰσχύν ἐξ αὐτῶν ἔτι μείζονα τῆς προτέρας τῷ πλήθει τοῦ στρατιωτικοῦ [p. 178] πρὸς ἅπαντα διαρκῆς γενομένη τὰ δεινὰ, ἀλλ' οὐχ ὥστερ' ὑπολαμβάνουσι τινες εὐνοίᾳ τύχης χρησαμένη: [4] ἐπεὶ ταύτης γε χάριν ὥχετ' ἂν ὑποβρύχιος ἐξ ἑνὸς τοῦ περὶ Κάννας πτώματος, ὅτε αὐτῇ ἀπὸ μὲν ἐξακισχιλίων ἱππέων ἐβδομήκοντα καὶ τριακόσιοι περιλείφθησαν, ἀπὸ δὲ μυριάδων ὀκτὼ τῶν εἰς τὸ κοινὸν στράτευμα καταγραφεισῶν ὀλίγῳ πλείους τρισχιλίων ἐσώθησαν.

ἐπεὶ δὲ καὶ διὰ γυναικῶν ἔδει τινὰ ἱερὰ συντελεῖσθαι καὶ διὰ παιδῶν ἀμφιθαλῶν ἕτερα, ἵνα καὶ ταῦτα γένηται κατὰ τὸ κράτιστον, τὰς τε γυναῖκας ἔταξε τῶν ἱερέων τοῖς ἑαυτῶν ἀνδράσι συνιερᾶσθαι, καὶ εἴ τι μὴ θέμις ἦν ὑπ' ἀνδρῶν ὀργιάζεσθαι κατὰ νόμον τὸν ἐπιχώριον, ταύτας ἐπιτελεῖν καὶ παῖδας αὐτῶν τὰ καθήκοντα λειτουργεῖν: τοῖς δὲ ἅπαισιν ἐκ τῶν ἄλλων οἴκων τοὺς χαριεστάτους καταλεγέντας ἐξ ἐκάστης φράτρας, κόρον καὶ κόρην, τὸν μὲν ἕως ἡβῆς ὑπηρετεῖν ἐπὶ τοῖς ἱεροῖς, τὴν δὲ κόρην ὅσον ἂν ἦ χρόνον ἀγνῇ γάμων: ἐκ τῶν Ἑλληνικῶν νόμων καὶ ταῦτα μετενεγκάμενος, ὥς ἐγὼ πειθομαι. [2] ὅσα μὲν γὰρ αἱ κανηφόροι καὶ ἀρρηφόροι λεγόμεναι λειτουργοῦσιν ἐπὶ τῶν Ἑλληνικῶν ἱερῶν, ταῦτα παρὰ Ῥωμαίοις αἱ προσαγορευόμεναι τουτολᾶται συντελοῦσι στεφάναις κοσμοῦμεναι τὰς κεφαλὰς, οἷαις κοσμεῖται τὰ τῆς Ἐφεσίας Ἀρτέμιδος ἀφιδρύματα παρ' Ἑλλήσιν. ὅσα δὲ παρὰ Τυρρηνοῖς καὶ ἔτι πρότερον παρὰ Πελασγοῖς ἐτέλουν ἐπὶ τε Κουρήτων καὶ μεγάλων θεῶν ὀργιασμοῖς οἱ καλούμενοι πρὸς αὐτῶν κάδμιλοι, ταῦτα κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον ὑπηρετοῦν τοῖς ἱερεῦσιν οἱ [3] λεγόμενοι νῦν ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων κάμιλοι. ἔτι πρὸς τούτοις ἔταξε μάντιν ἐξ ἐκάστης φυλῆς ἓνα παρεῖναι τοῖς ἱεροῖς, ὃν ἡμεῖς μὲν ἱεροσκόπον καλοῦμεν, Ῥωμαῖοι [p. 184] δὲ ὀλίγον τι τῆς ἀρχαίας φυλάττοντες ὀνομασίας ἀρούσπικα προσαγορεύουσιν. ἅπαντας δὲ τοὺς ἱερεῖς τε καὶ λειτουργοὺς τῶν θεῶν ἐνομοθέτησεν ἀποδείκνυσθαι μὲν ὑπὸ τῶν φρατρῶν, ἐπικυροῦσθαι δὲ ὑπὸ τῶν ἐξηγουμένων τὰ θεῖα διὰ μαντικῆς.

ταῦτα περὶ τῶν θρησκευόντων τοὺς θεοὺς καταστησάμενος διήρει πάλιν, ὥς ἔφην, κατ' ἐπιτηδειότητα ταῖς φράτραις τὰ ἱερὰ, θεοὺς ἀποδεικνύς ἐκάστοις καὶ δαίμονας, οὓς ἔμελλον αἰεὶ σέβειν, καὶ τὰς εἰς τὰ ἱερὰ δαπάνας ἔταξεν, ἃς ἐχρῆν αὐτοῖς ἐκ τοῦ δημοσίου δίδοσθαι. [5] ἐγὼ γοῦν ἐθεασάμην ἐν ἱεραῖς οἰκίαις δεῖπνα προκείμενα θεοῖς ἐπὶ τραπέζαις ξυλίναις ἀρχαῖκαῖς ἐν κήνῃσι καὶ πινακίσκοις κεραμεοῖς, ἀλφίτων μάζας καὶ πόπανα καὶ ζέας καὶ καρπῶν τινων ἀπαρχὰς καὶ ἄλλα τοιαῦτα λιτὰ καὶ εὐδάπανα καὶ πάσης ἀπειροκαλίας ἀπηλλαγμένα: καὶ σπονδὰς εἶδον ἐγκεκραμένας οὐκ ἐν ἀργυροῖς καὶ χρυσοῖς ἄγγεσιν, ἀλλ' ἐν ὀστρακίναις κυλίσκαις καὶ πρόχοις, καὶ πάνυ ἡγάσθην τῶν ἀνδρῶν ὅτι διαμένουσιν ἐν τοῖς πατρίοις ἔθουσιν οὐδὲν ἐξαλλάττοντες τῶν ἀρχαίων ἱερῶν εἰς τὴν ἀλαζόνα πολυτέλειαν. [6] ἐστὶ μὲν οὖν ἃ καὶ Νόμας Πομπήλιος ὁ μετὰ Ῥωμύλον ἄρξας τῆς πόλεως κατεστήσατο μνήμης ἄξια καὶ λόγου, περιττὸς τὴν γνώμην ἀνὴρ καὶ τὰ θεῖα ἐξηγήσασθαι σοφὸς ἐν ὀλίγοις, ὑπὲρ ὧν ὕστερον ἔρῳ, καὶ Τύλλος Ὀστίλιος ὁ τρίτος ἀπὸ Ῥωμύλου βασιλεύσας καὶ πάντες οἱ μετ' ἐκεῖνον γενόμενοι βασιλεῖς: ἀλλ' ὁ τὰ σπέρματα καὶ τὰς ἀρχὰς αὐτοῖς παρασχών καὶ τὰ κυριώτατα καταστησάμενος τῶν περὶ τὰ θεῖα νομίμων Ῥωμύλος ἦν. [p. 186] δοκεῖ δὲ καὶ τῆς ἄλλης εὐκοσμίας, ἣ χρώμενοι Ῥωμαῖοι διεφύλαξαν εὐδαιμονοῦσαν τὴν πόλιν ἐπὶ πολλὰς γενεάς, ἐκεῖνος ἄρξας νόμους καλοὺς καὶ συμφέροντας ἀγράφους μὲν τοὺς πλείστους, ἔστι δ' οὗς καὶ ἐν γράμμασι κειμένους καταστησάμενος, ὧν ἐγὼ τοὺς μὲν ἄλλους οὐδὲν δέομαι γράφειν, οὗς δὲ πάντων μάλιστα τεθαύμακα καὶ ἐξ ὧν ὑπείληφα καταφανῇ καὶ τὴν ἄλλην τοῦ ἀνδρὸς γενήσεσθαι νομοθεσίαν, ὡς αὐστηρὰ καὶ μισοπόνηρος ἦν καὶ πολλὴν ἔχουσα πρὸς τοὺς ἡρωικοὺς βίους ὁμοιότητα, [2] δι' ὀλίγης ὑπομνήσεως σημανῶ, τοσοῦτο προειπών, ὅτι μοι δοκοῦσιν ἅπαντες οἱ διατάξαντες τὰς τε βαρβαρικὰς καὶ τὰς Ἑλληνικὰς πολιτείας τὸ μὲν κοινὸν ὀρθῶς ἰδεῖν, ὅτι πόλιν ἅπασαν ἐκ πολλῶν οἰκῶν συνεστῶσαν ὀρθὴν τε πλεῖν εἰκὸς ὅταν οἱ τῶν ιδιωτῶν εὐσταθῶσι βιοί, καὶ χεიმῶνα πολὺν ἄγειν ὅταν κακῶς ἐκάστοις ἔχη τὰ ἴδια, καὶ ὅτι δεῖ τὸν νοῦν ἔχοντα πολιτικὸν ἐάν τε νομοθέτης ἐάν τε βασιλεὺς ᾖ, ταῦτα νομοθετεῖν, ἃ ποιήσει δικαίους καὶ σώφρονας τοὺς τῶν ιδιωτῶν βίους. [3] ἐξ ὧν δ' ἂν ἐπιτηδευμάτων καὶ δι' οἷων γένοιτο τοιοῦτοι νόμων, οὐκέθ' ὁμοίως ἅπαντες δοκοῦσί μοι συνιδεῖν, ἀλλ' ἐνιοὶ γε πολλοῦ καὶ τοῦ παντός, ὡς εἰπεῖν, ἐν τοῖς κυριωτάτοις καὶ πρώτοις μέρεσι τῆς νομοθεσίας ἀμαρτεῖν. [4] αὐτίκα περὶ γάμων καὶ τῆς πρὸς γυναῖκας ὁμιλίας, ἀφ' ἧς ἄρχεσθαι δεῖ τὸν νομοθέτην, ὥσπερ καὶ ἡ [p. 187] φύσις ἀρμόττειν τοὺς βίους ἡμῶν ἥρξατο, οἱ μὲν ἀπὸ τῶν θηρίων τὸ παράδειγμα λαβόντες ἀφέτους καὶ κοινὰς τὰς μιξεις ἐποίησαν τῷ ἄρρενι πρὸς τὸ θῆλυ, ὡς ἐρωτικῶν τε οἴστρων ἐλευθερώσοντες τοὺς βίους καὶ ζήλων ἀλληλοκτόνων ἐξελοῦμενοι καὶ πολλῶν ἄλλων ἀπαλλάξοντες κακῶν, ἃ καταλαμβάνει τοὺς τε ἰδίους οἴκους καὶ τὰς πόλεις ὅλας διὰ γυναῖκας: [5] οἱ δὲ ταύτας μὲν ἐξήλασαν ἐκ τῶν πόλεων τὰς ἀγερῶχους καὶ θηριώδεις συνουσίας ἄνδρα συναρμόσαντες εἰς γυναῖκα μίαν, περὶ δε φυλακῆς γάμων καὶ σωφροσύνης γυναικῶν νομοθετεῖν οὔτε μεῖζον οὔτ' ἔλαττον οὐδὲν ἐπεχείρησαν, ἀλλ' ὡς ἀδυνάτου πράγματος ἀπέστησαν: [6] οἱ δὲ οὔτε ἀνεγγύους ἐποίησαν ὥσπερ ἔνιοι τῶν βαρβάρων τὰς ἀφροδισίους μιξεις οὔτε ἀφῆκαν ὥσπερ Λακεδαιμόνιοι τὰς τῶν γυναικῶν φυλακάς, ἀλλὰ πολλοὺς ἔθεσαν ἐπ' αὐταῖς νόμους σωφρονιστάς. εἰσὶ δ' οἱ καὶ ἀρχὴν τινα κατέστησαν ἐπιμελησομένην εὐκοσμίας γυναικῶν: οὐ μὴν ἀποχρῶσά γε ἡ πρόνοια αὐτῶν τῆς τηρήσεως, ἀλλὰ μαλακωτέρα τοῦ δέοντος ἐγένετο καὶ οὐχ ἱκανὴ τὴν μὴ σπουδαία φύσει κεκραμένην εἰς ἀνάγκην βίου σῶφρονος ἀγαγεῖν.

ὁ δὲ Ῥωμύλος οὔτε ἀνδρὶ κατὰ γυναικὸς ἐγκλήματα δοὺς φθαρείσης ἢ τὸν οἶκον ἀδίκως ἀπολιπούσης οὔτε γαμετῇ κατ' ἀνδρὸς αἰτιωμένη κακῶσιν [p. 188] ἢ ἄδικον ἀπόλειπιν οὔτε περὶ προικὸς ἀποδόσεως ἢ κομιδῆς νόμους θεῖς οὔτε ἄλλο τῶν παραπλησίων τούτοις διορίσας οὐδ' ὅτιοῦν, ἕνα δὲ νόμον ὑπὲρ πάντων εὖ ἔχοντα, ὡς αὐτὰ τὰ ἔργα ἐδήλωσε, καταστησάμενος εἰς σωφροσύνην καὶ πολλὴν εὐκοσμίαν ἦγαγε τὰς γυναῖκας. [2] ἦν δὲ τοιόςδε ὁ νόμος: γυναῖκα γαμετὴν τὴν κατα γάμους ἱεροὺς συνελθοῦσαν ἀνδρὶ κοινωνὸν πάντων εἶναι χρημάτων τε καὶ ἱερῶν. ἐκάλουν δὲ τοὺς ἱεροὺς καὶ νομίμους οἱ παλαιοὶ γάμους Ῥωμαϊκῇ προσηγορίᾳ περιλαμβάνοντες φαρραχείους ἐπὶ τῆς κοινωνίας τοῦ φαρρός, ὃ καλοῦμεν ἡμεῖς ζέαν. αὕτη γὰρ ἦν ἀρχαία καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ συνήθης ἅπασιν αὐτοῖς ἡ τροφή: φέρει δὲ πολλὴν καὶ καλὴν ἡ Ῥωμαίων γῆ τὴν ζέαν. καὶ ὥσπερ ἡμεῖς οἱ Ἕλληνες τὸν κριθινὸν καρπὸν ἀρχαιότατον ὑπολαμβάνοντες ἐπὶ τῶν θυσιῶν κριθαῖς καταρχόμεθα οὐλὰς αὐτάς καλοῦντες, οὕτω Ῥωμαῖοι τιμιώτατόν τε καρπὸν καὶ ἀρχαιότατον εἶναι νομίζοντες τὰς ζέας διὰ τούτων ἀπάσης ἐμπύρου θυσίας κατάρχονται. μένει γὰρ ἔτι καὶ οὐ μεταπέπτωκεν εἰς πολυτελεστέρας ἀπαρχὰς τὸ [3] ἔθος. τὸ δὲ κοινωνοὺς τῆς ἱερωτάτης τε καὶ πρώτης τροφῆς γενέσθαι γυναῖκας ἀνδράσι καὶ ἐπὶ τῇ ὅλῃ συνελθεῖν τύχῃ τὴν μὲν ἐπὶ κλησιν τῆς κοινωνίας τοῦ [p. 189] φαρρός εἶχεν, εἰς σύνδεσμον δ' ἀναγκαῖον οἰκειότητος ἔφερεν ἀδιαλύτου, καὶ τὸ διαιρῆσον τοὺς γάμους τούτους οὐδὲν ἦν. [4] οὗτος ὁ νόμος τὰς τε γυναῖκας ἠνάγκασε τὰς γαμετάς, οἷα δὲ μηδεμίαν ἐχούσας ἐτέραν ἀποστροφὴν, πρὸς ἕνα τὸν τοῦ γεγαμηκότος ζῆν τρόπον, καὶ τοὺς ἄνδρας ὡς ἀναγκαίου τε καὶ [5] ἀναφαιρέτου κτήματος τῆς γυναικὸς κρατεῖν. σωφρονοῦσα μὲν οὖν καὶ πάντα τῷ γεγαμηκότῳ πειθομένη γυνὴ κυρία τοῦ οἴκου τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον ἦν, ὅνπερ καὶ ὁ ἀνὴρ, καὶ τελευτήσαντος ἀνδρὸς κληρονόμος ἐγένετο τῶν χρήματων, ὡς θυγάτηρ πατρός, εἰ μὲν ἅπαις τε καὶ μηδὲν διαθέμενος ἀποθάνοι πάντων οὕσα κυρία τῶν ἀπολειφθέντων, εἰ δὲ γενεὰν ἔχοι τοῖς παισὶν ἰσόμοιρος γινομένη. [6] ἁμαρτάνουσα δὲ τι δικαστὴν τὸν ἀδικούμενον ἐλάμβανε καὶ τοῦ μεγέθους τῆς τιμωρίας κύριον. ταῦτα δὲ οἱ συγγενεῖς μετὰ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἐδίκασον: ἐν οἷς ἦν φθορὰ σώματος καί, ὁ πάντων ἐλάχιστον ἁμαρτημάτων Ἑλλήσι δόξειεν ἂν ὑπάρχειν, εἰ τις οἶνον εὐρεθείη πιοῦσα γυνή. ἀμφοτέρα γὰρ ταῦτα θανάτῳ ζημιοῦν συνεχώρησεν ὁ Ῥωμύλος, ὡς ἁμαρτημάτων γυναικείων αἰσχιστά, φθορὰν μὲν ἀπονοίας ἀρχὴν νομίσας, μέθην δὲ φθορᾶς. [7] καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ διέμεινε χρόνον ταῦτ' ἀμφοτέρα παρὰ Ῥωμαίοις ἀπαραιτήτου τυγχάνοντα ὀργῆς. μάρτυς δὲ τοῦ καλῶς ἔχειν τὸν περὶ τῶν γυναικῶν νόμον ὁ πολὺς χρόνος. ὁμολογεῖται γὰρ ἐντὸς ἐτῶν εἴκοσι καὶ πεντακοσίων [p. 190] μηδεὶς ἐν Ῥώμῃ λυθῆναι γάμος: κατὰ δὲ τὴν ἐβδόμην ἐπὶ ταῖς τριάκοντα καὶ ἑκατὸν Ὀλυμπιάσιν ὑπατευόντων Μάρκου Πομπωνίου καὶ Γαίου Παππρίου πρῶτος ἀπολυῖσαι λέγεται τὴν ἑαυτοῦ γυναῖκα Σπόριος Καρουῖλιος ἀνὴρ οὐκ ἀφανής, ἀναγκαζόμενος ὑπὸ τῶν τιμητῶν ὁμόσαι τέκνων ἕνεκα γυναικὶ συνοικεῖν 'ἦν δ' αὐτῷ στεῖρα ἢ γυνή', ὃς ἐπὶ τῷ ἔργῳ τούτῳ καίτοι δι' ἀνάγκην γενομένῳ μισούμενος ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου διετέλεσεν.

ἃ μὲν οὖν εἰς γυναικας εὖ ἔχοντα ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐνομοθέτησεν, ἐξ ὧν κοσμιωτέρας περὶ τοὺς ἄνδρας αὐτὰς ἀπειργάσατο, ταῦτ' ἐστίν, ἃ δ' εἰς αἰδῶ καὶ δικαιοσύνην παιδων, ἵνα σέβωσι τοὺς πατέρας ἅπαντα πράττοντές τε καὶ λέγοντες ὅσα ἂν ἐκεῖνοι κελεύωσιν, ἔτι τούτων ἦν σεμνότερα καὶ μεγαλοπρεπέστερα καὶ πολλὴν ἔχοντα παρὰ τοὺς ἡμετέρους νόμους διαφορὰν. [2] οἱ μὲν γὰρ τὰς Ἑλληνικὰς καταστησάμενοι πολιτείας βραχὺν τινα κομιδῇ χρόνον ἔταξαν ἄρχεσθαι τοὺς παῖδας ὑπὸ τῶν πατέρων, οἱ μὲν ἕως τρίτον ἐκπληρώσωσιν ἀφ' ἥβης ἔτος, οἱ δὲ ὅσον ἂν χρόνον ἡίθεοι μένωσιν, οἱ δὲ μέχρι τῆς εἰς τὰ ἀρχεῖα τὰ δημόσια ἐγγραφῆς, ὡς ἐκ τῆς Σόλωνος καὶ Πιπτακοῦ καὶ Χαρώνδου νομοθεσίας ἔμαθον, [3] οἷς πολλὴ μαρτυρεῖται σοφία: τιμωρίας τε κατὰ τῶν παιδων ἔταξαν, ἐὰν ἀπειθῶσι τοῖς πατράσιν, οὐ βαρείας [p. 191] ἐξελάσαι τῆς οἰκίας ἐπιτρέψαντες αὐτοὺς καὶ χρήματα μὴ καταλιπεῖν, περαιτέρω δὲ οὐδέν. εἰσὶ δ' οὐχ ἱκαναὶ κατασχεῖν ἄνοιαν νεότητος καὶ αὐθάδειαν τρόπων οὐδ' εἰς τὸ σῶφρον ἀγαγεῖν τοὺς ἡμεληκότας τῶν καλῶν αἰ μαλακαὶ τιμωρίαι: τοιγάρτοι πολλὰ ἐν Ἑλλήσιν ὑπὸ τέκνων εἰς πατέρας ἀσχημονεῖται. [4] ὁ δὲ τῶν Ῥωμαίων νομοθέτης ἅπασαν ὡς εἶπεῖν ἔδωκεν ἐξουσίαν πατρὶ καθ' υἱοῦ καὶ παρὰ πάντα τὸν τοῦ βίου χρόνον, ἐὰν τε εἴργειν, ἐὰν τε μαστιγοῦν, ἐὰν τε δέσμιον ἐπὶ τῶν κατ' ἀγρὸν ἔργων κατέχειν, ἐὰν τε ἀποκτινύναι προαιρήται, κἂν τὰ πολιτικὰ πράττων ὁ παῖς ἤδη τυγχάνῃ κἂν ἐν ἀρχαῖς ταῖς μεγίσταις ἐξεταζόμενος κἂν διὰ τὴν εἰς τὰ κοινὰ [5] φιλοτιμίαν ἐπαινούμενος. κατὰ τοῦτόν γε τοι τὸν νόμον ἄνδρες ἐπιφανεῖς δημηγορίας διεξιόντες ἐπὶ τῶν ἐμβόλων ἐναντίας μὲν τῇ βουλῇ, κεχαρισμένους δὲ τοῖς δημοτικοῖς, καὶ σφόδρα εὐδοκιμοῦντες ἐπὶ ταύταις κατασπασθέντες ἀπὸ τοῦ βήματος ἀπήχθησαν ὑπὸ τῶν πατέρων, ἦν ἂν ἐκείνοις φανῇ τιμωρίαν ὑφέξοντες: οὗς ἀπαγομένους διὰ τῆς ἀγορᾶς οὐδεὶς τῶν παρόντων ἐξέλεσθαι δυνατὸς ἦν οὔτε ὕπατος οὔτε δήμαρχος οὔτε ὁ κολακευόμενος ὑπ' αὐτῶν καὶ πᾶσαν ἐξουσίαν ἐλάττω τῆς ἰδίας

καὶ οὐδ' ἐνταῦθα ἔσθῃ τῆς ἐξουσίας ὁ τῶν Ῥωμαίων νομοθέτης, ἀλλὰ καὶ πωλεῖν ἐφῆκε τὸν υἱὸν τῷ πατρὶ, οὐδὲν ἐπιστραφεὶς εἰ τις ὠμὸν ὑπολήψεται τὸ συγχώρημα καὶ βαρύτερον ἢ κατὰ τὴν φυσικὴν συμπάθειαν. καὶ ὁ πάντων μάλιστα θαυμάσειεν ἂν τις ὑπὸ τοῖς Ἑλληνικοῖς ἦθεσι τοῖς ἐκκελυμένοις τραφεὶς ὡς πικρὸν καὶ τυραννικόν, καὶ τοῦτο συνεχώρησε τῷ πατρὶ, μέχρι τρίτης πράσεως ἀφ' υἱοῦ χρηματίσασθαι, μείζονα δοὺς ἐξουσίαν πατρὶ κατὰ [2] παιδὸς ἢ δεσπότῃ κατὰ δούλων. θεραπόντων μὲν γὰρ ὁ πραθεὶς ἅπαξ, ἔπειτα τὴν ἐλευθερίαν εὐρόμενος αὐτοῦ τὸ λοιπὸν ἤδη κύριός ἐστιν, υἱὸς δὲ πραθεὶς ὑπὸ τοῦ πατρὸς εἰ γένοιτο ἐλεύθερος ὑπὸ τῷ πατρὶ πάλιν ἐγίνετο, καὶ τὸ δεῦτερον ἀπεμποληθεὶς τε καὶ ἐλευθερωθεὶς δοῦλος ὥσπερ ἐξ ἀρχῆς τοῦ πατρὸς ἦν: μετὰ δὲ τὴν τρίτην πρᾶσιν ἀπήλλακτο τοῦ πατρὸς. [3] τοῦτον τὸν νόμον ἐν ἀρχαῖς μὲν οἱ βασιλεῖς ἐφύλαττον εἴτε γεγραμμένον εἴτε ἄγραφον 'οὐ γὰρ ἔχω τὸ σαφὲς εἰπεῖν' ἀπάντων κράτιστον ἡγούμενοι νόμον. καταλυθείσης δὲ τῆς μοναρχίας, ὅτε πρῶτον ἐφάνη Ῥωμαίοις ἅπαντας τοὺς πατρίους ἐθισμοὺς τε καὶ [p. 193] νόμους ἅμα τοῖς ἐπεισάκτοις ἐν ἀγορᾷ θεῖναι φανεροὺς ἅπασιν τοῖς πολίταις, ἵνα μὴ συμμεταπίπτῃ τὰ κοινὰ δίκαια ταῖς τῶν ἀρχόντων ἐξουσίαις, οἱ λαβόντες παρὰ τοῦ δήμου τὴν ἐξουσίαν τῆς συναγωγῆς τε καὶ ἀναγραφῆς αὐτῶν δέκα ἄνδρες ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις ἀνέγραψαν νόμοις, καὶ ἔστιν ἐν τῇ τετάρτῃ τῶν λεγομένων δώδεκα δέλτων, ἃς ἀνέθεσαν ἐν ἀγορᾷ. [4] ὅτι δ' οὐχ οἱ ἄνδρες δέκα οἱ τριακοσίοις ἔτεσιν ὕστερον ἀποδειχθέντες ἐπὶ τὴν ἀναγραφὴν τῶν νόμων πρῶτοι τοῦτον εἰσηγήσαντο τὸν νόμον Ῥωμαίοις, ἀλλ' ἐκ πολλοῦ κείμενον παραλαβόντες οὐκ ἐτόλμησαν ἀνελεῖν, ἐκ πολλῶν μὲν καὶ ἄλλων καταλαμβάνομαι, μάλιστα δ' ἐκ τῶν Νόμα Πομπιλίου τοῦ μετὰ Ῥωμύλον ἄρξαντος νόμων, ἐν οἷς καὶ οὗτος γέγραπται: ἐὰν πατὴρ υἱῷ συγχώρησιν γυναῖκα ἀγαγέσθαι κοινωνὸν ἐσομένην ἱερῶν τε καὶ χρημάτων κατὰ τοὺς νόμους, μηκέτι τὴν ἐξουσίαν εἶναι τῷ πατρὶ πωλεῖν τὸν υἱόν: ὅπερ οὐκ ἂν ἔργαφεν εἰ μὴ κατὰ τοὺς προτέρους νόμους ἅπαντας ἐξῆν τῷ πατρὶ πωλεῖν τοὺς υἱούς. [5] ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ μὲν τούτων ἄλλας, βούλομαι δὲ καὶ τὸν ἄλλον ἐπὶ κεφαλαίῳ διελθεῖν κόσμον, ᾧ τοὺς τῶν ἰδιωτῶν ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐκόσμησε βίους.

ὁρῶν γὰρ ὅτι τὸ σωφρόνως ζῆν ἅπαντας καὶ τὰ δίκαια πρὸ τῶν κερδαλέων αἰρεῖσθαι καρτερίαν τε τὴν παρὰ τοὺς πόνους ἀσκεῖν καὶ μηδὲν ὑπολαμβάνειν χρῆμα τιμιώτερον ἀρετῆς οὐ λόγων [p. 194] διδαχῇ παραγίνεσθαι τοῖς πολιτικοῖς πλήθεσι πέφυκεν, ἐν οἷς τὸ πλεῖόν ἐστι δυσάγωγον, ἀλλ' ἔργων ἐθισμοῖς τῶν πρὸς ἐκάστην ἀρετὴν ἀγόντων, ὑπ' ἀνάγκης τε μᾶλλον ἢ κατὰ γνώμην ἐπ' αὐτὰ τοὺς πολλοὺς παραγινόμενους, εἰ δὲ μηδὲν εἴη τὸ κωλύσον ἐπὶ τὴν φύσιν ὀλισθαίνοντας εἰδῶς, ἐπιδιφρίους μὲν καὶ βαναύσους καὶ προσαγωγούς ἐπιθυμιῶν αἰσχυρῶν τέχνας, ὡς ἀφανίζουσας καὶ λυμαιομένας τὰ τε σώματα καὶ τὰς ψυχὰς τῶν μεταχειριζομένων, δούλοις καὶ ξένοις ἀπέδωκε μεθοδεύειν: καὶ διέμεινεν ἔως πολλοῦ πάνυ χρόνου δι' αἰσχύνῃς ὄντα Ῥωμαίοις τὰ τοιαῦτα ἔργα καὶ ὑπ' οὐδενὸς τῶν αὐθιγενῶν ἐπιτηδεύονα. [2] δύο δὲ μόνα τοῖς ἐλευθέροις ἐπιτηδεύματα κατέλιπε τὰ τε κατὰ γεωργίαν καὶ τὰ κατὰ πολέμους, ὁρῶν ὅτι γαστρός τε ἄνθρωποι γίνονται διὰ τούτους τοὺς βίους ἐγκρατεῖς ἀφροδισίοις τε ἦττον ἀλίσκονται παρανόμοις πλεονεξίαν τε οὐ τὴν βλάπτουσαν ἀλλήλους διώκουσιν, ἀλλὰ τὴν ἀπὸ τῶν πολεμίων περιποιουμένην τὰς ὠφελείας. ἀτελῇ δὲ τούτων ἑκάτερον ἡγούμενος εἶναι τῶν βίων χωριζόμενον θατέρου καὶ φιλαίτιον οὐχ ἑτέροις μὲν τισιν ἀπέδωκεν ἐργάζεσθαι τὴν γῆν, ἑτέροις δὲ τὰ πολεμίων φέρειν τε καὶ ἄγειν ὥς ὁ παρὰ Λακεδαιμονίοις εἶχε νόμος, ἀλλὰ τοὺς αὐτοὺς τὸν τε πολεμικὸν καὶ τὸν γεωργικὸν ἔταξε βίον ζῆν: [3] εἰ μὲν εἰρήνην ἄγοιεν ἐπὶ [p. 195] τοῖς κατ' ἀγρὸν ἔργοις ἐθίζων ἅπαντας μένειν, πλὴν εἴ ποτε δεηθεῖεν ἀγορᾶς, τότε δ' εἰς ἄστὺ συνιόντας ἀγοράζειν, ἐνάτην ὀρίζων ἡμέραν ταῖς ἀγοραῖς: ὅτε δὲ πόλεμος καταλάβοι στρατεῦεσθαι διδάσκων καὶ μὴ παραχωρεῖν ἑτέροις μήτε τῶν πόνων μήτε τῶν ὠφελειῶν. διήρει γὰρ αὐτοῖς ἐξ ἴσου γῆν τε ὅσην ἂν ἀφέλοιτο πολεμίους καὶ ἀνδράποδα καὶ χρήματα, καὶ παρεσκεύαζεν ἀγαπητῶς δέχεσθαι τὰς στρατείας.

τῶν δ' εἰς ἀλλήλους ἀδικημάτων οὐ χρονίους ἀλλὰ ταχείας ἐποιεῖτο τὰς κρίσεις τὰ μὲν αὐτὸς διαιτῶν, τὰ δ' ἄλλοις ἐπιτρέπων, καὶ τὰς τιμωρίας αὐτῶν πρὸς τὰ μεγέθη τῶν ἁμαρτημάτων ἐποιεῖτο. ἀποτρέπειν τε ἀνθρώπους ἀπὸ παντὸς ἔργου πονηροῦ τὸν φόβον μάλιστα δυνάμενον ὁρῶν πολλὰ εἰς τοῦτο παρεσκευάσατο χωρίον τε, ἐν ᾧ καθεζόμενος ἐδίκαζεν, ἐν τῷ φανερωτάτῳ τῆς ἀγορᾶς καὶ στρατιωτῶν, οἳ παρηκολούθουν αὐτῷ τριακόσιοι τὸν ἀριθμὸν ὄντες, καταπληκτικώτατοι τὴν πρόσοψιν, ῥάβδους τε καὶ πελέκεις ὑπ' ἀνδρῶν δώδεκα φερομένους, οἷς τοὺς μὲν ἄξια μαστιγῶν δεδρακότας ἔξαινον ἐν ἀγορᾷ, τῶν δὲ τὰ μέγιστα ἡδίκηκότων τοὺς τραχήλους ἀπέκοπτον ἐν τῷ φανερωῷ. [2] τοιοῦτος μὲν δὴ τις ὁ κόσμος ἦν τῆς κατασκευασθείσης ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου πολιτείας: ἀπόχρη γὰρ ἐκ τούτων καὶ περὶ τῶν ἄλλων εἰκάσαι. [p. 196] αἱ δὲ ἄλλαι πράξεις αἱ τε κατὰ τοὺς πολέμους ὑπὸ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς γενόμεναι καὶ αἱ κατὰ τὴν πόλιν, ὧν ἂν τις καὶ λόγον ποιήσαιτ' ἐν ἱστορίας γραφῇ, τοιαῦταί τινες παραδίδονται. [2] πολλῶν περιοικούντων τὴν Ῥώμην ἐθνῶν μεγάλων τε καὶ τὰ πολέμια ἀλκίμων, ὧν οὐδὲν ἦν τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις φίλιον, οἰκειώσασθαι ταῦτα βουλευθεῖς ἐπιγαμίαις, ὅσπερ ἐδόκει τοῖς παλαιοῖς τρόπος εἶναι βεβαιότατος τῶν συναπτόντων φιλίας, ἐνθυμούμενος δὲ ὅτι βουλόμενα μὲν αἱ πόλεις οὐκ ἂν συνέλθοιεν αὐτοῖς ἄρτι τε συνοικιζομένοις καὶ οὔτε χρήμασι δυνατοῖς οὔτε λαμπρὸν ἔργον ἐπιδεδειγμένοις οὐδὲν, βιασθεῖσαι δὲ εἰζουσιν εἰ μηδεμία γένοιτο περὶ τὴν ἀνάγκην ὕβρις, γνώμην ἔσχεν, ἥ καὶ Νεμέτωρ ὁ πάππος αὐτοῦ προσέθετο, δι' ἀρπαγῆς παρθένων ἀθρόας γενομένης ποιήσασθαι τὰς ἐπιγαμίας. [3] γνοὺς δὲ ταῦτα θεῷ μὲν εὐχὰς τίθεται πρῶτον ἀπορρήτων βουλευμάτων ἡγεμόνι, ἐὰν ἡ πείρα αὐτῷ χωρήσῃ κατὰ νοῦν θυσίας καὶ ἐορτὰς ἄξειν καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν: ἔπειτα τῷ συνεδρίῳ τῆς γερουσίας ἀνενέγκας τὸν λόγον, ἔπειδῃ κάκεινοις τὸ βούλευμα ἤρεσκεν, ἑορτὴν προεῖπε καὶ πανήγυριν ἄξιν Ποσειδῶνι καὶ περιήγγελεν εἰς τὰς ἔγγιστα πόλεις καλῶν τοὺς βουλομένους ἀγορᾶς τε μεταλαμβάνειν καὶ ἀγῶνων· καὶ γὰρ ἀγῶνας ἄξιν ἔμελλεν ἵππων τε καὶ ἀνδρῶν παντοδαπούς. [4] συνελθόντων δὲ [p. 197] πολλῶν ξένων εἰς τὴν ἑορτὴν γυναιξὶν ἅμα καὶ τέκνοις, ἔπειδῃ τὰς τε θυσίας ἐπετέλεσε τῷ Ποσειδῶνι καὶ τοὺς ἀγῶνας, τῇ τελευταίᾳ τῶν ἡμερῶν, ἣ διαλύσειν ἔμελλε τὴν πανήγυριν, παράγγελμα δίδωσι τοῖς νέοις, ἥνικ' ἂν αὐτὸς ἄρῃ τὸ σημεῖον ἀρπάζειν τὰς παρούσας ἐπὶ τὴν θέαν παρθένους, αἷς ἂν ἐπιτύχωσιν ἕκαστοι, καὶ φυλάττειν ἀγνὰς ἐκείνην τὴν νύκτα, τῇ δ' [5] ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ πρὸς ἑαυτὸν ἄγειν. οἱ μὲν δὴ νέοι διαστάντες κατὰ συστροφάς, ἔπειδῃ τὸ σύνθημα ἀρθέν εἶδον τρέπονται πρὸς τὴν τῶν παρθένων ἀρπαγὴν, παραχῇ δὲ τῶν ξένων εὐθύς ἐγένετο καὶ φυγὴ μεῖζόν τι κακὸν ὑφορωμένων. τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ προαχθειςὼν τῶν παρθένων, παραμυθησάμενος αὐτῶν τὴν ἀθυμίαν ὁ Ῥωμύλος, ὡς οὐκ ἐφ' ὕβρει τῆς ἀρπαγῆς ἀλλ' ἐπὶ γάμῳ γενομένης, Ἑλληνικὸν τε καὶ ἀρχαῖον ἀποφαίνων τὸ ἔθος καὶ τρόπων συμπάντων καθ' οὓς συνάπτονται γάμοι ταῖς γυναιξὶν ἐπιφανέστατον, ἡξίου στέργειν τοὺς δοθέντας αὐταῖς ἄνδρας ὑπὸ τῆς τύχης· [6] καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο διαριθμήσας τὰς κόρας ἐξακοσίας τε καὶ ὀγδοήκοντα καὶ τρεῖς εὐρεθείσας κατέλεξεν αὐθις ἐκ τῶν ἀγάμων ἄνδρας ἰσαριθμούς, οἷς αὐτὰς συνήρμοττε κατὰ τοὺς πατρίους ἐκάστης ἔθισμούς, ἐπὶ κοινωσίᾳ πυρὸς καὶ ὕδατος ἐγγυῶν τοὺς γάμους, ὡς καὶ μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς ἐπιτελοῦνται χρόνων.

ταῦτα δὲ γενέσθαι τινὲς μὲν γράφουσι κατὰ τὸν πρῶτον ἐνιαυτὸν τῆς Ῥωμύλου ἀρχῆς, Γναῖος [p. 198] δὲ Γέλλιος κατὰ τὸν τέταρτον· ὁ καὶ μᾶλλον εἰκός. νέον γὰρ οἰκίζομένης πόλεως ἡγεμόνα πρὶν ἢ καταστήσασθαι τὴν πολιτείαν ἔργῳ τηλικούτῳ ἐπιχειρεῖν οὐκ ἔχει λόγον. τῆς δὲ ἀρπαγῆς τὴν αἰτίαν οἱ μὲν εἰς σπάνιν γυναικῶν ἀναφέρουσιν, οἱ δ' εἰς ἀφορμὴν πολέμου, οἱ δὲ τὰ πιθανώτατα γράφοντες, οἷς κἀγὼ συγκατεθέμην, εἰς τὸ συνάψαι φιλότητα πρὸς τὰς πλησιοχώρους πόλεις ἀναγκαίαν. [2] τὴν δὲ τότε ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου καθιερωθεῖσαν ἑορτὴν ἔτι καὶ εἰς ἐμὲ ἄγοντες Ῥωμαῖοι διετέλουν Κωνσταντία καλοῦντες, ἐν ἣ βωμὸς τε ὑπόγειος ἰδρυμένος παρὰ τῷ μεγίστῳ τῶν ἵπποδρόμων περισκαφείσης τῆς γῆς θυσίαις τε καὶ ὑπερπύροις ἀπαρχαῖς γεραίρεται, καὶ δρόμος ἵππων ζευκτῶν τε καὶ ἄζευκτων ἐπιτελεῖται. καλεῖται δὲ ὁ θεός, ᾧ ταῦτ' ἐπιτελοῦσι, Κῶνσος ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων, ὃν ἐξερμηνεύοντες εἰς τὴν ἡμετέραν γλῶτταν Ποσειδῶνα σεισίχθονά φασιν εἶναι τινες καὶ διὰ τοῦτο ὑπογείῳ τετιμῆσθαι βωμῷ λέγουσιν, ὅτι τὴν γῆν ὁ θεὸς οὗτος ἔχει. [3] ἐγὼ δὲ καὶ ἕτερον οἶδα λόγον ἀκούων, ὡς τῆς μὲν ἑορτῆς τῷ Ποσειδῶνι ἀγομένης καὶ τοῦ δρόμου τῶν ἵππων τούτῳ τῷ θεῷ γινομένου, τοῦ δὲ καταγείου βωμοῦ δαίμονι ἀρρήτῳ τινὶ βουλευμάτων κρυφίων ἡγεμόνι καὶ φύλακι κατασκευασθέντος ὕστερον· Ποσειδῶνι γὰρ ἀφανῇ βωμὸν οὐδαμόθι γῆς οὐθ' ὑφ' Ἑλλήνων οὐθ' ὑπὸ βαρβάρων καθιδρῦσθαι· τὸ δ' ἀληθὲς ὅπως ἔχει χαλεπὸν εἰπεῖν.

ὀργὴν ἐλάμβανον, αἱ δ' ἄφ' ἧς ἐπράχθη διαθέσεως καὶ εἰς ὃ τέλος ἐχώρησεν ἀναλογιζόμεναι μετρίως αὐτὸ ἔφερον, κατέσκηψε δ' οὖν ἀνὰ χρόνον εἰς πολέμους τοὺς μὲν ἄλλους εὐπετεῖς, ἓνα δὲ τὸν πρὸς Σαβίνους μέγαν καὶ χαλεπὸν: οἷς ἅπασι τέλος ἐπηκολούθησεν εὐτυχές, ὥσπερ αὐτῷ τὰ μαντεύματα προεθέσπισε πρὶν ἐπιχειρῆσαι τῷ ἔργῳ πόνους μὲν καὶ κινδύνους μεγάλους προσημαίνοντα, τὰς δὲ τελευτὰς αὐτῶν ἔσσεσθαι καλὰς. ^[2] ἦσαν δὲ αἱ πρῶται πόλεις ἄρξασαι τοῦ πρὸς αὐτὸν πολέμου Καρινὴ καὶ Ἄντεμνα καὶ Κρουστομέρεια, πρόφασιν μὲν ποιούμεναι τὴν ἀρπαγὴν τῶν παρθένων καὶ τὸ μὴ λαβεῖν ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν δίκας, ὥς δὲ τάληθές εἶχεν ἀχθόμεναι τῇ κτίσει τε καὶ αὐξήσει τῆς Ῥώμης δι' ὀλίγου πολλῇ γενομένη καὶ οὐκ ἀξιοῦσαι περιδεῖν κοινὸν ἐπὶ τοῖς περιοίκοις ἅπασι κακὸν φυόμενον. ^[3] τέως μὲν οὖν πρὸς τὸ Σαβίνων ἔθνος ἀποστελλούσαι πρέσβεις ἐκείνους ἠξίουσαν τὴν ἡγεμονίαν τοῦ πολέμου παραλαβεῖν ἰσχὺν τε μεγίστην ἔχοντας καὶ χρήμασι πλείοσι δυναμένους ἄρχειν τε ἀξιοῦντας τῶν πλησιοχώρων καὶ οὐκ ἐλάχιστα τῶν ἄλλων περιυβρισμένους: τῶν γὰρ ἡρπασμένων αἱ πλείους ἦσαν ἐκείνων. [p. 200]

Ἐπεὶ δ' οὐδὲν ἐπέβαινον ἀντικαθισταμένων αὐταῖς τῶν παρὰ τοῦ Ῥωμύλου πρεσβειῶν καὶ θεραπευουσῶν λόγοις τε καὶ ἔργοις τὸ ἔθνος, ἀχθόμεναι τῇ τριβῇ τοῦ χρόνου μελλόντων αἰεὶ τῶν Σαβίνων καὶ ἀναβαλλομένων εἰς χρόνους μακροὺς τὴν περὶ τοῦ πολέμου βουλήν αὐταὶ καθ' ἑαυτὰς ἔγνωσαν τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις πολεμεῖν, ἀποχρῆν οἰόμεναι τὴν οἰκείαν δύναμιν, εἰ καθ' ἓν αἱ τρεῖς γένοιτο, μίαν ἄρασθαι πόλιν οὐ μεγάλην. ἐβουλεύσαντο μὲν ταῦτα, συνελθεῖν δ' οὐκ ἔφθησαν εἰς ἓν ἅπασαι στρατόπεδον προεξαναστάντων προχειρότερον τῶν ἐκ τῆς Καρινῆς, ^[2] οἷπερ καὶ μάλιστα ἐδόκουν τὸν πόλεμον ἐνάγειν. ἐξεστρατευμένων δὲ τούτων καὶ δηρύντων τὴν ὁμορον ἐξαγαγὼν τὴν δύναμιν ὁ Ῥωμύλος, ἀφυλάκτοις οὖσιν ἔτι τοῖς πολεμίοις ἀπροσδοκῆτως ἐπιτίθεται καὶ τοῦ τε χάρακος αὐτῶν ἀρτίως ἰδρυμένου γίνεται κύριος τοῖς τε φεύγουσιν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἐκ ποδὸς ἐπόμενος οὐδέπω τῶν ἔνδον πεπυσμένων τὴν περὶ τοὺς σφετέρους συμφορὰν τεῖχος τε ἀφύλακτον εὐρὼν καὶ πύλας ἀκλείστους αἰρεῖ τὴν πόλιν ἐξ ἐφόδου καὶ τὸν βασιλέα τῶν Καρινιτῶν ὑπαντήσαντα σὺν καρτερᾷ χειρὶ μαχόμενος αὐτοχειρίᾳ κτείνει καὶ τὰ ὄπλα ἀφαιρεῖται.

τοῦτον δὲ τὸν τρόπον ἀλούσης τῆς πόλεως τὰ ὄπλα παραδοῦναι τοὺς ἀλόντας κελεύσας καὶ [p. 201] παῖδας εἰς ὀμηρείαν, οὓς ἐβούλετο, λαβὼν ἐπὶ τοὺς Ἀντεμνάτας ἐχώρει. γενόμενος δὲ καὶ τῆς ἐκείνων δυνάμεως ἐσκεδασμένης ἔτι κατὰ τὰς προνομὰς τῇ παρ' ἐλπίδας ἐφόδῳ καθάπερ καὶ τῆς προτέρας ἐγκρατῆς καὶ τὰ αὐτὰ τοὺς ἀλόντας διαθείς ἀπῆγεν ἐπ' οἴκου τὴν δύναμιν, ἄγων σκυῖλα τε ἀπὸ τῶν πεπτωκότων κατὰ τὴν μάχην καὶ ἀκροθίνια λαφύρων θεοῖς, καὶ ^[2] πολλὰς ἅμα τούτοις θυσίας ἐποιήσατο. τελευταῖος δὲ τῆς πομπῆς αὐτὸς ἐπορεύετο ἐσθῆτα μὲν ἡμφιεσμένος ἀλουργῇ, δάφνῃ δὲ κατεστεμμένος τὰς κόμας καὶ ἵνα τὸ βασιλείον ἀξίωμα σώζῃ τεθρίππῳ παρεμβεβηκώς. ἡ δ' ἄλλη δύναμις αὐτῷ παρηκολούθει πεζῶν τε καὶ ἵππεων κεκοσμημένη κατὰ τέλη θεοῦς τε ὑμνοῦσα πατρίοις ᾠδαῖς καὶ τὸν ἡγεμόνα κυδαίνουσα ποιήμασιν αὐτοσχεδίοις. οἱ δ' ἐκ τῆς ὥς δ' ἀπέδωκε τοῖς θεοῖς ὁ βασιλεὺς τὰς χαριστηρίους θυσίας τε καὶ ἀπαρχάς, πρὶν ἢ τῶν ἄλλων τι διαπράξασθαι βουλὴν ἐποιεῖτο περὶ τῶν κρατηθεισῶν πόλεων, ὄντινα χρηστέον αὐταῖς τρόπον, αὐτὸς ἦν ὑπελάμβανε κρατίστην εἶναι γνώμην, πρῶτος ἀποδειξάμενος. [2] ὥς δὲ πᾶσι τοῖς ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ παροῦσιν ἢ τε ἀσφάλεια τῶν βουλευμάτων τοῦ ἡγεμόνος ἤρεσκε καὶ ἡ λαμπρότης τὰ τε ἄλλα ὅσα ἐξ αὐτῶν γενήσεται τῇ πόλει χρήσιμα οὐκ ἐν τῷ παραχρῆμα μόνον ἀλλὰ καὶ εἰς ἅπαντα τὸν ἄλλον χρόνον [p. 203] ἐπηνεῖτο, συνελθεῖν κελεύσας τὰς γυναῖκας ὅσαι τοῦ τε Ἀντεμνατῶν καὶ τοῦ Καινινιτῶν ἐτύγχανον οὔσαι γένους, ἡρπασμένα δὲ ἅμα ταῖς ἄλλαις, ἐπεὶ δὲ συνῆλθον ὀλοφυρόμεναι τε καὶ προκυλιόμεναι καὶ τὰς τῶν πατρίδων ἀνακλαίουσαι τύχας, ἐπισχεῖν τῶν ὀδυρμῶν καὶ σιωπῆσαι κελεύσας ἔλεξε: [3] τοῖς μὲν ὑμετέροις πατράσι καὶ ἀδελφοῖς καὶ ὅλαις ταῖς πόλεσιν ὑμῶν ἅπαντα τὰ δεινὰ ὀφείλεται παθεῖν, ὅτι πόλεμον ἀντὶ φιλίας οὔτε ἀναγκαῖον οὔτε καλὸν ἀνείλοντο: ἡμεῖς δὲ πολλῶν ἔνεκεν ἐγνώκαμεν μετρίᾳ χρήσασθαι γνώμῃ πρὸς αὐτοὺς θεῶν τε νέμεσιν ὑφορώμενοι τὴν ἅπασιν τοῖς ὑπερόγκοις ἐνισταμένην καὶ ἀνθρώπων φθόνον δεδιότες ἔλεόν τε κοινῶν κακῶν οὐ μικρὸν ἔρανον εἶναι νομίζοντες, ὥς κἂν αὐτοὶ ποτε τοῦ παρ' ἐτέρων δεηθέντες, ὑμῖν τε οὐ μεμπταῖς ὑπαρχούσαις μέχρι τοῦδε περὶ τοὺς ἑαυτῶν ἄνδρας οὐ μικρὰν οἰόμενοι ταύτην ἔσσεσθαι τιμὴν καὶ χάριν. [4] παρίεμεν οὖν αὐτοῖς τὴν ἁμαρτάδα ταύτην ἀζήμιον καὶ οὔτε ἐλευθερίαν οὔτε κτῆσιν οὔτ' ἄλλο τῶν ἀγαθῶν οὐδὲν τοὺς πολίτας ὑμῶν ἀφαιρούμεθα. ἐφίεμεν δὲ τοῖς τε μένειν γλιχομένοις ἐκεῖ καὶ τοῖς μετενέγκασθαι βουλομένοις τὰς οἰκήσεις ἀκίνδυνόν τε καὶ ἀμεταμέλητον τὴν αἵρεσιν. τοῦ δὲ μηδὲν ἔτι αὐτοὺς ἐπεξαμαρτεῖν μηδ' εὐρεθῆναι τι χρῆμα, ὃ ποιήσῃ τὰς πόλεις διαλύσασθαι τὴν πρὸς ἡμᾶς φιλίαν, φάρμακον ἡγούμεθα κράτιστον εἶναι πρὸς εὐδοξίαν τε καὶ πρὸς [p. 204] ἀσφάλειαν τὸ αὐτὸ χρησίμον ἀμφοτέροις, εἰ ποιήσαιμεν ἀποικίας τῆς Ῥώμης τὰς πόλεις καὶ συνοίκους αὐταῖς πέμπαιμεν αὐτόθεν τοὺς ἱκανοὺς. ἅπιτε οὖν ἀγαθὴν ἔχουσαι διάνοιαν καὶ διπλασίως ἢ πρότερον ἀσπάζεσθε καὶ τιμᾶτε τοὺς ἄνδρας, ὑφ' ὧν γονεῖς τε ὑμῶν ἐσώθησαν καὶ ἀδελφοὶ καὶ πατρίδες ἐλεύθεροι ἀφίενται. [5] αἱ μὲν δὴ γυναικες ὡς ταῦτ' ἤκουσαν περιχαρεῖς γενόμεναι καὶ πολλὰ δάκρυα ὑφ' ἡδονῆς ἀφείσαι μετέστησαν ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς, ὁ δὲ Ῥωμύλος τριακοσίους μὲν ἄνδρας εἰς ἑκατέραν ἀποίκους ἀπέστειλεν, οἷς ἔδωσαν αἱ πόλεις τρίτην κατακληρουχῆσαι μοῖραν τῆς ἑαυτῶν γῆς. [6] Καινινιτῶν δὲ καὶ Ἀντεμνατῶν τοὺς βουλομένους μεταθέσθαι τὴν οἰκισιν εἰς Ῥώμην γυναιξὶν ἅμα καὶ τέκνοις μετήγαγον κλήρους τε τοὺς ἐοῦς ἑαυτῶν ἔχοντας καὶ χρήματα φερομένους ὅσα ἐκέκτηντο, οὓς εὐθύς εἰς φυλὰς καὶ φράτρας ὁ βασιλεὺς κατέγραψε, τρισχιλίων οὐκ ἐλάττους ὄντας, [7] ὥστε τοὺς σύμπαντας ἑξακισχιλίους πεζοὺς Ῥωμαίοις τότε πρῶτον ἐκ καταλόγου γενέσθαι. Καινίνη μὲν δὴ καὶ Ἀντεμνα πόλεις οὐκ ἄσημοι γένος ἔχουσαι τὸ Ἑλληνικόν, Ἀβοριγῖνες γὰρ αὐτὰς ἀφελόμενοι τοὺς Σικελοὺς κατέσχον, Οἰνώτρων μοῖρα τῶν ἐξ Ἀρκαδίας ἀφικομένων, ὡς εἴρηται μοι πρότερον, μετὰ τόνδε τὸν πόλεμον ἀποικία Ῥωμαίων γεγέννητο. [p. 205]

ὁ δὲ Ῥωμύλος ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ἐπὶ Κρουστομερίνους ἐξάγει τὴν στρατιὰν παρεσκευασμένους ἄμεινον τῶν προτέρων: οὓς ἐκ παρατάξεώς τε καὶ τειχομαχίας παραστησάμενος ἄνδρας ἀγαθοὺς κατὰ τὸν ἀγῶνα γενομένους οὐδὲν ἔτι διαθεῖναι κακὸν ἤξιωσεν, ἀλλὰ καὶ ταύτην ἐποίησεν ἀποικον Ῥωμαίων τὴν πόλιν ὥσπερ τὰς προτέρας. [2] ἦν δὲ τὸ Κρουστομέριον Ἀλβανῶν ἀπόκτισις πολλοῖς πρότερον τῆς Ῥώμης ἀποσταλεῖσα χρόνους. διαγγελλούσης δὲ τῆς φήμης πολλαῖς πόλεσι τὴν τε κατὰ πολέμους γενναιότητα τοῦ ἡγεμόνος καὶ πρὸς τοὺς κρατηθέντας ἐπείκειαν ἄνδρες τε αὐτῷ προσετίθεντο πολλοὶ καὶ ἀγαθοὶ δυνάμεις ἀξιοχρέους πανοικίᾳ μετανισταμένας ἐπαγόμενοι, ὧν ἐφ' ἑνὸς ἡγεμόνος ἐκ Τυρρηνίας ἐλθόντος, ὃν Καίλιος ὄνομα ἦν, τῶν λόφων τις, ἐν ᾧ καθιδρύθη, Καίλιος εἰς τὸδε χρόνου καλεῖται: καὶ πόλεις ὅλαι παρεδίδωσαν ἑαυτὰς ἀπὸ τῆς Μεδυλλίνων ἀρξάμεναι καὶ ἐγίνοντο Ῥωμαίων ἀποικία. [3] Σαβῖνοι δὲ ταῦτα ὁρῶντες ἤχθοντο καὶ δι' αἰτίας ἀλλήλους εἶχον, ὅτι οὐκ ἀρχομένην τὴν Ῥωμαίων ἰσχὺν ἐκώλυσαν, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ μέγα προηκούσῃ συμφέρεσθαι ἔμελλον, ἐδόκει τε αὐτοῖς ἐπανορθώσασθαι τὴν προτέραν ἄγνοιαν ἀξιολόγου δυνάμεως ἀποστολῇ. καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο ἀγορὰν ποιησάμενοι σύμπαντες ἐν τῇ μεγίστῃ τε πόλει καὶ πλεῖστον ἀξίωμα ἐχούσῃ τοῦ ἔθνους, ἣ Κυρὶς ὄνομα ἦν, ψῆφον ὑπὲρ τοῦ πολέμου διήνεγκαν [p. 206] ἀποδείξαντες ἡγεμόνα τῆς στρατιᾶς Τίτον, ὃς [4] ἐπεκαλεῖτο Τάτιος, βασιλεὶα Κυριτῶν. Σαβῖνοι μὲν δὴ ταῦτα βουλευσάμενοι καὶ διαλυθέντες κατὰ τὰς πόλεις τὰ πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον ἡὔτρεπιζοντο, ὡς εἰς νέωτα ἐπὶ τὴν Ῥώμην πολλῇ χειρὶ ἐλάσσοντες.

ἐν τούτῳ δὲ καὶ ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἀντιπαρασκευάζετο τὰ κράτιστα, ὡς ἀμυνόμενος ἄνδρας τὰ πολέμια ἀλκίμους, τοῦ μὲν Παλατίου τὸ τεῖχος ὡς ἀσφαλέστερον εἶναι τοῖς ἔνδον ὑψηλοτέροις ἐρύμασιν ἐγείρων, τοὺς δὲ παρακειμένους αὐτῷ λόφους τὸν τε Αὐεντῖνον καὶ τὸν Καπιτωλῖνον νῦν λεγόμενον ἀποταφρεύων καὶ χαρακώμασι καρτεροῖς περιλαμβάνων, ἐν οἷς τὰ ποιμνία καὶ τοὺς γεωργοὺς αὐλιζεσθαι τὰς νύκτας ἐπέταξεν ἐχεγγύῳ φρουρᾷ καταλαβὼν ἐκάτερον, καὶ εἴ τι ἄλλο χωρίον ἀσφάλειαν αὐτοῖς παρέξειν ἔμελλεν ἀποταφρεύων καὶ περισταυρῶν καὶ [2] διὰ φυλακῆς ἔχων. ἦκε δὲ αὐτῷ Τυρρηνῶν ἐπικουρίαν ἱκανὴν ἄγων ἐκ Σολωνίου πόλεως ἀνὴρ δραστήριος καὶ τὰ πολέμια ἔργα διαφανής, Λοκόμων ὄνομα, φίλος οὐ πρὸ πολλοῦ γεγονώς, καὶ παρ' Ἀλβανῶν ἄνδρες, οὓς ὁ πάππος ἔπεμψεν αὐτῷ, συχνοὶ στρατιῶται τε καὶ ὑπηρέται καὶ τεχνῖται πολεμικῶν ἔργων, σῖτός τε καὶ ὅπλα καὶ ὅσα τούτοις πρόσφορα ἦν ἱκανῶς ἅπαντα ἐπεχορηγεῖτο. [3] ἐπεὶ δ' ἐν ἐτοιμῳ τὰ [p. 207] πρὸς τὸν ἀγῶνα ἦν ἐκατέροις, ἕαρος ἀρχομένου μέλλοντες ἐξάγειν οἱ Σαβῖνοι τὰς δυνάμεις ἔγνωσαν ἀποστελεῖν πρεσβείαν πρῶτον ὡς τοὺς πολεμίους τὰς τε γυναῖκας ἀξιώσουσαν ἀπολαβεῖν καὶ δίκας ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν αἰτήσουσαν τῆς ἀρπαγῆς, ἵνα δὴ δι' ἀνάγκην δοκῶσιν ἀνειληφέναι τὸν πόλεμον οὐ τυγχάνοντες τῶν δικαίων, καὶ τοὺς κήρυκας ἔπεμπον ἐπὶ ταῦτα. [4] Ῥωμύλου δὲ ἀξιοῦντος τὰς μὲν γυναῖκας, ἐπειδὴ οὐδ' αὐταῖς ἀκούσαις ὁ μετὰ τῶν ἀνδρῶν βίος ἦν, ἔαν παρὰ τοῖς γεγαμηκόσι μένουν, εἰ δὲ τινος ἄλλου δέονται λαμβάνειν ὡς παρὰ φίλων, πολέμου δὲ μὴ ἄρχειν, οὐδενὶ τῶν ἀξιουμένων ὑπακούσαντες ἐξῆγον τὴν στρατιὰν πεζοὺς μὲν ἄγοντες πεντακισχιλίους ἐπὶ δύο μυριάσιν, ἵππεῖς δὲ ὀλίγους δέοντας χιλίων. [5] ἦν δὲ καὶ ἡ τῶν Ῥωμαίων δύναμις οὐ πολὺ τῆς Σαβίνων δέουσα δύο μὲν αἱ τῶν πεζῶν μυριάδες, ὀκτακόσιοι δ' ἵππεῖς, καὶ προεκάθητο τῆς πόλεως διχῇ διηρημένη, μία μὲν μοῖρα τὸν Ἑσκυλῖνον κατέχουσα λόφον, ἐφ' ἧς αὐτὸς ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἦν, ἑτέρα δὲ τὸν Κυρινῖον οὐπὼ ταύτην ἔχοντα τὴν προσηγορίαν, ἧς ὁ Τυρρηνὸς ἦν Λοκόμων ἡγεμῶν.

μαθὼν δὲ τὴν παρασκευὴν αὐτῶν Τάτιος ὁ τῶν Σαβίνων βασιλεὺς νυκτὸς ἀναστήσας τὸν στρατὸν ἦγε διὰ τῆς χώρας οὐδὲν σινόμενος τῶν [p. 208] κατὰ τοὺς ἀγροὺς καὶ πρὶν ἀνατεῖλαι τὸν ἥλιον μεταξὺ τοῦ τε Κυρινίου καὶ τοῦ Καπιτωλίου τίθησιν ἐν τῷ πεδίῳ τὸν χάρακα. ὁρῶν δὲ ἀσφαλεῖ πάντα φυλακῇ κατεχόμενα πρὸς τῶν πολέμιων, σφίσι δὲ οὐδὲν χωρίον ἀπολειπόμενον ὀχυρὸν εἰς πολλὴν ἐνέπιπτεν ἀπορίαν οὐκ ἔχων ὃ τι χρήσεται τῇ τριβῇ τοῦ χρόνου. [2] ἀμηχανοῦντι δὲ αὐτῷ παράδοξος εὐτυχία γίνεται παραδοθέντος τοῦ κρατίστου τῶν ὀχυρωμάτων κατὰ τοιάνδε τινὰ συντυχίαν. παρεξιώντας γὰρ τὴν ῥίζαν τοῦ Καπιτωλίου τοὺς Σαβίνους εἰς ἐπίσκεψιν, εἴ τι μέρος εὖρεθει τοῦ λόφου κλοπῇ ληφθῆναι δυνατόν ἢ βίᾳ, παρθένος τις ἀπὸ τοῦ μετεώρου κατεσκόπει θυγάτηρ ἀνδρὸς ἐπιφανοῦς, ᾧ προσέκειτο ἡ [3] τοῦ χωρίου φυλακῇ, Τάρπεια ὄνομα: καὶ αὐτὴν, ὡς μὲν Φάβιος τε καὶ Κίγκιος γράφουσιν, ἔρως εἰσέρχεται τῶν ψελλίων, ἃ περὶ τοῖς ἀριστεροῖς βραχίουσιν ἐφόρουν, καὶ τῶν δακτυλίων: χρυσοφόροι γὰρ ἦσαν οἱ Σαβῖνοι τότε καὶ Τυρρηνῶν οὐχ ἦττον ἀβροδιαίτοι: ὡς δὲ Πείσων Λεύκιος ὁ τιμητικὸς ἱστορεῖ, καλοῦ πράγματος ἐπιθυμία γυμνοῦς τῶν σκεπαστηρίων ὅπλων παραδοῦναι τοῖς πολίταις τοὺς πολεμίους. ὁπότερον δὲ τούτων ἀληθέστερόν ἐστιν ἐκ τῶν ὕστερον γενομένων ἔξεστιν εἰκάζειν. [4] πέμψασα δ' οὖν τῶν θεραπεινίδων τινὰ διὰ πυλίδος, ἣν οὐδεὶς ἔμαθεν ἀνοιγομένην, ἤξιον τὸν βασιλέα τῶν Σαβίνων ἐλθεῖν αὐτῇ διχα τῶν ἄλλων εἰς λόγους, ὡς ἐκείνῳ διαλεξομένη περὶ πράγματος ἀναγκαίου καὶ μεγάλου. δεξαμένου δὲ [p. 209] τοῦ Τατίου τὸν λόγον κατ' ἐλπίδα προδοσίας καὶ συνελθόντος εἰς τὸν ἀποδειχθέντα τόπον, προελθοῦσα εἰς ἐφικτὸν ἡ παρθένος ἐξεληλυθῆναι μὲν νυκτὸς ἐκ τοῦ φρουρίου τὸν πατέρα αὐτῆς ἔφη χρείας τινὸς ἔνεκα, τὰς δὲ κλεῖς αὐτῇ φυλάττειν τῶν πυλῶν καὶ παραδῶσιν αὐτοῖς τὸ ἔρυμα νυκτὸς ἀφικομένοις μισθὸν τῆς προδοσίας λαβοῦσα τὰ φορήματα τῶν Σαβίνων, ἃ περὶ τοῖς εὐωνύμοις εἶχον ἅπαντες βραχίουσιν. [5] εὐδοκοῦντος δὲ τοῦ Τατίου λαβοῦσα τὰς πίστεις δι' ὄρκων παρ' αὐτοῦ καὶ αὐτῇ δοῦσα τοῦ μὴ ψεύδεσθαι τὰς ὁμολογίας τόπον τε ὀρίσασα, ἐφ' ὃν ἔδει τοὺς Σαβίνους ἐλθεῖν, τὸν ἐχυρώτατον καὶ νυκτὸς ὥραν τὴν ἀφυλακτοτάτην ἀπῆει καὶ τοὺς ἔνδον ἔλαθε.

μέχρι μὲν δὴ τούτων συμφέρονται πάντες οἱ Ῥωμαίων συγγραφεῖς, ἐν δὲ τοῖς ὕστερον λεγομένοις οὐχ ὁμολογοῦσι. Πείσων γὰρ ὁ τιμητικός, οὗ καὶ πρότερον ἐμνήσθην, ἄγγελόν φησιν ὑπὸ τῆς Τάρπειας ἀποσταλῆναι νύκτωρ ἐκ τοῦ χωρίου δηλώσοντα τῷ Ῥωμύλῳ τὰς γενομένας τῇ κόρῃ πρὸς τοὺς Σαβίνους ὁμολογίας, ὅτι μέλλοι τὰ σκεπαστήρια παρ' αὐτῶν αἰτεῖν ὄπλα διὰ τῆς κοινότητος τῶν ὁμολογιῶν παρακρουσαμένη, δύναμιν τε ἀξιώσονται πέμπειν ἐπὶ τὸ φρούριον ἐτέραν νυκτὸς, ὡς αὐτῷ στρατηλάτῃ παραληφόμενον τοὺς πολεμίους γυμνοὺς τῶν ὄπλων: [p. 210] τὸν δὲ ἄγγελον αὐτομολήσαντα πρὸς τὸν ἡγεμόνα τῶν Σαβίνων κατήγορον γενέσθαι τῶν τῆς Τάρπειας βουλευμάτων. [2] οἱ δὲ περὶ τὸν Φάβιον τε καὶ Κίγκιον οὐδὲν τοιοῦτο γεγονέναι λέγουσιν, ἀλλὰ φυλάξαι τὴν κόρην διαβεβαιοῦνται τὰς περὶ τῆς προδοσίας συνθήκας. τὰ δ' ἐξῆς ἅπαντες πάλιν ὁμοίως γράφουσι. φασὶ γὰρ ὅτι παραγενομένου σὺν τῷ κρατίστῳ τῆς στρατιᾶς μέρει τοῦ βασιλέως τῶν Σαβίνων φυλάττουσα τὰς ὑποσχέσεις ἡ Τάρπεια τοῖς μὲν πολεμίοις ἀνέωξε τὴν συγκειμένην πυλίδα, τοὺς δ' ἐν τῷ χωρίῳ φύλακας ἀναστήσασα διαταχέων σώζειν ἑαυτοὺς ἤξιον καθ' ἐτέρας ἐξόδους τοῖς πολεμίοις ἀφανεῖς, ὡς κατεχόντων ἤδη τῶν Σαβίνων τὸ φρούριον: [3] διαφυγόντων δὲ τούτων τοὺς μὲν Σαβίνους ἀνεωγμένας εὐρόντας τὰς πύλας κατασχεῖν τὸ φρούριον ἔρημον τῶν φυλάκων, τὴν δὲ Τάρπειαν ὡς τὰ παρ' ἑαυτῆς ὅσα συνέθετο παρεσχημένην ἀξιοῦν τοὺς μισθοὺς τῆς προδοσίας κατὰ τοὺς ὅρκους ἀπολαβεῖν.

ἔπειτα πάλιν ὁ μὲν Πείσων φησὶ τῶν Σαβίνων τὸν χρυσὸν ἐτοίμων ὄντων δίδοναι τῇ κόρῃ τὸν περὶ τοῖς ἀριστεροῖς βραχίوسي τὴν Τάρπειαν οὐ τὸν κόσμον ἀλλὰ τοὺς θυρεοὺς παρ' αὐτῶν αἰτεῖν. Τατίῳ δὲ θυμὸν τε εἰσελθεῖν ἐπὶ τῇ ἐξαπατῇ καὶ λογισμὸν τοῦ μὴ παραβῆναι τὰς ὁμολογίας. δόξα δ' οὖν αὐτῷ δοῦναι μὲν τὰ ὄπλα, ὥσπερ ἡ παῖς ἤξιωσε, ποιῆσαι δ' ὅπως αὐτοῖς μηδὲν λαβοῦσα χρήσεται, καὶ αὐτίκα διατεινόμενον ὡς μάλιστα ἰσχύος εἶχε ῥῖψαι [p. 211] τὸν θυρεὸν κατὰ τῆς κόρης καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις παρακελεύσασθαι ταῦτο ποιεῖν. οὕτω δὴ βαλλομένην πάντοθεν τὴν Τάρπειαν ὑπὸ πλήθους τε καὶ ἰσχύος τῶν πληγῶν πεσεῖν καὶ περιωρευθεῖσαν ὑπὸ τῶν θυρεῶν ἀποθανεῖν. [2] οἱ δὲ περὶ τὸν Φάβιον ἐπὶ τοῖς Σαβίνοις ποιοῦσι τὴν τῶν ὁμολογιῶν ἀπάτην: δέον γὰρ αὐτοὺς τὸν χρυσόν, ὥσπερ ἡ Τάρπεια ἤξιον, κατὰ τὰς ὁμολογίας ἀποδιδόναι, χαλεπαίνοντας ἐπὶ τῷ μεγέθει τοῦ μισθοῦ τὰ σκεπαστήρια κατ' αὐτῆς βαλεῖν, ὡς ταῦτα ὅτε ὤμνυσαν αὐτῇ δώσειν ὑπεσχημένους. ἔοικε δὲ τὰ μετὰ ταῦτα γενόμενα τὴν Πείσωνος ἀλθροστέραν ποιεῖν ἀπόκρισιν. ^[3] τάφου τε γὰρ ἔνθα ἔπεσεν ἡξίωται τὸν ἱερώτατον τῆς πόλεως κατέχουσα λόφον, καὶ χοᾶς αὐτῇ Ῥωμαῖοι καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ἐπιτελοῦσι, ἄλγω δὲ ἃ Πείσων γράφει ὧν οὐδενὸς εἰκὸς αὐτὴν, εἰ προδιδούσα τὴν πατρίδα τοῖς πολεμίοις ἀπέθανεν, οὔτε παρὰ τῶν προδοθέντων οὔτε παρὰ τῶν ἀποκτεινάντων τυχεῖν, ἀλλὰ καὶ εἴ τι λείψανον αὐτῆς ἦν τοῦ σώματος ἀνασκαφὲν ἔξω ῥιφῆναι σὺν χρόνῳ φόβου τε καὶ ἀποτροπῆς ἔνεκα τῶν μελλόντων τὰ ὅμοια δρᾶν. ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ μὲν τούτων κρινέτω τις ὡς βούλεται.

ὁ δὲ Τάτιος καὶ οἱ Σαβῖνοι φρουρίου γενόμενοι καρτεροῦ κύριοι καὶ τὰ πλεῖστα τῆς Ῥωμαίων [p. 212] ἀποσκευῆς ἀμοχθεὶ παρειληφότες ἐκ τοῦ ἀσφαλοῦς ἤδη τὸν πόλεμον διέφερον. πολλὰ μὲν οὖν αὐτῶν ἐγίνοντο καὶ διὰ πολλὰς προφάσεις παρεστρατοπεδευκόντων ἀλλήλοισι δι' ὀλίγου πείραι τε καὶ συμπλοκαὶ οὔτε κατορθώματα μεγάλα ἐκατέρω φέρουσαι τῶν στρατευμάτων οὔτε τὰ σφάλματα, μέγιστα δ' ἐκ παρατάξεως ὅλαις ταῖς δυνάμεσι πρὸς ἀλλήλας μάχαι διτταὶ καὶ φόνος ἐκατέρων πολὺς. ^[2] ἐλκομένου δὴ τοῦ χρόνου γνώμην ἀμφοτέροι τὴν αὐτὴν ἔσχον ὀλοσχερεῖ κρῖναι τὸν ἀγῶνα μάχῃ, καὶ προελθόντες εἰς τὸ μεταξὺ τῶν στρατοπέδων χωρίον ἡγεμόνες τε ἄριστοι τὰ πολέμια καὶ στρατιῶται πολλῶν ἐθάδες ἀγώνων ἄξια λόγου ἔργ' ἀπεδείκνυντο ἐπιόντες τ' ἀλλήλοισι καὶ τοὺς ἐπιόντας δεχόμενοι καὶ ἐξ ὑποστροφῆς εἰς ἴσον αὖθις καθιστάμενοι. ^[3] οἱ δ' ἐπὶ τῶν ἐρυμάτων ἐστῶτες ἰσορρόπου θεαταὶ ἀγῶνος καὶ θαμινὰ ἐκατέρωσε μεταπίπτοντος τῷ μὲν κατορθοῦντι τῶν σφετέρων ἐπικελεύσει τε καὶ παιανισμῷ πολλὴν ἐποιοῦν τὴν εἰς τὸ εὐψυχον ἐπίδοσιν, τῷ δὲ κάμνοντι καὶ διωκομένῳ δεήσεις τε καὶ οἰμωγὰς προϊέμενοι κωλυταὶ τοῦ εἰς τέλος ἀνάνδρου ἐγίνοντο: ὑφ' ὧν ἀμφοτέρων ἠναγκάζοντο καὶ παρὰ δύναμιν ὑπομένειν τὰ δεινὰ. ἐκείνην μὲν οὖν τὴν ἡμέραν οὕτω διενέγκαντες ἀγχωμάλως τὴν μάχην, σκότους ὄντος ἤδη ἄσμενοι εἰς τοὺς οἰκείους ἐκάτεροι χάρακας ἀπηλλάσσοντο. [p. 213] ταῖς δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέραις ταφὰς ποιησάμενοι τῶν νεκρῶν καὶ τοὺς κεκμηκότας ὑπὸ τραυμάτων ἀνακτησάμενοι δυνάμεις τε παρασκευάσαντες ἄλλας, ἐπειδὴ ἔδοξεν αὐτοῖς αὖθις ἐτέραν συνάψαι μάχην, εἰς τὸ αὐτὸ τῷ προτέρῳ χωρίον συνελθόντες ἄχρι νυκτὸς ἐμάχοντο. ^[2] ἐν ταύτῃ τῇ μάχῃ Ῥωμαίων ἀμφοτέροις ἐπικρατούντων τοῖς κέρασιν, ἔειχε δὲ τοῦ δεξιοῦ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν αὐτὸς ὁ Ῥωμύλος, τοῦ δὲ ἀριστεροῦ Λοκόμων ὁ Τυρρηνός· τοῦ δὲ μέσου μηδέπω κρίσιν ἔχοντος, ὁ κωλύσας τὴν εἰς τέλος τῶν Σαβίνων ἦτταν καὶ εἰς ἀντίπαλα καταστήσας αὖθις τὰ λειπόμενα τοῖς νικῶσιν εἷς ἀνὴρ ἐγένετο Μέττιος Κούρτιος ὄνομα, ῥώμην τε σώματος πολὺς ἀνὴρ, καὶ κατὰ χεῖρα γενναῖος, μάλιστα δ' ἐπὶ τῷ μηδένα ὀκνεῖν φόβον ἢ ^[3] κίνδυνον εὐδοκιμῶν. οὗτος δ' ἐτάχθη μὲν ἡγεῖσθαι τῶν κατὰ μέσσην ἀγωνιζομένων τὴν φάλαγγα καὶ τοὺς ἀντιτεταγμένους ἐνίκᾳ, βουληθεὶς δὲ καὶ τὰ κέρατα τῶν Σαβίνων μοχθοῦντα ἤδη καὶ ἐξωθούμενα εἰς τὸ ἴσον καταστήσαι, παρακελευσάμενος τοῖς ἄμφ' αὐτὸν ἐδίωκε τοὺς φεύγοντας τῶν πολεμίων ἐσκεδασμένους καὶ μέχρι τῶν πυλῶν αὐτοὺς ἤλασεν, ὥστε ἠναγκάσθη καταλιπὼν ἡμιτελῆ τὴν νίκην ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐπιστρέψαι τε καὶ ἐπὶ τὰ νικῶντα τῶν πολεμίων ὥσασθαι μέρη. [4] τὸ μὲν δὴ κάμνον τῶν Σαβίνων μέρος ἐν τῷ ἴσῳ πάλιν ἦν ἀπελθούσης τῆς μετὰ Ῥωμύλου δυνάμεως, ὁ δὲ κίνδυνος ἅπας περὶ τὸν Κούρτιον [p. 214] καὶ τοὺς σὺν ἐκείνῳ νικῶντας ἐγεγόνει. χρόνον μὲν οὖν τινα οἱ Σαβίνοι δεξάμενοι τοὺς Ῥωμαίους λαμπρῶς ἠγωνίσαντο, ἔπειτα πολλῶν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς συνιόντων ἐνέκλινάν τε καὶ διέσωζον ἑαυτοὺς ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα, πολλὴν τοῦ Κουρτίου παρέχοντας αὐτοῖς εἰς τὸ μὴ διώκεσθαι τεταραγμένως, ἀλλὰ βάδην ἀποχωρεῖν ἀσφάλειαν. [5] αὐτὸς γὰρ εἰστήκει μαχόμενος καὶ τὸν Ῥωμύλον ἐπιόντα ἐδέχετο, γίνεται τε τῶν ἠγεμόνων αὐτῶν συμπεσόντων ἀλλήλοις μέγας καὶ καλὸς ἀγών. ἔξαιμος δὲ ὢν ἤδη καὶ καταβελῆς ὁ Κούρτιος ὑπῆει κατ' ὀλίγον, καὶ αὐτὸν ἐκ τῶν κατόπιν ὑπεδέχετο λίμνη βαθεῖα, ἣν περιελθεῖν μὲν χαλεπὸν ἦν περικεχυμένων πανταχόθεν τῶν πολεμίων, διελθεῖν δὲ ὑπὸ τε ἰλῦος πλήθους, ἦν τὰ πέριξ τέλματα εἶχε, καὶ βάθους ὕδατος τοῦ κατὰ μέσσην αὐτὴν συνεστῶτος ἄπορον. [6] ταύτῃ πλησιάσας ἔρριπεν ἑαυτὸν εἰς τὸ νῆμα σὺν τοῖς ὅπλοις, καὶ ὁ Ῥωμύλος ὡς αὐτίκα δὴ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἐν τῇ λίμνῃ διαφθαρησομένου 'καὶ ἅμα ἀδύνατον ἦν κατὰ τέλματος τε αὐτὸν καὶ δι' ὕδατος πολλοῦ διώκειν' ἐπὶ τοὺς ἄλλους Σαβίνους τρέπεται: ὁ δὲ Κούρτιος πολλὰ μοχθήσας σὺν χρόνῳ σῴζεται τε ἐκ τῆς λίμνης τὰ ὅπλα ἔχων καὶ εἰς τὸν χάρακα ἀπάγεται. οὗτος ὁ τόπος ἀνακέχωσται μὲν ἤδη, καλεῖται δ' ἐξ ἐκείνου τοῦ πάθους Κούρτιος λάκκος ἐν μέσῳ μάλιστα ὢν τῆς Ῥωμαίων ἀγορᾶς.

Ῥωμύλος δὲ τοὺς ἄλλους διώκων ἐγγὺς [p. 215] γενόμενος τοῦ Καπιτωλίου καὶ πολλὰς ἐλπίδας ἔχων αἰρήσειν τὸ φρούριον ἄλλοις τε πολλοῖς τραύμασι καταπονηθεὶς καὶ δὴ καὶ λίθου πληγῇ ἐξαισίῳ κατὰ κροτάφου ἐνεχθέντος ἐκ τῶν ἄνωθεν κακωθεὶς, αἵρεταί τε πρὸς τῶν παρόντων ἡμιθανὲς καὶ εἰς τὸ [2] τεῖχος ἀποφέρεται. τοῖς δὲ Ῥωμαίοις δέος ἐμπίπτει τὸν ἠγεμόνα οὐκέτι ὀρώσι, καὶ τρέπεται τὸ δεξιὸν κέρας εἰς φυγὴν: οἱ δ' ἐν τῷ εὐωνύμῳ ταχθέντες ἅμα τῷ Λοκόμῳ τέως μὲν ἀντεῖχον ὑπὸ τοῦ ἠγεμόνος ἀναθαρρυνόμενοι, λαμπροτάτου τὰ πολέμια ἀνδρὸς καὶ πλεῖστα ἔργα κατὰ τοῦτον τὸν πόλεμον ἀποδείξαμένου: ἐπεὶ δὲ κάκεῖνος ἐλασθεὶς διὰ τῶν πλευρῶν σαυνίῳ τῆς δυνάμεως ὑπολιπούσης ἔπεσεν οὐδ' αὐτοὶ διέμειναν, φυγὴ δὲ μετὰ τοῦτο πάντων αὐτῶν ἐγένετο, καὶ οἱ Σαβίνοι τεθαρρηκότες ἐδίωκον ἄχρι τῆς πόλεως. τοιαῦτα εἰποῦσαι προὔπεσον ἅπασαι τῶν τοῦ βασιλέως γονάτων ἅμα τοῖς τέκνοις καὶ διέμενον ἔρριμμένοι, τέως ἀνέστησαν αὐτάς ἐκ τῆς γῆς οἱ παρόντες ἅπαντα ποιήσιν τὰ μέτρια καὶ τὰ δυνατὰ ὑποσχομένοι. μεταστηράμενοι δὲ αὐτάς ἐκ τοῦ συνεδρίου καὶ βουλευσάμενοι καθ' ἑαυτοὺς ἔκριναν ποιεῖσθαι τὰς διαλλαγάς. καὶ γίνονται τοῖς ἔθνεσιν ἐκεχειρίαι μὲν πρῶτον: ἔπειτα συνελθόντων τῶν βασιλέων συνθηκαὶ περὶ φιλίας. [2] ἦν δὲ τὰ συνομολογηθέντα τοῖς ἀνδράσι, περὶ ὧν τοὺς ὄρκους ἐποίησαντο, τοιάδε: βασιλέας μὲν εἶναι Ῥωμαίων Ῥωμύλον καὶ Τάτιον ἰσοψήφους ὄντας καὶ τιμὰς καρπούμενους τὰς ἴσας, καλεῖσθαι δὲ τὴν μὲν πόλιν ἐπὶ τοῦ κτίσαντος τὸ αὐτὸ φυλάττουσαν ὄνομα Ῥώμην, καὶ ἕνα ἕκαστον τῶν ἐν αὐτῇ πολιτῶν Ῥωμαῖον, ὡς πρότερον, τοὺς δὲ σύμπαντας ἐπὶ τῆς Τατίου πατρίδος κοινῇ περιλαμβανομένους κλήσει Κυρίτας: πολιτεῦειν δὲ τοὺς βουλομένους Σαβίνων ἐν Ῥώμῃ ἱερά τε συνενεγκαμένους καὶ εἰς φυλὰς καὶ εἰς φράτρας ἐπιδοθέντας. [p. 220] [3] ταῦτα ὁμόσαντες καὶ βωμοὺς ἐπὶ τοῖς ὄρκοις ἰδρυσάμενοι κατὰ μέσσην μάλιστα τὴν καλουμένην ἱερὰν ὁδὸν συνεκεράσθησαν ἀλλήλοις. καὶ οἱ μὲν ἄλλοι τὰς δυνάμεις ἀναλαβόντες ἡγεμόνες ἀπῆγον ἐπ' οἴκου, Τάτιος δὲ ὁ βασιλεὺς καὶ σὺν αὐτῷ τρεῖς ἄνδρες οἴκων τῶν διαφανεστάτων ὑπέμειναν ἐν Ῥώμῃ καὶ τιμὰς ἔσχον, ἃς τὸ ἀπ' αὐτῶν ἐκαρποῦτο γένος, Οὐδόλοστος Οὐαλέριος καὶ Τάλλος Τυράννως ἐπὶ κλησιν καὶ τελευταῖος Μέττιος Κούρτιος, ὁ τὴν λίμνην σὺν τοῖς ὅπλοις διανηξάμενος, οἷς παρέμειναν ἐταῖροί τε καὶ συγγενεῖς καὶ πελάται, τῶν ἐπιχωρίων ἀριθμὸν οὐκ ἐλάττους.

καταστάντων δὲ τῶν πραγμάτων ἔδοξε τοῖς βασιλεῦσιν, ἐπειδὴ πολλὴν ἐπίδοσιν εἰς ὄχλου πλήθος ἢ πόλιν εἰλήφει, διπλάσιον τοῦ προτέρου ποιῆσαι τὸν τῶν πατρικίων ἀριθμὸν προσκαταλέξαντας σὺν τοῖς ἐπιφανεστάτοις οἴκοις ἐκ τῶν ὕστερον ἐποικησάντων ἴσους τοῖς προτέροις, νεωτέρους οὖς ἐκάλεσαν πατρικίους: ἐξ ὧν ἕκατὸν ἄνδρας, οὓς αἱ φράτραι προεχειρίσαντο, τοῖς ἄρχαίοις βουλευταῖς προσέγραψαν. ἐνιαυτῷ δὲ ἕκτῳ περιίσταται πάλιν εἰς ἓνα Ῥωμύλον ἢ τῆς πόλεως ἀρχὴ Τατίου τελευτήσαντος ἐξ ἐπιβουλῆς, ἣν συνέστησαν ἐπ' αὐτῷ Λαουινιατῶν οἱ κορυφαϊότατοι συμφρονήσαντες ἀπὸ τοιαύτης αἰτίας: τῶν ἐταίρων τινὲς τοῦ Τατίου ληστήριον ἐξαγαγόντες εἰς τὴν Λαουινιατῶν χώραν χρήματά τε αὐτῶν ἥρπασαν πολλὰ καὶ βοσκημάτων ἀπῆλασαν ἀγέλας, τῶν δ' ἐπιβοηθούντων οὓς μὲν ἀπέκτειναν, οὓς δ' ἐτραυμάτισαν. ^[2] ἀφικομένης δὲ πρεσβείας παρὰ τῶν ἡδικημένων καὶ τὰ δίκαια ἀπαιτούσης ὁ μὲν Ῥωμύλος ἐδικαίωσε παραδοῦναι τοὺς δράσαντας τοῖς [p. 227] ἀδικηθεῖσιν ἀπάγειν, ὁ δὲ Τάτιος τῶν ἐταίρων περιεχόμενος οὐκ ἤξιον πρὸ δίκης τινὰς ὑπ' ἐχθρῶν ἄγεσθαι καὶ ταῦτα πολίτας ὄντας ὑπὸ ξένων: δικάζεσθαι δ' αὐτοῖς ἐκέλευε τοὺς ἡδικῆσθαι λέγοντας εἰς Ῥώμην ἀφικομένους. ^[3] οἱ μὲν δὴ πρέσβεις οὐδὲν εὐρόμενοι τῶν δικαίων ἀγανακτοῦντες ἀπῆσαν, ἀκολουθήσαντες δ' αὐτοῖς τῶν Σαβίνων τινὲς ὑπ' ὀργῆς, ἐσκηνωμένοις παρὰ τὴν ὁδὸν ἑσπέρα γὰρ αὐτοὺς κατέλαβεν' ἐπιτίθενται καθεδούσι καὶ τὰ τε χρήματ' αὐτοῦς ἀφαιροῦνται καὶ ὁπόσους ἐν ταῖς κοίταις ἔτι κατέλαβον ἀποσφάττουσιν, ὅσοις δὲ ταχεῖα τῆς ἐπιβουλῆς αὐτῶν αἰσθησις ἐγένετο καὶ τοῦ διαφυγεῖν δύναμις εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἀφικνοῦνται. μετὰ τοῦτο ἔκ τε Λαουινίου πρέσβεις ἀφικόμενοι καὶ ἐξ ἄλλων πόλεων συχνῶν κατηγόρουν τῆς παρανομίας καὶ πόλεμον παρήγγελλον εἰ μὴ τεύξονται τῆς δίκης.

Ῥωμύλῳ μὲν οὖν δεινόν, ὥσπερ ἦν, τὸ περὶ τοὺς πρεσβευτὰς ἐφαίνετο πάθος καὶ ταχείας ἀφοσιώσεως δεόμενον, ὡς ἱεροῦ καταλυομένου νόμου. καὶ οὐδὲν ἔτι διαμελλήσας, ὡς εἶδεν ὀλιγωροῦντα τὸν Τάτιον αὐτὸς συνέλαβε τοὺς ἐνόχους τῷ ἄγῃ καὶ ^[2] δῆσας παρέδωκε τοῖς πρεσβευταῖς ἀπάγειν. Τατίῳ δὲ θυμὸς τε εἰσέρχεται τῆς ὕβρεως, ἣν ὑπὸ τοῦ συνάρχοντος ἡτιᾶτο ὑβρίσθαι κατὰ τὴν παράδοσιν τῶν ἀνδρῶν, καὶ οἶκτος τῶν ἀπαγομένων ἦν γὰρ καὶ συγγενὴς τις αὐτοῦ τῷ ἄγῃ ἔνοχος' καὶ αὐτίκα τοὺς στρατιώτας ἀναλαβὼν ἐβοήθει διὰ τάχους ἐν ὁδῷ [p. 228] τε ὄντας τοὺς πρέσβεις καταλαβὼν ἀφείλετο τοὺς ^[3] ἀπαγομένους. χρόνου δὲ οὐ πολλοῦ διελθόντος, ὡς μὲν τινες φασιν, ἅμα Ῥωμύλῳ παραγενόμενος εἰς τὸ Λαουίνιον ἔνεκα θυσίας, ἣν ἔδει τοῖς πατρώοις θεοῖς ὑπὲρ τῆς πόλεως θῦσαι τοὺς βασιλεῖς, συστάντων ἐπ' αὐτὸν τῶν ἐταίρων τε καὶ γένει προσηκόντων τοῖς ἀνηρημένοις πρέσβεσιν ἐπὶ τῶν βωμῶν ταῖς μαγειρικαῖς σφαγίσιν καὶ τοῖς βουπόροις ὀβελοῖς παιόμενος ἀποθνήσκει. ^[4] ὡς δ' οἱ περὶ

Λικίννιον γράφουσιν οὐ μετὰ Ῥωμύλου παραγενόμενος οὐδὲ χάριν ἱερῶν, ἀλλὰ μόνος ὡς πείσων τοὺς ἀδικηθέντας ἀφεῖναι τοῖς δεδρακόσι τὴν ὀργήν, ἀγανακτήσαντος τοῦ πλήθους ἐπὶ τῷ μὴ παραδίδοσθαι σφισι τοὺς ἄνδρας, ὡς ὃ τε Ῥωμύλος ἐδικαίωσε καὶ ἡ τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἔκρινε βουλή, καὶ τῶν προσηκόντων τοῖς τεθνεῶσι κατὰ πλῆθος ὀρμησάντων ἐπ' αὐτόν, ἀδύνατος ὢν ἔτι διαφυγεῖν τὴν ἐκ χειρὸς δίκην καταλευσθεὶς ὑπ' αὐτῶν ἀποθνήσκει.

Ῥωμύλος δὲ μόνος ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν τὸ δεῦτερον καταστὰς τὸ τε ἄγος ἀφοσιοῦται τὸ περὶ τοὺς πρέσβεις γεγόμενον προειπῶν τοῖς ἐργασαμένοις τὸ μῦθος ὕδατος εἵργεσθαι καὶ πυρὸς ἔπεφεύγεσαν γὰρ [p. 229] ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἅπαντες ἅμα τῷ τὸν Τάτιον ἀποθανεῖν καὶ τῶν Λαουινιατῶν τοὺς συστάντας ἐπὶ τὸν Τάτιον δικαστηρίῳ παραδοὺς ἐκδοθέντας ὑπὸ τῆς πόλεως, ἐπειδὴ δικαιότερα ἐδόκουν λέγειν τὰ βίαια τιμωρησάμενοι τοῖς βιαίοις, ἀπέλυσε τῆς αἰτίας. [2] ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ἐπὶ τὴν Φιδηναίων ἐστράτευσε πόλιν ἀπὸ τετταράκοντα σταδίων τῆς Ῥώμης κειμένην, μεγάλην τε καὶ πολυάνθρωπον οὔσαν τότε. ἀγομένης γὰρ εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην ἀγορᾶς ἐν σκάφαις ποταμηγοῖς, ἣν Κρουστομερῖνοι πιεζομένοις ὑπὸ λιμοῦ Ῥωμαίοις ἀπέστειλαν, ὥσάμενοι κατὰ πλῆθος ἐπὶ τὰς σκάφας οἱ Φιδηναῖοι τὴν τε ἀγορὰν διήρπασαν καὶ τῶν ἀνθρώπων τινὰς τῶν ἐπιβοηθούντων ἀπέκτειναν αἰτούμενοι [3] τε δίκας οὐχ ὑπεῖχον. ἐφ' οἷς ἀγανακτῶν ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐνέβαλεν εἰς τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν πολλῇ στρατιᾷ καὶ γενόμενος ἀφθόνου λείας ἐγκρατῆς ἀπάγειν μὲν παρεσκευάζετο τὴν δύναμιν, ἐπεξελθόντων δὲ τῶν Φιδηναίων συνάπτει πρὸς αὐτοὺς μάχην. καρτεροῦ δὲ ἀγῶνος γενομένου καὶ πολλῶν πεσόντων ἀφ' ἑκατέρων ἡσσηθέντες οἱ Φιδηναῖοι τρέπονται πρὸς φυγὴν, ὃ δ' ἐκ ποδὸς συνακολουθῶν αὐτοῖς συνεισπίπτει τοῖς φεύγουσιν εἰς τὸ τεῖχος.

μετὰ τοῦτον τὸν πόλεμον ἐπὶ Καμερίνους ἐστράτευσεν ἐπιθεμένους τοῖς παρὰ σφίσιν ἐποίκοις, καθ' ὃν χρόνον ἔκαμνεν ἡ Ῥωμαίων πόλις ὑπὸ νόσου λοιμικῆς: ἥ δὴ μάλιστα ἐπαρθέντες οἱ Καμερῖνοι καὶ νομίσαντες ἄρδην τὸ Ῥωμαίων διαφθαρῆσθαι γένος ὑπὸ τῆς συμφορᾶς τοὺς μὲν ἀπέκτειναν τῶν ἐποίκων, τοὺς δ' ἐξέβαλον. [2] ἀνθ' ὧν τιμωρούμενος αὐτοὺς ὁ Ῥωμύλος, ἐπειδὴ τὸ δεῦτερον ἐκράτησε τῆς πόλεως, τοὺς μὲν αἰτίους τῆς ἀποστάσεως ἀπέκτεινε, τοῖς δὲ στρατιώταις διαρπάσαι τὴν πόλιν ἐφῆκε, τῆς τε χώρας τὴν ἡμίσειαν ἀποτεμόμενος ἐξω τῆς πρότερον τοῖς κληρούχοις δοθείσης καὶ φρουρὰν ἀξιόχρεων καταλιπὼν, ὡς μηδὲν ἔτι παρακινήσαι τοὺς ἔνδον, ἀπῆγε τὴν δύναμιν. ἐκ ταύτης τῆς στρατείας καὶ δεῦτερον θρίαμβον κατήγαγε καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν λαφύρων τέθριππον χαλκοῦν ἀνέθηκε τῷ ἑτέρας δὲ μάχης μετ' οὐ πολὺ γενομένης, ἐνίκων οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι σοφίᾳ τοῦ ἡγεμόνος ὄρος τι καταλαβομένου νύκτωρ οὐ πολὺν τοῦ στρατοπέδου τῶν πολεμίων τόπον ἀπέχον καὶ λοχίσαντος ἐν αὐτῷ τὴν ἀκμαιοτάτην τῶν ὕστερον ἀφικομένων ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἱππέων τε καὶ πεζῶν δύναμιν. [2] συνελθόντων δ' εἰς τὸ πεδῖον ἀμφοτέρων καὶ τὸν αὐτὸν ἀγωνιζομένων τρόπον, ἐπειδὴ τὸ σύνθημα ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἦρε τοῖς ἐπὶ τοῦ ὄρους, ἀλαλάξαντες οἱ λοχῶντες ἔθεον ἐπὶ τοὺς [p. 232] Οὐιεντανοὺς ἐκ τῶν κατόπιν καὶ προσπεσόντες ἀνθρώποις μεμοχθηκόσιν αὐτοὶ ἀκμῆτες ὄντες οὐ σὺν πολλῷ τρέπουσι χρόνῳ. τῶν δ' ὀλίγοι μὲν τινες ἀποθνήσκουσι κατὰ τὴν μάχην, οἱ δὲ πλείους εἰς τὸν Τέβεριν ποταμὸν ῥεῖ δὲ παρὰ τὴν Φιδήνην ῥίψαντες ἑαυτοὺς, ὡς διανηξόμενοι τὸ ρεῦμα, διεφθάρησαν. τραυματῖαι γὰρ ὄντες καὶ βαρεῖς ὑπὸ κόπου ἀδύνατοι ἐγένοντο διανήξασθαι: οἱ δὲ καὶ ἀπειρία τοῦ νεῖν, οὐ προῖδόντες, ὑπὸ τοῦ δεινοῦ τὴν γνώμην ἐπιταραχθέντες ἐν ταῖς δίναις ἀπώλλυντο. [3] εἰ μὲν οὖν συνέγνωσαν ἑαυτοῖς Οὐιεντανοὶ κακῶς τὰ πρῶτα βεβουλευμένοις καὶ τὸ λοιπὸν ἦγον ἡσυχίαν οὐδενὸς ἂν ἔτι μείζονος ἀπέλαυσαν κακοῦ, νῦν δὲ ἀναμαχεῖσθαι τε τὰ πρότερα σφάλματα ἐλπίσαντες καὶ εἰ μείζονι παρασκευῇ ἐπιβάλοιεν, ῥαδίως ἐπικρατήσειν οἰόμενοι τῷ πολέμῳ, πολλῇ στρατιᾷ τῇ τε ἐξ αὐτῆς τῆς πόλεως καταγραφείῃ καὶ τῇ ἐκ τῶν ὁμοεθνῶν κατὰ φιλίαν παραγενομένη τὸ δεύτερον ἐπὶ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ἐλαύνουσι: [4] καὶ γίνεται πάλιν αὐτῶν μάχη καρτερὰ τῆς Φιδήνης πλησίον, ἣν ἐνίκων Ῥωμαῖοι πολλοὺς μὲν ἀποκτείναντες τῶν Οὐιεντανῶν, ἔτι δὲ πλείους αἰχμαλώτους λαβόντες. ἐάλω δὲ καὶ ὁ χάραξ αὐτῶν μεσστὸς ὦν χρημάτων τε καὶ ὅπλων καὶ ἀνδραπόδων, καὶ σκάφαι ποταμηγοὶ γέμουσαι πολλῆς ἀγορᾶς ἐλήφθησαν, [p. 233] ἐν αἷς ὁ τῶν αἰχμαλώτων ὄχλος εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην κατήγετο διὰ τοῦ ποταμοῦ. [5] οὗτος κατήχθη τρίτος ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου θρίαμβρος μακρῷ τῶν προτέρων ἐκπρεπέστερος. καὶ μετ' οὐ πολὺ Οὐιεντανῶν πρεσβείας ἀφικομένης περὶ διαλύσεως τοῦ πολέμου καὶ συγγνώμην τῶν ἀμαρτημάτων ἀξιούσης λαβεῖν δίκας ὁ Ῥωμύλος αὐτοῖς ἐπιτίθησι τάςδε: χώραν τε παραδοῦναι Ῥωμαίοις τὴν προσεχῇ τῷ Τεβέρει, τοὺς καλουμένους Ἑπτὰ πάγους, καὶ τῶν ἁλῶν ἀποστῆναι τῶν παρὰ ταῖς ἐκβολαῖς τοῦ ποταμοῦ, τοῦ δὲ μηδὲν ἔτι νεωτερίσαι τὸ πιστὸν παρασχεῖν ὁμηρα πεντήκοντα ἀγογόντας. [6] ὑπομεινάντων δὲ Οὐιεντανῶν ἅπαντα ταῦτα σπονδὰς ποιησάμενος πρὸς αὐτοὺς εἰς ἑκατὸν ἔτη στήλαις ἐνεχάραξε τὰς ὁμολογίας. τῶν δ' αἰχμαλώτων τοὺς μὲν ἀπέναι βουλομένους ἀφῆκεν ἄνευ λύτρων, τοὺς δ' αὐτοῦ μένειν προαιρουμένους πολλῷ πλείους ὄντας τῶν ἐτέρων πολίτας ποιησάμενος ταῖς φράτραις ἐπιδιεῖλε καὶ κλήρους αὐτοῖς προσένειμε τοὺς ἐπὶ τὰδε τοῦ Τεβέριος.

Ἦφαιστῳ καὶ παρ' αὐτῷ τὴν ἰδίαν ἀνέστησεν εἰκόνα ἐπιγράψας Ἑλληνικοῖς γράμμασι τὰς ἑαυτοῦ πράξεις. [3] τρίτος αὐτῷ συνέστη πόλεμος πρὸς ἔθνους Τυρρηνικοῦ τὴν μεγίστην ἰσχὺν ἔχουσαν τότε πόλιν, ἣ καλεῖται μὲν Οὐιοί, ἀπέχει δὲ τῆς Ῥώμης ἀμφὶ τοὺς ἑκατὸν σταδίους, [p. 231] κεῖται δ' ἐφ' ὑψηλοῦ σκοπέλου καὶ περιρρῶγος μέγεθος ἔχουσα ὅσον Ἀθῆναι. ἐποίησαντο δ' οἱ Οὐιεντανοὶ τοῦ πολέμου πρόφασιν τὴν τῆς Φιδήνης ἄλωσιν καὶ πρέσβεις ἀποστείλαντες ἐκέλευον Ῥωμαίοις ἐξάγειν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως τὴν φρουρὰν καὶ τὴν χώραν, ἣν κατεῖχον ἀφελόμενοι τοὺς Φιδηναίους, ἀποδιδόναι τοῖς ἐξ ἀρχῆς κυρίοις. ὥς δ' οὐκ ἔπειθον ἐλάσαντες πολλῇ στρατιᾷ πλησίον τῆς Φιδήνης ἐν ἀπόπτῳ τίθενται τὸν χάρακα. [4] προεγνωκῶς δὲ αὐτῶν τὴν ἔξοδον ὁ Ῥωμύλος ἐξεληλύθει τὴν κρατίστην δύναμιν ἔχων καὶ ἦν ἐν τῇ πόλει τῶν Φιδηναίων εὐτρεπής. ἐπεὶ δ' ἔτοιμα τὰ πρὸς τὸν ἀγῶνα ἦν, ἀμφότεροι προελθόντες εἰς τὸ πεδῖον ἐμάχοντο καὶ διέμειναν ἄχρι πολλῆς ὥρας ἐκθύμως ἀγωνιζόμενοι, τέως ἢ νύξ ἐπιλαβοῦσα διέκρινεν αὐτοὺς ἴσους κατὰ τὸν ἀγῶνα γενομένους. καὶ ταύτην μὲν τὴν μάχην οὕτως ἠγωνίσαντο:

οὗτοι συνέστησαν οἱ πόλεμοι Ῥωμύλῳ λόγου καὶ μνήμης ἄξιοι. τοῦ δὲ μηδὲν ἔτι τῶν πλησίον ἐθνῶν ὑπαγαγέσθαι ταχεῖα ἢ τελευτῇ τοῦ βίου συμβᾶσα ἔτι ἀκμάζοντι αὐτῷ τὰ πολέμια πράττειν ἐν αἰτίᾳ γενέσθαι ἔδοξε: περὶ ἧς πολλοὶ παραδεδόνται λόγοι καὶ διάφοροι. [7] ὁ μὲν δὴ κτίσας τὴν Ῥώμην καὶ πρῶτος ἀποδειχθεὶς ὑπ' αὐτῆς βασιλεὺς Ῥωμύλος τοιαύτης λέγεται τελευτῆς τυχεῖν, οὐδεμίαν ἐξ αὐτοῦ γενεὰν καταλιπών, ἐπτα μὲν ἔτη καὶ τριάκοντα βασιλεύσας, πεντηκοστὸν δὲ καὶ πέμπτον ἔτος ἔχων ἀπὸ γενεᾶς. νέος γὰρ διὰ παντᾶσιν ἔτυχε τῆς ἡγεμονίας ὀκτωκαίδεκαέτης ὢν, ὡς ἅπαντες ὁμολογοῦσιν οἱ τὰς περὶ αὐτοῦ συγγράψαντες ἱστορίας.

τῷ δ' ἐξῆς ἐνιαυτῷ βασιλεὺς μὲν οὐδεὶς ἀπεδείχθη Ῥωμαίων, ἀρχὴ δὲ τις, ἣν καλοῦσι μεσοβασιλείον, ἐπεμελεῖτο τῶν κοινῶν τοιόνδε τινα τρόπον ἀποδεικνυμένη: τῶν πατρικίων οἱ καταγραφέντες εἰς τὴν βουλὴν ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου διακόσιοι τὸν ἀριθμὸν [p. 236] ὄντες, ὥσπερ ἔφην, διενεμήθησαν εἰς δεκάδας: ἔπειτα διακληρωσάμενοι τοῖς λαλοῦσι δέκα πρῶτοις ἀπέδωκαν ἄρχειν τῆς πόλεως τὴν αὐτοκράτορα ἀρχήν. [2] ἐκεῖνοι δ' οὐχ ἅμα πάντες ἐβασίλευον, ἀλλ' ἐκ διαδοχῆς ἡμέρας πέντε ἕκαστος, ἐν αἷς τὰς τε ῥάβδους εἶχε καὶ τὰ λοιπὰ τῆς βασιλικῆς ἐξουσίας σύμβολα. παρεδίδου δ' ὁ πρῶτος ἄρξας τῷ δευτέρῳ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν κἀκεῖνος τῷ τρίτῳ καὶ τοῦτ' ἐγένετο μέχρι τοῦ τελευταίου. διεξελεύσεως δὲ τοῖς πρῶτοις δέκα βασιλεῦσι τῆς πεντηκονθημέρου προθεσμίας ἕτεροι δέκα τὴν ἀρχὴν παρελάμβανον καὶ παρ' ἑκείνων αὐθις ἄλλοι. [3] ἐπέι δ' ἔδοξε τῷ δήμῳ παῦσαι τὰς δεκαδαρχίας ἀχθομένῳ ταῖς μεταβολαῖς τῶν ἐξουσιῶν διὰ τὸ μήτε προαιρέσεις ἅπαντας ὁμοίας ἔχειν μήτε φύσεις, τότε δὴ συγκαλέσαντες εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸ πλῆθος οἱ βουλευταὶ κατὰ φυλάς τε καὶ φράτρας ἀπέδωκαν αὐτῷ περὶ τοῦ κόσμου τῆς πολιτείας σκοπεῖν, εἴτε βασιλεῖ βούλεται τὰ κοινὰ ἐπιτρέπειν εἴτε ἀρχαῖς ἐνιαυσίοις. [4] οὐ μὴν ὁ γε δῆμος ἐφ' ἑαυτῷ τὴν αἵρεσιν ἐποίησεν, ἀλλ' ἀπέδωκε τοῖς βουλευταῖς τὴν διάγνωσιν ὡς ἀγαπήσων ὅποτέραν ἂν ἐκείνοι δοκιμάσωσι τῶν πολιτειῶν: τοῖς δὲ βασιλικὴν μὲν ἐδόκει καταστήσασθαι πολιτείαν ἅπασι, περὶ δὲ τοῦ μέλλοντος ἄρξειν στάσις ἐνέπιπτεν ἐξ ὁποτέρας ἔσται τάξεως. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἐκ τῶν ἀρχαίων βουλευτῶν ὦντο δεῖν ἀποδειχθῆναι τὸν ἐπιτροπέυσοντα τὴν πόλιν, οἱ δ' ἐκ τῶν ὕστερον ἐπεισαχθέντων, οὕς νεωτέρους ἐκάλουν. [p. 237] ἐλκομένης δ' ἐπὶ πολὺ τῆς φιλονεικίας τελευτῶντες ἐπὶ τούτῳ συνέβησαν τῷ δικαίῳ, ὥστε дуεῖν θάτερον, ἢ τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους βουλευτὰς ἀποδείξει βασιλέα σφῶν μὲν αὐτῶν μηδένα, τῶν δ' ἄλλων ὃν ἂν ἐπιτηδειότατον εἶναι νομίσωσιν, ἢ τοὺς νεωτέρους τὸ αὐτὸ ποιῆσαι τοῦτο. δέχονται τὴν αἵρεσιν οἱ πρεσβύτεροι καὶ πόλλ' ἐπὶ σφῶν αὐτῶν βουλευσάμενοι τάδ' ἔγνωσαν: ἐπειδὴ τῆς ἡγεμονίας αὐτοὶ κατὰ τὰς συνθήκας ἀπηλαύνοντο μηδὲ τῶν ἐπεισελθόντων βουλευτῶν μηδενὶ προσθεῖναι τὴν ἀρχήν, ἀλλ' ἐπακτόν τινα ἔξωθεν ἄνδρα καὶ μηδ' ὁποτέροις προσθησόμενον, ὡς ἂν μάλιστα ἐξαίρεθει τὸ στασιάζον, [2] ἐξευρόντες ἀποδείξει βασιλέα. ταῦτα βουλευσάμενοι προὔχειρίσαντο ἄνδρα γένους μὲν τοῦ Σαβίνων, υἱὸν δὲ Πομπιλίου Πόμπωνος ἀνδρὸς ἐπιφανοῦς κατ' ὄνομα Νόμαν, χρή δὲ τὴν δευτέραν συλλαβὴν ἐκτείνοντας βαρυτονεῖν ἡλικίας τε τῆς φρονιμωτάτης ὄντα, τετταρακονταετίας γὰρ οὐ πολὺ ἀπέιχε, καὶ ἀξιώσει μορφῆς βασιλικόν. [3] ἦν δὲ αὐτοῦ καὶ κλέος μέγιστον οὐ παρὰ Κυρίταις μόνον, ἀλλὰ καὶ παρὰ τοῖς περιοίκις ἐπὶ σοφίᾳ. ὡς δὲ τοῦτ' ἔδοξεν αὐτοῖς συγκαλοῦσι τὸ πλῆθος εἰς ἐκκλησίαν, καὶ παρελθὼν ἐξ αὐτῶν ὁ τότε μεσοβασιλεὺς εἶπεν, ὅτι κοινῇ δόξαν ἅπασι τοῖς βουλευταῖς βασιλικὴν καταστήσασθαι πολιτείαν, κύριος [p. 238] γεγονώς αὐτὸς τῆς διαγνώσεως τοῦ παραληφόμενου τὴν ἀρχὴν βασιλέα τῆς πόλεως αἰρεῖται Νόμαν Πομπίλιον. καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο πρεσβευτὰς ἀποδείξας ἐκ τῶν πατρικίων ἀπέστειλε τοὺς παραληφόμενους τὸν ἄνδρα ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν ἐνιαυτῷ τρίτῳ τῆς ἐκκαιδεκάτης Ὀλυμπιάδος, ἦν ἐνίκα στάδιον Πυθαγόρας Λάκων.

μέχρι μὲν δὴ τούτων οὐδὲν ἀντειπεῖν ἔχω πρὸς τοὺς ἐκδεδωκότας τὴν περὶ τὸν ἄνδρα τοῦτον ἱστορίαν, ἐν δὲ τοῖς ἐξῆς ἀπορῶ τι ποτε χρή λέγειν. πολλοὶ μὲν γὰρ εἰσιν οἱ γράψαντες ὅτι Πυθαγόρου μαθητῆς ὁ Νόμας ἐγένετο καὶ καθ' ὃν χρόνον ὑπὸ τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως ἀπεδείχθη βασιλεὺς φιλοσοφῶν ἐν Κρότῳ διέτριβεν, ὁ δὲ χρόνος τῆς Πυθαγόρου ἡλικίας μάχεται πρὸς τὸν λόγον. [2] οὐ γὰρ ὀλίγοις ἔτεσιν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τέτταρσι γενεαῖς ὅλαις ὕστερος ἐγένετο Πυθαγόρας Νόμα, ὡς ἐκ τῶν κοινῶν παρειλήφαμεν ἱστορίων. ὁ μὲν γὰρ ἐπὶ τῆς ἐκκαιδεκάτης Ὀλυμπιάδος μεσοῦσης τὴν Ῥωμαίων βασιλείαν παρέλαβε, Πυθαγόρας δὲ μετὰ τὴν πεντηκοστὴν Ὀλυμπιάδα διέτριψεν ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ. ὑπὲρ τοῦ μὴ συμφωνεῖν τοὺς χρόνους ταῖς παραδεδομέναις ὑπὲρ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἱστορίαις, ὅτι καθ' ὃν χρόνον ὁ Νόμας ἐπὶ τὴν βασιλείαν ἐκαλεῖτο ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων οὕτω πόλις ἦν ἡ Κρότων· τέτταρσι γὰρ ὅλοις ὕστερον ἔτεσιν ἢ Νόμαν ἄρξαι Ῥωμαίων Μύσκελος αὐτὴν ἔκτισεν ἐνιαυτῷ τρίτῳ τῆς ἑπτακαιδεκάτης [p. 239] Ὀλυμπιάδος. οὔτε δὴ Πυθαγόρα τῷ Σαμίῳ συμφιλοσοφῆσαι τῷ μετὰ τέτταρας ἀκμάσαντι γενεᾷς δυνατὸς ἦν τὸν Νόμαν οὕτ' ἐν Κρότωνι διατρίβειν, ὅτ' αὐτὸν ἐκάλουν ἐπὶ τὴν βασιλείαν Ῥωμαῖοι, τῇ ^[4] μήπω τότε οὔσῃ πόλει. ἀλλ' εἰκόσιν οἱ τὰ ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ γράψαντες, εἰ χρή δόξαν ἰδίαν ἀποφῆνασθαι, δύο ταῦτα λαβόντες ὁμολογούμενα, τὴν τε Πυθαγόρου διατριβὴν τὴν γενομένην ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ καὶ τὴν Νόμα σοφίαν ὡμολόγηται γὰρ ὑπὸ πάντων ὁ ἀνὴρ γενέσθαι σοφός· ἐπισυνάψαι ταῦτα καὶ ποιῆσαι Πυθαγόρου μαθητὴν τὸν Νόμαν οὐκέτι τοὺς βίους αὐτῶν ἐξετάσαντες, εἰ κατὰ τοὺς αὐτοὺς ἤκμασαν ἀμφοτέροι χρόνους, ^[5] ὅπερ ἐγὼ πεποίηκα νῦν· εἰ μὴ τις ἄρα Πυθαγόραν ἕτερον ὑποθήσεται πρὸ τοῦ Σαμίου γεγομέναι παιδευτὴν σοφίας, ᾧ συνδιέτριψεν ὁ Νόμας. τοῦτο δ' οὐκ οἶδ' ὅπως ἂν ἀποδείξαι δύναίτο μηδενὸς τῶν ἀξιολόγων μήτε Ῥωμαίου μήθ' Ἑλλήνος, ὅσα κάμει εἰδέναι, παραδεδωκότος ἐν ἱστορίᾳ. ἀλλὰ περὶ μὲν τούτων ἄλλως.

ὁ δὲ Νόμας ἀφικομένων ὡς αὐτὸν τούτων τῶν καλούντων ἐπὶ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, τέως μὲν ἀντέλεγε καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ διέμεινεν ἀπομαχόμενος μὴ λαβεῖν τὴν ἀρχήν, ὡς δὲ οἱ τε ἀδελφοὶ προσέκειντο λιπαροῦντες καὶ τελευτῶν ὁ πατήρ οὐκ ἤξιον τηλικαύτην τιμὴν διδομένην ἀπωθεῖσθαι, συνέγνω γενέσθαι βασιλεὺς· ^[2] τοῖς δὲ Ῥωμαίοις πυθομένοις ταῦτα παρὰ τῶν [p. 240] πρεσβευτῶν, πρὶν ὅφει τὸν ἄνδρα ἰδεῖν πολὺς αὐτοῦ παρέστη πόθος, ἱκανὸν ἡγουμένοις τεκμήριον εἶναι τῆς σοφίας, εἰ τῶν ἄλλων ὑπὲρ τὸ μέτριον ἐκτετιμηκότων βασιλείαν καὶ τὸν εὐδαίμονα βίον ἐν ταύτῃ πιθεμένων μόνος ἐκεῖνος ὡς φαύλου τινὸς καὶ οὐκ ἀξίου σπουδῆς πράγματος καταφρονεῖ, παραγενομένῳ τε ὑπὴντων ἔτι καθ' ὁδὸν ὄντι σὺν ἐπαίνῳ πολλῷ καὶ ἀσπασμοῖς καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις τιμαῖς παραπέμποντες εἰς τὴν πόλιν. ^[3] ἐκκλησίας δὲ μετὰ τοῦτο συναχθείσας, ἐν ᾗ διήνεγκαν ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ τὰς ψήφους αἱ φυλαὶ κατὰ φράτρας καὶ τῶν πατρικίων ἐπικυρωσάντων τὰ δόξαντα τῷ πλήθει καὶ τελευταῖον ἔτι τῶν ὀρνιθοσκοπῶν αἴσια τὰ παρὰ τοῦ δαιμονίου σημεῖα ἀποφηνάντων παραλαμβάνει τὴν ἀρχήν. ^[4] τοῦτον τὸν ἄνδρα Ῥωμαῖοί φασι στρατείαν μηδεμίαν ποιήσασθαι, θεοσεβῇ δὲ καὶ δίκαιον γενόμενον ἐν εἰρήνῃ πάντα τὸν τῆς ἀρχῆς χρόνον διατελέσαι καὶ τὴν πόλιν ἄριστα πολιτευομένην παρασχεῖν, λόγους τε ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ πολλοὺς καὶ θαυμαστοὺς λέγουσιν ἀναφέροντες τὴν ἀνθρωπίνην σοφίαν εἰς θεῶν ὑποθήκας. ^[5] νύμφην γὰρ τινα μυθολογοῦσιν Ἥγερίαν φοιτᾶν πρὸς αὐτὸν ἐκάστοτε διδάσκουσιν τὴν βασιλικὴν σοφίαν, ἕτεροι δὲ οὐ νύμφην, ἀλλὰ τῶν Μουσῶν μίαν. καὶ τοῦτο φασι γενέσθαι πᾶσι φανερόν. ἀπιστούντων γὰρ, ὡς εἴκοι, τῶν ἀνθρώπων κατ' ἀρχὰς καὶ πεπλάσθαι νομιζόντων τὸν περὶ τῆς θεᾶς λόγον, βουλόμενον [p. 241] αὐτὸν ἐπιδειξάσθαι τοῖς ἀπιστοῦσιν ἐναργές τι μήνυμα τῆς πρὸς τὴν δαίμονα ὁμιλίας καὶ διδαχθέντα ὑπ' αὐτῆς ποιῆσαι τάδε· ^[6] καλέσαντα Ῥωμαίων πολλοὺς καὶ ἀγαθοὺς εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν, ἐν ἣ διαιτῶμενος ἐτύγχανεν, ἔπειτα δεῖξαντα τοῖς ἐλθοῦσι τὰ ἔνδον τῇ τε ἄλλῃ κατασκευῇ φαύλως κεχορηγημένα καὶ δὴ καὶ τῶν εἰς ἐστίασιν ὀχλικὴν ἐπιτηδεῖων ἄπορα, τότε μὲν ἀπαλλάττεσθαι κελεύειν, εἰς ἐσπέραν δὲ [7] καλεῖν αὐτοὺς ἐπὶ τὸ δεῖπνον: παραγενομένοις δὲ κατὰ τὴν ἀποδειχθεῖσαν ὥραν ἐπιδεῖξαι στρωμνάς τε πολυτελεῖς καὶ τραπέζας ἐκπωμάτων γεμούσας πολλῶν καὶ καλῶν ἐστίασιν τε αὐτοῖς παραθεῖναι κατακλιθεῖσιν ἀπάσης ἐδωδῆς, ἣν οὐδ' ἂν ἐκ πολλοῦ πάνυ χρόνου παρασκευάσασθαι τινι τῶν τότε ἀνθρώπων ῥάδιον ἦν. τοῖς δὲ Ῥωμαίοις κατάπληξιν τε πρὸς ἕκαστον τῶν ὀρωμένων ὑπελθεῖν καὶ δόξαν ἐξ ἐκείνου τοῦ χρόνου παραστῆναι βέβαιον, ὅτι θεὰ τις αὐτῷ συνῆν.

οἱ δὲ τὰ μυθώδη πάντα περιαιροῦντες ἐκ τῆς ἱστορίας πεπλάσθαι φασὶν ὑπὸ τοῦ Νόμα τὸν περὶ τῆς Ἥγερίας λόγον, ἵνα ῥῆον αὐτῷ προσέχωσιν οἱ τὰ θεῖα δεδιότες καὶ προθύμως δέχωνται τοὺς ὑπ' αὐτοῦ πιθεμένους νόμους, ὡς παρὰ θεῶν κομιζομένους. [2] λαβεῖν δὲ αὐτὸν τὴν τούτων μίμησιν ἀποφαίνουσιν ἐκ τῶν Ἑλληνικῶν παραδειγμάτων ζηλωτὴν γενόμενον τῆς τε Μίνω τοῦ Κρητὸς καὶ τῆς Λυκούργου τοῦ Λακεδαιμονίου σοφίας: ὧν ὁ μὲν ὁμιλητὴς [p. 242] ἔφη γενέσθαι τοῦ Διὸς καὶ φοιτῶν εἰς τὸ Δικταῖον ὄρος, ἐν ᾧ τραφεῖναι τὸν Δία μυθολογοῦσιν οἱ Κρήτες ὑπὸ τῶν Κουρήτων νεογνὸν ὄντα, κατέβαιναν εἰς τὸ ἱερὸν ἄντρον καὶ τοὺς νόμους ἐκεῖ συντιθεῖς ἐκόμιζεν, οὓς ἀπέφαινε παρὰ τοῦ Διὸς λαμβάνειν: ὁ δὲ Λυκοῦργος εἰς Δελφοὺς ἀφικνούμενος ὑπὸ τοῦ [3] Ἀπόλλωνος ἔφη διδάσκεσθαι τὴν νομοθεσίαν. τὸ μὲν οὖν ἀκριβολογεῖσθαι περὶ τῶν μυθικῶν ἱστορημάτων καὶ μάλιστα τῶν εἰς θεοὺς ἀναφερομένων μακρῶν λόγων δεόμενον ὁρῶν ἐάσω, ἃ δὲ μοι δοκοῦσιν ἀγαθὰ Ῥωμαῖοι λαβεῖν ἐκ τῆς ἐκείνου τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἀρχῆς, ὡς ἐκ τῶν ἐπιχωρίων ἔμαθον ἱστορίων ἀφηγήσομαι, προειπὼν ἐν οἷαις ἐτύγχανε ταραχαῖς τὰ πράγματα τῆς πόλεως ὄντα, πρὶν ἐκεῖνον ἐπὶ τὴν βασιλείαν παρελθεῖν.

μετὰ τὴν Ῥωμύλου τελευτὴν ἡ βουλὴ τῶν κοινῶν γενομένη κυρία καὶ χρόνον ἐνιαύσιον, ὥσπερ ἔφην, κατασχοῦσα τὴν δυναστείαν διαφέρεσθαι καὶ στασιάζειν αὐτὴ πρὸς ἑαυτὴν ἤρξατο περὶ τοῦ πλείονος τε καὶ ἴσου. ὅσον μὲν γὰρ αὐτῆς μέρος Ἀλβανῶν ἦν ἀπὸ τῶν ἅμα Ῥωμύλῳ τὴν ἀποικίαν στειλάντων, γνώμης τε ἄρχειν ἡξίου καὶ τιμῶν τὰς μεγίστας λαμβάνειν καὶ θεραπεύεσθαι πρὸς τῶν [2] ἐπὶ πλῶν: οἱ δ' ὕστερον εἰς τοὺς πατρικίους καταγραφέντες ἐκ τῶν ἐποίκων οὐδεμιᾶς ὥντο δεῖν ἀπελάνεσθαι τιμῆς οὐδὲ μειονεκτεῖν τῶν ἐτέρων, μάλιστα δ' ὅσοι τοῦ Σαβίνων ἐτύγχανον ὄντες γένους καὶ κατὰ τὰς συνθήκας τὰς γενομένας Ῥωμύλῳ πρὸς [p. 243] Τάτιον ἐπὶ τοῖς ἴσοις γενομένοι μετεληφέναι τῆς πόλεως παρὰ τῶν ἀρχαίων οἰκητόρων καὶ τὴν αὐτὴν χάριν ἐκείνοις αὐτοὶ δεδωκέναι ἐδόκουν. [3] ἅμα δὲ τῷ τὴν βουλὴν διαστῆναι καὶ τὸ τῶν πελατῶν πλῆθος διχῇ μερισθὲν ἐκατέρᾳ συνέβαινε τῶν στάσεων. ἦν δὲ τι τοῦ δημοτικοῦ μέρος οὐκ ὀλίγον ἐκ τῶν νεωστὶ προσεληλυθότων τῇ πολιτείᾳ, ὃ διὰ τὸ μηδενὸς συνάρασθαι τῷ Ῥωμύλῳ πολέμου παρημελημένον ὑπὸ τοῦ ἡγεμόνος οὔτε γῆς εἰλήφει μοῖραν οὔτε ὠφελείας. τοῦτο ἀνέστιον καὶ πτωχὸν ἀλώμενον ἐχθρόν ἐκ τοῦ ἀναγκαίου τοῖς κρείττοσιν ἦν καὶ νεωτερίζειν ἐτοιμότατον. [4] Ἐν τοιοῦτῳ δὴ κλύδωνι τὰ πράγματα τῆς πόλεως σαλεύοντα ὁ Νόμας καταλαβὼν, πρῶτον μὲν τοὺς ἀπόρους τῶν δημοτῶν ἀνέλαβε διανείμας αὐτοῖς ἀφ' ἧς Ῥωμύλος ἐκέκτητο χώρας καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς δημοσίας μοῖραν τινα ὀλίγην: ἔπειτα τοὺς πατρικίους οὐδὲν μὲν ἀφελόμενος ὧν οἱ κτίσαντες τὴν πόλιν εὕροντο, τοῖς δ' ἐποίκοις ἑτέρας τινὰς ἀποδοὺς τιμὰς, ἔπαυσε διαφερομένους. [5] Ἄρμοςάμενος δὲ τὸ πλῆθος ἅπαν ὥσπερ ὄργανον πρὸς ἓνα τὸν τοῦ κοινῆ συμφέροντος λογισμὸν καὶ τῆς πόλεως τὸν περίβολον αὐξήσας τῷ Κυρινεῖω λόφῳ 'τέως γὰρ ἔτι ἀτειχιστος ἦν' τότε τῶν ἄλλων πολιτευμάτων ἥπτετο [p. 244] δύο ταῦτα πραγματευόμενος, οἷς κοσμηθεῖσαν ὑπελάμβανεν ἂν τὴν πόλιν εὐδαίμονα γενησεσθαι καὶ μεγάλην: εὐσέβειαν μὲν πρῶτον, διδάσκων τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ὅτι παντὸς ἀγαθοῦ θεοὶ δοτῆρές εἰσι τῇ θνητῇ φύσει καὶ φύλακες, ἔπειτα δικαιοσύνην, δι' ἣν καὶ τὰ παρὰ τῶν θεῶν ἀπέφαινε ἀγαθὰ καλὰς τὰς ἀπολαύσεις φέροντα τοῖς κτησαμένοις.

ἔξ ὧν δὲ διεπράξατο νόμων τε καὶ πολιτευμάτων ἑκάτερον τούτων εἰς μεγάλην ἐπίδοσιν προελθεῖν ἅπαντα μὲν οὐκ ἀξιῷ γράφειν, τὸ μῆκος ὑφορώμενος τοῦ λόγου καὶ ἅμα οὐδ' ἀναγκαίαν ὀρῶν τὴν ἀναγραφὴν αὐτῶν Ἑλληνικαῖς ἱστορίαις, αὐτὰ δὲ τὰ κυριώτατα καὶ φανεράν δυνάμενα ποιῆσαι πᾶσαν τὴν προαίρεσιν τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἐπὶ κεφαλαίων ἐρῶ, τὴν ἀρχὴν ἀπὸ τῆς περὶ τὰ θεῖα διακοσμήσεως ποιησάμενος. [2] Ὅσα μὲν οὖν ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου ταχθέντα ἐν ἐθισμοῖς τε καὶ νόμοις παρέλαβεν, ἀπὸ τοῦ κρατίστου τετάχθαι πάντα ἡγησάμενος εἶα κατὰ χώραν μένειν, ὅσα δ' ὑπ' ἐκείνου παραλελείφθαι ἐδόκει, ταῦτα προσετίθει πολλὰ μὲν ἀποδεικνύς τεμένη τοῖς μήπω τιμῶν τυγχάνουσι θεοῖς, πολλοὺς δὲ βωμοὺς καὶ ναοὺς ἰδρυόμενος ἑορτάς τε ἐκάστῳ αὐτῶν ἀπονέμων καὶ τοὺς ἐπιμελησομένους αὐτῶν ἱερεῖς καθιστὰς ἀγνείας τε καὶ θρησκείας καὶ καθαρμοὺς καὶ τὰς ἄλλας θεραπείας καὶ τιμὰς πάνυ πολλὰς νομοθετῶν, ὅσας οὐθ' Ἑλληνὶς οὔτε βάρβαρος ἔχει πόλις οὐδ' αἱ [3] μέγιστον ἐπ' εὐσεβείᾳ φρονοῦσαι ποτε: αὐτόν τε τὸν Ῥωμύλον ὡς κρεῖττον α γενόμενον ἢ κατὰ τὴν θνητὴν [p. 245] φύσιν ἱεροῦ κατασκευῆ καὶ θυσίαις διετησίαις ἔταξε Κυρῖνον ἐπονομαζόμενον γεραιεσθαι. ἔτι γὰρ ἀγνοούντων τὸν ἀφανισμόν αὐτοῦ Ῥωμαίων εἴτε κατὰ δαίμονος πρόνοιαν εἴτ' ἐξ ἐπιβουλῆς ἀνθρωπίνης ἐγένετο, παρελθὼν τις εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν Ἰούλιος ὄνομα τῶν ἀπ' Ἀσκανίου γεωργικὸς ἀνὴρ καὶ τὸν βίον ἀνεπιλήπτος, οἷος μηδὲν ἂν ψεύσασθαι κέρδους ἕνεκα οἰκείου, ἔφη παραγινόμενος ἐξ ἀγροῦ Ῥωμύλον ἰδεῖν ἀπὸντα ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἔχοντα τὰ ὄπλα, καὶ ἐπειδὴ ἐγγὺς ἐγένετο ἀκοῦσαι ταῦτα αὐτοῦ λέγοντος: [4] Ἀγγέλλε Ῥωμαίοις Ἰούλιε τὰ παρ' ἐμοῦ, ὅτι με ὁ λαχὼν ὅτ' ἐγενόμην δαίμων εἰς θεοὺς ἄγεται τὸν θνητὸν ἐκκληρώσαντα αἰῶνα: εἰμὶ δὲ Κυρῖνος, περιλαβὼν δὲ ἅπασαν τὴν περὶ τὰ θεῖα νομοθεσίαν γραφαῖς διεῖλεν εἰς ὀκτὼ μοῖρας, ὅσαι τῶν ἱερῶν ἦσαν αἱ συμμορίαι.

ἀπέδωκε δὲ μίαν μὲν ἱερουργιῶν διάταξιν τοῖς τριάκοντα κουρίωσιν, οὓς ἔφην τὰ κοινὰ [2] θύειν ὑπὲρ τῶν φρατριῶν ἱερά. τὴν δὲ δευτέραν τοῖς καλουμένοις ὑπὸ μὲν Ἑλλήνων στεφανηφόροις, ὑπὸ δὲ Ῥωμαίων φλάμοσιν, οὓς ἐπὶ τῆς φορήσεως τῶν πῖλων τε καὶ στεμμάτων, ἃ καὶ νῦν ἔτι φοροῦσι φλάμα καλοῦντες, οὕτω προσαγορεύουσι. [3] τὴν δὲ τρίτην τοῖς ἡγεμόσι τῶν κελερίων, οὓς ἔφην ἱππεῖς τε καὶ πεζοὺς στρατευομένους φύλακας ἀποδείκνυσθαι τῶν βασιλέων, καὶ γὰρ οὗτοι τεταγμένους τινὰς [p. 246] [4] ἱεουργίας ἐπετέλουν. τὴν δὲ τετάρτην τοῖς ἐξηγουμένοις τὰ θεόπεμπτα σημεῖα καὶ διαιροῦσι τίνων ἐστὶ μηνύματα πραγμάτων ἰδίᾳ τε καὶ δημοσίᾳ, οὓς ἀφ' ἑνὸς εἰδους τῶν θεωρημάτων τῆς τέχνης Ῥωμαῖοι καλοῦσιν αὐγορας, ἡμεῖς δ' ἂν εἴπομεν οἰωνοπόλους, ἀπάσης τῆς μαντικῆς παρ' αὐτοῖς ὄντας ἐπιστήμονας τῆς τε περὶ τὰ οὐράνια καὶ τὰ μετάρσια καὶ [5] τὰ ἐπίγεια. τὴν δὲ πέμπτην ταῖς φυλαττοῦσαις τὸ ἱερὸν πῦρ παρθένους, αἱ καλοῦνται πρὸς αὐτῶν ἐπὶ τῆς θεᾶς ἥν θεραπεύουσιν ἐστιάδες, αὐτὸς πρῶτος ἱερὸν ἰδρυσάμενος Ῥωμαίοις Ἑστίας καὶ παρθένους ἀποδειξας αὐτῇ θυηπόλους: ὑπὲρ ὧν ὀλίγα καὶ αὐτὰ τἀναγκαιότατα τῆς ὑποθέσεως ἀπαιτοῦσης ἀναγκαῖον εἰπεῖν. ἔστι γὰρ ἃ καὶ ζητήσεως ἥξιωται καὶ παρὰ πολλοῖς τῶν Ῥωμαϊκῶν συγγραφέων κατὰ τὸν τόπον τοῦτον, ὑπὲρ ὧν οἱ τὰς αἰτίας οὐκ ἐξητακότες ἐπιμελῶς εἰκαιότερας ἐξήνεγκαν τὰς γραφάς.

τὴν γοῦν ἰδρυσιν τοῦ ἱεροῦ Ῥωμύλῳ τινὲς ἀναπιθέασι τῶν ἀμηχάνων νομίζοντες εἶναι πόλεως οἰκισομένης ὑπ' ἀνδρὸς ἐμπείρου μαντικῆς μὴ κατασκευασθῆναι πρῶτον ἐστίαν κοινὴν τῆς πόλεως, καὶ ταῦτα ἐν Ἀλβα τοῦ κτίστου τραφέντος, ἐν ᾗ παλαιὸν ἐξ οὗ τὸ τῆς θεᾶς ταύτης ἱερὸν ἰδρυμένον ἦν, καὶ τῆς μητρὸς αὐτοῦ θυηπόλου γενομένης τῇ [p. 247] θεῷ: διαιρούμενοί τε διχῇ τὰ ἱερὰ καὶ τὰ μὲν αὐτῶν κοινὰ ποιοῦντες καὶ πολιτικά, τὰ δὲ ἴδια καὶ συγγενικά, δι' ἅμφω ταῦτά φασι πολλὴν ἀνάγκην εἶναι τῷ Ῥωμύλῳ ταύτην σέβειν τὴν θεόν. [2] οὕτε γὰρ ἀναγκαιότερον ἀνθρώποις οὐδὲν εἶναι τῆς κοινῆς ἐστίας οὕτε τῷ Ῥωμύλῳ κατὰ διαδοχὴν γένους οὐδὲν οἰκειότερον προγόνων μὲν ὑπάρχοντι τῶν ἐξ Ἰλίου τὰ τῆς θεᾶς ἱερὰ μετενεγκαμένων, μητρὸς δὲ ἱερείας. εἰοικασί δ' οἱ διὰ ταῦτα τὴν ἰδρυσιν τοῦ ἱεροῦ Ῥωμύλῳ μᾶλλον ἀναπιθέντες ἢ Νόμῳ, τὸ μὲν κοινὸν ὀρθῶς λέγειν, ὅτι πόλεως οἰκισομένης ἐστίαν πρῶτον ἔδει ἰδρυθῆναι καὶ ταῦτα ὑπ' ἀνδρὸς οὐκ ἀπείρου τῆς περὶ τὰ θεῖα σοφίας, τὰ δὲ κατὰ μέρος ὑπὲρ τε τῆς κατασκευῆς τοῦ νῦν ὄντος ἱεροῦ καὶ τῶν θεραπευουσῶν τὴν θεὸν παρθένων ἡγνοηκέναι. [3] οὕτε γὰρ τὸ χωρίον τοῦτο ἐν ᾧ τὸ ἱερὸν φυλάττεται πῦρ Ῥωμύλος ἦν ὁ καθιερώσας τῇ θεῷ μέγα δὲ τοῦτου τεκμήριον ὅτι τῆς τετραγώνου καλουμένης Ῥώμης ἦν ἐκεῖνος ἐτείχισεν ἐκτὸς ἐστίν, ἐστίας δὲ κοινῆς ἱερὸν ἐν τῷ κρατίστῳ μάλιστα καθιδρύνονται τῆς πόλεως ἅπαντες, ἔξω δὲ τοῦ τείχους οὐδεῖς· οὕτε διὰ παρθένων τὰς θεραπείας κατεστήσατο τῇ θεῷ μεμνημένος ὡς ἐμοὶ δοκεῖ τοῦ περὶ τὴν μητέρα πάθους, ἧ συνέβη θεραπευοῦσιν τὴν θεὸν τὴν παρθενίαν ἀποβαλεῖν, ὡς οὐχ ἱκανὸς ἐσόμενος, ἐάν τινα τῶν θυηπόλων εὖρη διεφθαρμένην, κατὰ τοὺς πατρίους τιμωρήσασθαι νόμους διὰ τὴν ἐπὶ ταῖς οἰκειαῖς συμφοραῖς ἀνάμνησιν. [4] διὰ ταῦτα μὲν δὴ κοινὸν [p. 248] ἱερὸν οὐ κατεσκευάσατο τῆς Ἑστίας οὐδὲ ἱερείας ἔταξεν αὐτῇ παρθένους, ἐν ἐκάστη δὲ τῶν τριάκοντα φρατριῶν ἰδρυσάμενος ἐστίαν, ἐφ' ἧς ἔθνον οἱ φρατριεῖς, θυηπόλους αὐτῶν ἐποίησε τοὺς τῶν κουριῶν ἡγεμόνας τὰ παρ' Ἑλλήσιν ἔθνη μιμησάμενος, ἃ παρὰ ταῖς ἀρχαιοτάταις τῶν πόλεων ἔτι γίνεσθαι. τὰ γὰρ τοι καλούμενα

νόμας δὲ τὴν ἀρχὴν παραλαβὼν τὰς μὲν ἰδίας οὐκ ἐκίνησε τῶν φρατριῶν ἑστίας, κοινὴν δὲ κατεστήσατο πάντων μίαν ἐν τῷ μεταξὺ τοῦ τε Καπιτωλίου καὶ τοῦ Παλατίου χωρίῳ, συμπεπολισμένων ἤδη τῶν λόφων ἐνὶ περιβόλῳ καὶ μέσης ἀμφοῖν οὔσης τῆς ἀγορᾶς, ἐν ἣ κατεσκευάσται τὸ ἱερόν, τὴν τε φυλακὴν τῶν ἱερῶν κατὰ τὸν πατριὸν τῶν Λατίνων νόμον διὰ παρθένων ἐνομοθέτησε γίνεσθαι: [2] ἔχει δὲ τινὰς ἀπορίας καὶ τὸ φυλαττόμενον ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ τί δήποτε ἐστὶ καὶ διὰ τί πρόσκειται παρθένοις. τινὲς μὲν οὖν οὐδὲν ἔξω τοῦ φανεροῦ πυρὸς εἶναι φασὶ τὸ τηρούμενον, τὴν δὲ φυλακὴν αὐτοῦ παρθένοις ἀνακεῖσθαι μᾶλλον ἢ ἀνδράσι ποιοῦνται κατὰ τὸ εἶκος, ὅτι πῦρ μὲν ἀμίαντον, παρθένος δ' ἄφθαρτον, τῷ δ' ἀγνωστάτῳ τῶν θείων τὸν καθαρῶτατον τῶν θνητῶν φίλον. [3] Ἑστία δ' ἀνακεῖσθαι τὸ πῦρ νομίζουσιν, ὅτι γῆ τε οὔσα ἢ θεὸς καὶ τὸν μέσον κατέχουσα [p. 249] τοῦ κόσμου τόπον τὰς ἀνάψεις τοῦ μεταρσίου ποιεῖται πυρὸς ἀφ' ἑαυτῆς. εἰσὶ δὲ τινες οἱ φασιν ἔξω τοῦ πυρὸς ἀπόρρητα τοῖς πολλοῖς ἱερὰ κεῖσθαι τινὰ ἐν τῷ τεμένει τῆς θεᾶς, ὧν οἱ τε ἱεροφάνται τὴν γνῶσιν ἔχουσι καὶ αἱ παρθένοι, τεκμήριον οὐ μικρὸν παρεχόμενοι τοῦ λόγου τὸ συμβὰν περὶ τὴν ἔμπρησιν τοῦ ἱεροῦ κατὰ τὸν Φοινικικὸν πόλεμον τὸν πρῶτον συστάντα Ῥωμαῖοις πρὸς Καρχηδονίους περὶ Σικελίας. [4] ἐμπρησθέντος γὰρ τοῦ τεμένους καὶ τῶν παρθένων φευγουσῶν ἐκ τοῦ πυρὸς τῶν ἱεροφαντῶν τις Λεύκιος Καικίλιος ὁ καλούμενος Μέτελλος ἀνὴρ ὑπατικός, ὁ τὸν ἀοίδιμον ἐκ Σικελίας ἀπὸ Καρχηδονίων καταγαγὼν ὀκτὼ καὶ τριάκοντα καὶ ἑκατὸν ἐλεφάντων θρίαμβον, ὑπεριδὼν τῆς ἰδίας ἀσφαλείας τοῦ κοινῇ συμφέροντος ἔνεκα παρεκινδύνευσεν εἰς τὰ καιόμενα βιάσασθαι καὶ τὰ καταλειφθέντα ὑπὸ τῶν παρθένων ἀρπάσας ἱερὰ διέσωσεν ἐκ τοῦ πυρός: ἐφ' ᾧ τιμὰς παρὰ τῆς πόλεως ἐξηνέγκατο μεγάλας, ὥς ἢ τῆς εἰκόνης αὐτοῦ τῆς ἐν Καπιτωλίῳ κειμένης ἐπιγραφὴ μαρτυρεῖ. [5] τοῦτο δὴ λαβόντες ὁμολογούμενον ἐπισυνάπτουσιν αὐτοὶ στοχασμούς τινὰς ἰδίους, οἱ μὲν ἐκ τῶν ἐν Σαμοθράκῃ λέγοντες ἱερῶν μοῖραν εἶναι τινὰ φυλαττομένην τὴν ἐνθάδε, Δαρδάνου μὲν εἰς τὴν ὑφ' ἑαυτοῦ κτισθεῖσαν πόλιν ἐκ τῆς νήσου τὰ ἱερὰ μετενεγκαμένου, [p. 250] Αἰνείου δὲ, ὅτ' ἔφυγεν ἐκ τῆς Τρωάδος ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις καὶ ταῦτα κομίσαντος εἰς Ἰταλίαν, οἱ δὲ τὸ διοπετὲς Παλλάδιον ἀποφαίνοντες εἶναι τὸ παρ' Ἰλίουσιν γινόμενον, ὥς Αἰνείου κομίσαντος αὐτὸ δι' ἐμπειρίαν, Ἀχαιῶν δὲ τὸ μῆγμα αὐτοῦ λαβόντων κλοπῇ: περὶ οὗ πολλοὶ σφόδρα εἴρηνται ποιηταῖς τε καὶ συγγραφεῦσι λόγοι. [6] ἐγὼ δὲ τὸ μὲν εἶναι τινὰ τοῖς πολλοῖς ἄδηλα ἱερὰ φυλαττόμενα ὑπὸ τῶν παρθένων καὶ οὐ τὸ πῦρ μόνον ἐκ πολλῶν πάνυ καταλαμβάνομαι, τίνα δὲ ταῦτ' ἔστιν οὐκ ἀξιῶ πολυπραγμονεῖν οὔτ' ἐμαυτὸν οὔτε ἄλλον οὐδένα τῶν βουλομένων τὰ πρὸς θεοὺς ὅσια τηρεῖν.

αἱ δὲ θεραπεύουσαι τὴν θεὸν παρθένοι τέτταρες μὲν ἦσαν κατ' ἀρχὰς τῶν βασιλέων αὐτὰς αἰρουμένων ἐφ' οἷς κατεστήσατο δικαίους ὁ Νόμας, ὕστερον δὲ διὰ πλῆθος τῶν ἱερουργιῶν ἅς ἐπιτελοῦσιν ἔξ γενόμεναι μέχρι τοῦ καθ' ἡμᾶς διαμένονσι χρόνου δίαταιν ἔχουσαι παρὰ τῇ θεῷ, ἐνθα δι' ἡμέρας μὲν

Ἄ δὲ μέλλω νῦν λέγειν ἐπιμελῇ τε αὐτὴν ἀπέδωκε τῶν ἀναγκαιῶν καὶ τῶν ἀγαθῶν ἐργάτιν. ἐνθυμούμενος γὰρ ὁ ἀνὴρ, ὅτι πόλιν τὴν μέλλουσαν ἀγαπήσειν τὰ δίκαια καὶ μενεῖν ἐν τῷ σώφρονι βίῳ τῆς ἀναγκαιῶν δεῖ χορηγίας εὐπορεῖν, διεῖλε τὴν χώραν ἅπασαν εἰς τοὺς καλουμένους πάγους καὶ κατέστησεν ἑφ' ἐκάστου τῶν πάγων ἄρχοντα ἐπίσκοπόν τε καὶ περίπολον τῆς ἰδίας μοίρας. [2] οὗτοι γὰρ περιόντες θαμινὰ τοὺς εὖ τε καὶ κακῶς εἰργασμένους τῶν ἀγρῶν ἀπεγράφοντο καὶ πρὸς τὸν βασιλέα ἀπέφαινον, ὃ δὲ τοὺς μὲν ἐπιμελεῖς γεωργοὺς ἐπαίνοισ τε καὶ φιλανθρωπίαις ἀνελάμβανε, τοὺς δὲ ἀργοὺς γεωργοὺς ὀνειδίζων τε καὶ ζημιῶν ἐπὶ τὸ θεραπεύειν ἄμεινον τὴν γῆν προὔτρεπετο. τοιγάρτοι πολέμων τε ἀπηλλαγμένοι καὶ τῶν κατὰ πόλιν πραγμάτων σχολὴν πολλὴν ἄγοντες ἀργίας τε καὶ βλακειας σὺν αἰσχύνῃ [p. 266] τίνοντες δικας αὐτουργοὶ πάντες ἐγίνοντο καὶ τὸν ἐκ γῆς πλοῦτον ἀπάντων ὄντα πλούτων δικαιοτάτον τῆς στρατιωτικῆς καὶ οὐκ ἐχούσης τὸ βέβαιον εὐπορίας γλυκύτερον ἐτίθεντο. [3] τῷ δὲ Νόμῳ περιῆν ἐκ τούτων φιλεῖσθαι μὲν ὑπὸ τῶν ἀρχομένων, ζηλοῦσθαι δ' ὑπὸ τῶν περιοίκων, μνημονεύεσθαι δ' ὑπὸ τῶν ἐπιγινομένων: δι' ὧν οὐτε στάσις ἐμφύλιος τὴν πολιτικὴν ἔλυσεν ὁμόνοιαν, οὐτε πόλεμος ἄλλοεθνῆς ἐκ τῶν κρατίστων καὶ θαυμασιωτάτων τὴν πόλιν ἐπιτηδευμάτων ἐκίνησε. τοσοῦτον γὰρ ἀπέσχον οἱ περιοικοὶ τὴν ἀπόλεμον ἡσυχίαν Ῥωμαίων ἀφορμὴν τῆς κατ' αὐτῶν ἐπιθέσεως ὑπολαβεῖν, ὥστε καὶ εἴ τις αὐτοῖς πρὸς ἀλλήλους συνέστη πόλεμος διαλλακτῆρας ἐποιοῦντο Ῥωμαίους καὶ ἐπὶ διαιτητῇ Νόμῳ [4] τὰς ἐχθρας διαλύειν ἠξίου. τοῦτον οὖν οὐκ ἂν αἰσχυνθεῖην ἐγὼ τὸν ἄνδρα τῶν ἐπ' εὐδαιμονίᾳ διαβοηθέντων ἐν τοῖς πρώτοις καταριθμεῖν. γένους τε γὰρ ἔφυ βασιλείου καὶ μορφῆς ἀπέλαυσε βασιλικῆς παιδείαν τε οὐ τὴν περὶ λόγους ἄχρηστον ἥσκησεν, ἀλλ' ἐξ ἧς εὐσεβεῖν ἔμαθε καὶ τὰς ἄλλας ἐπιτηδεύειν ἀρετάς. [5] ἡγεμονίαν δὲ τὴν Ῥωμαίων παραλαβεῖν ἠξιώθη νέος ὢν κατὰ κλέος ἀρετῆς ὑπ' αὐτῶν ἐπικλητός ἀχθεὶς καὶ διετέλεσε πειθόμενοις ἅπαντα τὸν βίον τοῖς ἀρχομένοις χρώμενος: ἡλικίας δ' ἐπὶ μήκιστον [p. 267] ἤλασεν ὀλόκληρος οὐδὲν ὑπὸ τῆς τύχης κακῶθεις καὶ θανάτων τὸν ῥᾶστον ἐτελεύτησεν ὑπὸ γῆρας μαρανθείς, ὁμοίου παραμείναντος αὐτῷ τοῦ συγκληρωθέντος ἐξ ἀρχῆς δαίμονος ἕως ἐξ ἀνθρώπων ἠφανίσθη, βιώσας μὲν ὑπὲρ ὀγδοήκοντα ἔτη, βασιλεύσας δὲ τρία καὶ τετταράκοντα, γενεὰν δὲ καταλιπών, ὥς μὲν οἱ πλείους γράφουσιν, υἱοὺς τέτταρας καὶ θυγατέρα μίαν, ὧν ἔτι σώζεται τὰ γένη, ὥς δὲ Γέλλιος Γναῖος ἱστορεῖ θυγατέρα μόνην, ἐξ ἧς ἐγένετο Ἄγκος Μάρκιος ὁ τρίτος ἀπ' ἐκείνου γενόμενος Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς. τελευτήσαντος δὲ Πομπιλίου γενομένη πάλιν: ἡ βουλὴ τῶν κοινῶν κυρία μένειν ἔγνω ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς πολιτείας, οὐδὲ τοῦ δήμου γνώμην λαβόντος ἑτέραν, καὶ καθίστησιν ἐκ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων τοὺς ἄρξοντας τὴν μεσοβασιλειον ἀρχὴν εἰς ὠρισμένον τινὰ ἡμερῶν ἀριθμόν, ὑφ' ὧν ἀποδείκνυται βασιλεὺς, ὃν ἅπας ὁ δῆμος ἤξιου, Τύλλος Ὀστίλιος γένους ὧν τοιοῦδε: [2] ἐκ πόλεως Μεδυλλίας, ἦν Ἀλβανοὶ μὲν ἔκτισαν, Ῥωμῦλος δὲ κατὰ συνθήκας παραλαβὼν Ῥωμαίων ἐποίησεν ἀποικίαν, ἀνὴρ εὐγενὴς καὶ χρήμασι δυνατὸς Ὀστίλιος ὄνομα μετενεγκάμενος εἰς Ῥώμην τὸν βίον ἄγεται γυναῖκα ἐκ τοῦ Σαβίνων γένους Ἐρσιλίου θυγατέρα τὴν ὑφηγησαμένην ταῖς ὁμοθεσίαις πρεσβεῦσαι πρὸς τοὺς πατέρας ὑπὲρ τῶν ἀνδρῶν, ὅτε Σαβῖνοι Ῥωμαίοις ἐπολέμουν, καὶ τοῦ συνελθεῖν εἰς φιλίαν τοὺς ἡγεμόνας αἰτιωτάτην γενέσθαι δοκοῦσαν. [p. 269] οὗτος ὁ ἀνὴρ πολλοὺς συνδιενέγκας Ῥωμῦλῳ πολέμους καὶ μεγάλα ἔργα ἀποδειξάμενος ἐν ταῖς πρὸς Σαβίνους μάχαις, ἀποθνήσκει καταλιπὼν παιδίον μονογενὲς καὶ θάπτεται πρὸς τῶν βασιλέων ἐν τῷ κρατίστῳ τῆς ἀγορᾶς τόπῳ στήλης ἐπιγραφῇ τὴν ἀρετὴν μαρτυρούσης ἀξιωθείς. [3] ἐκ δὲ τοῦ μονογενοῦς παιδὸς εἰς ἄνδρας ἀφικομένου καὶ γάμον ἐπιφανῇ λαβόντος υἱὸς γίνεται Τύλλος Ὀστίλιος ἀνὴρ δραστήριος, ὃς ἀπεδείχθη βασιλεὺς ψήφῳ τε πολιτικῇ διενεχθείῃ περὶ αὐτοῦ κατὰ νόμους καὶ τοῦ δαιμονίου δι' οἰωνῶν αἰσίων ἐπικυρώσαντος τὰ δόξαντα τῷ δήμῳ. ἔτος δὲ ἦν ἐν ᾧ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν παρέλαβεν ὁ δεῦτερος ἐνιαυτὸς τῆς ἐβδόμης καὶ εἰκοστῆς Ὀλυμπιάδος, ἦν ἐνίκᾳ στάδιον Εὐρυβάτης Ἀθηναῖος ἄρχοντας Ἀθήνησι Λεωστράτου. [4] οὗτος ἔργον ἀπάντων μεγαλοπρεπέστατον ἀποδειξάμενος αὐτὸς εὐθύς ἅμα τῷ παραλαβεῖν τὴν ἀρχὴν ἅπαν τὸ θητικὸν τοῦ δήμου καὶ ἄπορον οἰκεῖον ἔσχεν. ἦν δὲ τοιόνδε: χώραν εἶχον ἐξαίρετον οἱ πρὸ αὐτοῦ βασιλεῖς πολλὴν καὶ ἀγαθὴν, ἐξ ἧς ἀναιρούμενοι τὰς προσόδους ἱερὰ τε θεοῖς ἐπετέλουν καὶ τὰς εἰς τὸν ἴδιον βίον ἀφθόνους εἶχον εὐπορίας, ἦν ἐκτίσαστο μὲν Ῥωμῦλος πολέμῳ τοὺς τότε κατασχόντας ἀφελόμενος, ἐκείνου δὲ ἄπαιδος ἀποθανόντος Πομπίλιος Νόμας ὁ μετ' ἐκείνον βασιλεύσας ἐκαρπούτο: ἦν δὲ οὐκέτι δημοσία κτῆσις, ἀλλὰ τῶν ἀεὶ βασιλέων κληρὸς. [5] ταύτην ὁ Τύλλος ἐπέτρεψε τοῖς [p. 270] μηδένα κληρὸν ἔχουσι Ῥωμαίων κατ' ἄνδρα διανείμασθαι, τὴν πατρῶαν αὐτῷ κτῆσιν ἀρκοῦσαν ἀποφαινὼν εἰς τε τὰ ἱερὰ καὶ τὰς τοῦ βίου δαπάνας. ταύτῃ δὲ τῇ φιланθρωπίᾳ τοὺς ἀπόρους τῶν πολιτῶν ἀνέλαβε παύσας λατρεύοντας ἐν τοῖς ἀλλοτρίοις: ἵνα δὲ μηδὲ οἰκίας ἄμοιρος εἴη τις προσετείχισε τῇ πόλει τὸν καλούμενον Καίλιον λόφον, ἔνθα ὅσοι Ῥωμαίων ἦσαν ἀνέστοι λαχόντες τοῦ χωρίου τὸ ἀρκοῦν κατεσκευάσαντ' οἰκίας, καὶ αὐτὸς ἐν τούτῳ τῷ τόπῳ τὴν οἴκησιν εἶχεν. πολιτικὰ μὲν δὴ ταῦτα τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἔργα παραδίδοται λόγου ἄξια:

πολεμικὰ δὲ πράξεις πολλὰ μὲν καὶ ἄλλαι μνημονεύονται, <μέγιστα δὲ> περὶ ὧν ἔρχομαι λέξων τὴν ἀρχὴν ποιησάμενος ἀπὸ τοῦ πρὸς Ἀλβανούς πολέμου. αἴτιος δὲ τοῦ διαστήναι τὰς πόλεις καὶ λῦσαι τὸ συγγενὲς ἀνὴρ

Ἀλβανὸς ἐγένετο Κλοίλιος ὄνομα τῆς μεγίστης ἀρχῆς ἀξιωθείς, ὃς ἀχθόμενος ἐπὶ τοῖς Ῥωμαίων ἀγαθοῖς καὶ κατέχειν τὸν φθόνον οὐ δυνάμενος φύσει τε αὐθάδης καὶ ὑπομαργότερος ὢν ἐκ- [2] πολεμῶσαι τὰς πόλεις ἔγνω πρὸς ἁλλήλας. οὐχ ὁρῶν δὲ ὅπως ἂν πείσειε τοὺς Ἀλβανοὺς στρατὸν αὐτῷ κατὰ Ῥωμαίων ἄγειν ἐπιτρέψαι μήτε δικαίας ἔχοντι προ- φάσεις μήτε ἀναγκαιάς, μηχανᾶται δὴ τι τοιόνδε: τοῖς ἀπορωτάτοις Ἀλβανῶν καὶ θρασυτάτοις ἐφῆκε λη- [p. 271] στεῦναι τοὺς Ῥωμαίων ἀγροὺς ἄδειαν ὑπισχνούμενος καὶ παρεσκεύασε πολλοὺς ἀκίνδυνα κέρδη διώκοντας, ὧν οὐδὲ κωλυόμενοι ὑπὸ τοῦ δέους ἀποστήσασθαι ἔμελλον, ἐμπλήσαι πολέμου ληστρικοῦ τὴν ὁμορον. [3] τοῦτο δ' ἔπραττε κατὰ λογισμὸν οὐκ ἀπεικότα, ὥς τὸ ἔργον ἐμαρτύρησε. Ῥωμαίους μὲν γὰρ οὐκ ἀνέξεσθαι τὰς ἀρπαγὰς ὑπελάμβανεν, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τὰ ὅπλα χωρή- σειν, αὐτῷ δ' ἐξουσίαν ἔσεσθαι κατηγορεῖν αὐτῶν πρὸς τὸν δῆμον ὥς ἀρχόντων πολέμου, Ἀλβανῶν δὲ τοὺς πλείστους φθονοῦντας τοῖς ἀποίκις τῆς εὐτυ- χίας δέξεσθαι τὰς διαβολὰς ἀσμένους καὶ τὸν κατ' [4] αὐτῶν πόλεμον ἐξοίσειν, ὅπερ καὶ συνέβη. ἀγόντων γὰρ καὶ φερόντων ἀλλήλους τῶν κακουργοτάτων ἐξ ἐκατέρας πόλεως καὶ στρατιᾶς ποτε Ῥωμαϊκῆς ἐμβα- λούσης εἰς τὴν Ἀλβανῶν, ὑφ' ἧς πολλοὶ τῶν ληστῶν οἱ μὲν ἀνηρέθησαν, οἱ δὲ συνελήφθησαν, συγκαλέ- σας τὸ πλῆθος εἰς ἐκκλησίαν ὁ Κλοίλιος, ἐν ἧ πολλὴν ἐποίησατο τῶν Ῥωμαίων κατηγορίαν, τραυματίας τε συχνοὺς ἐπιδεικνύμενος καὶ τοὺς προσήκοντας τοῖς ἥρπασμένοις ἢ τεθνηκόσι παράγων καὶ πλείω τῶν γεγονότων ἐπικαταψευδόμενος, πρεσβείαν πέμπειν πρῶτον ἐψηφίσατο δίκας αἰτήσουσαν τῶν γεγονότων: ἐὰν δὲ ἀγνωμονῶσι Ῥωμαῖοι τότε τὸν πόλεμον ἐπ' αὐτοὺς ἐκφέρειν.

ἀφικομένων δὲ τῶν πρεσβευτῶν εἰς Ῥώμην ὑποπτεύσας ὁ Τύλλος, ὅτι δίκας αἰτήσοντες ἦκοιεν, [p. 272] αὐτὸς τοῦτο ποιῆσαι πρότερος ἔγνω περιστῆσαι βουλόμενος εἰς ἐκείνους τὴν αἰτίαν τοῦ λυεῖν τὰ πρὸς τὴν ἀποικίαν συγκείμενα. συνθῆκαι γὰρ ἦσαν ταῖς πόλεσιν ἐπὶ Ῥωμύλου γενόμεναι τὰ τε ἄλλα ἔχουσαι δίκαια καὶ ἵνα μηδετέρα πολέμου ἄρχῃ: ἡ δ' ἐγκαλοῦσα ὅ τι δὴ ποτε ἀδίκημα δίκας αἰτοῖ παρὰ τῆς ἀδικούσης, εἰ δὲ μὴ τυγχάνοι τότε τὸν ἐξ ἀνάγκης ἐπιφέρει πόλεμον, ὥς λελυμένων ἤδη τῶν σπονδῶν. [2] φυλαττόμενος δὲ τὸ μὴ προτέρους αἰτηθέντας δίκας Ῥωμαίους ἀντειπεῖν, ἔπειτα ὑπαιτίους Ἀλβανοῖς γενέσθαι, προσέταξε τοῖς ἐπιφανεστάτοις τῶν ἑαυτοῦ φίλων τοὺς Ἀλβανῶν πρέσβεις ξενίζειν ἀπάσῃ φιλοφροσύνῃ καὶ κατέχειν ἔνδον παρ' ἑαυτοῖς: αὐτὸς δ' ἐν ἀσχολίαις εἶναι πῶς ἀναγκαίοις σκηψάμενος διεκρούσατο [3] τὴν πρόσοδον αὐτῶν. τῇ δ' ἔγγιστα νυκτὶ Ῥωμαίων ἄνδρας ἐπιφανεῖς ἐντειλάμενος αὐτοῖς ἃ χρὴ πράττειν ἀπέστειλεν εἰς Ἀλβαν ἅμα τοῖς εἰρηνοδικαῖς αἰτήσοντας ὑπὲρ ὧν ἡδίκηντο Ῥωμαῖοι δίκας παρ' Ἀλβανῶν λαβεῖν, οἳ πρὶν ἥλιον ἀνίσχειν διανύσαντες τὴν ὁδὸν πληθουούσης τῆς ἐωθινῆς ἀγορᾶς ἐντυγχάνουσι τῷ Κλοίλιῳ κατ' ἀγορὰν ὄντι καὶ διεξιόντες ὅσα ἡδίκηντο Ῥωμαῖοι πρὸς Ἀλβανῶν ἡξίουσαν πράττειν τὰ συγκείμενα ταῖς πόλεσιν. [4] ὁ δὲ Κλοίλιος, ὥς Ἀλβανῶν προτέρων ἀπεσταλκότων εἰς Ῥώμην τοὺς αἰτήσοντας δίκας καὶ μηδὲ ἀποκρίσεως [p. 273] ἡξιωμένων, ἀπέναι τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ἐκέλευσεν ως παραβεβηκότας τὰς ὁμολογίας καὶ προεῖπεν αὐτοῖς τὸν πόλεμον. ἀπαλλασπτόμενος δὲ ὁ τῆς πρεσβείας ἡγεμὼν τοῦτ' ἤξιωσεν ἀκοῦσαι παρ' αὐτοῦ μόνον, εἰ παραβαίνειν τὰς σπονδὰς ὁμολογεῖ τοὺς προτέρους αἰτηθέντας δίκας καὶ μηδὲν ὑπομείναντας ποιεῖν τῶν ὁσίων. [5] ὁμολογήσαντος δὲ τοῦ Κλοιλίου, μαρτύρομαι τοίνυν, ἔφη, τοὺς θεοὺς, οὓς ἐποίησάμεθα τῶν σπονδῶν μάρτυρας, ὅτι Ῥωμαῖοι οὐ τυχοῦσι τῶν δικαίων προτέροις ὅσιος ὁ κατὰ τῶν παραβάντων τὰς σπονδὰς πόλεμος ἔσται, οἱ δὲ πεφευγότες τοῦτο τὸ δίκαιον ὑμεῖς ἔστε, ὥς αὐτὰ τὰ ἔργα δηλοῖ. πρότεροί τε γὰρ αἰτηθέντες τὸ δίκαιον οὐχ ὑπέσχετε καὶ πρότερον τὸν πόλεμον ἡμῖν προειρήκατε. τοιγάρτοι τοὺς ἀμυννυμένους ὑμᾶς προσδέχεσθε μετὰ τῶν ὅπλων οὐκ εἰς μακράν. [6] ταῦτα παρὰ τῶν πρεσβευτῶν ἀφικομένων εἰς Ῥώμην ἀκούσας ὁ Τύλλος, τότε τοὺς Ἀλβανοὺς προσάγειν ἐκέλευσε καὶ περὶ ὧν ἤκουσι λέγειν. ἀπαγγειλάντων δ' αὐτῶν ὅσα προσέταξεν ὁ Κλοίλιος καὶ τὸν πόλεμον ἀπειλοῦντων εἰ μὴ τεύξονται τῆς δίκης, Ἐγὼ πρότερος ὑμῶν, ἔφη, τοῦτο πεποίηκα καὶ μηδὲν εὐρόμενος ὧν ἐκέλευον αἰ συνθῆκαι... φαίνονται παρ' ὑμῶν προτέρων αὐταὶ λελυμένοι τε καὶ μηδενὸς λόγου ἤξιωμένοι: ὅθεν δὴ τὸν ἀναγκαῖόν τε καὶ δίκαιον Ἀλβανοῖς παραγγέλλω πόλεμον.

μετὰ δὲ τὰς προφάσεις ταύτας παρεσκευάζοντο [p. 274] ἀμφοτέροι τὰ πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον, οὐ μόνον τὰς οἰκείας καθοπλίζοντες δυνάμεις, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰς παρὰ τῶν ὑπηκόων ἐπικαλοῦμενοι: ὥς δὲ πάντα ἦν αὐτοῖς εὐτρεπῆ συνήεσαν ὁμόσε καὶ καταστρατοπεδεύονται τετταράκοντα τῆς Ῥώμης σταδίου ἀποσχόντες: οἱ μὲν Ἀλβανοὶ περὶ τὰς καλουμένας Κλοιλίας τάφρους φυλάττουσι γὰρ ἔτι τὴν τοῦ κατασκευάσαντος αὐτὰς ἐπὶ κλησιν Ῥωμαῖοι δὲ ὀλίγον ἐνδοτέρω τὸν ἐπιτηδεϊότατον εἰς στρατοπεδεῖαν τόπον ἐκλεξάμενοι. Οὐιεντανοὶ καὶ Φιδιηναῖοι μεγάλας καὶ πολυανθρώπους ἔχοντες πόλεις ἐπὶ μὲν τῆς Ῥωμύλου βασιλείας εἰς πόλεμον ὑπὲρ ἀρχῆς καὶ δυναστείας Ῥωμαίοις κατέστησαν, ἐν ᾧ πολλὰς ἀπολέσαντες δυνάμεις ἀμφοτέροι καὶ χώρας ἀποδασμῷ ζημιωθέντες ὑπήκοοι τοῖς κεκρατηκόσιν ἡναγκάσθησαν γενέσθαι. περὶ ὧν ἐν τῇ πρὸ ταύτης δεδήλωκα γραφῇ τὸ ἀκριβές: ἐπὶ δὲ τῆς Νόμα Πομπιλίου δυναστείας εἰρήνης ἀπολαύσαντες βεβαίου πολλὴν ἔσχον ἐπίδοσιν εἰς εὐανδρίαν τε καὶ πλοῦτον καὶ τὴν ἄλλην εὐδαιμονίαν. τούτοις δὴ τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς ἐπαρθέντες ἐλευθερίας τε αὐθις ὠρέγοντο καὶ φρόνημα ἐλάμβανον ὑψηλότερον παρασκευάζοντό τε ὡς οὐκέτι Ῥωμαίων ἀκροώμενοι. [2] τέως μὲν οὖν ἄδελος αὐτῶν ἡ διάνοια τῆς ἀποστάσεως ἦν, ἐν δὲ τῷ πρὸς Ἀλβανοὺς ἐφανερώθη πολέμῳ. ὡς γὰρ ἐπύθοντο πανστρατιᾷ Ῥωμαίους ἐξεληλυθότας ἐπὶ τὸν πρὸς Ἀλβανοὺς ἀγῶνα, κράτιστον ὑπολαβόντες εἰληφέναι καιρὸν ἐπιθέσεως ἀπορρήτους ἐποίησαντο διὰ τῶν δυνατωτάτων ἀνδρῶν συνωμοσίας ἅπαντας τοὺς ὀπλοφορεῖν δυναμένους εἰς

Φιδήνην συνελθεῖν κρύφα καὶ κατ' ὀλίγους ἰόντας, ὡς ἂν ἤκιστα γένοιτο τοῖς ἐπibουλεuομένοις καταφανεῖς· [3] ἐκεῖ δ' ὑπομένοντας ἐκδέχεσθαι τὸν καιρὸν, ὅτε αἱ Ῥωμαίων τε καὶ Ἀλβανῶν δυνάμεις ἐκλιποῦσαι τοὺς χάρακας ἐπὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα προελεύσονται, τοῦτον δὲ φανερὸν ποιεῖν αὐτοῖς ἔμελλον διὰ συμβόλων σκοποῖ [p. 278] τινες ἐν τοῖς ὄρεσι λοχῶντες· ὅταν δὲ ἀρθῇ τὰ σημεῖα λαβόντας τὰ ὄπλα χωρεῖν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς ἔδει πάντας κατὰ τάχος, ἣν δὲ οὐ πολλή ἢ ἐπὶ τοὺς χάρακας ἀπὸ Φιδήνης φέρουσα ὁδός, ἀλλ' ὅσον ἢ δυσὶν ὥραις ἢ τρισὶν ἀνυσθῆναι τὸ μακρότατον· ἐπιφανέντας δὲ τῷ ἀγῶνι τέλος ἤδη ἔχοντι ὥσπερ εἰκὸς μηδὲν ἡγεῖσθαι φίλιον, ἀλλ' ἐὰν τε Ἀλβανοὶ νικῶσιν ἐὰν τε Ῥωμαῖοι κτείνειν τοὺς κεκρατηκότας αὐτῶν. ταῦτα ἦν ἃ διέγνωστο πράττειν τοῖς προεστηκόσι τῶν πόλεων. [4] εἰ μὲν οὖν θρασύτερον ἐπὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα ὤρμησαν Ἀλβανοὶ Ῥωμαίων καταφρονήσαντες καὶ μιᾷ κρῖναι μάχῃ τὰ ὅλα διέγνωσαν, οὐθὲν ἂν τὸ κωλύον ἦν τὸν τε κατασκευασθέντα δόλον ἐπ' αὐτοῖς λεληθῆναι καὶ διεφθάρθαι τὰ στρατεύματα αὐτῶν ἀμφοτέρω: νῦν δὲ ἡ διατριβὴ τοῦ πολέμου παράδοξος ἅπασι γενομένη καὶ ὁ χρόνος ἐν ᾧ παρεσκευάζοντο πολλὺς ἐφελκυσθεὶς διέχεεν αὐτῶν τὰ βουλευματα. τῶν γὰρ ἐκ τῆς συνωμοσίας τινές, εἴτε οἰκεῖα κέρδη περιβαλέσθαι ζητοῦντες εἴτε τοῖς κορυφαιοτάτοις τῶν σφετέρων καὶ τὸ ἔργον εἰσηγησαμένοις φθονοῦντες εἴτε μήνυσιν ἐτέρων δεδιότες, ὅ τι πολλοῖς συνέβη παθεῖν ἐν ταῖς πολυανθρώποις καὶ χρονιζομέναις συνωμοσίαις, εἴτε ὑπὸ θείας ἀναγκαζόμενοι γνώμης οὐκ ἀξιούσης ἔργον ἀνόσιον εἰς εὐτυχὲς κατασκήψαι τέλος μηνυταὶ γίνονται τοῖς πολεμίοις τοῦ δόλου. [p. 279] ταῦτα δὴ μαθὼν ὁ Φουφέττιος ἔτι μᾶλλον ἔσπευσε ποιήσασθαι τὰς διαλύσεις, ὡς οὐδὲ αἰρέσεως ἔτι τοῦ μὴ ταῦτα πράττειν σφίσι καταλειπομένης. ἐγεγόνει δὲ καὶ τῷ βασιλεῖ τῶν Ῥωμαίων ὑπὲρ τῆς συνωμοσίας ταύτης ἢ μήνυσις παρὰ τῶν ἐκ Φιδήνης φίλων, ὥστ' οὐδ' αὐτὸς ἔτι διαμελλήσας δέχεται τὰς τοῦ Φουφεττίου προκλήσεις. ἐπεὶ δὲ συνῆλθον εἰς τὸ μεταξὺ τῶν στρατοπέδων χωρίον ἐπαγόμενοι συμβούλους ἑκάτεροι τοὺς φρονῆσαι τὰ δέοντα ἱκανοὺς, ἀσπασάμενοι πρῶτον ἀλλήλους ὡς πρότερον εἰώθεσαν καὶ φιλοφρονηθέντες τὰς ἔταιρικός τε καὶ συγγενικάς φιλοφροσύνας διελέγοντο περὶ τῶν διαλύσεων. [2] ἤρχετο δ' ὁ Ἀλβανὸς πρότερος τοιαύδε λέγων: ἀναγκαῖον εἶναι μοι δοκεῖ τὰς αἰτίας πρῶτον ἐπιδειῖσαι, δι' ἃς ἐγὼ πρῶτος ἡξίωσα περὶ καταλύσεως τοῦ πολέμου διαλέγεσθαι, οὔτε μάχῃ κρατηθεὶς ὑφ' ὑμῶν οὔτ' ἐπισιτισμοὺς εἰσάγεσθαι κωλυόμενος οὔτε εἰς ἄλλην κατακεκλεισμένος ἀνάγκην οὐδεμίαν, ἵνα μὴ με ὑπολάβῃτε τῆς μὲν οἰκειάς δυνάμεως ἀσθενεῖαν κατεγνωκότα, τὴν δὲ ὑμετέραν ἰσχὺν δυσκαταγώνιστον εἶναι νομίζοντα εὐπρεπῇ ζητεῖν ἀπαλλαγὴν τοῦ πολέμου. ἀφόρητοι γὰρ ἂν γένοισθε ὑπὸ βαρύτητος, εἴ τι πεισθῇτε περὶ ἡμῶν τοιοῦτον, καὶ οὐθὲν ἂν τῶν μετρίων ὑπομείναιτε ποιεῖν, ὡς κρατοῦντες [p. 280] [3] ἤδη τῷ πολέμῳ. ἵνα δὴ μὴ τὰς ψευδεῖς αἰτίας εἰκάζετε περὶ τῆς ἐμῆς προαιρέσεως, δι' ἃς ἀξιῶ καταλύσασθαι τὸν πόλεμον, ἀκούσατε τὰς ἀληθεῖς: ἐγὼ στρατηγὸς ἀποδειχθεὶς ὑπὸ τῆς πατρίδος αὐτοκράτωρ ἅμα τῷ παραλαβεῖν τὴν ἀρχὴν ἐσκόπουν τινες ἦσαν αἱ συνταράξασαι τὰς πόλεις ἡμῶν προφάσεις. ὄρων δὲ μικρὰς καὶ φαύλας καὶ οὐχ ἱκανὰς διελεῖν τοσαύτην φιλίαν καὶ συγγένειαν οὐ τὰ κράτιστα ἡγούμην οὔτε Ἀλβανούς οὔτε ὑμᾶς βουλευέσασθαι. [4] ἔτι δὲ μᾶλλον ἔγνω τοῦτο καὶ πολλὴν κατέγγων ἀμφοτέρων ἡμῶν μανίαν, ἐπειδὴ παρήλθον ἐπὶ τὰ πράγματα καὶ πείραν ἐλάβανον τῆς ἐκάστου προαιρέσεως. οὔτε γὰρ ἐν τοῖς ἰδίοις οὔτ' ἐν τοῖς κοινοῖς συλλόγοις ὁμονοοῦντας ὑπὲρ τοῦ πολέμου πάντας Ἀλβανούς ἐώρων, μακρῷ δὲ τινι τῶν ἐξ ἀνθρωπίνου λογισμοῦ καταλαμβανομένων χαλεπῶν τὰ δαιμόνια σημεῖα, ὅποτε χρησαίμην σφαγίοις περὶ μάχης, χαλεπώτερα γινόμενα πολλὴν δυσθυμίαν παρεῖχε μοι καὶ ἀμυχανίαν. [5] ἐνθυμούμενος δὴ ταῦτα τῆς μὲν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἀγῶνας ὀρμῆς ἐπέσχον, ἀναβολὰς δὲ καὶ διατριβὰς ἐποιοῦμην τοῦ πολέμου προτέρους ὑμᾶς οἰόμενος ἄρξιν τῶν περὶ φιλίας λόγων: καὶ ἔδει γε, ὦ Τύλλε, τοῦτο ποιεῖν ὑμᾶς ἀποίκους ὄντας ἡμῶν καὶ μὴ περιμένειν ἕως ἢ μητρόπολις ἄρξῃ. ὅσης γὰρ ἀξιοῦσι τιμῆς τυγχάνειν οἱ πατέρες παρὰ τῶν ἐκγόνων, τοσαύτης οἱ κτίσαντες τὰς πόλεις παρὰ τῶν ἀποίκων. [6] ἐν ᾧ δὲ ἡμεῖς ἐμέλλομεν καὶ παρετηροῦμεν ἀλλήλους, [p. 281] πότεροι τῶν εὐγνωμόνων ἄρξουσι λόγων, ἑτέρα τις ἡμᾶς ἀνάγκη κρείττων ἅπαντος ἀνθρωπίνου λογισμοῦ περιλαβοῦσα συνάγει: ἦν ἐγὼ πυθόμενος ἔτι λανθάνουσαν ὑμᾶς οὐκέτ' ὥρμην δεῖν τῆς εὐπρεπείας τῶν διαλλαγῶν στοχάζεσθαι. δειναὶ γὰρ, ὦ Τύλλε, μηχαναὶ πλέκονται καθ' ἡμῶν καὶ δόλος ἄφукτος ἔρραπτται κατ' ἀμφοτέρων, ὃς ἔμελλεν ἀκονιτὶ καὶ δίχα πόνου πάντα συντρίψειν καὶ διαφθερεῖν ἡμῶν τὰ [7] πράγματα πυρὸς ἢ ποταμοῦ δίκην ἐμπεσῶν. δημιουργοὶ δὲ τῶν ἀνοσίων βουλευμάτων εἰσὶν οἱ δυνατώτατοι Φιθιναίων τε καὶ Οὐιεντανῶν συνελθόντες. ὅστις δὲ ὁ τῆς ἐπιβουλῆς αὐτῶν τρόπος ἦν καὶ πόθεν εἰς ἐμὲ ἢ τῶν ἀπορρήτων βουλευμάτων γνῶσις ἐλήλυθεν ἀκούσατε.

ταῦτ' εἰπὼν δίδωσι τῶν παρόντων τινὶ ἀναγνῶναι τὰς ἐπιστολάς, ἃς αὐτῷ κεκομικῶς τις ἐτύγγανε παρὰ τῶν ἐν Φιθιγῇ ξένων καὶ τὸν κομίσαντα αὐτὰς παρήγαγεν. ἀναγνωσθεισῶν δὲ τῶν ἐπιστολῶν καὶ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἐξηγησαμένου πάντα ὅσα παρὰ τῶν ἐπιτιθεμένων αὐτὰς ἀπὸ στόματος ἤκουσεν ἐκπλήξεώς τε μεγάλης κατασχούσης τοὺς ἀκούοντας, οἳα εἰκὸς ἐπὶ τηλικούτῳ κακῷ παρ' ἐλπίδας ἀκουσθέντι, μικρὸν ἐπισχὼν ὁ Φουφέττιος πάλιν ἔλεξεν: [2] ἀκηκόατε τὰς αἰτίας, ἄνδρες Ῥωμαῖοι, δι' ἃς ἐγὼ τέως μὲν ἀνεβαλλόμεν τοὺς πρὸς ὑμᾶς ἀγῶνας, νῦν [p. 282] δὲ καὶ τῶν περὶ φιλίας ἡξίωσα πρότερος ἄρχειν λόγων. ὑμεῖς δὲ τὸ μετὰ τοῦτο ἤδη σκοπεῖσθε, πότερον οἴεσθε δεῖν περὶ βοιδίων καὶ προβατίων ἀρπαγῆς ἄσπειστον πόλεμον φυλάττειν πρὸς τοὺς κτίσαντας καὶ πατέρας, ἐν ᾧ καὶ κρατηθέντες ἀπολεῖσθε καὶ κρατήσαντες, ἢ διαλυσάμενοι τὴν πρὸς τοὺς συγγενεῖς ἔχθραν μεθ' ἡμῶν ἐπὶ τοὺς κοινοὺς ἐχθροὺς χωρεῖν, οἳ γε οὐ μόνον ἀπόστασιν ἐβούλευσαν ἀφ' ὑμῶν, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἐπανάστασιν, οὔτε πεπονθότες οὐδὲν δεινὸν οὔτε μὴ πάθωσι δεδιότες, καὶ οὐδ' ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ ἐπέθεντο ἡμῖν, ὥς ὁ κοινὸς ἀξιοῖ τοῦ πολέμου νόμος, ἀλλ' ὑπὸ σκότους, ὥς ἂν ἦκιστα ὑπιδιοῖτο τις αὐτῶν τὴν ἐπιβουλὴν καὶ φυλάξειτο. [3] ἀλλὰ γὰρ ὅτι μὲν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἀνοσίους ἀνθρώπους ἰτέον ἡμῖν ἀπάσῃ σπουδῇ καταλυσάμενοις τὰ ἔχθη ῥ' ἡμῶν γὰρ θάτερα ἀξιοῦν' ὥς ἐγνωκόσιν ὑμῖν καὶ ποιήσουσιν οὐδὲν δέομαι πλεῖω λέγειν καὶ παρακελεύεσθαι. ὃν δὲ τρόπον αἱ διαλύσεις καλαὶ καὶ συμφέρουσαι γένοιντ' ἂν ἀμφοτέραις ταῖς πόλεσι τοῦτο γὰρ ἴσως ποθεῖτε ἀκοῦσαι πάλαι νῦν ἤδη πειράσομαι λέγειν. [4] ἐγὼ νομίζω κρατίστας μὲν εἶναι διαλλαγὰς καὶ πρεπωδεστάτας συγγενέσι καὶ φίλοις πρὸς ἀλλήλους, ἐν αἷσι οὐδὲν ἔστιν ἔγκοτον οὐδὲ μνησικακὸν ἀφέσεως ἅπασι πρὸς ἅπαντας ὑπὲρ ὧν ἔδρασαν ἢ ἔπαθον ἀδόλου γινομένης, ἥττον δὲ τούτων εὐπρεπεῖς, ἐν αἷσι τὸ μὲν πλῆθος ἀπολύεται τῶν ἐγκλημάτων, οἱ δὲ ἀδικήσαντες ἀλλήλους [p. 283] ἀναγκάζονται δίκας ὑπέχειν λόγῳ κρινόμενοι καὶ νόμῳ. [5] τούτων δὲ τῶν διαλλαγῶν ἐμοὶ μὲν δοκεῖ χρῆναι τὰς εὐπρεπεστέρας καὶ μεγαλοψυχότερας ἡμῶς ἐλέσθαι καὶ γνώμην θέσθαι περὶ μηδενὸς ἡμῶς ἀλλήλοις μνησικακεῖν, σὺ δ' εἰ μὴ βούλει διαλλάττεσθαι τοῦτον τὸν τρόπον, ὦ Τύλλε, ἀλλὰ καὶ διδόναι δίκας καὶ λαμβάνειν ἀξιοῖς τοὺς ἐν ταῖς αἰτίαις παρ' ἀλλήλων, ἔτοιμοι καὶ ταῦτα ποιεῖν εἰσιν Ἀλβανοὶ τὰ κοινὰ ἔχθη προκαταλυσάμενοι. εἰ δὲ τινας ἔχεις παρὰ ταύτας λέγειν ἑτέρας εἴτε καλλίους διαλλαγὰς εἴτε δικαιοτέρας, οὐκ ἂν φθάνοις φέρων εἰς μέσον καὶ πολλὴν σοὶ χάριν εἶσομαι.

ταῦτ' εἰπόντος τοῦ Φουφεττίου παραλαβὼν τὸν λόγον ὁ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς ἔλεξε: καὶ ἡμεῖς, ὦ Φουφέττιε, βαρεῖαν ὑπελαμβάνομεν ἡμῶς καταλήψεσθαι συμφορὰν, εἰ δι' αἵματος καὶ φόνων ἀναγκασθῆμεν κρίναι τὸν συγγενῆ πόλεμον, καὶ ὑπὸ τῶν ἱερῶν ὅποτε τὰ προπολέμια θυοίμεν ἐκωλυόμεθα ἄρχειν μάχης: τὰς τε ἀπορρήτους Φιδιναίων καὶ Οὐιεντανῶν συνωμοσίας, αἷς ἐπ' ἀμφοτέροις ἡμῖν συνώμοσαν, ὀλίγῳ πρότερον σοῦ πεπύσμεθα παρὰ τῶν ἐκεῖθεν ξένων καὶ οὐκ ἀφύλακτοι πρὸς αὐτάς ἐσμεν, ἀλλ' ὥς παθεῖν τε μηδὲν αὐτοῖς κακὸν κἀκείνους τιμωρήσασθαι τῆς ἐπιβουλῆς ἀξίως παρεσκευάσμεθα, οὐχ ἥττον τε σοῦ καταλύσασθαι τὸν πόλεμον ἀμαχητὶ μᾶλλον ἢ διὰ τῶν ὅπλων ἐβουλόμεθα. [2] πρότεροι δὲ πρεσβεύεσθαι περὶ διαλλαγῶν [p. 284] οὐκ ἠξιοῦμεν, ἐπεὶπερ οὐδ' ἡρξάμεν αὐτοὶ πρότεροι τοῦ πολέμου, ἄρξαντας δὲ ἡμυνάμεθα. ἀποτιθεμένων δὲ ὑμῶν τὰ ὅπλα δεχόμεθα τὰς προκλήσεις ἄσμενοι καὶ περὶ διαλλαγῶν οὐδὲν ἀκριβολογούμεθα, ἀλλὰ τὰς κρατίστας τε καὶ μεγαλοψυχότατας δεχόμεθα πᾶν ἀδίκημα καὶ πᾶν ἀμάρτημα τῆς Ἀλβανῶν πόλεως ἀφιέντες, εἰ δὴ καὶ κοινὰ χρὴ καλεῖν πόλεως ἀμαρτήματα, ὧν ὁ στρατηγὸς ὑμῶν Κλοῖλιος αἴτιος ἦν, ὃς ὑπὲρ ἀμφοτέρων ἡμῶν οὐ μεμπτὰς τέτικε δίκας τοῖς θεοῖς. [3] ἀφείσθω δὴ πᾶσα ἐγκλήματος ἰδίου τε καὶ κοινοῦ πρόφασις καὶ μηδενὸς ἔτι μνήμη τῶν παρεληλυθότων ἔστω κακῶν, ὥς καὶ σοί, ὦ Φουφέττιε, δοκεῖ: ἀλλ' οὐκ ἀπόχρη τοῦτο μόνον ἡμῶς σκοπεῖν, ὅπως ἂν τὴν παροῦσαν ἔχθραν διαλυσάμεθα πρὸς ἀλλήλους, ἀλλ' ὅπως μηδ' αὐθις ποτε πολεμήσομεν ἔτι δεῖ παρασκευάσασθαι: οὐ γὰρ ἀναβολὰς ποιησόμενοι τῶν κακῶν συνελθούμεθα, ἀλλ' ἀπαλλαγὰς. τίς οὖν ἡ βεβαία τοῦ πολέμου κατάλυσις ἔσται καὶ τί παρασχόντες εἰς τὰ πράγματα ἑκάτεροι νῦν τε καὶ εἰς τὸν αἰὲ χρόνον ἐσόμεθα φίλοι, σὺ μὲν παρέλιπες, ὦ Φουφέττιε, ἐγὼ δ' ἔτι καὶ τοῦτο προσθεῖναι πειράσομαι. [4] εἰ παύσαιντο μὲν Ἀλβανοὶ φθονοῦντες Ῥωμαίους ἐφ' οἷς ἔχουσιν ἀγαθοῖς, οὐκ ἄνευ μεγάλων κινδύνων καὶ πόνων πολλῶν αὐτὰ κτησάμενοι, ὁὐθὲν γοῦν πεπονθότες ὑφ' ἡμῶν οὔτε μείζον οὔτε ἔλαττον κακὸν διὰ τοῦτο μισεῖτε ἡμᾶς, ὅτι [p. 285] δοκοῦμεν ἄμεινον ὑμῶν πράττειν· παύσαιντο δὲ Ῥωμαῖοι δι' ὑποψίας ἔχοντες Ἀλβανούς ὡς ἐπιβουλεύοντας αἰεὶ σφισι καὶ φυλαττόμενοι καθάπερ ἐχθρούς· οὐ γὰρ ἂν γένοιτο βεβαίως φίλος τῷ μισοῦντι οὐδεὶς. [5] πῶς οὖν γενήσεται τούτων ἑκάτερον; οὐκ ἔάν γράψωμεν αὐτὰ ἐν ταῖς ὁμολογίαις οὐδ' ἔάν ὁμώσωμεν ἀμφοτέροι κατ' ἱερῶν, ἡ μικραὶ γὰρ αὐταὶ γε αἱ φυλακαὶ καὶ ἀσθενεῖς· ἀλλ' ἔάν κοινὰς ἡγησώμεθα τὰς ἀλλήλων τύχας. ἐν γὰρ ἐστὶ μόνον, ὧ Φουφέττιε, λύπης ἀνθρωπίνης ἐπ' ἀλλοτρίοις ἀγαθοῖς γινομένης ἄκος, τὸ μηκέτι τοὺς φθονοῦντας ἀλλότρια τὰ τῶν φθονουμένων ἀγαθὰ ἡγεῖσθαι. [6] ἵνα δὴ τοῦτο γένηται, Ῥωμαίους μὲν οἶμαι δεῖν εἰς τὸ κοινὸν Ἀλβανοῖς θεῖναι πάντα ὅσα τε νῦν ἔχουσι καὶ αὐθις ἔξουσιν ἀγαθὰ, Ἀλβανούς δὲ ἀγαπητῶς τὰ διδόμενα δέχεσθαι καὶ γενέσθαι μάλιστα μὲν ἅπαντας ὑμᾶς, εἰ δὲ μὴ γε τοὺς πλείστους τε καὶ ἀρίστους ὑμῶν τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως οἰκήτορας. οὐ γὰρ δὴ Σαβίνοις μὲν καὶ Τυρρηνοῖς καλῶς εἶχεν ἐκλιποῦσι τὰς ἐαυτῶν πόλεις μεταθέσθαι τοὺς βίους ὡς ἡμᾶς, ὑμῖν δὲ ἄρα τοῖς συγγενεστάτοις τὸ αὐτὸ τοῦτο γενόμενον οὐχ ἔξει καλῶς; [7] εἰ δ' οὐκ ἀξιώσετε μίαν οἰκεῖν πόλιν τὴν ἡμετέραν μεγάλην τε οὕσαν ἤδη καὶ ἔτι μᾶλλον ἐσομένην, ἀλλὰ φιλοχωρήσετε τοῖς πατρώοις ἐφεστίοις, ἐκεῖνὸ γέ τοι ποιήσατε· βουλευτήριον ἐν ἀποδείξατε, ὃ τὰ συμφέροντα ὑπὲρ ἑκατέρας βουλευσεί πόλεως, [p. 286] καὶ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ἀπόδοτε μιᾷ τῇ κρείττονι πόλει καὶ πλείονα δυναμένη ποιεῖν ἀγαθὰ τὴν ἥττονα. ἐγὼ μὲν δὴ ταῦτ' ἀξιώ καὶ τούτων γενομένων τὸθ' ἡγοῦμαι βεβαίως ἡμᾶς ἔσεσθαι φίλους, δύο δὲ πόλεις οἰκοῦντας ἰσοκορύφους ὥσπερ νῦν οὐδέποτε ὁμονόησιν.

ταῦτ' ἀκούσας ὁ Φουφέττιος χρόνον εἰς βουλὴν ἡτήσατο, καὶ μεταστάς ἐκ τοῦ συλλόγου μετὰ τῶν παρόντων Ἀλβανῶν εἰ χρὴ δέχεσθαι τὰς αἰρέσεις ἐσκόπει. ὡς δὲ τὰς ἀπάντων γνώμας ἔλαβεν, ἐπιστρέψας αὐθις εἰς τὸν σύλλογον ἔλεξεν· ἡμῖν μὲν, ὧ Τύλλε, τὴν μὲν πατρίδα καταλιπεῖν οὐ δοκεῖ οὐδ' ἐξερημοῦν ἱερὰ πατρῷα καὶ προγονικὰς ἐστίας καὶ τόπον, ὃν ἐγγὺς ἐτῶν πεντακοσίων οἱ πατέρες ἡμῶν κατέσχον, καὶ ταῦτα μὴ πολέμου κατειληφότος ἡμᾶς μηδ' ἄλλης θεοπέμπτου συμφορᾶς μηδεμιᾶς· ἐν δὲ καταστήσασθαι βουλευτήριον καὶ μίαν εἶναι [2] τὴν ἄρξουσαν τῆς ἐτέρας πόλιν οὐκ ἀπαρέσκει. γραφέσθω δὴ καὶ τοῦτο τὸ μέρος ἐν ταῖς συνθήκαις, εἰ δοκεῖ, καὶ πᾶσα ἀναιρεῖσθω πολέμου πρόφασις. ὡς δὲ συνέβησαν ἐπὶ τούτοις, περὶ τῆς μελλούσης τὴν ἡγεμονίαν παραλήψεσθαι πόλεως διεφέροντο, καὶ πολλοὶ ἐλέχθησαν εἰς τοῦτο λόγοι παρ' ἀμφοτέρων δικαιοῦντος ἑκατέρου τὴν αὐτοῦ πόλιν ἄρχειν τῆς ἐτέρας. ὁ μὲν οὖν Ἀλβανὸς τοιαῦτα προΐσχετο δίκαια· [3] ἡμεῖς, ὧ Τύλλε, καὶ τῆς μὲν ἄλλης ἄρχειν ἄξιοι ἐσμεν Ἰταλίας, ὅτι ἔθνος Ἑλληνικὸν καὶ μέγιστον [p. 287] τῶν κατοικούντων τήνδε τὴν γῆν ἐθνῶν παρεχόμεθα, τοῦ δὲ Λατίνων ἔθνους, εἰ καὶ μηδενὸς τῶν ἄλλων ἐθνῶν, ἡγεῖσθαι δικαιοῦμεν οὐκ ἄτερ αἰτίας, ἀλλὰ κατὰ τὸν κοινὸν ἀνθρώπων νόμον, ὃν ἡ φύσις ἔδωκεν ἅπασι, τῶν ἐγγόνων ἄρχειν τοὺς προγόνους. ὑπὲρ ἀπάσας δὲ τὰς ἄλλας ἀποικίας, αἷς μέχρι τοῦ παρόντος οὐδὲν ἐγκαλοῦμεν, τῆς ὑμετέρας οἰόμεθα δεῖν πόλεως ἄρχειν οὐ πρὸ πολλοῦ τὴν ἀποικίαν εἰς αὐτὴν ἀπεσταλκότες, ὥστε ἐξίτηλον εἶναι ἥδη τὸ ἀφ' ἡμῶν γένος ὑπὸ χρόνου παλαιωθέν, ἀλλὰ τῇ τρίτῃ πρὸ ταύτης γενεᾷ. ἐὰν δὲ ἀναστρέψασα τὰς ἀνθρωπίνας δικαιοῦσεις ἢ φύσις τὰ νέα τάξῃ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων ἄρχειν καὶ τὰ ἔκγονα τῶν προγόνων, τότε καὶ ἡμεῖς ἀνεξόμεθα τὴν μητρόπολιν ὑπὸ τῆς ἀποικίας ἀρχομένην, πρότερον δὲ οὐ. [4] ἔν μὲν δὴ τοῦτο τὸ δικαίωμα παρεχόμενοι τῆς ἀρχῆς οὐκ ἂν ἀποσταίημεν ὑμῖν ἐκόντες ἕτερον δὲ τοιόνδε: δέξασθε δὲ αὐτὸ μὴ ὡς ἐπὶ διαβολῇ καὶ ὀνειδισμῷ τῷ ὑμετέρῳ λεγόμενον, ἀλλὰ τοῦ ἀναγκαίου ἕνεκα: ὅτι τὸ μὲν Ἀλβανῶν γένος οἷον ἦν ἐπὶ τῶν κτισάντων τὴν πόλιν, τοιοῦτον ἕως τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων διαμένει, καὶ οὐκ ἂν ἔχοι τις ἐπιδειῖναι φύλον ἀνθρώπων οὐδὲν ἔξω τοῦ Ἑλληνικοῦ τε καὶ τοῦ Λατίνων, ὃ τῆς πολιτείας μεταδεδώκαμεν: ὑμεῖς δὲ τὴν [p. 288] ἀκρίβειαν τοῦ παρ' ἑαυτοῖς πολιτεύματος διεφθάρκατε Τυρρηνοὺς τε ὑποδεξάμενοι καὶ Σαβίνους καὶ ἄλλους τινὰς ἀνεστίους καὶ πλάνητας καὶ βαρβάρους πάνυ πολλούς, ὥστε ὀλίγον τὸ γνήσιον ὑμῶν ἔστιν ὅσον ἀφ' ἡμῶν ὠρμήθη, μᾶλλον δὲ πολλοστὸν τοῦ [5] ἐπεισάκτου τε καὶ ἁλλοφύλου. εἰ δὲ ἡμεῖς παραχωρήσαιμεν ὑμῖν τῆς ἀρχῆς, τὸ νόθον ἄρξει τοῦ γνησίου καὶ τὸ βάρβαρον τοῦ Ἑλληνικοῦ καὶ τὸ ἐπείσακτον τοῦ αὐθιγενοῦς. οὐδὲ γὰρ ἂν τοῦτο ἔχοιτε εἰπεῖν, ὅτι τὸν μὲν ἔπηλυν ὄχλον οὐδενὸς εἰλάκατε εἶναι τῶν κοινῶν κύριον, ἄρχετε δ' αὐτοὶ τῆς πόλεως καὶ βουλευέτε οἱ αὐθιγενεῖς: ἀλλὰ καὶ βασιλεῖς ἀποδείκνυτε ξένους, καὶ τῆς βουλῆς τὸ πλεῖστον ὑμῖν ἔστιν ἐκ τῶν ἐπηλύδων, ὧν οὐδὲν ἂν φήσαιτε ἐκόντες ὑπομένειν. τίς γὰρ ἐκουσίως ἄρχεται τῶν κρειττόνων ὑπὸ τοῦ χειρόνος; πολλὴ δὴ μωρία καὶ κακότης, ἃ δι' ἀνάγκην φαίητ' ἂν ὑμεῖς ὑπομένειν, [6] ταῦτα ἡμᾶς ἐκόντας δέχεσθαι. τελευταῖός μοι λόγος ἔστιν, ὅτι τῆς Ἀλβανῶν πόλεως οὐθὲν ἔτι παρακινεῖ μέρος τοῦ πολιτεύματος ὀκτωκαιδεκάτην ἥδη γενεᾶν οἰκουμένης καὶ πάντα ἐν κόσμῳ τὰ συνήθη καὶ πάτρια ἐπιτελούσης, ἢ δ' ὑμετέρα πόλις ἀδιακόσμητος ἔστιν ἔτι καὶ ἀδιάτακτος, ἅτε νεόκτιστος οὔσα καὶ ἐκ πολλῶν συμφορητὸς ἐθνῶν, ἧ μακρῶν δεῖ χρόνων καὶ παθημάτων παντοδαπῶν, ἵνα καταρτισθῇ καὶ παύσῃται ταραττομένη καὶ στασιάζουσα [p. 289] ὥσπερ νῦν. ἅπαντες δ' ἂν εἴποιεν ὅτι δεῖ τὰ καθεστηκότα τῶν ταραττομένων καὶ τὰ πεπειραμένα τῶν ἀδοκιμάστων καὶ τὰ ὑγιαίνοντα τῶν νοσοῦντων ἄρχειν: οἷς ὑμεῖς τάναντία ἀξιοῦντες οὐκ ὀρθῶς ποιεῖτε.

τοιαῦτα τοῦ Φουφεττίου λέξαντος παραλαβὼν ὁ Τύλλος τὸν λόγον εἶπε: τὸ μὲν ἐκ φύσεως καὶ προγόνων ἀρετῆς δίκαιον, ὃ Φουφέττιε καὶ ὑμεῖς ἄνδρες Ἀλβανοί, κοινὸν ἀμφοτέροις ἡμῖν: τοὺς αὐτοὺς γὰρ εὐχόμεθα προγόνους ἐκάτεροι, ὥστε οὐδὲν δεῖ τούτου χάριν οὔτε πλέον ἡμῶν ἔχειν τοὺς ἐτέρους οὔτ' ἔλαττον. τὸ δὲ ἄρχειν ἐκ παντὸς τῶν ἀποικιῶν τὰς μητροπόλεις ὡς ἀναγκαῖόν τι φύσεως νόμιμον οὔτε ἀληθὲς οὔτε δίκαιον ἡξιοῦτο ὑφ' ὑμῶν: [2] πολλὰ γέ τοι φῦλά ἐστιν ἀνθρώπων, παρ' οἷς αἱ μητροπόλεις οὐκ ἄρχουσιν ἀλλ' ὑποτάττονται ταῖς ἀποικίαις. μέγιστον δὲ καὶ φανερώτατον τοῦ λόγου τοῦδε παράδειγμα ἡ Σπαρτιατῶν πόλις οὐ τῶν ἄλλων μόνον ἄρχειν ἀξιοῦσα Ἑλλήνων, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῦ Δωρικοῦ γένους ὅθεν ἀπωκίσθη. καὶ τί δεῖ περὶ τῶν ἄλλων λέγειν; αὐτοὶ γὰρ ὑμεῖς οἱ τὴν ἡμετέραν πόλιν ἀποικίσαντες Λαουίνιατῶν ἔστε ἄποικοι. [3] εἰ δὴ φύσεώς ἐστι νόμος ἄρχειν τῆς ἀποικίας τὴν μητρόπολιν, οὐκ ἂν φθάνοιεν ἀμφοτέροις ἡμῖν Λαουίνιαται τὰ δίκαια τάττοντες; πρὸς μὲν δὴ τὸ πρῶτον ὑμῶν δικαίωμα καὶ πλείστην ἔχον εὐπροσωπίαν [p. 290] ταῦθ' ἱκανά: ἐπειδὴ δὲ καὶ τοὺς βίους τῶν πόλεων ἀντιπαρεξετάζειν ἀλλήλοις ἐπεχειρεῖς, ὦ Φουφέττιε, λέγων ὅτι τὸ μὲν Ἀλβανῶν εὐγενὲς ὁμοιον αἰεὶ διαμένει, τὸ δ' ἡμέτερον ἐξέφθαρται ταῖς ἐπιμιξίαις τοῦ ἀλλοφύλου, καὶ οὐκ ἤξιους ἄρχειν τῶν γνησίων τοὺς νόθους οὐδὲ τῶν αὐθιγενῶν τοὺς ἐπὶ γλῆδας, μάθε καὶ κατὰ τοῦτο ἀμαρτάνων μάλιστα τὸ δικαίωμα. [4] ἡμεῖς γὰρ τοσοῦτου δέομεν αἰσχύνεσθαι κοινήν ἀναδειξαντες τὴν πόλιν τοῖς βουλομένοις, ὥστε καὶ σεμνυνόμεθα ἐπὶ τούτῳ μάλιστα τῷ ἔργῳ, οὐκ αὐτοὶ τοῦ ζήλου τοῦδε ἄρξαντες, παρὰ δὲ τῆς Ἀθηναίων πόλεως τὸ παράδειγμα λαβόντες, ἥς μέγιστον κλέος ἐν Ἑλλησίν ἐστι, καὶ διὰ τοῦτο οὐχ ἥκιστα εἰ μὴ καὶ [5] μάλιστα τὸ πολίτευμα. καὶ τὸ πρᾶγμα ἡμῖν πολλῶν γενόμενον ἀγαθῶν αἴτιον οὗτ' ἐπίμεμψιν οὔτε μεταμέλειαν ὥς ἡμαρτηκόσι φέρει, ἄρχει τε καὶ βουλεύει καὶ τὰς ἄλλας τιμὰς καρποῦται παρ' ἡμῖν οὐχ ὁ πολλὰ χρήματα κεκτημένος οὐδὲ ὁ πολλοὺς πατέρας ἐπιχωρίους ἐπιδεῖξαι δυνάμενος, ἀλλ' ὅστις ἂν ἦ τούτων τῶν τιμῶν ἄξιος. οὐ γὰρ ἐν ἄλλῳ τινὶ τὴν ἀνθρωπίνην εὐγένειαν ὑπάρχειν νομίζομεν, ἀλλ' ἐν ἀρετῇ. ὁ δὲ ἄλλος ὄχλος σῶμα τῆς πόλεως ἐστὶν ἰσχύον καὶ δύναμιν τοῖς βουλευθεῖσιν ὑπὸ τῶν κρατίστων παρεχόμενος. μεγάλη τε ἡμῶν ἡ πόλις ἐκ μικρᾶς καὶ φοβερὰ τοῖς περιοίκους ἐξ εὐκαταφρονήτου διὰ ταύτην τὴν φιλανθρωπίαν γέγονε, τῆς τε ἡγεμονίας, [p. 291] ὑπὲρ ἥς τῶν ἄλλων Λατίνων οὐδεὶς ἀντιποιεῖται πρὸς ἡμᾶς, τοῦτο Ῥωμαίοις τὸ πολίτευμα ἥρξεν οὗ [6] σὺ κατηγόρεις, ὦ Φουφέττιε. ἐν ἰσχύι γὰρ ὅπλων κεῖται τὸ τῶν πόλεων κράτος, αὕτη δ' ἐκ πολλῶν σωμάτων γίνεται: ταῖς δὲ μικραῖς καὶ ὀλιγανθρώποις καὶ διὰ τοῦτο ἀσθενέσιν οὐκ ἔστιν ἄρχειν ἐτέρων, [7] ἀλλ' οὐδ' ἑαυτῶν ἄρχειν. καθόλου δ' ἔγωγε τὸθ' ὑπολαμβάνω δεῖν τὰς ἐτέρων διασύρειν πολιτείας καὶ τὴν ἰδίαν ἐπαινεῖν, ὅταν τις ἔχῃ δεῖξαι τὴν μὲν ἑαυτοῦ πόλιν ἐκ τοῦ ταῦτα ἐπιτηδεύειν ἃ φησιν εὐδαίμονα καὶ μεγάλην οὔσαν, τὰς δὲ διαβαλλομένας διὰ τὸ μὴ ταῦτα προαιρεῖσθαι κακοδαίμονους. τὰ δ' ἡμέτερα πράγματα οὐχ οὕτως ἔχει, ἀλλ' ἡ μὲν ὑμετέρα πόλις ἀπὸ μείζονος αὐχλήματος ἀρχομένη καὶ πλειόνων ἀφορμῶν τυχοῦσα εἰς ἐλάττονα ὄγκον συνῆκται, ἡμεῖς δὲ μικρὰς τὰς πρώτας ἀρχὰς λαβόντες ἐν οὐ πολλῷ χρόνῳ μεγίστην τῶν πλησιοχώρων πόλεων τὴν Ῥώμην πεποιήκαμεν τούτοις τοῖς πολιτεύμασιν ὧν σὺ κατηγόρεις χρώμενοι. [8] τὸ δὲ στασιάζον ἡμῶν, ἐπεὶ καὶ τοῦτο δι' αἰτίας εἶχες, ὦ Φουφέττιε, οὐκ ἐπὶ διαφθορᾷ καὶ ἐλαττώσει τῶν κοινῶν, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ σωτηρίᾳ καὶ αὐξήσει γίνεται. φιλοτιμούμεθα γὰρ οἱ νεώτεροι πρὸς τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους καὶ οἱ ἔποικοι πρὸς τοὺς ἐπικαλεσαμένους, πότεροι πλείονα ποιήσομεν τὸ κοινὸν ἀγαθόν. [9] ἵνα δὲ συντεμῶν εἴπω τοῖς μέλλουσιν ἐτέρων ἄρξειν δύο προσεῖναι δεῖ ταῦτα, [p. 292] τὴν ἐν τῷ πολεμῇ ἰσχύον καὶ τὴν ἐν τῷ βουλευσθαι φρόνησιν, ἃ περὶ ἡμᾶς ἐστὶν ἀμφοτέρα: καὶ ὅτι οὐ κενὸς ὁ κόμπος ἢ παντὸς λόγου κρείττων πείρα ἡμῖν μαρτυρεῖ. τοσαύτην γοῦν μεγέθει καὶ δυνάμει πόλιν οὐχ οἷόν τε ἦν γενέσθαι τρίτῃ γενεᾷ μετὰ τὸν οἰκισμόν, εἰ μὴ τὸ τε ἀνδρεῖον ἐπερίττευν αὐτῇ καὶ τὸ φρόνιμον. ἱκαναὶ δὲ τεκμηριῶσαι τὸ κράτος αὐτῆς πολλαὶ πόλεις ἐκ τοῦ Λατίνων οὔσαι γένους καὶ τὴν κτίσιν ἀφ' ὑμῶν ἔχουσαι, αἱ τὴν ὑμετέραν ὑπεριδοῦσαι πόλιν ἡμῖν προσκεχωρήκασιν καὶ ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων ἄρχεσθαι μᾶλλον ἀξιοῦσιν ἢ ὑπ' Ἀλβανῶν, ὥς ἡμῶν μὲν ἀμφοτέρα ἱκανῶν ὄντων τοὺς τε φίλους εὖ ποιεῖν καὶ τοὺς ἐχθροὺς κακῶς, ὑμῶν δ' οὐδέτερα. [10] πολλὰ εἶχον ἔτι καὶ ἰσχυρά, ὧ Φουφέττιε, πρὸς τὰς δικαίωσεις, αἷς σὺ παρέσχου, λέγειν: μάταιον δὲ ὀρῶν τὸν λόγον καὶ ἐν ἴσῳ τὰ πολλὰ τοῖς ὀλίγοις λεχθισόμενα πρὸς ἀντιπάλους ὄντας ὑμᾶς τοῦ δικαίου κριτὰς παύομαι λέγων. ἕνα δὲ ὑπολαμβάνων κράτιστον εἶναι καὶ μόνον ἡμῶν τὰ νείκη δύνασθαι διακρίναι τρόπον, ὧ πολλοὶ βάρβαροί τε καὶ Ἕλληνες εἰς ἔχθρην καταστάντες οἱ μὲν ὑπὲρ ἡγεμονίας, οἱ δὲ ὑπὲρ ἀμφισβητησίμου γῆς ἐχρήσαντο, τοῦτον εἰπὼν ἔτι παύσομαι: [11] εἰ ποιησαίμεθα μέρος τινὶ τῆς ἑαυτῶν στρατιᾶς ἑκάτεροι τὸν ἀγῶνα εἰς ὀλιγοστόν τι πλῆθος ἀνδρῶν συναγαγόντες τὴν τοῦ πολέμου [p. 293] τύχην: ἐξ ὁποτέρας δ' ἂν πόλεως οἱ κρατήσαντες τῶν ἀντιπάλων γένωνται, ταύτῃ συγχωρήσαιμεν ἄρχειν τῆς ἑτέρας. ὅποσα γὰρ μὴ διαιρεῖται ὑπὸ λόγου, ταῦτα ὑπὸ τῶν ὄπλων κρίνεται.

τὰ μὲν δὴ λεχθέντα περὶ τῆς ἡγεμονίας τῶν πόλεων δικαίωματα ὑπ' ἀμφοτέρων τῶν στρατηγῶν τοιάδε ἦν: τέλος δὲ τοῖς λόγοις αὐτῶν ἠκολούθησεν οἷον ὁ Ῥωμαῖος ὑπετίθετο. οἱ γὰρ ἐν τῷ συλλόγῳ παρόντες Ἀλβανῶν τε καὶ Ῥωμαίων ταχέϊαν ἀπαλλαγὴν τοῦ πολέμου ποιήσασθαι ζητοῦντες ὅπλοις τὸ νεῖκος ἔγνωσαν διελεῖν. συγχωρηθέντος δὲ καὶ τούτου περὶ τοῦ πλείους τῶν ἀγωνιουμένων ζήτησις ἐγένετο οὐ τὴν αὐτὴν ἑκατέρου τῶν στρατηγῶν διάνοιαν ἀποδεικνυμένου. [2] Τύλλος μὲν γὰρ ἐβούλετο ἐν ἐλαχίστοις σώμασι γενέσθαι τὴν τοῦ πολέμου κρίσιν ἐνὸς Ἀλβανοῦ τοῦ λαμπροτάτου πρὸς ἕνα Ῥωμαῖον τὸν ἄριστον μονομαχῆσοντος καὶ πρόθυμος ἦν αὐτὸς ὑπὲρ τῆς ἑαυτοῦ πατρίδος ἀγωνίασθαι προκαλοῦμενος εἰς τὴν ὁμοίαν φιλοτιμίαν τὸν Ἀλβανόν, καλοὺς ἀποφαίνων τοῖς ἀνειληφόσι τὰς τῶν στρατοπέδων ἡγεμονίας τοὺς ὑπὲρ ἀρχῆς καὶ δυναστείας ἀγῶνας, οὐ μόνον ἐὰν νικήσωσιν ἀγαθοὺς ἄνδρας, ἀλλὰ καὶ αὐτοὶ κρατηθῶσιν ὑπ' ἀγαθῶν, καὶ διεξιῶν ὅσοι στρατηγοὶ καὶ βασιλεῖς τὰς ἑαυτῶν ψυχὰς προκινδυνεύουσι τῶν κοινῶν παρέσχον δεινὸν ἠγούμενοι τῶν μὲν τιμῶν πλεον αὐτοὶ φέρεσθαι, τῶν δὲ πόνων ἔλαττον. [3] ὁ δὲ Ἀλβανὸς τὸ μὲν ὀλίγοις σώμασι [p. 294] κινδυνεύειν τὰς πόλεις ὀρθῶς ἐνόμιζεν εἰρησθαι, περὶ δὲ τῆς ἐνὶ πρὸς ἕνα μάχης διεφέρετο λέγων ὅτι τοῖς μὲν ἠγούμενοις τῶν στρατοπέδων ὅταν ἰδίαν κατασκευάζωνται δυναστείαν καλὸς καὶ ἀναγκαῖός ἐστιν ὁ περὶ τῆς ἀρχῆς πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἀγών, ταῖς δὲ πόλεσιν αὐταῖς ἐπειδὰν ὑπὲρ τῶν πρωτείων διαφέρωνται πρὸς ἀλλήλας οὐ μόνον σφαλερὸς ἀλλὰ καὶ αἰσχροὺς ὁ διὰ μονομαχίας κίνδυνος, ἐὰν τε τῆς κρείττονος λάβωνται τύχης ἐὰν τε τῆς χειρόνος. [4] τρεῖς δὲ ἄνδρας ἐπιλέκτους ἀφ' ἑκατέρας πόλεως συνεβούλευεν ὑπὸ τὴν ἀπάντων ὄψιν Ἀλβανῶν τε καὶ Ῥωμαίων διαγωνίσασθαι. ἐπιτηδεϊότατον γὰρ εἶναι τόνδε τὸν ἀριθμὸν εἰς ἅπασαν ἀμφισβητουμένου πράγματος διαίρεσιν ἀρχὴν τε καὶ μέσα καὶ τελευτὴν ἔχοντα ἐν ἑαυτῷ. ταύτῃ προσθεμένων τῇ γνώμῃ

Ἐπειτα καλέσαντες εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὰς δυνάμεις ἀμφοτέρας οἱ στρατηγοὶ διεξῆλθον ἃ τε διελέχθησαν αὐτοὶ πρὸς ἀλλήλους καὶ ἐφ' οἷς συνέθεντο καταλύσασθαι τὸν πόλεμον. ἐπικυρωσάντων δὲ τῶν στρατευμάτων ἀμφοτέρων κατὰ πολλὴν εὐδόκησιν τὰς τῶν στρατηγῶν ὁμολογίας, θαυμαστὴ μετὰ τοῦτο κατεῖχε φιλοτιμία καὶ λοχαγοὺς καὶ στρατιώτας πολλῶν πάνυ προθυμουμένων ἐξενέγκασθαι τὰ τῆς μάχης ἀριστεῖα καὶ οὐ λόγῳ σπουδαζόντων μόνον, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἔργῳ φιλοτιμίας ἀποδεικνυμένων, ὥστε χαλεπὴν [p. 295] γενέσθαι τοῖς ἡγεμόσιν αὐτῶν τὴν τῶν ἐπιτηδειοτάτων διάγνωσιν. [2] εἰ γάρ τις ἦν ἢ πατέρων ἐπιφανείᾳ λαμπρὸς ἢ σώματος ῥώμῃ διαπρεπὴς ἢ πράξει τῇ κατὰ χεῖρα γενναῖος ἢ κατ' ἄλλην τινὰ τύχην ἢ τόλμαν ἐπίσημος ἑαυτὸν ἡξίου τάττειν πρῶτον ἐν τοῖς τρισὶ. [3] ταύτην ἐπὶ πολὺ χωροῦσαν ἐν ἀμφοτέροις τοῖς στρατεύμασι τὴν φιλοτιμίαν ὁ τῶν Ἀλβανῶν ἔπαυσε στρατηγὸς ἐνθυμηθεὶς, ὅτι θεία τις πρόνοια ἐκ πολλοῦ προορωμένη τὸν μέλλοντα συμβῆσεσθαι ταῖς πόλεσιν ἀγῶνα τοὺς προκινδυνεύοντας ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν κατεσκεύασε γενέσθαι οἰκῶν τε οὐκ ἀφανῶν καὶ τὰ πολέμια ἀγαθοὺς ὀφθῆναι τε καλλίστους καὶ οὐ γενέσεως ὁμοίας τοῖς πολλοῖς μετεिल्φότας, ἀλλὰ σπανίου καὶ θαυμαστῆς διὰ τὸ παράδοξον. [4] Ὅρατίῳ γάρ τινι Ῥωμαίῳ καὶ Κορατίῳ τὸ γένος Ἀλβανῶν κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν χρόνον ἐνεγγύησε θυγατέρας διδύμους Σικίνιος Ἀλβανός. τοῦτοις ἀμφοτέροις αἱ γυναῖκες ἐγκύμονες ἅμα γενόμεναι, τὰς πρωτοτόκους ἐκφέρουσι γονὰς ἄρρενα βρέφη τρίδυμα, καὶ αὐτὰ ἃ οἱ γεινόμενοι πρὸς οἰωνοῦ λαβόντες ἀγαθοῦ καὶ πόλει καὶ οἰκῷ τῷ σφετέρῳ τρέφουσιν ἅπαντα καὶ τελειοῦσιν: θεὸς δ' αὐτοῖς, ὥσπερ κατ' ἀρχὰς ἔφην, δίδωσι κάλλος τε καὶ ῥώμην καὶ δὴ καὶ ψυχῆς γενναιότητα μηδενὸς τῶν ἄριστα πεφυκότων χεῖροσι γενέσθαι. τοῦτοις ἔγνω τοῖς ἀνδράσιν ὁ Φουφέττιος ἐπιτρέπειν τὸν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἡγεμονίας ἀγῶνα [p. 296] καὶ προκαλεσάμενος εἰς λόγους τὸν βασιλέα τῶν Ῥωμαίων λέγει πρὸς αὐτόν:

θεὸς τις ἔοικεν, ὦ Τύλλε, προνοούμενος τῶν πόλεων ἑκατέρας ἐν ἄλλοις τε πολλοῖς καὶ δὴ καὶ κατὰ τόνδε τὸν ἀγῶνα φανεράν τὴν εὖνοιαν πεποιῆσθαι. τὸ γὰρ εὐρεθῆναι τοὺς ἀγωνιουμένους ὑπὲρ πάντων γένει τε μηδενὸς χεῖρονας καὶ τὰ πολέμια ἀγαθοὺς ὀφθῆναι τε καλλίστους, πρὸς δὲ τοῦτοις ἔξ ἐνὸς πεφυκότας πατρὸς καὶ ὑπὸ μιᾶς γεγεννημένους μητρὸς καὶ τὸ θαυμασιώτατον ἐν μιᾷ προελθόντας εἰς φῶς γενέσει, παρ' ὑμῖν μὲν Ὅρατίους, παρ' ἡμῖν δὲ Κορατίους, θαυμαστῇ τινι καὶ θείᾳ παντάπασιν ἔοικεν εὐεργεσίᾳ. [2] τί οὖν οὐ δεχόμεθα τὴν τοσαύτην τοῦ δαιμονίου πρόνοιαν καὶ παρακαλοῦμεν ἐπὶ τὸν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἡγεμονίας ἀγῶνα τοὺς τριδύμους ἀδελφοὺς ἑκάτεροι; τὰ τε γὰρ ἄλλ', ὅσα ἐν τοῖς ἄριστα μαχησομένοις βουλοίμεθ' ἂν εἶναι, κὰν τοῦτοις ἔνεστι τοῖς ἀνδράσι, καὶ τὸ μὴ προλιπεῖν τοὺς παρασπιστάς κάμνοντας τοῦτοις μᾶλλον ὑπάρξει ἀδελφοῖς οὗσι παρ' οὕσπινας ἄλλους Ῥωμαίων τε καὶ Ἀλβανῶν, ἢ τε φιλοτιμία τῶν ἄλλων νέων χαλεπὴ λυθῆναι δι' ἑτέρου πινὸς οὕσα τρόπου ταχεῖαν ἔξει τὴν κρίσιν. [3] τεκμαίρομαι γάρ τινα καὶ παρ' ὑμῖν χάριν ἐν πολλοῖς εἶναι τῶν ἀντιποιοιμένων ἀρετῆς, [p. 297] ὥσπερ καὶ παρ' Ἀλβανοῖς: οὕς εἰ διδάσκοιμεν ὅτι θεία τις ἔφθακε τύχη τὰς ἀνθρωπίνας σπουδὰς αὐτῆς παρασχούσης τοὺς ἐξ Ἰσου τὸν ὑπὲρ τῶν πόλεων ἀγῶνα ποιησομένους, οὐ χαλεπῶς πείσομεν. οὐ γὰρ ἀρετῇ λείπεσθαι δόξουσι τῶν τριδύμων ἀδελφῶν, ἀλλὰ φύσεως εὐκληρίᾳ καὶ τύχης ἰσορρόπου πρὸς τὸ ἀντίπαλον ἐπιτηδεϊότητι.

τοσαῦτα τοῦ Φουφεττίου λέξαντος καὶ πάντων τὴν γνώμην ἐπαινεσάντων ἔτυχον δὲ Ῥωμαίων τε καὶ Ἀλβανῶν οἱ κράτιστοι παρόντες ἀμφοτέροισ' μικρὸν ἐπισχῶν ὁ Τύλλος λέγει: τὰ μὲν ἄλλα ὀρθῶς ἐπιλελογίσθαι μοι δοκεῖς, ὦ Φουφέττιε: θαυμαστὴ γὰρ τις ἡ τὴν οὐδέποτε συμβᾶσαν ὁμοιογένειαν ἐν ἀμφοτέραις ταῖς πόλεσιν ἐπὶ τῆς ἡμετέρας γενεᾶς ἐξενέγκασα τύχη: ἐν δ' ἀγνοεῖν ἔοικας, ὃ πολὺν παρέξει τοῖς νεανίσκοις ὄκνον, ἐὰν ἀξιῶμεν αὐτοὺς ἀλλήλοις χωρεῖν διὰ μάχης. [2] ἡ γὰρ Ὀρατίων μήτηρ τῶν ἡμετέρων ἀδελφῇ τῆς Κορατίων μητρός ἐστι τῶν Ἀλβανῶν, καὶ τέθραπται τὰ μεῖράκια ἐν τοῖς ἀμφοτέρων τῶν γυναικῶν κόλποις ἀσπάζονται τ' ἀλλήλους καὶ φιλοῦσιν οὐχ ἥττον ἢ πολλοὶ τοὺς ἑαυτῶν ἀδελφούς. ὅρα δὴ μὴ ποτε οὐδ' ὅσιον ἦ τοῦτοις ἀναδιδόναι τὰ ὄπλα καὶ καλεῖν αὐτοὺς ἐπὶ τὸν κατ' ἀλλήλων φόνον ἀνεψιοὺς καὶ συντρόφους ὄντας. τὸ γὰρ ἐμφύλιον ἄγος, ἐὰν ἀναγκασθῶσιν ἀλλήλους μισοφρονεῖν, εἰς ἡμᾶς ἐλεύσεται τοὺς ἀναγκάζοντας. [3] [p. 298] λέγει πρὸς αὐτὸν ὁ Φουφέττιος: οὐδ' ἐμὲ ἐλήθηεν, ὦ Τύλλε, τὸ συγγενὲς τῶν μεираκιῶν, οὐδ' ὥς ἀναγκάσων αὐτοὺς τοῖς ἀνεψιοῖς διὰ μάχης χωρεῖν εἰ μὴ βουλευθεῖεν αὐτοὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα ὑπομεῖναι παρεσκευασάμην, ἀλλ' ἐπειδὴ τάχιστα ἐπὶ νοῦν ἦλθέ μοι τότε τὸ βούλευμα τοὺς Ἀλβανούς Κορατίους μεταπεμφάμενος αὐτὸς ἐπ' ἐμαντοῦ διάπειραν ἔλαβον εἰ βουλομένοις αὐτοῖς ἐστὶν ὁ ἀγών: δεξαμένων δ' αὐτῶν τὸν λόγον ἀπίστῳ τινὶ καὶ θαυμαστῇ προθυμίᾳ, τότε ἀνακαλύπτειν ἔγνω τὸ βούλευμα καὶ φέρειν εἰς μέσον: σοὶ τε τὸ αὐτὸ τοῦτο ὑποτίθεμαι ποιεῖν καλέσαντι τοὺς παρ' ὑμῖν τριδύμους πείραν αὐτῶν τῆς γνώμης ποιήσασθαι. [4] ἐὰν μὲν οὖν ἐκόντες συνεπιδιδῶσι κάκεῖνοι τὰ σώματα προκινδυνεύσαι τῆς ἑαυτῶν πατρίδος δέχου τὴν χάριν, ἐὰν δὲ ἀναδύωνται μηδεμίαν αὐτοῖς πρόσφερε ἀνάγκην. μαντεύομαι δὲ καὶ περὶ ἐκείνων οἷα καὶ περὶ τῶν ἡμετέρων, εἴπερ οὖν εἰσὶν οἷους ἀκούομεν, ἐν ὀλίγοις τοῖς ἄριστα πεφυκόσιν ὅμοιοι καὶ τὰ πολέμια ἀγαθοί: κλέος γὰρ αὐτῶν καὶ πρὸς ἡμᾶς ἐλήλυθε τῆς ἀρετῆς.

δέχεται δὴ τὴν παραίνεσιν ὁ Τύλλος καὶ δεχημέρους ποιησάμενος ἀνοχάς, ἐν αἷς βουλευσεται τε καὶ μαθὼν τὴν διάνοιαν τῶν Ὀρατίων ἀποκρινεῖται παρῆν εἰς τὴν πόλιν. ταῖς δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέραις βουλευσάμενος [p. 299] ἅμα τοῖς ἄριστοις, ἐπειδὴ τοῖς πλειστοῖς ἔδοξε δεχέσθαι τὰς τοῦ Φουφεττίου προκλήσεις, μεταπέμπεται τοὺς τριδύμους ἀδελφούς καὶ λέγει πρὸς αὐτούς: [2] ἄνδρες Ὀράτιοι, Φουφέττιος ὁ Ἀλβανὸς εἰς λόγους συνελθὼν ἐμοὶ τὴν τελευταίαν ἐπὶ στρατοπέδου σύνοδον ἔφη τοὺς προκινδυνεύσοντας ὑπὲρ ἑκατέρας πόλεως τρεῖς ἄνδρας ἀγαθοὺς κατὰ θεῖαν γεγενῆσθαι πρόνοιαν, ὧν οὐκ ἂν εὐροιμεν ἐτέρους οὔτε γενναιοτέρους οὔτε ἐπιτηδαιοτέρους, Ἀλβανῶν μὲν Κορατίους, Ῥωμαίων δὲ ὑμᾶς: τοῦτο τε καταμαθὼν :αὐτὸς ἐξήτακέναι πρῶτον εἰ βουλομένοις εἶη τοῖς ἀνεψιοῖς ὑμῶν ἐπιδοῦναι τὰ σώματα τῇ πατρίδι, μαθὼν δὲ αὐτοὺς ἀναδεχομένους τὸν ὑπὲρ πάντων ἀγῶνα κατὰ πολλὴν προθυμίαν θαρρῶν εἰς μέσον ἐκφέρειν ἤδη τὸν λόγον, ἤξιον τε καὶ ἐμὲ πείραν ὑμῶν λαβεῖν, πότερον βουλήσεσθε προκινδυνεῦσαι τῆς πατρίδος ὁμόσε χωρήσαντες Κορατίοις ἢ [3] παραχωρεῖτε τῆς φιλοτιμίας ταύτης ἑτέροις. ἐγὼ δὲ ἀρετῆς μὲν ἕνεκα καὶ τῆς κατὰ χεῖρα γενναιότητος, ἦν οὐ λανθάνουσιν ἔχετε, πάντων μάλιστα δεξομένους ὑμᾶς τὸν ὑπὲρ τῶν ἀριστείων κίνδυνον ἄρασθαι, δεδοικῶς μὴ τὸ πρὸς τοὺς Ἀλβανοὺς τριδύμους συγγενὲς ἐμπόδιον ὑμῖν γένηται τῆς προθυμίας, [p. 300] χρόνον ἡτησάμεν εἰς βουλὴν ἀνακωχὰς δεχημέρους ποιησάμενος: ὡς δὲ ἀφικόμην δεῦρο τὴν βουλὴν συνεκάλεσα καὶ προὔθηκα περὶ τοῦ πράγματος ἐν κοινῷ σκοπεῖν: δόξαν δὲ ταῖς πλείοσι γνώμαις, εἰ μὲν ἐκόντες ἀναδέχοισθε τὸν ἀγῶνα καλὸν ὄντα καὶ προσήκοντα ὑμῖν, ὃν ἐγὼ πρόθυμος ἦμην μόνος ὑπὲρ πάντων διαγωνίσασθαι, ἐπαινεῖν τε καὶ δέχεσθαι τὴν χάριν ὑμῶν, εἰ δὲ τὸ συγγενὲς ἐντρεπόμενοι μίασμα, οὐ γὰρ δὴ κακοὶ ψυχὴν ὁμολογοῦντες εἶναι, τοὺς ἔξω τοῦ γένους ἀξιῶσαιτε καλεῖν, μηδεμίαν ὑμῖν ἀνάγκην προσφέρειν. ταῦτα τῆς :βουλῆς ψηφισαμένης καὶ οὔτε πρὸς ὀργὴν δεξομένης εἰ δι' ὅκνου τὸ ἔργον λάβοιτε οὔτε μικρὰν χάριν εἰσομένης ὑμῖν εἰ τιμιωτέραν ἡγήσαισθε τῆς συγγενείας τὴν πατρίδα, τυγχάνετε εὖ βουλευσάμενοι.

ὡς δὴ ταῦτ' ἤκουσαν οἱ νεανίαί, μεταστάντες ἐτέρωσε καὶ διαλεχθέντες ὀλίγα πρὸς ἀλλήλους προσέρχονται πάλιν ἀποκρινόμενοι καὶ λέγει ὑπὲρ πάντων ὁ πρεσβύτατος τοιάδε: εἰ μὲν ἔλευθέρους ἡμῖν οὔσι καὶ κυρίοις τῆς ἰδίας γνώμης ἐξουσίαν παρεῖχες, ὦ Τύλλε, βουλεύεσθαι περὶ τοῦ πρὸς τοὺς ἀνεψιοὺς ἀγῶνος, οὐθὲν ἔτι διαμελλήσαντες ἀπεκρινάμεθα ἄν σοι τοὺς ἑαυτῶν διαλογισμούς: ἐπειδὴ δὲ περίεστιν ἡμῖν ὁ πατήρ, οὗ χωρὶς οὐδὲ τάλάχιστα λέγειν ἢ πράττειν ἀξιοῦμεν, αἰτούμεθά σε [p. 301] ὀλίγον ἀναδέξασθαι χρόνον τὴν ἀπόκρισιν ἡμῶν, ἕως τῷ πατρὶ διαλεχθῶμεν. [2] ἐπαινέσαντος δὲ τοῦ Τύλλου τὴν εὐσέβειαν αὐτῶν καὶ κελεύσαντος οὕτω ποιεῖν ἀπήεσαν ὡς τὸν πατέρα. δηλώσαντες δὲ αὐτῷ τὰς προκλήσεις τοῦ Φουφρεττίου καὶ οὕς ὁ Τύλλος διελέχθη λόγους καὶ τελευταίαν τὴν ἑαυτῶν ἀπόκρισιν ἡξιοῦν εἰπεῖν ἦντινα γνώμην αὐτὸς ἔχει. [3] ὁ δὲ ὑπολαβὼν, Ἀλλ' εὐσεβὲς μὲν, ἔφη, πρᾶγμα ποιεῖτε, ὦ παῖδες, τῷ πατρὶ ζῶντες καὶ οὐδὲν ἄνευ τῆς ἐμῆς γνώμης διαπραττόμενοι, καιρὸς δὲ καὶ ὑμᾶς αὐτοὺς ἤδη περὶ ὑμῶν τὰ γε τηλικαῦτα φαίνεσθαι φρονοῦντας. ὑπολαβόντες οὖν τὸν ἐμὸν βίον ἤδη τέλος ἔχειν φανερόν ποιήσατέ μοι, τί δὴ ποτ' ἂν αὐτοὶ προεἰλεσθε πράττειν ἄνευ τοῦ πατρὸς περὶ τῶν ἰδίων βουλευσάμενοι. [4] ἀποκρίνεται πρὸς αὐτὸν ὁ πρεσβύτατος τοιάδε: ἐδεξάμεθ' ἄν, ὦ πάτερ, τὸν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἡγεμονίας ἀγῶνα καὶ πάσχειν ὑπεμείναμεν ὃ τι ἂν δοκῇ τῷ δαιμονίῳ: τεθνάναι γὰρ ἂν βουλοίμεθα μᾶλλον ἢ ζῆν ἀνάξιοι γενόμενοι σοῦ τε καὶ τῶν προγόνων. τὸ δὲ πρὸς τοὺς ἀνεψιοὺς συγγενὲς οὐχ ἡμεῖς πρότεροι λύσομεν, ἀλλ' ὡς ὑπὸ τῆς τύχης διαλέλυνται στέρξομεν. [5] εἰ γὰρ Κορατίοις ἔλαττον κρίνεται τοῦ καλοῦ τὸ συγγενές, οὐδὲ Ὀρατίοις τιμιώτερον φανήσεται τὸ γένος τῆς ἀρετῆς. ὁ δὲ πατήρ ὡς ἔμαθε τὴν διάνοιαν αὐτῶν περιχαρῆς γενόμενος καὶ τὰς χεῖρας ἀνασχωὺν εἰς τὸν οὐρανὸν πολλὰς ἔφη χάριτας εἶδέναι τοῖς [p. 302] θεοῖς, ὅτι παῖδας ἔδωκαν αὐτῷ γενέσθαι καλοὺς καὶ ἀγαθοὺς: ἔπειτα περιλαβὼν ἕκαστον αὐτῶν καὶ τὰς ἡδίστας ἀποδοὺς ἀσπασμῶν τε καὶ φιλημάτων φιλοφροσύνας, Ἐχετ', ἔφη, καὶ τὴν ἐμὴν γνώμην, ὧ παῖδες ἀγαθοί, καὶ πορευθέντες ἀποκρίνασθε Τύλλω [6] τὴν τ' εὐσεβῆ καὶ καλὴν ἀπόκρισιν. οἱ μὲν δὴ χαίροντες ἐπὶ τῇ παρακελεύσει τοῦ πατρὸς ἀπήεσαν καὶ προσελθόντες τῷ βασιλεῖ ἀναδέχονται τὸν ἀγῶνα, κάκεῖνος συγκαλέσας τὴν βουλὴν καὶ πολλοὺς ἐπαίνους τῶν νεανίσκων διαθέμενος ἀποστέλλει πρέσβεις πρὸς τὸν Ἀλβανὸν τοὺς δηλώσοντας, ὅτι δέχονται Ῥωμαῖοι τὴν αἵρεσιν καὶ παρέξονται τοὺς Ὀρατίους διαγωνιζομένους ὑπὲρ τῆς ἀρχῆς.

ἀπαιτούσης δὲ τῆς ὑποθέσεως καὶ τὸν τρόπον διεξελεῖν τῆς μάχης ἀκριβῶς καὶ τὰ μετὰ ταύτην γενόμενα πάθη θεατρικαῖς ἐοικότα περιπετεῖαις μὴ ῥαθὺμως διελθεῖν πειράσομαι καὶ περὶ τούτων ἐπ' ἀκριβείας ἕκαστον, ὡς ἐμὴ δύναμις, εἰπεῖν. ἐπειδὴ γὰρ ὁ χρόνος ἦκεν ἐν ᾧ τέλος ἔδει λαβεῖν τὰς ὁμολογίας, ἐξήεσαν μὲν αἱ τῶν Ῥωμαίων δυνάμεις πανστρατιᾷ, ἐξήεσαν δὲ μετὰ ταῦθ' οἱ νεανίσκοι τοῖς πατρώοις θεοῖς εὐξάμενοι καὶ προῆγον ἅμα τῷ βασιλεῖ κατευφημούμενοι τε ὑπὸ παντὸς τοῦ κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ὄχλου καὶ παττόμενοι τὰς κεφαλὰς ἄνθεσιν: ἤδη δὲ καὶ ἡ τῶν Ἀλβανῶν ἐξεληλύθει στρατιά. [2] ἐπεὶ δὲ κατεστρατοπεδεύσαντο πλησίον ἀλλήλων μεταίχμιον ποιησάμενοι τὸν διείργοντα τὴν Ῥωμαίων [p. 303] ἀπὸ τῆς Ἀλβανῶν ὄρον, ἔνθα καὶ πρότερον εἶχον ἑκάτεροι τοὺς χάρακας, πρῶτον μὲν ἱερὰ θύσαντες ὤμοσαν ἐπὶ τῶν ἐμπύρων στέρξειν τὴν τύχην, ἣν ἂν ἐκ τῆς μάχης τῶν ἀνεψιῶν ἑκατέρα πόλις ἐξενέγκηται, καὶ φυλάξειν τὰς ὁμολογίας βεβαίους μηδένα προσάγοντες αὐταῖς δόλον αὐτοὶ τε καὶ γένος τὸ ἐξ αὐτῶν: ἐπεὶ δὲ τὰ πρὸς θεοὺς ὅσια διεπράξαντο, θέμενοι τὰ ὄπλα προῆγον ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος ἀμφοτέροι θεαταὶ τῆς μάχης ἐσόμενοι τριῶν ἢ τεττάρων σταδίων τὸ μεταξὺ χωρίον τοῖς ἀγωνιζομένοις καταλιπόντες: καὶ μετ' οὐ πολὺ παρῆν τοὺς τε Κορατίους ὁ τῶν Ἀλβανῶν στρατηγὸς ἄγων καὶ τοὺς Ὀρατίους ὁ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς ὠπλισμένους τε κάλλιστα καὶ τὸν ἄλλον ἔχοντας κόσμον οἷον ἄνθρωποι λαμβάνουσιν ἐπὶ θανάτῳ. [3] γενόμενοι δὲ σύνεγγυς ἀλλήλων τὰ μὲν ξίφη τοῖς ὑπασπισταῖς παρέδωκαν, προσδραμόντες δὲ περιέβαλλον ἀλλήλοις κλαίοντες καὶ τοῖς ἡδίστοις ὀνόμασιν ἀνακαλοῦντες, ὥστε εἰς δάκρυα προπεσεῖν ἅπαντας καὶ πολλὴν ἀστοργίαν κατηγορεῖν σφῶν τε αὐτῶν καὶ τῶν ἡγεμόνων, ὅτι παρὸν ἄλλοις πιστὶ σώμασι κρῖναι τὴν μάχην εἰς ἐμφύλιον αἷμα καὶ συγγενικὸν ἄγος τὸν ὑπὲρ τῶν πόλεων ἀγῶνα κατέκλεισαν. παυσάμενοι δὲ τῶν ἀσπασμῶν οἱ νεανίσκοι καὶ τὰ ξίφη παρὰ τῶν ὑπασπιστῶν λαβόντες ἀναχωρησάντων τῶν πέλας ἐτάξαντό τε καθ' ἡλικίαν καὶ συνήεσαν ὁμόσε.

τέως μὲν οὖν ἡσυχία τε καὶ σιγὴ κατεῖχεν [p. 304] ἀμφοτέρας τὰς δυνάμεις: ἔπειτα ἀναβοήσεις τε ἄθροαι παρ' ἀμφοτέρων αὐτῶν ἐγίνοντο καὶ παρακελεύσεις τοῖς μαχομένοις ἐναλλάξ εὐχαὶ τε καὶ οἰμωγαὶ καὶ παντὸς ἄλλου πάθους ἐναγωνίου φωναὶ συνεχεῖς, αἱ μὲν πρὸς τὰ δρώμενά τε καὶ ὀρώμενα ὑφ' ἑκατέρων, [2] αἱ δὲ πρὸς τὰ μέλλοντά τε καὶ ὑποπτευόμενα: καὶ ἦν πλείω τὰ εἰκαζόμενα τῶν γινομένων. ἥ τε γὰρ ὄψις ἐκ πολλοῦ διαστήματος γινομένη πολὺ τὸ ἀσφές εἶχε, καὶ τὸ πρὸς τοὺς οἰκίους ἀγωνιστὰς ἐκάστοις συμπαθὲς ἐπὶ το βεβουλημένον ἐλάμβανε τὰ πρασσόμενα, αἶ τε συνεχεῖς τῶν μαχομένων ἐπεμβάσεις καὶ ὑπαναχωρήσεις καὶ εἰς τὸ ἀντίπαλον αὐθις ἀντιμεταστάσεις πολλαὶ καὶ ἀγχίστροφοι γινόμεναι τὸ ἀκριβὲς τῆς γνώμης ἀφηροῦντο· καὶ ταῦτα ἐπὶ πολὺν ἐγένετο χρόνον. [3] ῥώμην τε γὰρ σώματος ἔτυχον ὁμοίαν ἔχοντες ἐκάτεροι καὶ τὸ γενναῖον τῆς ψυχῆς ἰσόρροπον ὅπλοις τε καλλίστοις ἐσκεπασμένοι τὰ σώματα ὅλα καὶ γυμνὸν οὐδὲν ἀπολιπόντες μέρος ὃ τι καὶ τρωθὲν ὀξεῖαν ἔμελλεν οἴσιν τὴν τελευτήν, ὥστε πολλοὶ Ῥωμαίων τε καὶ Ἀλβανῶν ἐκ τοῦ φιλονεικεῖν τε καὶ συμπαθεῖν τοῖς σφετέροις ἔλαθον αὐτοὺς τὸ τῶν κινδυνευόντων μεταλαβόντες πάθος ἀγωνισταὶ τε μᾶλλον ἐβούλοντο ἢ θεαταὶ τῶν, δρωμένων γεγονέναι. [4] ὅψὲ δ' οὖν ποτε ὁ πρεσβύτατος τῶν Ἀλβανῶν τῷ πρὸς αὐτὸν ἀντιτεταγμένῳ συμπλέκεται παῖων τε καὶ παιόμενος [p. 305] ἄλλας ἐπ' ἄλλαις πληγὰς καὶ πως τυγχάνει τοῦ Ῥωμαίου διὰ βουβῶνος ἐνέγκας τὸ ξίφος. ὁ δὲ τοῖς τε ἄλλοις τραύμασι κεκαρωμένος ἤδη καὶ τὴν τελευταίαν πληγὴν θανατηφόρον ἔχων ὑπολυθέντων τῶν μελῶν καταρρυεῖς ἀποθνήσκει. [5] ὥς δὲ τοῦτ' εἶδον οἱ θεαταὶ τῆς μάχης ἅμα πάντες ἀνεβόησαν, Ἀλβανοὶ μὲν ὡς νικῶντες ἤδη, Ῥωμαῖοι δ' ὡς κρατοῦμενοι. τοὺς γὰρ δὴ σφετέρους δύο τοῖς τρισὶν Ἀλβανοῖς εὐκατεργάστους ὑπελάμβανον γενήσεσθαι. ἐν ᾧ δ' ἐγένετο ταῦτα, ὁ παρασπίζων τῷ πεσόντι Ῥωμαῖος ὀρῶν ἐπὶ τῷ κατορθώματι περιχαρῇ τὸν Ἀλβανὸν ὠθεῖται ταχὺς ἐπ' αὐτὸν καὶ πολλὰ μὲν τραύματα δούς, πολλὰ δὲ αὐτὸς λαβὼν τυγχάνει πως κατὰ τῆς σφαγῆς αὐτοῦ [6] βάψας τὸ ξίφος καὶ διαχρησάμενος. μεταβαλοῦσης δὲ τῆς τύχης ἐν ὀλίγῳ τὰ τε τῶν ἀγωνιζομένων ἔργα καὶ τὰ τῶν θεωμένων πάθη, καὶ Ῥωμαίων μὲν ἀναθαρρησάντων ἐκ τῆς πρότερον κατηφείας, Ἀλβανῶν δὲ ἀφηρημένων τὸ χαῖρον, ἑτέρα πάλιν ἀντιπνεύσασα τοῖς τῶν Ῥωμαίων κατορθώμασι τύχη τούτων μὲν ἐταπείνωσε τὰς ἐλπίδας, τὰ δὲ τῶν πολεμίων φρονήματα ἐπῆρεν. τοῦ γὰρ Ἀλβανοῦ πεσόντος ὁ τὴν πλησίον αὐτοῦ ἔχων στάσιν ἀδελφὸς συμπλέκεται τῷ καταβαλόντι, καὶ τυγχάνουσιν ἀμφοτέρω κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν χρόνον πληγὰς ἐξαισίους ἐξενέγκαντες κατ' ἀλλήλων, ὁ μὲν Ἀλβανὸς τοῦ Ῥωμαίου κατὰ τοῦ μεταφρένου καὶ μέχρι τῶν σπλάγχχνων βάψας τὸ ξίφος, ὁ [p. 306] δὲ Ῥωμαῖος ὑπελθὼν τὴν προβολὴν τοῦ πολεμίου καὶ τῶν ἰγνῶν τὴν ἑτέραν ὑποτεμῶν.

ὁ μὲν δὴ τὸ καίριον τραῦμα λαβὼν εὐθὺς ἐτεθνήκει, ὁ δὲ τὴν ἰγνύαν τετρωμένος οὐκέτι βέβαιος ἦν ἐστάναι, σκάζων δὲ καὶ τὰ πολλὰ τῷ θυρεῷ διεριδόμενος ἀντεῖχεν ὅμως ἔτι καὶ μετὰ τοῦ περιλειπομένου τῶν ἀδελφῶν ἐπὶ τὸν ὑπομένοντα Ῥωμαῖον ἐχώρει, περιέστησάν τε αὐτὸν ὁ μὲν ἐξ ἐναντίας προσιών, [2] ὁ δὲ κατὰ νότου. τῷ δὲ Ῥωμαίῳ δείσαντι μὴ κυκλωθεὶς πρὸς αὐτῶν εὐκατέργαστος γένηται δυσὶ τε μαχόμενος καὶ διχόθεν ἐπιούσιν, ἦν δὲ ἀκραιφνὴς ἔτι, λογισμὸς εἰσέρχεται διελεῖν τοὺς πολεμίους ἀπ' ἀλλήλων καὶ χωρὶς ἐκατέρῳ μάχεσθαι. ῥᾶστα δὲ διαστήσειν αὐτοὺς ὑπελάμβανεν, εἰ δόξαν παράσχοι φυγῆς· οὐ γὰρ ὑπ' ἀμφοτέρων διώξεσθαι τῶν Ἀλβανῶν, ἀλλ' ὕφ' ἑνός, ὁρῶν τὸν ἀδελφὸν οὐκέτι καρτερὸν τῶν ποδῶν. ταῦτα δὴ διανοηθεὶς ὡς εἶχε τάχους ἔφευγε καὶ συνέπεσεν αὐτῷ μὴ διαμαρτεῖν τῆς ἐλπίδος. [3] ὁ μὲν γὰρ ἕτερος τῶν Ἀλβανῶν οὐδεμίαν ἔχων πληγὴν καίριον ἐδίωκεν αὐτὸν ἐκποδός, ὁ δ' ἐπιβαίνειν ἀδύνατος ὢν πολὺ τοῦ δέοντος ὑστέρει. ἔνθα δὴ τῶν Ἀλβανῶν τοῖς σφετέροις ἐγκελευομένων, τῶν δὲ Ῥωμαίων τὸν αὐτῶν ἀγωνιστὴν κακιζόντων καὶ τῶν μὲν δὴ παιανίζοντων τε καὶ στεφανουμένων ὡς [p. 307] ἐπὶ κατορθουμένῳ τῷ ἀγῶνι, τῶν δ' ὀδυρομένων ὡς οὐκ ἂν ἔτι τῆς τύχης σφᾶς διαναστησομένης, ταμιευσάμενος τὸν καιρὸν ὁ Ῥωμαῖος ὑποστρέφει τε ὀξέως καὶ πρὶν ἢ φυλάξασθαι τὸν Ἀλβανὸν φθάνει τῷ ξίφει κατὰ τοῦ βραχίονος πληγὴν ἐνέγκας καὶ διελὼν τὸν ἀγκῶνα. [4] πεσοῦσης δὲ χαμαὶ τῆς χειρὸς ἅμα τῷ ξίφει μίαν ἔπι πληγὴν καίριον ἐξενέγκας ἀποκτείνει τὸν Ἀλβανόν, καὶ μετὰ τοῦτον ἐπὶ τὸν τελευταῖον ὠσάμενος ἡμιμῆντα καὶ παρειμένον ἐπικατασφάττει. σκυλεύσας δὲ τοὺς τῶν ἀνεψιῶν νεκροὺς εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἡπείγετο πρῶτος ἀπαγγεῖλαι θέλων τὴν ἑαυτοῦ νίκην τῷ πατρί.

ἔδει δὲ ἄρα καὶ τοῦτον ἄνθρωπον ὄντα μὴ πάντα διευτυχεῖν, ἀλλ' ἀπολαῦσαι τι τοῦ φθονεροῦ δαίμονος, ὃς αὐτὸν ἐκ μικροῦ μέγαν ἐν ὀλίγῳ θεὶς χρόνῳ καὶ εἰς ἐπιφάνειαν θαυμαστὴν καὶ παράδοξον ἐξάρας κατέβαλε φέρων αὐθημερὸν εἰς ἄχαριν συμφορὰν ἀδελφοκτόνον. [2] ὡς γὰρ ἐγγὺς ἐγένετο τῶν πυλῶν, ἄλλον τε ὄχλον ὁρᾷ παντοδαπὸν ἐκχεόμενον ἐκ τῆς πόλεως καὶ δὴ καὶ τὴν ἀδελφὴν προστρέχουσιν: διαταραχθεὶς δὲ κατὰ τὴν πρώτην ὄψιν, ὅτι καταλιποῦσα τὴν μετὰ μητρὸς οἰκουρίαν παρθένος ἐπιγάμος εἰς ὄχλον αὐτὴν ἔδωκεν ἀγνώτα, καὶ πολλοὺς λαμβάνων λογισμοὺς ἀτόπους τελευτῶν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἐπικεῖς καὶ φιланθρώπους ἀπέκλινεν, ὡς ἀσπᾶσασθαι τε [p. 308] πρώτη τὸν σωθέντα ἀδελφὸν ποθοῦσα καὶ τὰς ἀρετὰς τῶν τεθνηκότων παρ' αὐτοῦ μαθεῖν βουλομένη τῶν εὐσχημόνων ὑπερίδοι γυναικεῖόν τι πάσχουσα. [3] ἡ δὲ ἄρα οὐ τοὺς ἀδελφοὺς ποθοῦσα τὰς ἀσυνήθεις ἐτόλμησεν ἐξελθεῖν ὁδοὺς, ἀλλ' ἔρωτι κρατουμένη τῶν ἀνεψιῶν ἑνός, ᾧ καθωμολόγητο ὑπὸ τοῦ πατρὸς ἐπὶ γάμῳ, καὶ κρύπτουσα τὸ πάθος ἀπόρρητον ἐπειδὴ δὲ τῶν ἀπὸ τοῦ στρατοπέδου τινὸς ἤκουσεν ἀπαγγέλλοντος τὰ περὶ τὴν μάχην, οὐκέτι κατέσχευε, ἀλλ' ἐκλιποῦσα τὴν οἰκίαν ὥσπερ αἱ μαινάδες ἐφέρετο πρὸς τὰς πύλας οὐδὲν ἐπιστρεφόμενη τῆς ἀνακαλούσης τε καὶ μεταδιωκούσης τροφοῦ. [4] ἔξω δὲ γενομένη τῆς πόλεως ὡς τὸν ἀδελφὸν εἶδε περιχαρῆ: τοὺς ἐπινικίους ἐπικείμενον στεφάνους, οἷς αὐτὸν ὁ βασιλεὺς ἀνέδθησε, καὶ τοὺς ἐταίρους αὐτοῦ φέροντας τὰ τῶν πεφονευμένων σκυῖλα, ἐν οἷς ἦν πέπλος ποικίλος, ὃν αὐτὴ μετὰ τῆς μητρὸς ἐξυφύνασα τῷ μνηστῆρι δῶρον εἰς τὸν μέλλοντα γάμον ἀπεστάλκει 'ποικίλους γὰρ ἔθος ἐστὶν ἀμφιέννυσθαι. πέπλους Λατίνων τοῖς μετιοῦσι τὰς νύμφας', τοῦτον δὲ τὸν πέπλον θεασαμένη πεφυρμένον αἷματι τὸν τε χιτῶνα κατερρήξατο καὶ ταῖς χερσὶν ἀμφοτέραις παίουσα τὸ στῆθος ἐθρήνει καὶ ἀνεκαλεῖτο τὸν ἀνεψιόν, ὥστε πολλὴν κατάπληξιν εἰσελθεῖν ἅπαντας ὅσοι κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν ἦσαν τόπον. [5] ἀνακλαυσαμένη δὲ τὸν μόρον τοῦ μνηστῆρος ἀτενέσι τοῖς ὀφθαλμοῖς εἰς τὸν ἀδελφὸν ὁρᾷ καὶ λέγει: μιαρῶτατε ἄνθρωπε, χαίρεις ἀποκτείνας τοὺς

[2] οὐκ ἔχων δ' ὁ Μέττιος ὅ τι χρὴ λέγειν πρὸς τοὺς κατηγοροῦντας τε καὶ καταμαρτυροῦντας τὴν Ἀλβανῶν βουλὴν ἔφησεν αὐτῷ ταῦτα ὑποθέσθαι ποιεῖν δι' ἀπορρήτων, ὅτε ἐξῆγε τὴν δύναμιν ἐπὶ τὸν πόλεμον, ἡξίου τε τοὺς Ἀλβανούς, οἷς ἀνακτήσασθαι τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ἐπεχείρει, βοηθεῖν αὐτῷ καὶ μῆτε τὴν πατρίδα κατασκαπτομένην περιορᾶν μῆτε τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους τῶν πολιτῶν ἐπὶ τιμωρίαις συναρπαζομένους. ταραχῆς δὲ γινομένης κατὰ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν καὶ τινων φεύγειν ἐπὶ τὰ ὄπλα ὠρμηκότες οἱ περιστεφανωκότες τὸν ὄχλον ἀρθέντος σημείου τινὸς ἀνέσχον τὰ ξίφη. [5] βασιλεὺς δὲ Τύλλος τὸν ἐπὶ τὸντα χειμῶνα διαλιπὼν ἔαρος ἀρχομένου στρατὸν ἐπὶ Φιδιθναίους πάλιν ἐξάγει. τοῖς δὲ Φιδιθναίοις κοινῇ μὲν οὐδ' ἦπισοῦν βοήθεια ἐξ οὐδεμιᾶς τῶν συμμαχιδῶν ἀφίκετο πόλεων, μισθοφόροι δὲ τινες ἐκ πολλῶν συνερρῆσαν τόπων, οἷς πιστεύσαντες ἐθάρρησαν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως προελθεῖν· παραταξάμενοι δὲ καὶ πολλοὺς μὲν ἀποκτείναντες ἐν τῇ μάχῃ, πολλῶ δ' ἔτι πλείους ἀποβαλόντες [6] κατεκλείσθησαν πάλιν εἰς τὸ ἄστυ. ὥς δὲ περιχαρὰς αὐτῶν τὴν πόλιν ὁ Τύλλος καὶ περιταφρεύσας εἰς τὴν ἐσχάτην κατέκλεισε τοὺς ἔνδον ἀπορίαν, ἡγαγκάσθησαν τῷ βασιλεῖ παραδοῦναι σφᾶς αὐτοὺς ἐφ' οἷς αὐτὸς ἐβούλετο. γενόμενος δὲ τὸν τρόπον τοῦτον ὁ βασιλεὺς τῆς πόλεως κύριος τοὺς αἰτίους τῆς ἀποστάσεως ἀποκτείνας, τοὺς δὲ λοιποὺς ἅπαντας ἀπολύσας καὶ τὰ σφέτερα πάντα καρποῦσθαι [p. 339] τὸν αὐτὸν ἑάσας τρόπον τὴν τε πολιτείαν, ἣν πρότερον εἶχον, ἀποδοὺς αὐτοῖς διέλυσε τὴν στρατιὰν καὶ παραγενόμενος εἰς Ῥώμην τὴν τροπαιοφόρον ἀπεδίδου τοῖς θεοῖς πομπὴν τε καὶ θυσίαν δευτέρον ἐκείνον κατάγων θρίαμβον.

μετὰ δὲ τοῦτον τὸν πόλεμον ἕτερος ἀνέστη Ῥωμαίοις ἐκ τοῦ Σαβίνων ἔθνους, ἀρχὴ δὲ αὐτοῦ καὶ πρόφασις ἐγένετο τοιαύδε· ἱερὸν ἐστὶ κοινῇ τιμώμενον ὑπὸ Σαβίνων τε καὶ Λατίνων ἅγιον ἐν τοῖς πάνυ θεᾶς Φερωνείας ὀνομαζομένης, ἣν οἱ μεταφράζοντες εἰς τὴν Ἑλλάδα γλῶσσαν οἱ μὲν Ἀνθοφόρον, οἱ δὲ Φιλοστέφανον, οἱ δὲ Φερσεφόρην καλοῦσιν· εἰς δὴ τὸ ἱερὸν τοῦτο συνήεσαν ἐκ τῶν περιοίκων πόλεων κατὰ τὰς ἀποδεδειγμένας ἑορτὰς πολλοὶ μὲν εὐχὰς ἀποδιδόντες καὶ θυσίας τῇ θεῷ, πολλοὶ δὲ χρηματιούμενοι διὰ τὴν πανηγυριν ἔμποροι τε καὶ χειροτέχναι καὶ γεωργοί, ἀγοραὶ τε αὐτόθι λαμπρόταται τῶν ἐν ἄλλοις τισὶ τόποις τῆς Ἰταλίας ἀγομένων ἐγίνοντο. [2] εἰς ταύτην δὲ τὴν πανηγυριν ἐλθόντας ποτὲ Ῥωμαίων ἄνδρας οὐκ ἀφανεῖς Σαβῖνοι τινες ἄνδρες συναρπάσαντες ἔδησαν καὶ τὰ χρήματα ἀφείλοντο, πρεσβείας τε περὶ αὐτῶν ἀφικομένης οὐδὲν ἐβούλοντο τῶν δικαίων ποιεῖν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰ σώματα καὶ τὰ χρήματα τῶν συλληφθέντων κατεῖχον ἐγκαλοῦντες καὶ αὐτοὶ Ῥωμαίοις, ὅτι τοὺς Σαβίνων φυγάδας ὑπεδέχοντο κατασκευάσαντες ἄστυλον ἱερὸν, ὑπὲρ ὧν ἐν [p. 340] [3] τῷ πρὸ τούτου λόγῳ δεδηλωταὶ μοι. ἐκ τούτων δὴ τῶν ἐγκλημάτων εἰς πόλεμον ἐπὶ τούτοις καταλυσάμενοι τὸν πόλεμον οἱ Σαβῖνοι καὶ τῶν ὁμολογιῶν στήλας ἀντιγράφους θέντες ἐν τοῖς ἱεροῖς, ἐπειδὴ συνέστη Ῥωμαίοις πρὸς τὰς Λατίνων πόλεις κοινῇ συνηραγμένους πόλεμος οὐ ῥάδιος ἐν ὀλίγῳ καθαιρεθῆναι χρόνῳ· ^[7] οἱ δὲ αἰτίας ὀλίγῳ ὕστερον ἐρῶ, δεξάμενοι τὸ συμβὰν ἀγαπητῶς ὄρκων μὲν ἐκείνων καὶ συνηκῶν ὥσπερ οὐδὲ γεγεννημένων ἐπελάθοντο, καιρὸν δὲ νομίσαντες ἐπιτήδειον ἔχειν ὧν ἐξέτισαν Ῥωμαίοις χρημάτων πολλαπλάσια παρ' αὐτῶν ἀπολαβεῖν, ὀλίγοι μὲν τὸ πρῶτον καὶ ἀφανῶς ἐξιόντες ἐληίζοντο τὴν ὁμορον· ^[2] ἔπειτα δὲ πολλοὶ συνιόντες καὶ ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ, ἐπεὶ τὰ πρῶτα κατὰ γνώμην αὐτοῖς ἐχώρησεν οὐδεμιᾶς ἐπὶ τὴν φυλακὴν τῶν γεωργῶν ἀφικομένης βοθηθείας, καταφρονήσαντες τῶν πολεμίων ἐπ' αὐτὴν διενοοῦντο τὴν Ῥώμην ἐλαύνειν καὶ συνῆγον ἐξ ἀπάσης πόλεως στρατόν, διελέγοντο δὲ καὶ ταῖς Λατίνων πόλεσι περὶ ^[3] συμμαχίας. οὐ μὴν ἐξεγένετο γε αὐτοῖς φιλίαν τε καὶ ὁμαιχμίαν ποιήσασθαι πρὸς τὸ ἔθνος· μαθὼν γὰρ τὴν διάνοιαν αὐτῶν ὁ Τύλλος ἀνοχᾶς πρὸς Λατίνους ποιησάμενος ἐπὶ τούτους ἔγνω στρατὸν ἐξάγειν τὴν τε Ῥωμαίων ἅπασαν δύναμιν καθοπλίσας διπλασίαν οὔσαν ἤδη τῆς πρότερον, ἐξ οὗ τὴν Ἀλβανῶν πόλιν προσέλαβε, καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν ἄλλων συμμάχων ἐπικουρικὸν ὅσον πλεῖστον ἐδύνατο μεταπεμφάμενος. [4] συνῆκτο δὲ καὶ τοῖς Σαβίνοις ἤδη τὸ στράτευμα, καὶ ἐπειδὴ πλησίον ἀλλήλων ἐγένοντο περὶ τὴν καλουμένην Ὑλην κακοῦργον ὀλίγον τὸ μεταξὺ χωρίον ἀφέντες κατεστρατοπεδεύσαντο. τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ συμπεσόντες ἐμάχοντο καὶ ἦσαν ἰσόρροποι μέχρι πολλοῦ· ἤδη δὲ περὶ δειλὴν ὄψιν ἐγκλίνουσιν οἱ Σαβῖνοι [p. 343] βιασθέντες ὑπὸ τοῦ Ῥωμαίων ἱππικοῦ καὶ πολὺς αὐτῶν γίνεται φόνος ἐν τῇ φυγῇ, Ῥωμαῖοι δὲ νεκροὺς τε τῶν πολεμίων σκυλεύσαντες καὶ χρήματα ὅσα ἦν ἐν τῷ χάρακι διαρπάσαντες τῆς τε χώρας τὴν κρατίστην λεηλατήσαντες ἀπήεσαν ἐπ' οἴκου. τοῦτο τὸ τέλος ἔλαβεν ὁ συμβὰς Ῥωμαίοις πρὸς Σαβίνους πόλεμος ἐπὶ τῆς Τύλλου ἀρχῆς.

αἱ δὲ τῶν Λατίνων πόλεις Ῥωμαίοις ἐγένοντο διάφοροι τότε πρῶτον, οὐκ ἀξιοῦσαι κατεσκαμμένης τῆς Ἀλβανῶν πόλεως τοῖς ἀνηρηκόσιν αὐτὴν Ῥωμαίοις τὴν ἡγεμονίαν παραδιδόναι. ἐτῶν γὰρ διαγενομένων πεντεκαίδεκα μετὰ τὸν ἀφανισμόν τῆς Ἄλβας πρεσβείας ἀποστείλας ὁ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς εἰς τὰς ἀποίκους τε καὶ ὑπηκόους αὐτῆς τριάκοντα πόλεις ἤξιον πείθεσθαι τοῖς ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων ἐπιταττομένοις, ὡς παρειληφόντων αὐτῶν ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις οἱ εἶχον Ἀλβανοὶ καὶ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν τοῦ Λατίνων ἔθνους, δύο μὲν ἀποφαίνων τρόπους κτήσεων, καθ' οὓς ἄνθρωποι γίνονται τῶν ἄλλοτριων κύριοι, τὸν τε ἀναγκαῖον καὶ τὸν ἐκούσιον, Ῥωμαίους δὲ λέγων καθ' ἑκάτερον τὸν τρόπον παρειληφέναι τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ὧν εἶχον Ἀλβανοὶ πόλεων. μετὰ δὲ τὴν Ὀστιλίου Τύλλου τελευτὴν ἡ μεσοβασιλείος ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς ἀποδειχθεῖσα ἀρχὴ κατὰ τοὺς πατρίους ἐθισμοὺς αἰρεῖται βασιλέα τῆς πόλεως Μάρκιον ἐπὶ κλησιν Ἄγκον: ἐπικυρώσαντος δὲ τοῦ δήμου τὰ δόξαντα τῇ βουλῇ καὶ τῶν ἐκ τοῦ θεοῦ καλῶν γενομένων συντελέσας τὰ κατὰ νόμον ἅπαντα παραλαμβάνει τὴν ἀρχὴν ὁ Μάρκιος ἐνιαυτῷ δευτέρῳ τῆς τριακοστῆς καὶ πέμπτης ὀλυμπιάδος, ἣν ἐνίκα στάδιον Σφαῖρος ὁ Λακεδαιμόνιος, καθ' ὃν χρόνον Ἀθήνησι τὴν ἐνιαύσιον ἀρχὴν εἶχε Δαμασίας. [2] οὗτος ὁ βασιλεὺς πολλὰς τῶν ἱερουργιῶν ἀμελουμένας καταμαθὼν, ἃς ὁ μητροπάτωρ αὐτοῦ Πομπήλιος Νόμας κατεστήσατο, πολεμιστὰς τε καὶ πλεονέκτας τοὺς πλείστους Ῥωμαίων γεγονότας ὁρῶν καὶ οὐκέτι τὴν γῆν ὡς πρότερον ἐργαζομένους, συναγαγὼν εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸ πλῆθος τὰ τε θεῖα σέβειν αὐτοὺς ἡξίου πάλιν, ὥσπερ ἐπὶ Νόμα διετέλουν σέβοντες, διεξιὼν ὅτι παρὰ τὴν τῶν θεῶν ὀλιγωρίαν νόσοι τε λοιμικαὶ πολλαὶ κατέσκηψαν εἰς τὴν πόλιν, ὅφ' ὧν ἐφθάρη μοῖρα τοῦ [p. 348] πλήθους οὐκ ὀλίγη, καὶ βασιλεὺς Ὅστιλιος ὁ μὴ ποιούμενος αὐτῶν ἦν ἔδει φυλακὴν κάμνων ἐπὶ πολλοὺς χρόνους τὸ σῶμα πάθεσι παντοδαποῖς καὶ οὐδὲ τῆς γνώμης ἔτι τῆς αὐτοῦ καρτερὸς διαμένων, ἀλλὰ συνδιαφθαρεὶς τῷ σώματι τὰς φρένας, οἰκτρᾷ καταστροφῇς ἔτυχεν αὐτὸς τε καὶ γένος τὸ ἐξ αὐτοῦ: [3] πολιτείας τε ἀγωγὴν τὴν ὑπὸ Νόμα κατασταθεῖσαν Ῥωμαίοις ἐπαινῶν ὡς καλὴν καὶ σώφρονα καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν δικαιοτάτων ἔργων τὰς καθ' ἡμέραν ἐκάστω παρέχουσαν εὐπορίας, ἀνανεώσασθαι πάλιν αὐτὴν παρεκάλει γεωργίαις τε καὶ κτηνοτροφίαις καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις ἐργασίαις, ὅσαις μὴθὲν ἀδίκημα προσῆν, ἀρπαγῆς δὲ καὶ βίας καὶ τῶν ἐκ τοῦ πολέμου γινομένων ὠφελειῶν ὑπεριδεῖν. [4] ταῦτα καὶ τὰ τοῦτοις ὅμοια διαλεγόμενος καὶ εἰς πολλὴν ἐπιθυμίαν καθιστὰς ἅπαντας ἡσυχίας ἀπολέμου καὶ φιλεργίας σώφρονος καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο συγκαλέσας τοὺς ἱεροφάντας καὶ τὰς περὶ τῶν ἱερῶν συγγραφάς, ἃς Πομπήλιος συνεστήσατο, παρ' αὐτῶν λαβὼν ἀνέγραψεν εἰς δέλτους καὶ προὔθηκεν ἐν ἀγορᾷ πᾶσι τοῖς βουλομένοις σκοπεῖν, ἃς ἀφανισθῆναι συνέβη τῷ χρόνῳ: χαλκαῖ γὰρ οὐπω στήλαι τότε ἦσαν, ἀλλ' ἐν δρυίναις ἐχαράττοντο σανίσιν οἱ τε νόμοι καὶ αἱ περὶ τῶν ἱερῶν διαγραφαί: μετὰ δὲ τὴν ἐκβολὴν τῶν βασιλέων εἰς ἀναγραφὴν δημοσίαν αὐθις ἤχθησαν ὑπ' ἀνδρὸς ἱεροφάντου Γαίου Παπυρίου, τὴν ἁπάντων [p. 349] τῶν ἱερέων ἡγεμονίαν ἔχοντος. ἀνακτησάμενος δὲ τὰ κατερραθυμημένα τῶν ἱερῶν καὶ τὸν ἀργὸν ὄχλον ἐπὶ τὰς ἰδίας ἐργασίας ἀποστείλας ἐπῆγει μὲν τοὺς ἐπιμελεῖς γεωργοὺς, ἐμέμφετο δὲ τοὺς κακῶς προισταμένους τῶν ἰδίων κτημάτων, ὡς οὐ βεβαίους πολίτας. ταῦτα καθιστάμενος τὰ πολιτεύματα καὶ διὰ παντὸς μάλιστα ἐλπίσας ἄνευ πολέμου καὶ κακῶν ἅπαντα τὸν βίον διατελέσειν, ὥσπερ ὁ μητροπάτωρ, οὐκ ἔσχεν ὁμοίαν τῇ προαιρέσει τὴν τύχην, ἀλλὰ παρὰ τὴν ἑαυτοῦ γνώμην πολεμιστῆς ἠναγκάσθη γενέσθαι καὶ μηδένα χρόνον ἄνευ κινδύνου καὶ ταραχῆς βιώσαι. [2] εὐθὺς γὰρ ἅμα τῷ παρελθεῖν αὐτὸν ἐπὶ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν καὶ τὴν ἀπράγμονα καθίστασθαι πολιτείαν καταφρονήσαντες αὐτοῦ Λατῖνοι καὶ νομίσαντες δι' ἀνανδρίαν οὐχ ἱκανὸν εἶναι πολέμους στρατηγεῖν, ληστήρια διέπεμπον εἰς τὴν ὁμοροῦσαν αὐτοῖς ἕκαστοι χώραν, ὅφ' ὧν πολλοὶ Ῥωμαίων ἐβλάπτοντο. ὥς οὐ μετὰ κοινῆς γνώμης γεγονότων οὔτε ὑπόδιοι γενέσθαι Ῥωμαίοις περὶ οὐθενὸς πράγματος· οὐδὲ γὰρ πρὸς ἐκείνους ποιήσασθαι τὰς συνθήκας, ἀλλὰ πρὸς Τύλλον, τελευτήσαντος [p. 350] δὲ τοῦ Τύλλου λελύσθαι σφίσι τὰς περὶ τῆς εἰρήνης ὁμολογίας. ^[4] ἀναγκασθεὶς δὴ διὰ ταύτας τὰς αἰτίας καὶ ἀποκρίσεις τῶν Λατίνων ὁ Μάρκιος ἐξάγει στρατιὰν ἐπ’ αὐτοὺς καὶ προσκαθεζόμενος τῇ πόλει αὐτῶν Πολιτωρίῳ, πρὶν ἐπικουρίαν τινὰ τοῖς πολιορκούμενοις ἐκ τῶν ἄλλων ἀφικέσθαι Λατίνων, παραλαμβάνει τὴν πόλιν καθ’ ὁμολογίας· οὐ μέντοι διέθηκε τοὺς ἀνθρώπους δεινὸν οὐθέν, ἀλλ’ ἔχοντας τὰ σφέτερα πανδημεὶ μετήγαγεν εἰς Ῥώμην καὶ κατένειμεν εἰς φυλάς.

τῷ δ’ ἐξῆς ἐνιαυτῷ Λατίνων εἰς ἔρημον τὸ Πολιτώριον ἐποίκουσ ἀποστειλάντων καὶ τὴν τῶν Πολιτωρίνων χώραν ἐπεργαζομένων ἀναλαβὼν τὴν δύναμιν ὁ Μάρκιος ἦγεν ἐπ’ αὐτούς. προσελθόντων δὲ τοῦ τείχους τῶν Λατίνων καὶ παραταξαμένων νικήσας αὐτοὺς παραλαμβάνει τὴν πόλιν τὸ δεύτερον. ἐμπρήσας δὲ τὰς οἰκίας καὶ τὸ τεῖχος κατασκάψας, ἵνα μὴθὲν αὐθις ὀρμητήριον ἔχοιεν οἱ πολέμιοι μὴδ’ ἐργάζοντο τὴν γῆν, ἀπῆγε τὴν στρατιάν. ^[2] τῷ δ’ ἐξῆς ἔτει Λατῖνοι μὲν ἐπὶ Μεδυλλίαν πόλιν στρατεύσαντες, ἐν ἣ Ῥωμαίων ἦσαν ἄποικοι, προσκαθεζόμενοι τῷ τείχει καὶ πανταχόθεν ποιησάμενοι τὰς προσβολὰς αἰροῦσιν αὐτὴν κατὰ κράτος. Μάρκιος δὲ Τελλήνας πόλιν τῶν Λατίνων ἐπιφανῆ κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν [p. 351] αἰρεῖ χρόνον ἐκ παρατάξεως τε νικήσας καὶ διὰ τειχομαχίας παραστησάμενος, τοὺς τε ἀλόντας οὐδὲν ὦν εἶχον ἀφελόμενος εἰς Ῥώμην μετήγαγε καὶ τῆς πόλεως εἰς κατασκευὴν οἰκιῶν τόπον ἀπεμέρισε· ^[3] Μεδυλλίαν τε τριετὴ χρόνον ὑπὸ τοῖς Λατίνοις γενομένην τῷ τετάρτῳ κομίζεται πάλιν ἐνιαυτῷ πολλαῖς καὶ μεγάλας παραστησάμενος μάχαις. καὶ μετ’ οὐ πολὺ τὴν Φικαναίων αἰρεῖ πόλιν, ἣν τρίτῳ πρότερον ἐνιαυτῷ λαβὼν καθ’ ὁμολογίας καὶ τοὺς ἐξ αὐτῆς ἅπαντας εἰς Ῥώμην μεταγαγὼν, ἄλλο δὲ τῆς πόλεως οὐδὲν κακῶσας, ἐπεικέστερον μᾶλλον ἢ φρονιμώτερον ἔδοξε βουλεύεσθαι. ^[4] ἀποίκους γὰρ ἀποστειλαντες εἰς αὐτὴν οἱ Λατῖνοι καὶ τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν διακατέχοντες αὐτοὶ τὴν τῶν Φικαναίων ἐκαρποῦντο, ὥστε ἠναγκάσθη πάλιν ὁ Μάρκιος τὸ δεύτερον ἐπὶ τὴν πόλιν στρατεῦσαι καὶ μετὰ πολλῆς πραγματείας κύριος αὐτῆς καταστὰς ἐμπρῆσαι τε τὰς οἰκίας καὶ τὰ τεῖχη κατασκάψαι.

μετὰ τοῦτο γίνονται Λατίνων τε καὶ Ῥωμαίων μεγάλαις δυνάμεσι παραταξαμένων μάχαι διτταί. τῇ μὲν οὖν προτέρᾳ μέχρι πολλοῦ διαγωνισάμενοι καὶ δόξαντες ἰσόρροποι γεγονέναι διεκριθήσαν καὶ ἐπὶ τοὺς ἰδίους ἐκάτεροι χάρακας ἀπηλλάγησαν, τῇ δ’ ὑστέρα Ῥωμαῖοι νικῶσι τοὺς Λατίνους καὶ μέχρι [p. 352] ^[2] στρατοπέδου διώκουσι. μετὰ δὲ τὰς μάχας ταύτας ἀγὼν μὲν ἐκ παρατάξεως οὐδεὶς αὐτοῖς ἔτι πρὸς ἀλλήλους συνέστη, καταδρομαὶ δὲ τῆς ὁμόρου χώρας ὑπ’ ἀμφοτέρων ἐγίνοντο συνεχεῖς καὶ συμπλοκαὶ τῶν περιπόλων τῆς γῆς ἱππέων τε καὶ φιλῶν, ἐν αἷς ἐπεκράτουν ὡς τὰ πολλὰ Ῥωμαῖοι δύναμιν ὑπαιθρον ἔχοντες ἐν τοῖς ἐπικαίροις φρουρίοις ὑποκαθημένην, ^[3] ἣς ὁ Τυρρηνὸς Ταρκύνιος ἡγεῖτο. ἀπέστησαν δὲ καὶ Φιδιναῖοι Ῥωμαίων κατὰ τοὺς αὐτοὺς χρόνους οὐκ ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ τὸν πόλεμον ἀναδείξαντες, ἀλλὰ κατ' ὀλίγους καὶ κρύφα τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν καταδρομαῖς κακουργοῦντες: ἐφ' οὗς ὁ Μάρκιος εὐζῶνῳ στρατιᾷ ἐλάσας, πρὶν ἢ παρασκευάσασθαι τοὺς Φιδηναίους τὰ πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον, ἐγγὺς τῆς πόλεως τίθεται τὸν χάρακα. ^[4] οἱ δὲ κατ' ἀρχὰς μὲν ἀγνοεῖν ἐσκήπτοντο ἀντὶ ποίων ἀδικημάτων στρατὸς ἐπ' αὐτοὺς Ῥωμαίων ἀφίκται, τοῦ δὲ βασιλέως εἰπόντος ὅτι δίκας παρ' αὐτῶν ἦκει ληψόμενος ὦν διήρπασάν τε καὶ κατέβλαψαν αὐτοῦ τὴν γῆν, ἀπελογοῦντο πρὸς ταῦτα ὡς οὐ τὸ κοινὸν αἴτιον εἶη τῶν ἀδικημάτων, καὶ χρόνον ἡτοῦντο εἰς διάγνωσιν τε καὶ ζητήσιν τῶν ἐνόχων ταῖς αἰτίαις καὶ πολλὰς κατέτριψαν ἡμέρας πράττοντες μὲν οὐδὲν τῶν δεόντων, ἐπικαλοῦμενοι δὲ κρύφα τοὺς συμμάχους καὶ περὶ κατασκευὴν ὅπλων γινόμενοι.

μαθὼν δὲ τὴν διάνοιαν αὐτῶν ὁ Μάρκιος ὑπονόμους ὤρυττεν ἀπὸ τῆς ἰδίας παρεμβολῆς ἀρξάμενος ὑπὸ τὰ τείχη τῆς πόλεως, καὶ ἐπειδὴ τέλος εἶχεν ἤδη τὸ ἔργον, ἀναστήσας τὸν στρατὸν ἤγεν ἐπὶ [p. 353] τὴν πόλιν, μηχανὰς τε πολλὰς καὶ κλίμακας καὶ τᾶλλα πρὸς τειχομαχίαν κατεσκευασμένα ἐπαγόμενος, οὐ καθ' ὃν αἱ διώρυγες ἐγίνοντο τοῦ τείχους τόπον, ἀλλὰ ^[2] καθ' ἕτερον. τῶν δὲ Φιδηναίων ἐπὶ τὰ πολιορκούμενα μέρη τῆς πόλεως συνδραμόντων ἀθρόων καὶ τὰς προσβολὰς γενναίως ἀποτριβομένων ἀναστομώσαντες τὰ πέρατα τῶν ὑπονόμων οἱ ταχθέντες ἐπὶ τούτῳ Ῥωμαῖοι ἐντὸς ἐγεγόνεσαν τοῦ περιβόλου καὶ τοὺς ὁμόσε χωροῦντας διαφθείραντες ἀνοίγουσι τοῖς πολιορκοῦσι τὰς πύλας. ^[3] πολλῶν δ' ἐν τῇ καταλήψει τῆς πόλεως ἀπολλυμένων τοὺς λοιποὺς τῶν Φιδηναίων ὅπλα τε παραδοῦναι κελεύσας ὁ Μάρκιος καὶ εἰς ἓνα τόπον τῆς πόλεως ἅπαντας προκηρύξας συνελθεῖν, ὀλίγους ἐξ αὐτῶν τοὺς αἰτίους τῆς ἀποστάσεως μάστιξιν αἰκισάμενος ἀπέκτεινεν, οἰκίας δ' ἀπάντων διαρπάσαι τοῖς στρατιώταις ἐπιτρέψας καὶ φρουρὰν ἐν τῇ πόλει καταλιπὼν ἀξιόχρεων ἀπῆγε τὴν δύναμιν ἐπὶ Σαβίνους. ^[4] οὐδὲ γὰρ ἐκεῖνοι διέμειναν ἐν ταῖς ὁμολογίαις, αἷς ἐποιήσαντο περὶ τῆς εἰρήνης πρὸς βασιλέα Τύλλον, ἀλλ' ἐμβαλόντες εἰς τὴν Ῥωμαίων γῆν ἐδήρουν αὐθις τὴν ὁμορον, μαθὼν τε ὁ Μάρκιος παρὰ τε κατασκόπων καὶ αὐτομόλων τον καιρὸν τῆς ἐπιχειρήσεως ἐσκεδασμένων τῶν Σαβίνων καὶ λεηλατούντων τοὺς ἀγροὺς αὐτὸς μὲν ἅμα τοῖς πεζοῖς [p. 354] ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα τῶν πολεμίων ἀφικόμενος ὀλίγην ἔχοντα φυλακὴν καταλαμβάνει τὸ ἔρυμα ἐξ ἐφόδου, Ταρκύνιον δὲ τοὺς ἱππεῖς ἄγοντα ἐπὶ τοὺς ἐν προνομαῖς ἐσκεδασμένους ἐπείγεσθαι ἐκέλευε. ^[5] μαθόντες δὲ οἱ Σαβῖνοι τὴν ἵππον τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐπὶ σφᾶς ἐλαύνουσιν ἀφέντες τὴν λείαν καὶ τὰς ἄλλας ὠφελείας, ὅσας ἔφερόν τε καὶ ἦγον, ἔφευγον ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα: ὡς δὲ κάκεινον ἔγνωσαν κατεχόμενον ὑπὸ τῶν πεζῶν, ἀποροῦντες ὅποι τράπτοιτο συνέτειναν εἰς ὕλας τε καὶ ὄρη. διωκόμενοι δὲ ὑπὸ τῶν ψιλῶν καὶ τῶν ἱππέων ὀλίγοι μὲν τινες ἐσώθησαν, οἱ δὲ πλείους διεφθάρησαν. καὶ μετὰ τὴν συμφορὰν ταύτην πρεσβευσάμενοι πάλιν εἰς Ῥώμην εἰρήνης τυγχάνουσιν οἷας ἐβούλοντο. ἔτι γὰρ ὁ πρὸς τὰς Λατίνων πόλεις συνεστηκὼς τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις πόλεμος ἀναγκαίως ἐποιοεῖ τὰς πρὸς τοὺς ἄλλους ἐχθροὺς ἀνοχὰς τε καὶ διαλύσεις.

Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς τὴν τε πολιτικὴν δύναμιν ἄγων καὶ τὴν συμμαχικὴν μεταπεμφάμενος ὅσῃν ἐδύνατο πλείστην ἐστράτευσεν ἐπὶ Οὐιεντανοὺς καὶ πολλὴν τῆς χώρας αὐτῶν ἐδήλωσεν. ἐκεῖνοι δ' ἥρξαντο ἐνιαυτῷ πρότερον εἰς τὴν Ῥωμαίων γῆν ἐμβαλόντες καὶ πολλὰς μὲν ἀρπαγὰς χρημάτων, πολὺν δὲ ἀνθρώπων ὄλεθρον ποιήσαντες: [p. 355] [2] στρατιᾶς δὲ πολλῆς παρὰ τῶν Οὐιεντανῶν ἐξελθούσης καὶ πέραν τοῦ Τεβέριος ποταμοῦ πρὸς τῇ Φιδιθναίων πόλει χάρακα θεμένης ἀναλαβὼν τὴν δύναμιν ἦγεν ὡς εἶχε τάχους καὶ πρῶτον μὲν τῶν ἐπὶ τὴν χώραν ἐξόδων αὐτοὺς ἀπέκλεισεν ἱπποκρατῶν, ἔπειτ' εἰς παράταξιν προελθεῖν ἀναγκάσας ἐνίκησε καὶ τοῦ χάρακος αὐτῶν ἐκράτησε. χωρήσαντος δὲ αὐτῷ καὶ τοῦτου κατὰ γνώμην τοῦ πολέμου τὴν ἐπινίκιον πομπὴν καὶ τὸν εἰωθότα θρίαμβον τοῖς θεοῖς κατήγαγεν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἀφικόμενος. [3] δευτέρῳ δ' ὕστερον ἔτει πάλιν τῶν Οὐιεντανῶν λυσάντων ἃς ἐποίησαντο πρὸς αὐτὸν ἀνοχὰς καὶ τὰς ἄλας ἀξιούντων ἀπολαβεῖν, ὧν ἐπὶ Ῥωμύλου βασιλέως καθ' ὁμολογίας ἀπέστησαν, ἑτέραν τίθεται πρὸς αὐτοὺς μάχην περὶ ταῖς ἀλαῖς μείζονα τῆς προτέρας, ἣν εὐπετῶς ἐνίκησε, [4] καὶ τὰς ἄλας ἐξ ἐκείνου κατεῖχεν ἀναμφιλόγως. τὰ δὲ ἀριστεῖα καὶ ἐκ ταύτης ἔλαβε τῆς μάχης ὁ τῶν ἱππέων ἡγεμὼν Ταρκύνιος, καὶ αὐτὸν ὁ Μάρκιος ἄνδρα πάντων κράτιστον ἡγησάμενος τὰ τε ἄλλα σεμνύνων διετέλει καὶ εἰς τὸν τῶν πατρικίων τε καὶ βουλευτῶν ἀριθμὸν κατέγραψεν. [5] ἐγένετο δὲ καὶ πρὸς τὸ τῶν Οὐολούσκων ἔθνος τῷ Μαρκίῳ πόλεμος λησθηρίων κάκεῖθεν ἐξιόντων ἐπὶ τοὺς τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἀγρούς: καὶ στρατεύσας ἐπ' αὐτοὺς μεγάλῃ χειρὶ πολλὴν περιεβάλετο λείαν πόλει τε αὐτῶν Οὐελίτραις προσκαθεζόμενος [p. 356] ἀπετάφρευε καὶ περιεχαράκου καὶ τειχομαχίαν συνίστατο τῆς ὑπαίθρου κρατῶν. ἐξελθόντων δὲ σὺν ἱκετηρίαις τῶν πρεσβυτάτων καὶ τὰς τε βλάβας διαλύσειν ὑποσχομένων, ὡς ἂν ὁ βασιλεὺς δικαιώσῃ, καὶ τοὺς ἐνόχους ταῖς αἰτίαις ἐπὶ δίκην παρέξῃν ὁμολογούντων, ἀνοχὰς πρὸς αὐτοὺς ποιησάμενος καὶ τὰ δίκαια παρ' ἐκόντων λαβὼν εἰρήνην καὶ φιλίαν συντίθεται.

ἐκ δὲ τοῦ Σαβίνων ἔθνους αὐθις ἕτεροὶ τινες τῆς Ῥωμαίων οὕπω πεπειραμένοι δυνάμεως, πόλιν οἰκοῦντες εὐδαίμονα καὶ μεγάλην, ἐγκαλεῖν μὲν αὐτοῖς οὐδὲν ἔχοντες, φθονεῖν δὲ ταῖς εὐτυχίαις ἀναγκαζόμενοι μείζουσιν ἢ κατὰ λόγον γινομέναις, ἄνθρωποι δεινοὶ τὰ πολέμια τὸ μὲν πρῶτον ἀπὸ λησθηρίων καὶ καταδρομῆς ἀγρῶν ὀλίγοι συνελθόντες ἥρξαντο, ἔπειτα δελαζόμενοι ταῖς ὠφελείαις φανεράν ποιοῦνται στρατεῖαν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς καὶ τῆς ὁμόρου πολλὴν λεηλατοῦντες ἐκάκωσαν ἰσχυρῶς. [2] οὐ μὴν ἐξεγένετό γε αὐτοῖς οὔτε τὰς ὠφελείας ἀπᾶγειν οὔτ' αὐτοῖς ἄθώοις ἀπελθεῖν, ἀλλ' ἐκβοηθήσας κατὰ σπουδὴν ὁ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς καὶ πλησίον τῆς ἐκείνων παρεμβολῆς θέμενος τὸν χάρακα προελθεῖν [3] αὐτοὺς ἠνάγκασεν εἰς μάχην. ἐγένετο μὲν οὖν μέγας ἀγὼν καὶ πολλοὶ παρ' ἀμφοτέρων ἔπεσον, ἐκράτησαν δὲ Ῥωμαῖοι κατὰ τὸ ἔμπειρόν τε καὶ φιλόπονόν, ὧν [p. 357] ἐθάδες ἦσαν ἐκ πλείστου, καὶ περιεγένοντο παρὰ πολὺ τῶν Σαβίνων τοῖς τε φεύγουσιν αὐτῶν ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα σποράσι καὶ ἀσυντάκτοις ἐκποδὸς ἐπόμενοι πολὺν ἐποιοῦν φόνον. [4] κρατήσαντες δὲ καὶ τῆς παρεμβολῆς αὐτῶν παντοδαπῶν χρημάτων γεμούσης καὶ τοὺς

πρῶτον μὲν τῇ πόλει μοῖραν οὐ μικρὰν προσέθηκεν τειχίσας τὸν λεγόμενον Ἀουεντῖνον: ἔστι δὲ λόφος ὕψηλός ἐπεικῶς ὀκτωκαίδεκά που σταδίων τὴν περίμετρον, ὃς τότε μὲν ὕλης παντοδαπῆς μεστός ἦν, πλειστής δὲ καὶ καλλίστης δάφνης, ἐφ' ἧς Λαυρήτον ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων καλεῖται τόπος τις ἐπ' αὐτοῦ: νῦν δὲ οἰκιῶν ἐστὶ πλήρης ἅπας, ἔνθα σὺν πολλοῖς ἄλλοις καὶ τὸ τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος ἱερὸν ἵδρυται, εἴργεται δὲ ἀφ' ἑτέρου τῶν συμπεριεχομένων τῇ Ῥώμῃ λόφων τοῦ καλουμένου Παλλαντίου, περὶ ὃν ἡ πρώτη κατασκευασθεῖσα πόλις ἰδρύθη, βαθεῖα καὶ στενῇ φάραγγι. ἐν δὲ τοῖς ὕστερον χρόνοις ἐχώσθη πᾶς ὁ μεταξὺ τῶν λόφων αὐλῶν. [2] τοῦτον δὲ τὸν λόφον ἐπιτείχισμα κατὰ τῆς πόλεως ὀρῶν ἐσόμενον, εἰ [p. 358] τις αὐτῇ ἐπιοῖ στρατὸς τεῖχει καὶ τάφρῳ περιέλαβε καὶ τοὺς μεταχθέντας ἐκ Τελλήνης τε καὶ Πολιτωρίου καὶ τῶν ἄλλων πόλεων ὅσων ἐκράτησεν ἐν τούτῳ τῷ χωρίῳ καθίδρυσεν. ἐν μὲν δὴ τοῦτο τὸ πολίτευμα τοῦ βασιλέως παραδίδοται καλὸν ἅμα καὶ πραγματικόν, ἐξ οὗ μείζονά τε συνέβη γενέσθαι τὴν πόλιν ἑτέρας προσθέσει πόλεως καὶ πολλῇ χειρὶ πολεμίων ἐπιστρατευσάντων ἦττον εὐληπτον:

ἕτερον δὲ τι τοῦ προειρημένου πολιτεύματος κρεῖττον, ὃ καὶ τοῖς κατὰ τὸν βίον ἅπασιν εὐδαιμονεστέραν αὐτὴν ἐποίησε καὶ πραγμάτων ἐπῆρεν ἄψασθαι γενναιοτέρων. τοῦ γὰρ Τεβέριος ποταμοῦ καταβαίνοντος μὲν ἐκ τῶν Ἀπεννίνων ὀρῶν, παρ' αὐτὴν δὲ τὴν Ῥώμην ῥέοντος, ἐμβάλλοντος δ' εἰς αἰγιαλοὺς ἀλιμένους καὶ προσεχεῖς, οὓς τὸ Τυρρηνικὸν ποιεῖ πέλαγος, μικρὰ δὲ καὶ οὐκ ἄξια λόγου τὴν Ῥώμην ὠφελοῦντος διὰ τὸ μὴθὲν ἐπὶ ταῖς ἐκβολαῖς ἔχειν φρούριον, ὃ τὰς εἰσκομιζόμενας διὰ θαλάττης καὶ καταγομένας ἄνωθεν ἀγοράς ὑποδέχεται τε καὶ ἀμειψεται τοῖς ἐμπορευομένοις, ἱκανοῦ δὲ ὄντος ἄχρι μὲν τῶν πηγῶν ποταμηγοῖς σκάφεσιν εὐμεγέθεσιν ἀναπλεῖσθαι, πρὸς αὐτὴν δὲ τὴν Ῥώμην καὶ θαλαττίαις ὀλκάσι μεγάλαις, ἐπίνειον ἔγνω κατασκευάζειν ἐπὶ ταῖς ἐκβολαῖς αὐτοῦ λιμένι χρυσάμενος αὐτῷ τῷ στόματι τοῦ ποταμοῦ. [2] εὐρύνεται τε γὰρ ἐπιπολὺ τῇ θαλάττῃ συνάπτων καὶ κόλπους λαμβάνει [p. 359] μεγάλους, οἶους οἱ κράτιστοι τῶν θαλαττίων λιμένων: ὃ δὲ μάλιστα θαυμάσειεν ἂν τις, οὐκ ἀποκλείεται τοῦ στόματος ὑπὸ τῆς θαλαττίας θινὸς ἐμφραττόμενος, ὃ πάσχουσι πολλοὶ καὶ τῶν μεγάλων ποταμῶν, οὐδ' εἰς ἔλη καὶ τέλματα πλανώμενος ἄλλοτε ἄλλῃ προκαταναλίσκεται πρὶν ἢ τῇ θαλάττῃ συνάψαι τὸ ῥεῖθρον, ἀλλὰ ναυσιπέρατός ἐστιν αἰεὶ καὶ δι' ἐνὸς ἐκδίδωσι τοῦ γνησίου στόματος ἀνακόπτων τὰς πελαγίους ῥαχίας τῆς θαλάττης, καίτοι πολὺς αὐτόθι γίνεται καὶ χαλεπὸς ὁ πνέων ἀπὸ τῆς ἐσπέρας ἄνεμος. [3] αἱ μὲν οὖν ἐπικώποι νῆες ὀπηλικάι ποτ' ἂν οὔσαι τύχωσι καὶ τῶν ὀλκάδων αἱ μέχρι τρισχιλιοφόρων εἰσάγουσι τε διὰ τοῦ στόματος αὐτοῦ καὶ μέχρι τῆς Ῥώμης εἰρεσίᾳ καὶ ῥύμασι παρελκόμεναι κομίζονται, αἱ δὲ μείζους πρὸ τοῦ στόματος ἐπ' ἀγκυρῶν σαλεύουσai ταῖς ποταμηγοῖς ἀπογεμίζονται τε καὶ ἐτείχισε δὲ καὶ τὸ καλούμενον Ἰανικόλον ὄρος ὑψηλὸν ἐπέκεινα τοῦ Τεβέριος ποταμοῦ κείμενον καὶ φρουρὰν ἱκανὴν ἐν αὐτῷ κατέστησεν ἀσφαλείας ἕνεκα τῶν διὰ τοῦ ποταμοῦ πλεόντων: [p. 360] ἐλήστευον γὰρ οἱ Τυρρηνοὶ τοὺς ἐμπόρους ἅπασαν κατέχοντες τὴν ἐπέκεινα τοῦ ποταμοῦ χώραν: [2] καὶ τὴν ξυλίνην γέφυραν, ἣν ἄνευ χαλκοῦ καὶ σιδήρου δεδέσθαι θέμις ὑπ' αὐτῶν διακρατουμένην τῶν ξυλίνων, ἐκεῖνος ἐπιθεῖναι τῷ Τεβέρει λέγεται, ἣν ἄχρι τοῦ παρόντος διαφυλάττουσιν ἱερὰν εἶναι νομίζοντες. εἰ δέ τι πονήσειεν αὐτῆς μέρος οἱ ἱεροφάνται θεραπεύουσι θυσίας τινὰς ἐπιτελοῦντες ἅμα τῇ κατασκευῇ [3] πατρίους. ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ἐπὶ τῆς ἰδίας ἀρχῆς ὁ βασιλεὺς οὗτος ἱστορίας ἄξια καὶ τὴν Ῥώμην οὐκ ὀλίγῳ κρείττονα παραδοὺς τοῖς ἐπιγινομένοις ἥς αὐτὸς παρέλαβεν, ἔτη τέτταρα πρὸς τοῖς εἴκοσι τὴν βασιλείαν κατασχὼν ἀποθνήσκει δύο καταλιπὼν υἱούς, τὸν μὲν ἔτι παῖδα τὴν ἡλικίαν, τὸν δὲ πρεσβύτερον ἀρτίως γενειῶντα.

μετὰ δὲ τὸν Ἄγκου Μαρκίου θάνατον ἡ βουλὴ πάλιν ἐπιτρέψαντος αὐτῇ τοῦ δήμου πολιτείαν ἣν ἐβούλετο καταστήσασθαι μένειν ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς ἔγνω καὶ ἀποδείκνυσι μεσοβασιλεῖς. οἱ δὲ συναγαγόντες εἰς ἀρχαιρεσίας τὸ πλῆθος αἰροῦνται βασιλέα Λεύκιον Ταρκύνιον. βεβαιωσάντων δὲ καὶ τῶν παρὰ τοῦ δαιμονίου σημείων τὰ κριθέντα ὑπὸ τοῦ πλήθους παραλαμβάνει τὴν βασιλείαν ἐνιαντῷ δευτέρῳ μάλιστα τῆς μιᾶς καὶ τετταρακοστῆς ὀλυμπιάδος, ἣν ἐνίκα στάδιον Κλεώνδας Θηβαῖος, ἄρχοντας Ἀθήνησιν Ἦνιοχίδου. [2] γονέων δ' ὁποῖων τινῶν οὗτος ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἦν καὶ πατρίδος ἐξ ἥς ἔφυ καὶ δι' [p. 361] ἅςτινας αἰτίας εἰς Ῥώμην ἀφίκετο καὶ δι' οἷων ἐπιτηδευμάτων ἐπὶ τὴν βασιλείαν παρῆλθεν, ὥς ἐν ταῖς ἐπιχωρίοις συγγραφαῖς εὖρον ἐρῶ. [3] Κορίνθιος τις ἀνὴρ ὄνομα Δημάρατος ἐκ τῆς Βακχιαδῶν συγγενείας ἐμπορεύεσθαι προελόμενος ἐπέπλευσεν εἰς τὴν Ἰταλίαν ὀλκάδα τε οἰκίαν ἀνάγων καὶ φόρτον ἴδιον. ἐξεμπολήσας δὲ τὸν φόρτον ἐν ταῖς Τυρρηνῶν πόλεσιν εὐδαιμονούσας μάλιστα τῶν ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ τότε καὶ μεγάλα κέρδη περιβαλόμενος ἐκεῖθεν οὐκέτι εἰς ἄλλους ἐβούλετο κατάγεσθαι λιμένας, ἀλλὰ τὴν αὐτὴν εἰργάζετο συνεχῶς θάλατταν Ἑλληνικὸν τε φόρτον εἰς Τυρρηνοὺς κομιζὼν καὶ Τυρρηνικὸν εἰς τὴν Ἑλλάδα φέρων καὶ γίνεται πάνυ πολλῶν χρημάτων κύριος. [4] ἐπικαταλαβούσης δὲ στάσεως τὴν Κόρινθον καὶ τῆς Κυψέλου τυραννίδος ἐπανισταμένης τοῖς Βακχιάδαις οὐκ ἀσφαλὲς εἶναι δοκῶν ἐν τυραννίδι ζῆν πολλὰ κεκτημένος ἄλλως τε καὶ τῆς ὀλιγαρχικῆς οἰκίας ὑπάρχων, συνεσκευασμένος τὴν οὐσίαν ὅσῃν οἷός τ' [5] ἦν ὥχετο πλέων ἐκ τῆς Κόρινθου. ἔχων δὲ φίλους πολλοὺς καὶ ἀγαθοὺς Τυρρηνῶν διὰ τὰς συνεχεῖς ἐπιμιξίας, μάλιστα δ' ἐν Ταρκυνίοις πόλει μεγάλῃ τε καὶ εὐδαιμονίᾳ τότε οὔσῃ, οἷκόν τε αὐτόθι κατασκευάζεται καὶ γυναικὰ ἐπιφανῆ κατὰ γένος ἄγεται. γενομένων δ' αὐτῷ δυεῖν παιδῶν Τυρρηνικὰ θέμενος [p. 362] αὐτοῖς

καὶ μετ' οὐ πολὺν χρόνον ὁ μὲν πρεσβύτερος αὐτοῦ τῶν παιδῶν γένος οὐδὲν καταλιπὼν ἐμφανὲς ἀποθνήσκει. καὶ μετ' ὀλίγας ἡμέρας αὐτὸς ὁ Δημάρατος ὑπὸ λύπης τελευτᾷ κληρονόμον ἀπάσης τῆς οὐσίας τὸν περιλειπόμενον τῶν παιδῶν Λοκόμωνα καταλιπὼν: ὃς παραλαβὼν τὸν πατρικὸν πλοῦτον μέγαν ὄντα πολιτεύεσθαι τε καὶ τὰ κοινὰ πράττειν καὶ ἐν τοῖς πρώτοις τῶν ἀστῶν εἶναι προήρητο. [2] ἀπελυνόμενος δὲ πανταχόθεν ὑπὸ τῶν ἐπιχωρίων καὶ οὐχ ὅπως ἐν τοῖς πρώτοις ἀριθμούμενος, ἀλλ' οὐδ' ἐν τοῖς μέσοις, ἀνιαρῶς ἔφερε τὴν ἀτιμίαν. ἀκούων δὲ περὶ τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως, ὅτι πάντας ἀσμένως ὑποδεχομένη τοὺς ξένους ἀστοὺς ποιεῖται καὶ τιμᾷ κατὰ τὴν ἀξίαν ἕκαστον, ἐκεῖ μετενέγκασθαι τὴν οἴκησιν ἔγνω τὰ τε χρήματα πάντα συσκευασάμενος καὶ τὴν γυναικὰ ἐπαγόμενος καὶ τῶν ἄλλων φίλων καὶ οἰκείων τοὺς βουλομένους: ἐγένοντο δὲ οἱ συναπαίρειν αὐτῷ προθυμηθέντες συχνοί. [3] ὥς δὲ κατὰ τὸ καλούμενον Ἰανικόλον ἦσαν, ὅθεν ἡ Ῥώμη τοῖς ἀπὸ Τυρρηνίας ἐρχομένοις πρῶτον ἀφορᾶται, καταπτὰς ἀετὸς ἄφνω καὶ τὸν πῖλον αὐτοῦ τὸν ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς κείμενον ἀρπάσας, ἀνέπτῃ πάλιν ἄνω κατὰ [p. 363] τὴν ἐγκύκλιον αἰώραν φερόμενος καὶ εἰς τὸ βάθος τοῦ περιέχοντος ἀέρος ἀπέκρυσεν: ἔπειτ' ἐξαίφνης ἐπιτίθησι τῷ Λοκόμῳ τὸν πῖλον ἐπὶ τὴν κεφαλὴν ἀρμόσας ὥς πρότερον ἤρμοστο. [4] θαυμαστοῦ δὲ καὶ παραδόξου πᾶσι τοῦ σημείου φανέντος ἡ γυνὴ τοῦ Λοκόμῳ ὄνομα Τανακύλλα ἐμπειρίαν ἱκανὴν ἐκ πατέρων ἔχουσα τῆς Τυρρηνικῆς οἰνοσκοπίας, λαβοῦσα μόνον αὐτὸν ἀπὸ τῶν συνόντων ἡσπασατό τε καὶ ἀγαθῶν ἐλπίδων ἐνέπλησεν ὥς ἐξ ἰδιωτικῆς τύχης εἰς ἐξουσίαν βασιλικὴν ἐλευσόμενον. σκοπεῖν μέντοι συνεβούλευεν ὅπως παρ' ἐκόντων λήψεται Ῥωμαίων τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ἀξίον τῆς τιμῆς ταύτης ἑαυτὸν παρασχών.

ὁ δὲ περιχαρὴς τῷ σημείῳ γενόμενος ἐπειδὴ ταῖς πύλαις ἤδη συνηγγίζεν, εὐξάμενος τοῖς θεοῖς ἐπιτελῇ γενέσθαι τὰ μαντεύματα καὶ σὺν ἀγαθαῖς εἰσελθεῖν τύχαις παρῆλθεν εἰς τὴν πόλιν: καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο συνελθὼν εἰς λόγους Μαρκίῳ τῷ βασιλεῖ πρῶτον μὲν ἑαυτὸν ἐδήλωσεν ὅστις ἦν, ἔπειθ' ὅτι κατοικεῖν ἐν τῇ πόλει βουλούμενος παρεῖη πᾶσαν τὴν πατρικὴν οὐσίαν ἐπαγόμενος, ἦν εἰς τὸ κοινὸν ἔφη τῷ βασιλεῖ καὶ τῇ Ῥωμαίων πόλει τιθέναι μείζονα οὖσαν ἢ κατ' ἰδιώτην ἄνδρα κεκτῆσθαι. [2] ἀσμένως δὲ τοῦ βασιλέως αὐτὸν ὑποδεξαμένου καὶ καταχωρίσαντος ἅμα τοῖς συμπαροῦσιν αὐτῷ Τυρρηνῶν εἰς φυλὴν τε καὶ φρατρίαν, οἰκίαν τε κατασκευάζεται [p. 364] τόπον διαλαχὼν τῆς πόλεως τὸν ἀρκοῦντα καὶ γῆς λαμβάνει κλῆρον. ἐπεὶ δὲ ταῦτα διωκῆσατο καὶ τῶν ἀστῶν εἰς ἐγεγόνει, μαθὼν ὅτι Ῥωμαίων ἐκάστῳ κοινόν τ' ὄνομα κεῖται καὶ μετὰ τὸ κοινὸν ἕτερον, ὃ δὴ συγγενικὸν αὐτοῖς ἐστὶ καὶ πατρωνυμικόν, ἐξομοιοῦσθαι καὶ κατὰ τοῦτο αὐτοῖς βουλούμενος Λεύκιον μὲν ἀντὶ Λοκόμῳ ἑαυτῷ τίθεται τὸ κοινὸν ὄνομα, Ταρκύνιον δὲ τὸ συγγενικὸν ἐπὶ τῆς πόλεως ἐν ᾗ γενέσεώς τε καὶ τροφῆς ἔτυχε: [3] βασιλέως τε φίλος ἐν ὀλίγῳ πάντῳ χρόνῳ γίνεται δῶρα δίδους, ὧν αὐτὸν ἐν χρεῖα μάλιστα γινόμενον ἠσθάνετο καὶ χρήματα παρέχων εἰς τὰς πολεμικὰς χρεῖας ὅσων ἐδεῖτο, ἐν δὲ ταῖς στρατείαις ἀπάντων κράτιστα πεζῶν τε καὶ ἱππέων ἀγωνιζόμενος γνώμης τε ὅπου δεήσειεν ἀγαθῆς ἐν τοῖς πάνυ φρονίμοις τῶν συμβούλων ἀριθμοῦμενος. [4] γενόμενος δὲ παρὰ τῷ βασιλεῖ τίμιος οὐδὲ τῆς ἄλλων Ῥωμαίων εὐνοίας διήμαρτεν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τῶν πατρικίων πολλοὺς ταῖς εὐεργεσίαις ὑπηγάγετο καὶ τὸ δημοτικὸν πλῆθος οἰκείως ἔχειν ἑαυτῷ παρεσκεύασεν εὐπροσηγόροις τε ἀσπασμοῖς καὶ κεχαρισμέναις ὁμιλίαις καὶ χρημάτων μεταδόσει καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις φιλοφροσύναις.

τοιοῦτος μὲν δὴ τις ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἦν καὶ διὰ ταύτας τὰς αἰτίας ζῶντός τε Μαρκίου πάντων ἐγένετο Ῥωμαίων ἐπιφανέστατος καὶ τελευτήσαντος [p. 365] ἐκείνου τῆς βασιλείας ὑπὸ πάντων ἄξιος ἐκρίθη. ἐπεὶ δὲ παρέλαβε τὴν ἀρχὴν, πρῶτον μὲν ἐπολέμησε τοῖς καλουμένοις Ἀπολιανοῖς πόλει τοῦ [2] Λατίνων ἔθνους οὐκ ἀφανεῖ. οἱ γὰρ Ἀπολιανοὶ καὶ οἱ ἄλλοι σύμπαντες Λατῖνοι μετὰ τὸν Ἄγκου Μαρκίου θάνατον λελεύσθαι τὰς περὶ τῆς εἰρήνης ὁμολογίας οἰόμενοι ληστειαῖς τε καὶ προνομαῖς τὴν Ῥωμαίων γῆν ἐπόρθουν· ἀνθ' ὧν τιμωρήσασθαι βουλόμενος αὐτοὺς ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐξεστράτευσε πολλῇ δυνάμει καὶ τῆς γῆς αὐτῶν τὴν κρατίστην ἐδήλωσεν· [3] ἀφικομένης δ' ἐκ τῶν πλησιοχώρων Λατίνων ἐπικουρίας μεγάλῃς τοῖς Ἀπολιανοῖς διττὰς τίθεται πρὸς αὐτοὺς μάχας, κρατήσας δ' ἐν ἀμφοτέραις περὶ τὴν πολιορκίαν τῆς πόλεως ἐγίνετο καὶ προσῆγε τοῖς τείχεσι τὰς δυνάμεις ἐκ διαδοχῆς· οἱ δ' ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ὀλίγοι τε πρὸς πολλοὺς μαχόμενοι καὶ κατ' οὐδένα καιρὸν ἀναπαύσεως τυγχάνοντες ἐξηρέθησαν σὺν χρόνῳ. ἀλούσης δὲ κατὰ κράτος τῆς πόλεως οἱ μὲν πλείους τῶν Ἀπολιανῶν μαχόμενοι κατεσφάγησαν, ὀλίγοι δὲ τὰ ὄπλα παραδόντες ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις λαφύροις ἐπράθησαν, παῖδες τε αὐτῶν καὶ γυναῖκες ἀνδραποδισθέντες ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων ἀπῆχθησαν, καὶ ἡ πόλις διαρπασθεῖσα ἐνεπρήσθη. [4] ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ὁ βασιλεὺς καὶ τὸ τεῖχος ἐκ θεμελίων κατασκάψας ἀπῆγε τὴν δυνάμιν ἐπ' οἴκου καὶ μετὰ τοῦθ' ἐτέραν στρατιὰν ἤγεν ἐπὶ τὴν Κρουστομερίνων πόλιν. αὕτη δὲ [p. 366] ἀποικία μὲν ἦν Λατίνων, προσεχώρησε δὲ Ῥωμαίοις ἐπὶ τῆς Ῥωμύλου δυναστείας· Ταρκυνίου δὲ τὴν ἀρχὴν παραλαβόντος τὰ Λατίνων αὐθις ἠρξάτο φρονεῖν. οὐ μὴν ἐδέξασέ γε καὶ ταύτην πολιορκίαν τε παραστήσασθαι [5] καὶ πόνῳ· μαθόντες γὰρ οἱ Κρουστομερίνοι τὸ τε πλῆθος τῆς ἡκούσης ἐπ' αὐτοὺς δυνάμεως καὶ τὴν ἑαυτῶν ἀσθένειαν οὐδεμιᾶς αὐτοῖς ἐπικουρίας παρὰ τῶν ἄλλων Λατίνων ἀφικομένης ἀνέωξαν τὰς πύλας καὶ προελθόντες οἱ πρεσβύτατοι τῶν πολιτῶν καὶ τιμιώτατοι παρέδωκαν αὐτῷ τὴν πόλιν ἀξιοῦντες ἐπεικῶς σφισι χρήσασθαι καὶ μετρίως. [6] τῷ δὲ κατ' εὐχὴν τὸ πρᾶγμα ἐφάνη καὶ παρελθὼν εἰς τὸ τεῖχος ἀπέκτεινε μὲν οὐδένα Κρουστομερίνων, ὀλίγους δὲ πάνυ τοὺς αἰτίους τῆς ἀποστάσεως φυγαῖς αἰδίοις ἐζημίωσε, τοῖς δ' ἄλλοις ἅπασιν τὰ σφέτερα συνεχώρησεν ἔχειν καὶ τῆς Ῥωμαίων πολιτείας μετέχειν ὥς πρότερον, τοῦ δὲ μηδὲν ἔτι παρακινήσαι χάριν ἐποίκους αὐτοῖς κατέλιπε Ῥωμαίους.

κατέστησαν αὐτοῖς ἐκ τοῦ προφανοῦς ταῖς Λατίνων πεποιθότες συμμαχίαις: στρατεύσαντος δ' ἐπ' αὐτοὺς Ταρκυνίου καὶ τῆς Λατίνων ἐπικουρίας ὑστεριζούσης οὐχ οἷοι τε ὄντες αὐτοὶ πρὸς τοσαύτην δύναμιν ἀντέχειν, [p. 367] ἵκετηρίας ἀναλαβόντες ἐξῆλθον ἐκ τῆς πόλεως καὶ παρέδωκαν ἑαυτοὺς. [2] οἱ δὲ τὴν καλουμένην Κολλατίαν κατοικοῦντες ἐπειράθησαν μὲν ἐλθεῖν διὰ μάχης πρὸς τὰς Ῥωμαίων δυνάμεις καὶ προῆλθον ἔξω τῆς πόλεως, ἐν ἀπάσαις δὲ ταῖς συμπλοκαῖς ἐλαττοῦμενοι καὶ πληγὰς πολλὰς λαμβάνοντες ἠναγκάσθησαν πάλιν εἰς τὸ τεῖχος καταφυγεῖν καὶ διεπέμποντο πρὸς τὰς Λατίνων πόλεις αἰτοῦμενοι συμμαχίαν. ὥς δὲ βραδύτερα τὰ παρ' ἐκείνων ἦν, καὶ κατὰ πολλὰ μέρη τοῦ τείχους οἱ πολέμιοι τὰς προσβολὰς ἐποιοῦντο, παραδοῦναι τὴν πόλιν ἠναγκάσθησαν σὺν χρόνῳ. [3] οὐ μέντοι τῆς αὐτῆς μετριότητος ἔτυχον, ἥς Νωμεντανοὶ τε καὶ Κρουστομερίνοι, ἀλλ' ὅπλα τε ὁ βασιλεὺς ἀφείλετο καὶ εἰς χρήματα ἐζημίωσε καὶ φρουρὰν κατέλιπεν ἐν τῇ πόλει τὴν ἱκανὴν ἄρχειν τε αὐτῶν ἔταξε τὴν ἀνυπεύθυνον ἀρχὴν διὰ βίου Ταρκύνιον Ἄρροντα τὸν ἴδιον ἀδελφιδοῦν, ὃς μετὰ τὴν τελευταίαν τοῦ τε πατρὸς Ἄρροντος καὶ τοῦ πάππου Δημαράτου γενόμενος οὔτε τῶν πατρῶων οὔτε τῶν τοῦ πάππου χρημάτων τὴν προσήκουσαν ἐκκληρονόμησε μοῖραν καὶ διὰ ταύτην τὴν αἰτίαν Ἠγέριος ἐπωνομάσθη. τοὺς γὰρ ἀπόρους καὶ πτωχοὺς οὕτως ὀνομάζουσι Ῥωμαῖοι. ἐξ οὗ δὲ παρέλαβε τὴν ἐκείνης τῆς πόλεως ἐπιμέλειαν αὐτὸς τε Κολλατῖνος ἐπεκλήθη καὶ πάντες οἱ ἀπ' ἐκείνου γενόμενοι. [4] μετὰ δὲ τὴν Κολλατίαν παράδοσιν ἐπὶ τὸν καλούμενον Κορνικόλον [p. 368] ὁ βασιλεὺς ἐστράτευσεν: ἦν δὲ κάκεινη τοῦ Λατίνων ἔθρους ἢ πόλις. λεηλατήσας δὲ τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν κατὰ πολλὴν ἄδειαν οὐδενὸς ὑπὲρ αὐτῆς ἀμυνομένου πρὸς αὐτὴν στρατεύεται τὴν πόλιν προκαλοῦμενος τοὺς ἄνδρας εἰς φιλίαν: οὐ βουλομένων δὲ αὐτῶν εἰς διαλλαγὰς ἐλθεῖν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῦ τείχους τῇ ἐχυρότητι πεποιθότων καὶ συμμαχίας πολλαχόθεν ἥξειν οἰομένων, περὶ πάντα τὸν κύκλον τῆς πόλεως τὴν δύναμιν περιστήσας ἐτειχομάχει. [5] οἱ δὲ Κορνικολανοὶ πολὺν μὲν χρόνον ἀντεῖχον ἀνδρείως ἀπομαχόμενοι καὶ πολλὰς τοῖς προσβαλοῦσι πληγὰς ἔδωκαν, κάμνοντες δὲ τῇ συνεχείᾳ τῶν πόνων καὶ οὐδὲ τὴν αὐτὴν ἔτι γνώμην ἅπαντες φυλάττοντες 'τοῖς μὲν γὰρ ἐδόκει παραδιδόναι τὴν πόλιν, τοῖς δὲ μέχρι παντὸς ἀντέχειν' δι' αὐτὸ τὸ στασιάζειν μάλιστα καταπονούμενοι κατὰ κράτος ἐάλωσαν. [6] τὸ μὲν οὖν κράτιστον αὐτῶν μέρος ἐν τῇ καταλήψει τῆς πόλεως μαχόμενον διεφθάρη, τὸ δὲ ἀγεννὲς καὶ διὰ τοῦτο σωθὲν ἐν ἀνδραπόδων ἐπράθη λόγῳ γυναιξίν ὁμοῦ καὶ τέκνοις, ἡ δὲ πόλις αὐτῶν διαρπασθεῖσα ὑπὸ τῶν κεκρατηκότων ἐνεπρήσθη. [7] ἐφ' οἷς οἱ Λατῖνοι χαλεπῶς φέροντες ἐψηφίσαντο κοινῇ στρατιὰν ἐπὶ Ῥωμαίους ἐξαγαγεῖν καὶ παρασκευασάμενοι πολλὴν δύναμιν εἰς τὴν κρατίστην χώραν αὐτῶν ἐνέβαλον, ἐξ ἧς αἰχμαλώτους τε πολλοὺς ἀπήγαγον καὶ λείας ἐγένοντο μεγάλης κύριοι. βασιλεὺς δὲ Ταρκύνιος ἐξῆλθε [p. 369] μὲν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς τὴν εὐζωνὸν τε καὶ ἐν ἐτοιμῇ δύναμιν ἐπαγόμενος, οὐκέτι δὲ καταλαβεῖν αὐτοὺς φθάσας εἰς τὴν ἐκείνων χώραν ἐνέβαλε καὶ τὰ ὅμοια διέθηκε. [8] τοιαῦτα συνέβαινε πολλὰ παραλλάξ ἐκατέροις ἐπὶ τὰς ὁμόρους χώρας ἐκστρατευομένοις ἐλαττώματά τε καὶ πλεονεκτήματα, μία δὲ αὐτῶν

μετὰ δὲ τὸν ἀγῶνα τοῦτον ἔχων συντεταγμένην τὴν Ῥωμαίων δύναμιν ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐπὶ τὰς πόλεις αὐτῶν ἐχώρει λόγους προφέρων περὶ φιλίας. οἱ δ' οὐτ' ἐν τῷ κοινῷ συνεστῶσαν ἔχοντες δύναμιν οὔτε ταῖς ἰδίαις παρασκευαῖς πεποιθότες ἐδέχοντο τὰς προκλήσεις, καὶ παρεδίδοσαν αὐτῶν τινες τὰς πόλεις ὀρώντες, ὅτι ταῖς μὲν ἀλούσαις κατὰ κράτος ἀνδραποδισμοὶ τε ἠκολούθουν καὶ κατασκαφαί, ταῖς δὲ προσχωρούσαις καθ' ὁμολογίας τὸ πειθαρχεῖν τοῖς κεκρατηκόσι μόνον, ἄλλο δὲ ἀνήκεστον οὐδέν. [2] πρῶτον μὲν οὖν Φικόλνεοι προσέθεντο αὐτῷ πόλις ἀξιόλογος ἐπὶ συγκειμένοις τισὶ δικαίαις, ἔπειτα Καμαρίνοι, αἷς ἠκολούθησαν ἄλλαι τινὲς πολίχνη μικραὶ καὶ [3] φρούρια ἐχυρά. ἐφ' οἷς ταραχθέντες οἱ λοιποὶ Λατῖνοι καὶ δεισάντες μὴ πᾶν ὑφ' ἑαυτῷ ποιήσεται τὸ [p. 370] ἔθνος εἰς τὴν ἐν Φερεντίνῳ συνελθόντες ἀγορὰν ἐψηφίσαντο τὴν τε οἰκείαν δύναμιν ἐξ ἀπάσης πόλεως ἐξάγειν καὶ τῶν πλησιοχώρων ἐθνῶν τὰ κράτιστα παρακαλεῖν, καὶ διεπρεσβεύοντο πρὸς Τυρρηνοὺς τε καὶ [4] Σαβίνους αἰτοῦμενοι συμμαχίαν. Σαβῖνοι μὲν οὖν ὑπέσχοντο αὐτοῖς, ἐπειδὴν ἐκείνους ἐμβεβληκότας εἰς τὴν Ῥωμαίων γῆν ἀκούσωσιν, ἀναλαβόντες καὶ αὐτοὶ τὰ ὅπλα τὴν πλησίον αὐτῶν χώραν λεηλατήσιν: Τυρρηνοὶ δὲ συμμαχίαν ἀποστελεῖν ὠμολόγησαν, ἧς ἂν αὐτοὶ δεηθῶσιν, οὐχ ἅπαντες ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς γενόμενοι γνώμης, ἀλλὰ πέντε πόλεις μόναι Κλουσῖνοι τε καὶ Ἀρρητῖνοι καὶ Οὐολατερρανοὶ Ρουσιλανοὶ τε καὶ ἔτι πρὸς τούτοις Οὐετυλωνιάται.

ταύταις ἐπαρθέντες ταῖς ἐλπίσιν οἱ Λατῖνοι παρασκευασάμενοι δύναμιν οἰκείαν συχνὴν καὶ τὴν παρὰ Τυρρηνῶν προσλαβόντες εἰς τὴν Ῥωμαίων γῆν ἐνέβαλον, καὶ κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν χρόνον ἐκ τοῦ Σαβίνων ἔθνους αἱ τοῦ πολέμου κοινωνήσιν αὐτοῖς ὑποσχόμεναι πόλεις τὴν προσόμουρον κυροῦσαν αὐταῖς χώραν ἐδήουν. ὁ δὲ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς παρασκευασάμενος καὶ αὐτὸς ἐν τῷ μεταξὺ χρόνῳ πολλὴν καὶ ἀγαθὴν δύναμιν ἐξῆγεν ἐπὶ τοὺς πολεμίους διὰ [2] ταχέων. Σαβίνοις μὲν οὖν ἅμα καὶ Λατῖνοις πολεμεῖν καὶ διαιρεῖν εἰς δύο μέρη τὴν δύναμιν οὐκ ἀσφαλὲς [p. 371] ὑπέλαβεν εἶναι, ἅπασαν δὲ τὴν στρατιὰν ἐπὶ Λατίνους ἄγειν ἐβουλεύσατο καὶ τίθεται πλησίον αὐτῶν τὸν χάρακα. κατ' ἀρχὰς μὲν οὖν ὀκνηρῶς εἶχον ἑκάτεροι πάσαις ἀποκινδυνεῦσαι ταῖς δυνάμεσι δεδιότες τὰς ἀλλήλων παρασκευάς, ἀκροβολισμοὺς δὲ κατιόντες ἐκ τῶν ἐρυμάτων οἱ φιλοὶ παρ' ἑκατέρων συνεχεῖς ἐποιοῦντο καὶ ἦσαν ὡς τὰ πολλὰ ἰσομάχοι: [3] χρόνῳ δ' ὕστερον ἐμπεσοῦσης ἀμφοτέροις ἐκ τῶν τοιούτων ἀψιμαχιῶν φιλονεικίας ἐπιβοηθοῦντες ἑκάτεροι τοῖς σφετέροις, ὀλίγοι μὲν τὸ πρῶτον, ἔπειτα σύμπαντες ἠναγκάσθησαν ἐκ τῶν στρατοπέδων προελθεῖν. καὶ καταστάντες εἰς μάχην ἄνδρες οὔτε πολεμικῶν ἀγώνων ἀτριβεῖς οὔτε πλήθει πολὺ ἀποδέοντες ἀλλήλων πεζοὶ τε καὶ ἵππεῖς προθυμία τε ὠρμημένοι πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον ὁμοῖα καὶ κινδύνων τὸν ἔσχατον ἀναρριπτεῖν νομίσαντες ἠγωνίσαντο μὲν ἀμφοτέροις λόγου ἀξίως, διεκρίθησαν δὲ ἅπ' ἀλλήλων ισόμαχοι νυκτὸς ἐπιλαβούσης. [4] ἡ μέντοι μετὰ τὸν ἀγῶνα διάνοια ἐκατέρων οὐχ ὁμοία γενομένη φανεροὺς ἐποίησε τοὺς κρεῖττον ἀγωνισαμένους τῶν ἑτέρων: τῇ γὰρ ἐξῆς ἡμέρα Λατῖνοι μὲν οὐκέτι προήεσαν ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος, ὃ δὲ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς ἐξαγαγὼν τὰς δυνάμεις εἰς τὸ πεδῖον ἔτοιμος ἦν ἑτέραν ποιῆσθαι μάχην καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ κατέσχευεν ἐν τάξει τὴν φάλαγγα. ὥς δ' οὐκ ἀντεπεξῆεσαν οἱ πολέμιοι, σκυλεύσας αὐτῶν τοὺς νεκροὺς καὶ τοὺς ἰδίους ἀνελόμενος σὺν πολλῷ αὐχήμετι ἀπῆγε τὴν στρατιὰν ἐπὶ τὸν ἑαυτοῦ χάρακα. [p. 372]

ταῖς δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέραις ἀφικομένης τοῖς Λατίνους ἑτέρας παρὰ Τυρρηνῶν συμμαχίας δευτέρως ἀγὼν γίνεται πολὺ μείζων τοῦ προτέρου, ἐξ οὗ νίκην ἀναιρεῖται βασιλεὺς Ταρκύνιος ἐπιφανεστάτην, ἣς αὐτὸς αἴτιος ὡμολογεῖτο ὑπὸ πάντων γεγενῆσθαι. [2] καμνουσῆς γὰρ ἤδη τῆς Ῥωμαϊκῆς φάλαγγος καὶ κατὰ τὸ ἀριστερὸν κέρας παραρρηγνυμένης μαθὼν τὸ γινόμενον ἐλάττωμα περὶ τοὺς σφετέρους ἔτυχε δὲ τότε μαχόμενος ἐπὶ τοῦ δεξιοῦ κέρατος τὰς κρατίστας τῶν ἱππέων Ἰλας ἐπιστρέψας καὶ τῶν πεζῶν τοὺς ἀκμαιοτάτους ἀναλαβὼν ἦγε κατὰ νώτου τῆς ἑαυτοῦ στρατιᾶς καὶ παραλλάξας τὸ ἀριστερὸν κέρας ἤλαυνεν ἔτι προσωτέρω τῆς φάλαγγος. ἔπειτα ἐπιστρέψας ἐπὶ δόρυ καὶ τὰ κέντρα προσβαλὼν τοῖς ἵπποις εἰς πλαγίους ἐμβάλλει τοὺς τῶν Τυρρηνῶν λόχους ὅτι γὰρ ἐπὶ τοῦ δεξιοῦ τῶν πολεμίων μαχόμενοι κέρατος ἐτρέψαντο τοὺς καθ' ἑαυτοῦς, ἐπιφανεῖς δ' αὐτοῖς ἀπροσδόκητος πολλὴν ἑκπληξιν καὶ ταραχὴν παρέσχευεν. [3] ἐν δὲ τούτῳ καὶ ἡ πεζὴ τῶν Ῥωμαίων δύναμις ἀναλαβοῦσα ἑαυτὴν ἐκ τοῦ προτέρου δείματος εἰς ἀντίπαλα ἐχώρει, καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο φόνος τε πολλὸς τῶν Τυρρηνῶν ἐγένετο καὶ τροπὴ τοῦ δεξιοῦ κέρατος παντελής. Ταρκύνιος δὲ τοῖς ἡγεμόσι τῶν πεζῶν ἀκολουθεῖν κελεύσας ἐν κόσμῳ καὶ βάδην αὐτὸς ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον ἐχώρει τὸ τῶν πολεμίων ἐλαύνων τοὺς ἵππους ἀνὰ κράτος, φθάσας δὲ τοὺς ἐκ τῆς τροπῆς ἀνασωζομένους ἐγκρατὴς γίνεται τοῦ χάρακος [p. 373] εὐθύς ἐξ ἐφόδου. οἱ γὰρ ἐν αὐτῷ καταλειφθέντες οὔτε τὴν κατασχοῦσαν τοὺς σφετέρους συμφορὰν προεγνωκότες οὔτε τοὺς προσιόντας ἱππεῖς γνωρίσαι διὰ τὸ αἰφνίδιον τῆς ἐφόδου δυνηθέντες εἶασαν αὐτοὺς παρελθεῖν. [4] ἀλούσης δὲ τῆς παρασκευῆς τῶν Λατίνων οἱ μὲν ἀναχωροῦντες ἐκ τῆς τροπῆς ὥς εἰς ἀσφαλῆ καταφυγὴν ὑπὸ τῶν καταλαβομένων αὐτὴν ἱππέων ἀπώλλυντο, οἱ δ' ἐκ τοῦ στρατοπέδου φεύγειν ὀρμήσαντες εἰς τὸ πεδῖον ὑπὸ τῆς Ῥωμαϊκῆς φάλαγγος ὁμόσε χωρούσης ἀπέθνησκον, οἱ δὲ πλείους αὐτῶν ὠθοῦμενοι τε ὑπ' ἀλλήλων καὶ καταπατούμενοι περὶ τοῖς σκόλοψιν ἢ κατὰ τὰς τάφρους τὸν οἰκτιστὸν τε καὶ ἀγεννέστατον τρόπον διεφθάρησαν: ὥστ' ἠναγκάσθησαν οἱ περιλειπόμενοι τῆς σωτηρίας οὐδένα πόρον εὖρεῖν δυνάμενοι παραδοῦναι τοῖς κεκρατηκόσιν ἑαυτοὺς. [5] γενόμενος δὲ ὁ Ταρκύνιος πολλῶν σωμάτων τε καὶ χρημάτων ἐγκρατὴς τοὺς μὲν αἰχμαλώτους ἀπέδοτο, τὰ δ' ἐν τῷ χάρακι καταληφθέντα τοῖς στρατιώταις ἐχαρίσατο.

ἀπὸ τοῦ κοινοῦ πέμπαντες καταλύσασθαι τὸν πόλεμον ἤξιουν ἐφ' οἷς αὐτοὺς ἠβούλετο καὶ τὰς πόλεις παρέδωκαν. [2] γενόμενος δὲ τῶν [p. 374] πόλεων κατὰ τὰςδε τὰς ὁμολογίας ὁ βασιλεὺς κύριος ἐπεικέστατα πάσαις προσηνέχθη καὶ μετριώτατα. οὔτε γὰρ ἀπέκτεινεν οὔτε φεύγειν ἠνάγκασεν οὔτε χρήμασιν ἐζημίωσε Λατίνων οὐδένα γῆν τε αὐτοῖς καρποῦσθαι τὴν ἑαυτῶν ἐπέτρεψε καὶ πολιτεύμασι χρήσασθαι τοῖς πατρίοις ἐφήκεν, ἀποδοῦναι δὲ αὐτοὺς ἐκέλευσε Ῥωμαίοις τοὺς τε αὐτομόλους καὶ τοὺς αἰχμαλώτους ἄνευ λύτρων θεράποντάς τε ἀποκαταστήσαι τοῖς δεσπótαις ὅσων ἐγένοντο κατὰ τὰς προνομὰς κύριοι καὶ χρήματα ὅσα τοὺς γεωργοὺς ἀφείλοντο διαλύσαι καὶ εἴ τι ἄλλο κατέβλαψαν ἢ διέφθειραν ἐν ταῖς εἰσβολαῖς ἐπανορθῶσαι. [3] ταῦτα δὲ ποιήσαντας εἶναι φίλους Ῥωμαίων καὶ συμμάχους ἅπαντα πράττοντας ὅσα ἂν ἐκεῖνοι κελεύωσιν. ὁ μὲν δὴ πρὸς Λατίνους συστὰς Ῥωμαίοις πόλεμος εἰς τοῦτο τὸ τέλος κατέσκηψε, καὶ βασιλεὺς Ταρκύνιος τὸν ἐπινίκιον ἐκ τοῦ πολέμου τούτου κατήγαγε θρίαμβον.

τῷ δ' ἐξῆς ἔτει παραλαβὼν τὴν δύναμιν ἐπὶ Σαβίνους ἦγεν ἐκ πολλοῦ τὴν προαίρεσιν αὐτοῦ καὶ τὴν παρασκευὴν τὴν ἐφ' ἑαυτοὺς προεγνώκotas. οὐχ ὑπομειναντες δὲ εἰς τὴν ἑαυτῶν χώραν παρεῖναι τὸν πόλεμον, ἀλλ' ἀντιπαρασκευασάμενοι δύναμιν ἱκανὴν ἐχώρουν ὁμόσε. γενομένης δὲ αὐτοῖς μάχης περὶ τὰ μεθόρια τῆς χώρας ἄχρι νυκτὸς ἐνίκων μὲν οὐδέτεροι, πάνυ δ' ἰσχυρῶς ἐπόνησαν ἀμφοτέροι. [2] ταῖς γοῦν ἐξῆς ἡμέραις οὔτε ὁ τῶν Σαβίνων ἡγεμὼν προῆγεν ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος τὰς δυνάμεις οὔτε ὁ τῶν [p. 375] Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς, ἀλλ' ἀναστρατοπεδεύσαντες ἀμφοτέροι καὶ τῆς ἀλλήλων γῆς οὐδὲν κακώσαντες ἀπήεσαν ἐπ' οἴκου. γνώμη δ' ἀμφοτέρων ἦν ὁμοία μείζονα δύναμιν ἐτέραν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀλλήλων χώραν ἐξάγειν ἕαρος ἀρχομένου. [3] ἐπεὶ δὲ πάντα παρεσκεύαστο αὐτοῖς, πρότεροι μὲν ἐξῆλθον οἱ Σαβῖνοι Τυρρηνῶν ἔχοντες δύναμιν ἱκανὴν πρὸς συμμαχίαν καὶ καταστρατοπεδεύονται Φιδίηνης πλησίον περὶ τὰς συμβολὰς τοῦ τε Ἀνίητος καὶ τοῦ Τεβέριος ποταμοῦ διττοὺς βαλόμενοι τοὺς χάρακας ἐναντίους τε καὶ συνεχεῖς ἀλλήλοις, μέσον ἔχοντες τὸ κοινὸν ἐξ ἀμφοτέρων τῶν ποταμῶν ρεῖθρον, ἐφ' οὗ κατεσκεύαστο γέφυρα ξυλόφρακτος σκάφαις ἀνεχομένη καὶ σχεδιαίς ἢ ποιοῦσα ταχείας τὰς πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἀφίξεις καὶ τὸν χάρακα ἓνα. [4] πυθόμενος δὲ τὴν εἰσβολὴν αὐτῶν ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐξῆγε καὶ αὐτὸς τὸ Ῥωμαίων στράτευμα καθιδρύεται τε μικρὸν ἀνωτέρω τῆς ἐκείνων στρατοπεδείας παρὰ τὸν Ἀνίητα ποταμὸν ἐπὶ λόφου τινὸς καρτεροῦ. ἀπάσῃ δὲ προθυμίᾳ πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον ὠρμημένων ἀμφοτέρων οὐδεὶς ἀγὼν ἐκ παρατάξεως οὔτε μείζων οὔτ' ἐλάσσων αὐτοῖς συνέστη. ἔφθασε γὰρ ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἀγχινοῖα στρατηγικῇ πάντα συντρίψας τὰ τῶν Σαβίνων πράγματα καὶ τὰς παρεμβολὰς αὐτῶν ἀμφοτέρας ἀράμενος. τὸ δὲ στρατήγημα τοῦ ἀνδρὸς τοιόνδε ἦν: [p. 376] σκάφας ποταμηγοὺς καὶ σχεδιαίς ξύλων αὔων καὶ φρυγάνων γεμούσας, ἔτι δὲ πίσεως τε καὶ θείου παρασκευασάμενος ἐπὶ θατέρου τῶν ποταμῶν, παρ' ὃν αὐτὸς ἐστρατοπεδεύκει, ἔπειτα φυλάξας ἄνεμον οὖριον περὶ τὴν ἑωθινήν φυλακὴν πῦρ ἐνεῖναι ταῖς ὕλαις ἐκέλευσε καὶ μεθεῖναι τὰς σκάφας καὶ τὰς οχεδίας φέρεσθαι κατὰ ῥοῦν. αἱ δὲ ἐν ὀλίγῳ πάνυ χρόνῳ διελθοῦσαι τὸν μεταξὺ πόρον ἐμπίπτουσι τῇ [2] γεφύρᾳ καὶ ἀνάπτουσιν αὐτὴν πολλαχόθεν. τῶν δὲ Σαβίνων ὡς εἶδον ἄφνω πολλὴν φλόγα φερομένην συνδραμόντων ἐπὶ τὴν βοήθειαν καὶ πάντα μηχανωμένων ὅσα σβεστήρια τοῦ πυρὸς ἦν, ἤκεν ὁ Ταρκύνιος περὶ τὸν ὄρθρον ἄγων συντεταγμένην τὴν Ῥωμαίων δύναμιν καὶ προσβαλὼν θατέρῳ χάρακι τῶν μὲν πλείστων ἐκλελοιπότεν τὰς φυλακὰς διὰ τὴν ἐπὶ τὰ καιόμενα ὁρμήν, ὀλίγων δὲ τινων πρὸς ἀλκὴν τραπομένων, [3] ἐγκρατὴς αὐτοῦ γίνεται δίχα πόνου. ἐν ᾧ δὲ ταῦτα ἐπράττετο χρόνῳ καὶ τὸν ἕτερον τῶν Σαβίνων χάρακα τὸν ἐπέκεινα τοῦ ποταμοῦ κείμενον ἑτέρα δύναμις Ῥωμαίων ἐπελθοῦσα αἶρεϊ, ἣ προαπέσταλτο μὲν ὑπὸ Ταρκυνίου περὶ πρῶτον ὕπνον, διεληλύθει δὲ τὸν ἐκ τῶν δυεῖν ποταμῶν ἓνα γενόμενον ἐν σκάφαις καὶ σχεδίαις καθ' ὃ μέρος περαιουμένη λήσεσθαι ἔμελλε τοὺς Σαβίνους, πλησίον δὲ τῆς ἑτέρας ἐγεγόνει παρεμβολῆς ἅμα τῷ θεάσασθαι τὴν γέφυραν καιομένην: τοῦτο γὰρ ἦν αὐτῇ τὸ σὺνθημα [p. 377] [4] τῆς ἐφόδου. τῶν δ' ἐν τοῖς χάραξι καταληφθέντων οἱ μὲν ὑπὸ τῶν Ῥωμαίων μαχόμενοι κατεκόπησαν, οἱ δ' εἰς τὴν συμβολὴν τῶν ποταμῶν ῥίψαντες ἑαυτοὺς οὐ δυνηθέντες ὑπερενεχθῆναι τὰς δίνας κατεπόθησαν: ἐφθάρη δὲ τις αὐτῶν μοῖρα οὐκ ὀλίγη καὶ κατὰ τὴν βοήθειαν τῆς γεφύρας ὑπὸ τοῦ πυρὸς. λαβὼν δὲ ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἀμφοτέρα τὰ στρατόπεδα τὰ μὲν ἐν αὐτοῖς καταληφθέντα χρήματα τοῖς στρατιώταις ἐπέτρεψε διανείμασθαι, τοὺς δὲ αἰχμαλώτους πολλοὺς πάνυ ὄντας Σαβίνων τε αὐτῶν καὶ Τυρρηνῶν εἰς Ῥώμην ἀγαγὼν διὰ πολλῆς εἶχε φυλακῆς.

Σαβῖνοι μὲν οὖν ἐγνῶσιμάχησαν ὑπὸ τῆς τότε συμφορᾶς βιασθέντες καὶ πρεσβευτὰς ἀποστείλαντες ἀνοχὰς ἐποιήσαντο τοῦ πολέμου σπονδὰς ἐξαετεῖς, Τυρρηνοὶ δὲ ὀργῇ φέροντες ὅτι ἤττηντό τε ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων πολλακίς καὶ ὅτι τοὺς αἰχμαλώτους αὐτοῖς ὁ Ταρκύνιος οὐκ ἀπεδίδου πρεσβευσαμένοις, ἀλλ' ἐν ὁμήρων κατεῖχε λόγῳ, ψήφισμα ποιοῦνται πάσας τὰς τῶν Τυρρηνῶν πόλεις κοινῇ τὸν κατὰ Ῥωμαίων πόλεμον ἐκφέρειν, τὴν δὲ μὴ μετέχουσιν τῆς στρατείας ἔκσπονδον εἶναι. [2] ταῦτ' ἐπικυρώσαντες ἐξῆγον τὰς δυνάμεις καὶ διαβάντες τὸν Τέβεριν ἀγχοῦ Φιδήνης τίθενται τὰ ὅπλα. γενόμενοι δὲ τῆς πόλεως ταύτης ἐγκρατεῖς διὰ προδοσίας στασιασάντων πρὸς ἀλλήλους τῶν ἐν αὐτῇ καὶ πολλὰ μὲν σώματα λαβόντες, πολλὴν [p. 378] δὲ λείαν ἐκ τῆς Ῥωμαίων χώρας ἐλαύνοντες ἀπῆλθον ἐπ' οἴκου, φρουρὰν ἐν τῇ Φιδήνῃ καταλιπόντες ἀποχρῶσαν. αὕτη γὰρ ἡ πόλις ὁρμητήριον αὐτοῖς ἔσεσθαι κράτιστον ἐδόκει τοῦ κατὰ Ῥωμαίων πολέμου. [3] βασιλεὺς δὲ Ταρκύνιος εἰς τοῦπιόν ἔτος Ῥωμαίους τε σύμπαντας καθοπλίσας καὶ παρὰ τῶν συμμάχων ὅσους ἐδύνατο πλείστους παραλαβὼν ἐξῆγεν ἐπὶ τοὺς πολεμίους ἕαρος ἀρχομένου, πρὶν ἐκείνους συναχθέντας ἐξ ἀπασῶν τῶν πόλεων ἐπ' αὐτὸν ὡς πρότερον ἐλθεῖν: καὶ διελὼν εἰς δύο μοίρας ἅπασαν τὴν δύναμιν τῆς μὲν Ῥωμαϊκῆς στρατιᾶς αὐτὸς ἡγούμενος ἐπὶ τὰς πόλεις τῶν Τυρρηνῶν ἐστράτευσε, τῆς δὲ συμμαχικῆς, ἐν ἣ τὸ πλεῖστον μέρος ἦν τῶν Λατίνων, Ἠγέριον τὸν ἑαυτοῦ συγγενῇ στρατηγὸν ἀποδείξας ἐπὶ τοὺς ἐν Φιδήνῃ πολεμίους ἐκέλευσε χωρεῖν. [4] ἡ μὲν οὖν συμμαχικὴ πλησίον τῆς Φιδήνης τὸν χάρακα οὐκ ἐν ἀσφαλεῖ χωρίῳ θεμένη διὰ τὸ καταφρονεῖν τῶν πολεμίων ὀλίγου τινὸς ἐδέησεν πᾶσα διαφθαρήναι: οἱ γὰρ ἐν τῇ πόλει φρουροὶ βοήθειαν ἐτέραν παρὰ Τυρρηνῶν κρύφα μεταπεμφάμενοι καὶ φυλάξαντες καιρὸν ἐπιτήδειον ἐξελθόντες ἐκ τῆς πόλεως τὸν τε χάρακα τῶν πολεμίων ἔλαβον ἐξ ἐφόδου φαύλως φυλαττόμενον καὶ τῶν ἐξεληλυθότων ἐπὶ ^[5] τὰς προνομὰς πολὺν εἰργάσαντο φόνον. ἡ δὲ Ῥωμαίων δύναμις ἥς Ταρκύνιος ἠγεῖτο τὴν Οὐιεντανῶν κείρουσα καὶ λεηλατοῦσα χώραν καὶ πολλὰς ὠφελείας [p. 379] ἐξενεγκαμένη συνελθούσης ἐξ ἀπασῶν τῶν Τυρρηνίδων πόλεων μεγάλης τοῖς Οὐιεντανοῖς ἐπικουρίας εἰς μάχην καταστᾶσα νίκην ἀναμφίλογον ἀναιρεῖται: καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο διεξιούσα τὴν χώραν τῶν πολεμίων ἀδεῶς ἐπόρθει γενομένη τε πολλῶν μὲν σωμάτων ἐγκρατὴς, πολλῶν δὲ χρημάτων οἷα ἐξ εὐδαίμονος χώρας, τελευτῶντος ἤδη τοῦ θέρους οἴκαδε ἀπήει.

Οὐιεντανοὶ μὲν οὖν ἐξ ἐκείνης τῆς μάχης μεγάλως κακωθέντες οὐκέτι προήεσαν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως, ἀλλ' ἠνείχοντο κειρομένην τὴν χώραν ὀρῶντες. βασιλεὺς δὲ Ταρκύνιος τρισὶν εἰσβολαῖς χρησάμενος καὶ τριετὴ χρόνον ἀποστερήσας τοὺς Οὐιεντανοὺς τῶν ἐκ τῆς σφετέρας γῆς ἐπικαρπιῶν, ὡς ἔρημον ἐποίησε τὴν πλείστην καὶ ὡς οὐδὲν ἔτι βλάπτειν αὐτὴν εἶχεν, ἐπὶ τὴν Καιρητανῶν πόλιν ἦγε τὴν δύναμιν, ἣ πρότερον μὲν Ἀγυλλὰ ἐκαλεῖτο Πελασγῶν αὐτὴν κατοικοῦντων, ὑπὸ δὲ Τυρρηνοῖς γενομένη Καίρητα μετωνομάσθη, εὐδαίμων δ' ἦν εἰ καὶ τις ἄλλη τῶν ἐν Τυρρηνίᾳ πόλεων καὶ πολυάνθρωπος: ^[2] ἐξ ἧς στρατιὰ μεγάλη μαχησομένη περὶ τῆς χώρας ἐξῆλθε καὶ πολλοὺς μὲν διαφθείραςα τῶν πολεμίων, πολλῶ δ' ἔτι πλείους ἀποβαλοῦσα τῶν σφετέρων, εἰς τὴν πόλιν κατέφυγε. τῆς δὲ χώρας αὐτῶν οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι κρατοῦντες ἄφθονα πάντα παρεχομένης συχνὰς διέτριψαν ἡμέρας, καὶ ἐπειδὴ καιρὸς ἀπάρσεως ἦν, ἄγοντες ὅσας οἷοι τε ἦσαν ὠφελείας ἀπήεσαν ἐπ' οἴκου. ^[3] Ταρκύνιος δ' ἐπειδὴ [p. 380] τὰ πρὸς Οὐιεντανοὺς ἐχώρησεν αὐτῷ κατὰ νοῦν, ἐπὶ τοὺς ἐν Φιδήνῃ πολεμίους ἐξάγει τὴν στρατιάν ἐκβαλεῖν τε βουλόμενος τὴν ἐν αὐτῇ φρουράν καὶ τοὺς παραδόντας τοῖς Τυρρηνοῖς τὰ τεῖχη τιμωρήσασθαι προθυμούμενος. ἐγένετο μὲν οὖν καὶ ἐκ παρατάξεως μάχη τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις πρὸς τοὺς ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἐξελθόντας καὶ ἐν ταῖς τειχομαχίαις ἄγῶν καρτερός. ^[4] ἄλλω δ' οὖν ἡ πόλις κατὰ κράτος, καὶ οἱ μὲν φρουροὶ δεθέντες ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις τῶν Τυρρηνῶν αἰχμαλώτοις ἦσαν ἐν φυλακῇ, Φιδηναίων δὲ οἱ δοκοῦντες αἵτιοι γεγονέναι τῆς ἀποστάσεως οἱ μὲν ὑπὸ μαστίγων αἰκισθέντες ἐν τῷ φανερῷ τοὺς αὐχένας ἀπεκόπησαν, οἱ δὲ φυγαῖς ἐζημιώθησαν αἰδίοις: τὰς δὲ οὐσίας αὐτῶν διέλαχον οἱ καταλειφθέντες Ῥωμαίων ἔποικοι τε καὶ φρουροὶ τῆς πόλεως.

τελευταία δὲ μάχη Ῥωμαίων καὶ Τυρρηνῶν ἐγένετο πόλεως Ἡρήτου πλησίον ἐν τῇ Σαβίνων γῇ. δι' ἐκείνης γὰρ ἐποιήσαντο τὴν ἐπὶ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ἔλασιν οἱ Τυρρηνοὶ πεισθέντες ὑπὸ τῶν ἐκεῖ δυνατῶν, ὡς συστρατευσομένων σφίσι τῶν Σαβίνων. αἱ γὰρ ἐξαετείς αὐτοῖς περὶ τῆς εἰρήνης πρὸς Ταρκύνιον ἀνοχαὶ διεληλύθεσαν ἤδη, καὶ πολλοῖς τῶν Σαβίνων πόθος ἦν ἐπανορθώσασθαι τὰς προτέρας ἥττας ἐπιτεθραμμένης ἐν ταῖς πόλεσι νεότητος ἱκανῆς. ^[2] οὐ μὴν ἐχώρησέ γε αὐτοῖς ἡ πῆϊρα κατὰ [p.

381] νοῦν θάπτον ἐπιφανείσης τῆς Ῥωμαίων στρατιᾶς, οὐδ' ἐξεγένετο παρ' οὐδεμιᾶς τῶν πόλεων κοινήν ἀποσταλῆναι τοῖς Τυρρηνοῖς συμμαχίαν, ἀλλ' ἐθέλονται τινες ἐπεκούρησαν αὐτοῖς ὀλίγοι μισθοῖς μεγάλους ὑπαχθέντες. [3] ἐκ ταύτης τῆς μάχης μεγίστης τῶν προτέρων γενομένης, ὅσας πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἐπολέμησαν, τὰ μὲν Ῥωμαίων πράγματα θαυμαστὴν ὄσιν ἐπίδοσιν ἔλαβε νίκην ἐξενεγκαμένων καλλίστην, καὶ βασιλεῖ Ταρκυνίῳ τὴν τροπαιοφόρον πομπὴν κατὰγειν ἣ τε βουλὴ καὶ ὁ δῆμος ἐψηφίσαντο, τὰ δὲ τῶν Τυρρηνῶν ἔπεσε φρονήματα πάσας μὲν ἐξαποστειλάντων εἰς τὸν ἀγῶνα τὰς ἐξ ἐκάστης πόλεως δυνάμεις, ὀλίγους δὲ τινὰς ἐκ πολλῶν τοὺς διασωθέντας ὑποδεξαμένων. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἐν τῇ παρατάξει μαχόμενοι κατεκόπησαν, οἱ δ' ἐν τῇ τροπῇ δυσχωρίαις ἐγκυρήσαντες ἀνεξόδοις παρέδοσαν τοῖς κεκρατηκόσιν ἑαυτοὺς. [4] τοιαύτης μέντοι συμφορᾶς πειραθέντες οἱ δυνατώτατοι τῶν ἐν ταῖς πόλεσιν ἔργον ἐποίησαν ἀνθρώπων φρονίμων. ἑτέραν γὰρ στρατιὰν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς ἐξαγαγόντος βασιλέως Ταρκυνίου συναχθέντες εἰς μίαν ἀγορὰν περὶ καταλύσεως τοῦ πολέμου διαλέγεσθαι πρὸς αὐτὸν ἐψηφίσαντο καὶ πέμπουσι τοὺς πρεσβυτάτους ἄνδρας καὶ τιμιωτάτους ἐξ ἐκάστης πόλεως αὐτοκράτορας ἀποδείξαντες τῶν περὶ τῆς εἰρήνης ὁμολογιῶν.

ὁ δὲ βασιλεὺς ἀκούσας αὐτῶν πολλὰ διαλεχθέντων ἐπαγωγὰ πρὸς ἐπιείκειαν καὶ μετριότητα [p. 382] καὶ τῆς συγγενείας, ἥς εἶχε πρὸς τὸ ἔθνος, ὑπομιμνησκόντων ἔν τοῦτο μόνον ἔφη παρ' αὐτῶν βούλεσθαι μαθεῖν, πότερον ἔτι διαφέρονται περὶ τῶν ἴσων καὶ ἐπὶ ῥητοῖς πῶς τὰς περὶ τῆς εἰρήνης ὁμολογίας πάρεισι ποιησόμενοι, ἢ συγγινώσκουσιν ἑαυτοῖς κεκρατημένοις καὶ τὰς πόλεις ἐπιτρέπουσιν αὐτῷ. ἀποκριναμένων δ' αὐτῶν ὅτι καὶ τὰς πόλεις ἐπιτρέπουσιν αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν εἰρήνην στέρξουσιν ἐφ' οἷς ἂν ποτε δικαίοις αὐτῆς τύχωσι, περιχαρῆς ἐπὶ τοῦτοις γενόμενος, [2] ἀκούσατε νῦν, ἔφησεν, ἐφ' οἷς καταλύσομαι τὸν πόλεμον δικαίοις καὶ τινὰς ὑμῖν δίδωμι χάριτας· ἐγὼ Τυρρηνῶν οὔτε ἀποκτεῖναι τινὰ πρόθυμός εἰμι οὔτε φυγάδα ποιῆσαι τῆς πατρίδος οὔτε ἀφαιρέσει τῶν ὑπαρχόντων ζημιῶσαι τὰς τε πόλεις ὑμῖν ἀφίημι πάσας ἀφρουρήτους καὶ ἀφορολογήτους καὶ αὐτονόμους πολιτείας τε κόσμον ἐκάστη φυλάττειν συγχωρῶ τὸν ἀρχαῖον. [3] διδοὺς δὲ ταῦθ' ὑμῖν ἐν οἷομαι δεῖν ἀνθ' ὧν δίδωμι πάντων ὑπάρξαι μοι παρ' ὑμῶν, τὴν ἡγεμονίαν τῶν πόλεων, ἥς κύριος μὲν ἔσομαι καὶ μὴ βουλομένων ὑμῶν ἕως ἂν κρατῶ τοῖς ὅπλοις, παρ' ἐκόντων δὲ μᾶλλον ἢ παρ' ἀκόντων τυχεῖν αὐτῆς βούλομαι. ταῦτ' ἀπαγγέλλετε ταῖς πόλεσιν, ἐγὼ δὲ ὑμῖν ἐκεχειρίαν ἕως ἂν ἀφίκησθε παρέξειν ὑπισχοῦμαι.

ταύτας λαβόντες οἱ πρέσβεις τὰς ἀποκρίσεις ὥχοντο καὶ μετ' ὀλίγας ἡμέρας παρήσαν οὐ λόγους αὐτῷ μόνον φέροντες ψιλοῦς, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰ [p. 383] σύμβολα τῆς ἡγεμονίας, οἷς ἐκόσμου αὐτοὶ τοὺς σφετέρους βασιλεῖς, κομίζοντες στεφανὸν τε χρύσειον καὶ θρόνον ἐλεφάντινον καὶ σκῆπτρον αἰτὸν ἔχον ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς χιτῶνά τε πορφυροῦν χρυσοσημον καὶ περιβόλαιον πορφυροῦν ποικίλον, οἷα Λυδῶν τε καὶ Περσῶν ἐφόρουσαν οἱ βασιλεῖς, πλὴν οὐ τετραγώνον γε τῷ σχήματι, καθάπερ ἐκεῖνα ἦν, ἀλλ' ἡμικύκλιον. τὰ δὲ τοιαῦτα τῶν ἀμφισμάτων Ῥωμαῖοι μὲν τόγας, Ἕλληνες δὲ τήβεννον καλοῦσιν, οὐκ οἷδ' ὁπόθεν μαθόντες: Ἑλληνικὸν γὰρ οὐ φαίνεται μοι τοῦνομα εἶναι. [2] ὥς δέ τινες ἱστοροῦσι καὶ τοὺς δώδεκα πελέκεις ἐκόμισαν αὐτῷ λαβόντες ἐξ ἐκάστης πόλεως ἓνα. Τυρρηνικὸν γὰρ εἶναι ἔθος δοκεῖ ἐκάστου τῶν κατὰ πόλιν βασιλέων ἓνα προηγεῖσθαι ῥαβδοφόρον ἅμα τῇ δέσμῃ τῶν ῥάβδων πέλεκυν φέροντα: εἰ δέ κοινή γίνοιτο τῶν δώδεκα πόλεων στρατεία, τοὺς δώδεκα πελέκεις ἐνὶ παραδίδοσθαι τῷ λαβόντι τὴν αὐτοκράτορα ἀρχήν. [3] οὐ μὴν ἅπαντές γε συμφέρονται τοῖς ταῦτα λέγουσιν, ἀλλὰ παλαιότερον ἔτι τῆς Ταρκυνίου δυναστείας πελέκεις δώδεκα πρὸ τῶν βασιλέων φέρεσθαι φασί, καταστήσασθαι δὲ τὸ ἔθος τοῦτο Ῥωμύλον εὐθύς ἅμα τῷ παραλαβεῖν τὴν ἀρχήν. οὐθὲν δὲ κωλύει τὸ μὲν εὖρημα Τυρρηνῶν εἶναι, χρήσασθαι δ' αὐτῷ πρῶτον Ῥωμύλον παρ' ἐκείνων λαβόντα, κομισθῆναι δὲ Ταρκυνίῳ σὺν τοῖς ἄλλοις κόσμοις βασιλικοῖς καὶ τοὺς δώδεκα πελέκεις, ὥσπερ γε καὶ νῦν [p. 384] Ῥωμαῖοι τὰ σκῆπτρα καὶ τὰ διαδήματα δωροῦνται τοῖς βασιλεῦσι βεβαιοῦντες αὐτοῖς τὰς ἐξουσίας, ἐπεὶ καὶ μὴ λαβόντες γε παρ' ἐκείνων ἔχουσιν αὐτά.

ταύταις ταῖς τιμαῖς ὁ Ταρκύνιος οὐκ εὐθύς ἐχρήσατο λαβὼν, ὥς οἱ πλείστοι γράφουσι τῶν Ῥωμαϊκῶν συγγραφέων, ἀλλ' ἀποδοὺς τῇ τε βουλῇ καὶ τῷ δήμῳ τὴν διάνγνωσιν εἰ ληπτέον αὐτά, ἐπειδὴ πᾶσι βουλομένοις ἦν, τότε προσεδέξατο καὶ πάντα τὸν ἐξ ἐκείνου χρόνον ἕως εἰς τὸ χρεῶν μετέστη στέφανόν τε χρύσειον ἐφόρει καὶ πορφυρᾶν ἐσθῆτα ποικίλην ἡμπίσχετο καὶ σκῆπτρον ἐλεφάντινον ἔχων ἐπὶ θρόνου ἐκαθέζετο ἐλεφαντίνου, καὶ οἱ δώδεκα ῥαβδοῦχοι τοὺς πελέκεις φέροντες ἅμα ταῖς ῥάβδοις δικάζοντι τε αὐτῷ παρίstanto καὶ πορευομένου προηγούνται. [2] οὗτος ὁ κόσμος ἅπας καὶ τοῖς μετ' ἐκεῖνον τὴν βασιλικὴν ἀρχὴν ἔχουσι παρέμεινε καὶ μετὰ τὴν ἐκβολὴν τῶν βασιλέων τοῖς κατ' ἐνιαυτὸν ὑπάτοις ἔξω τοῦ στεφάνου καὶ τῆς ποικίλης ἐσθῆτος: ταῦτα δ' αὐτῶν ἀφηρέθη μόνα φορτικὰ δόξαντα εἶναι καὶ ἐπιφθονα. πλὴν ὅταν ἐκ πολέμου νίκην κατάγοντες θριάμβου παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς ἀξιωθῶσι, τότε καὶ χρυσοφοροῦσι καὶ ποικίλαις ἀλουργίῳ ἀμφιέννυνται. ὁ μὲν οὖν πρὸς τοὺς Τυρρηνοὺς συστὰς Ταρκυνίῳ πόλεμος ἔτη κατασχὼν ἑννέα τοιαύτην ἔσχε τὴν συντέλειαν.

ἐνὸς δὲ καταλειπομένου τοῦ Σαβίνων [p. 385] ἔθνους ἀντιπάλου Ῥωμαίοις ὑπὲρ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἄνδρας τε μαχητὰς ἔχοντος καὶ χώραν νεμομένου πολλὴν καὶ ἀγαθὴν καὶ τῆς Ῥώμης οὐ πρόσω κειμένην, πολλὴν ἔσχεν ὁ Ταρκύνιος προθυμίαν καὶ τοὺς ὑπαγαγέσθαι καὶ προεῖπεν αὐτοῖς τὸν πόλεμον ἐγκαλῶν ταῖς πόλεσιν, ὅτι τοὺς ὑποσχομένους Τυρρηνοῖς ἐὰν ἀφίκωνται στρατὸν ἄγοντες εἰς τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν ἐκείνοις μὲν φίλας, Ῥωμαίοις δ' ἐχθρὰς ποιήσιν τὰς σφετέρας πατρίδας οὐκ ἐβούλοντο ἐκδοῦναι. [2] οἱ δὲ ἄσμενοί τε ὑποδέχονται τὸν πόλεμον οὐκ ἀξιοῦντες τοὺς δυνατωτάτους τῶν ἀστῶν ἀφαιρεθῆναι, καὶ πρὶν ἀφικέσθαι Ῥωμαίων δύνανιν ἐπὶ σφᾶς αὐτοὶ στρατὸν ἐξάγουσιν ἐπὶ τὴν ἐκείνων. βασιλεὺς δὲ Ταρκύνιος ὥς ἤκουσε διαβεβηκότας τοὺς Σαβίνους Ἀνίητα ποταμὸν καὶ λεηλατούμενα ὑπ' αὐτῶν τὰ περὶ τὴν παρεμβολὴν ἅπαντα, ἀναλαβὼν τὴν

ιδόντες δὲ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους οἱ Σαβῖνοι προθύμως ἐπὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα χωροῦντας ἐξῆγον καὶ αὐτοὶ τὰς δυνάμεις οὔτε πληθεὶ λειπόμενοι τῶν πολεμίων [p. 386] οὔτε ἀρετῇ καὶ συμπεσόντες ἐμάχοντο πᾶσαν ἀποδεικνύμενοι τόλμαν, ἕως ἦν αὐτοῖς εἷς μόνος ὁ πρὸς τοὺς ἀντιτεταγμένους ἀγών. ἔπειτα μαθόντες ἐπὶ τῶν σφίσι κατὰ νώτου στρατὸν πολεμίων ἕτερον ἐν τάξει τε καὶ κόσμῳ χωροῦντα καταλιπόντες τὰ σημεῖα τρέπονται πρὸς φυγὴν. ἦσαν δὲ Ῥωμαίων ἄνδρες ἐπίλεκτοι πεζοὶ τε καὶ ἵππεῖς οἱ κατόπιν ἐπιφανέντες τοῖς Σαβίνοις, οὓς ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐν ἐπιτηδείοις χωρίοις διὰ νυκτὸς ἐλόχισε. [2] τοὺτους δὴ τοὺς ἄνδρας οἱ Σαβῖνοι δεισαντες ἐκ τοῦ ἄδοκῆτου σφίσιν ἐπιφαινομένους οὐθὲν ἔτι γενναῖον ἔργον ἀπεδείξαντο, ἀλλ' ὡς κατεστρατηγημένοι ὑπὸ τῶν ἐχθρῶν καὶ συμφορᾷ πεπληγότες ἀμάχῳ σώζειν ἑαυτοὺς ἄλλοι κατ' ἄλλας ὁδοὺς ἐπειρῶντο, κἂν τοῦτῳ μάλιστα πολὺς αὐτῶν φόνος ἐγένετο διωκομένων ὑπὸ τῆς Ῥωμαϊκῆς ἵππου καὶ πανταχόθεν ἀποκλειομένων: ὥστε ὀλίγους τινὰς ἐξ αὐτῶν κομιδῇ γενέσθαι τοὺς διασωθέντας εἰς τὰς ἔγγιστα πόλεις, τὸ δὲ πλεῖον μέρος ὅσον μὴ κατὰ τὴν μάχην ἔπεσεν ὑποχείριον τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις γενέσθαι: οὐδὲ γὰρ οἱ καταλειφθέντες ἐν τῷ χάρακι τὴν ἔφοδον ἀποκρούσασθαι τῶν ἐπὶ τῶν σφίσιν ἐθάρρησαν οὐδ' εἰς πεῖραν ἦλθον μάχης, ἀλλ' ἐκταραχθέντες ὑπὸ τοῦ παρ' ἐλπίδα κακοῦ παρέδοσαν ἀμαχητὶ σφᾶς τε αὐτοὺς καὶ τὸ ἔρυμα. [3] αἱ μὲν δὴ τῶν Σαβίνων πόλεις ὡς κατεστρατηγημέναι καὶ οὐκ ἀρετῇ τὴν νίκην ἀφηρημέναι πρὸς τῶν πολεμίων, [p. 387] ἀλλὰ δόλῳ μείζονας αὐθις ἀποστέλλειν δυνάμεις παρεσκευάζοντο καὶ στρατηγὸν ἐμπειρότερον. ὁ δὲ Ταρκύνιος μαθὼν τὴν διάνοιαν αὐτῶν συνῆγε τὴν στρατιὰν διὰ τάχους καὶ πρὶν ἐκείνους ἅπαντας δὴ [4] συνελθεῖν φθάνει διαβάς τὸν Ἀνίητα ποταμόν. ταῦτα μαθὼν ὁ τῶν Σαβίνων στρατηγὸς ἐξῆει μὲν ὡς εἶχε τάχους τὴν νεωστὶ συνηγμένην δύναμιν ἀναλαβὼν καὶ στρατοπεδεύεται πλησίον τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐπὶ λόφου τινὸς ὑψηλοῦ καὶ ἀποτόμου, μάχης δὲ ἄρχειν οὐκ ἐδοκίμαζεν ἕως αἱ λοιπαὶ τῶν Σαβίνων δυνάμεις συνέλθωσιν, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τοῦς προνομεύοντας τὴν χώραν ἐκπέμπων αἰετὰς τινὰς τῶν ἱππέων καὶ λόχους ἐγκαθίζων ὕλαις ἢ νάπαις εἴργε τοὺς Ῥωμαίους τῶν ἐπὶ τὴν χώραν ἐξόδων.

τοῦτον δὲ τὸν τρόπον αὐτοῦ χρωμένου τῷ πολέμῳ πολλὰ μὲν συμπλοκαὶ καὶ κατ' ὀλίγους ψιλῶν τε καὶ ἱππέων ἐγίνοντο, μάχη δὲ ὀλοσχερὴς ἀπάντων οὐδεμία. ἐλκομένου δὲ τοῦ χρόνου δι' ὀργῆς φέρων τὴν διατριβὴν ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐπὶ τὴν παρεμβολὴν τῶν πολεμίων τὰς δυνάμεις ἔκρινεν ἄγειν καὶ πολλὰς ἐποίησατο προσβολάς. [2] ἔπειτα καταμαθὼν τῷ βιαίῳ τῶν τρόπων οὐ ῥάδιαν οὔσαν αὐτὴν ἀλῶναι διὰ τὴν ἐχυρότητα τῇ σπάνει τῶν ἐπιτηδείων πολεμεῖν τοῖς ἐν αὐτῇ διέγνω, καὶ παρὰ πάσας τὰς φερούσας: ἐπ' αὐτὴν ὁδοὺς φρούρια κατασκευαζόμενος, ξυλιζεσθαι τε αὐτοὺς καὶ χιλὸν ἵπποις συναγαγεῖν [p. 388] καὶ ἄλλα πολλὰ ἐπιτήδεια λαμβάνειν ἐκ τῆς χώρας οὐκ ἔων εἰς πολλὴν κατέστησεν ἀπάντων ἀπορίαν: ὥστ' ἠναγκάσθησαν φυλάξαντες νύκτα χειμέριον ὕδασι καὶ ἀνέμῳ φυγεῖν αἰσχροῦς ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος καταλιπόντες ἐν αὐτῷ τὰ τε ὑποζύγια καὶ τὰς σκηνὰς καὶ τοὺς τραυματίας καὶ τὴν εἰς τὸν πόλεμον παρασκευὴν ἅπασαν. [3] τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ μαθόντες οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι τὴν ἄπαρσιν αὐτῶν καὶ γενόμενοι τοῦ χάρακος ἀμαχητὶ κύριοι σκηνὰς μὲν καὶ ὑποζύγια καὶ χρήματα διήρπασαν, τοὺς δὲ αἰχμαλώτους ἀπάγοντες εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην ἀνέστρεψαν. οὗτος ὁ πόλεμος ἔτη πέντε διέμεινε συνεχῶς πολεμοῦμενος, ἐν ᾧ γῆν ἀμφοτέροι τὴν ἀλλήλων πορθοῦντες καὶ μάχας πολλὰς ἐλάττους τε καὶ μείζους μαχόμενοι διετέλεσαν, ὀλίγα μὲν τινα καὶ τῶν Σαβίνων εὐτυχούντων ἐν τοῖς ἀγῶσι, τὰ δὲ πλεῖστα Ῥωμαίων: ἐν δὲ τῇ τελευταίᾳ μάχῃ τέλος ἔλαβεν ὀλοσχερές. [4] Σαβῖνοι γὰρ οὐχ ὥς πρότερον ἐκ διαδοχῆς, ἀλλ' ἅμα πάντες οἱ στρατεύσιμον ἔχοντες ἡλικίαν ἐξῆλθον ἐπὶ τὸν πόλεμον, Ῥωμαῖοι τε σύμπαντες τὰς Λατίνων καὶ Τυρρηνῶν καὶ τῶν ἄλλων συμμάχων δυνάμεις παραλαβόντες ἐχώρουν ὁμόσε τοῖς πολεμίοις. [5] ὁ μὲν οὖν τῶν Σαβίνων στρατηγὸς διχῇ μερίσας τὰς δυνάμεις δύο ποιεῖται στρατόπεδα, ὁ δὲ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βασιλεὺς τρία ποιήσας τάγματα καὶ τρεῖς παρεμβολὰς οὐ μακρὰν ἀπ' ἀλλήλων θέμενος [p. 389] αὐτὸς μὲν τῆς Ῥωμαϊκῆς ἡγεῖτο δυνάμεως, Ἀρρόντα δὲ τὸν ἀδελφιδοῦν τῆς Τυρρηνικῆς συμμαχίας ἀπέδειξε στρατηγόν: [6] Λατίνων δὲ καὶ τῶν ἄλλων συμμάχων ἔταξεν ἄρχειν ἄνδρα γενναῖον μὲν τὰ πολέμια καὶ φρονεῖν τὰ δέοντα ἱκανώτατον, ξένον δὲ καὶ ἄπολιν: Σεροῦϊος αὐτῷ προσηγορικὸν ὄνομα ἦν, Τύλλιος δὲ τὸ συγγενικόν: ᾧ Ῥωμαῖοι μετὰ τὴν Λευκίου Ταρκυνίου τελευτὴν βασιλεύειν τῆς πόλεως ἐπέτρεψαν οὐκ οὔσης Ταρκυνίῳ γενεᾶς ἄρρενος, ἀγάμενοι τὸν ἄνδρα τῆς τε περὶ τὰ πολιτικά καὶ τῆς περὶ τὰ πολέμια ἀρετῆς. γένος δὲ τοῦ ἀνδρός τοῦδε καὶ τροφὰς καὶ τύχας καὶ τὴν ἐκ τοῦ θείου γενομένην περὶ αὐτὸν ἐπιφάνειαν, ὅταν κατὰ τοῦτο γένωμαι τὸ μέρος τοῦ λόγου, διηγῆσομαι.

τότε δ' οὖν, ἐπειδὴ παρεσκευάστο ἀμφοτέροις τὰ πρὸς τὸν ἀγῶνα ἐπιτήδεια, συνήεσαν εἰς μάχην, εἶχον δὲ τὸ μὲν εὐώνυμον κέρας οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι, τὸ δὲ δεξιὸν οἱ Τυρρηνοί, κατὰ μέσην δὲ τὴν φάλαγγα Λατῖνοι ἐτάχθησαν. γενομένου δὲ ἀγῶνος καρτεροῦ δι' ὅλης ἡμέρας ἐνίκων οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι παρὰ πολὺ καὶ πολλοὺς μὲν ἀποκτείναντες τῶν πολεμίων ἐν τῇ μάχῃ γενομένους ἄνδρας ἀγαθοὺς, πολλῶ δ' ἔτι πλείους αἰχμαλώτους λαβόντες ἐν τῇ φυγῇ, τῶν δὲ παρεμβολῶν ἀμφοτέρων ἐγκρατεῖς γενόμενοι καὶ χρημάτων μέγαν περιβαλλόμενοι πλοῦτον ἀδεῶς ἤδη τῆς ὑπαίθρου πάσης ἐκράτουν, ἦν πυρὶ καὶ σιδήρῳ καὶ πᾶσι λωβησάμενοι κακοῖς, ἐπειδὴ τὸ θέρος ἐτελεύτα, [p. 390] λύσαντες τὰς παρεμβολὰς ἀπήεσαν ἐπ' οἴκου. καὶ ὁ βασιλεὺς Ταρκύνιος τρίτον ἐπὶ τῆς ἰδίας ἀρχῆς τὸν ἐκ τῆς 2δὲ τῆς μάχης κατήγαγε θρίαμβον. [2] τῷ δ' ἐξῆς ἐνιαυτῷ παρασκευαζομένου πάλιν τοῦ βασιλέως στρατὸν ἐπὶ τὰς πόλεις τῶν Σαβίνων ἐξάγειν καὶ πολιορκίαις αὐτὰς προσάγεσθαι διεγνωκότος, γενναῖον μὲν οὐδὲν ἔτι βούλευμα καὶ νεανικὸν οὐδεμιᾶς ἐγένετο, πᾶσαι δὲ κοινῇ γνώμῃ χρησάμεναι πρὶν εἰς κίνδυνον ἐλθεῖν ἀνδραποδισμοῦ καὶ κατασκαφῆς καταλύσασθαι τὸν πόλεμον ἔγνωσαν. [3] καὶ παρήσαν ἐξ ἑκάστης πόλεως οἱ κράτιστοι τῶν Σαβίνων πρὸς βασιλέα Ταρκύνιον ἐξεληλυθότα μετὰ πάσης ἤδη δυνάμεως παραδιδόντες αὐτῷ τὰ τείχη καὶ δεόμενοι μετρίας ποιήσασθαι τὰς συμβάσεις. ὁ δὲ ἀσπαστῶς δεξάμενος τὴν ἄνευ κινδύνων ὑποταγὴν τοῦ ἔθνους σπονδὰς τε ποιεῖται πρὸς αὐτοὺς ὑπὲρ εἰρήνης τε καὶ φιλίας ἐπὶ ταῖς αὐταῖς ὁμολογίαις, αἷς Τυρρηνοὺς πρότερον ὑπηγάγετο, καὶ τοὺς αἰχμαλώτους ἀπέδωκεν αὐτοῖς ἄνευ λύτρων.

αὗται πολεμικαὶ πράξεις βασιλέως Ταρκυνίου μνημονεύονται, εἰρηνικαὶ δὲ καὶ πολιτικαὶ τοιαίδε τινές, οὐδὲ γὰρ ταύτας βούλομαι παρελθεῖν ἀμνημονεύτους. εὐθύς γὰρ ἅμα τῷ παραλαβεῖν τὴν ἀρχὴν τὸν δημοτικὸν ὄχλον οἰκεῖον ἑαυτῷ ποιῆσαι προθυμηθεῖς, ὥσπερ οἱ πρότεροι βασιλεῖς ἐποιοῦν, διὰ τοιαύτας εὐεργεσίας ὑπηγάγετο: ἐπιλέξας [p. 391] ἄνδρας ἑκατὸν ἐξ ἀπάντων τῶν δημοτικῶν, οἷς ἀρετὴν τινα πολεμικὴν ἢ πολιτικὴν φρόνησιν ἅπαντες ἐμαρτύρουν, πατρικίους ἐποίησε καὶ κατέταξεν εἰς τὸν τῶν βουλευτῶν ἀριθμὸν, καὶ τότε πρῶτον ἐγένοντο Ῥωμαῖοι τριακόσιοι βουλευταὶ τέως ὄντες διακόσιοι. [2] ἔπειτα ταῖς ἱεραῖς παρθένοις, ὑφ' ὧν τὸ ἄσβεστον φυλάττεται πῦρ, τέτταρσιν οὖσαις δύο προσκατέλεξεν ἑτέρας: πλείονων γὰρ ἤδη συντελουμένων ὑπὸ τῆς πόλεως ἱεουργιῶν, αἷς ἔδει τὰς τῆς Ἑστίας παρεῖναι θυηπόλους, οὐκ ἐδόκουν αἱ τέτταρες ἀρκεῖν. Ταρκυνίου δὲ ἄρξαντος ἠκολούθουν οἱ λοιποὶ βασιλεῖς, καὶ μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων ἔξ ἀποδείκνυνται τῆς Ἑστίας ἀμφίπολοι. [3] δοκεῖ δὲ καὶ τὰς τιμωρίας, αἷς κολάζονται πρὸς τῶν ἱεροφαντῶν αἱ μὴ φυλάττουσαι τὴν παρθενίαν, ἐκεῖνος ἐξευρεῖν πρῶτος εἶτε κατὰ λογισμὸν εἶτε ὡς οἶονταί τινες ὀνειρῶ πειθόμενος, ἃς μετὰ τὴν ἐκείνου τελευτὴν ἐν τοῖς Σιβυλλεῖσις εὗρεθῆναι χρησμοῖς οἱ τῶν ἱερῶν ἐξηγηταὶ λέγουσιν: ἐφωράθη γὰρ τις ἐπὶ τῆς ἐκείνου βασιλείας ἱέραει Πιναρία Ποπλίου θυγάτηρ οὐχ ἄγνη προσιοῦσα τοῖς ἱεροῖς. τρόπος δὲ τιμωρίας ὅστις ἐστίν, ᾧ κολάζουσι τὰς διαφθαρείας, ἐν τῇ πρὸ ταύτης δεδῆλωται [4] μοι γραφῇ. τὴν τε ἀγοράν, ἐν ᾗ δικάζουσι καὶ ἐκκλησιάζουσι καὶ τὰς ἄλλας πολιτικὰς ἐπιτελοῦσι παράξεις ἐκεῖνος ἐκόσμησεν ἐργαστηρίοις τε καὶ παστάσι περιλαβὼν, καὶ τὰ τείχη τῆς πόλεως αὐτοσχέδια [p. 392] καὶ φαῦλα ταῖς ἐργασίαις ὄντα πρῶτος ὠκοδομήσατο λίθοις ἀμαξιαίοις εἰργασμένοις πρὸς κανόνα. [5] ἥρξατο δὲ καὶ τὰς ὑπονόμους ὀρύττειν τάφρους, δι' ὧν ἐπὶ τὸν Τέβεριν ὀχετεύεται πᾶν τὸ συρρέον ἐκ τῶν στενωπῶν ὕδωρ, ἔργα θαυμαστὰ καὶ κρείττω λόγου κατασκευασάμενος. ἔγωγ' οὖν ἐν τρισὶ τοῖς μεγαλοπρεπεστάτοις κατασκευάσμασι τῆς Ῥώμης, ἐξ ὧν μάλιστα τὸ τῆς ἡγεμονίας ἐμφαίνεται μέγεθος, τὰς τε τῶν ὑδάτων ἀγωγὰς τίθεμαι καὶ τὰς τῶν ὁδῶν στρώσεις καὶ τὰς τῶν ὑπονόμων ἐργασίας οὐ μόνον εἰς τὸ χρήσιμον τῆς κατασκευῆς τὴν διάνοιαν ἀναφέρων, ὑπὲρ οὗ κατὰ τὸν οἰκεῖον καιρὸν ἐρῶ, ἀλλὰ καὶ εἰς τὴν τῶν ἀναλωμάτων πολυτέλειαν, ἣν ἐξ ἐνὸς ἔργου τεκμήραιτ' ἂν τις Γάιον Ἀκίλλιον ποιησάμενος τοῦ μέλλοντος λέγεσθαι βεβαιωτὴν, ὅς φησιν ἀμεληθεῖσιν ποτε τῶν τάφρων καὶ μηκέτι διαρροεμένων τοὺς τιμητὰς τὴν ἀνακάθαρσιν αὐτῶν καὶ τὴν ἐπισκευὴν χιλίων μισθῶσαι ταλάντων.

τοῦ τε Αὐεντίνου καὶ τοῦ Παλλαντίου κείμενον πρῶτος ὑποστέγους ποιήσας περὶ αὐτὸν καθέδρας τέως γὰρ ἐστῶτες ἐθεώρουν ἐπ' ἱκρίοις, δοκῶν ξυλίναις σκηναῖς ὑποκειμένων: [p. 393] καὶ διελὼν τοὺς τόπους εἰς τριάκοντα φράτρας ἐκάστη φράτρα μοῖραν ἀπέδωκε μίαν, ὥστε ἐν τῇ προσηκούσῃ χώρᾳ καθεζόμενον ἕκαστον θεωρεῖν. [2] ἔμελλε δὲ ἄρα σὺν χρόνῳ καὶ τοῦτο τὸ ἔργον ἐν τοῖς πάνυ καλοῖς καὶ θαυμαστοῖς κατασκευάσμασι τῆς πόλεως γενήσεσθαι. μῆκος μὲν γὰρ τοῦ ἵπποδρόμου τριῶν καὶ ἡμίσεους ἐστὶ σταδίων, εὖρος δὲ τεττάρων πλέθρων: πέριξ δὲ αὐτοῦ κατὰ τε τὰς μείζους πλευρὰς καὶ κατὰ μίαν τῶν ἐλαττόνων εὐριπος εἰς ὑποδοχὴν ὕδατος ὀρώρυκται βάθος τε καὶ πλάτος δεκάπους. μετὰ δὲ τὸν εὐριπον ὠκοδόμηνται στοαὶ τρίστεγοι. τούτων δὲ αἱ μὲν ἐπίπεδοι λιθίνας ἔχουσιν ὥσπερ ἐν τοῖς θεάτροις ὀλίγον ὑπερανεστηκυίας ἀλλήλων καθέδρας, [3] αἱ δ' ὑπερῶοι ξυλίναις. συνάγονται δ' εἰς τὸ αὐτὸ καὶ συνάπτουσιν ἀλλήλαις αἱ μείζους ὑπὸ τῆς ἐλάττονος μηνοειδὲς ἐχούσης τὸ σχῆμα συγκλειόμεναι, ὥστε μίαν ἐκ τῶν τριῶν γίνεσθαι στοὰν ἀμφιθέατρον ὅκτῳ σταδίων ἱκανὴν ὑποδέξασθαι πεντεκαίδεκα μυριάδας ἀνθρώπων. ἡ δὲ λοιπὴ τῶν ἐλαττόνων πλευρῶν αἴθριος ἀνειμένη ψαλιδωτὰς ἵππαφέςεις ἔχει διὰ [4] μιᾶς ὕσπληγος ἅμα πάσας ἀνοιγομένας. ἔστι δὲ καὶ περὶ τὸν ἵπποδρομον ἔξωθεν ἐτέρα στοὰ μονόστεγος ἐργαστήρια ἔχουσα ἐν αὐτῇ καὶ οἰκῆσεις ὑπὲρ αὐτά, δι' ἧς εἰσιν εἰσοδοὶ τε καὶ ἀναβάσεις τοῖς ἐπὶ τὴν θέαν ἀφικομένοις παρ' ἕκαστον ἐργαστήριον, ὥστε [p. 394] μηδὲν ἐνοχλεῖσθαι τὰς τοσάς2δε μυριάδας εἰσιούσας τε καὶ ἀπολυομένας.

ἐνεχείρησε δὲ καὶ τὸν νεῶν κατασκευάζειν τοῦ τε Διὸς καὶ τῆς Ἥρας καὶ τῆς Ἀθηνᾶς ὁ βασιλεὺς οὗτος εὐχὴν ἀποδιδούς, ἣν ἐποιήσατο τοῖς θεοῖς ἐν τῇ τελευταίᾳ πρὸς Σαβίνους μάχῃ. τὸν μὲν οὖν λόφον, ἐφ' οὗ τὸ ἱερὸν ἔμελλεν ἰδρῦεσθαι, πολλῆς δεόμενον πραγματείας οὕτε γὰρ εὐπρόσδοος ἦν οὔτε ὁμαλός, ἀλλ' ἀπότομος καὶ εἰς κορυφὴν συναγόμενος ὀξείαν ἀναλήμμασιν ὑψηλοῖς πολλαχόθεν περιλαβὼν καὶ πολὺν χοῦν εἰς τὸ μεταξὺ τῶν τε ἀναλημμάτων καὶ τῆς κορυφῆς ἐμφορήσας, ὁμαλὸν γενέσθαι παρεσκεύασε καὶ πρὸς ἱερῶν ὑποδοχὴν ἐπιτηδεϊότατον. [2] τοὺς δὲ θεμελίους οὐκ ἔφθασε θεῖναι τοῦ νεῶ χρόνον ἐπιβιώσας μετὰ τὴν κατάλυσιν τοῦ πολέμου τετραετῇ. πολλοῖς δ' ὕστερον ἔτεσιν ὁ τρίτος βασιλεὺς ἀπ' ἐκείνου Ταρκύνιος, ὁ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἐκπεσὼν, τοὺς τε θεμελίους κατεβάλετο καὶ τῆς οἰκοδομῆς τὰ πολλὰ εἰργάσατο. οὐ μὴν ἐτελείωσε τὸ ἔργον οὐδ' οὗτος, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τῶν ἐνιαυσίων ἀρχόντων τῶν κατὰ τὸν τρίτον ἐνιαυτὸν ὑπατευσάντων τὴν συντέλειαν ἔλαβεν ὁ νεῶς. [3] ἄξιον δὲ καὶ τὰ πρὸ τῆς κατασκευῆς αὐτοῦ γενόμενα διελθεῖν, ἃ παραδεδώκασιν ἅπαντες οἱ τὰς ἐπιχωρίους συναγαγόντες ἱστορίας. ἐπειδὴ γὰρ ἔμελλε κατασκευάζειν ὁ Ταρκύνιος τὸν γαόν, συγκαλέσας τοὺς οἰωνομάντις ἐκέλευσε [p. 395] τοῖς ἀνδράσι περὶ αὐτοῦ πρῶτον διαμαντεύσασθαι τοῦ τόπου, τίς ἐπιτηδεϊοτάτος ἐστὶ τῆς πόλεως χώρος ἱερὸς ἀνεῖσθαι καὶ τοῖς θεοῖς αὐτοῖς μάλιστα κεχαρισμένος. [4] ἀποδειξάντων δ' αὐτῶν τὸν ὑπερκείμενον τῆς ἀγορᾶς λόφον, ὃς τότε μὲν ἐκαλεῖτο Ταρπήιος, νῦν δὲ Καπιτωλῖνος, αὐθις ἐκέλευσεν αὐτοὺς διαμαντευσάμενους εἰπεῖν ἐν ὁποίῳ τοῦ λόφου χωρίῳ θέσθαι δεήσει τοὺς θεμελίους. τοῦτο δὲ οὐ πάνυ ῥάδιον ἦν· πολλοὶ γὰρ ἦσαν ἐν αὐτῷ βωμοὶ θεῶν τε καὶ δαιμόνων ὀλίγον ἀπέχοντες ἀλλήλων, οὓς ἔδει μετὰγειν ἐτέρωσέ ποι, καὶ πᾶν ἀποδοῦναι τῷ μέλλοντι τοῖς θεοῖς τεμένει γενήσεσθαι τὸ δάπεδον. ^[5] ἔδοξε δὴ τοῖς οἰωνοπόλοις ὑπὲρ ἐκάστου βωμοῦ τῶν καθιδρυμένων διαμαντευσάμενοις, ἐὰν παραχωρῶσιν οἱ θεοὶ τότε κινεῖν αὐτούς. οἱ μὲν οὖν ἄλλοι θεοὶ τε καὶ δαίμονες ἐπέτρεψαν αὐτοῖς εἰς ἕτερα χωρία τοὺς βωμοὺς σφῶν μεταφέρειν, οἱ δὲ τοῦ Τέρμονος καὶ τῆς Νεότητος πολλὰ παραιτούμενοις τοῖς μάντεσι καὶ λιπαροῦσιν οὐκ ἐπέισθησαν οὐδ' ἠγέσχοντο παραχωρῆσαι τῶν τόπων. τοιγάρτοι συμπεριελήφθησαν αὐτῶν οἱ βωμοὶ τῇ κατασκευῇ τῶν ἱερῶν, καὶ νῦν ὁ μὲν ἕτερός ἐστιν ἐν τῷ προνάῳ τῆς Ἀθηνᾶς, ὁ δ' ἕτερος ἐν αὐτῷ τῷ σηκῷ πλησίον τοῦ ἔδους. ^[6] ἐκ δὲ τούτου συνέβαλον οἱ μάντεις, ὅτι τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως οὔτε τοὺς ὄρους μετακινήσει καιρὸς οὐθεὶς οὔτε τὴν ἀκμὴν μεταβαλεῖ· καὶ μέχρι τῶν κατ' ἐμὲ χρόνων ἀληθὲς [p. 396] αὐτῶν ἐστιν ἐκάτερον εἰκοστὴν ἤδη καὶ τετάρτην γενεάν.

Ὁ δὲ τῶν οἰωνοσκόπων ἐπιφανέστατος ὁ τοὺς βωμοὺς μεθιδρυσάμενος καὶ τὸ ἱερὸν τοῦ Διὸς τεμενίσας καὶ τᾶλλα προλέγων τὰ θεῖα τῷ δήμῳ διὰ μαντικῆς αὐτὸς μὲν ἐκαλεῖτο τὸ κοινὸν ὄνομα καὶ προσηγορικὸν Νέβιος, τὸ δὲ συγγενικὸν Ἄττιος, ὃς ἀπάντων θεοφιλέστατος ὁμολογεῖται γενέσθαι τῶν ἀκριβοῦντων τὴν τέχνην καὶ μεγίστου τυχεῖν δι' αὐτὴν ὀνόματος ἀπίστους τινὰς ὑπερβολὰς τῆς οἰωνομαντικῆς ἐπιστήμης ἐπιδειξάμενος· ὧν ἐγὼ μίαν, ἣν μάλιστα θεθαύμακα, προχειρισάμενος ἐρῶ προειπῶν ἐξ οἷας ὀρμηθεὶς συντυχίας καὶ τινὰς ἀφορμὰς παρὰ τοῦ δαιμονίου λαβὼν τοσαύτην ἔσχεν ἐπιφάνειαν, ὥστε πάντας ἀζήλους ἀποδεῖξαι τοὺς κατὰ ^[2] τὴν αὐτὴν ἀκμάσαντας ἡλικίαν. πένης αὐτῷ πατὴρ ἐγένετο χωρίον εὐτελὲς γεωργῶν, ὃ τὰ τε ἄλλα συνειργάζετο παῖς ὧν ὁ Νέβιος, ὅσα τοῖς τηλικούτοις δυνάμεις ἦν, καὶ τὰς ὕς ἐξελαύνων ἔβοσκεν. ἀποκοιμηθεὶς δὲ ποτε καὶ μετὰ τὴν ἐξέγερσιν οὐχ εὐρίσκων τινὰς τῶν ὑῶν τέως μὲν ἔκλαιε τὰς πληγὰς ὀρρωδῶν τὰς παρὰ τοῦ πατρός, ἔπειτ' ἐλθὼν ἐπὶ τὴν καλιάδα τὴν ἐν τῷ χωρίῳ καθιδρυμένην ἡρώων ἡξίου τοὺς ἥρωας συνεξευρεῖν αὐτῷ τὰς ὕς, γενομένου δὲ τούτου θύσειν αὐτοῖς ὑπέσχετο τὸν μέγιστον τῶν ἐκ τοῦ ^[3] χωρίου βοτρυῶν. εὐρῶν δὲ μετ' ὀλίγον τὰς ὕς ἐβούλετο [p. 397] μὲν ἀποδοῦναι τοῖς ἥρωσι τὴν εὐχὴν, ἐν ἀπορίᾳ δὲ ἦν πολλῇ τὸν μέγιστον οὐ δυνάμενος ἐξευρεῖν βότρυν. ἀδημονῶν δ' ἐπὶ τῷ πράγματι τοὺς θεοὺς ἡξίου δι' οἰωνῶν φανερὸν αὐτῷ ποιῆσαι τὸ ζητούμενον. ἔπειτ' ἐπελθὼν αὐτῷ κατὰ δαίμονα διχῇ νέμει τὸν ἀμπελῶνα, θάτερα μὲν αὐτοῦ λαμβάνων ἐκ δεξιᾶς, θάτερα δ' ἐξ ἀριστερᾶς, ἔπειθ' ὑπὲρ ἐκατέρου τῶν μερῶν τοὺς παρακειμένους οἰωνοὺς ἐσκόπει. φανέντων δ' ἐπὶ θατέρου μέρους ὀρνίθων, οἷων αὐτὸς ἐβούλετο, πάλιν ἐκεῖνο διχῇ διήρει τὸ χωρίον καὶ τοὺς ὀρνίθους διέκρινε τοὺς παραγινομένους κατὰ τὸ αὐτό. ταύτῃ χρώμενος τῇ διαιρέσει τῶν τόπων καὶ τὴν ἐσχάτην ὑπὸ τῶν ὀρνίθων ἀποδειχθεῖσαν ἄμπελον ὑπελθὼν εὐρίσκει βότρυος ἁπιστόν τι χρῆμα καὶ αὐτὸν φέρων ἐπὶ τὴν καλιάδα τῶν ἡρώων ὁρᾶται πρὸς τοῦ πατρός. ^[4] θαυμάσαντι δὲ τὸ μέγεθος τῆς σταφυλῆς καὶ πόθεν εἰλήφει πυνθανομένῳ διηγεῖται πάντα ἐξ ἀρχῆς. ὁ δ' ὑπολαβὼν, ὅπερ ἦν, ἐμφύτους εἶναι τινὰς ἀρχὰς μαντικῆς ἐν τῷ παιδί, κομίσας αὐτὸν εἰς τὴν πόλιν γραμμάτων διδασκάλους συνίστησιν· ἐπεὶ δὲ τῆς κοινῆς παιδείας ἀποχρῶντως μετέλαβε, Τυρρηνῶν αὐτὸν παραδίδωσι τῷ λογιωτάτῳ ^[5] τὴν οἰωνοσκοπικὴν τέχνην διδασκασόμενον. ἔχων δὲ τὴν ἐμφυτον ὁ Νέβιος μαντικὴν καὶ τὴν ἐπικτήτην ^[p. 398] παρὰ Τυρρηνῶν προσλαβὼν μακρῷ δὴ πού τοὺς ἄλλους οἰωνοσκόπους ἅπαντας, ὡς ἔφη, ὑπερεβάλετο, εἰς ἀπάσας τε τὰς δημοσίας ἐπισκέψεις οἱ τῆς πόλεως οἰωνομάντεις οὐκ ὄντα ἐκ τοῦ συστήματος παρεκάλουν αὐτὸν διὰ τὴν ἐπιτυχίαν τῶν μαντευμάτων καὶ οὐθὲν ὃ τι μὴ δόξειεν ἐκείνῳ προὔλεγον.

οὗτος ὁ Νέβιος βουλομένῳ ποτὲ τῷ Ταρκυνίῳ τρεῖς φυλάς ἐτέρας ἀποδείξει νέας ἐκ τῶν ὑφ' αὐτοῦ πρότερον κατειλεγμένων ἱππέων καὶ ποιῆσαι τὰς ἐπιθέτους φυλάς ἑαυτοῦ τε καὶ τῶν ἰδίων ἐταίρων ἐπωνύμους μόνος ἀντεῖπε κατὰ τὸ καρτερόν, οὐκ ἔων κινεῖν τῶν ὑπὸ Ῥωμύλου κατασταθέντων οὐθὲν. ^[2] ἀχθόμενος δ' ἐπὶ τῇ κωλύσει καὶ δι' ὀργῆς ἔχων τὸν Νέβιον ὁ βασιλεὺς καταβαλεῖν αὐτοῦ τὴν ἐπιστήμην εἰς τὸ μηδὲν ἐπεχείρησεν, ὡς ἀλαζονευομένου καὶ μηθὲν ἀληθὲς λέγοντος. ταῦτα διανοηθεὶς ἐκάλει τὸν Νέβιον ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα πολλοῦ παρόντος ὄχλου κατὰ τὴν ἀγοράν. προδιαλεχθεὶς δὲ τοῖς περὶ αὐτὸν δι' οὗ τρόπου ψευδόμαντιν ἀποδείξειν τὸν οἰωνοσκόπον ὑπελάμβανεν, ἐπειδὴ παρεγένετο φιλανθρωποῖς αὐτὸν ἀσπασμοῖς ἀναλαβὼν, Νῦν, ἔφη, καιρὸς ἐπιδειξασθαι σε τὴν ἀκρίβειαν τῆς μαντικῆς ἐπιστήμης, ὦ Νέβιε. πράξει γὰρ ἐπιχειρεῖν μεγάλη διανοούμενος, εἰ τὸ δυνατόν αὐτῇ πρόσσεσι μαθεῖν βούλομαι. ἀλλ' ἄπιθι καὶ διαμαντευσάμενος ἦκε ταχέως, ἐγὼ δ' ἐνθάδε καθήμενος ἀναμενῶ. ^[3] ἐποίει τὰ κελεύόμενα ὁ μάντις καὶ μετ' οὐ πολὺ παρῆν αἰσίους ^[p. 399] εἰληφέναι λέγων οἰωνοὺς καὶ δυνατὴν εἶναι τὴν πρᾶξιν ἀποφαίνων. γελάσας δ' ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐπὶ τῷ λόγῳ καὶ προενέγκας ἐκ τοῦ κόλπου ξυρὸν καὶ ἀκόνην λέγει πρὸς αὐτόν, ἐάλωκας, ὦ Νέβιε, φενακίζων ἡμᾶς καὶ καταψευδόμενος τοῦ δαιμονίου καταφανῶς, ὅποτε καὶ τὰς ἀδυνάτους πράξεις τετόλμηκας λέγειν δυνατάς. ἔγωγ' οὖν διεμαντευόμην, εἰ τῷ ξυρῷ τῷδε τὴν ἀκόνην πλήξας μέσσην δυνήσομαι διελεῖν. ^[4] γέλωτος δ' ἐξ ἀπάντων γενομένου τῶν περὶ τὸ βῆμα οὐθὲν ἐπιταραχθεὶς ὁ Νέβιος ὑπὸ τοῦ τωθασμοῦ τε καὶ τοῦ θορύβου, πᾶτε θαρρῶν, ἔφη, Ταρκύνιε, τὴν ἀκόνην, ὡς προαιρῆ· διαιεθήσεται γὰρ ἡ πάσχειν ὅτιοῦν ἔτοιμος ἐγώ. θαυμάσας δὲ ὁ βασιλεὺς τὸ θράσος τοῦ μάντεως φέρει τὸ ξυρὸν κατὰ τῆς ἀκόνης, ἡ δὲ ἀκμή τοῦ σιδήρου δι' ὅλου κατελθοῦσα τοῦ λίθου τὴν τε ἀκόνην διαιρεῖ καὶ τῆς κατεχοῦσης αὐτὴν χειρὸς ἐπιτέμνει τι μέρος. ^[5] οἱ μὲν οὖν ἄλλοι πάντες ὡς τὸ θαυμαστὸν τοῦτο καὶ ἄπιστον ἔργον ἐθεάσαντο, καταπλαγέντες ἀνεβόησαν, ὁ δὲ Ταρκύνιος αἰδεσθεὶς ἐπὶ τῇ διατείρῃ τῆς τέχνης καὶ τὸ ἀπρεπὲς τῶν ὄνειδισμῶν ἐπανορθώσασθαι βουλόμενος πρῶτον μὲν τῶν περὶ τὰς φυλάς ἐγχειρημάτων ἀπέστη, ἔπειτα δ' αὐτὸν τὸν Νέβιον ἀποθεραπεῦσαι διαγνοὺς, ὡς ἀπάντων ἀνθρώπων θεοφιλέστατον, ἄλλαις τε πολλαῖς φιλανθρωπῖαις ὑπηγάγετο καὶ ἵνα μνήμης αἰωνίου τυγχάνῃ παρὰ τῶν ἐπιγινομένων εἰκόνα κατασκευάσας αὐτοῦ χαλκῆν ἀνέστησεν ^[p. 400] ἐν ἀγορᾷ, ἣ καὶ εἰς ἐμὲ ἦν ἔτι πρὸ τοῦ βουλευτηρίου κειμένη πλησίον τῆς βασιλεὺς δὲ Ταρκύνιος ἀναπεπαυμένος ἤδη τῶν πολεμικῶν ἔργων διὰ γῆρας, ἣν γὰρ ὀγδοηκονταέτης, δολοφονηθεὶς ὑπὸ τῶν Ἀγκου Μαρκίου παίδων ἀποθνήσκει ἐπιχειρησάντων μὲν ἔτι πρότερον ἐκβαλεῖν αὐτὸν ἐκ τῆς ἀρχῆς καὶ πολλάκις τοῦτο πραγματευσαμένων κατ' ἐλπίδα τοῦ περιπεσεῖν εἰς αὐτοὺς ἐκπεσόντος ἐκείνου τὴν δυναστείαν, ὡς δὴ πατρῶαν σφίσιν ὑπάρχουσαν καὶ ἐκ τοῦ ῥάστου πρὸς τῶν πολιτῶν δοθησομένην. [2] ἐπεὶ δὲ διήμαρτον τῆς ἐλπίδος, ἐπιβουλὴν ἄφυκτον κατ' αὐτοῦ ἐμηχανήσαντο, ἣν οὐκ εἶασεν ἀτιμώρητον γενέσθαι τὸ δαιμόνιον. διηγῆσθαι δὲ καὶ τὸν τῆς ἐπιβουλῆς τρόπον ἀπὸ τῆς πρώτης ἐπιχειρήσεως αὐτῶν ἀρξάμενος. [3] ὁ Νέβιος ἐκεῖνος ὁ δεινὸς οἰωνομάντις, ὃν ἔφην ἐναντιωθῆναι ποτε τῷ βασιλεῖ πλείονας ἐξ ἐλασσόνων ποιῆσαι τὰς φυλάς βουλομένῳ, ὅτε μάλιστα ἦνθαι διὰ τὴν τέχνην καὶ πλεῖστον ἡδύνατο Ῥωμαίων ἀπάντων, εἴτε φθονηθεὶς ὑπὸ τῶν ἀντιτέχνων τινὸς εἴτ' [p. 401] ἐπιβουλευθεὶς ὑπ' ἐχθρῶν εἴτε ὃ τι δὴ ποτε ἄλλο παθὼν ἀφανὲς ἄφνω γίνεται, καὶ οὔτε τὸν μόρον αὐτοῦ τις ἡδύνατο τῶν προσηκόντων συμβαλεῖν οὔτε τὸ σῶμα ἐξευρεῖν: [4] ἀχθομένου δὲ τοῦ δήμου καὶ δεινῶς φέροντος τὸ πάθος ὑπονοίας τε πολλὰς καὶ κατὰ πολλῶν λαμβάνοντος, κατανοήσαντες τὴν ὁρμὴν τοῦ πλήθους οἱ τοῦ Μαρκίου παῖδες, ἐπὶ τὸν βασιλέα Ταρκύνιον τὴν διαβολὴν τοῦ ἄγους ἀνέφερον ἄλλο μὲν οὐθὲν ἔχοντες φέρειν τῆς διαβολῆς οὔτε τεκμήριον οὔτε σημεῖον, δυσὶ δὲ τοῖς εἰκόσι τούτοις κρατυνόμενοι πρῶτον μὲν, ὅτι πολλὰ καὶ καινὰ περὶ τὴν πολιτείαν διεγνωκῶς παρανομεῖν τὸν ἐναντιωσόμενον ὥσπερ ἐπὶ τῶν προτέρων ἐκ ποδῶν ἐβούλετο ποιήσασθαι, ἔπειτα ὅτι δεινοῦ πάθους γεγονότος οὐδεμίαν ἐποίησαντο τῶν δεδρακότων ζήτησιν, ἀλλ' ἄμελεια παρέδωκε τὸ πραχθέν, ὅπερ οὐκ ἂν ποιῆσαι [5] τίνα τῶν ἔξω τῆς αἰτίας ὑπαρχόντων. παρασκευασάμενοι δὲ μεγάλας ἐταιρείας περὶ αὐτοὺς πατρικίων τε καὶ δημοτικῶν, οἷς τὰς ἐαυτῶν οὐσίας κατηγορήγουν, πολλὴν ἐποιοῦντο τοῦ Ταρκυνίου κατηγορίαν καὶ τῷ δήμῳ παρήνουν μὴ περιορᾶν ἄνδρα μιᾶρὸν ἱεροῖς τε προσφέροντα τὰς χεῖρας καὶ τὴν ἐξουσίαν μαινόντα καὶ ταῦτ' οὐκ ἐπιχώριον ἀλλ' ἐπήλυτον ὄντα καὶ ἄπολιν. [6] τοιαῦτα κατὰ τὴν ἀγορὰν δημηγοροῦντες ἄνδρες ἰταμοὶ καὶ λέγειν οὐκ ἀδύνατοι πολλοὺς μὲν ἠρέθισαν τῶν δημοτικῶν, οἱ παραγενόμενον [p. 402] αὐτὸν εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν ἀπολογίας χάριν ἐξελαύνειν ἐπεχείρησαν ὡς οὐ καθαρὸν: οὐ μὴν καταγωνίσασθαι γε τὴν ἀλήθειαν ἴσχυσαν οὐδὲ πείσαι τὸν δῆμον ἐδυνήθησαν ἐκβαλεῖν αὐτὸν ἐκ τῆς ἀρχῆς. [7] ἐπεὶ δὲ αὐτὸς τε ἀπολογηθεὶς κράτιστα περὶ αὐτοῦ τὴν διαβολὴν ἀπελύσατο καὶ ὁ κηδεστὴς αὐτοῦ Τύλλιος, ὃ τὴν ἐτέραν δεδωκῶς ἦν θυγατέρα, μέγιστον ἐν τῷ δήμῳ δυνάμενος εἰς ἔλεον τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ὑπηγάγετο, συκοφάνται καὶ πονηροὶ δόξαντες εἶναι καὶ πολλὴν ὀφλόντες αἰσχύνην ἀπῆλθον ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς.

εὐρόμενοι μετρίως τὴν ἀγνωμοσύνην αὐτῶν ἐνέγκαντος τοῦ Ταρκυνίου διὰ τὰς ἐκ τοῦ πατρὸς εὐεργεσίας καὶ τὴν μετάνοιαν ἱκανὴν ὑπολαμβάνοντος εἶναι τῆς προπετείας διόρθωσιν ἔτη μὲν τρία διέμειναν ἐν τῇ προσποιήσει τῆς φιλίας· ἐπειδὴ δὲ καιρὸν ὑπέλαβον ἐπιτήδειον ἔχειν δόλον ἐπ' αὐτῷ ῥάπτουσι τοιόνδε· [2] νεανίσκους δύο τῶν ἐκ τῆς συνωμοσίας τοὺς τολμηροτάτους ποιμενικαῖς ἐνδύσαντες στολαῖς καὶ δρεπάνοις καθοπλίσαντες ὕλουργοῖς πέμπουσιν ἐπὶ τὴν οἰκίαν τοῦ βασιλέως ἡμέρας μεσοῦσης διδάξαντες ἃ χρὴ λέγειν τε καὶ πράττειν καὶ τὸν τρόπον τῆς ἐπιθέσεως αὐτοῖς ὑφηγησάμενοι. οὗτοι πλησίον τῶν βασιλείων γενόμενοι κακῶς τε ἀλλήλους ἔλεγον ὡς ἀδικούμενοι καὶ οὐδὲ τῷ χεῖρι τῶν σωμάτων ἀπείχοντο βοῇ τε μεγάλῃ [p. 403] χρώμενοι τὴν παρὰ τοῦ βασιλέως βοήθειαν ἐκάλουν ἀμφοτέροι, παρόντων αὐτοῖς συχνῶν ἐκ τῆς συνωμοσίας, ἀγροίκων δὴ τῷ λόγῳ, συναγανακτούντων τε ἀμφοτέροις καὶ συμμαρτυρούντων. [3] ὡς δὲ εἰσκαλέσας αὐτοὺς ὁ βασιλεὺς λέγειν ἐκέλευσεν ὑπὲρ ὧν διεφέροντο, αἰγῶν μὲν ἀμφισβητεῖν ἐσκήπτοντο, κεκραγότες δὲ ἅμα καὶ παθαινόμενοι τὸν ἄγριον τρόπον καὶ μὴ ἐν εἰς τὸ πρᾶγμα λέγοντες πολὺν ἐκίνησαν ἐξ ἀπάντων γέλῳτα. ὡς δ' ἐκ τοῦ καταφρονεῖσθαι καιρὸν ἔδοξαν εἰληφέναι τῆς ἐπιχειρήσεως τὸν ἐπιτήδειον, φέρουσι κατὰ τῆς κεφαλῆς τοῦ βασιλέως πληγὰς τοῖς δρεπάνοις καὶ τοῦτο πράξαντες ἔφευγον ἔξω θυρῶν. BOOK IV

φέρεται δὲ τις ἐν ταῖς ἐπιχωρίοις ἀναγραφαῖς καὶ ἕτερος ὑπὲρ τῆς γενέσεως αὐτοῦ λόγος ἐπὶ τὸ μυθῶδες ἐξαίρων τὰ περὶ αὐτόν, ὃν ἐν πολλαῖς Ῥωμαϊκαῖς [p. 3] ἱστορίαις εὔρομεν, εἰ θεοῖς τε καὶ δαίμοσι λέγεσθαι φίλος τοιοῦτος: αἵτινες ἀπὸ τῆς ἐστίας τῶν βασιλείων, ἐφ' ἧς ἄλλας τε Ῥωμαῖοι συντελοῦσιν ἱερουργίας καὶ τὰς ἀπὸ τῶν δειπνῶν ἀπαρχὰς ἀγίζουσιν, ὑπὲρ τοῦ πυρὸς ἀνασχεῖν λέγουσιν αἰδοῖον ἀνδρός. τοῦτο δὲ θεάσασθαι τὴν Ὀκρισίαν πρώτην φέρουσαν τοὺς εἰωθότας πελάνους ἐπὶ τὸ πῦρ καὶ αὐτίκα πρὸς τοὺς βασιλεῖς ἐλθοῦσαν εἰπεῖν. [2] τὸν μὲν οὖν Ταρκύνιον ἀκούσαντά τε καὶ μετὰ ταῦτ' ἰδόντα τὸ τέρας ἐν θαύματι γενέσθαι, τὴν δὲ Τανακυλίδα τὰ τ' ἄλλα σοφὴν οὔσαν καὶ δὴ καὶ τὰ μαντικὰ οὐδενὸς χεῖρον Τυρρηνῶν ἐπισταμένην εἰπεῖν πρὸς αὐτόν, ὅτι γένος ἀπὸ τῆς ἐστίας τῆς βασιλείου πέπρωται γενέσθαι κρεῖττον ἢ κατὰ τὴν ἀνθρωπείαν φύσιν ἐκ τῆς μιχθείσης τῷ φάσματι γυναικός. τὰ δ' αὐτὰ καὶ τῶν ἄλλων τερατοσκοπῶν ἀποφηνάμενων δόξα τῷ βασιλεῖ τὴν Ὀκρισίαν, ἥ πρώτη ἐφάνη τὸ τέρας, εἰς ὁμιλίαν αὐτῷ συνελθεῖν: καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο τὴν γυναικὰ κοσμησαμένην, οἷς ἔθος ἐστὶ κοσμεῖσθαι τὰς γαμουμένας, κατακλίσθησθαι μόνην εἰς τὸν οἶκον, ἐν ᾧ τὸ τέρας ὤφθη. [3] μιχθέντος δὴ τινος αὐτῇ θεῶν ἢ δαιμόνων καὶ μετὰ τὴν μίξιν ἀφανισθέντος εἶθ' Ἥφαιστου καθάπερ οἶονταί τινες εἶτε τοῦ κατ' οἰκίαν ἥρωος, ἐγκύμονα γενέσθαι καὶ τεκεῖν τὸν Τύλλιον ἐν τοῖς καθήκουσι χρόνοις. τοῦτο τὸ μῦθευμα οὐ πάνυ τι πιστὸν εἶναι δοκοῦν ἑτέρα [p. 4] τις ἐπιφάνεια θεία γενομένη περὶ τὸν ἄνδρα θαυμαστή^[4] καὶ παράδοξος ἦττον ἀπιστεῖσθαι ποιεῖ. καθημένου γάρ ποτ' αὐτοῦ μεσοῦσης μάλισθ' ἡμέρας ἐν τῇ παστάδι τῶν βασιλείων καὶ κατενεχθέντος ἐφ' ὕπνον, πῦρ ἀπέλαμψεν ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς αὐτοῦ, ἥ τε μήτηρ αὐτοῦ καὶ ἡ τοῦ βασιλέως γυνὴ πορευόμεναι διὰ τῆς παστάδος ἐθεάσαντο καὶ πάντες ὅσοι σὺν ταῖς γυναιξὶν ἐτύγγανον τότε παρόντες, καὶ μέχρι τούτου διέμενεν ἡ φλόξ ὅλην αὐτοῦ καταλάμπουσα τὴν κεφαλὴν, ἕως ἡ μήτηρ προσδραμοῦσα διανέστησεν αὐτὸν καὶ ἡ φλόξ ἅμα τῷ ὕπνῳ διασκεδασθεῖσα ἠφανίσθη. τὰ μὲν δὴ περὶ τοῦ γένους αὐτοῦ λεγόμενα τοιαῦτ' ἐστίν.

Ἄ δὲ πρὸ τοῦ βασιλεῦσαι διεπράξατο λόγου ἄξια, ἐξ ὧν Ταρκύνιος τ' αὐτὸν ἠγάσθη καὶ ὁ Ῥωμαίων δῆμος τῆς μετὰ βασιλεία τιμῆς ἡξίου, τοιάδε. ἀντίπαις μὲν ὧν ἔτι τῇ πρώτῃ στρατείᾳ, ἣν ἐπὶ Τυρρηνοῦς Ταρκύνιος ἐστράτευσεν, ἐν τοῖς ἱππεῦσι τεταγμένος οὕτως ἔδοξεν ἀγωνίσασθαι καλῶς, ὥστε περιβόητος εὐθὺ γενέσθαι καὶ τάριστεῖα πρῶτος ἀπάντων λαβεῖν: ἔπειθ' ἑτέρας γενομένης ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ ἔθνος στρατείας καὶ μάχης καρτερᾶς περὶ πόλιν Ἥρητον ἀνδρειότατος ἀπάντων φανεῖς στεφάνοις αὐθις ἀριστείοις ὑπὸ τοῦ βασιλέως ἐκοσμεῖτο. ^[2] ἔτι δὲ γεγονώς εἴκοσι μάλιστα τῆς συμμαχικῆς στρατηγὸς ἀπεδείχθη [p. 5] δυνάμει, ἣν Λατῖνοι ἐπεμψαν, καὶ συγκατεκτήσατο βασιλεῖ Ταρκυνίῳ τὴν τῶν Τυρρηνῶν ἀρχήν: ἔν τε τῷ πρὸς Σαβίνους πολέμῳ τῷ πρώτῳ συστάντι τῶν ἱππέων ἀποδειχθεὶς ἡγεμὼν ἐτρέψατο τοὺς τῶν πολεμίων ἱππεῖς καὶ μέχρι πόλεως Ἀντέμνης ἐλάσας τάριστεῖα καὶ ἐκ ταύτης τῆς μάχης ἔλαβεν: ἑτέρας τε πολλὰς πρὸς τὸ αὐτὸ ἔθνος ἀγωνισάμενος μάχας τοτὲ μὲν ἱππέων ἡγούμενος, τοτὲ δὲ πεζῶν ἐν ἀπάσαις ἐφάνη ψυχὴν ἄριστος καὶ πρῶτος ἐστεφανοῦτο τῶν ἄλλων. ^[3] καὶ ἐπειδὴ παρέστη Ῥωμαίοις εἰς ὑπόταξιν τε καὶ παράδοσιν τῶν πόλεων τὸ ἔθνος, αἰτιώτατος εἶναι δόξας Ταρκυνίῳ καὶ ταύτης τῆς δυναστείας τοῖς ἐπινικίοις στεφάνοις ἀνεδεῖτο ὑπ' αὐτοῦ. ἦν δὲ καὶ φρονῆσαι τὰ πολιτικὰ συνετώτατος καὶ λόγῳ τὰ βουλευθέντα ἐξενεγκεῖν οὐδενὸς χείρων ἀπάσαις θ' ἀρμόσαι ταῖς τύχαις καὶ παντὶ συνεξομοιωθῆναι προσώπῳ δυνατώτατος. ^[4] καὶ διὰ ταῦτα Ῥωμαῖοι μὲν αὐτὸν ἐκ τοῦ δήμου μεταγαγεῖν ἠξίωσαν εἰς τοὺς πατρικίους ψῆφον ἐπενέγκαντες, ὥσπερ Ταρκύνιον τε πρότερον καὶ ἔτι πρὸ τούτου Νόμαν Πομπίλιον: ὁ δὲ βασιλεὺς κηδεστήν ἐποίησατο τὴν ἑτέραν τῶν θυγατέρων ἐγγυήσας, καὶ πάνθ' ὅσα διὰ νόσους ἢ διὰ γῆρας ἀδύνατος ἦν ἐπιτελεῖν, δι' ἑαυτοῦ τούτῳ πράττειν ἐπέσκηπτεν, οὐ μόνον τὸν ἴδιον οἶκον ἐπιτρέπων, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰ κοινὰ τῆς πόλεως διοικεῖν ἀξιώων. ἐν οἷς ἅπασιν ἐξητάσθη πιστὸς καὶ δίκαιος, καὶ οὐδὲν ὥοντο διαφέρειν οἱ δημόται [p. 6] Ταρκύνιον ἐπιμελεῖσθαι τῶν κοινῶν ἢ Τύλλιον: οὕτως ἐξεθεραπεύθησαν ὑπ' αὐτοῦ ταῖς εὐεργεσίαις.

φύσεώς τε δὴ μετεिल्φώς ἀποχρῶντως κατεσκευασμένης πρὸς ἡγεμονίαν οὗτος ὁ ἀνὴρ καὶ τὰς παρὰ τῆς τύχης πολλὰς καὶ μεγάλας ἐσχηκώς ἀφορμάς, ἐπειδὴ τελευτῆσαι συνέβη Ταρκύνιον ἐπιβουλευθέντα ὑπὸ τῶν Ἄγκου Μαρκίου παιδῶν ἀνασώσασθαι τὴν τοῦ πατρὸς ἀρχὴν βουλομένων, ὥς ἐν τῷ πρὸ τούτου δεδήλωκα λόγῳ, δόξας ὑπὸ τῶν πραγμάτων αὐτῶν ἐπὶ τὴν βασιλείαν καλεῖσθαι, δραστήριος ἀνὴρ οὐκ ἀφῆκεν ἐκ τῶν χειρῶν τὸν καιρόν. [2] ἡ δὲ συγκατασκευάσασα τὴν ἡγεμονίαν αὐτῷ καὶ πάντων αἰτία γενομένη τῶν ἀγαθῶν ἡ τοῦ τετελευτηκότος βασιλέως ἦν γυνὴ γαμβρῷ τε συλλαμβάνουσα ἰδίῳ καὶ ἐκ πολλῶν συνεγνωκυῖα θεσφάτων, ὅτι βασιλεῦσαι Ῥωμαίων ἐκεῖνον τὸν ἄνδρα εἴμαρτο. ἔτυχε δ' αὐτῇ νεανίας μὲν υἱὸς οὐ πρὸ πολλοῦ τετελευτηκῶς χρόνου, παῖδια δ' ἐξ ἐκείνου δύο νήπια καταλειπόμενα. [3] ἐνθυμουμένη δὲ τὴν περὶ τὸν οἶκον ἐρημίαν καὶ περιδεῆς οὔσα, μὴ κατασχόντες οἱ Μάρκιοι τὴν ἀρχὴν ἄρωνται τὰ παῖδια καὶ πᾶσαν τὴν βασιλικὴν συγγένειαν ἀφανίσωσι, πρῶτον μὲν ἐπέταξε τὰς τῶν βασιλείων θυράς κλεῖσαι καὶ φύλακας ἐπ' αὐταῖς ἐπέστησε διακελευσαμένη μηδένα παριέναι μήτ' ἔσω μήτ' ἔξω· ἔπειτ' ἐκ τοῦ δωματίου πάντας ἐξελεῖν κελεύσασα τοὺς ἄλλους, ἐν ᾧ τὸν [p. 7] Ταρκύνιον ἡμιθνήτα ἔθεσαν, τὴν δ' Ὀκρισίαν καὶ τὸν Τύλλιον καὶ τὴν θυγατέρα τὴν συνοικοῦσαν τῷ Τυλλίῳ κατασκοῦσα καὶ τὰ παῖδια ὑπὸ τῶν τροφῶν ἐνεχθῆναι κελεύσασα λέγει πρὸς αὐτούς: [4] Ταρκύνιος μὲν ἡμῖν ὁ βασιλεὺς, ὧ Τύλλιε, παρ' ᾧ τροφῆς καὶ παιδείας ἔτυχες, ἀπάντων μάλιστα σὲ τιμήσας φίλων καὶ συγγενῶν ἀνόσια παθῶν ἐκπεπλήρωκε τὴν ἑαυτοῦ μοῖραν οὔτε περὶ τῶν ἰδίων πραγμάτων διαθέμενος οὐδὲν οὔτε περὶ τῶν κοινῶν καὶ πολιτικῶν ἐπισκήψας, ἀλλ' οὐδ' ἀσπάσασθαι τινα ἡμῶν καὶ προσαγορεῦσαι τοὺς ἐσχάτους ἀσπασμοὺς δυνηθεῖς. ἔρημα δὲ καὶ ὀρφανὰ τὰ δύσθηνα ταυτὶ παῖδια καταλείπεται κίνδυνον οὐ τὸν ἐλάχιστον ὑπὲρ τῆς ψυχῆς τρέχοντα: εἰ γὰρ ἐπὶ Μαρκίοις τοῖς ἀνελοῦσι τὸν πάππον αὐτῶν τὰ τῆς πόλεως ἔσται πράγματα, τὸν οἴκτιστον ἀπολοῦνται τρόπον ὑπ' αὐτῶν: ἔσται γ' οὐδ' ὑμῖν ἀσφαλὴς ὁ βίος, οἷς ἐνεγγύησε Ταρκύνιος τὰς ἑαυτοῦ θυγατέρας ἐκείνους ὑπεριδῶν, ἐὰν οἱ φονεῦσαντες αὐτὸν τὴν ἀρχὴν κατὰσχωσιν, οὐδὲ τοῖς ἄλλοις αὐτοῦ φίλοις καὶ συγγενέσιν οὐδ' ἡμῖν ταῖς ἀθλίαις γυναιξίν: ἀλλὰ πάντας ἡμᾶς φανερώς τε καὶ κρύφα πειράσσονται διολέσαι. [5] ταῦτ' οὖν ἐνθυμουμένους ἡμᾶς δεῖ μὴ περιορᾶν τοὺς ἐκεῖνον ἀποκτείναντας ἄνδρας ἀνοσίους καὶ πᾶσιν ἡμῖν ἐχθροὺς τοσαύτην ἀρχὴν κτησαμένους, ἀλλ' ἐναντιοῦσθαι καὶ κωλύειν νῦν μὲν ἀπάτῃ καὶ δόλῳ χρησαμένους: τούτων [p. 8] γὰρ ἐν τῷ παρόντι δεῖ: ὅταν δὲ τὰ πρῶτα ἡμῖν χωρήσῃ κατὰ νοῦν, τότε καὶ ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ πάσῃ δυνάμει καὶ μεθ' ὅπλων αὐτοῖς ὁμόσε χωροῦντας, ἐὰν ἄρα καὶ τούτων δέῃ. ἀλλ' οὐ δεήσει βουλευθέντων 1 ἡμῶν πράττειν νῦν ἃ δεῖ. [6] τίνα δὲ ταῦτ' ἐστί; πρῶτον μὲν κρυπτώμεθα τὸν τοῦ βασιλέως θάνατον καὶ πρὸς ἅπαντας ἐξενεχθῆναι παρασκευάσωμεν, ὅτι πληγὴν οὐδεμίαν ἔχει καιρίον, οἳ τ' ἰατροὶ λεγέτωσαν ἐν ὀλίγαις ἡμέραις αὐτὸν ἀποδείξιν ὑγιῇ: ἔπειτ' ἐγὼ προελθοῦσα εἰς τοῦμφανὲς ἐρῶν πρὸς τὸν ὄχλον, ὥς δὴ Ταρκυνίου μοι ταῦτ' εἰπεῖν ἐπισκήψαντος, ὅτι πάντων ἀποδείκνυσιν ἐπιμελητὴν καὶ φύλακα τῶν τ' ἰδίων καὶ τῶν κοινῶν, ἕως αὐτὸς ἐκ τῶν τραυμάτων ὑγιῆς γένηται, τὸν ἕτερον τῶν ἑαυτοῦ γαμβρῶν, τὸ σὸν εἰποῦσα, ὧ Τύλλιε, ὄνομα ἔσται δ' οὐκ ἄκουσι Ῥωμαίοις, ἀλλὰ βουλομένοις ὑπὸ σοῦ τὴν πόλιν ἐπιτροπεύεσθαι, ὑφ' οὗ [7] πολλὰκις ἤδη καὶ πρότερον ἐπετροπεύθη. ὅταν δὲ τὸν παρόντα κίνδυνον διασκεδάσωμεν, οὐδὲν γὰρ ἔτι τῶν ἐχθρῶν ἰσχυρόν ἐστι ζῆν τοῦ βασιλέως ἀγγελλομένου, παραλαβὼν σὺ τὰς τε ῥάβδους καὶ τὴν τῶν ὄπλων ἐξουσίαν κάλει τοὺς βουλευσάντας ἀποκτεῖναι Ταρκύνιον ἐπὶ τὸν δῆμον ἀπὸ τῶν Μαρκίου παίδων ἀρξάμενος καὶ πρόθεος αὐτοῖς δίκας: τιμωρησάμενος δὲ τοῦτους ἅπαντας, ἐὰν μὲν ὑπομείνωσι τὰς κρίσεις, θανάτοις, ἐὰν δ' ἐρήμους ἀφώσιν, ὃ μᾶλλον αὐτοὺς οἶμαι ποιήσῃν, ἀειφυγία καὶ δημεῦσει τῶν ὑπαρχόντων, [p. 9] καθίστασ' ἤδη τὰ περὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν ὁμιλίας τε φιλανθρώποις τὸ πλῆθος ἀναλαμβάνων καὶ τοῦ μηδὲν ἀδίκημα γενέσθαι πολλὴν ἔχων φροντίδα καὶ τοὺς ἀπόρους τῶν πολιτῶν εὐεργεσίας τισὶ καὶ δωρεαῖς ὑπαγόμενος: ἔπειθ' ὅταν ἡμῖν καιρὸς εἶναι δοκῇ, τότε λέγωμεν ἀποτεθνηκέναι [8] Ταρκύνιον καὶ ταφὰς αὐτοῦ ποιῶμεν ἀπὸ τοῦ φανεροῦ. δίκαιος δ' εἶ, Τύλλιε, τραφεῖς θ' ὑφ' ἡμῶν καὶ παιδευθεῖς καὶ πάντων μετεσχηκῶς ἀγαθῶν, ὅσων παρὰ μητρός τε καὶ πατρὸς υἱοὶ μεταλαμβάνουσι, καὶ θυγατρὶ συνοικῶν ἡμετέρᾳ, ἐὰν δὴ καὶ βασιλεὺς ἔτι γένῃ Ῥωμαίων ἐμοῦ καὶ εἰς τοῦτό σοι συναγωνισαμένης, πατρὸς εὖνοιαν τοῖς παιδίοις τοῖς2δε παρασχέσθαι: ὅταν δ' εἰς ἄνδρας ἔλθωσι καὶ τὰ κοινὰ πράττειν ἱκανοὶ γένωνται, τὸν πρεσβύτερον αὐτῶν ἀποδεῖξαι Ῥωμαίων ἡγεμόνα.

ταῦτ' εἰποῦσα καὶ τῶν παιδίων ἐκάτερον εἰς τὰς ἀγκάλας ἐμβαλοῦσα τοῦ τε γαμβροῦ καὶ τῆς θυγατρὸς καὶ πολὺν ἐξ ἀμφοτέρων κινήσασα οἶκτον, ἐπειδὴ καιρὸς ἦν, ἐξῆλθεν ἐκ τοῦ δωματίου καὶ παρήγγειλε τοῖς ἔνδον εὐτρεπῇ τὰ πρὸς τὴν θεραπείαν ἐπιτήδεια ποιεῖν καὶ τοὺς ἰατροὺς συγκαλεῖν. διαλιποῦσα δὲ τὴν μεταξὺ νύκτα τῇ κατόπιν ἡμέρᾳ πολλοῦ πρὸς τὰ βασιλεια συνδραμόντος ὄχλου προῆλθεν εἰς τοῦμφανὲς ταῖς θυρίσιν ἐπιστᾶσα ταῖς φερούσαις εἰς τὸν πρὸ τῶν θυρῶν στενωπὸν, καὶ πρῶτον μὲν ἐδήλωσε [p. 10] τοῖς παροῦσι τοὺς βουλευσάντας ἐπὶ τῷ βασιλεῖ τὸν φόνον, καὶ τοὺς ἐπὶ τοῦργον ἀποσταλέντας ὑπ' [2] αὐτῶν δεδεμένους παρήγαγεν: ἔπειθ' ὥς εἶδε πολλοὺς: ὀλοφυρομένους τε τὸ πάθος καὶ τοῖς δεδρακόσιν ἀπεχθομένους, τελευτῶσα εἶπεν οὐδὲν αὐτοῖς ἐκ τῶν ἀνοσίων ἐπιβουλευμάτων γεγονέναι οὐ δυνηθεῖσιν ἀποκτεῖναι Ταρκύνιον. ἀγαπητῶς δὲ τὸν λόγον ἀπάντων δεξαμένων τότε τὸν Τύλλιον αὐτοῖς συνίστησιν ὥς ὑπὸ τοῦ βασιλέως ἐπίτροπον ἀπάντων τῶν τ' ἰδίων καὶ τῶν κοινῶν ἀποδεικνύμενον, ἕως αὐτὸς ῥαίσῃ. [3] ὁ μὲν οὖν δῆμος ἀπῆει περιχαρὴς γενόμενος, εἰ μηδὲν πέπονθεν ὁ βασιλεὺς δεινόν, καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ τὴν δόξαν ἔχων ταύτην διετέλει. ὁ δὲ Τύλλιος ἰσχυρὰν χεῖρα περὶ αὐτὸν ἔχων καὶ τοὺς ῥαβδούχους ἐπαγόμενος τοὺς βασιλικοὺς προῆλθεν εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν καὶ τοὺς Μαρκίους ἐκήρυττεν ἦκειν ὑφ' ἑξόντας δίκην: ὥς δ' οὐχ ὑπήκουον, ἐπικηρύξας αὐτοῖς ἁΐδιους φυγὰς καὶ τὰς οὐσίας ἀναλαβὼν εἰς τὸ δημόσιον ἀσφαλῶς ἤδη τὴν Ταρκυνίου κατεῖχεν ἀρχήν.

βούλομαι δ' ἐπιστήσας τὸν ἐξῆς λόγον ἀποδοῦναι τὰς αἰτίας, δι' ἃς οὕτε Φαβίῳ συγκατεθέμην οὕτε τοῖς ἄλλοις ἱστορικοῖς, ὅσοι γράφουσιν υἱοὺς εἶναι τοὺς καταλειφθέντας παῖδας ὑπὸ Ταρκυνίου, ἵνα μὴ τινες τῶν ἐκείναις ἐντυχόντων ταῖς ἱστορίαις σχεδιάζῃν με ὑπολάβωσιν οὐχ υἱοὺς, ἀλλ' υἱωνοὺς αὐτοῦ [p. 11] γράφοντα τοὺς παῖδας. παντάπασι γὰρ ἀπερισκέπτως καὶ ῥαθυμῶς οἱ συγγραφεῖς περὶ αὐτῶν ταύτην ἐξηγηνόχασι τὴν ἱστορίαν οὐδὲν ἐξητακότες τῶν ἀναιρουντων αὐτὴν ἀδυνάτων τε καὶ ἀτόπων: ὦν ἕκαστον ἐγὼ πειράσομαι ποιῆσαι φανερόν δι' ὀλίγων. [2] Ταρκύνιος ἐκ Τυρρηνίας μετανίσταται τὸν οἶκον ὅλον ἀνασκευασάμενος ἐν τῇ κρατίστῃ τοῦ φρονεῖν ὑπάρχων ἡλικίᾳ. πολιτεύεσθαι γὰρ ἤδη καὶ ἄρχειν καὶ τὰ κοινὰ πράττειν ἀξιῶν παραδίδοται, καὶ τὴν ἅπαρσιν ἐκεῖθεν πεπονημένος διὰ τὸ μηδεμιᾶς ἐν τῇ πόλει τιμῆς μεταλαμβάνειν. [3] ἕτερος μὲν οὖν ἂν τις αὐτὸν ὑπέθετο καὶ τριακοστὸν ἔτος ἔχοντα τοῦλάχιστον, ὅτ' ἀπῆρεν ἐκ Τυρρηνίας: ἀπὸ ταύτης γὰρ οἱ νόμοι τῆς ἡλικίας καλοῦσιν ὥς ἐπὶ τὸ πολὺ τοὺς ἄρχειν τε καὶ πράττειν βουλομένους τὰ κοινὰ: ἐγὼ δ' ἔτι νεώτερον αὐτὸν ὑποτίθεμαι πέντε ὅλοις ἔτεσι, καὶ ποιῶ κατὰ τὸ πέμπτον καὶ εἰκοστὸν ἔτος ἀπανιστάμενον. καὶ μὴν ὅτι γυναῖκα Τυρρηνίδα ἐπηγάγετο, ἣν ζῶντος ἔτι τοῦ πατρὸς ἔγημεν, ἅπαντες ὁμολογοῦσιν οἱ τὰς Ῥωμαϊκὰς συγγράφαντες ἱστορίας. [4] παραγίνεται δ' εἰς Ῥώμην Ἄγκου Μαρκίου βασιλεύοντος, ὥς μὲν Γέλλιος ἱστορεῖ κατὰ τὸν πρῶτον ἐνιαυτὸν τῆς βασιλείας, ὥς δὲ Λικίνιος γράφει κατὰ τὸν ὄγδοον. ἔστω δὴ κατὰ τοῦτον ἐληλυθὼς τὸν ἐνιαυτὸν, καθ' ὃν γράφει Λικίνιος, καὶ μὴ πρότερον: ἐν ὑστέρῳ μὲν γὰρ οὐκ ἂν εἴη χρόνῳ παραγεγινώς, εἶγε δὴ κατὰ τὸν ἑνατον ἐνιαυτὸν τῆς [p. 12] Ἄγκου δυναστείας ἱππέων ἡγούμενος ἐπὶ τὸν πρὸς Λατίνους πόλεμον ὑπὸ τοῦ βασιλέως πέμπεται, ὥς ἀμφοτέρωτεροι λέγουσιν οἱ συγγραφεῖς: εἰ δὴ παρεγένετο μὲν εἰς Ῥώμην οὐ πλείω τῶν πέντε καὶ εἴκοσι γεγονώς ἐτῶν, Ἄγκῳ δὲ βασιλεῖ κατὰ τὸν ὄγδοον τῆς ἀρχῆς ἐνιαυτὸν φίλος γενόμενος ἐπτακαίδεκα διέτριψεν ἔτη παρ' αὐτῷ τὰ λοιπὰ: τέτταρα γὰρ ἐπὶ τοῖς εἴκοσι βεβασίλευκεν Ἄγκος: ἔτη δ' ὀκτὼ καὶ τριάκοντα τὴν βασιλείαν κατέσχευεν αὐτὸς ὥς ἅπαντες ὁμολογοῦσιν, ὀγδοηκονταέτης ἂν ἦν, ὅτ' ἐτελεύτα. ἐκ γὰρ τοῦ συλλογισμοῦ [5] τῶν ἐτῶν τοῦτο συνάγεται τὸ πλήθος. ἡ γυνὴ δ' εἰ πέντε ἔτεσιν ἦν αὐτοῦ νεωτέρα καθάπερ εἰκός, ἐβδομηκοστὸν ἂν δῆπου καὶ πέμπτον εἶχεν ἔτος, ὅτ' ἀπέθνησκε Ταρκύνιος. εἰ δὴ τὸν νεώτερον τῶν υἱῶν ἔοχατον ἐκύησεν ἔτος ἔχουσα πεντηκοστὸν: προσωτέρῳ γὰρ οὐκέτι κυῖσκεται τούτου τοῦ χρόνου γυνή, ἀλλ' ἔστιν οὗτος αὐτὸς τῶν ὠδίνων ὁ ὄρος, ὥς οἱ ταῦτ' ἐξητακότες γράφουσιν: οὗτος μὲν οὖν οὐκ ἂν ἐλάττω γεγονώς ἦν ἐτῶν πέντε καὶ εἴκοσι κατὰ τὸν τοῦ πατρὸς θάνατον, ὁ δὲ Λεύκιος ὁ πρεσβύτερος οὐ μείων ἐπτακαίκοσαέτους: οὐκ ἄρα νηπίους κατέλιπεν υἱοὺς [6] ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐκ ταύτης γεγονότας τῆς γυναικός. ἀλλὰ μὴν εἰγ' ἀνδρῶν ἡλικίαν εἶχον οἱ παῖδες, ὅθ' ὁ πατὴρ αὐτῶν ἀπέθνησκεν, οὗτ' ἂν ἡ μήτηρ αὐτῶν οὕτως ἦν [p. 13] ἀθλία καὶ θεοβλαβής, ὥστ' ἀφαιρεῖσθαι μὲν τῶν ἑαυτῆς τέκνων ἦν κατέλιπεν αὐτοῖς ὁ πατὴρ ἀρχὴν, τῷ δ' ἄλλοτριῳ καὶ ἐκ δούλης γεγονότι χαρίζεσθαι: οὗτ' ἂν αὐτοὶ τῆς πατρῴας ἀρχῆς ἀποστερούμενοι φαύλως καὶ ῥαθυμῶς τὸ ἀδίκημα ἤνεγκαν καὶ ταῦτ' ἐν τῇ κρατίστῃ τοῦ λέγειν τε καὶ πράττειν ὄντες ἀκμῇ: οὔτε γὰρ εὐγενεῖα προεἶχεν αὐτῶν ὁ Τύλλιος ἐκ δούλης μητρὸς ὦν οὐθ' ἡλικίας ἀξιώματι παρὰ πολὺ διήλλαπτεν, ἀλλὰ τρισὶ μόνον ἔτεσι θατέρου πρεσβύτερος ἦν: ὥστ' οὐκ ἂν γε παρεχώρησαν αὐτῷ τῆς βασιλείας ἐκόντες.

Ῥωμαϊκὰ συνταξάμενοι πλὴν ἑνός, οὗ μετὰ μικρὸν ἑρῶ τοῦνομα. ὠμολόγηται γάρ, ὅτι μετὰ τὴν Ταρκυνίου τελευτὴν παραλαβὼν τὴν βασιλείαν Τύλλιος ἐπ’ ἔτη τετταράκοντα καὶ τέτταρα κατέσχευεν, ὥστ’ εἰ κατ’ ἐκεῖνον τὸν χρόνον ἑκτακαίκοσαέτης ἦν, ὅτ’ ἀπεστερεῖτο τῆς ἀρχῆς ὁ πρεσβύτερος τῶν Ταρκυνίων, ὑπὲρ ἑβδομήκοντα ἔτη γεγονώς ἂν ἦν, ὅτε τὸν Τύλλιον ἀπέκτεινεν. [2] ἐν κρατίστῃ δὲ γ’ αὐτὸν ἡλικίᾳ τότε ὄντα παραδεδώκασιν οἱ συγγραφεῖς καὶ φασιν, ὅτι Τύλλιον αὐτὸς ἀράμενος ἐκ τοῦ βουλευτηρίου καὶ φέρων ἔξω κατὰ τῶν κρηπιδων ἐξέχεεν. ἢ τ’ ἐκ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἔκπτωσις αὐτοῦ γίνεται πέμπτῳ καὶ εἰκοστῷ μετὰ ταῦτ’ ἔτει, καὶ τούτῳ τῷ ἔτει στρατευόμενος ἐν τῷ πρὸς Ἀρδεάτας εἰσάγεται πολέμῳ καὶ πάντα [p. 14] τὰ ἔργα δι’ ἑαυτοῦ τελῶν: οὐκ εἶχε δὲ λόγον ἐν πολέμοις ἐξετάζεσθαι ἐξ καὶ ἐνενήκοντα βεβιωκώς ἔτη. [3] ἐκπεσὼν τε τῆς ἀρχῆς ἐπὶ πολεμεῖν Ῥωμαίοις οὐκ ἐλάττω τεττάρων καὶ δέκα ἐτῶν, αὐτὸς ἐν τοῖς πράγμασιν ἐξεταζόμενος, ὥς φασι, παρὰ τὰς κοινὰς ἀπάντων ἐστὶ δόξας, καὶ ὁ τοῦ βίου χρόνος αὐτῷ πλείων ἀναφαίνεται τῶν ἑκατὸν καὶ δέκα γεγονώς ἐτῶν: τοῦτο δὲ τὸ μῆκος τῶν βίων οὐ φέρουσιν οἱ καθ’ ἡμᾶς τόποι. [4] ταῦτα δὴ τὰ ἄτοπα συνειδότες τῶν Ῥωμαϊκῶν συγγραφέων τινὲς ἐτέραις αὐτὰ λύειν ἐπειράθησαν ἀτοπίαις, οὐ Τανακυλίδα ποιοῦντες μητέρα τῶν παιδίων, ἀλλὰ Γεγανίαν τινά, περὶ ἧς οὐδεμίαν παρειλήφαμεν ἱστορίαν: ἄωρος δὴ γίνεται πάλιν ὁ γάμος τοῦ Ταρκυνίου μικρὸν ἀπολείποντος ἐτῶν ὀγδοήκοντα, καὶ ἡ τῶν τέκνων γένεσις τοῖς ταύτην ἔχουσι τὴν ἡλικίαν ἄπιστος: οὐδὲ γὰρ ἄπαις ἦν, ὥστ’ ἐκ παντὸς ἐπιθυμῆσαι τέκνων, ἀλλὰ θυγατέρες ἦσαν αὐτῷ δύο καὶ [5] αὗται γ’ ἤδη γεγαμημέναι. τούτων δὴ τῶν ἀδυνάτων τε καὶ ἀτόπων ἕκαστα ἐπιλογιζόμενος οὐχ υἱοὺς εἶναι Ταρκυνίου γράφω τοὺς παῖδας, ἀλλ’ υἱωνοὺς, Λευκίῳ Πείσωνι τῷ Φρυγί συγκαταθέμενος. ἐκεῖνος γὰρ ἐν ταῖς ἐνιαυσίοις πραγματείαις ταῦθ’ ἱστορήκε μόνος: εἰ [p. 15] μὴ γ’ ἄρα γόνυ μὲν ἦσαν υἱωνοὶ τοῦ βασιλέως οἱ παῖδες, ποιήσει δ’ υἱοί, καὶ τοῦτ’ ἦν αἵτιον τῆς ἀπάτης τοῖς ἄλλοις ἅπασιν τοῖς συγγράψασιν τὰς Ῥωμαϊκὰς ἱστορίας. προειρημένων δὴ τούτων καιρὸς ἐπανάγειν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀπολείπομένην διήγησιν.

ἐπειδὴ δὲ παραλαβὼν τὴν ἐπιτροπὴν τῆς βασιλείας ὁ Τύλλιος καὶ τὴν ἑταιρίαν τῶν Μαρκίων ἐξελάσας βεβαίως ἤδη τῆς ἀρχῆς ἐνόμιζε κρατεῖν, τὸν τε βασιλέα Ταρκύνιον, ὥς ἐκ τῶν τραυμάτων τετελευτηκότα ἔναγχος, ἐκκομιδῇ τε πολυτελεῖ καὶ μνήματος ἐπισήμου κατασκευῇ καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις τιμαῖς ἐκόσμη, καὶ τὸν ἐξ ἐκείνου χρόνον ὥς ἐπίτροπος ὢν τῶν ἐκ τοῦ βασιλείου γένους παίδων τὸν τ’ ἴδιον αὐτῶν βίον καὶ τὰ κοινὰ πράγματα τῆς πόλεως διὰ φυλακῆς τε καὶ φροντίδος ἐποιεῖτο. [2] τοῖς δὲ πατρικίοις οὐκ ἦν τὰ γινόμενα καθ’ ἡδονάς, ἀλλ’ ἡγανάκτουν καὶ χαλεπῶς ἔφερον οὐκ ἀξιοῦντες αὐτὸν ἑαυτῷ τινα μηχανήσασθαι βασιλικὴν ἐξουσίαν, μήτε βουλῆς ψηφισαμένης μήτε τῶν ἄλλων τῶν κατὰ νόμον ἐπιτελεσθέντων. συνιόντες τε πολλάκις οἱ πλεῖστον ἐξ αὐτῶν δυνάμενοι διελέγοντο πρὸς ἀλλήλους περὶ τῆς καταλύσεως τῆς παρανόμου ἀρχῆς, καὶ ἐδόκει αὐτοῖς, ἐπειδὴν πρῶτον εἰς τὸ συνέδριον ὑπὸ τοῦ Τυλλίου ἀναχθῶσιν, ἀναγκάσαι τὸν ἄνδρα τὰς ῥάβδους ἀποθέσθαι καὶ τὰ λοιπὰ τῆς ἀρχῆς σύμβολα: ὅταν δὲ τοῦτο γένηται, τοὺς καλουμένους μεσοβασιλεῖς ἀποδείξει καὶ δι' ἐκείνων ἐλῆσθαι τὸν ἄρξοντα τῆς [p. 16] [3] πόλεως κατὰ νόμους. ταῦτα διανοουμένων αὐτῶν ἐπιγνοὺς ὁ Τύλλιος ἐπὶ τὸ δημαγωγεῖν καὶ θεραπεύειν τοὺς ἀπόρους τῶν πολιτῶν ἐτρέπετο, δι' ἐκείνων ἐλπίσας τὴν ἀρχὴν καθέξειν, καὶ συγκαλέσας τὸ πλῆθος εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὰ τε παιδία προήγαγεν ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα καὶ λόγον διεξῆλθε τοιόνδε.

πολλή με ἀνάγκη κατείληφεν, ἄνδρες πολῖται, κήδεσθαι τῶν παιδίων τούτων καὶ νηπίων. Ταρκύνιος γὰρ ὁ πάππος αὐτῶν ἀπάτορα καὶ ἄπολιν ὄντα με παραλαβὼν ἐξέθρεψεν οὐδὲν ἐνδεέστερον ἄγων τῶν αὐτοῦ τέκνων καὶ τὴν ἐτέραν τῶν θυγατέρων ἔδωκέ μοι γυναῖκα, καὶ παρὰ πάντα τὸν τοῦ βίου χρόνον ὥσπερ ἐξ αὐτοῦ γεγονότα τιμῶν καὶ φιλῶν, ὡς καὶ ὑμεῖς ἴστε, διετέλεσε, καὶ ἐπειδὴ τὰ περὶ τὴν ἐπιβουλὴν αὐτῷ συνέπεσεν, εἴ τι πάθοι τῶν ἀνθρωπίνων, [2] ἐμοὶ τὴν ἐπιμέλειαν τῶν παιδίων ἐπίστευσε. τίς οὖν ἢ πρὸς θεοὺς ὅσιον ἢ πρὸς ἀνθρώπους δίκαιον ὑπολήψεται με, ἐὰν ἐγκαταλίπω καὶ προδῶ τοὺς ὀρφανούς, οἷς τοσαύτας ὀφείλω χάριτας; ἀλλ' οὔτε τὴν ἐμαυτοῦ προδώσω πίστιν οὐδὲ τὴν τῶν παιδίων ἐρημίαν ἐγκαταλείψω κατὰ δύναμιν τὴν ἐμήν. δίκαιοι δ' ἐστὲ καὶ ὑμεῖς διαμεμνηῖσθαι τὰς εὐεργεσίας, αἷς ὁ πάππος αὐτῶν τὸ κοινὸν εὐηργέτησεν ὑποτάξας μὲν ὑμῖν τὰς Λατίνων τοσαύτας πόλεις ἀντιποιοιμένας τῆς ἀρχῆς, ὑπηκόους δὲ ποιήσας Τυρρηνοὺς ἅπαντας μέγιστον τῶν περιοίκων [p. 17] δυναμένους, ἀναγκάσας δὲ τὸ Σαβίνων ἔθνος ὑποχείριον ὑμῖν γενέσθαι, μετὰ πολλῶν ἄκαντα ταῦτα καὶ μεγάλων κινδύνων κατεργασάμενος. [3] ὅσον μὲν οὖν αὐτὸς ἔζη χρόνον, ἐκείνῳ κροσῆκεν ὑμᾶς τὰς ὑπὲρ τῶν εὐεργεσιῶν χάριτας εἰδέναι, ἐπειδὴ δὲ τετελεύτηκε τὸν βίον τοῖς ἐγγόνοις αὐτοῦ τὰς ἀμοιβὰς ἀποτίνειν, καὶ μὴ συγκατορύττειν ἅμα τοῖς σώμασι τῶν εὐεργετῶν καὶ τὴν μνήμην τῶν ἔργων. δόξατε οὖν κοινῇ πάντες ἐπίτροποι καταλελειφθαι τῶν παιδίων καὶ βεβαιοῦτε αὐτοῖς ἦν ὁ πάππος κατέλιπεν ἀρχήν. οὐδὲν γὰρ τοσοῦτον ἀπολαύσειαν ἂν ἐκ τῆς ἐμῆς ἐνὸς ὄντος προστασίας, ὅσον ἐκ τῆς κοινῆς ἀπάντων ὑμῶν βοηθείας. [4] ταῦτα δ' εἰπεῖν ἠνάγκασμαι συνισταμένους τινὰς ἐπ' αὐτοὺς αἰσθόμενος καὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν ἐτέροις παραδοῦναι βουλομένους. ἀξιῶ δ' ὑμᾶς, ἄνδρες Ῥωμαῖοι, καὶ τῶν ἐμῶν μεμνημένους ἀγώνων, οὓς ὑπὲρ τῆς ἡγεμονίας ἡγωνισάμην, οὔτε μικρῶν ὄντων οὔτ' ὀλίγων, οὓς οὐδὲν δέομαι πρὸς εἰδότας ὑμᾶς λέγειν, τὰς ἀντὶ τούτων ὀφειλομένας ἐμοὶ χάριτας τοῖς παιδίοις ἀκοδοῦναι τούτοις. οὐ γὰρ ἰδίαν ἀρχὴν ἐμαυτῷ κατασκευαζόμενος, ἥς οὐδενὸς ἦττον ἄξιος ἦν βουλευθεὶς τυγχάνειν, ἀλλὰ τῷ Ταρκυνίου γένει βοηθῶν τὰ κοινὰ πράττειν προήρημαι. [5] ἰκέτης δ' ὑμῶν γίνομαι μὴ τοὺς ὀρφανούς ἐγκαταλιπεῖν [p. 18] νῦν μὲν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἀρχῆς κινδυνεύοντας, εἰ δ' ἡ πρώτη πείρα τοῖς ἐχθροῖς αὐτῶν χωρήσει κατὰ νοῦν, καὶ ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἐξελαθισομένους. ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ μὲν τούτων ὡς ἐγνωκόσιν ὑμῖν τὰ δέοντα καὶ ποιήσουσιν, ὅσα προσήκει, οὐδὲν δέομαι πλείω λέγειν: ἃ δὲ παρσκευάσμαι ποιεῖν ὑμᾶς αὐτὸς ἀγαθὰ καὶ ὦν χάριν τὴν ἐκκλησίαν συνεκάλεσα, ἀκούσατέ μου. [6] ὅσοι μὲν ὑμῶν ὀφείλοντες ἤδη χρέα διὰ πενίαν ἀδύνατοί εἰσιν ἀποδοῦναι, τούτοις βοηθεῖν προθυμούμενος, ἐπειδὴ πολῖταί τ' εἰσὶ καὶ πολλοὺς ὑπὲρ τῆς πατρίδος ἀνηντλήκασιν πόνους, ἵνα μὴ τὴν ἰδίαν ἀφαιρεθῶσιν ἐλευθερίαν οἱ τὴν κοινὴν βεβαιώσαντες, ἐκ τῶν ἑμαυτοῦ ^[7] χρημάτων δίδωμι διαλύσασθαι τὰ χρέα. ὅσοι δ' ἂν μετὰ ταῦτα δανείσωνται, τούτους οὐκ ἐάσω πρὸς τὰ χρέα ἀπάγεσθαι καὶ νόμον θήσομαι μηδὲνα δανεῖζειν ἐπὶ σώμασιν ἐλευθέροις ἱκανὸν ἡγούμενος τοῖς δανεισταῖς τῆς οὐσίας τῶν συμβαλόντων κρατεῖν. ἵνα δὲ καὶ τὰς εἰς τὸ δημόσιον γινομένας εἰσφοράς, δι' αἷς οἱ πένητες ἐπιβαροῦνται τε καὶ ἀναγκάζονται δανείσματα ποιεῖν, κουφοτέρας εἰς τὸ λοιπὸν φέρητε, τιμήσασθαι τὰς οὐσίας ἅπαντας κελεύσω καὶ ἀπὸ τοῦ τιμήματος ἕκαστον εἰσφέρειν τὸ ἐπιβάλλον, ὡς ἐν ταῖς μεγίσταις καὶ εὐνομωτάταις πόλεσι πυνθάνομαι γινόμενον, δίκαιόν [p. 19] τε καὶ συμφέρον τῷ κοινῷ τοῦθ' ἡγούμενος τοὺς μὲν πολλὰ κεκτημένους πολλὰ εἰσφέρειν, τοὺς δ' ὀλίγα ἔχοντας ὀλίγα. ^[8] δοκεῖ δέ μοι καὶ τῆς δημοσίας γῆς, ἣν διὰ τῶν ὅπλων κτησάμενοι κατέχετε, μὴ τοὺς ἀναιδεστάτους ὥσπερ νῦν κρατεῖν οὔτε χάριτι λαβόντας οὔτ' ὠνῇ κτησαμένους, ἀλλὰ τοὺς μηδὲνα κλῆρον ἔχοντας ὑμῶν, ἵνα μὴ θητεύητε ὄντες ἐλεύθεροι μηδὲ τὰς ἀλλοτρίας κτήσεις, ἀλλὰ τὰς ἰδίας γεωργῇτε: οὐ γὰρ ἂν γένοιτο φρόνημα εὐγενὲς ἐν ἀνδράσιν ἀπορουμένοις τῶν καθ' ἡμέραν ἀναγκαίων. ^[9] ὑπὲρ ἅπαντα δὲ ταῦτ' ἔγνων καὶ ἴσῃν καὶ κοινὴν ποιεῖν τὴν πολιτείαν καὶ τὰ δίκαια πᾶσι πρὸς ἅπαντας ὅμοια. εἰς τοῦτο γὰρ ἤκουσιν τινες αὐθαδείας, ὥσθ' ὑβρίζειν εἰς τὸ δημοτικὸν ἀξιοῦσι καὶ μὴδ' ἐλευθέρους ἡγεῖσθαι τοὺς πένητας ὑμῶν. ἵνα δὲ καὶ λαμβάνωσι τὰ δίκαια καὶ ὑπέχωσιν οἱ μείζους τοῖς ἐλάττωσιν ἐξ ἴσου, νόμους θήσομαι κωλυτὰς μὲν τῆς βίας, φύλακας δὲ τῆς δικαιοσύνης καὶ αὐτὸς οὐδένα χρόνον ἀνήσω τῆς ἀπάντων προνοοῦμενος ἰσηγορίας.

τοιαῦτα λέγοντος αὐτοῦ πολὺς ἔπαινος ἐκ τῆς ἐκκλησίας ἐγένετο τῶν μὲν, ὅτι πιστὸς ἦν καὶ δίκαιος περὶ τοὺς εὐεργέτας, ἐπαινούντων, τῶν δ', ὅτι φιλάνθρωπος καὶ μεγαλόψυχος εἰς τοὺς ἀπόρους, τῶν δ', ὡς μέτριος καὶ δημοτικὸς πρὸς τοὺς ταπεινότερους, ἀπάντων δ', ὅτι νόμιμος καὶ δίκαιος ἄρχων, ἀγαπώντων [p. 20] ^[2] τε καὶ τεθαυμακότων. διαλυθείσης δὲ τῆς ἐκκλησίας ταῖς ἐξῆς ἡμέραις ἀπογράφεσθαι κελεύσας τοὺς ὑποχρέους, ὅσοι τὴν πίστιν ἀδύνατοι ἦσαν φυλάττειν, τίσιν ὀφείλουσι καὶ πόσον ἕκαστος, ἐπειδὴ τὰς ἀπογραφὰς ἔλαβε, τραπέζας θεῖς ἐν ἀγορᾷ πάντων ὁρώντων ἀπληροῦν τοῖς δανεισταῖς τὰ χρέα. ^[3] ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ἐξέθηκεν ἐν φανερῷ διάταγμα βασιλικόν, ἐκχωρεῖν τῆς δημοσίας γῆς τοὺς καρπουμένους τε καὶ ἰδίᾳ κατέχοντας αὐτὴν ἐν ὠρισμένῳ τινὶ χρόνῳ, καὶ τοὺς οὐδένα κλῆρον ἔχοντας τῶν πολιτῶν πρὸς ἑαυτὸν ἀπογράφεσθαι: νόμους τε συνέγραψεν οὓς μὲν ἐκ τῶν ἀρχαίων καὶ παρημελημένων ἀνανεοῦμενος, οὓς Πρωμύλος τ' εἰσηγήσατο καὶ Νόμας Πομπήλιος, οὓς δ' ^[4] αὐτὸς καθιστάμενος. ταῦτα δ' αὐτοῦ πολιτευομένου χαλεπῶς ἔφερον οἱ πατρίκιοι καταλυομένην τὴν δυναστείαν τῆς βουλῆς ὁρῶντες καὶ λογισμοὺς οὐκέτι τοὺς αὐτοὺς, ἀλλ' ἐναντίους τοῖς προτέροις ἐλάμβανον. ^[5] ἐν ἀρχαῖς μὲν γὰρ ὥρμησαν ἀφελέσθαι τὴν παράνομον αὐτοῦ δυναστείαν ἀποδειξάντες μεσοβασιλεῖς καὶ δι' ἐκείνων ἐλέσθαι τὸν κατὰ νόμους ἔξοντα τὴν ἀρχήν: τότε δὲ στέργειν ἐπὶ τοῖς παροῦσιν ὥοντο δεῖν καὶ μηδὲν πολυπραγμονεῖν. εἰσῆι γὰρ αὐτοῖς λογισμός, ὅτι τῆς μὲν βουλῆς, ὃν αὐτὴ προηρεῖτο, παραγούσης ἐπὶ τὰ πράγματα ὁ δῆμος ἐναντιώσεται τὴν ψῆφον ἀναλαβών: ἐὰν δ' ἐπὶ τῷ δήμῳ ποιήσωσι τὴν [p. 21] τοῦ βασιλέως προαίρεσιν, ἅπασαι τὸν Τύλλιον ψηφοφορήσουσιν αἱ φρᾶτραι, καὶ περιέσται τῷ ἀνδρὶ τὸ δοκεῖν κατὰ νόμους ἄρχειν. ἔδοξεν οὖν αὐτοῖς ἄμεινον εἶναι κλέπτοντα τὴν ἀρχὴν τὸν ἄνδρα καὶ παρακρουόμενον τοὺς πολίτας μᾶλλον ἢ πείσαντα καὶ φανερώς λαβόντα κατέχειν. [6] ἀλλ' οὐδὲν αὐτοῖς ἐγένετο προὔργου τῶν λελογισμένων: οὕτω κατεστρατήγησεν αὐτοὺς ὁ Τύλλιος καὶ κατέσχε τὴν βασιλείαν ἀκόντων ἐκείνων. κατασκευάσας γὰρ ἐκ πολλοῦ φήμας λέγεσθαι κατὰ τὴν πόλιν. ὡς ἐπιβουλευόντων αὐτῷ τῶν πατρικίων προῆλθεν εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν ἐσθῆτα πιναρὰν περιβεβλημένος καὶ κατηφῆς συνούσης αὐτῷ καὶ τῆς μητρὸς Ὀκρισίας καὶ τῆς Ταρκυνίου γυναικὸς Τανακυλίδος καὶ τῆς συγγενείας τῆς βασιλικῆς ὅλης. ὄχλου δὲ συνδραμόντος πολλοῦ πρὸς τὸ παράδοξον τῆς ὄψεως ἐκκλησίαν συγκαλέσας προῆλθεν ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα καὶ διεξῆλθε τοιοῦτόν τινα λόγον.

ταῦτα λέγοντος αὐτοῦ καὶ παραχωρεῖν οἴου τε ὄντος ἀπὸ τοῦ βήματος κραυγὴ τε παρὰ πάντων ἐξαίσιος ἐγένετο καὶ δεήσεις μεμιγμέναι δάκρυσιν, ἵνα μένῃ τε καὶ διακατέχῃ τὰ πράγματα μηδὲνα δεδοικώς. ἔπειτ' ἐγκέλευστοί τινες διειληφότες τὴν ἀγορὰν βασιλέα ποιεῖν αὐτὸν ἐβόων καὶ συγκαλεῖν τὰς φράτρας ἡξίουσαν καὶ ψῆφον ἦτουν. ἀρξαμένων δὲ τούτων εὐθύς ὁ δῆμος ἅπας ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς προαιρέσεως ἐγεγόνει. [2] τοῦτο καταμαθὼν ὁ Τύλλιος οὐκέτι παρήκε τὸν καιρὸν, ἀλλὰ πολλὰς αὐτοῖς εἰδέναι φήσας χάριτας, ὅτι μέμνηνται τῶν εὐεργεσιῶν, καὶ ἔτι πλείονα ὑποσχόμενος ἀγαθὰ ποιήσων, ἐὰν αὐτὸν ἀποδείξωσι βασιλέα, προεῖπεν ἡμέραν ἀρχαιρεσιῶν, εἰς ἣν ἐκέλευσε καὶ τοὺς ἐκ τῶν ἀγρῶν ἅπαντας παρεῖναι. [3] συνελθόντος δὲ τοῦ δήμου καλῶν τὰς φράτρας κατὰ μίαν ἀνεδίδου τὰς ψήφους. ἀπάσαις δὲ ταῖς φράτραις κριθεὶς τῆς βασιλείας [p. 25] ἄξιος παραλαμβάνει τότε τὴν ἀρχὴν παρὰ τοῦ δημοτικοῦ πλήθους πολλὰ χαίρειν τῇ βουλῇ φράσας, ἣν οὐκ ἡξίωσεν ἐπικυρώσαι τὰ τοῦ δήμου κρίματα, ὥσπερ αὐτῇ ποιεῖν ἔθος ἦν. τοῦτον δὲ τὸν τρόπον ἐπὶ τὴν βασιλείαν παρελθὼν πολλῶν μὲν καὶ ἄλλων πολιτευμάτων εἰσηγητῆς ἐγένετο, μέγαν δὲ καὶ λόγου ἄξιον ἐπολέμησε πρὸς Τυρρηνοὺς πόλεμον. ποιήσομαι δὲ περὶ τῶν πολιτευμάτων αὐτοῦ πρῶτον τοὺς λόγους.

προσθεῖς λόφοις, ὀρνιθευσάμενός τε ὡς νόμος ἦν καὶ τᾶλλα τὰ πρὸς θεοῦς ὅσια διαπραξάμενος. προσωτέρω δ' οὐκέτι προῆλθεν ἡ κατασκευὴ τῆς πόλεως οὐκ ἔωντος, ὥς φασι, τοῦ δαιμονίου, ἀλλ' ἔστιν ἅπαντα τὰ περὶ τὴν πόλιν οἰκούμενα χωρία, πολλὰ ὄντα καὶ μεγάλα, γυμνὰ καὶ ἀτειχιστα [p. 26] ^[4] καὶ ῥᾶστα πολεμίοις ἐλθοῦσιν ὑποχίρια γενέσθαι: καὶ εἰ μὲν εἰς ταῦτά τις ὀρῶν τὸ μέγεθος ἐξετάζειν βουλήσεται τῆς Ῥώμης, πλανᾶσθαι τ' ἀναγκασθήσεται καὶ οὐχ ἔξει βέβαιοι σημεῖον οὐδέν, ὧ διαγνώσεται, μέχρι ποῦ προβαίνουσα ἔτι πόλις ἐστὶ καὶ πόθεν ἄρχεται μηκέτ' εἶναι πόλις, οὕτω συνύφανται τὸ ἄστρῳ τῇ χώρᾳ καὶ εἰς ἄπειρον ἐκμηκνυομένης πόλεως ὑπόληψιν τοῖς θεωμένοις παρέχεται. ^[5] εἰ δὲ τῷ τείχει τῷ δυσσευρέτῳ μὲν ὄντι διὰ τὰς περιλαμβανούσας αὐτὸ πολλαχόθεν οἰκήσεις, ἴχνη δέ τινα φυλάττοντι κατὰ πολλοὺς τόπους τῆς ἀρχαίας κατασκευῆς, βουλευθεῖη μετρεῖν αὐτὴν κατὰ τὸν κύκλον τὸν περιέχοντα Ἀθηναίων τὸ ἄστρῳ, οὐ πολλῷ τι μείζων ὁ τῆς Ῥώμης ἂν αὐτῷ φανείη κύκλος. ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ μὲν τοῦ μεγέθους τε καὶ κάλλους τῆς πόλεως, ὡς κατὰ τὴν ἐμὴν εἶχεν ἡλικίαν, ἕτερος ἔσται τῇ διηγῇσει καιρὸς ἐπιτηδειότερος.

Ὁ δὲ Τύλλιος, ἐπειδὴ τοὺς ἐπτὰ λόφους ἐνὶ τείχει περιέλαβεν, εἰς τέτταρας μοῖρας διελὼν τὴν πόλιν καὶ θέμενος ἐπὶ τῶν λόφων ταῖς μοῖραις τὰς ἐπικλήσεις, τῇ μὲν Παλατινῇ, τῇ δὲ Σουβουράνῃ, τῇ δὲ τρίτῃ Κολλίνῃ, τῇ δὲ τετάρτῃ τῶν μοιρῶν Ἰσκυλίνῃ, τετράφυλον ἐποίησε τὴν πόλιν εἶναι, τρίφυλον οὖσαν τέως: ^[2] καὶ τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ἔταξε τοὺς ἐν ἑκάστῃ μοίρᾳ τῶν τεττάρων οἰκοῦντας, ὥσπερ κωμήτας, μήτε μεταλαμβάνειν [p. 27] ἑτέραν οἴκησιν μήτ' ἄλλοθι που συντελεῖν, τὰς τε καταγραφὰς τῶν στρατιωτῶν καὶ τὰς εἰσπράξεις τῶν χρημάτων τὰς γινομένας εἰς τὰ στρατιωτικὰ καὶ τὰς ἄλλας χρεῖας, ἃς ἕκαστος ἔδει τῷ κοινῷ παρέχειν, οὐκέτι κατὰ τὰς τρεῖς φυλάς τὰς γενικὰς ὡς πρότερον, ἀλλὰ κατὰ τὰς τέτταρας τὰς τοπικὰς τὰς ὑφ' ἑαυτοῦ διαταχθείσας ἐποιεῖτο, ἡγεμόνας ἐφ' ἑκάστης ἀποδείξας συμμορίας, ὥσπερ φυλάρχους ἢ κωμάρχας, οἷς προσέταξεν εἰδέναι, ποίαν οἰκίαν ἕκαστος οἰκεῖ. ^[3] ἔπειτα κατὰ πάντας ἐκέλευσε τοὺς στενωποὺς ἱερὰ ἐγκατασκευασθῆναι καλιάδας ὑπὸ τῶν γειτόνων ἡρώσι προνωπίοις καὶ θυσίας αὐτοῖς ἐνομοθέτησεν ἐπιτελεῖσθαι καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν πελάνους εἰσφερούσης ἑκάστης οἰκίας: τοῖς δὲ τὰ περὶ τῶν γεινόνων ἱερὰ συντελοῦσιν ἐν τοῖς προνωπίοις οὐ τοὺς ἐλευθέρους, ἀλλὰ τοὺς δούλους ἔταξε παρῆναι τε καὶ συνιουργεῖν, ὡς κεχαρισμένης τοῖς ἡρώσι τῆς τῶν θεραπόντων ὑπηρεσίας: ^[4] ἦν ἔτι καὶ καθ' ἡμᾶς ἐορτὴν ἄγοντες Ῥωμαῖοι διετέλουν ὀλίγαις ὕστερον ἡμέραις τῶν Κρονίων, σεμνὴν ἐν τοῖς πάνυ καὶ πολυτελεῇ, Κομπιτάλια προσαγορεύοντες αὐτὴν ἐπὶ τῶν στενωπῶν: κομπίτους γὰρ τοὺς στενωποὺς καλοῦσι: καὶ φυλάττουσι τὸν ἀρχαῖον ἐθισμόν ἐπὶ τῶν ἱερῶν, διὰ τῶν θεραπόντων τοὺς ἡρώας ἰλασκόμενοι καὶ ἅπαν τὸ δοῦλον ἀφαιροῦντες αὐτῶν ἐν ταῖς ἡμέραις ἐκείναις, ἵνα τῇ φιλανθρωπίᾳ ταύτῃ [p. 28] τιθασσεύομενοι μέγα τι καὶ σεμνὸν ἐχούσῃ χαριέστεροι γίνωνται περὶ τοὺς δεσπότας καὶ τὰ λυπηρὰ τῆς τύχης ἦττον βαρύνωνται.

εἰσηγήσατο καὶ μεγίστων Ῥωμαῖος ἀγαθῶν αἴτιον, ὥς 3 τὰ ἔργα ἐδήλωσε. [2] τὸ δὲ πολίτευμα τοιόνδε ἦν: μίαν ἀφεῖλεν ἐξ ἀπάντων μοῖραν, ἥς τὸ μέγιστον ἦν τίμημα τῆς οὐσίας οὐκ ἔλαττον ἑκατὸν μνῶν. τούτους δὲ συντάξας εἰς ὀγδοήκοντα λόχους ὅπλα φέρειν ἐπέταξεν Ἀργολικὰς καὶ δόρατα καὶ κράνη χάλκεα καὶ θώρακας καὶ κνημίδας καὶ ξίφη. διελὼν δ' αὐτοὺς [p. 31] διχῇ, τετταράκοντα μὲν ἐποίησε νεωτέρων λόχους, οἷς τὰς ὑπαιθρίους ἀπέδωκε στρατείας, τετταράκοντα δὲ πρεσβυτέρων, οὓς ἔδει τῆς νεότητος εἰς πόλεμον ἐξιούσης ὑπομένοντας ἐν τῇ πόλει τὰ ἐντὸς τείχους φυλάττειν. [3] αὕτη πρώτη σύνταξις ἦν: χώραν δὲ κατεῖχεν ἐν τοῖς πολέμοις τὴν προαγωνιζομένην τῆς φάλαγγος ὅλης. ἔπειτ' ἐκ τῶν ὑπολειπομένων ἑτέραν ἀφῆρει μοῖραν, οἷς ἦν ἐντὸς μὲν μυρίων δραχμῶν, οὐ μείον δὲ πέντε καὶ ἑβδομήκοντα μνῶν τὸ τίμημα. συντάξας δὲ τούτους εἰς εἴκοσι λόχους τὰ μὲν ἄλλα φορεῖν ὅπλα προσέταξεν, ὅσα τοὺς προτέρους, τοὺς δὲ θώρακας αὐτῶν ἀφεῖλε, καὶ ἀντὶ τῶν ἀσπίδων ἀνέδωκε θυρεοὺς. διελὼν δὲ καὶ τούτων τοὺς ὑπὲρ τετταράκοντα καὶ πέντε ἔτη γεγονότας ἀπὸ τῶν ἐχόντων τὴν στρατεύσιμον ἡλικίαν, δέκα μὲν ἐποίησε λόχους νεωτέρων, οὓς ἔδει προπολεμεῖν τῆς πόλεως, δέκα δὲ πρεσβυτέρων, οἷς ἀπέδωκε τειχοφυλακεῖν. αὕτη δευτέρα σύνταξις ἦν, ἐκοσμεῖτο δ' [4] ἐν τοῖς ἀγῶσι μετὰ τοὺς προμάχους. τὴν δὲ τρίτην ἐποiei σύνταξιν ἐκ τῶν ὑπολειπομένων, ὅσοι τίμησιν εἶχον ἐλάττονα μὲν τῶν ἑπτακισχιλίων καὶ πεντακοσίων δραχμῶν, οὐ μείονα δὲ μνῶν πεντήκοντα. τούτων δ' ἐμίεισε τὸν ὀπλισμὸν οὐ μόνον τοῖς θώραξιν, [5] ὥσπερ τῶν δευτέρων, ἀλλὰ καὶ ταῖς περικνημῖσι. συνέταξε δὲ καὶ τούτους εἰς εἴκοσι λόχους καὶ διεῖλε τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον τοῖς προτέροις καθ' ἡλικίας, δέκα λόχους ἀποδοὺς τοῖς νεωτέροις καὶ δέκα τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις. [p. 32] χώρα δὲ καὶ στάσις ἦν τούτων τῶν λόχων ἐν ταῖς μάχαις ἢ μετὰ τοὺς ἐφεστῶτας τοῖς προμάχοις.

ἀφελὼν δὲ πάλιν ἐκ τῶν ὑπολειπομένων τοὺς ἐλάττω πεντακισχιλίων δραχμῶν ἔχοντας οὐσίαν ἄχρι πέντε καὶ εἴκοσι μνῶν, τετάρτην ἐποίησε μοῖραν. διέταξε δὲ καὶ τούτους εἰς εἴκοσι λόχους, καὶ δέκα μὲν ἐποίησε τῶν ἐν ἀκμῇ, δέκα δὲ τῶν ὑπερηλικίων κατὰ ταῦτά τοῖς προτέροις. ὅπλα δὲ φέρειν ἔταξεν αὐτοὺς θυρεοὺς καὶ ξίφη καὶ δόρατα καὶ στάσιν ἔχειν 4 ἐν τοῖς ἀγῶσι τὴν ὑστάτην. [2] τὴν δὲ πέμπτην μοῖραν, οἷς ἐντὸς εἴκοσι καὶ πέντε μνῶν ἄχρι δώδεκα καὶ ἡμίσεως μνῶν ὁ βίος ἦν, εἰς τριάκοντα συνέταξε λόχους. διήρηντο δὲ καὶ οὗτοι καθ' ἡλικίαν: πεντεκαίδεκα μὲν γὰρ ἐξ αὐτῶν λόχοι τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους εἶχον, πεντεκαίδεκα δὲ τοὺς νεωτέρους. τούτους ἔταξε σαυνία καὶ [3] σφενδόνας ἔχοντας ἔξω τάξεως συστρατεύεσθαι. τέτταρας δὲ λόχους οὐδὲν ἔχοντας ὅπλον ἀκολουθεῖν ἐκέλευσε τοῖς ἐνόπλοις: ἦσαν δὲ τῶν τεττάρων τούτων δύο μὲν ὀπλοποιῶν τε καὶ τεκτόνων καὶ τῶν ἄλλων τῶν κατασκευαζόντων τὰ εἰς τὸν πόλεμον εὐχρηστα: δύο δὲ σαλπιστῶν τε καὶ βυκανιστῶν καὶ τῶν ἄλλοις πισὴν ὀργάνοις ἐπισημαινόντων τὰ παρακλητικὰ τοῦ πολέμου. προσέκειντο δ' οἱ μὲν χειροτέχνηται τοῖς τὸ δεύτερον ἔχουσι τίμημα διηρημένοι καθ' ἡλικίαν, ὁ μὲν τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις, ὁ δὲ τοῖς νεωτέροις ἀκολουθῶν [4] λόχος. οἱ δὲ σαλπισταὶ τε καὶ οἱ βυκανισταὶ τῇ τετάρτῃ [p. 33] συνετάττοντο μοίρᾳ. ἦν αὕτη μὲν ἡ διακόσμησις ἦν ἡ τὸ πεζικὸν ἐκπληροῦσα τῶν τε φαλαγγιτῶν καὶ τῶν ψιλῶν στρατεύματα: τὸ δὲ τῶν ἱππέων πλῆθος ἐπέλεξε ἐκ τῶν ἐχόντων τὸ μέγιστον τίμημα καὶ κατὰ γένος ἐπιφανῶν: συνέταξε δ' εἰς ὀκτωκαίδεκα λόχους καὶ προσένειμεν αὐτοὺς τοῖς πρώτοις τῶν φαλαγγιτῶν ὀγδοήκοντα λόχοις: εἶχον δὲ καὶ οὗτοι τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους λοχαγοὺς. [2] τοὺς δὲ λοιποὺς πολίτας, οἱ τίμησιν εἶχον ἐλάττονα δώδεκα καὶ ἡμίσιους μνῶν, πλείους τὸν ἀριθμὸν ὄντας τῶν προτέρων, ἅπαντας εἰς ἓνα συντάξας λόχον στρατείας τ' ἀπέλυσε καὶ πάσης εἰσφορᾶς ἐποίησεν ἀτελεῖς. ἐγένοντο δὴ συμμορίαὶ μὲν ἕξ, ἃς Ῥωμαῖοι καλοῦσι κλάσσεις, κατὰ τὰς Ἑλληνικὰς κλήσεις παρονομάσαντες: ὃ γὰρ ἡμεῖς ῥῆμα προστακτικῶς σχηματίσαντες ἐκφέρομεν, κάλει, τοῦτ' ἐκεῖνοι λέγουσι κάλα καὶ τὰς κλάσσεις τὸ ἀρχαῖον ἐκάλουν καλέσεις: [3] λόχοι δ', οὓς αἱ συμμορίαὶ περιελάμβανον, ἑκατὸν καὶ ἑνενηκοντατρεῖς. ἐπέιχον δὲ τὴν μὲν πρώτην συμμορίαν ὀκτῶ καὶ ἑνενήκοντα λόχοι σὺν τοῖς ἱππεῦσι: τὴν δὲ [p. 34] δευτέραν εἴκοσι καὶ δύο σὺν τοῖς χειροτέχναις: τὴν δὲ τρίτην εἴκοσι: τὴν δὲ τετάρτην πάλιν εἴκοσι καὶ δύο σὺν τοῖς σαλπισταῖς καὶ βυκανισταῖς: τὴν δὲ πέμπτην τριάκοντα: τὴν δ' ἐπὶ πάσαις τεταγμένην εἷς λόχος ὁ τῶν ἀπόρων.

ταύτη τῇ διακοσμήσει χρησάμενος τὰς μὲν τῶν στρατιωτῶν καταγραφὰς κατὰ τὴν διαιρέσιν ἐποιεῖτο τὴν τῶν λόχων, τὰς δὲ τῶν εἰσφορῶν ἐπιταγὰς κατὰ τὰ τιμήματα τῶν βίων. ὅποτε γὰρ αὐτῷ δεήσειε μυρίων ἢ δισμυρίων, εἰ τύχοι, στρατιωτῶν, καταδιαιρῶν τὸ πλῆθος εἰς τοὺς ἑκατὸν ἑνενηκοντατρεῖς λόχους τὸ ἐπιβάλλον ἐκάστῳ λόχῳ πλῆθος ἐκέλευε παρέχειν ἕκαστον λόχον: τὴν δὲ δαπάνην τὴν εἰς τὸν ἐπισιτισμὸν τῶν στρατευομένων καὶ εἰς τὰς ἄλλας χορηγίας τὰς πολεμικὰς ἐπιτελεσθησομένην συμμετρησάμενος, ὅποση τις ἀρκοῦσα ἔσται, διαιρῶν τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον εἰς τοὺς ἑκατὸν ἑνενηκοντατρεῖς λόχους, τὸ ἐκ τῆς τιμήσεως ἐπιβάλλον ἐκάστῳ διάφορον ἅπαντας ἐκέλευεν εἰσφέρειν. [2] συνέβαινεν οὖν τοῖς τὰς μεγίστας ἔχουσιν οὐσίας ἐλάττοσι μὲν οὖσιν, εἰς πλείονας δὲ λόχους μεμερισμένοις, στρατεῦσθαι τε πλείους στρατείας οὐδέποτε ἀναπαυομένους καὶ χρήματα πλείω τῶν ἄλλων εἰσφέρειν: τοῖς δὲ τὰ μέτρια καὶ μικρὰ κεκτημένοις πλείοσιν οὖσιν ἓν ἐλάττοσι λόχοις, στρατεῦσθαι τ' ὀλιγάκις καὶ ἐκ διαδοχῆς καὶ βραχείας συντελεῖν εἰσφοράς: [p. 35] τοῖς δ' ἐλάττω τῶν ἱκανῶν κεκτημένοις ἀφεῖσθαι πάντων ὀχληρῶν. [3] ἐποίει δὲ τούτων ἕκαστον οὐκ ἄτερ αἰτίας, ἀλλὰ πεπεισμένος, ὅτι πᾶσιν ἀνθρώποις ἄθλα τῶν πολέμων ἐστὶ τὰ χρήματα καὶ περὶ τῆς τούτων φυλακῆς ἅπαντες κακοπαθοῦσιν: ὀρθῶς οὖν ἔχειν ὥετο τοὺς μὲν περὶ μειζόνων κινδυνεύοντας ἄθλων μείζονας ὑπομένειν κακοπαθείας τοῖς τε σώμασι καὶ τοῖς χρήμασι, τοὺς δὲ περὶ ἐλαττόνων ἥττον ἐνοχλεῖσθαι κατ' ἀμφοτέρα, τοὺς δὲ περὶ μηδενὸς δεδοικότας μηδὲν κακοπαθεῖν, τῶν μὲν εἰσφορῶν ἀπολυομένους διὰ τὴν ἀπορίαν, τῶν δὲ στρατειῶν διὰ τὴν ἀνείσφοριαν. οὐ γὰρ ἐλάμβανον ἐκ τοῦ δημοσίου τότε Ῥωμαῖοι

τοῦτον δὲ τὸν τρόπον ἅπαν ἐπιθείς τὸ βάρος τοῖς πλουσίοις τῶν τε κινδύνων καὶ τῶν ἀναλωμάτων, ὥς εἶδεν ἀγανακτοῦντας αὐτούς, δι' ἑτέρου τρόπου τὴν τ' ἀθυμίαν αὐτῶν παρεμυθήσατο καὶ τὴν ὀργὴν ἐπράννε πλεονέκτημα δωρησάμενος, ἐξ οὗ πάσης ἔμελλον τῆς πολιτείας ἔσεσθαι κύριοι, τοὺς πένητας ἀπελάσας ἀπὸ τῶν κοινῶν: καὶ τοῦτο διαπραξάμενος ἔλαθε [p. 36] τοὺς δημοτικούς. ἦν δὲ τὸ πλεονέκτημα περὶ τὰς ἐκκλησίας, ἐν αἷς τὰ μέγιστα ἐπεκυροῦτο ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου. ^[2] εἰρήται δέ μοι καὶ πρότερον, ὅτι τριῶν πραγμάτων ὁ δῆμος ἐκ τῶν παλαιῶν νόμων κύριος ἦν τῶν μεγίστων τε καὶ ἀναγκαιοτάτων, ἀρχὰς ἀποδεῖξαι τὰς τε κατὰ πόλιν καὶ τὰς ἐπὶ στρατοπέδου, καὶ νόμους τοὺς μὲν ἐπικυρῶσαι, τοὺς δ' ἀνελεῖν, καὶ περὶ πολέμου συνισταμένου τε καὶ καταλυομένου διαγνῶναι. τὴν δὲ περὶ τούτων διάσκεψιν καὶ κρίσιν ἐποιεῖτο κατὰ τὰς φράτρας ψηφοφόρων: καὶ ἦσαν οἱ τάλανιστα κεκτημένοι τοῖς τὰς μεγίστας ἔχουσιν οὐσίας ἰσοψηφοί: ὀλίγων δ' ὄντων, ὥσπερ εἰκός, τῶν πλουσίων, οἱ πένητες ἐν ταῖς ψηφοφορίαις ἐπεκράτουν μακρῷ πλείους ὄντες ἐκείνων. ^[3] τοῦτο συνιδὼν ὁ Τύλλιος ἐπὶ τοὺς πλουσίους μετέθηκε τὸ τῶν ψήφων κράτος. ὁπότε γὰρ ἀρχὰς ἀποδεικνύειν ἢ περὶ νόμου διαγινώσκειν ἢ πόλεμον ἐκφέρειν δόξειεν αὐτῷ, τὴν λοχίτιν ἀντὶ τῆς φρατρικῆς συνῆγεν ἐκκλησίαν. ἐκάλει δ' εἰς ἀπόφασιν γνώμης πρῶτους μὲν λόχους τοὺς ἀπὸ τοῦ μεγίστου τιμήματος καταγραφέντας, ἐν οἷς ἦσαν οἱ τε τῶν ἱππέων ὀκτωκαίδεκα καὶ οἱ τῶν πεζῶν ὀγδοήκοντα. ^[4] οὗτοι τρισὶ πλείους ὄντες τῶν ὑπολειπομένων εἰ ταῦτο φρονήσειαν, ἐκράτουν τῶν ἑτέρων καὶ τέλος εἶχεν ἡ γνώμη: εἰ δὲ μὴ γένοιτο ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς προαιρέσεως ἅπαντες οὗτοι, τότε τοὺς ἀπὸ τοῦ δευτέρου τιμήματος εἴκοσι καὶ δύο λόχους ἐκάλει. μερισθειῶν δὲ καὶ [p. 37] τότε τῶν ψήφων τοὺς ἀπὸ τοῦ τρίτου τιμήματος ἐκάλει: καὶ τετάρτους τοὺς ἀπὸ τοῦ τετάρτου τιμήματος. καὶ τοῦτ' ἐποίει μέχρι τοῦ γενέσθαι λόχους ἑπτὰ καὶ ἑνενήκοντα ἰσοψήφους. εἰ δὲ μέχρι τῆς πέμπτης κλήσεως ^[5] μὴ τύχοι τοῦτο γένόμενον, ἀλλ' εἰς ἴσα μέρη σχισθεῖεν αἱ τῶν ἑκατὸν ἑνενήκοντα δύο λόχων γνώμαι, τότε τὸν ἔσχατον ἐκάλει λόχον, ἐν ᾧ τὸ τῶν ἀπόρων καὶ διὰ τοῦτ' ἀφειμένων ἀπάσης στρατείας τε καὶ εἰσφορᾶς πολιτῶν πλῆθος ἦν: ὁποτέρᾳ δὲ προσθοῖτο τῶν μερίδων οὗτος ὁ λόχος, αὕτη τὸ κράτος ἐλάμβανε. τοῦτο δ' ἦν σπάνιον καὶ οὐ μακρὰν ἀπέχον τὰδυνάτου. τὰ πολλὰ μὲν γὰρ ἐπὶ τῆς πρώτης κλήσεως τέλος ἐλάμβανεν, ὀλίγα δὲ μέχρι τῆς τετάρτης προὔβαινεν: ἢ δὲ πέμπτη κλήσις καὶ ἡ τελευταία παρεῖλκοντο.

ἕκαστοι λόχοις, ἐξηπατῶντο δὲ τῷ μίαν εἶναι ψῆφον ὅλου τοῦ λόχου τοῦ τ' ὀλίγους ἔχοντος ἐν αὐτῷ πολίτας καὶ τοῦ πάνυ πολλούς: καὶ τῷ πρώτους ἐπιφέρειν ψῆφον τοὺς τὸ μέγιστον ἔχοντας τίμημα λόχους, πλείους μὲν ὄντας τῶν ὑπολειπομένων, ἐλάττωνα δ' ἀριθμὸν ἀνθρώπων ἔχοντας: μάλιστα δὲ τῷ τοὺς ἀπόρους μίαν ψῆφον ἔχειν πολλοὺς ὄντας καὶ τελευταίους καλεῖσθαι. [2] γενομένου [p. 38] δὲ τούτου τοῖς μὲν πλουσίοις τοῖς πολλὰ δαπανωμένοις καὶ μηδεμίαν ἀνάπαισιν τῶν πολεμικῶν κινδύνων λαμβάνουσιν ἦττον ἐσθίει βαρύνεσθαι κυρίους τε γεγονόσι τῶν μεγίστων καὶ πᾶν τὸ κράτος ἀφηρημένοις τῶν μὴ ταῦτ' αἰοῦντων: τοῖς δὲ πένησι τοῖς πολλοστέην ἔχουσι τῶν πολιτικῶν μοῖραν εὐλογίστως καὶ πρῶτος φέρειν τὴν ἐν τούτοις ἐλάττωσιν, ἀφειμένοις τῶν εἰσφορῶν καὶ τῶν στρατειῶν: τῇ δὲ πόλει τοὺς αὐτοὺς ἔχειν τοὺς βουλευσομένους θ' ὑπὲρ αὐτῆς ἃ δεῖ, καὶ τοὺς τῶν κινδύνων πλείστον τῶν ἄλλων μεταλαχόντας καὶ πράξοντας ὅσα δεῖ. [3] οὗτος ὁ κόσμος τοῦ πολιτεύματος ἐπὶ πολλὰς διέμενε γενεὰς φυλαττόμενος ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων: ἐν δὲ τοῖς καθ' ἡμᾶς κεκίνηται χρόνοις καὶ μεταβέβληκεν εἰς τὸ δημοτικώτερον, ἀνάγκαις πσι βιασθεῖς ἰσχυραῖς, οὐ τῶν λόχων καταλυθέντων, ἀλλὰ τῆς κλήσεως αὐτῶν οὐκέτι τὴν ἀρχαίαν ἀκριβείαν φυλαττοῦσης, ὡς ἔγνω ταῖς ἀρχαιρεσίαις αὐτῶν πολλάκις παρῶν. ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ μὲν τούτων οὐχ ὁ παρῶν καιρὸς ἀρμόττων τοῖς λόγοις.

τότε δ' οὖν ὁ Τύλλιος ἐπειδὴ διέταξε τὸ περὶ τὰς τιμῆσεις, κελεύσας τοὺς πολίτας ἅπαντας συνελθεῖν εἰς τὸ μέγιστον τῶν πρὸ τῆς πόλεως πεδίων ἔχοντας τὰ ὅπλα καὶ τάξας τοὺς θ' ἱππεῖς κατὰ τέλη καὶ τοὺς πεζοὺς ἐν φάλαγγι καὶ τοὺς ἐσταλμένους τὸν [p. 39] ψιλικὸν ὀπλισμὸν ἐν τοῖς ἰδίοις ἐκάστους λόχοις καθαρμὸν αὐτῶν ἐποίησατο ταύρῳ καὶ κριῷ καὶ τράγῳ. τὰ δ' ἱερεῖα ταῦτα τρεῖς περιαχθῆναι περὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον κελεύσας ἔθυσσε τῷ κατέχοντι τὸ πεδίον Ἄρει. [2] τοῦτον τὸν καθαρμὸν ἕως τῶν κατ' ἐμὲ χρόνων Ῥωμαῖοι καθαίρονται μετὰ τὴν συντέλειαν τῶν τιμήσεων ὑπὸ τῶν ἐχόντων τὴν ἱερωτάτην ἀρχὴν Λοῦστρον ὀνομάζοντες. ἐγένετο δ' ὁ σύμπας τῶν τιμησαμένων τοὺς βίους Ῥωμαίων ἀριθμὸς, ὡς ἐν τοῖς τιμητικοῖς φέρεται γράμμασιν, ἐπὶ μυριάσιν ὀκτὼ χιλιάδες πέντε τριακοσίων ἀποδέουσαι. [3] ἐποίησατο δὲ καὶ τῆς αὐξήσεως τοῦ πολιτικοῦ συντάγματος οὐ μικρὰν πρόνοιαν οὗτος ὁ βασιλεὺς πρᾶγμα συνιδὼν, ὃ παρέλιπον ἅπαντες οἱ πρὸ αὐτοῦ βασιλεῖς. ἐκείνοι μὲν γὰρ τοὺς ξένους ὑποδεχόμενοι καὶ μεταδιδόντες τῆς ἰσοπολιτείας φύσιν τ' ἢ τύχην αὐτῶν οὐδεμίαν ἀπαξιοῦντες, εἰς πολυανθρωπίαν προήγαγον τὴν πόλιν. [4] ὁ δὲ Τύλλιος καὶ τοῖς ἐλευθερουμένοις τῶν θεραπόντων, ἐὰν μὴ θέλωσιν εἰς τὰς ἑαυτῶν πόλεις ἀπιέναι, μετέχειν τῆς ἰσοπολιτείας ἐπέτρεψε. κελεύσας γὰρ ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις ἅπασιν ἐλευθέροις καὶ τούτους τιμήσασθαι τὰς οὐσίας, εἰς φυλὰς κατέταξεν αὐτοὺς τὰς κατὰ πόλιν τέτταρας ὑπαρχούσας, ἐν αἷς καὶ μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων ταπτόμενον διατελεῖ τὸ ἐξελευθερικὸν φύλον, ὅσον ἂν ᾖ: καὶ πάντων [p. 40] ἀπέδωκε τῶν κοινῶν αὐτοῖς μετέχειν, ὧν τοῖς ἄλλοις δημοτικοῖς.

ἀγανακτοῦντων, εἰ τῇ φύσει τὸ ἐλεύθερον οἶονται τοῦ δούλου διαφέρειν, ἀλλ' οὐ τῇ τύχῃ: ἔπειτ' εἰ μὴ τοῖς ἡθεσι καὶ τοῖς τρόποις ἐξετάζουσι τοὺς ἀξίους τῶν καλῶν, ἀλλὰ ταῖς συντυχίαις, ὁρῶντες ὡς ἀστάθμητόν ἐστι πρᾶγμα εὐτυχία καὶ ἀγχιστροφον, καὶ οὐδενὶ ῥάδιον εἰπεῖν οὐδὲ τῶν πάνυ μακαρίων μέχρι τίνος αὐτῷ [2] παρέσται χρόνου. ἤξιον τ' αὐτοὺς σκοπεῖν, ὅσαι μὲν ἦδη πόλεις ἐκ δουλείας μετέβαλον εἰς ἐλευθερίαν βάρβαροί τε καὶ Ἑλληνίδες, ὅσαι δ' εἰς δουλείαν ἐξ ἐλευθερίας: εὐήθειάν τε πολλὴν αὐτῶν κατεγίνωσκεν, εἰ τῆς ἐλευθερίας τοῖς ἀξίοις τῶν θεραπόντων μεταδιδόντες, τῆς πολιτείας φθονοῦσι: συνεβούλευέ τ' αὐτοῖς, εἰ μὲν πονηροὺς νομίζουσι, μὴ ποιεῖν ἐλευθέρους, εἰ [3] δὲ χρηστοὺς, μὴ περιορᾶν ὄντας ἄλλοτρίους: ἄτοπόν τε πρᾶγμα ποιεῖν αὐτοὺς ἔφη καὶ ἀμαθὲς ἅπασι τοῖς ξένοις ἐπιτρέποντας τῆς πόλεως μετέχειν καὶ μὴ διακρίνοντας αὐτῶν τὰς τύχας μηδ' εἴ τινες ἐκ δούλων ἐγένοντο ἐλεύθεροι πολυπραγμονοῦντας, τοὺς δὲ παρὰ σφίσι δεδουλευκότας ἀναξίους ἡγεῖσθαι ταύτης τῆς χάριτος: φρονήσει τε διαφέρειν οἰομένους τῶν ἄλλων οὐδὲ τὰ ἐν ποσὶ καὶ κοινότατα ὁρᾶν ἔφασκεν, ἃ καὶ τοῖς φαυλοτάτοις εἶναι πρόδηλα, ὅτι τοῖς μὲν δεσπόταις [p. 41] πολλὴ φροντίς ἔσται τοῦ μὴ προχειρῶς τινὰς ἐλευθεροῦν, ὡς τὰ μέγιστα τῶν ἐν ἀνθρώποις ἀγαθῶν οἷς ἔτυχε δωρησόμενοις: τοῖς δὲ δούλοις ἔτι μείζων ὑπάρξει προθυμία χρηστοῖς εἶναι περὶ τοὺς δεσπότας, ἐὰν μάθωσιν, ὅτι τῆς ἐλευθερίας ἄξιοι κριθέντες εὐδαίμονος εὐθέως καὶ μεγάλης ἔσονται πολῖται πόλεως, καὶ ταῦθ' ἔξουσιν ἀμφοτέρω παρὰ τῶν δεσποτῶν τάγαθά. [4] τελευτῶν δὲ τὸν περὶ τοῦ συμφέροντος εἰσηγήσατο λόγον τοὺς μὲν ἐπισταμένους ὑπομιμνήσκων, τοὺς δ' ἄγνοοῦντας διδάσκων, ὅτι πόλει δυναστείας ἐφιεμένη καὶ μεγάλων πραγμάτων ἐαυτὴν ἀξιούσῃ οὐδενὸς οὕτω δεῖ πράγματος ὡς πολυανθρωπίας, ἵνα διαρκέσῃ πρὸς πάντας τοὺς πολέμους οἰκείοις ὅπλοις χρωμένη, καὶ μὴ ξενικοῖς στρατεύμασι καταμισθοφοροῦσα συνεξαναλωθῇ τοῖς χρήμασι: καὶ διὰ τοῦτ' ἔφη τοὺς προτέρους βασιλεῖς ἅπασι μεταδεδωκέναι τῆς πολιτείας τοῖς ξένοις. [5] εἰ δὲ καὶ τοῦτον καταστήσονται τὸν νόμον, πολλὴν αὐτοῖς ἔλεγεν ἐκ τῶν ἐλευθερουμένων ἐπιτραφήσεσθαι νεότητα καὶ οὐδέποτε ἀπορήσειν τὴν πόλιν οἰκείων ὅπλων, ἀλλ' ἔξειν δυνάμεις αἰεὶ διαρκεῖς, κἂν πρὸς πάντας ἀνθρώπους ἀναγκασθῇ πολεμεῖν. [6] χωρὶς δὲ τοῦ κοινῇ χρησίμου καὶ ἰδίᾳ πολλὰ ὠφελήσεσθαι τοὺς εὐπορωτάτους Ῥωμαίων, ἐὰν τοὺς ἀπελευθέρους ἑῷσι τῆς πολιτείας μετέχειν, ἐν ἐκκλησίαις τε καὶ ψηφοφορίαις καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις πολιτικαῖς χρεῖαις τὰς χάριτας, ἐν οἷς μάλιστα δέονται πράγμασι, κομιζομένους [p. 42] καὶ τοὺς ἐκ τῶν ἀπελευθέρων γινομένους πελάτας τοῖς ἐγγόνις τοῖς ἐαυτῶν καταλείποντας. [7] τοιαῦτα λέγοντος αὐτοῦ συνεχώρησαν οἱ πατρίκιοι τὸ ἔθος εἰς τὴν πόλιν παρελθεῖν, καὶ μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων ὡς ἐν τι τῶν ἱερῶν καὶ ἀκινήτων νομίμων διατελεῖ τοῦτ' ἐν τῇ πόλει φυλαττόμενον.

ῥιπτοῦντας εἰκῇ τὰ καλὰ. [2] ἐτύγχανον δὴ τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις αἱ τῶν θεραπόντων κτήσεις κατὰ τοὺς δικαιοτάτους γινόμεναι τρόπους. ἢ γὰρ ὠνησάμενοι παρὰ τοῦ δημοσίου τοὺς ὑπὸ δόρυ πωλουμένους ἐκ τῶν λαφύρων, ἢ τοῦ στρατηγοῦ συγχωρήσαντος ἅμα ταῖς ἄλλαις ὠφελείαις καὶ τοὺς δορυαλώτους τοῖς λαβοῦσιν ἔχειν ἢ πριαμένοις παρ' ἐτέρων κατὰ τοὺς αὐτοὺς τρόπους κυρίων γενομένων 5 ἐκέκτηντο τοὺς δούλους. [3] οὐδὲν δὲ πρᾶγμα ποιεῖν αἰσχύνῃς ἢ βλάβης κοινῆς αἴτιον οὐθ' ὁ Τύλλιος ὁ καταστησάμενος τὸ ἔθος οὐθ' οἱ παραδεξάμενοι καὶ διαφυλάξαντες ὦντο, εἰ τοῖς ἀφαιρεθεῖσιν ἐν πολέμῳ τὴν τε πατρίδα καὶ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν χρηστοῖς γενομένοις περὶ τοὺς καταδουλωσαμένους ἢ τοὺς παρὰ τούτων [p. 43] πριαμένους ἀμφοτέρα ταῦτα παρὰ τῶν δεσποτῶν ὑπάρξει. [4] ἐτύγχανον δὲ τῆς ἐλευθερίας οἱ μὲν πλεῖστοι προῖκα διὰ καλοκάγαθίαν· καὶ κράτιστος ἀπαλλαγῆς δεσποτῶν τρόπος οὗτος ἦν· ὀλίγοι δὲ τινες λύτρα κατατιθέντες ἐξ ὁσίων καὶ δικαίων ἐργασιῶν συναχθέντα. ἀλλ' οὐκ ἐν τοῖς καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνοις οὕτω ταῦτ' ἔχει, ἀλλ' εἰς τοσαύτην σύγχυσιν ἤκει τὰ πράγματα καὶ τὰ καλὰ τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως οὕτως ἄτιμα καὶ ῥυπαρὰ γέγονεν, ὥσθ' οἱ μὲν ἀπὸ ληστείας καὶ τοιχωρυχίας καὶ πορνείας καὶ παντὸς ἄλλου πονηροῦ πόρου χρηματισάμενοι τούτων ὠνοῦνται τῶν χρημάτων τὴν ἐλευθερίαν καὶ εὐθύς εἰσι Ῥωμαῖοι· [5] οἱ δὲ συνίστορες καὶ συνεργοὶ τοῖς δεσπótαις γενόμενοι φαρμακειῶν καὶ ἀνδροφονιῶν καὶ τῶν εἰς θεοὺς ἢ τὸ κοινὸν ἀδικημάτων ταύτας φέρονται παρ' αὐτῶν τὰς χάριτας· οἱ δ' ἵνα τὸν δημοσίᾳ διδόμενον σῖτον λαμβάνοντες κατὰ μῆνα καὶ εἴ τις ἄλλη παρὰ τῶν ἡγουμένων γίγνοιτο τοῖς ἀπόροις τῶν πολιτῶν φιланθρωπία φέρωσι τοῖς δεδωκόσι τὴν ἐλευθερίαν· οἱ δὲ διὰ [6] κουφότητα τῶν δεσποτῶν καὶ κενὴν δοξοκοπίαν. ἔγωγ' οὖν ἐπίσταμαι τινὰς ἅπασι τοῖς δούλοις συγκεχωρηκότας εἶναι ἐλευθέρους μετὰ τὰς ἑαυτῶν τελευτάς, ἵνα χρηστοὶ καλῶνται νεκροὶ καὶ πολλοὶ ταῖς κλίναις αὐτῶν ἐκκομιζομέναις παρακολουθῶσι τοὺς πῖλους ἔχοντες ἐπὶ ταῖς κεφαλαῖς· ἐν οἷς ἐπόμεπυόν τινες, ὡς ἦν [p. 44] παρὰ τῶν ἐπισταμένων ἀκούειν, ἐκ τῶν δεσμωτηρίων ἐξεληλυθότες ἀρτίως κακοῦργοι μυρίων ἄξια διαπεπραγμένοι θανάτων. εἰς τούτους μέντοι τοὺς δυσεκκαθάρτους σπῖλους ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἀποβλέποντες οἱ πολλοὶ δυσχεραίνουσι καὶ προβέβληνται τὸ ἔθος, ὡς οὐ πρόπον ἡγεμονικῇ πόλει καὶ παντὸς ἄρχειν ἀξιοῦσθαι [7] τόπου τοιούτους ποιεῖσθαι πολίτας. ἔχοι δ' ἂν τις πολλὰ καὶ ἄλλα διαβαλεῖν ἔθῃ καλῶς μὲν ὑπὸ τῶν ἀρχαίων ἐπινοηθέντα, κακῶς δ' ὑπὸ τῶν νῦν ἐπιτρίβόμενα. ἐγὼ δὲ τὸν νόμον τοῦτον οὐκ οἶομαι δεῖν ἀναιρεῖν, μὴ τι μεῖζον ἐκραγῇ τῷ κοινῷ δι' αὐτοῦ κακόν· ἐπανορθοῦσθαι μέντοι φημὶ δεῖν τὰ δυνατὰ καὶ μὴ περιορᾶν ὄνειδη μεγάλα καὶ ῥύπους δυσεκκαθάρτους εἰς τὴν πολιτείαν εἰσαγομένους. [8] καὶ μάλιστα μὲν τοὺς τιμητὰς ἀξιώσαιμ' ἂν τούτου τοῦ μέρους προνοεῖν· εἰ δὲ μὴ γε, τοὺς ὑπάτους· δεῖ γὰρ ἀρχῆς τινος μεγάλης· οἱ τοὺς καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ἐλευθέρους γινόμενους ἐξετάσουσι, τίνες ὄντες καὶ διὰ τί καὶ πῶς ἡλευθερώθησαν, ὥσπερ γε τοὺς τῶν ἱππέων καὶ τοὺς τῶν βουλευτῶν βίου ἐξετάζουσιν· ἔπειθ' οὐς μὲν ἂν εὖρωσιν ἀξίους τῆς πόλεως ὄντας, εἰς φυλάς καταγράψουσι καὶ μένειν ἐφήσουσιν ἐν τῇ πόλει· τὸ δὲ μισρὸν καὶ

πιθέντες, ἀποικίαν. [p. 45] ταῦτα μὲν οὖν τῆς ὑποθέσεως ἀπαιτοῦσης ἀναγκαῖον τε καὶ δίκαιον ἔδοξεν εἶναι μοι πρὸς τοὺς ἐπιτιμῶντας τοῖς

γνοὺς δὲ ταῦτα τοὺς κρατίστους ἄνδρας ἐξ ἑκάστης πόλεως συνεκάλει περὶ μεγάλων καὶ κοινῶν φήσας πραγμάτων συμβούλους αὐτοὺς συγκαλεῖν. ἐπεὶ δὲ συνήλθον, συναγαγὼν τὴν τε Ῥωμαίων βουλὴν καὶ τοὺς ἀπὸ τῶν πόλεων ἦκοντας λόγον διεξῆλθε παρακλητικὸν ὁμονοίας, διδάσκων ὡς καλὸν μὲν χρῆμα πολλὰ πόλεις μιᾷ γνώμῃ χρώμεναι, αἰσχροῖ δ' ὄψις συγγενῶν ἀλλήλαις διαφερομένων: αἷτιόν τ' ἰσχύος μὲν ταῖς ἀσθενέσιν ἀποφαίνων ὁμοφροσύνην, ταπεινότητος δὲ καὶ ἀσθενείας καὶ ταῖς πάνυ ἰσχυραῖς ἀλληλοφθορίαν. [2] ταῦτα διεξελθὼν ἐδίδασκεν αὐτοὺς, ὡς [p. 48] χρὴ Λατίνους μὲν τῶν προσοικῶν ἄρχειν καὶ τὰ δίκαια τάττειν Ἑλλήνας ὄντας βαρβάρους: Ῥωμαίους δὲ τὴν ἀπάντων Λατίνων ἔχειν προστασίαν μεγέθει τε πόλεως προὔχοντας καὶ πραγμάτων ὄγκῳ καὶ τῇ προνοίᾳ τοῦ δαιμονίου κρείττονι κεκρημένους ἐκείνων, δι' ἣν εἰς τοσαύτην ἐπιφάνειαν προῆλθον. [3] τοιαῦτα διεξελθὼν συνεβούλευεν αὐτοῖς ἱερὸν ἄσυλον ἀπὸ κοινῶν ἀναλωμάτων ἐν Ῥώμῃ κατασκευάσασθαι, ἐν ᾧ θύσουσι θ' αἱ πόλεις συνερχόμεναι καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ἰδίας τε καὶ κοινὰς θυσίας καὶ πανηγύρεις ἄξουσιν, ἐν οἷς ἂν ὀρίσωσι χρόνοις, καί, εἴ τι γένοιτο πρόσκρουσμα αὐταῖς πρὸς ἀλλήλας, ἐκ τῶν ἱερῶν τοῦτο διαλύσονται, ταῖς ἄλλαις πόλεσιν ἐπιτρέψασαι τὰ ἐγκλήματα διαγνῶναι. [4] διεξιὼν ταῦτα τε καὶ ὅσα ἄλλα ἔξουσιν ἀγαθὰ βουλευτήριον ἐγκαταστήσάμενοι πάντα ἔπεισε τοὺς ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ παρόντας: καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο κατεσκεύασεν ἐξ ὧν ἅπασαι συνήνεγκαν αἱ πόλεις χρημάτων τὸν τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος νεών, τὸν ἐπὶ τοῦ μεγίστου τῶν ἐν τῇ Ῥώμῃ λόφων ἰδρυμένον Αὐεντίνου: καὶ τοὺς νόμους συνέγραψε ταῖς πόλεσι πρὸς ἀλλήλας καὶ τᾶλλα τὰ περὶ τὴν ἐορτὴν καὶ πανηγυρίν, ὃν ἐπιτελεσθήσεται τρόπον, ἔταξεν. [5] ἵνα δὲ μηδεὶς χρόνος αὐτοὺς ἀφανίσῃ, στήλην κατασκευάσας χαλκῇν ἔγραψεν ἐν ταύτῃ τὰ τε δόξαντα τοῖς συνέδροις καὶ τὰς μετεχούσας τῆς [p. 49] συνόδου πόλεις. αὕτη διέμεινεν ἡ στήλη μέχρι τῆς ἐμῆς ἡλικίας ἐν τῷ τῆς Ἀρτέμιδος ἱερῷ κειμένη γραμμάτων ἔχουσα χαρακτηῖρας Ἑλληνικῶν, οἷς τὸ παλαιὸν ἡ Ἑλλὰς ἐχρῆτο. ὃ καὶ αὐτὸ ποιήσαιτ' ἂν τις οὐ μικρὸν τεκμήριον τοῦ μὴ βαρβάρους εἶναι τοὺς οἰκίσαντας τὴν Ῥώμην. οὐ γὰρ ἂν Ἑλληνικοῖς ἐχρῶντο γράμμασιν ὄντες βάρβαροι. [6] πολιτικά μὲν δὴ πράξεις τοῦ βασιλέως τούτου σὺν ἄλλαις πολλαῖς ἐλάττοσί τε καὶ ἀμαυροτέραις αἱ μέγισται καὶ λαμπρόταται αὗται μνημονεύονται, πολεμικαὶ δ' αἱ πρὸς ἐν τὸ Τυρρηνῶν ἔθνος γενόμεναι, περὶ ὧν μέλλω νῦν διεξιέναι.

μετὰ τὴν ταρκυνίου τελευτὴν αἱ παραδοῦσαι τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ἐκείνῳ πόλεις οὐκέτι φυλάττειν ἐβούλοντο τὰς ὁμολογίας Τυλλίῳ τ' οὐκ ἀξιοῦσαι ταπεινῶ κατὰ γένος ὄντι ὑπακοῦειν, καὶ τὴν διαφορὰν τῶν πατρικίων τὴν πρὸς τὸν ἡγεμόνα γενομένην μεγάλην σφίσιν ὠφέλειαν παρέξειν νομίζουσαι. [2] ἥρξαντο δὲ τῆς ἀποστάσεως οἱ καλούμενοι Οὐιεντανοὶ καὶ τοῖς ἐλθοῦσι παρὰ τοῦ Τυλλίου πρεσβευταῖς ἀπεκρίναντο μηδεμίαν εἶναι σφισι πρὸς ἐκεῖνον μὴθ' ὑπὲρ ἡγεμονίας παραχωρήσεως μήτε περὶ φιλίας καὶ συμμαχίας συνθήκην. ἀρξάντων δὲ τούτων Καιρητανοὶ τ' ἠκολούθησαν καὶ Ταρκυνιῆται, καὶ τελευτῶσα ἐν ὅπλοις ἦν ἅπανα ἡ Τυρρηνία. [3] οὗτος ὁ πόλεμος εἴκοσι διέμεινεν ἔτη συνεχῶς πολεμούμενος εἰσβολὰς τε πολλὰς ἀμφοτέρων μεγάλους στρατεύμασι ποιουμένων εἰς τὴν [p. 50] ἀλλήλων καὶ παρατάξεις ἄλλας ἐπ' ἄλλαις συνισταμένων. ἐν ἀπάσαις δὲ ταῖς μάχαις κατορθῶν ὁ Τύλλιος, ὅσαι κατὰ πόλεις τε καὶ πρὸς ὅλον τὸ ἔθνος αὐτῷ συνέστησαν, καὶ τρισὶν ἐπιφανεστάτοις κοσμηθεῖς θριάμβοις τελευτῶν ἠνάγκασε τοὺς οὐκ ἀξιοῦντας ἄρχεσθαι τὸν χαλινὸν ἐκόντας λαβεῖν. [4] εἰκοστῷ δ' οὖν ἔτει συνελθοῦσαι πάλιν αἱ δώδεκα πόλεις ἐξανηλωμένοι τῷ πολέμῳ τὰ τε σώματα καὶ τὰ χρήματα γνῶμην ἔσχον παραδοῦναι Ῥωμαίοις τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ἐφ' οἷς πρότερον ἐψηφίσαντο. καὶ παρῆσαν ἀπὸ πάσης πόλεως οἱ προχειρισθέντες σὺν ἱκετηρίαῖς ἐπιτρέποντες Τυλλίῳ τὰς πόλεις καὶ μὴδὲν ἀνήκεστον βουλευῖσαι περὶ αὐτῶν ἀξιοῦντες. [5] Τύλλιος δὲ τῆς μὲν ἀφροσύνης ἔνεκα καὶ τῶν εἰς τοὺς θεοὺς ἀσεβημάτων, οὓς ἐγγυητὰς ποιησάμενοι τῶν ὁμολογιῶν παρέβησαν τὰ συγκείμενα, πολλῶν αὐτοὺς ἔφη τιμωριῶν ἀξιους εἶναι καὶ μεγάλων: τῆς δὲ Ῥωμαίων ἐπεικείας καὶ μετριότητος, ἐπειδὴ συγγόντες ἀδικεῖν στέμμασι καὶ λιτανείαις παρητοῦντο [6] τὴν ὀργήν, οὐδὲν ἐν τῷ παρόντι ἀτυχήσειν. ταῦτ' εἰπὼν καταλύεται τὸν πρὸς αὐτοὺς πόλεμον, ταῖς μὲν ἄλλαις πόλεσιν ἀπλῶς καὶ διχα ὀργῆς μνησικάκου πολιτεῦεσθαι τ' ἀποδοῦς ὡς πρότερον καὶ τὰ ἴδια καρποῦσθαι, μενούσαις ἐν ταῖς γραφείσαις πρὸς αὐτὰς συνθήκαις ὑπὸ βασιλέως Ταρκυνίου: τρεῖς δ' ἐξ αὐτῶν πόλεις, αἱ προεξανέστησάν τε καὶ τὰς ἄλλας ἐπηγάγοντο [p. 51] κατὰ Ῥωμαίων ἐξενεγκεῖν τὸν πόλεμον, Καιρητανούς καὶ Ταρκυνιῆτας καὶ Οὐιεντανούς, ἀφαιρέσει χώρας τιμωρησάμενος, ἦν κατεκληροῦχησε Ῥωμαίων τοῖς νεωστὶ προσεληλυθόσι πρὸς τὴν πολιτείαν. [7] ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ἐν εἰρήνῃ τε καὶ κατὰ πολέμους καὶ ναοὺς δύο κατασκευασάμενος Τύχης, ἥ παρὰ πάντα τὸν βίον ἔδοξεν ἀγαθῇ κεκρῆσθαι, τὸν μὲν ἐν ἀγορᾷ τῇ καλουμένῃ Βοαρία, τὸν δ' ἔτερον ἐπὶ ταῖς ἡίοσι τοῦ Τεβέριος, ἦν ἀνδρείαν προσηγόρευσεν, ὡς καὶ νῦν ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων καλεῖται: ἡλικίας τε προβεβηκώς ἐπὶ πολὺ καὶ τῆς κατὰ φύσιν τελευτῆς οὐ μακρὰν ἀπέχων, ἐπιβουλευθεὶς ὑπὸ Ταρκυνίου τε τοῦ γαμβροῦ καὶ τῆς ἐαυτοῦ θυγατρὸς ἀποθνήσκει. διηγῆσομαι δὲ καὶ τῆς ἐπιβουλῆς τὸν τρόπον μικρὰ τῶν ἔμπροσθεν γενομένων ἀναλαβών.

ἦσαν τῷ Τυλλίῳ δύο θυγατέρες ἐκ γυναικὸς γενόμεναι Ταρκυνίας, ἦν ἐνεγγύησεν αὐτῷ βασιλεὺς Ταρκύνιος. ταύτας τὰς κόρας ἐπιγάμους γενομένας ἐκδίδοται τοῖς ἀδελφιδόις τῆς μητρὸς αὐτῶν, υἱωνοῖς δὲ Ταρκυνίου, τῷ τε πρεσβυτέρῳ τὴν πρεσβυτέραν ἀρμόσας καὶ τῷ νεωτέρῳ τὴν νεωτέραν: οὕτως οἰόμενος αὐτὰς μάλιστα συνοίσεσθαι τοῖς λαβοῦσιν. [2] ἔτυχε δὲ τῶν γαμβρῶν ἐκάτερος ἐναντία συναφθεῖς τύχη κατὰ τὴν οὐχ ὁμοτροπίαν: Λευκίῳ μὲν γὰρ τῷ [p. 52] πρεσβυτέρῳ τολμηρῷ καὶ αὐθάδει καὶ τυραννικῷ τὴν φύσιν ὄντι χρηστὴ καὶ σώφρων καὶ φιλοπάτωρ συνῆλθε γυνή, Ἀρροῦντι δὲ τῷ νεωτέρῳ πολὺ τὸ πρᾶον ἔχοντι καὶ εὐλόγιστον ἀνοσία καὶ μισοπάτωρ καὶ πάντολμος 7 ἦν ἡ γαμετή. [3] συνέβαινε δὴ τῶν ἀνδρῶν ἑκατέρῳ φέρεσθαι μὲν ἐπὶ τὴν ἑαυτοῦ φύσιν, μεταγέσθαι δ' ὑπὸ τῆς γυναικὸς ἐπὶ τάναντία: ὁ μὲν γε πονηρὸς ἐκβαλεῖν τῆς βασιλείας τὸν κηδεστὴν προθυμούμενος καὶ πάντα μηχανώμενος εἰς τοῦτο ὑπὸ τῆς γυναικὸς μετεπιθέτο ἀντιβολούσης τε καὶ ὀδυρομένης: ὁ δ' ἐπεικὴς οὐδὲν οἴομενος δεῖν ἑξαμαρτάνειν εἰς τὸν πενθερόν, ἀλλὰ περιμένειν, ἕως ἢ φύσις αὐτὸν ἐκ τοῦ ζῆν ἐξαγάγῃ, καὶ τὸν ἀδελφὸν οὐκ ἔῳν πράττειν τὰ μὴ δίκαια, ὑπὸ τῆς ἀνοσίας γυναικὸς ἐπὶ τάναντία μετήγετο νουθετοῦσης τε καὶ λοιδορουμένης καὶ τὴν ἀνανδρίαν κακιζούσης: [4] ὥς δ' οὐδὲν ἐπέβαινον οὔτε αἱ τῆς σῶφρονος λιτανεῖαι τὰ κράτιστα τὸν οὐ δίκαιον ἄνδρα πειθοῦσης, οὔτε αἱ τῆς μιαιῤας παραινέσεις ἐπὶ τὰς ἀνοσίους πράξεις τὸν οὐ πονηρὸν εἶναι πεφυκότα παρακαλούσης, ἀλλ' ἑκάτερος ἐπὶ τὴν ἑαυτοῦ φύσιν ἐφέρετο καὶ λυπηρὰν ἡγεῖτο τὴν μὴ τὰ ὅμοια βουλομένην, τῇ μὲν ὀδύρεσθαι τε καὶ φέρειν τὸν ἑαυτῆς δαίμονα περιῆν: τῇ δὲ παντόλμῳ χαλεπαίνειν καὶ ἀπαλλαγῆναι ζητεῖν ἀπὸ τοῦ συνοικοῦντος. [5] ἔπειτα δ' ἡ κακὴ τὴν φύσιν ἀπονοηθεῖσα καὶ νομίσασα τοῖς ἑαυτῆς τρόποις ἀρμόττειν μάλιστα τὸν τῆς ἀδελφῆς ἄνδρα [p. 53] μεταπέμπεται τ' αὐτὸν ὥς ὑπὲρ ἀναγκαιῶν πράγματος διαλεξομένη, καὶ ἐπειδὴ παρεγένετο, μεταστῆναι κελεύσασα τοὺς ἔνδον, ἵνα μόνῃ διαλεχθεῖν πρὸς μόνον, Ἄρ', ἔφησεν, ὦ Ταρκύνιε, μετὰ παρρησίας ἔξεστί μοι καὶ ἀκινδύνως ἅπαντα εἰπεῖν, ὅσα φρονῶ περὶ τῶν κοινῇ συμφερόντων, καὶ καθέξεις οὐς ἂν ἀκούσης λόγους; ἢ σιωπᾶν ἄμεινόν ἐστί μοι καὶ μὴ φέρειν εἰς μέσον βουλὰς ἀπορρήτους; [2] κελεύσαντος δὲ τοῦ Ταρκυνίου λέγειν, ὃ τι βούλεται, καὶ περὶ τοῦ καθέξειν ἐν ἑαυτῷ τοὺς λόγους πιστεῖς ἐπιθέντος δι' ὄρκων, οὐς ἐκείνη προηρῆτο, οὐδὲν ἔτι αἰσχυρθεῖσα λέγει πρὸς αὐτόν: μέχρι τίνος, ὦ Ταρκύνιε, τῆς βασιλείας ἀποστεροῦμενος ἀνέχεσθαι διανοῇ; πότερον ἐκ ταπεινῶν καὶ ἀσήμενων ἔφυς προγόνων καὶ διὰ τοῦτ' οὐκ ἀξιοῖς ἐπὶ σεαυτῷ μέγα φρονεῖν; ἀλλὰ πάντες ἴσασιν, ὅτι τοῖς μὲν ἀρχαίοις ὑμῶν προγόνοις Ἑλλήσιν οὔσι καὶ ἀφ' Ἑρακλέους γεγονόσι τῆς εὐδαίμονος ἄρξαι Κορίνθου τὴν αὐτοκράτορα ὑπῆρξεν ἀρχὴν ἐπὶ πολλάς, ὥς ἀκούω, γενάας: τῷ δὲ πάππῳ σου Ταρκυνίῳ μεταθεμένῳ τὴν οἴκησιν ἐκ Τυρρηνῶν ταύτης βασιλεῦσαι τῆς πόλεως ἐξεγένετο δι' ἀρετὴν: οὐ σὺ κληρονομεῖν οὐ μόνον τῶν χρημάτων, ἀλλὰ καὶ τῆς βασιλείας ὀφείλεις πρεσβύτερος υἱωνὸς ὦν. [3] ἢ σώματος οὐκ ἔτυχες ἱκανοῦ πράττειν, ὅσα βασιλεὺς προσῆκε, δι' ἀσθενείαν τε καὶ ἀμορφίαν; ἀλλὰ σοὶ γε καὶ ῥώμῃ πάρεστιν, οἷα τοῖς [p. 54] κράτιστα πεφυκόσι, καὶ μορφῇ τοῦ βασιλείου γένους ἀξία. ἢ τούτων μὲν οὐδέτερον, ἢ δ' ἀσθενὴς ἔτι καὶ πολὺ ἀπέχουσα τοῦ φρονεῖν τὰ προσήκοντα νεότης μεθέλκει σε, δι' ἣν οὐκ ἀξιοῖς τὰ πολιτικὰ πράττειν, ὅς οὐ πολλοῖς ἀποδεῖς ἔτεσι πεντηκονταέτης εἶναι; κράτιστα δ' ἄνθρωποι πεφύκασι φρονεῖν οἱ περὶ ταύτην μάλιστα γενόμενοι τὴν ἡλικίαν. [4] φέρε, ἀλλ' ἡ τοῦ κατέχοντος τὰ πράγματα εὐγένεια καὶ ἡ πρὸς τοὺς κρατίστους τῶν πολιτῶν ἐπιτηδειότης, δι' ἣν οὐκ εὐεπιχειρητὸς ἐστίν, ἀνέχεσθαι σε ἀναγκάζει; ἀλλὰ καὶ ταῦτ' ἀμφοτέρω κακῶς ἔχοντα αὐτῷ τυγχάνει καὶ οὐδὲ αὐτὸς αὐτὰ γε ἀγνοεῖς. καὶ μὴν ἢ γε τόλμα καὶ τὸ φιλοκίνδυνον ἔνεστί σου τοῖς τρόποις, ὦν μάλιστα τῷ βασιλεῦειν μέλλοντι δεῖ. ὑπάρχει δὲ σοὶ καὶ πλοῦτος ἱκανὸς καὶ φίλοι

τοιαῦτα τῆς Τυλλίας λεγοῦσης ἄσμενος δέχεται τὰς αἰρέσεις ὁ Ταρκύνιος, καὶ αὐτίκα δοὺς αὐτῇ πίστει καὶ λαβὼν τὰ προτέλεια τῶν ἀνοσιῶν γάμων διαπραξάμενος ἀπέρχεται. διελθόντος δ' οὐ πολλοῦ μετὰ ταῦτα χρόνου τοῖς αὐτοῖς πάθεσιν ἀποθνήσκουσιν ἢ τε πρεσβυτέρα τῶν Τυλλίου θυγατέρων καὶ ὁ νεώτερος τῶν Ταρκυνίων. [2] ἐνταῦθα πάλιν ἀναγκάζομαι μεμνησθαι Φαβίου καὶ τὸ ῥάθυμον αὐτοῦ περὶ τὴν [p. 56] ἐξέτασιν τῶν χρόνων ἐλέγχειν. ἐπὶ γὰρ τῆς Ἀρροῦντος τελευτῆς γενόμενος οὐ καθ' ἐν ἀμαρτάνει μόνον, ὃ καὶ πρότερον ἔφην, ὅτι γέγραφεν υἱὸν εἶναι Ταρκυνίου τὸν Ἀρροῦντα: ἀλλὰ καὶ καθ' ἕτερον, ὅτι φησὶν ἀποθανόντα ὑπὸ τῆς μητρὸς Τανακυλλίδος τεθάρθαι, ἣν ἀμήχανον ἦν ἔτι καὶ κατ' ἐκείνους περιεῖναι τοὺς χρόνους. [3] ἐδείχθη γὰρ ἐν ἀρχαῖς ἐβδομηκοστὸν ἔχουσα καὶ πέμπτον ἔτος ἡ Τανακυλλίς, ὅτε βασιλεὺς Ταρκύνιος ἐτελεύτα: προστεθέντων δὲ τοῖς ἐβδομήκοντα καὶ πέντε ἔτεσιν ἑτέρων τετταράκοντα ἐτῶν: ἐν γὰρ ταῖς ἐνιαυσίαις ἀναγραφαῖς κατὰ τὸν τετταρακοστὸν ἐνιαυτὸν τῆς Τυλλίου ἀρχῆς τὸν Ἀρροῦντα τετελευτηκότα παρειλήφαμεν: ἐτῶν ἡ Τανακυλλίς ἔσται πεντεκαίδεκα πρὸς τοῖς ἑκατόν. οὕτως ὀλίγον ἔστιν ἐν ταῖς ἱστορίαις αὐτοῦ τὸ περὶ τὴν ἐξέτασιν τῆς ἀληθείας ταλαίπωρον. [4] μετὰ τοῦτο τὸ ἔργον οὐδὲν ἔτι διαμελλήσας ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐπάγεται γυναῖκα τὴν Τυλλίαν οὔτε τοῦ πατρὸς αὐτῆς βεβαιούντος τὸν γάμον οὔτε τῆς μητρὸς συνευδοκούσης, ἀλλ' αὐτὴν παρ' ἑαυτῆς λαβὼν. [5] ὥς δὲ συνεκεράσθησαν αἱ ἀνόσιοι καὶ ἀνδροφόνοι φύσεις, ἐκβαλεῖν ἐκ τῆς βασιλείας τὸν Τύλλιον, εἰ μὴ βούλοιο ἐκὼν παραδοῦναι τὴν ἀρχὴν, ἐμχανῶντο ἐταιρίας τε συνάγοντες καὶ τῶν πατρικίων τοὺς ἄλλοτριως ἔχοντας πρὸς τὸν βασιλέα καὶ τὰ δημοτικὰ πολιτεύματα παρακαλοῦντες [p. 57] ἔκ τε τοῦ δημοτικοῦ

λέγει πρὸς αὐτὸν ὁ Ταρκύνιος· βραχὺς ἐστὶν ὁ παρ' ἐμοῦ λόγος, ὦ Τύλλιε, καὶ δίκαιος· καὶ διὰ τοῦτο προειλόμην αὐτὸν εἰς τούτους ἐκφέρειν. Ταρκύνιος ἐμὸς ὢν πάππος ἐκτήσατο τὴν Ῥωμαίων ἀρχὴν πολλοὺς καὶ μεγάλους ἀγῶνας ὑπὲρ αὐτῆς ἀράμενος· ἐκείνου τελευτήσαντος ἐγὼ διάδοχός εἰμι κατὰ τοὺς κοινοὺς ἀπάντων Ἑλλήνων τε καὶ βαρβάρων νόμους· [p. 58] καὶ προσήκει μοι καθάπερ καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις τοῖς διαδεχομένοις τὰ παππῶα, μὴ μόνον τῶν χρημάτων, ἀλλὰ [2] καὶ τῆς βασιλείας αὐτοῦ κληρονομεῖν. σὺ δὲ τὰ μὲν χρήματα τὰ καταλειφθέντα ὑπ' αὐτοῦ παραδédωκάς μοι, τὴν δὲ βασιλείαν ἀποστερεῖς με καὶ τοσοῦτον ἤδη κατέχεις χρόνον, οὐκ ἐκ τοῦ δικαίου λαβών· οὔτε γὰρ μεσοβασιλεῖς σε ἀπέδειξαν, οὔτε ἡ βουλὴ ψῆφον ὑπὲρ σοῦ διήνεγκεν, οὔτε ἀρχαιρεσίαις νομίμοις τῆς ἐξουσίας ταύτης ἔτυχες, ὡς ὁ πάππος τε οὐμὸς καὶ πάντες οἱ πρὸ αὐτοῦ γενόμενοι βασιλεῖς· ἀλλὰ τὸ ἀνέστιον καὶ ἄπορον καὶ πρὸς καταδικὰς ἢ χρέα τὴν ἐπιτιμίαν ἀπολωλεκὸς φύλον, ὦ τῶν κοινῶν οὐδενὸς ἔμελε, καταμισθοδοτήσας καὶ πάντα τρόπον διαφθείρας, καὶ οὐδὲ τότε μέντοι σαυτῷ πράττειν τὴν δυναστείαν λέγων, ἀλλ' ἡμῖν φυλάξειν σκηπτόμενος ὀρφανοῖς οὔσι καὶ νηπίοις, ἐπὶ τὰ πράγματα παρῆλθες καὶ πάντων ἀκουόντων ὠμολόγεις, ὅταν ἀνδρωθῶμεν ἡμεῖς, ἐμοὶ [3] παραδώσειν ὄντι πρεσβυτέρῳ τὴν ἀρχήν. ἐχρῆν μὲν οὔν σε, εἰ τὰ δίκαια ποιεῖν ἤθελες, ὅτε μοι τὸν οἶκον τοῦ πάππου παρεδίδους, ἅμα τοῖς χρήμασι καὶ τὴν βασιλείαν ἀποδεδωκέναι παραδείγμασι χρώμενον τοῖς τῶν καλῶν καὶ ἀγαθῶν ἐπιτρόπων ἔργοις, ὅσοι βασιλικοὺς παῖδας ὀρφανοὺς πατέρων παραλαβόντες εἰς ἄνδρας ἐλθοῦσιν ὀρθῶς καὶ δικαίως τὰς πατρώας καὶ [4] 8 προγονικὰς ἀπέδωκαν ἀρχάς· εἰ δὲ μήπω σοι φρονεῖν τὰ καθήκοντα ἐφαινόμην, ἀλλ' ἔτι διὰ τὸ νέον τῆς ἡλικίας οὐχ ἱκανὸς εἶναι πόλιν τηλικαύτην διοικεῖν, ὅτ' εἰς τὴν κρατίστην παρεγενόμην τοῦ σώματος καὶ [p. 59] τῆς φρονήσεως ἀκμὴν τριάκοντα γεγονώς ἔτη, μετὰ τοῦ γάμου τῆς θυγατρὸς καὶ τὰ τῆς πόλεως ἐγχειρίσαι πράγματα· ταύτην γέ τοι τὴν ἡλικίαν ἔχων καὶ σὺ τὸν τ' οἶκον τὸν ἡμέτερον ἐπιτροπεύειν ἤρξω καὶ τῆς βασιλείας ἐπιμελεῖσθαι.

πανσαμένου δ’ αὐτοῦ παραλαβὼν τὸν λόγον ὁ Τύλλιος ἔλεξεν ὥδε: ἅπαντα μὲν, ὡς ἔοικεν, ἄνθρωπον ὄντα δεῖ προσδοκᾶν, ὧ βουλή, τὰ παράδοξα καὶ μηδὲν ἡγεῖσθαι ἄπιστον, ὅπου γε καμὲ Ταρκύνιος οὕτοσί τῆς ἀρχῆς παῦσαι πρόθυμός ἐστιν: ὃν ἐγὼ νήπιον παραλαβὼν καὶ ἐπιβουλευόμενον ὑπὸ τῶν ἐχθρῶν ἔσωσα καὶ ἐξέθρεψα καὶ εἰς ἄνδρας ἐλθόντα κηδεστήν ἡξίωσα λαβεῖν, καὶ εἴ τι πάθοιμι διάδοχον ἔμελλον καταλείψειν ἀπάντων τῶν ἐμῶν. ἐπειδὴ δὲ παρὰ γνώμην ἅπαντ’ ἀπὴντηκέ μοι καὶ ὥσπερ ἀδικῶν αὐτὸς ἐγκαλοῦμαι, τὴν μὲν τύχην ὕστερον ἀνακλαύσομαι, ^[2] 9 τὰ δὲ δίκαια νῦν πρὸς αὐτὸν ἐρῶ. ἐγὼ τὴν μὲν ἐπιτροπείαν ὑμῶν ἔλαβον, ὧ Ταρκύνιε, νηπίων καταλειφθέντων οὐχ ἐκῶν, ἀλλ’ ὑπὸ τῶν πραγμάτων ἀναγκασθεῖς: ἐπειδὴ τὸν μὲν πάππον ὑμῶν οἱ τῆς βασιλείας ἀντιποιοῦμενοι φανερώς ἀπέκτειναν, ὑμῖν δὲ καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις αὐτοῦ συγγενέσιν ἐπιβουλεύειν ἐλέγοντο [p. 61] ἀφανῶς: καὶ πάντες τοῦθ’ οἱ προσήκοντες ὑμῖν ὡμολογοῦν, ὅτι κρατήσαντες ἐκείνοι τῆς ἀρχῆς οὐδὲ σπέρμα τοῦ Ταρκυνίου καταλείψουσι γένους. κηδεμῶν δὲ καὶ φύλαξ οὐδεὶς ὑμῶν ἕτερος ἦν, ὅτι μὴ γυνή, πατρὸς μήτηρ, καὶ αὐτὴ διὰ γῆρας ἐτέρων δεομένη κηδεμόνων: ἀλλ’ ἐν ἐμοὶ κατελείπεσθε μόνῳ φύλακι τῆς ἐρημίας, ὃν νῦν ἀλλότριον καὶ οὐδὲν προσήκοντα ἀποκαλεῖς. ^[3] τοιούτοις μέντοι πράγμασιν ἐπιστὰς ἐγὼ τοὺς τ’ ἀποκτείναντας τὸν πάππον ὑμῶν ἐτιμωρησάμην καὶ ὑμᾶς εἰς ἄνδρας ἡγαγον καὶ γενεᾶς ἄρρενος οὐχ ὑπαρχούσης τῶν ἐμαυτοῦ κυρίους προειλόμην ποιῆσαι. ἔχεις τὸν τῆς ἐπιτροπῆς λόγον, ὧ Ταρκύνιε, καὶ οὐκ ἂν ἐπιχειρήσειας εἰπεῖν, ὡς ψεύδομαί τι τούτων.

διαδικασίαν: ὣν οὐδέτερον ἐποίησας, ἀλλὰ τοσοῦτοις χρόνοις [p. 64] ὕστερον ὥσπερ ἐκ μακρᾶς ἀνάνηψας μέθης νῦν ἤκεις μου κατηγορῶν καὶ οὐδὲ νῦν, ὅπου δεῖ. [3] οὐ γὰρ ἐνθάδε σοι ταῦτα προσήκει λέγειν: καὶ μηδὲν ἀχθεσθῆτέ μοι ταῦτα λέγοντι, ὧ βουλή: οὐ γὰρ ὑμῶν ἀφαιρούμενος τὴν διαγνώσιν, ἀλλὰ τὴν τούτου συκοφαντίαν ἐπιδειξασθαι βουλόμενος ταῦτα λέγω: προειπόντα δὲ σ' ἔδει μοι τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν συναγαγεῖν κάκεῖ μου κατηγορεῖν. πλήν ἐπεὶ σὺ τοῦτο πέφευγας, ἐγὼ περὶ σοῦ ποιήσω καὶ συγκαλέσας τὸν δῆμον παρέξομαι σοι δικαστὴν ὣν ἂν μου κατηγορήσης, καὶ ἀποδώσω πάλιν αὐτῷ διαγνῶναι, πότερος ἡμῶν ἐπιτηδειότερός ἐστιν ἔχειν τὴν ἀρχήν: καὶ ὃ τι ἂν ἅπαντες οὔτοι γνῶσι πράττειν με δεῖν, ποιήσω. [4] καὶ πρὸς μὲν σὲ ταῦθ' ἱκανά: ἐν ἴσῳ γὰρ ἐστι τὸ τε πολλὰ δίκαια πρὸς τοὺς ἀγνώμονας ἀντιδίκους λέγειν καὶ τὸ ὀλίγα: τὸ γὰρ πείσων αὐτοὺς εἶναι χρηστοὺς οὐ πεφύκασι φέρειν οἱ λόγοι.

ὑμῶν δὲ τεθαύμακα, εἰ τινὲς εἰσιν, ὧ βουλή, τῆς ἀρχῆς με ἀπαλλάξαι βουλόμενοι, καὶ μετὰ τούτου συνεστηκότες ἐπ' ἐμοί: ἡδέως δ' ἂν πυθοίμην παρ' αὐτῶν, τίνος ἀδικήματος ἔνεκα πολεμοῦσί μοι καὶ ἐπὶ τίνι τῶν ἐμῶν ἔργων ἀχθόμενοι: πότερον ὅτι πολλοὺς ἴσασιν ἐπὶ τῆς ἐμῆς ἀρχῆς ἀκρίτους ἀπολωλότας ἢ τῆς [p. 65] πατρίδος στερομένους ἢ τὰς οὐσίας ἀπολωλεκότας ἢ ἄλλη τινὶ συμφορᾷ κεκρημένους ἀδίκως; ἢ τούτων μὲν τῶν τυραννικῶν ἀδικημάτων οὐδὲν ἔχουσιν εἰπεῖν ὑπ' ἐμοῦ γεγονός, ὕβρεις δὲ μοι τινας συνοίδασιν εἰς γυναικας γαμετάς ἢ προπηλακισμοὺς εἰς θυγατέρας παρθένους ἢ ἄλλην τινὰ περὶ σῶμα ἐλεύθερον ἀκολασίαν; δικαίως μέντ' ἂν, εἰ τί μοι τοιοῦτον ἡμάρτηται, τῆς ἀρχῆς θ' ἅμα καὶ τῆς ψυχῆς ἀποστερηθείην. [2] φέρε ἄλλ' ὑπερήφανός εἰμι καὶ διὰ βαρύτητα ἐπαχθῆς καὶ τὴν αὐθάδειαν, ἥ κέχρημαι περὶ τὴν ἀρχήν, οὐδεὶς φέρειν δύναται μοι; τίς μέντοι τῶν πρὸ ἐμοῦ βασιλέων οὕτω μέτριος ὢν ἐν ἐξουσίᾳ διετέλεσε καὶ φιλάνθρωπος ἅπασι τοῖς πολίταις ὡς πατήρ πρῶτος υἱοῖς αὐτοῦ χρώμενος; ὅς γε καὶ τὴν ἐξουσίαν, ἣν ὑμεῖς ἐδώκατέ μοι πατέρων φυλάττοντες παραδοχάς, οὐχ ἅπασαν ἐβουλήθην ἔχειν, ἀλλὰ νόμους θ' ὑπὲρ τῶν κυριωτάτων καταστησάμενος, οὕς ἅπαντες ἐπεκυρώσατε, κατὰ τούτους ὑμῖν ἀπέδωκα διδόναι τὰ δίκαια καὶ λαμβάνειν, καὶ αὐτὸς ἐξηταζόμεν πρῶτος οἷς ὥρισα κατὰ τῶν ἄλλων δικαίοις ὥσπερ ἰδιώτης πειθόμενος: τῶν τ' ἀδικημάτων οὐχ ἁπάντων αὐτὸς ἐγινόμεν δικαστής, ἀλλὰ τὰς ἰδιωτικὰς δικας ὑμῖν ἀπέδωκα διαγινώσκειν, ὃ τῶν ἔμπροσθεν οὐδεὶς ἐποίησε βασιλέων. [3] ἄλλ' ἔοικεν ἀδίκημα μὲν οὐδὲν εἶναι, δι' ὃ [p. 66] δυσχεραίνουσί μοι τινες, αἱ δ' εἰς τὸ δημοτικὸν πλῆθος εὐεργεσίαι λυπεῖν ὑμᾶς δοκοῦσι, περὶ ὧν πολλάκις ἀπολελόγημαι πρὸς ὑμᾶς. ἀλλ' οὐδὲν δεῖ τούτων νυνὶ τῶν λόγων: εἰ δὲ δοκεῖ κρεῖττον ἐπιμελήσεσθαι τῶν κοινῶν Ταρκύνιος οὗτοσί τὰ πράγματα παραλαβών, οὐ φθονῶ τῇ πόλει βελτίονος ἡγεμόνος: ἀποδοὺς δὲ τὴν ἀρχὴν τῷ δεδωκότι μοι δῆμῳ καὶ γενόμενος ἰδιώτης πειράσομαι ποιῆσαι πᾶσι φανερόν, ὅτι καὶ ἄρχειν ἐπίσταμαι καλῶς καὶ ἄρχεσθαι δύναμαι σωφρόνως.

ὥς δὲ καὶ ταύτης διήμαρτε τῆς πείρας ὁ Ταρκύνιος, ἀδημονῶν ἐπὶ τῷ μηδεμίαν αὐτῷ βοήθειαν παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς, ἣ μάλιστα ἐπεποιθεῖ, γενέσθαι, χρόνον μὲν τινα διέτριβε κατ' οἰκίαν τοῖς ἐταίροις μόνοις διαλεγόμενος· ἔπειτα γνώμην ἀποδειξαμένης τῆς γυναικὸς μηδὲν ἔτι μαλακίζεσθαι μηδὲ κατοκνεῖν, ἀλλὰ καταβαλόντα τοὺς λόγους ἐπὶ τὰ ἔργα χωρεῖν διαλλαγὰς πρῶτον εὐρόμενον διὰ φίλων πρὸς τὸν Τύλλιον, [p. 68] ἵνα πιστεύσας ὥς φίλῳ γεγονότι ἦττον αὐτὸν φυλάττοιτο, δόξας δ' αὐτὴν τὰ κράτιστα ὑποθέσθαι μετανοεῖν τε περὶ τῶν γεγονότων ἐσκήπτετο καὶ πολλὰ διὰ φίλων λιπαρῶν τὸν Τύλλιον ἡξίου συγγνώμονα 10 γενέσθαι. [2] ῥᾶστα δὲ πείσας τὸν ἄνδρα φύσει τ' εὐδιάλλακτον ὄντα καὶ οὐκ ἀξιοῦντα πόλεμον ἄσπειστον θυγατρὶ καὶ γαμβρῷ πολεμεῖν, ἐπειδὴ τὸν οἰκεῖον καιρὸν ἔλαβε διεσκεδασμένου τοῦ δήμου κατὰ τοὺς ἀγροὺς ἐπὶ τὴν τῶν καρπῶν συγκομιδὴν, ἐξῆλθε μετὰ τῶν ἐταίρων ἐχόντων ὑπὸ ταῖς περιβολαῖς ξίφη, τοὺς τε πελέκεις ὑπηρέταις τισὶν ἀναδοὺς καὶ αὐτὸς τὴν βασιλικὴν ἐσθῆτα λαβὼν καὶ τᾶλλα παράσημα τῆς ἀρχῆς ἐπαγόμενος· ἐλθὼν δ' εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν καὶ πρὸ τοῦ βουλευτηρίου στὰς ἐκέλευσε τῷ κήρυκι τοὺς βουλευτὰς καλεῖν εἰς τὸ συνέδριον. ἦσαν δ' ἐκ παρασκευῆς ἔτοιμοι περὶ τὴν ἀγορὰν οἱ συνειδότες αὐτῷ τὴν πρᾶξιν [3] καὶ παρορμῶντες ἐκ τῶν πατρικίων συχνοί. οἱ μὲν δὴ συνήεσαν· τῷ δὲ Τυλλίῳ λέγει τις ἐλθὼν ὄντι κατ' οἰκίαν, ὅτι Ταρκύνιος ἐν ἐσθῇτι βασιλικῇ προελήλυθε καὶ καλεῖ τοὺς

τὰ μετὰ ταῦτα δεῖνὰ μὲν ἀκουσθῆναι, θαυμαστὰ δὲ καὶ ἄπιστα πραχθῆναι, τῆς ἀνοσίας αὐτοῦ θυγατρὸς ἔργα παραδίδοται. πεπυσμένη γὰρ τὴν εἰς τὸ βουλευτήριον τοῦ πατρὸς εἴσοδον καὶ σπουδὴν [p. 70] ἔχουσα μαθεῖν οἷόν τι λήψεται τὰ πράγματα τέλος, ἐπὶ τῆς ἀπῆνης καθεζομένη παρῆν εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν. μαθοῦσα δὲ τὰ γενόμενα καὶ τὸν Ταρκύνιον ἐπὶ τῆς κρηπίδος ἐστῶτα πρὸ τοῦ βουλευτηρίου θεασαμένη βασιλέα τ' αὐτὸν ἡσπάσατο πρώτη μεγάλῃ τῇ φωνῇ καὶ τοῖς θεοῖς εὐξάτο ἐπὶ τῷ συμφέροντι τῆς πόλεως τῆς Ῥωμαίων τὴν ἀρχὴν αὐτὸν κατασχεῖν. [2] ἀσπασαμένων δὲ καὶ τῶν ἄλλων αὐτὸν ὡς βασιλέα τῶν συγκατασκευασάντων τὴν ἀρχὴν λαβοῦσα μόνον αὐτόν· τὰ μὲν πρῶτα, ἔφη, πέπρακται σοι, Ταρκύνιε, κατὰ τὸ δέον· βεβαίως δὲ τὴν βασιλείαν ἔχειν Τυλλίου περιόντος οὐκ ἔνεστί σοι. ἐκδημαγωγῇσει γὰρ αὐθις ἐπὶ σοὶ τὸν ὄχλον, ἐὰν καὶ ὅποσονοῦν ταύτης τῆς ἡμέρας περιγένηται χρόνον· ἐπίστασαι δ', ὡς εὖνους ἐστὶν αὐτῷ τὸ δημοτικὸν ἅπαν· ἀλλὰ καὶ πρὶν εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν αὐτὸν εἰσελθεῖν, ἀποστείλας τοὺς διαχρησομένους ἐκποδῶν ποιήσον. ταῦτα δ' ὀρῶντες οἱ δημοτικοὶ δίκαια πάσχειν αὐτοὺς ὑπελάμβανον καὶ ἐπέχαιρον ὑπ' εὐηθείας, ὥς ἐκείνοις μόνοις τῆς τυραννίδος βαρεῖας ἐσομένης, σφίσι δ' αὐτοῖς ἀκινδύνου. ἦκε δὲ κάκεινοις οὐ μετὰ πολὺν χρόνον ἔτι πλεῖω τὰ χαλεπὰ. τοὺς τε γὰρ νόμους τοὺς ὑπὸ Τυλλίου γραφέντας, καθ' οὓς ἐξ ἴσου τὰ δίκαια παρ' ἀλλήλων ἐλάμβανον καὶ οὐδὲν ὑπὸ τῶν πατρικίων ὥς πρότερον ἐβλάπτοντο περὶ τὰ συμβόλαια, πάντας ἀνεῖλε: καὶ οὐδὲ τὰς σανίδας, ἐν αἷς ἦσαν γεγραμμένοι, κατέλιπεν, ἀλλὰ καὶ ταύτας καθαιρεθῆναι κελεύσας ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς διέφθειρεν. ^[2] ἔπειτα κατέλυσεν τὰς ἀπὸ τῶν τιμημάτων εἰσφορὰς καὶ εἰς τὸν ἐξ ἀρχῆς τρόπον ἀποκατέστησε: καὶ ὅποτε δεήσειεν αὐτῷ χρημάτων, τὸ ἴσον διάφορον ὁ πενέστατος τῷ πλουσιωτάτῳ κατέφερε. τοῦτο τὸ πολίτευμα πολὺ τοῦ δημοτικοῦ πλήθους ἀπανήλωσεν ἐπὶ τῆς πρώτης εὐθύς εἰσφορᾶς ἀναγκαζομένου κατὰ κεφαλὴν ἐκάστου δραχμὰς δέκα εἰσφέρειν. συνόδους τε συμπάσας, ὅσαι πρότερον ἐγίνοντο κωμητῶν ἢ φρατριαστῶν ἢ γειτόνων ἔν τε τῇ πόλει καὶ ἐπὶ τῶν ἀγρῶν ἐφ' ἱερὰ καὶ θυσίας ἅπασι κοινὰς προεῖπε μηκέτι συντελεῖν, ἵνα μὴ συνιόντες εἰς ταῦτ' οὐ πολλοὶ βουλὰς ἀπορρήτους μετ' ἀλλήλων ποιῶνται περὶ καταλύσεως τῆς ἀρχῆς. ^[3] ἦσαν δ' αὐτῷ πολλαχῇ διεσπαρμένοι κατόπται [p. 78] τινὲς καὶ διερευνηταὶ τῶν λεγομένων τε καὶ πραττομένων λεληθότες τοὺς πολλοὺς, οἳ συγκαθιέντες εἰς ὁμίλιαν τοῖς πέλας καὶ ἔστιν ὅτε κατὰ τοῦ τυράννου λέγοντες αὐτοὶ, πείραν τῆς ἐκάστου γνώμης ἐλάμβανον: ἔπειθ' οὓς αἰσθοῖντο τοῖς καθεστηκόσι πράγμασιν ἄχθομένους κατεμήνυνον πρὸς τὸν τύραννον: αἱ δὲ τιμωρίαι κατὰ

καὶ οὐκ ἀπέχρη ταῦτα μόνον εἰς τοὺς δημοτικούς αὐτῷ παρανομεῖν, ἀλλ' ἐπιλέξας ἐκ τοῦ πλήθους, ὅσον ἦν πιστὸν ἑαυτῷ καὶ εἰς τὰς πολεμικὰς χρείας ἐπιτήδειον, τὸ λοιπὸν ἠνάγκασεν ἐργάζεσθαι τὰς κατὰ πόλιν ἐργασίας, μέγιστον οἰόμενος εἶναι κίνδυνον τοῖς μονάρχοις, ὅταν οἱ πονηρότατοι τῶν πολιτῶν καὶ ἀπορώτατοι σχολὴν ἄγωσι, καὶ ἅμα προθυμίαν ἔχων ἐπὶ τῆς ἰδίας ἀρχῆς τὰ καταλειφθέντα ἡμίεργα ὑπὸ τοῦ πάσπου τελειῶσαι, τὰς μὲν ἐξαγωγίμους τῶν ὑδάτων τάφρους, ἃς ἐκεῖνος ὀρύττειν ἤρξατο, μέχρι τοῦ ποταμοῦ καταγαγεῖν, τὸν δ' ἀμφιθέατρον ἱππόδρομον οὐδὲν ἔξω κρηπίδων ἔχοντα παστάσιν ὑποστέγοις περιλαβεῖν: [2] εἰς ταῦτα δὴ πάντες οἱ πένητες εἰργάζοντο σῖτα παρ' αὐτοῦ μέτρια λαμβάνοντες: οἱ μὲν λατομοῦντες, οἱ δ' ὑλοτομοῦντες, οἱ δὲ τὰς κομιζούσας ταῦθ' ἀμάξας ἄγοντες, οἱ δ' ἐπὶ τῶν ὤμων αὐτοὶ τὰ ἄχθη φέροντες: μεταλλεῦοντές τε τὰς ὑπονόμους [p. 79] σήραγγας ἕτεροι καὶ πλάττοντες τὰς ἐν αὐταῖς καμάρας καὶ τὰς παστάδας ἐγείροντες, καὶ τοῖς ταῦτα πράττουσι χειροτέχναις ὑπηρετοῦντες χαλκοτύποι τε καὶ τέκτονες καὶ λιθουργοὶ τῶν ἰδιωτικῶν ἔργων ἀφροσύνας ἐπὶ ταῖς δημοσίαις κατεῖχοντο χρεῖαις. [3] περὶ ταῦτα δὴ τὰ ἔργα τριβόμενος ὁ λεὼς οὐδεμίαν ἀνάπαυσιν ἐλάμβανεν: ὥσθ' οἱ πατρίκιοι τὰ τούτων κακὰ καὶ τὰς λατρείας ὀρῶντες ἔχαιρόν τ' ἐν μέρει καὶ τῶν ἰδίων ἐπελανθάνοντο ἀλγεινῶν: κωλύειν μὲν γὰρ οὐδέτεροι τὰ γινόμενα ἐπεχείρουν.

λογιζόμενος δ' ὁ Ταρκύνιος, ὅτι τοῖς μὴ κατὰ νόμους λαβοῦσι τὰς δυναστείας, ἀλλὰ διὰ τῶν ὄπλων κτησάμενοις, οὐ μόνον ἐπιχωρίου δεῖ φυλακῆς, ἀλλὰ καὶ ξενικῆς, τὸν ἐπιφανέστατον ἐκ τοῦ Λατίνων ἔθνους καὶ πλεῖστον ἀπάντων δυνάμενον ἐσπούδαζε φίλον ποιήσασθαι τῷ γάμῳ συζεύξας τῆς θυγατρὸς, ὃς ἐκαλεῖτο μὲν Ὁκταούιος Μαμίλιος, ἀνέφερε δὲ τὸ γένος εἰς Τηλέγονον τὸν ἐξ Ὀδυσσέως καὶ Κίρκης, κατῴκει δ' ἐν πόλει Τύσκλῳ, ἐδόκει δὲ τὰ πολιτικὰ συνετὸς ἐν ὀλίγοις εἶναι καὶ πολέμους στρατηγεῖν ἱκανός. [3] ὡς δ' ἐπαύσατο λέγων, παρελθὼν ὁ Τύρνος ὁ καὶ τὸν ὀψισμόν αὐτοῦ διαβαλὼν οὐκ εἶα τοὺς συνέδρους παραχωρεῖν τῷ ἀνδρὶ τῆς ἀρχῆς, ὡς οὔτε κατὰ τὸ δίκαιον αὐτῷ προσηκούσης οὔτ' ἐπὶ τῷ συμφέροντι τῶν Λατίνων δοθησομένης· καὶ πολλοὺς ὑπὲρ ἀμφοτέρων διεξῆλθε λόγους τὰς μὲν συνθήκας, ἃς ἐποίησαντο πρὸς τὸν πάππον αὐτοῦ παραδιδόντες τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, λελῦσθαι λέγων μετὰ τὸν ἐκεῖνου θάνατον διὰ τὸ μὴ προσγεγράφθαι ταῖς ὁμολογίαις τὴν αὐτὴν εἶναι δωρεὰν καὶ τοῖς Ταρκυνίου ἐγγόνοις, τὸν δ' ἀξιοῦντα τῶν

τοιαυτῇ καταδρομῇ τοῦ Τύρνου χρησαμένου καὶ τῶν πολλῶν σφόδρα κινηθέντων ἐπὶ τοῖς λόγοις αἰτησάμενος εἰς ἀπολογία καὶ Ταρκύνιος τὴν ἐποῦσαν ἡμέραν καὶ λαβὼν, ὡς ὁ σύλλογος διελύθη, παρακαλέσας τοὺς ἀναγκαιοτάτους ἐσκόπει μετ' ἐκείνων, τίνα χρηστέον τοῖς πράγμασι τρόπον. οἱ μὲν οὖν ἄλλοι τοὺς λόγους, οὓς ἦν αὐτῷ λεκτέον ἐπὶ τῆς ἀπολογίας, ὑπετίθεντο καὶ τοὺς τρόπους, οἷς ἔδει τὸ πλῆθος ἀποθεραπεύειν, ἀπελογίζοντο. αὐτὸς δ' ὁ Ταρκύνιος τοῦτων μὲν οὐδενὸς ἔφη δεῖν τοῖς πράγμασιν, ἰδίαν δὲ γνώμην ἀπεδείκνυτο μὴ τὰ κατηγορηθέντα λυεῖν, ἀλλ' [2] αὐτὸν τὸν κατηγορήσαντα ἀναιρεῖν. ἐπαινεσάντων δὲ τὴν γνώμην ἀπάντων συνταξάμενος μετ' αὐτῶν τὰ κατὰ τὴν ἐπίθεσιν πράγματι ἐπεχείρησεν ἥκιστα δυναμένῳ πεσεῖν εἰς πρόνοιαν ἀνθρωπίνην καὶ φυλακὴν. [p. 83] τῶν γὰρ παρακομιζόντων τὰ θ' ὑποζύγια καὶ τὴν ἀποσκευὴν τοῦ Τύρνου θεραπόντων τοὺς πονηροτάτους ἐξευρών καὶ διαφθείρας χρήμασιν ἔπειθεν ὑπὸ νύκτα ξιφὴ πολλὰ παρ' αὐτοῦ λαβόντας εἰσενεγκεῖν εἰς τὴν κατάλυσιν τοῦ δεσπότου καὶ ἀποθέσθαι κρύψαντας ἐν τοῖς σκευοφόροις. [3] τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ συναχθείσης τῆς ἐκκλησίας παρελθὼν ὑπὲρ μὲν τῶν κατηγορηθέντων βραχεῖαν ἔλεγεν εἶναι τὴν ἀπολογία καὶ δικαστὴν ἀπάντων ἐποιεῖτο τῶν ἐγκλημάτων αὐτὸν τὸν κατήγορον. οὗτοσὶ γάρ, ἔφη, Τύρνος, ὧ συνέδροι, τοῦτων ὧν νυνὶ μου κατηγορεῖ πάντων δικαστῆς γενόμενος αὐτὸς ἀπέλυσέ με, ὅτε τὴν θυγατέρα τὴν ἐμὴν ἐβούλετο λαβεῖν γυναῖκα. [4] ἐπεὶ δ' ἀπηξιώθη τῶν γάμων κατὰ τὸ εἶκος: τίς γὰρ ἂν τῶν νοῦν ἐχόντων Μαιμίλιον τὸν εὐγενέστατον τε καὶ κράτιστον Λατίνων ἀπεώσατο, τοῦτον δὲ κηδεστὴν ἠξίωσε λαβεῖν, ὃς οὐδ' εἰς τρίτον πάππον ἀνενεγκεῖν ἔχει τὸ γένος; ἀγανακτῶν ἐπὶ τούτῳ νῦν ἡκει μου κατηγορῶν. ἔδει δ' αὐτόν, εἰ μὲν ἦδει με τοιοῦτον ὄντα, οἷον νῦν αἰτιᾶται, μὴ προθυμεῖσθαι λαβεῖν τότε πενθερόν: εἰ δὲ χρηστὸν ἐνόμιζεν, ὅτε τὴν θυγατέρα με ἤτεῖτο, μηδὲ νῦν ὡς πονηροῦ κατηγορεῖν. [5] καὶ περὶ μὲν ἐμαυτοῦ τοσαῦτα λέγω: ὑμῖν δ', ὧ συνέδροι, κινδύνων τὸν μέγιστον τρέχουσιν οὐ περὶ ἐμοῦ σκεπτέον ἐστὶ νυνὶ, πότερα χρηστὸς ἢ πονηρὸς εἰμι: τουτὶ γὰρ ἐξεῖται καὶ μετὰ ταῦθ' ὑμῖν σκοπεῖν: ἀλλὰ περὶ τῆς ὑμῶν αὐτῶν ἀσφαλείας καὶ περὶ τῆς τῶν πατριδῶν ἐλευθερίας. ἐπιβουλευέσθε [p. 84] γὰρ οἱ κορυφαϊότατοι τῶν ἐν ταῖς πόλεσι καὶ τὰ κοινὰ πράττοντες ὑπὸ τοῦ καλοῦ τούτου δημαγωγοῦ, ὃς παρεσκεύασται τε τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους ὑμῶν ἀποκτείνας ἐπιθέσθαι τῇ Λατίνων ἀρχῇ καὶ ἐπὶ τοῦθ' [6] 14 ἤκει. ταῦτα δ' οὐκ εἰκάζων, ἀλλ' ἀκριβῶς ἐπιστάμενος λέγω μηνύσεώς μοι γενομένης ἐν τῇ παρελθούσῃ νυκτὶ ὑπὸ τινος τῶν μετεσχηκότων τῆς συνωμοσίας. τεκμήριον δ' ὑμῖν παρέξομαι τῶν λόγων ἔργον ἀναμφίλεκτον, ἐὰν ἐθελήσητε ἐλθεῖν ἐπὶ τὴν κατάλυσιν αὐτοῦ, τὰ κεκρυμμένα ἐν αὐτῇ δείξας ὄπλα.

τυχὼν δὲ τῆς Λατίνων ἡγεμονίας ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐπρεσβεύσατο καὶ πρὸς τὰς Ἑρνίκων πόλεις καὶ πρὸς τὰς Οὐολούσκων προκαλούμενος κἀκείνους εἰς φιλίαν τε καὶ συμμαχίαν. Ἑρνικες μὲν οὖν ἅπαντες ἐψηφίσαντο ποιεῖν τὴν συμμαχίαν, ἐκ δὲ τοῦ Οὐολούσκων ἔθνους δύο πόλεις ἐδέξαντο μόναι τὰς προκλήσεις, Ἐχετρανοὶ τε καὶ Ἀντιᾶται. τοῦ δὲ μένειν εἰς ἅπαντα χρόνον τὰ συγκείμενα ταῖς πόλεσι πρόνοιαν ὁ Ταρκύνιος λαμβάνων ἱερὸν ἔγνω κοινὸν ἀποδεῖξαι Ῥωμαίων τε καὶ Λατίνων καὶ Ἑρνίκων καὶ Οὐολούσκων τῶν ἐγγραφασμένων εἰς τὴν συμμαχίαν, ἵνα συνερχόμενοι καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν εἰς τὸν ἀποδειχθέντα τόπον πανηγυρίζωσι καὶ συνεσιῶνται καὶ κοινῶν ἱερῶν μεταλαμβάνωσιν. [2] ἀγαπητῶς δὲ πάντων τὸ πρᾶγμα δεξαμένων τόπον μὲν ἀπέδειξεν, ἔνθα ποιήσονται τὴν σύνοδον ἐν μέσῳ μάλιστα τῶν ἐθνῶν κείμενον ὄρος ὑψηλόν, ὃ τῆς Ἀλβανῶν ὑπέρεκειται πόλεως, ἐν ᾧ πανηγύρεις τ' ἀνὰ πᾶν ἔτος ἄγεσθαι καὶ ἐκεχειρίας εἶναι πᾶσι πρὸς πάντας ἐνομοθέτησε θυσίας τε συντελεῖσθαι κοινὰς τῷ καλουμένῳ Λατιαρίῳ Διὶ καὶ συνεσιάσεις, τάξας ἃ δεῖ παρέχειν ἐκάστην πόλιν εἰς τὰ [p. 86] ἱερά, καὶ μοῖραν, ἣν ἐκάστην δεήσει λαμβάνειν. αἱ δὲ μετασχοῦσαι τῆς ἑορτῆς τε καὶ τῆς θυσίας πόλεις τριῶν δέουσαι πεντήκοντα ἐγένοντο. [3] ταύτας τὰς ἑορτάς τε καὶ τὰς θυσίας μέχρι τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων ἐπιτελοῦσι Ῥωμαῖοι Λατίνας καλοῦντες, καὶ φέρουσιν εἰς αὐτάς αἱ μετέχουσαι τῶν ἱερῶν πόλεις αἱ μὲν ἄρνας, αἱ δὲ τυρούς, αἱ δὲ γάλακτός τι μέτρον, αἱ δὲ

ἐξάγειν ἐπὶ Σαβίνους ἔγνω Ῥωμαίων τ' αὐτῶν ἐπιλέξας οὐς ἥκιστα ἔτι δ' ἐν τῇ Συνέσσει διατρίβοντος αὐτοῦ παρῆν τις ἀγγέλλων, ὅτι Σαβίνων στράτευμα, μαθὼν τὴν διάνοιαν αὐτῶν ὁ Ταρκύνιος· ἐάλω γὰρ ὁ τὰ γράμματα κομίζων παρὰ τῶν αὐτόθεν ἡγεμόνων πρὸς τοὺς ἐκεῖ· σοφία πρὸς τὸ συμβᾶν ἀπὸ τύχης ἐχρήσατο τοιαῦδε. ^[3] 16 νείμας τὴν δύναμιν διχῇ τὴν μὲν ἑτέραν ὑπὸ νύκτα πέμπει λαθὼν τοὺς πολεμίους ἐπὶ τὴν φέρουσιν ἀπὸ Φιδήνης ὁδόν, τὴν δ' ἑτέραν ἅμα τῷ λαμπρᾷ ἡμέραν γενέσθαι συντάξας προῆγεν ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος ὡς εἰς μάχην· καὶ οἱ Σαβίνοι τεθαρρηκότες ἀντεπεξῆσαν τοὺς τε πολεμίους οὐ πολλοὺς ὀρῶντες καὶ τὴν ἑαυτῶν [p. 89] δύναμιν τὴν ἀπὸ Φιδήνης ὅσον οὐπω παρέσεσθαι νομίζοντες. οὗτοι μὲν δὴ καταστάντες ἐμάχοντο, καὶ ἦν ισόρροπος αὐτοῖς ἐπὶ πολὺν χρόνον ὁ ἀγών· οἱ δὲ προαποσταλέντες ὑπὸ τοῦ Ταρκυνίου νύκτωρ ὑποστρέψαντες ἐκ τῆς ὁδοῦ καὶ γενόμενοι κατὰ νώτου τῶν Σαβίνων ἐπήεσαν. ^[4] τοῦτους ἰδόντες οἱ Σαβίνοι καὶ γνωρίσαντες ἐκ τῶν ὅπλων καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν σημείων ἐξέστησαν τῶν λογισμῶν καὶ τὰ ὅπλα ῥίψαντες ἐπειρῶντο σῶζειν ἑαυτοὺς. ἦν δ' ἄπορος ἡ σωτηρία τοῖς πολλοῖς περιεχομένοις κύκλῳ ὑπ' ἐχθρῶν, καὶ τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἡ ἵππος ἐπικειμένη πανταχόθεν αὐτοὺς ἀπέκλειεν· ὥστ' ὀλίγοι μὲν τινες ἔφθησαν τὰ δεινὰ ὑπεκδύντες, οἱ δὲ πλείους κατεκόπησαν ὑπὸ τῶν πολεμίων ἢ παρέδοσαν ἑαυτοὺς. ἀντέσχον δ' οὐδ' οἱ καταλειφθέντες ἐπὶ τοῦ χάρακος, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὸ ἔρυμα ἐάλω τῇ πρώτῃ ἐφόδῳ· ἔνθα σὺν τοῖς ἰδίοις τῶν Σαβίνων χρήμασι καὶ τὰ Ῥωμαίων ἅπαντα σὺν πολλοῖς αἰχμαλώτοις ἔτι ἀκέραια ὄντα τοῖς ἀπολωλεκόσιν ἀνεσώθη.

ὡς δ' ἡ πρώτη πεῖρα τῷ Ταρκυνίῳ κατὰ νοῦν ἐχώρησεν, ἀναλαβὼν τὴν δύναμιν ἦκεν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἐν Φιδήνῃ ἐστρατοπεδευκότας τῶν Σαβίνων, οἷς οὐπω δῆλος ἦν ὁ τῶν σφετέρων ὄλεθρος. ἔτυχον δὲ κάκεινοι προεξεληλυθότες ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος καὶ ἤδη ὄντες ἐν ὁδῷ· ὡς δὴ πλησίον ἐγένοντο καὶ εἶδον ἐπὶ δορατίων ἀναπεπηγυῖας τὰς κεφαλὰς τῶν σφετέρων ἡγεμόνων· [p. 90] προὔτεινον γὰρ αὐτὰς οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι καταπλήξεως τῶν πολεμίων ἔνεκα· μαθόντες, ὅτι διέφθαρται τὸ ἕτερον αὐτῶν στράτευμα, οὐδὲν ἔτι ἀπεδειξαντο γενναῖον ἔργον, ἀλλ' εἰς ἰκεσίας καὶ δεήσεις τραπόμενοι παρέδοσαν 17 ἑαυτοὺς. ^[2] οὕτω δ' αἰσχροῦς καὶ κακῶς ἀμφοτέρων τῶν στρατοπέδων ἀναρπασθέντων εἰς στενὰς ἐλπίδας οἱ Σαβίνοι κατακεκλεισμένοι καὶ περὶ τῶν πόλεων, μὴ ἐξ ἐφόδου καταληφθῶσι, δεδιότες ὑπὲρ εἰρήνης διεπρεσβεύοντο παραδιδόντες σφᾶς αὐτοὺς ὑπηκόους εἶναι Ταρκυνίου καὶ φόρου τὸ λοιπὸν ὑποτελεῖς. σπεισάμενος δὲ πρὸς αὐτοὺς τὸν πόλεμον καὶ ἐπὶ ταῖς αὐταῖς συνθήκαις παραλαβὼν τὰς πόλεις ἐπὶ Σύεεσσαν ὥχετο. ἐκείθεν δὲ τὴν τε καταλειφθεῖσαν δύναμιν καὶ τὰ λάφυρα καὶ τὴν ἄλλην ἀποσκευὴν ἀναλαβὼν εἰς 18 Ῥώμην ἀπήει πλουτοῦσαν τὴν στρατιάν ἀπάγων. ^[3] ἐποίησατο δὲ καὶ μετὰ ταῦτα πολλὰς ἐξόδους ἐπὶ τὴν Οὐολούσκων χώραν τοτὲ μὲν ἀπάσῃ τῇ δυνάμει, τότε δὲ μέρει τινί, καὶ λείας πολλῆς ἐγένετο κύριος. ἦδη δὲ τῶν πλείστων αὐτῷ κατὰ νοῦν χωροῦντων πόλεμος ἐκ τῶν ὁμόρων ἀνέστη χρόνῳ τε μακρὸς· ἔτη γὰρ ἑπτὰ συνεχῶς ἐπολεμήθη· καὶ παθήμασι χαλεποῖς καὶ ἀπροσδοκῆτοις μέγας. ἀφ' ὧν δ' αἰτιῶν ἦρξατο καὶ [p. 91] τελευτῆς ὁποίας ἔτυχεν, ἐπειδὴ δολίῳ τ' ἀπάτῃ καὶ στρατηγήματι παραδόξῳ κατειργάσθη, δι' ὀλίγων ἐρῶ.

Γαβίους αὐτὴν ἐκάλουν: νῦν μὲν οὐκέτι συνοικουμένη πᾶσα, πλὴν ὅσα μέρη πανδοκεύεται κατὰ τὴν διόδον, τότε δὲ πολυάνθρωπος εἰ καὶ τις ἄλλη καὶ μεγάλη. τεκμήριαιτο δ' ἂν τις αὐτῆς τὸ μέγεθος καὶ τὴν ἀξίωσιν ἐρείπια θεασάμενος οἰκῶν πολλαχῇ καὶ τείχους κύκλον, [2] ἔτι γὰρ ἔστηκεν αὐτοῦ τὰ πλεῖστα. εἰς ταύτην συνερρῆσαν Πωμεντίνων τε τῶν ἐκ Συέσσης διαφυγόντων τινές, ὅτε τὴν πόλιν αὐτῶν Ταρκύνιος κατελάβετο, καὶ τῶν ἐκ Ῥώμης φυγάδων συχνοί: οὗτοι δεόμενοι καὶ λιπαροῦντες τιμωρῆσαι σφισι τοὺς Γαβίους καὶ πολλὰς ὑποσχνούμενοι δωρεάς, εἰ κατέλθοιεν ἐπὶ τὰ σφέτερα, τὴν τε κατάλυσιν τοῦ τυράννου δυνατὴν ἀποφαίνοντες καὶ ῥάδιαν, ὥς καὶ τῶν ἐν τῇ πόλει συλληφωμένων, ἔπεισαν αὐτοὺς συμπροθυμηθέντων καὶ Οὐολούσκων: ἐπρεσβεύσαντο γὰρ κάκεῖνοι δεόμενοι συμμαχίας: τὸν κατὰ τοῦ Ταρκυνίου πόλεμον ἀναλαβεῖν. [3] ἐγίνοντο δὴ μετὰ ταῦτα μεγάλοις στρατεύμασιν εἰς τὴν ἀλλήλων γῆν εἰσβολαὶ καὶ καταδρομαὶ μάχαι τε, ὅπερ εἰκός, τοτὲ μὲν ὀλίγοις πρὸς ὀλίγους, τοτὲ δὲ πᾶσι πρὸς πάντας, ἐν αἷς πολλάκις μὲν οἱ Γάβιοι τοὺς Ῥωμαίους τρεφάμενοι μέχρι τῶν τειχῶν [p. 92] καὶ πολλοὺς καταβαλόντες ἀδεῶς τὴν χώραν ἐπόρθουν, πολλάκις δ' οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι τοὺς Γαβίους ὠσάμενοι καὶ κατακλείσαντες εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἀνδράποδα καὶ λειαν αὐτῶν πολλὴν ἀπῆγον.

συνεχῶς δὲ τούτων γινομένων ἠναγκάζοντο ἀμφοτέροι τῆς χώρας ὅσα ἦν ἐρυμνὰ τειχίζοντες φρουρὰν ἐν αὐτοῖς καθιστάναι καταφυγῆς τῶν γεωργῶν ἔνεκα: ὅθεν ὀρμώμενοι τὰ τε ληστήρια, καὶ εἴ τι ἀποσπασθὲν ἴδιοιεν μέρος ὀλίγον ἀπὸ πολλοῦ στρατοῦ καὶ οἷα εἰκός ἐν προνομαῖς ἀσύντακτον διὰ καταφρόνησιν, κατιόντες ἀθρόοι διέφθειρον: καὶ τῶν πόλεων ὅσα ἦν ἐπίμαχα καὶ ῥάδια ληφθῆναι διὰ κλιμάκων ἐξοικοδομεῖν τε καὶ ἀποταφρεῦειν δεδοικότες τὰς αἰφνιδίους ἀλλήλων ἐφόδους. [2] μᾶλλον δ' ὁ Ταρκύνιος περὶ ταῦτ' ἐνεργὸς ἦν καὶ τῆς πόλεως τὰ πρὸς τοὺς Γαβίους φέροντα τοῦ περιβόλου διὰ πολυχειρίας ἐξωχυροῦτο τάφρον ὀρυζάμενος εὐρυτέραν καὶ τεῖχος ἐγείρας ὑψηλότερον καὶ πύργοις διαλαβὼν τὸ χωρίον πυκνοτέρους: κατὰ τοῦτο γὰρ ἐδόκει μάλιστα τὸ μέρος ἢ πόλις ἀνώχυρος εἶναι, πάντα τὸν ἄλλον περίβολον ἀσφαλῆς ἐπεικῶς οὕσα καὶ δυσπρόσιτος. [3] ἔμελλε δ', ὃ πάσαις φιλεῖ συμβαίνειν ταῖς πόλεσιν ἐν τοῖς μακροῖς πολέμοις δηουμένης διὰ τὰς συνεχεῖς τῶν πολεμίων εἰσβολὰς τῆς γῆς καὶ μηκέτι τοὺς καρποὺς ἐκφερούσης, [p. 93] σπάνις ἀπάσης τροφῆς ἐν ἀμφοτέραις ἔσσεσθαι καὶ δεινὴ περὶ τοῦ μέλλοντος ἀθυμία: κάκιον δὲ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ἐπίεζεν ἢ τοὺς Γαβίους ἢ τῶν ἀναγκαιῶν ἔνδεια, καὶ οἱ πενέστατοι αὐτῶν μάλιστα κάμνοντες ὁμολογίας ὥοντο δεῖν ποιήσασθαι πρὸς τοὺς Γαβίους καὶ τὸν πόλεμον ἐφ' οἷς ἂν ἐκεῖνοι θέλωσι διαλύσασθαι.

ἀδημονοῦντος δ' ἐπὶ τοῖς συμβεβηκόσι τοῦ Ταρκυνίου καὶ οὕτε διαλύσασθαι τὸν πόλεμον αἰσχυρῶς ὑπομένοντος οὗτ' ἀντέχειν ἔτι δυναμένου, πάσας δὲ πείρας ἐπιτεχνωμένου καὶ δόλους παντοδαποὺς συντιθέντος, ὁ πρεσβύτατος αὐτοῦ τῶν υἱῶν Σέξτος ὄνομα κοινωσάμενος τὴν γνώμην τῷ πατρὶ μόνῳ καὶ δόξας τολμηρῶ μὲν ἐπιχειρεῖν πράγματι καὶ μέγαν ἔχοντι κίνδυνον, οὐ μὴν ἀδυνάτῳ γε, συγχωρήσαντος τοῦ πατρὸς ποιεῖν ὅσα βούλεται, σκῆπτεται διαφορὰν πρὸς τὸν πατέρα περὶ τῆς καταλύσεως τοῦ πολέμου: [2] μαστιγωθείς δ' ὑπ' αὐτοῦ ῥάβδοις ἐν ἀγορᾷ καὶ τᾷλλα περιυβρισθείς, ὥστε περιβόητον γενέσθαι τὸ πρᾶγμα, πρῶτον μὲν ἐκ τῶν ἐταίρων τοὺς πιστοτάτους ἔπεμπεν ὡς αὐτομόλους φράσσοντας τοῖς Γαβίοις δι' ἀπορρήτων, ὅτι πολεμεῖν τῷ πατρὶ διέγνωκεν ὡς αὐτοὺς ἀφικόμενος, εἰ λάβοι πίστεις, ὅτι φυλάξουσιν αὐτὸν ὥσπερ καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους τοὺς ἐκ Ῥώμης φυγάδας καὶ οὐκ ἐκδώσουσι τῷ πατρὶ τὰς ἰδίας ἐχθρας ἐλπίσαντες ἐπὶ τῷ [3] σφετέρῳ συμφέροντι διαλύσεσθαι. ἀσμένως δὲ τῶν Γαβίων τὸν λόγον ἀκουσάντων καὶ μηδὲν εἰς αὐτὸν παρανομήσειν διομολογησαμένων παρῆν ἐταίρους τε [p. 94] πολλοὺς καὶ πελάτας ἐπαγόμενος ὡς αὐτόματος καὶ ἵνα δὴ μᾶλλον αὐτῷ πιστεῦσαι ἀληθεῦειν τὴν ἀπὸ τοῦ πατρὸς ἀπόστασιν, ἀργυρίον τε καὶ χρυσίον πολὺ κομίζων: ἐπισυνέρρεόν τ' αὐτῷ πολλοὶ μετὰ ταῦτα τῶν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως φεύγειν τὴν τυραννίδα σκηπτόμενοι, [4] καὶ χεῖρ ἤδη περὶ αὐτὸν ἦν καρτερὰ. δόξαντες δ' οἱ Γάβιοι μέγα προσγεγονέναι σφίσι πλεονέκτημα πολλῶν ὡς αὐτοὺς ἀφικόμενων καὶ οὐ διὰ μακροῦ τὴν Ῥώμην ὑποχείριον ἔξειν ἐλπίσαντες καὶ ἔτι μᾶλλον ἐξαπατηθέντες ὑφ' ὧν ἔπραττεν ὁ τοῦ πατρὸς ἀποστάτης συνεχῶς ἐπὶ τὴν χώραν ἐξιὼν καὶ πολλὰς περιβαλλόμενος ὠφελείας: παρεσκεύασε γὰρ ὁ πατὴρ αὐτῷ προειδῶς εἰς οὓς παρέσται τόπους, τὴν τε λειάν ἄφθονον καὶ τὰ χωρία ἀφύλακτα, καὶ τοὺς ἀπολουμένους ὑπ' αὐτοῦ συνεχῶς ἔπεμπεν, ἐπιλεγόμενος ἐκ τῶν πολιτῶν, οὓς ἐν ὑποψίαις εἶχεν: ἐξ ἀπάντων τε τούτων δόξαντες φίλον τε πιστὸν εἶναι σφίσι τὸν ἄνδρα καὶ στρατηλάτην ἀγαθόν, πολλοὶ δὲ καὶ χρήμασιν ὑπ' αὐτοῦ δεκασθέντες, ἐπὶ τὴν αὐτοκράτορα παράγουσιν ἀρχὴν.

τοσαύτης δὴ γενόμενος ἐξουσίας ὁ Σέξτος κύριος δι' ἀπάτης καὶ φενακισμοῦ τῶν θεραπόντων τινὰ λαθῶν τοὺς Γαβίους πέμπει πρὸς τὸν πατέρα τὴν τ' ἐξουσίαν, ἣν εἰληφώς ἦν, δηλώσοντα καὶ πεισόμενον, [2] τί χρή ποιεῖν. ὁ δὲ Ταρκύνιος οὐδὲ τὸν θεράποντα γινώσκειν βουλόμενος, ἃ τὸν υἱὸν ἐκέλευσε [p. 95] ποιεῖν, ἄγων τὸν ἄγγελον προῆλθεν εἰς τὸν παρακείμενον τοῖς βασιλείοις κῆπον: ἔτυχον δὲ μήκωνες ἐν αὐτῷ πεφυκυῖαι πλήρεις ἤδη τοῦ καρποῦ καὶ συγκομιδῆς ὥραν ἔχουσαι: διεξιὼν δὴ διὰ τούτων τῆς ὑπερεχούσης αἰὲ μήκωνος τῷ σκήπῳ παίων τὴν κεφαλὴν ἀπήραττε. [3] ταῦτα ποιήσας ἀπέστειλε τὸν ἄγγελον οὐδὲν ἀποκρινάμενος τῷ πολλακίς ἐπερωτῶντι, τὴν Θρασυβούλου τοῦ Μιλησίου διάνοιαν ὡς ἔμοιγε δοκεῖ μιμησάμενος: καὶ γὰρ ἐκεῖνος Περιάνδρῳ ποτὲ τῷ Κορινθίων τυράννῳ πυνθανομένῳ διὰ τοῦ πεμφθέντος ἀγγέλου, πῶς ἂν ἐγκρατέστατα τὴν ἀρχὴν κατὰσχοι, λόγον μὲν οὐδένα ἀπέστειλεν, ἀκολουθεῖν δὲ τὸν ἦκοντα παρ' αὐτοῦ κελεύσας, ἦγε δι' ἀρούρας σιτοσπόρου καὶ τοὺς ὑπερέχοντας τῶν σταχύων ἀποθραύων ἐρρίπτει χαμαὶ διδάσκων, ὅτι δεῖ τῶν ἀστῶν τοὺς δοκιμωτάτους κολοῦειν τε καὶ διαφθεῖρειν. [4] τὸ παραπλήσιον δὴ καὶ τοῦ Ταρκυνίου τότε ποιήσαντος συνεῖς τὴν διάνοιαν τοῦ πατρὸς ὁ Σέξτος, ὅτι κελεῖται τοὺς ὑπερέχοντας τῶν Γαβίων ἀναιρεῖν, συνεκάλεσεν εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸ πλῆθος καὶ πολὺν ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ λόγον διαθέμενος, ὅτι καταπεφευγὼς εἰς τὴν ἐκείνων πίστιν ἅμα τοῖς ἐταίροις κινδυνεῖ συλληφθεὶς ὑπὸ τινων τῷ πατρὶ παραδοθῆναι, τὴν τ' ἀρχὴν ἔτοιμος ἦν

ἡρεθισμένου δὲ τοῦ πλήθους καὶ μετὰ πολλῆς προθυμίας πυνθανομένου, τινες εἰσὶν οἱ μέλλοντες αὐτὸν προδιδόναι, τὸν ἐπιφανέστατον τῶν Γαβίων Ἀντίστιον Πέτρωνα ὠνόμασεν, ὃς ἐν εἰρήνῃ τε πολλὰ καὶ σπουδαῖα πολιτευσάμενος καὶ στρατηγίας πολλὰς τετελεκώς ἐπιφανέστατος ἀπάντων ἐγεγόνει: ἀπολογουμένου δὲ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς καὶ διὰ τὸ μηδὲν ἑαυτῷ συνειδέναι πᾶσαν ἐξέτασιν ὑπομένοντος ἔφη βούλεσθαι τὴν οἰκίαν αὐτοῦ διερευνῆσαι πέμψας ἑτέρους, αὐτὸς δ' ἐπὶ τῆς ἐκκλησίας σὺν ἐκείνῳ, τέως ἂν οἱ πεμφθέντες ἔλθωσι, μένειν. [2] ἔτυχε δὲ διεφθαρκῶς αὐτοῦ τῶν θεραπόντων τινὰς ἀργυρίῳ τὰς ἐπὶ τὸν ὄλεθρον τοῦ Πέτρωνος κατασκευασθείσας ἐπιστολὰς σεσημειωμένας τῇ τοῦ πατρὸς σφραγίδι λαβόντας ἔνδον ἀποθέσθαι. ὥς δ' οἱ πεμφθέντες ἐπὶ τὴν ἔρευναν: οὐδὲν γὰρ ἀντεῖπεν ὁ Πέτρων, ἀλλ' ἔφηκε τὴν οἰκίαν ἐρευνᾶν: εὐρόντες, ἔνθα ἦν ἀποκεκρυμμένα τὰ γράμματα, παρῆσαν εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἄλλας τε πολλὰς φέροντες ἐπιστολὰς ἐπισεσημασμένας καὶ τὴν πρὸς τὸν Ἀντίστιον γραφεῖσαν, ἐπιγινώσκειν φήσας τὴν σφραγίδα τοῦ πατρὸς ὁ Σέξτος ἔλυσε, καὶ τῷ γραμματεῖ δοὺς ἐκέλευσεν 19 ἀναγινώσκειν. [3] ἐγγράπτο δ' ἐν αὐτῇ, μάλιστα μὲν [p. 97] ζῶντα παραδοῦναι τὸν υἱὸν αὐτῷ καὶ κομίζεσθαι τοὺς διωμολογημένους μισθοὺς, ἐὰν δ' ἀδύνατος ἦ τοῦτο τὴν κεφαλὴν ἀποτεμόντα πέμψαι. ταῦτα δὲ ποιήσαντι αὐτῷ τε καὶ τοῖς συλλαβομένοις τοῦ ἔργου χωρὶς τῶν ἄλλων μισθῶν, οὓς πρότερον ὑπέσχητο, πολιτείαν τε τὴν ἐν Ῥώμῃ δώσειν ἔφη καὶ εἰς τὸν τῶν πατρικίων ἀριθμὸν ἅπαντας ἐγγράφειν οἰκίας τε καὶ κλήρους καὶ [4] ἄλλας δωρεὰς πολλὰς ἐπιθήσειν καὶ μεγάλας. ἐφ' οἷς ἐρεθισθέντες οἱ Γάβιοι τὸν μὲν Ἀντίστιον ἐκπεπληγότα ἐπὶ τῇ παραδόξῳ συμφορᾷ καὶ οὐδὲ φωνὴν ὑπὸ τοῦ κακοῦ ῥῆξαι δυνάμενον ἀποκτείνουσι βάλλοντες λίθοις: τὴν δὲ κατὰ τῶν ἄλλων ζήτησιν τε καὶ τιμωρίαν τῶν ταῦτά τῷ Πέτρωνι βουλευσαμένων ἐπέτρεψαν τῷ Σέξτῳ ποιήσασθαι. ὁ δὲ τοῖς ἰδίοις ἑταίροις τὴν φυλακὴν ἐπιτρέψας τῶν πυλῶν, ἵνα μὴ διαφύγοιεν αὐτὸν οἱ ἐν ταῖς αἰτίαις, πέμπτῳ ἐπὶ τὰς οἰκίας τῶν ἐπιφανεστάτων ἀνδρῶν ἀπέκτεινε πολλοὺς τῶν Γαβίων καὶ ἀγαθοῦς.

ἐν ᾧ δὲ ταῦτ' ἐπράττετο, θορύβου κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ὄντος ὥς ἐπὶ τοσοῦτω κακῷ μαθὼν τὰ γινόμενα διὰ γραμμάτων ὁ Ταρκύνιος παρῆν ἄγων τὴν δύναμιν καὶ περὶ μέσον νυκτὸς ἀγχοῦ τῆς πόλεως γενόμενος ἀνοιχθεῖσῶν τῶν πυλῶν ὑπὸ τῶν ἐπὶ τοῦτο [p. 98] παρεσκευασμένων εἰσελθὼν διχα πόνου κύριος ἐγεγόνει τῆς πόλεως. [2] ὥς δ' ἐγνώσθη τὸ πάθος ἀπάντων κατοδυρομένων ἑαυτοὺς οἷα πείσονται, σφαγὰς τε καὶ ἀνδραποδισμοὺς καὶ πάντα ὅσα καταλαμβάνει δεινὰ τοὺς ὑπὸ τυράννων ἀλόντας προσδοκῶντων, εἰ δὲ τὰ κράτιστα πράξειαν, δουλείας τε καὶ χρημάτων ἀφαιρέσεις καὶ τὰ ὅμοια τούτοις κατεψηφικότων, οὐδὲν ὁ Ταρκύνιος ὦν προσεδόκων τε καὶ ἐδεδοίκεσαν καίτοι πικρὸς ὀργὴν καὶ περὶ τὰς τιμωρίας τῶν ἐχθρῶν ἀπαραίτητος 20 ὦν ἔδρασεν. [3] οὕτε γὰρ ἀπέκτεινεν οὐδένα Γαβίων οὗτ' ἐξήλασε τῆς πόλεως οὗτ' εἰς ἀτιμίαν ἢ χρημάτων ἀφαιρέσιν ἐξημίωσε, συγκαλέσας δ' εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸ πλῆθος καὶ βασιλικὸν ἐκ τυραννικοῦ τρόπου μεταλαβὼν τὴν τε πόλιν αὐτοῖς ἔφη τὴν ἰδίαν ἀποδιδόναι καὶ τὰς οὐσίας, ἃς ἔχουσι, συγχωρεῖν καὶ σὺν τούτοις τὴν Ῥωμαίων ἰσοπολιτείαν ἅπασι χαριζεσθαι, οὐ δὲ εὖνοιαν τὴν πρὸς τοὺς Γαβίους, ἀλλ' ἵνα τὴν Ῥωμαίων ἡγεμονίαν ἐγκρατέστερον κατέχῃ ταῦτα πράττων: κρατίστην ἡγούμενος ἔσεσθαι φυλακὴν ἑαυτοῦ τε καὶ τῶν παιδῶν τὴν ἐκ τῶν παρ' ἐλπίδας σεσωσμένων καὶ τὰ ἴδια πάντα κεκομισμένων πίστιν. ^[4] καὶ ἵνα μηδὲν αὐτοῖς ἔτι δεῖμα περὶ τοῦ μέλλοντος ὑπάρχῃ χρόνου μηδ' ἐνδοιάζωσιν, εἰ βέβαια ταῦτα σφίσι διαμενεῖ, γράψας ἐφ' οἷς ἔσονται δικαίοις φίλοι, τὰ περὶ τούτων ὅρκια συνετέλεσεν ἐπὶ τῆς ἐκκλησίας ^[p. 99] παραχρῆμα καὶ διωμόσατο κατὰ τῶν σφαγίων. τούτων ἐστὶ τῶν ὁρκίων μνημεῖον ἐν Ῥώμῃ κείμενον ἐν ἱερῷ Διὸς Πιστίου, ὃν Ῥωμαῖοι Σάγκον καλοῦσιν, ὅστις ξυλινὴ βύρση βοεῖα περίτονος τοῦ σφαγιασθέντος ἐπὶ τῶν ὁρκίων τότε βοός, γράμμασιν ἀρχαϊκοῖς ἐπιγεγραμμένα τὰς γενομένας αὐτοῖς ὁμολογίας. ταῦτα πράξας καὶ βασιλέα τῶν Γαβίων τὸν υἱὸν Σέξτον ἀποδείξας ἀπῆγε τὴν δύναμιν. ὁ μὲν δὴ πρὸς Γαβίους πόλεμος τοιοῦτου τέλους ἔτυχεν.

Ταρκύνιος δὲ μετὰ τοῦτο τὸ ἔργον ἀναπαύσας τὸν λεῶν τῶν στρατιῶν καὶ πολέμων περὶ τὴν κατασκευὴν τῶν ἱερῶν ἐγένετο τὰς τοῦ πάππου προθυμούμενος εὐχὰς ἐπιτελέσαι. ἐκεῖνος γὰρ ἐν τῷ τελευταίῳ πολέμῳ μαχόμενος πρὸς Σαβίνους εὗξατο τῷ Διὶ καὶ τῇ Ἥρᾳ καὶ τῇ Ἀθηνᾷ, ἐὰν κρατήσῃ τῇ μάχῃ, ναοὺς αὐτοῖς κατασκευάσειν: καὶ τὸν μὲν σκόπελον, ἔνθα ἰδρῦσεσθαι τοὺς θεοὺς ἔμελλεν, ἀναλήμμασί τε καὶ χῶμασι μεγάλους ἐξειργάσατο, καθάπερ ἔφην ἐν τῷ πρὸ τούτου λόγῳ, τὴν δὲ τῶν ναῶν κατασκευὴν οὐκ ἔφθην τελέσαι. τοῦτο δὴ τὸ ἔργον ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἀπὸ τῆς δεκάτης τῶν ἐκ Συέσσης λαφύρων ἐπιτελέσαι προαιρούμενος ἅπαντας τοὺς τεχνίτας ἐπέστησε ταῖς ἐργασίαις. ^[2] ἔνθα δὴ λέγεται τέρας τι θαυμαστὸν ὑπόγειον ὀρυττομένων τε τῶν θεμελίων καὶ τῆς ὀρυγῆς εἰς πολὺ βάθος ἤδη προϊούσης, εὐρῆσθαι κεφαλὴ νεοσφαγοῦς ἀνθρώπου τὸ τε πρόσωπον ἔχουσα ^[p. 100] τοῖς ἐμψύχοις ὅμοιον καὶ τὸ καταφερόμενον ἐκ τῆς ἀποτομῆς αἷμα θερμὸν ἔτι καὶ νεαρόν. ^[3] τοῦτο τὸ τέρας ἰδὼν ὁ Ταρκύνιος τοῦ μὲν ὀρύγματος ἐπισχεῖν ἐκέλευσε τοὺς ἐργαζομένους: συγκαλέσας δὲ τοὺς ἐπιχωρίους μάντεις ἐπυνθάνετο παρ' αὐτῶν, τί βούλεται σημαίνειν τὸ τέρας. οὐδὲν δ' αὐτῶν ἀποφαινομένων, ἀλλὰ Τυρρηνοῖς ἀποδιδόντων τὴν περὶ τῶν τοιούτων ἐπιστήμην ἐξετάσας παρ' αὐτῶν καὶ μαθὼν τὸν ἐπιφανέστατον τῶν ἐν Τυρρηνοῖς τερατοσκόπων, ὅστις ἦν, πέμπει τῶν ἀστῶν τοὺς δοκιμωτάτους πρέσβεις πρὸς αὐτόν.

έμοῦ διδασθεῖσι μηδέν ἐξαμαρτεῖν· μοῖρα δ' οὐκ ἐλαχίστη τῶν ἐν μαντικῇ θεωρημάτων ἐρώτησις ὀρθή. ἐδόκει τοῖς ἀνδράσιν οὕτω ποιεῖν, καὶ λέγουσιν αὐτῷ τὸ τέρας. ὁ δ' ὡς ἤκουσε μικρὸν ἐπισχὼν χρόνον, ἀκούσας, ἔφησεν, ἄνδρες Ῥωμαῖοι· τὸ μὲν τέρας ὑμῖν ὁ πατήρ [p. 101] διελεῖται καὶ οὐδὲν ψεύσεται· μάντει γάρ οὐ θέμις· ἃ δὲ λέγοντες ὑμεῖς καὶ ἀποκρινόμενοι πρὸς τὰς ἐρωτήσεις ἀναμάρτητοί τε καὶ ἀψευδεῖς ἔσεσθε· διαφέρει γὰρ ὑμῖν προεγνωκέναι ταῦτα· παρ' ἐμοῦ μάθετε. [3] ὅταν ἀφηγήσησθε αὐτῷ τὸ τέρας, οὐκ ἀκριβῶς μανθάνειν φήσας ὅ τι λέγετε περιγράψει τῷ σκῆπτῳ τῆς γῆς μέρος ὅσον δὴ τι· ἔπειθ' ὑμῖν ἐρεῖ, Τουτὶ μὲν ἔστιν ὁ Ταρπήιος λόφος, μέρος δ' αὐτοῦ τουτὶ μὲν τὸ πρὸς τὰς ἀνατολάς βλέπον, τουτὶ δὲ τὸ πρὸς τὰς δύσεις, [4] βόρειον δ' αὐτοῦ τόδε καὶ τοῦναντίον νότιον. ταῦτα τῷ σκῆπτῳ δεικνὺς πεύσεται παρ' ὑμῶν, ἐπὶ ποίῳ τῶν μερῶν τούτων εὐρέθη ἡ κεφαλὴ. τί οὖν ὑμῖν ἀποκρίνασθαι παραινῶ· μὴ συγχωρεῖν ἐν μηδενὶ τῶν τόπων τούτων, οὓς ἂν ἐκείνος τῷ σκῆπτῳ δεικνὺς πυθάνηται, τὸ τέρας εὐρεθῆναι, ἀλλ' ἐν Ῥώμῃ φάναι παρ' ἡμῖν ἐν Ταρπήϊῳ λόφῳ. ταύτας ἔαν φυλάττητε τὰς ἀποκρίσεις καὶ μηδὲν παράγησθε ὑπ' αὐτοῦ, συγγνούς, ὅτι τὸ χρεῶν οὐκ ἔνεστι μετατεθῆναι, διελεῖται τὸ τέρας ὑμῖν ὅ τι βούλεται σημαίνειν καὶ οὐκ ἀποκρύφεται.

ταῦτα μαθόντες οἱ πρέσβεις, ἐπειδὴ σχολὴν ὁ πρεσβύτης ἔσχε καὶ προῆλθέ τις αὐτοὺς μετιῶν, εἰσελθόντες φράζουσι τῷ μάντει τὸ τέρας. σοφιστομένου δ' αὐτοῦ καὶ διαγράφοντος ἐπὶ τῆς γῆς περιφερεῖς [p. 102] τε γραμμὰς καὶ ἑτέρας αὐθις εὐθείας καὶ καθ' ἐν ἑκαστον χωρίον ποιουμένου τὰς ὑπὲρ τῆς εὐρέσεως ἐρωτήσεις οὐδὲν ἐπιταραττόμενοι τὴν γνώμην οἱ πρέσβεις τὴν αὐτὴν ἐφύλαττον ἀποκρίσιν, ὥσπερ αὐτοῖς ὁ τοῦ μάντεως ὑπέθετο υἱός, τὴν Ῥώμην καὶ τὸν Ταρπήιον ὀνομάζοντες αἰεὶ λόφον καὶ τὸν ἐξηγητὴν ἀξιοῦντες μὴ σφετεριζέσθαι τὸ σημεῖον, ἀλλ' ἀπὸ τοῦ [2] κρατίστου καὶ τοῦ δικαιοτάτου λέγειν. οὐ δυναθεῖς δὲ παρακρούσασθαι τοὺς ἄνδρας ὁ μάντις οὐδὲ σφετερισάσθαι τὸν οἰωνὸν λέγει πρὸς αὐτοὺς, Ἄνδρες Ῥωμαῖοι, λέγετε πρὸς τοὺς ἑαυτῶν πολίτας, ὅτι κεφαλὴν εἵμαρται γενέσθαι συμπάσης Ἰταλίας τὸν τόπον τοῦτον, ἐν ᾧ τὴν κεφαλὴν εὗρετε. ἐξ ἐκείνου καλεῖται τοῦ χρόνου Καπιτωλῖνος ὁ λόφος ἐπὶ τῆς εὐρεθείσης ἐν αὐτῷ κεφαλῇς· κάπιτα γὰρ οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι καλοῦσι τὰς κεφαλὰς. [3] ταῦτα παρὰ τῶν πρεσβευσάντων ἀκούσας ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐπέστησε τοῖς ἔργοις τοὺς τεχνίτας· καὶ τὰ μὲν πολλὰ ἐξεργάσατο τοῦ ναοῦ, τελειῶσας δ' οὐκ ἔφθασεν ἅπαν τὸ ἔργον ἐκπεσὼν τάχιον ἐκ τῆς δυναστείας, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τῆς τρίτης ὑπατείας ἡ Ῥωμαίων πόλις αὐτὸν εἰς συντέλειαν ἐξεργάσατο. ἐποιήθη δ' ἐπὶ κρηπιδος ὑψηλῆς βεβηκὼς ὀκτάπλευρος τὴν περίοδον, διακοσίων ποδῶν ἔγγιστα τὴν πλευρὰν ἔχων ἐκάστην· ὀλίγον δὲ τι τὸ διαλλάττον εὗροι τις ἂν τῆς ὑπεροχῆς τοῦ μήκους παρὰ τὸ πλάτος οὐδ' ὅλων πεντεκαίδεκα ποδῶν. [4] ἐπὶ γὰρ τοῖς αὐτοῖς θεμελίοις ὁ μετὰ τὴν [p. 103] ἔμπρησιν οἰκοδομηθεὶς κατὰ τοὺς πατέρας ἡμῶν εὐρέθη τῇ πολυτελείᾳ τῆς ὕλης μόνον διαλλάττων τοῦ ἀρχαίου, ἐκ μὲν τοῦ κατὰ πρόσωπον μέρους τοῦ πρὸς μεσημβρίαν βλέποντος τριπλῶ περιλαμβανόμενος στοιχῶ κίωνων, ἐκ δὲ τῶν πλαγίων ἀπλῶ· ἐν δ' αὐτῷ τρεῖς ἔνεισι σηκοὶ παράλληλοι κοινὰς ἔχοντες πλευράς,

λέγεται δὲ τι καὶ ἕτερον ἐπὶ τῆς Ταρκυνίου δυναστείας πάννυθα θαυμαστὸν εὐτύχημα τῇ Ῥωμαίων ὑπάρξει πόλει εἴτε θεῶν τινος εἴτε δαιμόνων εὐνοία δωρηθέν: ὅπερ οὐ πρὸς ὀλίγον καιρὸν, ἀλλ' εἰς ἅπαντα τὸν βίον πολλάκις αὐτὴν ἔσωσεν ἐκ μεγάλων κακῶν. [2] γυνὴ τις ἀφίκετο πρὸς τὸν τύραννον οὐκ ἐπιχωρία βύβλους ἐννέα μεστὰς Σιβυλλείων χρησμῶν ἀπεμπολῆσαι θέλουσα. οὐκ ἀξιοῦντος δὲ τοῦ Ταρκυνίου τῆς αἰτηθείσης τιμῆς πρίασθαι τὰς βύβλους ἀπελθοῦσα τρεῖς ἐξ αὐτῶν κατέκαυσε: καὶ μετ' οὐ πολὺν χρόνον τὰς λοιπὰς ἐξ ἐνέγκασα τῆς αὐτῆς ἐπώλει τιμῆς. δόξασα δ' ἄφρων τις εἶναι καὶ γελασθεῖσα ἐπὶ τῷ τῇ αὐτῇ τιμῇ αἰτεῖν περὶ τῶν ἐλαττόνων, ἣν οὐδὲ περὶ τῶν πλείονων ἐδυνήθη λαβεῖν, ἀπελθοῦσα πάλιν τὰς ἡμισείας τῶν ἀπολειπομένων κατέκαυσε καὶ τὰς λοιπὰς [p. 104] [3] τρεῖς ἐνέγκασα τὸ ἴσον ἥτει χρυσίον. θαυμάσας δὲ τὸ βούλημα τῆς γυναικὸς ὁ Ταρκύνιος τοὺς οἰωνοσκόπους μετεπέμψατο καὶ διηγησάμενος αὐτοῖς τὸ πρᾶγμα, τί χρὴ πράττειν, ἤρετο. κάκεῖνοι διὰ σημείων τινῶν μαθόντες, ὅτι θεόπεμπτον ἀγαθὸν ἀπεστράφη, καὶ μεγάλῃν συμφορὰν ἀποφαίνοντες τὸ μὴ πάσας αὐτὸν τὰς βύβλους πρίασθαι, ἐκέλευσαν ἀπαριθμῆσαι τῇ γυναικὶ τὸ χρυσίον, ὅσον ἥτει καὶ τοὺς περιόντας τῶν χρησμῶν λαβεῖν. [4] ἡ μὲν οὖν γυνὴ τὰς βύβλους δοῦσα καὶ φράσασα τηρεῖν ἐπιμελῶς ἐξ ἀνθρώπων ἠφανίσθη, Ταρκύνιος δὲ τῶν ἀστῶν ἄνδρας ἐπιφανεῖς δύο προχειρισάμενος καὶ δημοσίους αὐτοῖς θεράποντας δύο παραξεύξας ἐκείνοις ἀπέδωκε τὴν τῶν βιβλίων φυλακὴν, ὧν τὸν ἕτερον Μάρκον Ἀτίλιον ἀδικεῖν τι δόξαντα περὶ τὴν πύστιν καταμηνυθέντα ὑφ' ἑνὸς τῶν δημοσίων, ὡς πατροκτόνον εἰς ἀσκὸν ἐνράφας βόειον ἔρριπεν εἰς τὸ πέλαγος. [5] μετὰ δὲ τὴν ἐκβολὴν τῶν βασιλέων ἡ πόλις ἀναλαβοῦσα τὴν τῶν χρησμῶν προστασίαν ἄνδρας τε τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους ἀποδείκνυσιν αὐτῶν φύλακας, οἱ διὰ βίου ταύτην ἔχουσι τὴν ἐπιμέλειαν στρατειῶν ἀφειμένοι καὶ τῶν ἄλλων τῶν κατὰ πόλιν πραγματειῶν, καὶ δημοσίους αὐτοῖς παρακαθίστησιν, ὧν χωρὶς οὐκ ἐπιτρέπει τὰς ἐπισκέψεις τῶν χρησμῶν τοῖς ἀνδράσι ποιεῖσθαι. συνελόντι δ' εἰπεῖν οὐδὲν οὕτω Ῥωμαῖοι φυλάττουσιν οὐθ' ὅσιον κτῆμα οὐθ' ἱερὸν ὡς τὰ Σιβύλλεια θέσφατα. χρῶνται δ' αὐτοῖς, [p. 105] ὅταν ἡ βουλὴ ψηφίσηται, στάσεως καταλαβούσης τὴν πόλιν ἢ δυστυχίας τινὸς μεγάλης συμπεσοῦσης κατὰ πόλεμον ἢ τεράτων τινῶν καὶ φαντασμάτων μεγάλων καὶ δυσευρέτων αὐτοῖς φανέντων, οἷα πολλάκις συνέβη. οὗτοι διέμειναν οἱ χρησμοὶ μέχρι τοῦ Μαρσικοῦ κληθέντος πολέμου κείμενοι κατὰ γῆς ἐν τῷ ναῶ τοῦ Καπιτωλίνου Διὸς ἐν λιθίνῃ λάρνακι, ὑπ' ἀνδρῶν δέκα φυλαττόμενοι. [6] μετὰ δὲ τὴν τρίτην ἐπὶ ταῖς ἐβδομήκοντα καὶ ἑκατὸν ὀλυμπιάσιν ἐμπρησθέντος τοῦ ναοῦ, εἴτ' ἐξ ἐπιβουλῆς, ὡς οἴονται τινες, εἴτ' ἀπὸ ταῦτομάτου, σὺν τοῖς ἄλλοις ἀναθήμασι τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ οὗτοι διεφθάρησαν ὑπὸ τοῦ πυρός. οἱ δὲ νῦν ὄντες ἐκ πολλῶν εἰσι συμφορητοὶ τόπων, οἱ μὲν ἐκ τῶν ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ πόλεων κομισθέντες, οἱ δ' ἐξ Ἑρυθρῶν τῶν ἐν Ἀσίᾳ, κατὰ δόγμα βουλῆς τριῶν ἀποσταλέντων πρεσβευτῶν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀντιγραφὴν: οἱ δ' ἐξ ἄλλων πόλεων καὶ παρ' ἀνδρῶν ἰδιωτῶν μεταγραφέντες: ἐν οἷς

ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐν εἰρήνῃ τε καὶ κατὰ πολέμους καὶ δύο πόλεις ἀποικίας τὴν μὲν καλουμένην Σιγνίαν οὐ κατὰ προαίρεσεν, ἀλλ' ἐκ ταῦτομάτου, χειμασάντων ἐν τῷ χωρίῳ τῶν στρατιωτῶν καὶ κατασκευασμένων τὸ στρατόπεδον ὡς μηδὲν [p. 106] διαφέρειν πόλεως: Κιρκαίαν δὲ κατὰ λογισμόν, ὅτι τοῦ Πωμεντίνου πεδίου μεγίστου τῶν περὶ τῇ Λατίνῃ καὶ τῆς συναπτούσης αὐτῷ θαλάττης ἔκειτο ἐν καλῷ: ἔστι δὲ χερσονησοειδὴς σκόπελος ὑψηλὸς ἐπικεῖν ἐπὶ τοῦ Τυρρηνικοῦ πελάγους κείμενος, ἔνθα λόγος ἔχει Κίρκην τὴν Ἥλιου θυγατέρα κατοικῆσαι: καὶ τὰς ἀποικίας ἀμφοτέρας δυσὶ τῶν παιδῶν οἰκισταῖς ἀναθεῖς, Κιρκαίαν μὲν Ἄρροντι, Σιγνίαν δὲ Τίτῳ, δέος ἅτε οὐδὲν ἔτι περὶ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἔχων, διὰ γυναικὸς ὕβριν αὐτῆς, ἣν ὁ πρεσβύτατος αὐτοῦ τῶν παιδῶν Σέξτος διέφθειρεν, ἐξελαύνεται τῆς τ' ἀρχῆς καὶ τῆς πόλεως, προθεσπίσαντος αὐτῷ τοῦ δαιμονίου τὴν μέλλουσαν γενήσεσθαι περὶ τὸν οἶκον συμφορὰν πολλοῖς μὲν καὶ [2] ἄλλοις οἰωνοῖς, τελευταίῳ δὲ τῷδε. αἰετοὶ συνιόντες εἰς τὸν παρακείμενον τοῖς βασιλείοις κῆπον ἔαρος ὥρα νεοττιὰν ἔπλαττον ἐπὶ κορυφῇ φοίνικος ὑψηλοῦ. τούτων δὲ τῶν αἰετῶν ἀπτήνας ἔτι τοὺς νεοττοὺς ἐχόντων γῦπες ἄθροοι προσπετασθέντες τὴν τε νεοττιὰν διεφόρησαν καὶ τοὺς νεοττοὺς ἀπέκτειναν καὶ τοὺς αἰετοὺς προσιόντας ἀπὸ τῆς νομῆς ἀμύττοντές τε καὶ παίοντες τοῖς ταρσοῖς ἀπὸ τοῦ φοίνικος ἀπήλασαν. [3] τούτους τοὺς οἰωνοὺς ἰδὼν ὁ Ταρκύνιος καὶ φυλαττόμενος, εἴ πως δύναιτο διακρούσασθαι τὴν μοῖραν, οὐκ ἴσχυσε νικῆσαι τὸ χρεὼν, ἀλλ' ἐπιθεμένων αὐτῷ τῶν πατρικίων καὶ τοῦ δήμου συμφρονήσαντος ἐξέπεσε τῆς [p. 107] δυναστείας. οἵτινες δ' ἦσαν οἱ τῆς ἐπαναστάσεως ἄρξαντες καὶ δι' οἶων τρόπον ἦλθον ἐπὶ τὰ πράγματα, δι' ὀλίγων πειράσομαι διελθεῖν.

τὴν Ἀρδεατῶν πόλιν ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἐπολιόρκει πρόφασιν μὲν ποιούμενος, ὅτι τοὺς ἐκ Ῥώμης φυγάδας ὑπεδέχετο καὶ συνέπραττεν αὐτοῖς περὶ καθόδου: ὡς δὲ τάληθές εἶχεν ἐπιβουλεύων αὐτῇ διὰ τὸν πλοῦτον εὐδαιμονοῦσιν μάλιστα τῶν ἐν Ἰταλίᾳ πόλεων. γενναίως δὲ τῶν Ἀρδεατῶν ἀπομαχομένων καὶ πολυχρονίου τῆς πολιορκίας γινομένης οἱ τ' ἐπὶ τοῦ στρατοπέδου κάμνοντες ἐπὶ τῇ τριβῇ τοῦ πολέμου καὶ οἱ κατὰ πόλιν ἀπειρηκότες ταῖς εἰσφοραῖς ἔτοιμοι πρὸς ἀπόστασιν ἦσαν, εἴ τις ἀρχὴ γένοιτο. [2] ἐν τούτῳ δὴ τῷ καιρῷ Σέξτος ὁ πρεσβύτατος τῶν Ταρκυνίου παιδῶν ἀποσταλεὶς ὑπὸ τοῦ πατρὸς εἰς πόλιν, ἣ ἐκαλεῖτο Κολλάτεια, χρεῖας τινὰς ὑπηρετήσων στρατιωτικὰς παρ' ἄνδρῃ κατήχθη συγγενεῖ Λευκίῳ Ταρκυνίῳ τῷ Κολλατίνῳ [3] προσαγορευομένῳ. τοῦτον τὸν ἄνδρα Φάβιος μὲν υἱὸν εἶναι φησιν Ἑγερίου, περὶ οὗ δεδηλώκα πρότερον, ὅτι Ταρκυνίῳ τῷ προτέρῳ βασιλεύσαντι Ῥωμαίων ἀδελφώπαις ἦν καὶ Κολλατείας ἡγεμὼν ἀποδειχθεὶς ἀπὸ τῆς ἐν ἐκείνῃ τῇ πόλει διατριβῆς αὐτὸς τε Κολλατίνος ἐκλήθη καὶ τοῖς ἐγγόνοις ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ τὴν αὐτὴν κατέλιπεν ἐπικλήσιν: ἐγὼ δὲ καὶ τοῦτον [p. 108] υἱὼν εἶναι τοῦ Ἑγερίου πειθόμαι, εἴ γε τὴν αὐτὴν εἶχε τοῖς Ταρκυνίου παισὶν ἡλικίαν, ὡς Φάβιός τε καὶ οἱ λοιποὶ συγγραφεῖς

ἐπιστὰς δὲ τῇ κλίνῃ διεγερθείσης ἅμα τῷ συνεῖναι τὸν ψόφον τῆς γυναικὸς καὶ πυνθανομένης, ὅστις εἶη, φράσας τοῦνομα σιωπᾶν ἐκέλευε καὶ μένειν ἐν τῷ δωματίῳ σφάξειν αὐτὴν ἀπειλήσας, ἐὰν ἐπιχειρήσῃ φεῦγειν ἢ βοᾶν. τούτῳ καταπληξάμενος τῷ τρόπῳ τὴν ἄνθρωπον αἰρέσεις αὐτῇ δύο προὔτεινεν, ὧν ποτέραν αὐτὴ προηρεῖτο λαβεῖν ἡξίου, θάνατον μετ' [p. 109] [2] αἰσχρῆς ἢ βίον μετ' εὐδαιμονίας. εἰ μὲν γὰρ ὑπομενεῖς, ἔφη, χαρίσασθαι μοι, γυναῖκά σε ποιήσομαι καὶ βασιλεύσεις σὺν ἐμοὶ νῦν μὲν ἦς ὁ πατήρ μοι ἔδωκε πόλεως, μετὰ δὲ τὴν ἐκείνου τελευταίην Ῥωμαίων τε καὶ Λατίνων καὶ Τυρρηνῶν καὶ τῶν ἄλλων ὅσων ἐκείνος ἄρχει. ἐγὼ γὰρ οἶδ', ὅτι παραλήψομαι τὴν τοῦ πατρὸς βασιλείαν, ὥσπερ ἐστὶ δίκαιον, τῶν υἱῶν αὐτοῦ πρεσβύτατος ὢν. ὅσα δ' ὑπάρχει τοῖς βασιλεῦσιν ἀγαθὰ, ὧν ἀπάντων ἕσθ' ἡ σὺν ἐμοὶ κυρία, τί δεῖ σε καλῶς ἐπισταμένην διδάσκειν; [3] εἰ δ' ἀντιπράττειν ἐπιχειρήσεις σώζειν βουλομένη τὸ σῶφρον, ἀποκτενῶ σε καὶ τῶν θεραπόντων ἐπικατασφάξας ἕνα θήσω τὰ σώματα ὑμῶν ἅμα καὶ φήσω κατειληφώς ἀσχημονοῦσάν σε μετὰ τοῦ δούλου τετιμωρῆσθαι τὴν τοῦ συγγενοῦς ὕβριν μετερχόμενος, ὥστ' αἰσχρὰν καὶ ἐπονειδιστὸν σου γενέσθαι τὴν τελευταίην καὶ μηδὲ ταφῆς τὸ σῶμά σου τυχεῖν μηδ' ἄλλου τῶν νομίμων μηδενός. [4] ὡς δὲ πολὺς ἦν ἀπειλῶν θ' ἅμα καὶ ἀντιβολῶν καὶ διομνύμενος ἀλθθεῦειν τῶν λεγομένων ἑκάτερον, εἰς ἀνάγκην ἦλθεν ἡ Λουκρητία φοβηθεῖσα τὴν περὶ τὸν θάνατον ἀσχημοσύνην εἰξάει τε καὶ περιδεῖν αὐτὸν ἃ προηρεῖτο διαπραξάμενον.

ἡμέρας δὲ γενομένης ὁ μὲν ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον ἀπῆει πονηρὰν καὶ ὀλέθριον ἐπιθυμίαν ἐκπεπληρωκώς, ἡ δὲ Λουκρητία δεινῶς φέρουσα τὸ συμβεβηκὸς ὡς εἶχε τάχους ἐπιβᾶσα τῆς ἀπῆνης εἰς Ῥώμην ὥχето, μέλαιναν ἐσθῆτα περιβαλομένη καὶ ξιφιδιὸν τι [p. 110] κρύπτουσα ὑπὸ τῇ στολῇ, οὔτε προσαγορεύουσα κατὰ τὰς συναντήσεις οὐδένα τῶν ἀσπαζομένων οὔτ' ἀποκρινομένη τοῖς μαθεῖν βουλομένοις, ὃ τι πέπονθεν, ἀλλὰ σύννους καὶ κατηφῆς καὶ μεστοὺς ἔχουσα τοὺς ὀφθαλμοὺς 21 δακρύων. [2] ὡς δ' εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν εἰσῆλθε τοῦ πατρὸς: ἔτυχον δὲ συγγενεῖς ὄντες τινὲς παρ' αὐτῷ: τῶν γονάτων αὐτοῦ λαβομένη καὶ περιπεσοῦσα τέως μὲν ἔκλαιε φωνὴν οὐδεμίαν προϊέμενη, ἔπειτ' ἀνιστάντος αὐτὴν τοῦ πατρὸς καὶ τί πέπονθεν ἀξιοῦντος λέγειν: ἰκέτις ἔφη γίνομαι σου πάτερ δεινὴν καὶ ἀνήκεστον ὑπομείνασα ὕβριν, τιμωρῆσαί μοι καὶ μὴ περιδεῖν τὴν σεαυτοῦ [3] θυγατέρα θανάτου χείρονα παθοῦσαν. θανμάσαντος δ' αὐτοῦ καὶ τῶν ἄλλων ἀπάντων καὶ τις ὕβρικεν αὐτὴν καὶ ποδαπὴν ὕβριν ἀξιοῦντος λέγειν: ἀκούσῃ τὰς ἐμάς, ἔφη, συμφοράς, ὦ πάτερ, οὐκ εἰς μακράν: χάρισαι δέ μοι ταύτην πρῶτον αἰτουμένη τὴν χάριν: κάλεσον ὅσους δύνασαι πλείστους φίλους τε καὶ συγγενεῖς, ἵνα παρ' ἐμοῦ τῆς τὰ δεινὰ παθούσης ἀκούσωσι καὶ μὴ παρ' ἐτέρων. ὅταν δὲ μάθῃς τὰς κατασχούσας αἰσχροῦς καὶ δεινὰς ἀνάγκας, βούλευσαι μετ' αὐτῶν, ὅντινα τιμωρήσῃς ἐμοί τε καὶ σεαυτῷ τρόπον καὶ μὴ πολὺν ποιεῖ χρόνον τὸν διὰ μέσου.

ταχεῖα δὲ καὶ κατεσπουδασμένη παρακλήσει τῶν ἐπιφανεστάτων ἀνδρῶν εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν συνελθόντων ὥσπερ ἡξίου, λέγει πρὸς αὐτοὺς ἅπαν τὸ πρᾶγμα [p. 111] ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἀναλαβοῦσα. καὶ μετὰ τοῦτ' ἀσπασαμένη τὸν πατέρα καὶ πολλὰς λιτανείας ἐκείνου τε καὶ τῶν σὺν αὐτῷ παρόντων ποιησαμένη θεοῖς τε καὶ δαίμοσιν εὐξαμένη ταχεῖαν αὐτῇ δοῦναι τὴν ἀπαλλαγὴν τοῦ βίου σπᾶται τὸ ξιφίδιον, ὃ κατέκρυπτεν ὑπὸ τοῖς πέπλοις, καὶ μίαν ἐνέγκασα διὰ τῶν στέρνων πληγὴν ἕως τῆς καρδίας ὡθεῖ τὸ ξίφος. [2] κραυγῆς δὲ καὶ θρήνου καὶ τυπετοῦ γυναικείου τὴν οἰκίαν ὅλην κατασχόντος ὁ μὲν πατὴρ περιχυθεὶς τῷ σώματι περιέβαλλε καὶ ἀνεκαλεῖτο καὶ ὡς ἀνοίσουσαν ἐκ τοῦ τραύματος ἐτμημελεῖτο, ἡ δ' ἐν ταῖς ἀγκάλαις αὐτοῦ σπαίρουσα καὶ ψυχορραγοῦσα ἀποθνήσκει. τοῖς δὲ παροῦσι Ῥωμαίων οὕτω δεινὸν ἔδοξεν εἶναι καὶ ἐλεεινὸν τὸ πάθος, ὥστε μίαν ἀπάντων γενέσθαι φωνήν, ὡς μυριάκις αὐτοῖς κρεῖττον εἶη τεθνάναι περὶ τῆς ἐλευθερίας ἢ τοιαύτας ὕβρεις ὑπὸ τῶν τυράννων γενομένας περιορᾶν. [3] ἦν δὲ τις ἐν αὐτοῖς Πόπλιος Οὐαλέριος ἐνὸς τῶν ἅμα Τατίῳ παραγενομένων εἰς Ῥώμην Σαβίνων ἀπόγονος, δραστήριος ἀνὴρ καὶ φρόνιμος. οὗτος ἐπὶ στρατόπεδον ὑπ' αὐτῶν πέμπεται τῷ τ' ἀνδρὶ τῆς Λουκρητίας τὰ συμβεβηκότα φράσων καὶ σὺν ἐκείνῳ πράξων ἀπόστασιν τοῦ στρατιωτικοῦ πλήθους ἀπὸ τῶν τυράννων. [4] ἄρτι δ' αὐτῷ τὰς πύλας ἐξεληλυθότι συναντᾷ κατὰ δαίμονα παραγινόμενος εἰς τὴν πόλιν ὁ Κολλατῖνος ἀπὸ στρατοπέδου, [p. 112] τῶν κατεσχηκότων τὴν οἰκίαν αὐτοῦ κακῶν οὐδὲν εἰδώς καὶ σὺν αὐτῷ Λεύκιος Ἰούνιος, ὃς Βροῦτος ἐπωνύμιον ἦν: εἶη δ' ἂν ἐξερμηνευόμενος ὁ Βροῦτος εἰς τὴν Ἑλληνικὴν διάλεκτον ἡλίθιος: ὑπὲρ οὗ μικρὰ προειπεῖν ἀναγκαῖον, ἐπεὶ τὸν τοῦτον ἀποφαίνουσι Ῥωμαῖοι τῆς καταλύσεως τῶν τυράννων αἰτιώτατον γενέσθαι, τίς τ' ἦν καὶ ἀπὸ τίνων καὶ διὰ τί τῆς ἐπωνυμίας ταύτης ἔτυχεν οὐδὲν αὐτῷ προσηκούσης.

πατρός οὐκ ἂν ὑπομείναντα, νέος ὢν ὁ Βροῦτος ἔτι καὶ κομιδῇ βοηθείας συγγενικῆς ἔρμος ἔργον ἐπεχείρησε ποιῆσαι πάντων φρονιμώτατον, ἐπιθετον ἑαυτοῦ καταφύεσθαι μωρίαν· καὶ διέμεινεν ἅπαντα τὸν ἐξ ἐκείνου [p. 113] χρόνον, ἕως οὗ τὸν ἐπιτήδειον ἔδοξε καιρὸν ἔχειν, φυλάττων τὸ προσποίημα τῆς ἀνοίας, ἐξ οὗ ταύτης ἔτυχε τῆς ἐπωνυμίας· τοῦτ' αὐτὸν ἐρρύσατο μηδὲν δεινὸν ὑπὸ τοῦ τυράννου παθεῖν πολλῶν καὶ ἀγαθῶν ἀνδρῶν ἀπολλυμένων.

καταφρονήσας γὰρ ὁ Ταρκύνιος τῆς δοκούσης εἶναι περὶ αὐτόν, ἀλλ' οὐ κατ' ἀλήθειαν ὑπαρχούσης μωρίας, ἀφελόμενος ἅπαντα τὰ πατρῷα, μικρὰ δ' εἰς τὸν καθ' ἡμέραν βίον ἐπιχορηγῶν, ὡς παῖδα ὀρφανὸν ἐπιτρόπων ἔτι δεόμενον ἐφύλαττεν ὑφ' ἑαυτῷ διαιτᾶσθαι τε μετὰ τῶν ἰδίων παιδῶν ἐπέτρεπεν, οὐ διὰ τιμὴν, ὡς ἐσκήπτετο πρὸς τοὺς πέλας οἷα δὴ συγγενῆς, ἀλλ' ἵνα γέλωτα παρέχῃ τοῖς μεираκίοις λέγων τ' ἀνόητα πολλὰ καὶ πράττων ὅμοια τοῖς κατ' ἀλήθειαν ἡλίθοις. [2] καὶ δὴ καὶ ὅτε τῷ Δελφικῷ μαντεῖω χρησομένους ἀπέστειλε τοὺς δύο τῶν παιδῶν Ἄρροντα καὶ Τίτον ὑπὲρ τοῦ λοιμοῦ· κατέσκηψε γὰρ τις ἐπὶ τῆς ἐκείνου βασιλείας οὐκ εἰωθυῖα νόσος εἰς παρθένους τε καὶ παῖδας, ὑφ' ἧς πολλὰ διεφθάρη σώματα, χαλεπωτάτη δὲ καὶ δυσίατος εἰς τὰς κυούσας γυναῖκας αὐτοῖς βρέφειν ἀποκτείνουσα τὰς μητέρας ἐν ταῖς γοναῖς· τὴν τ' αἰτίαν τῆς νόσου γινῶναι παρὰ τοῦ θεοῦ καὶ τὴν λύσιν βουλόμενος συνέπεμψε κάκεῖνον ἅμα τοῖς μεираκίοις δεηθεῖσιν, ἵνα κατασκώπτειν τε καὶ περιυβρίζειν ἔχοιεν. [3] ὡς δὲ παρεγενήθησαν ἐπὶ τὸ μαντεῖον οἱ νεανίσκοι καὶ τοὺς χρησμοὺς ἔλαβον ὑπὲρ ὧν [p. 114] ἐπέμφθησαν, ἀναθήμασι δωρησάμενοι τὸν θεὸν καὶ τοῦ Βρούτου πολλὰ καταγέλασαντες, ὅτι βακτηρίαν ξυλίνην ἀνέθηκε τῷ Ἀπόλλωνι· ὁ δὲ διατρήσας αὐτὴν ὅλην ὥσπερ αὐλὸν χρυσοῖν ῥάβδον ἐνέθηκεν οὐδενὸς ἐπισταμένου· μετὰ τοῦτ' ἡρώτων τὸν θεόν, τίνι πέπρωται τὴν Ῥωμαίων ἀρχὴν παραλαβεῖν, ὁ δὲ θεὸς αὐτοῖς ἀνεῖλε, τῷ πρώτῳ τὴν μητέρα φιλήσαντι. [4] οἱ μὲν οὖν νεανίσκοι τοῦ χρησμοῦ τὴν διάνοιαν ἀγνοήσαντες συνέθεντο πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἅμα φιλεῖν τὴν μητέρα βουλόμενοι κοινῇ τὴν βασιλείαν κατασχεῖν, ὁ δὲ Βροῦτος συνεῖς ὁ βούλεται δηλοῦν ὁ θεός, ἐπειδὴ τάχιστα τῆς Ἰταλίας ἐπέβη, προσκύψας κατεφίλησε τὴν γῆν, ταύτην οἰόμενος ἁπάντων ἀνθρώπων εἶναι μητέρα. τὰ μὲν οὖν προγενόμενα τῷ ἀνδρὶ τούτῳ τοιαῦτ' ἦν.

τότε δ' ὡς ἤκουσε τοῦ Οὐαλερίου τὰ συμβάντα τῇ Λουκρητίᾳ καὶ τὴν ἀναίρεσιν αὐτῆς διηγούμενου τὰς χεῖρας ἀνατείνας εἰς τὸν οὐρανὸν εἶπεν· ὦ Ζεῦ καὶ θεοὶ πάντες, ὅσοι τὸν ἀνθρώπινον ἐπισκοπεῖτε βίον, ἄρα γ' ὁ καιρὸς ἐκεῖνος ἦκει νῦν, ὃν ἐγὼ περιμένων ταύτην τοῦ βίου τὴν προσποίησιν ἐφύλαττον; ἄρα πέπρωται Ῥωμαίοις ὑπ' ἐμοῦ καὶ δι' ἐμέ τῆς ἀφορήτου τυραννίδος ἀπαλλαγῆναι; [2] ταῦτ' εἰπὼν ἐχώρει κατὰ σπουδὴν ἐπὶ τὴν οἰκίαν ἅμα τῷ Κολλατίνῳ τε καὶ Οὐαλερίῳ. ὡς δ' εἰσῆλθεν ὁ μὲν Κολλατίνος ἰδὼν τὴν Λουκρητίαν ἐν τῷ μέσῳ κειμένην καὶ τὸν πατέρα περικείμενον αὐτῇ μέγα ἀνοιμώξας καὶ περιλαβὼν τὴν [p. 115] νεκρὰν κατεφίλει καὶ ἀνεκαλεῖτο καὶ διελέγετο πρὸς αὐτὴν ὥσπερ ζῶσαν ἔξω τοῦ φρονεῖν γεγινώς ὑπὸ [3] τοῦ κακοῦ. πολλὰ δ' αὐτοῦ κατολοφυρομένου καὶ τοῦ πατρὸς ἐν μέρει καὶ τῆς οἰκίας ὅλης κλαυθμῷ καὶ θρήνοις κατεχομένης βλέψας εἰς αὐτοὺς ὁ Βροῦτος λέγει: μυρίους ἔξετε καιροὺς, ὦ Λουκρήτιε καὶ Κολλατῖνε καὶ πάντες ὑμεῖς οἱ τῇ γυναικὶ προσήκοντες, ἐν οἷς αὐτὴν κλαύσετε, νυνὶ δ' ὡς τιμωρήσομεν αὐτῇ, ^[4] σκοπῶμεν: τοῦτο γὰρ ὁ παρὼν καιρὸς ἀπαιτεῖ. ἐδόκει ταῦτ' εἰκότα λέγειν, καὶ καθεζόμενοι καθ' ἑαυτοὺς τὸν τ' οἰκετικὸν καὶ θητικὸν ὄχλον ἐκποδῶν μεταστῆσαντες ἐβουλεύοντο, τί χρὴ πράττειν. πρῶτος δ' ὁ Βροῦτος ἀρξάμενος ὑπὲρ ἑαυτοῦ λέγειν, ὅτι τὴν δοκοῦσαν τοῖς πολλοῖς μωρίαν οὐκ εἶχεν ἀληθινήν, ἀλλ' ἐπιθετον, καὶ τὰς αἰτίας εἰπὼν, δι' ἃς τὸ προσποίημα τοῦθ' ὑπέμεινε, καὶ δόξας ἀπάντων ἀνθρώπων εἶναι φρονιμώτατος, μετὰ τοῦτ' ἔπειθεν αὐτοὺς τὴν αὐτὴν γνώμην ἅπαντας λαβόντας ἐξελάσαι Ταρκύνιον τε καὶ τοὺς παῖδας ἐκ τῆς πόλεως, πολλὰ καὶ ἐπαγωγὰ εἰς τοῦτο διαλεχθεῖς. ἐπεὶ δὲ πάντας εἶδεν ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς γνώμης ὄντας οὐ λόγων ἔφη δεῖν οὐδ' ὑποσχέσεων, ἀλλ' ἔργων, εἴ τι τῶν δεόντων μέλλει γενήσεσθαι: ἄρξιν δὲ τούτων αὐτὸς ἔφη. ^[5] ταῦτ' εἰπὼν καὶ λαβὼν τὸ ξιφίδιον, ὃ διεχρήσατο ἑαυτὴν ἢ γυνή, καὶ τῷ πτώματι προσελθὼν αὐτῆς: ἔτι γὰρ ἔκειτο ἐν φανερωῷ θέαμα οἰκτιστον: ὤμοσε τὸν τ' Ἄρη καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους θεοὺς πᾶν ὅσον ^[p. 116] δύναται πράξειν ἐπὶ καταλύσει τῆς Ταρκυνίων δυναστείας, καὶ οὐτ' αὐτὸς διαλλαγήσεσθαι πρὸς τοὺς τυράννους οὔτε τοῖς διαλλαττομένοις ἐπιτρέψειν, ἀλλ' ἐχθρὸν ἡγήσεσθαι τὸν μὴ ταῦτὰ βουλόμενον καὶ μέχρι θανάτου τῇ τυραννίδι καὶ τοῖς συναγωνιζομένοις αὐτῇ διεχθρεῦσειν. εἰ δὲ παραβαίῃ τὸν ὄρκον τοιαύτην αὐτῷ τελευτὴν ἡράσατο τοῦ βίου γενέσθαι καὶ τοῖς αὐτοῦ παισίν, οἷας ἔτυχεν ἡ γυνή.

ταῦτ' εἰπὼν ἐκάλει καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους ἅπαντας ἐπὶ τὸν αὐτὸν ὄρκον: οἱ δ' οὐδὲν ἔτι ἐνδοιάσαντες ἀνίσταντο καὶ τὸ ξίφος δεχόμενοι παρ' ἀλλήλων ὤμνου. γενομένων δὲ τῶν ὀρκωμοσιῶν μετὰ τοῦτ' εὐθύς ἐζήτουν, τίς ὁ τῆς ἐπιχειρήσεως ἔσται τρόπος. καὶ ὁ Βροῦτος αὐτοῖς ὑποτίθεται τοιαῦδε: πρῶτον μὲν διὰ φυλακῆς τὰς πύλας ἔχωμεν, ἵνα μηδὲν τῶν ἐν τῇ πόλει λεγομένων τε καὶ πραττομένων κατὰ τῆς τυραννίδος αἰσθηται Ταρκύνιος, πρὶν ἢ τὰ παρ' ἡμῶν εὐτρεπῇ ^[2] γενέσθαι. ἔπειτα κομίσαντες τὸ σῶμα τῆς γυναικὸς ὡς ἔστιν αἷματι πεφυρμένον εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν καὶ προθέντες ἐν φανερωῷ συγκαλῶμεν τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν. ὅταν δὲ συνέλθῃ καὶ πλήθουσιν ἴδωμεν τὴν ἀγορὰν, προσελθὼν Λουκρήτιός τε καὶ Κολλατῖνος ἀποδურάσθωσαν τὰς ἑαυτῶν τύχας ἅπαντα τὰ γενόμενα φράσαντες. ^[3] ἔπειτα τῶν ἄλλων ἕκαστος παριῶν κατηγορεῖτω τῆς τυραννίδος καὶ τοὺς πολίτας ἐπὶ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν ^[p. 117] παρακαλεῖτω. ἔσται δὲ πᾶσι Ῥωμαίοις κατ' εὐχὴν, ἐὰν ἴδωσιν ἡμᾶς τοὺς πατρικίους ἄρχοντας τῆς ἐλευθερίας: πολλὰ γὰρ καὶ δεινὰ πεπόνθασιν ὑπὸ τοῦ τυράννου καὶ μικρᾶς ἀφορμῆς δέονται. ὅταν δὲ λάβωμεν τὸ πλῆθος ὠρμημένον καταλῦσαι τὴν μοναρχίαν ψήφον τ' αὐτοῖς ἀναδῶμεν ὑπὲρ τοῦ μηκέτι Ῥωμαίων Ταρκύνιον ἄρξιν καὶ τὸ περὶ τούτων δόγμα πρὸς τοὺς ἐπὶ στρατοπέδου διαπεμφώμεθα ἐν τάχει. ^[4] καὶ γὰρ οἱ τὰ ὅπλα ἔχοντες, εἰ μάθοιεν, ὅτι τὰ ἐν τῇ πόλει πάντα τοῖς τυράννοις ἐστὶν ἀλλότρια, πρόθυμοι περὶ τὴν τῆς πατρίδος ἐλευθερίαν γενήσονται οὔτε δωρεαῖς ἔτι κατεχόμενοι ὡς πρότερον οὔτε τὰς ὕβρεις τῶν ὥς δὲ τοῦτ' ἤκουσαν ἅπαντες, ἐπήνεσάν τε καὶ ὡς ἀπὸ καλῆς ὑποθέσεως ἀρξάμενον καὶ νομίμου τὰ λοιπὰ λέγειν αὐτὸν ἤξιουν. κάκεῖνος εἶπεν, Ἐπειδὴ ταῦτα οὕτω πράττειν ὑμῖν δοκεῖ, σκοπώμεθα πάλιν, τίς ἢ τὴν πόλιν ἐπιτροπεύσουσα ἀρχὴ γενήσεται μετὰ τὴν κατάλυσιν τῶν βασιλέων καὶ ὑπὸ τίνος ἀποδειχθεῖσα ἀνδρός, καὶ ἔτι πρότερον, ὅστις ἔσται πολιτείας κόσμος, ὃν ἀπαλλαττόμενοι τοῦ τυράννου καταστησόμεθα. βεβουλεῦσθαι γὰρ ἅπαντα βέλτιον, πρὶν ἐπιχειρεῖν ἔργῳ τηλικῷδε, καὶ μηδὲν ἀνεξέταστον ἀφεῖσθαι μηδὲ ἀπροβούλευτον. ἀποφαινέσθω δὴ περὶ [2] τούτων ἕκαστος ὑμῶν ἃ φρονεῖ. μετὰ τοῦτ' ἐλέχθησαν πολλοὶ καὶ παρὰ πολλῶν λόγοι. ἐδόκει δὲ τοῖς μὲν βασιλικὴν αὐτῆς καταστήσασθαι πολιτείαν ἐξαριθμουμένους, ὅσα τὴν πόλιν ἐποίησαν ἀγαθὰ πάντες οἱ πρότεροι βασιλεῖς· τοῖς δὲ μηκέτι ποιεῖν ἐφ' ἐνὶ δυνάστη τὰ κοινὰ τὰς τυραννικὰς διεξιούσι παρανομίας, αἷς ἄλλοι τε πολλοὶ κατὰ τῶν ἰδίων πολιτῶν ἐχρήσαντο καὶ Ταρκύνιος τελευτῶν, ἀλλὰ τὸ συνέδριον τῆς βουλῆς ἀπάντων ἀποδείξαι κύριον ὡς ἐν πολλαῖς τῶν Ἑλληνίδων πόλεων· [3] οἱ δὲ τούτων μὲν οὐδετέραν προηροῦντο τῶν πολιτειῶν, δημοκρατίαν δὲ συνεβούλευον ὥσπερ Ἀθήνησι καταστήσαι, τὰς ὕβρεις καὶ τὰς πλεονεξίας τῶν ὀλίγων προφερόμενοι καὶ τὰς στάσεις τὰς γινομένας τοῖς ταπεινοῖς πρὸς τοὺς ὑπερέχοντας [p. 119] ἐλευθέρῳ τε πόλει τὴν ἰσονομίαν ἀποφαίνοντες ἀσφαλεστάτην οὔσαν καὶ πρεπωδεστάτην τῶν πολιτειῶν.

διετέλεσεν. [2] ἃ δὲ παρακολουθεῖν εἴωθε ταῖς μοναρχίαις χαλεπά, ἐξ ὧν εἰς τυραννικὴν ὠμότητα περιστάνται καὶ δι' ἃ δυσχεραίνουσιν ἅπαντες αὐτάς, ταῦθ' ὑμῖν ἐπανορθώσασθαι τε καὶ νῦν καὶ ἵνα μηδ' ἐξ ὑστέρου γένηται [3] ποτε φυλάξασθαι παραινῶ. τίνα δ' ἐστὶ ταῦτα; πρῶτον μὲν ἐπειδὴ τὰ ὀνόματα τῶν πραγμάτων οἱ πολλοὶ [p. 120] σκοποῦσι καὶ ἀπὸ τούτων ἢ προσιένται τίνα τῶν βλαβερῶν ἢ φεύγουσι τῶν ὠφελίμων, ἐν οἷς καὶ τὴν μοναρχίαν εἶναι συμβέβηκε, μεταθέσθαι τοῦνομα τῆς πολιτείας ὑμῖν παραινῶ καὶ τοὺς μέλλοντας ἔξω τὴν ἀπάντων ἐξουσίαν μὴτε βασιλεῖς ἔτι μὴτε μονάρχους καλεῖν, ἀλλὰ μετριωτέραν τινὰ καὶ φιланθρωποτέραν ἐπ' αὐτοῖς θέσθαι προσηγορίαν. [4] ἔπειτα μὴ ποιεῖν μίαν γνώμην ἀπάντων κυρίαν, ἀλλὰ δυσὶν ἐπιτρέπειν ἀνδράσι τὴν βασιλικὴν ἀρχήν, ὡς Λακεδαιμονίους πυνθάνομαι ποιεῖν ἐπὶ πολλὰς ἡδὴ γενεάς, καὶ διὰ τοῦτο τὸ σχῆμα τοῦ πολιτεύματος ἀπάντων μάλιστα τῶν Ἑλλήνων εὐνομεῖσθαι τε καὶ εὐδαιμονεῖν: ἦττον γὰρ ὑβρισταὶ καὶ βαρεῖς ἔσονται διαιρεθείσης τῆς ἐξουσίας διχῇ καὶ τὴν αὐτὴν ἔχοντος ἰσχυρὸν ἑκατέρου: αἰδῶς τ' ἀλλήλων καὶ κώλυσις τοῦ καθ' ἡδονὴν ζῆν φιλοτιμία τε πρὸς ἀρετῆς δόκησιν ἐκ ταύτης γένοιτ' ἂν ἐκάστω τῆς ἰσοτίμου δυναστείας μάλιστα.

τῶν τε παρασῆμων, ἃ τοῖς βασιλεῦσιν ἀποδεδόται, πολλῶν ὄντων εἴ τινα λυπηρὰς ὄψεις καὶ ἐπιφθόνους τοῖς πολλοῖς παρέχεται, τὰ μὲν μειῶσαι, τὰ δ' ἀφελεῖν ἡμᾶς οἴομαι δεῖν: τὰ σκῆπτρα ταυτὶ λέγω καὶ τοὺς χρυσοῦς στεφάνους καὶ τὰς ἀλουργεῖς καὶ χρυσοσήμους ἀμπεχόνας, πλὴν εἰ μὴ κατὰ καιροὺς τινας ἑορταίους καὶ ἐν πομπαῖς θριάμβων, ὅτε αὐτὰ τιμῆς θεῶν ἔνεκα λήφονται: λυπήσει γὰρ οὐδέν', ἐὰν γένηται σπάνια: θρόνον δὲ τοῖς ἀνδράσιν ἐλεφάντινον, [p. 121] ἐν ᾧ καθεζόμενοι δικάσουσι, καὶ λευκὴν ἐσθῆτα περιπόρφυρον καὶ τοὺς προηγουμένους ἐν ταῖς ἐξόδοις δώδεκα πελέκεις καταλιπεῖν. [2] ἔτι πρὸς τούτοις, ὃ πάντων οἴομαι τῶν εἰρημένων χρησιμώτατον ἔσεσθαι καὶ τοῦ μὴ πολλὰ ἐξαμαρτάνειν τοὺς παραληφόμενους τὴν ἀρχὴν αἰτιώτατον, μὴ διὰ βίου τοὺς αὐτοὺς εἶναι ἄρχειν: χαλεπὴ γὰρ ἄπασιν ἀόριστος ἀρχὴ καὶ μηδεμίαν ἐξέτασιν διδοῦσα τῶν πραττομένων, ἐξ ἧς φύεται τυραννίς: ἀλλ' εἰς ἐνιαύσιον χρόνον, ὡς παρ' Ἀθηναίοις γίνεται, τὸ κράτος τῆς ἀρχῆς συνάγειν. [3] τὸ γὰρ ἐν μέρει τὸν αὐτὸν ἄρχειν τε καὶ ἄρχεσθαι καὶ πρὸ τοῦ διαφθαρῆναι τὴν διάνοιαν ἀρίστασθαι τῆς ἐξουσίας συστέλλει τὰς αὐθάδεις φύσεις καὶ οὐκ ἐᾷ μεθύσκεσθαι ταῖς ἐξουσίαις τὰ ἥθη. ταῦθ' ἡμῖν καταστησάμενοις ὑπάρξει τὰ μὲν ἀγαθὰ καρποῦσθαι τῆς βασιλικῆς πολιτείας, τῶν δὲ παρακολουθούντων αὐτῇ κακῶν ἀπηλλάχθαι. [4] ἵνα δὲ καὶ τοῦνομα τῆς βασιλικῆς ἐξουσίας πάτριον ὑπάρχον ἡμῖν καὶ σὺν οἰωνοῖς αἰσίοις θεῶν ἐπικυρωσάντων παρεληλυθὸς εἰς τὴν πόλιν αὐτῆς ἔνεκα τῆς ὀσίας φυλάττηται, ἱερῶν ἀποδεικνύσθω τις ἀεὶ βασιλεὺς, ὃ τὴν τιμὴν ταύτην ἔξω διὰ βίου, πάσης ἀπολελυμένος πολεμικῆς καὶ πολιτικῆς ἀσχολίας, ἐν τοῦτο μόνον ἔχων ἔργον ὥσπερ ὁ βασιλεὺς, τὴν ἡγεμονίαν τῶν θυηπολιῶν, ἄλλο δ' οὐδέν. [p. 122]

εἰσηγήσομαι: φεύγειν Ταρκύνιον ἅμα τοῖς παισὶ καὶ τῇ γυναικὶ πόλεως τε καὶ χώρας τῆς Ῥωμαίων εἰργομένους τὸν αἰεὶ χρόνον καὶ γένος τὸ ἐξ αὐτῶν: ὅταν δ' ἐπιψηφίσωσι τὴν γνώμην οἱ πολῖται, δηλώσας αὐτοῖς ἦν διανοοῦμεθα καταστήσασθαι πολιτείαν μεσοβασιλέα ἐλοῦμαι τὸν ἀποδείξοντα τοὺς παραληφόμενους τὰ κοινά, καὶ αὐτὸς ἀποθήσεται τὴν τῶν Κελερίων ἀρχήν. [2] ὁ δὲ κατασταθεὶς ὑπ' ἐμοῦ μεσοβασιλεὺς συναγαγὼν τὴν λοχίτιν ἐκκλησίαν ὀνομασάτω τε τοὺς μέλλοντας ἔξειν τὴν ἐνιαύσιον ἡγεμονίαν καὶ ψῆφον ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν τοῖς πολίταις δότω: ἐὰν δὲ τοῖς πλείοσι δόξη λόχοις κυρίαν εἶναι τὴν τῶν ἀνδρῶν αἵρεσιν καὶ τὰ μαντεύματα γένηται περὶ αὐτῶν καλὰ, τοὺς πελέκεις οὗτοι παραλαβόντες καὶ τὰ λοιπὰ τῆς βασιλικῆς ἐξουσίας σύμβολα πραττέτωσαν, ὅπως ἐλευθέραν οἰκήσομεν τὴν πατρίδα καὶ μηκέτι κάθοδον ἔξουσιν εἰς αὐτὴν Ταρκύνιοι: πειράσσονται γάρ, εὔ ἴστε, καὶ πειθοῖ καὶ βίᾳ καὶ δόλῳ καὶ παντὶ ἄλλῳ τρόπῳ παρελθεῖν πάλιν ἐπὶ τὴν δυναστείαν, ἐὰν μὴ φυλαττώμεθα αὐτοῦς. [3] ταυτὶ μὲν οὖν ἐστὶ τὰ μέγιστα καὶ κυριώτατα ὧν ὑμῖν ἐν τῷ παρόντι λέγειν ἔχω καὶ παραινεῖν: τὰ δὲ κατὰ μέρος πολλὰ ὄντα καὶ οὐ ῥάδια νῦν δι' ἀκριβείας ἐξετασθῆναι: συνήγμεθα γὰρ εἰς καιρὸν ὀξύν: [p. 123] ἐπ' αὐτοῖς οἶμαι δεῖν ποιῆσαι τοῖς παραληφόμενοις τὴν ἀρχήν. [4] σκοπεῖσθαι μέντοι φημὶ χρῆναι τοὺς ἄνδρας ἅπαντα μετὰ τοῦ συνεδρίου τῆς βουλῆς, ὥσπερ οἱ βασιλεῖς ἐποιοῦν, καὶ μηδὲν πράττειν διχα ὑμῶν καὶ τὰ δόξαντα τῇ βουλῇ φέρειν εἰς τὸν δῆμον, ὡς τοῖς προγόνοις ἡμῶν ποιεῖν ἔθος ἦν, μηδενὸς ἀφαιρουμένους αὐτὸν ὧν ἐν τοῖς πρότερον καιροῖς κύριος ἦν. οὕτω γὰρ αὐτοῖς ἀσφαλέστατα καὶ κάλλιστα ἔξει τὰ τῆς ἀρχῆς.

ταύτην ἀποδειξαμένου τὴν γνώμην Ἰουνίου Βρούτου πάντες ἐπήνεσαν καὶ αὐτίκα περὶ τῶν παραληφόμενων τὰς ἡγεμονίας ἀνδρῶν βουλευόμενοι μεσοβασιλέα μὲν ἔκριναν ἀποδειχθῆναι Σπόριον Λουκρήτιον τὸν πατέρα τῆς διαχρησαμένης ἑαυτῇ: ὑπ' ἐκείνου δὲ τοὺς ἔξοντας τὴν τῶν βασιλέων ἐξουσίαν ὀνομασθῆναι Λεύκιον Ἰούνιον Βροῦτον καὶ Λεύκιον Ταρκύνιον Κολλατῖνον. [2] τοὺς δ' ἄρχοντας τοὺτους ἔταξαν καλεῖσθαι κατὰ τὴν ἑαυτῶν διάλεκτον κωνσοῦλας: τοῦτο μεθερμηνευόμενον εἰς τὴν Ἑλλάδα γλῶτταν τοῦτομα συμβούλους ἢ προβούλους δύναται δηλοῦν, κωνσίλια γὰρ οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι τὰς συμβουλὰς καλοῦσιν: ὕπατοι δ' ὑφ' Ἑλλήνων ἀνὰ χρόνον ὠνομάσθησαν ἐπὶ τοῦ μεγέθους τῆς ἐξουσίας, ὅτι πάντων τ' ἄρχουσι καὶ τὴν ἀνωτάτω χώραν ἔχουσι. τὸ γὰρ ὑπερέχον καὶ [3] ἄκρον ὕπατον ἐκάλουν οἱ παλαιοί. ταῦτα βουλευσάμενοι τε καὶ καταστησάμενοι καὶ τοὺς θεοὺς εὐχαῖς [p. 124] λιτανεύσαντες συλλαβέσθαι σφίσιν ὁσίων καὶ δικαίων ἔργων ἐφιεμένοις ἐξήεσαν εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν. ἡκολούθουν δ' αὐτοῖς οἱ θεράποντες ἐπὶ κλίνης μέλασιν ἀμφίοις ἐστρωμένης κομιζόντες ἀθεράπευτον τε καὶ πεφυρμένην αἵματι τὴν νεκράν: ἦν πρὸ τοῦ βουλευτηρίου τεθῆναι κελεύσαντες ὑψηλὴν καὶ περιφανῆ συνεκάλουν τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν. [4] ὄχλου δὲ συναχθέντος οὐ μόνον τοῦ κατ' ἀγοράν τότ' ὄντος, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῦ κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ὅλην: διεξήεσαν γὰρ οἱ κήρυκες διὰ τῶν στενωπῶν τὸν δῆμον εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν καλοῦντες: ἀναβὰς ὁ Βρούτος, ἔνθα τοῖς συνάγουσι τὰς ἐκκλησίας δημηγορεῖν ἔθος ἦν, καὶ τοὺς πατρικίους παρασσησάμενος

τὰ δὲ κοινά, ὑπὲρ ὧν ὑμᾶς εἰς ἐκκλησίαν συνεκάλεσα, ταῦτ' ἐστί. Ταρκύνιον οὔτε κατὰ τοὺς πατρίους ἡμῶν ἔθισμούς καὶ νόμους τὴν δυναστείαν κατασχόντα οὐτ', ἐπειδὴ κατέσχευεν ὅπως δὴ ποτε λαβὼν, καλῶς αὐτῇ καὶ βασιλικῶς χρώμενον, ἀλλ' ὑπερβεβληκότα πάντας ὕβρει τε καὶ παρανομίᾳ τοὺς ὅπου δὴ ποτε γενομένους τυράννους, ἀφελέσθαι τὴν ἐξουσίαν βεβουλεύμεθα συνελθόντες οἱ πατρίκιοι, πάλαι μὲν δέον, ἐν καιρῷ δὲ νῦν αὐτὸ ποιοῦντες ἐπιτηδεῖω, ὑμᾶς τ', ὧς δημόται, συνεκαλέσαμεν, ἵνα τὴν προαίρεσιν ἀποδειξάμενοι τὴν ἐαυτῶν συναγωνιστὰς ἀξιώσωμεν ἡμῖν γενέσθαι, πράττοντας ἐλευθερίαν τῇ πατρίδι, ἥς οὔτε πρότερον ἡμῖν ἐξεγένετο μεταλαβεῖν, ἐξ οὗ Ταρκύνιος τὴν ἀρχὴν κατέσχευεν, οὐθ' ὕστερον, ἐάν νῦν μαλακισθῶμεν, ἐξέσται. [2] εἰ μὲν οὖν χρόνον εἶχον, ὅσον [p. 126] ἐβουλόμην, ἢ πρὸς ἀγνοοῦντας ἔμελλον λέγειν, ἀπάσας διεξῆλθον ἂν τὰς τοῦ τυράννου παρανομίας, ἐφ' αἷς οὐχ ἅπαξ, ἀλλὰ πολλάκις ἅπασιν εἴη δίκαιος ἀπολωλέναι: ἐπειδὴ δ' ὁ τε καιρὸς, ὃν τὰ πράγματά μοι δίδωσι, βραχύς, ἐν ᾧ λέγειν μὲν ὀλίγα δεῖ, πράττειν δὲ πολλά, καὶ πρὸς εἰδότας οἱ λόγοι, τὰ μέγιστα καὶ φανερώτατα τῶν ἔργων αὐτοῦ καὶ οὐδ' ἀπολογία οὐδεμιᾶς δυνάμενα τυχεῖν, ταῦθ' ὑμᾶς ὑπομνήσω.

μικρὰ προσποιήσῃ πενθους, ἀλλ' εὐθὺς ἅμα τῷ αὐτὰ διαπράξασθαι τὰ θαυμαστά ἔργα, πρὶν ἢ μαρανθῆναι τὰς ὑποδεξαμένας τὰ δύστηνα σώματα πυράς, φίλους εἰστία καὶ γάμους ἐπετέλει καὶ τὴν ἀνδροφόνον νύμφην ἐπὶ τὸν τῆς ἀδελφῆς θάλαμον ἦγετο τὰς ἀπορρήτους ἐμπεδῶν πρὸς αὐτὴν ὁμολογίας: ἀνόσια καὶ ἐξάγιστα [p. 127] καὶ οὐθ' Ἑλλάδος οὔτε βαρβάρου γῆς οὐδαμῶθι γενόμενα πρῶτος εἰς τὴν Ῥωμαίων πόλιν εἰσαγαγὼν καὶ [3] μόνος. οἷα δ' ἐξειργάσατο, ὧς δημόται, τὰ περιβόητα καὶ δεινὰ περὶ τοὺς κηδεστὰς ἀμφοτέρους ἐπιχειρήματα ἐπὶ ταῖς δυσμαῖς ὄντας ἤδη τοῦ βίου; Σερούιον μὲν Τύλλιον τὸν ἐπικέστατον τῶν βασιλέων καὶ πλεῖστα ὑμᾶς εὖ ποιήσαντα φανερώς ἀποσφάξας καὶ οὐτ' ἐκκομιδῆς οὔτε ταφῆς ἔασας νομίμου τὸ σῶμα τυχεῖν: [4] Ταρκυνίαν δὲ τὴν ἐκείνου γυναικα, ἣν προσῆκεν αὐτῷ τιμᾶν ὥσπερ μητέρα, πατρός ἀδελφὴν οὖσαν καὶ σπουδαίαν περὶ αὐτὸν γενομένην, πρὶν ἢ πενθῆσαι καὶ τὰ νομιζόμενα τῷ κατὰ γῆς ἀνδρὶ ποιῆσαι τὴν ἀθλίαν ἀγχόνη διαχρησάμενος, ὑφ' ὧν ἐσώθη καὶ παρ' οἷς ἐτράφη καὶ οὖς διαδέξεσθαι μετὰ τὴν τελευτὴν ἔμελλεν ὀλίγον ἀναμείνας, ἕως ὃ κατὰ φύσιν αὐτοῖς παραγένηται θάνατος.

ἀλλὰ τί τοῦτοις ἐπιτιμῷ τοσαύτας ἔχων αὐτοῦ παρανομίας κατηγορεῖν ἔξω τῶν εἰς τοὺς συγγενεῖς καὶ κηδεστὰς γενομένων, τὰς εἰς τὴν πατρίδα καὶ πάντας ἡμᾶς ἐπιτελεσθείσας, εἰ δὴ καὶ παρανομίας δεῖ καλεῖν αὐτάς, ἀλλ' οὐκ ἀνατροπὰς καὶ ἀφανισμοὺς ἀπάντων τῶν τε νομίμων καὶ τῶν ἐθῶν; αὐτίκα τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, ἵν' ἀπὸ ταύτης ἄρξωμαι, πῶς παρέλαβεν; ἄρα γ' ὥς οἱ πρὸ αὐτοῦ γενομένοι βασιλεῖς; πόθεν; [p. 128] [2] πολλοῦ γε καὶ δεῖ. ἐκεῖνοι μέντοι πάντες ὑφ' ὑμῶν ἐπὶ τὰς δυναστείας παρήγοντο κατὰ τοὺς πατέρας ἐθισμοὺς καὶ νόμους: πρῶτον μὲν ψηφίσματος ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς γραφέντος, ἧ περὶ πάντων ἀποδεδόται τῶν κοινῶν προβουλευεῖν: ἔπειτα μεσοβασιλέων αἰρεθέντων, οἷς ἐπιτρέπει τὸ συνέδριον ἐκ τῶν ἀξίων τῆς ἀρχῆς διαγινῶναι τὸν ἐπιτηδειότατον: μετὰ ταῦτα ψῆφον ἐπενέγκαντος ἐν ἀρχαιρεσίαις τοῦ δήμου, μέθ' ἧς ἅπαντα ἐπικυροῦσθαι βούλεται τὰ μέγιστα ὁ νόμος: ἐφ' ἅπασι δὲ τοῦτοις οἰωνῶν καὶ σφαγιῶν καὶ τῶν ἄλλων σημείων καλῶν γενομένων, ὧν χωρὶς οὐδὲν ἂν γένοιτο τῆς ἀνθρωπίνης σπουδῆς καὶ προνοίας ὄφελος. [3] φέρε δὴ τί τούτων οἶδε τις ὑμῶν γενομένον, ὅτε τὴν ἀρχὴν Ταρκύνιος ἐλάβανε; ποῖον προβούλευμα συνεδρίου; τίνα μεσοβασιλέων διάγνωσιν; ποίαν δήμου ψηφοφορίαν; ποίους οἰωνοὺς αἰσίους; οὐ λέγων ταῦτα πάντα, καίτοι δέον, εἰ γοῦν ἔμελλεν ἔξιν καλῶς, μηδὲν τῶν ἐν ἔθει κατὰ τοὺς νόμους παραλελειφθαι, ἀλλ' ἂν τις ἐν μόνον ἔχῃ τούτων ἐπιδειξάι γεγονός, οὐκ ἀξιῷ τὰ παραλειφθέντα συκοφαντεῖν. πῶς οὖν παρῆλθεν ἐπὶ τὴν δυναστείαν; ὅπλοις καὶ βίᾳ καὶ πονηρῶν ἀνθρώπων συνωμοσίαις, ὥς τυράννοις ἔθος, ἀκόντων ὑμῶν καὶ δυσχεραινόντων. [4] φέρε, ἀλλ' ἐπεὶ κατέσχε τὴν δυναστείαν ὅπως οὐδὲν λαβὼν, ἄρα βασιλικῶς αὐτῇ κέχρηται ζηλῶν τοὺς προτέρους ἡγεμόνας, [p. 129] οἱ λέγοντές τε καὶ πράττοντες τοιαῦτα διετέλουν, ἐξ ὧν εὐδαιμονεστέραν τε καὶ μείζω τὴν πόλιν τοῖς ἐπιγινόμενοις παρέδοσαν, ἧς αὐτοὶ παρέλαβον; καὶ τίς ἂν ὑγιαίνων ταῦτα φήσειεν, ὁρῶν ὥς οἰκτρῶς καὶ κακῶς ἅπαντες ὑπ' αὐτοῦ διατεθείμεθα; τὰς μὲν οὖν ἡμετέρας τῶν πατρικίων συμφορὰς, ἃς καὶ τῶν πολέμιων ἄν τις μαθὼν δακρύσειε, σιωπῶ, εἰ γ' ὀλίγοι μὲν ἐκ πολλῶν λελείμμεθα, ταπεινοὶ δ' ἐκ μεγάλων γεγόναμεν, εἰς πενίαν δὲ καὶ δεινὴν ἀπορίαν ἤκομεν ἐκ πολλῶν καὶ μακαρίων ἐκπεσόντες ἀγαθῶν. οἱ λαμπροὶ δ' ἐκείνοι καὶ δεινοὶ καὶ μεγάλοι, δι' οὓς ἐπιφανῆς ἡ πόλις ἡμῶν ποτε ἦν, οἱ μὲν ἀπολώλασιν, ^[2] οἱ δὲ φεύγουσι τὴν πατρίδα. ἀλλὰ τὰ ὑμέτερα πράγματα, ὧς δημόται, πῶς ἔχει; οὐκ ἀφήρηται μὲν ὑμῶν τοὺς νόμους, ἀφήρηται δὲ τὰς ἐφ' ἱερὰ καὶ θυσίας συνόδους, πέπαυκε δὲ τοὺς ἀρχαιρεσιάζοντας καὶ ψηφοφοροῦντας καὶ περὶ τῶν κοινῶν ἐκκλησιάζοντας, ἀναγκάζει δ' ὅσα δούλους ἀργυρωνήτους αἰσχύνῃς ἄξια ταλαιπωρεῖν λατομοῦντας ὑλοτομοῦντας ἀχθοφοροῦντας, ἐν ταρτάροις καὶ βαράθροις δαπανωμένους, ἀνάπαυσιν τῶν κακῶν οὐδὲ τὴν ἐλαχίστην λαμβάνοντας; ^[3] τίς οὖν ὅρος ἔσται τῶν συμφορῶν, καὶ μέχρι τίνος χρόνου ταῦτα πάσχοντες ὑπομενοῦμεν, καὶ πότε τὴν πάτριον ἐλευθερίαν ἀνακτησόμεθα; ὅταν ἀποθάνῃ Ταρκύνιος; νῆ Δία. καὶ τί πλέον ἡμῖν ἔσται τότε, τί δ' οὐ χεῖρον; τρεῖς γὰρ ἐξ ἑνὸς Ταρκυνίου ἐξομεν [p. 130] ^[4] πολλῶ μιαιωτέρους τοῦ πατρὸς. ὅπου γὰρ ὁ γενόμενος ἐξ ἰδιώτου τύραννος καὶ ὁπὲ ἀρξάμενος πονηρὸς εἶναι, πᾶσαν ἀκριβοῖ τὴν τυραννικὴν κακίαν, ποδαποὺς χρή νομίζειν ἔσεσθαι τοὺς ἐξ ἐκείνου φύντας, οἷς πονηρὸν μὲν γένος, πονηραὶ δὲ τροφαί, πολιτικὸν δὲ καὶ μέτριον οὐδὲν οὕτ' ἰδεῖν ἐξεγένετο πώποτε πραπτόμενον οὔτε μαθεῖν; ἵνα δὲ μὴ μαντεύσθε τὰς καταράτους αὐτῶν φύσεις, ἀλλ' ἀκριβῶς μάθητε, οἷους σκύλακας ὑμῖν ἡ Ταρκυνίου τυραννὶς ὑποτρέφει, θεάσασθε ἔργον ἑνὸς αὐτῶν τοῦ πρесоβυτάτου.

Ταρκύνιος ἐπειδὴ τῆς βασιλείας ἐξέπεσε, χρόνον μὲν τινα οὐ πολὺν ἐν πόλει Γαβίοις διέτριβε τοὺς τε συνιόντας πρὸς αὐτὸν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ὑποδεχόμενος, οἷς ἦν τυραννὶς ἀσπαστότερον χρῆμα ἐλευθερίας, καὶ ταῖς Λατίνων ἐλπίσιν ἐπέχων ὥς δι' ἐκείνων καταχθησόμενος ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχήν. ὥς δ' οὐ προσεῖχον αὐτῷ τὸν νοῦν αἱ πόλεις οὐδ' ἐβούλοντο πόλεμον ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ εἰς τὴν Ῥωμαίων πόλιν ἐκφέρειν, ἀπογνοὺς τὰς παρὰ τούτων ἐπικουρίας, εἰς Τυρρηνικὴν καταφεύγει πόλιν Ταρκυνίου, ἐξ ἧς τὸ πρὸς μητρὸς αὐτῷ γένος ἦν. [2] πείσας δὲ τὰ τέλη τῶν Ταρκυνιητῶν [p. 142] δωρεαῖς καὶ δι' ἐκείνων ἐπὶ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν παραχθεὶς τὴν τε συγγένειαν ἀνενεώσατο τὴν ὑπάρχουσαν αὐτῷ πρὸς τὴν πόλιν καὶ τὰς εὐεργεσίας διεξῆλθεν, ἃς ὁ πάππος αὐτοῦ πάσαις ἐχαρίσατο ταῖς ἐν Τυρρηνίᾳ πόλεσι, καὶ τὰς συνθήκας ὑπεμύνησκεν, ἃς ἦσαν πεποιημένοι πρὸς αὐτόν: ἐπὶ δὲ τούτοις ἅπασι τῆς κατειληφθείας αὐτὸν ὠδύρετο τύχας, ὥς ἐκ μεγάλης ἐκπεσῶν εὐδαιμονίας ἐν ἡμέρᾳ μιᾷ πλάνης καὶ τῶν ἀναγκαιῶν ἐνδεῆς σὺν υἱοῖς τρισὶν ἐπὶ τοὺς ἐφ' ἑαυτῷ ποτε 2 γενομένους ἡναγκάσθη καταφυγεῖν. [3] διεξελθὼν δ' ὧδε ταῦτα μετὰ πολλῶν οἴκτων τε καὶ δακρύων ἔπεισε τὸν δῆμον πρέσβεις ἀποστεῖλαι πρῶτον εἰς Ῥώμην συμβατηρίους φέροντας ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ λόγους, ὥς δὴ συμπραττόντων αὐτῷ τῶν δυνατῶν ἐκείθεν καὶ συλληψομένων τῆς καθόδου. ἀποδειχθέντων δὲ πρεσβευτῶν, οὓς αὐτὸς προεῖλετο, διδάξας τοὺς ἄνδρας ἃ χρὴ λέγειν τε καὶ πράττειν, καὶ παρὰ τῶν σὺν αὐτῷ φυγάδων γράμματα δοὺς δεήσεις ἔχοντα πρὸς τοὺς οἰκείους αὐτῶν καὶ φίλους, ἀπέστειλε φέροντάς τι καὶ χρυσίον.

οὗτοι οἱ ἄνδρες εἰς Ῥώμην ἐλθόντες ἔλεγον ἐπὶ τῆς βουλῆς, Ὅτι Ταρκύνιος ἀξιοῖ λαβὼν ἄδειαν ἐλθεῖν σὺν ὀλίγοις πρῶτον μὲν ἐπὶ τὸ συνέδριον, ὥσπερ ἐστὶ δίκαιον: ἔπειτ' ἂν λάβῃ παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς τὸ συγχώρημα τότε καὶ ἐπὶ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἐλθεῖν λόγον ὑφ' ἑξῶν ὑπὲρ πάντων ὧν ἔπραξεν, ἅφ' οὗ τὴν ἀρχὴν παρέλαβε, καὶ δικασταῖς χρησόμενος ἐάν τις αὐτοῦ [p. 143] [2] κατηγορήσῃ πᾶσι Ῥωμαίοις, ἀπολογηθεὶς δὲ καὶ πείσας ἅπαντας, ὥς οὐδὲν ἄξιον εἰργασταὶ φυγῆς, ἐάν μὲν ἀποδῶσιν αὐτῷ τὴν βασιλείαν αὖθις, ἄρξιν ἐφ' οἷς ἂν ὀρίσωσιν οἱ πολῖται δικαίους, ἐάν δὲ

Βροῦτος ἐποίησε Κολλατῖνον ἐκβαλὼν: ἔπειθ' ὅτι τὴν οἰκίαν ἐν ἐπιφθόνῳ τόπῳ κατεσκευάσατο λόφον ὑπερκείμενον τῆς ἀγορᾶς ὑψηλὸν ἐπικεικῶς καὶ περίτομον, ὃν καλοῦσι Ῥωμαῖοι Οὐελίαν, ^[2] ἐκλεξάμενος, πυθόμενος δὲ παρὰ τῶν ἐπιτηδείων, ὅτι ταῦτα λυπεῖ τὸν δῆμον, ἀρχαιρεσιῶν προθεῖς ἡμέραν [p. 167] ὕπατον αἰρεῖται Σπόριον Λουκρήτιον, ὃς οὐ πολλὰς ἡμέρας τὴν ἀρχὴν κατασχὼν ἀποθνήσκει. εἰς δὲ τὸν ἐκείνου τόπον καθίστησι Μάρκον Ὀράτιον, καὶ τὴν οἰκίαν ἀπὸ τοῦ λόφου μετατίθεται κάτω, ἵν' ἐξεῖη Ῥωμαίοις, ὡς αὐτὸς ἐκκλησιάζων ἔφη, βάλλειν αὐτὸν ἄνωθεν ἀπὸ τοῦ μετεώρου τοῖς λίθοις, ἐὰν τι λάβωσιν ἀδικοῦντα. ^[3] βεβαίαν τε πίστιν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἐλευθερίας τοὺς δημοτικοὺς λαβεῖν βουλόμενος ἀφεῖλεν ἀπὸ τῶν ῥάβδων τοὺς πελέκεις, καὶ κατεστήσατο τοῖς μεθ' ἐαυτὸν ὑπάτοις ἔθος, ὃ καὶ μέχρι τῆς ἐμῆς διέμεινεν ἡλικίας, ὅταν ἔξωθεν τῆς πόλεως γένωνται χρῆσθαι τοῖς πελέκεσιν, ἔνδον δὲ ταῖς ῥάβδοις κοσμεῖσθαι μόναις: ^[4] νόμους τε φιλανθρωποτάτους ἔθετο βοηθείας ἔχοντας τοῖς δημοτικοῖς: ἓνα μὲν, ἐν ᾧ διαρρήδην ἀπέλπεν ἄρχοντα μηδένα εἶναι Ῥωμαίων, ὃς ἂν μὴ παρὰ τοῦ δήμου λάβῃ τὴν ἀρχήν, θάνατον ἐπιθεῖς ζημίαν, ἐὰν τις παρὰ ταῦτα ποιῇ, καὶ τὸν ἀποκτείναντα τούτων τινὰ ποιῶν ἀθῶν: ἕτερον δ', ἐν ᾧ γεγραπται, Ἐὰν τις ἄρχων Ῥωμαίων τινὰ ἀποκτείνειν ἢ μαστιγοῦν ἢ ζημιοῦν εἰς χρήματα θέλῃ, ἐξεῖναι τῷ ιδιώτῃ προκαλεῖσθαι τὴν ἀρχὴν ἐπὶ τὴν τοῦ δήμου κρίσιν, πάσχειν δ' ἐν τῷ μεταξὺ χρόνῳ μηδὲν ὑπὸ τῆς ἀρχῆς, ἕως ἂν ὁ δῆμος ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ ψηφίσῃται. ^[5] ἐκ τούτων γίνεται τῶν πολιτευμάτων τιμιος τοῖς δημοτικοῖς, καὶ τίθενται αὐτῷ ἐπωνύμιον Ποπλικόλαν: τοῦτο κατὰ τὴν Ἑλλήνων διάλεκτον βούλεται δηλοῦν δημοκρδη. καὶ τὰ μὲν [p. 168] ἐν ἐκείνῳ τῷ ἐνιαυτῷ συντελεσθέντα ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπᾶτων τοιαυδε ἦν:

τῷ δ' ἐξῆς αὐτὸς τε πάλιν ἀποδείκνυται Οὐαλέριος τὸ δεῦτερον ὕπατος καὶ σὺν αὐτῷ Λουκρήτιος, ἐφ' ὧν ἄλλο μὲν οὐδὲν ἄξιον λόγου ἐπράχθη, τιμήσεις δ' ἐγένοντο τῶν βίων καὶ τάξεις τῶν εἰς τοὺς πολέμους εἰσφορῶν, ὡς Τύλλιος ὁ βασιλεὺς ἐνομοθέτησε, πάντα τὸν ἐπὶ τῆς Ταρκυνίου δυναστείας χρόνον ἀφειμέναι, τότε δὲ πρῶτον ὑπὸ τούτων ἀνανεωθεῖσαι: ἐξ ὧν εὐρέθη τῶν ἐν ἡβῇ Ῥωμαίων περὶ τρισκαίδεκα μυριάδας. καὶ εἰς χωρίον τι Σιγνούριον καλούμενον Ῥωμαίων ἀπεστάλῃ στρατιά, διὰ φυλακῆς ἔξουσα τὸ φρούριον ἐπὶ ταῖς Λατίνων τε καὶ Ἑρνίκων πόλεσι κείμενον, ὅθεν τὸν πόλεμον προσεδέχοντο.

Ποπλίου δὲ Οὐαλερίου τοῦ προσαγορευθέντος Ποπλικόλα τὸ τρίτον ἐπὶ τὴν αὐτὴν ἀποδειχθέντος ἀρχὴν καὶ σὺν αὐτῷ Μάρκου Ὀρατίου Πολβίλλου τὸ δεῦτερον βασιλεὺς Κλουσινῶν τῶν ἐν Τυρρηνίᾳ Λάρος ὄνομα, Πορσίνας ἐπὶ κλησιν, καταφυγόντων ἐπ' αὐτὸν Ταρκυνίων, ὑποσχόμενος αὐτοῖς дуεῖν θάτερον ἢ διαλλάξειν αὐτοὺς πρὸς τοὺς πολίτας ἐπὶ καθόδῳ καὶ ἀναλήψει τῆς ἀρχῆς ἢ τὰς οὐσίας ἀνακομισάμενος, ἃς ἀφηρέθησαν, ἀποδώσειν, ἐπειδὴ πρέσβεις ἀποστείλας εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην ἐν τῷ παρελθόντι ἐνιαυτῷ μεμιγμένας ἀπειλαῖς ἐπικλήσεις κομίζοντας οὔτε διαλλαγὰς εὔρετο [p. 169] τοῖς ἀνδράσι καὶ καθοδὸν, αἰτιωμένης τῆς βουλῆς τὰς ἀράς καὶ τοὺς ὄρκους τοὺς γενομένους κατ' αὐτῶν, οὔτε τὰς οὐσίας ἀνεπράξατο αὐτοῖς, τῶν διανειμαμένων καὶ κατακληρουχησάντων αὐτὰς οὐκ ἀξιοῦντων ἀποδιδόναι:

ταῦτα μαθόντες οἱ τῶν Ῥωμαίων ὑπατοὶ πρῶτον μὲν τὰ ἐκ τῶν ἀγρῶν χρήματά τε καὶ βοσκήματα καὶ ἀνδράποδα μετὰγειν τοῖς γεωργοῖς ἐκέλευσαν εἰς τὰ πλησίον ὄρη φρούρια κατασκευάσαντες ἐπὶ τοῖς ἐρυμνοῖς ἱκανὰ σώζειν τοὺς εἰς αὐτὰ καταφυγόντας: ἔπειτα τὸν καλούμενον Ἰανίκολον ὄχθον: ἔστι δὲ τοῦτ' [p. 170] ὄρος ὑψηλὸν ἀγχοῦ τῆς Ῥώμης πέραν τοῦ Τεβέριους ποταμοῦ κείμενον: ὄχυρωτέραις ἐκρατύναντο κατασκευαῖς τε καὶ φυλακαῖς, περὶ παντὸς ποιούμενοι μὴ γενέσθαι τοῖς πολεμίοις τὸ ἐπικαίρον χωρίον ἐπιτείχισμα κατὰ τῆς πόλεως, καὶ τὰς εἰς τὸν πόλεμον παρασκευὰς ἐνταῦθ' ἀπέθεντο: τὰ τ' ἐντὸς τείχους ἐπὶ τὸ δημοτικώτερον καθίσταντο πολλὰ πολιτεύμενοι φιλάνθρωπα πρὸς τοὺς πένητας, ἵνα μὴ μεταβάλλοιντο πρὸς τοὺς τυράννους ἐπὶ τοῖς ἰδίοις κέρδεσι πεισθέντες 9 προδοῦναι τὸ κοινόν: [2] καὶ γὰρ ἀτελεῖς αὐτοὺς ἀπάντων ἐψηφίσαντο εἶναι τῶν κοινῶν τελῶν, ὅσα βασιλευομένης τῆς πόλεως ἐτέλουν, καὶ ἀνεισφόρους τῶν εἰς τὰ στρατιωτικὰ καὶ τοὺς πολέμους ἀναλίσκομένων ἐποίησαν, μέγα κέρδος ἡγούμενοι τοῖς κοινοῖς, εἰ τὰ σώματα μόνον αὐτῶν ἔξουσι προκινδυνεύοντα τῆς πατρίδος: τὴν τε δύναμιν ἡσκημένην ἐκ πολλοῦ καὶ παρεσκευασμένην ἔχοντες ἐν τῷ προκειμένῳ τῆς πόλεως ἐστρατοπεδεύοντο πεδίῳ. [3] βασιλεὺς δὲ Πορσίνας ἄγων τὴν στρατιάν τὸ μὲν Ἰανίκολον ἐξ ἐφόδου καταλαμβάνεται καταπληξάμενος τοὺς φυλάττοντας αὐτὸ καὶ φρουρὰν Τυρρηνῶν ἐν αὐτῷ καθίστησιν: ἐπὶ δὲ τὴν πόλιν ἐλαύνων ὥς καὶ ταύτην δίχα πόνου παραστησόμενος, ἐπειδὴ πλησίον τῆς γεφύρας ἐγένετο καὶ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ἐθεάσατο προκαθημένους τοῦ ποταμοῦ, παρεσκευάζετο [p. 171] τε πρὸς μάχην ὥς ἀναρπασόμενος αὐτοὺς πλήθει καὶ ἐπῆγε σὺν πολλῇ καταφρονήσει τὴν δύναμιν. [4] εἶχον δὲ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν τοῦ μὲν ἀριστεροῦ κέρως οἱ Ταρκυνίου παῖδες, Σέξτος καὶ Τίτος, Ῥωμαίων τ' αὐτῶν τοὺς φυγάδας ἄγοντες καὶ ἐκ τῆς Γαβίων πόλεως τὸ ἀκμαϊότατον ξένων τε καὶ μισθοφόρων χεῖρα οὐκ ὀλίγην: τοῦ δὲ δεξιοῦ Μامίλιος ὁ Ταρκυνίου κηδεστής, ἐφ' οὗ Λατίνων οἱ ἀποστάντες Ῥωμαίων ἐτάξαντο: βασιλεὺς δὲ Πορσίνας κατὰ μέσσην τὴν φάλαγγα ἐτέτακτο. [5] Ῥωμαίων δὲ τὸ μὲν δεξιὸν κέρας Σπόριος Λάρκιος καὶ Τίτος Ἑρμίνιος κατεῖχον ἐναντίοι Ταρκυνίοις: τὸ δ' ἀριστερόν Μάρκος Οὐαλέριος ἀδελφὸς θατέρου τῶν ὑπᾶτων Ποπλικόλα καὶ Τίτος Λουκρήτιος ὁ τῷ πρόσθεν

ὥς δὲ συνῆλθον εἰς χεῖρας, ἐμάχοντο γενναίως καὶ πολὺν ἀντεῖχον ἀμφοτέροι χρόνον: ἐμπειρία μὲν καὶ καρτερία κρείττους ὄντες οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι τῶν ἐναντίων, πλήθει δὲ κρατοῦντες τῶν Ῥωμαίων οἱ Τυρρηνοὶ τε καὶ Λατῖνοι μακρῶ. πολλῶν δὲ πεσόντων ἀφ' ἑκατέρων δέος εἰσέρχεται Ῥωμαίους, πρῶτον μὲν τοὺς κατέχοντας τὸ ἀριστερὸν κέρας, ἐπειδὴ τοὺς ἡγεμόνας ἐθεάσαντο Οὐαλερίον τε καὶ Λουκρήτιον τραυματίας ἀποκομισθέντας ἐκ τῆς μάχης: ἔπειτα καὶ τοὺς ἐπὶ τοῦ δεξιοῦ κέρατος τεταγμένους νικῶντας ἤδη τὴν σὺν Ταρκυνίοις δύναμιν τὸ αὐτὸ καταλαμβάνει πάθος, [2] ὀρῶντας τὴν τροπὴν τῶν ἐτέρων. φευγόντων δ' εἰς [p. 172] τὴν πόλιν ἀπάντων καὶ διὰ μιᾶς γεφύρας βιαζομένων ἀνθρώπων ὁρμὴ γίνεται τῶν πολεμίων ἐπ' αὐτοὺς μεγάλη: ὀλίγου τε πάνυ ἡ πόλις ἐδέησεν ἁλῶναι κατὰ κράτος ἀτειχιστος οὖσα ἐκ τῶν παρὰ τὸν ποταμὸν μερῶν, εἰ συνεισέπεσον εἰς αὐτὴν ἅμα τοῖς φεύγουσιν οἱ διώκοντες. οἱ δὲ τὴν ὀρθὴν τῶν πολεμίων ἐπισχόντες καὶ διασώσαντες ὅλην τὴν στρατιὰν τρεῖς ἄνδρες ἐγένοντο, Σπόριος μὲν Λάρκιος καὶ Τίτος Ἑρμίνιος οἱ τὸ δεξιὸν ἔχοντες κέρας ἐκ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων, Πόπλιος δ' Ὀράτιος ὁ καλούμενος Κόκλης ἐκ τοῦ κατὰ τὴν ὄψιν ἐλαττώματος ἐκκοπεῖς ἐν μάχῃ τὸν ἕτερον ὀφθαλμὸν ἐκ τῶν νεωτέρων, μορφὴν τε κάλλιστος ἀνθρώπων καὶ [3] ψυχὴν ἄριστος. οὗτος ἀδελφιδοῦς μὲν ἦν Ὀρατίου Μάρκου θατέρου τῶν ὑπάτων, τὸ δὲ γένος κατῆγεν ἀφ' ἐνὸς τῶν τριδύμων Ὀρατίου Μάρκου τοῦ νικήσαντος τοὺς Ἀλβανοὺς τριδύμους, ὅτε περὶ τῆς ἡγεμονίας αἱ πόλεις εἰς πόλεμον καταστᾶσαι συνέβησαν μὴ πάσαις ἀποκινδυνεῦσαι ταῖς δυνάμεσιν, ἀλλὰ τρισὶν ἀνδράσιν ἀφ' ἑκατέρας, ὥς ἐν τοῖς προτέροις δεδήλωκα 10 λόγοις. [4] οὗτοι δὴ μόνοι κατὰ νότου λαβόντες τὴν γέφυραν εἴργον τῆς διαβάσεως τοὺς πολεμίους μέχρι πολλοῦ καὶ διέμενον ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς στάσεως βαλλόμενοι θ' ὑπὸ πολλῶν παντοδαποῖς βέλεσι καὶ ἐκ χειρὸς παιόμενοι τοῖς ξίφεσιν, ἕως ἅπανα ἡ στρατιὰ διῆλθε τὸν ποταμόν.

ὥς δ' ἐν ἀσφαλεῖ τοὺς σφετέρους ἔδοξαν [p. 173] γεγονέναι, δύο μὲν ἐξ αὐτῶν Ἑρμινίος τε καὶ Λάρκιος διεφθαρμένων αὐτοῖς ἤδη τῶν σκεπαστηρίων διὰ τὰς συνεχεῖς πληγὰς ἀνεχώρουν ἐπὶ πόδα. Ὀράτιος δὲ μόνος ἀνακαλουμένων αὐτὸν ἀπὸ τῆς πόλεως τῶν θ' ὑπάτων καὶ τῶν ἄλλων πολιτῶν καὶ περὶ παντὸς ποιουμένων σωθῆναι τοιοῦτον ἄνδρα τῇ πατρίδι καὶ τοῖς γειναμένοις οὐκ ἐπέισθη, ἀλλ' ἔμενεν, ἔνθα τὸ πρῶτον ἔστη, κελεύσας τοῖς περὶ τὸν Ἑρμίνιον λέγειν πρὸς τοὺς ὑπάτους, ὥς αὐτοῦ φράσαντος, ἀποκόπτειν τὴν γέφυραν ἀπὸ τῆς πόλεως ἐν τάχει: ἦν δὲ μία κατ' ἐκείνους τοὺς χρόνους ξυλόφρακτος ἄνευ σιδήρου δεδεμένη ταῖς σανίσιν αὐταῖς, ἦν καὶ μέχρις ἐμοῦ τοιαύτην φυλάττουσι Ῥωμαῖοι: ἐπιστεῖλαι δὲ τοῖς ἀνδράσιν, ὅταν τὰ πλείω τῆς γεφύρας λυθῇ καὶ βραχὺ τὸ λειπόμενον ἧ μέρος, φράσαι πρὸς αὐτὸν σημείοις τισὶν ἢ φωνῇ γεγωνοτέρᾳ: τὰ λοιπὰ λέγων ἑαυτῷ μελήσειν. [2] ταῦτ' ἐπικελευσάμενος τοῖς δυσὶν ἐπ' αὐτῆς ἴσταται τῆς γεφύρας καὶ τῶν ὁμόσε χωρούντων οὓς μὲν τῷ ξίφει παίων, οὓς δὲ τῷ θυρεῶ περιτρέπων πάντας ἀνέστειλε τοὺς ὁρμήσαντας ἐπὶ τὴν γέφυραν: οὐκέτι γὰρ εἰς χεῖρας αὐτῷ χωρεῖν ἐτόλμων οἱ διώκοντες ὡς μεμνηότες καὶ θανατῶντι: καὶ ἅμα οὐδὲ ῥάδιον αὐτῷ προσελθεῖν ὑπάρχον ἐξ εὐωνύμων μὲν καὶ δεξιῶν ἔχοντι πρόβλημα τὸν ποταμόν, ἐκ δὲ τοῦ κατὰ πρόσωπον ὄπλων τε καὶ νεκρῶν σωρόν: ἀλλ' ἄπωθεν ἐστῶτες ἄθροοι λόγχαις τε καὶ σαυνίοις καὶ λίθοις χειροπληθέσιν [p. 174] ἔβαλλον, οἷς δὲ μὴ παρῆν ταῦτα τοῖς ξίφεσι καὶ ^[3] ταῖς ἀσπίσι τῶν νεκρῶν. ὁ δ' ἡμύνετο τοῖς ἐκείνων χρώμενος ὅπλοις κατ' αὐτῶν καὶ ἔμελλεν ὥσπερ εἰκὸς εἰς ἀθρόους βάλλων αἰετίνος τευξέσθαι σκοποῦ. ἤδη δὲ καταβελῆς ὢν καὶ τραυμάτων πλήθος ἐν πολλοῖς μέρεσι τοῦ σώματος ἔχων, μίαν δὲ πληγὴν λόγχης, ἣ διὰ θατέρου τῶν γλουτῶν ὑπὲρ τῆς κεφαλῆς τοῦ μηροῦ ἀντία ἐνεχθεῖσα ἐκάκωσεν αὐτὸν ὀδύναις καὶ τὴν βάσιν ἔβλαπτεν, ἐπειδὴ τῶν κατόπιν ἤκουσεν ἐμβοησάντων λελύσθαι τῆς γεφύρας τὸ πλέον μέρος, καθάλλεται σὺν τοῖς ὅπλοις εἰς τὸν ποταμόν καὶ διανηξάμενος τὸ ῥεῦμα χαλεπῶς πάνυ: περὶ γὰρ τοῖς ὑπηρείσμασι τῶν σανίδων σχιζόμενος ὁ ῥοῦς ὀξὺς ἦν καὶ δίνας ἐποiei μεγάλας: ἐξεκολύμβησεν εἰς τὴν γῆν οὐδὲν τῶν ὄπλων ἐν τῷ νεῖν ἀποβαλὼν.

μετὰ γὰρ τὴν μάχην ἐκείνην ὁ μὲν Τυρρηνῶν βασιλεὺς ἐν τῷ πλησίον ὄρει καταστρατοπεδευσάμενος, ὅθεν τὴν Ῥωμαίων φρουρὰν ἐξεβάλε, τῆς ἐπέκεινα τοῦ Τεβέριους ποταμοῦ χώρας ἀπάσης ἐκράτει. οἱ δὲ Ταρκυνίου παῖδες καὶ ὁ κηδεστὴς αὐτοῦ Μαιμίλιος σχεδίαίς τε καὶ σκάφαις διαβιβάσαντες τὰς ἑαυτῶν δυνάμεις ἐπὶ θάτερα μέρη τοῦ ποταμοῦ τὰ πρὸς τὴν Ῥώμην φέροντα ἐν ἐχυρῷ τίθενται χωρίῳ τὸν χάρακα: ὅθεν ὀρμώμενοι τῶν τε Ῥωμαίων ἐδήρουν τὴν γῆν καὶ τὰς αὐλὰς κατέσκαπτον καὶ τοῖς ἐπὶ νομᾶς [p. 176] ἐξιοῦσιν ἐκ τῶν ἐρυμάτων βοσκήμασιν ἐπετίθεντο. ^[2] κρατουμένης δὲ τῆς ὑπαίθρου πάσης ὑπὸ τῶν πολεμίων, καὶ οὐτ' ἐκ γῆς εἰσκομιζομένων εἰς τὴν πόλιν τῶν ἀγορῶν οὐτε μὴν διὰ τοῦ ποταμοῦ καταγομένων ὅτι μὴ σπανίων, ταχέϊα τῶν ἀναγκαίων σπάνις ἐγένετο μυριάσι πολλαῖς τὰ παρασκευασθέντα οὐ πολλὰ ὄντα δαπανώσας. [3] καὶ μετὰ τοῦθ' οἱ θεράποντες πολλοὶ καταλιπόντες τοὺς δεσπότας ἡτομόλουν ὁσημέραι, καὶ ἐκ τοῦ δημοτικοῦ πλήθους οἱ πονηρότατοι πρὸς τοὺς Τυρρηνοὺς ἀφίσταντο: ταῦθ' ὁρῶσι τοῖς ὑπάτοις ἔδοξε Λατίνων μὲν δεῖσθαι τῶν ἐπι αἰδουμένων τὸ συγγενὲς καὶ μένειν δοκούντων ἐν τῇ φιλίᾳ συμμαχίας σφίσι πέμψαι διὰ ταχέων, εἰς δὲ τὴν Καμπανίδα Κύμην καὶ τὰς ἐν τῷ Πωμεντίνῳ πεδίῳ πόλεις ἀποστεῖλαι πρέσβεις ἀξιώσοντας αὐτὰς σίτου σφίσιν ἐξαγωγὴν ἐπιτρέψαι. [4] Λατῖνοι μὲν οὖν διεκρούσαντο τὴν ἐπικουρίαν, ὡς οὐχ ὅσιον αὐτοῖς ὄν οὐτε Ταρκυνίοις πολεμεῖν οὐτε Ῥωμαίοις, ἐπεὶδὴ κοινῇ συνέθεντο πρὸς ἀμφοτέρους τὰ περὶ τῆς φιλίας ὅρκια: ἐκ δὲ τοῦ Πωμεντίνου πεδίου Λάρκιος τε καὶ Ἑρμίνιος οἱ πεμφθέντες ἐπὶ τὴν παρακομιδὴν τοῦ σίτου πρέσβεις πολλὰς γεμίσαντες σκάφας παντοίας τροφῆς ἀπὸ θαλάττης ἀνὰ τὸν ποταμὸν ἐν νυκτὶ ἀσελήνῳ λαθόντες τοὺς πολεμίους διεκόμισαν. [5] ταχὺ δὲ καὶ ταύτης ἐξαναλωθείσης τῆς ἀγορᾶς καὶ τῆς αὐτῆς κατασχούσης τοὺς ἀνθρώπους ἀπορίας μαθὼν παρὰ τῶν αὐτομόλων ὁ Τυρρηνός, ὅτι κάμνουσιν [p. 177] ὑπὸ τοῦ λιμοῦ οἱ ἔνδον, ἐπεκηρυκεύσατο πρὸς αὐτοὺς ἐπιτάττων δέχεσθαι Ταρκύνιον, εἰ βούλονται πολέμου τε καὶ λιμοῦ ἀπηλλάχθαι.

οὐκ ἀνασχομένων δὲ τῶν Ῥωμαίων τὰς ἐπιταγὰς, ἀλλὰ πάντα τὰ δεινὰ ὑπομένειν βουλομένων, καταμαθὼν ὁ Μούκιος, ὅτι дуεῖν αὐτοῖς συμβήσεται θάτερον ἢ μὴ διαμεῖναι πολὺν ἐν τοῖς λελογισμένοις χρόνον ὑπὸ τῆς ἀπορίας τῶν ἀναγκαίων ἐκβιασθεῖσιν, ἢ φυλάττουσι βεβαίας τὰς κρίσεις τὸν οἴκτιστον ἀπολέσθαι μόρον, δεηθεὶς τῶν ὑπάτων τὴν βουλὴν αὐτῷ συναγαγεῖν, ὡς μέγα τι καὶ ἀναγκαῖον ἐξοίσων πρὸς αὐτήν, ἐπεὶδὴ συνήχθη, λέγει τοιάδε: ἄνδρες πατέρες, ἐγχείρημα τολμᾷν διανοοῦμενος, ὑφ' οὗ τῶν παρόντων ἀπαλλαγῇσεται κακῶν ἢ πόλις, τῷ μὲν ἔργῳ πάνυ θαρρῶ καὶ ῥαδίως αὐτοῦ κρατήσῃν οἶομαι: περὶ δὲ τῆς ἐμαυτοῦ ψυχῆς, εἰ περιέσται μοι μετὰ τὸ ἔργον, οὐ πολλὰς ἐλπίδας ἔχω, μᾶλλον δ' εἰ χρή τάληθές λέγειν οὐδεμίαν. [2] εἰς τοσοῦτον δὴ κίνδυνον ἐμαυτὸν καθιέναι μέλλων οὐκ ἀξιώ λαθεῖν ἅπαντας αἰωρηθεὶς ὑπὲρ μεγάλων, ἐὰν ἄρα συμβῇ μοι διαμαρτεῖν τῆς πείρας, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ καλοῖς ἔργοις μεγάλων ἐπαίνων τυγχάνειν, ἐξ ὧν ἀντὶ τοῦ θνητοῦ σώματος ἀθάνατον ὑπάρξει μοι κλέος. [3] δῆμῳ μὲν φράζειν ἃ διανοοῦμαι πράττειν οὐκ ἀσφαλές, μὴ τις ἴδια κέρδη περιβαλλόμενος πρὸς τοὺς πολεμίους αὐτὰ ἐξενέγκῃ, δέον αὐτοῖς ὥσπερ μυστηρίου ἀπορρήτου φυλακῆς: ὑμῖν δ' οὐς καθέξειν [p. 178] αὐτὰ πεπίστευκα ἐγκρατῶς πρώτοις τε καὶ μόνοις ἐκφέρω: παρ' ὑμῶν δ' οἱ ἄλλοι πολῖται ἐν τῷ προσήκοντι καιρῷ μαθήσονται. [4] τὸ δ' ἐγχείρημά μου τοιόνδε ἐστίν. αὐτομόλου σχῆμα μέλλω λαβὼν ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα τῶν Τυρρηνῶν πορεύεσθαι. ἐὰν μὲν οὖν ἀπιστηθεὶς πρὸς αὐτῶν ἀποθάνω, ἐνὶ πολίτῃ μόνον ἐλάττους οἱ λοιποὶ γενήσεσθε: ἐὰν δὲ παρελθεῖν εἴσω τοῦ χάρακος ἐκγένηται μοι, τὸν βασιλέα τῶν πολεμίων ἀποκτενεῖν ὑμῖν ὑποδέχομαι: ἀποθανόντος δὲ Πορσίνου

ἐπαινεθεὶς δ' ὑπὸ τῶν ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ καὶ λαβῶν οἰωνοὺς αἰσίους τῆς πράξεως διαβαίνει τὸν ποταμὸν. καὶ παραγενόμενος ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα τῶν Τυρρηνῶν εἰσέρχεται, παρακρουσάμενος τοὺς φυλάττοντας τὰς πύλας ὡς τῶν ὁμοεθνῶν τις, ὅπλον τ' οὐθὲν φανερόν ἔχων καὶ γλώττῃ Τυρρηνικῇ διαλεγόμενος, ἦν ἐξέμαθεν ἔτι παῖς ὢν ὑπὸ τροφοῦ Τυρρηνίδος τὸ ^[2] γένος ἐκδιδασθεὶς. ὡς δ' ἐπὶ τὴν ἀγορὰν καὶ τὸ στρατήγιον ἀφίκετο, ἄνδρα ὀρᾷ μεγέθει τε καὶ ῥώμῃ σώματος διαφέροντα, ἐσθῆτα πορφυρᾶν ἐνδεδυκότα, καθήμενον ἐπὶ τοῦ στρατηγικοῦ βήματος, καὶ περὶ αὐτὸν ἐστῶτας ἐνόπλους συχνούς. διαμαρτῶν δὲ τῆς δόξης, ^[p. 179] οἷα δὴ μηδέποτε τὸν βασιλέα τῶν Τυρρηνῶν θεασάμενος, τοῦτον τὸν ἄνδρα ὑπέλαβε Πορσιναν εἶναι: ὁ δ' ἦν ἄρα γραμματεὺς τοῦ βασιλέως, ἐκάθητο δ' ἐπὶ τοῦ βήματος διαριθμῶν τοὺς στρατιώτας καὶ διαγράφων αὐτοῖς τοὺς ὀψωνιασμούς. ^[3] ἐπὶ τοῦτον δὴ τὸν γραμματέα χωρήσας διὰ τοῦ περιεστηκότος ὄχλου καὶ ἀναβὰς ὡς ἄνοπλος ὑπ' οὐθενὸς κωλυόμενος ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα, σπᾶται τὸ ξιφίδιον, ὃ τῆς περιβολῆς ἐντὸς ἔκρυπτε, καὶ παίει τὸν ἄνδρα κατὰ τῆς κεφαλῆς. ἀποθανόντος δὲ τοῦ γραμματέως πληγῇ μιᾷ, συλληφθεὶς εὐθύς ὑπὸ τῶν περὶ τὸ βῆμα πρὸς τὸν βασιλέα πεπυσμένον ἤδη τὴν τοῦ γραμματέως ἀναίρεσιν ἀπάγεται. ^[4] ὁ δ' ὡς εἶδεν αὐτόν, Ὡ μισῶντα πάντων, εἶπεν, ἀνθρώπων, καὶ δίκας ὑφ' ἑξῶν οὐκ εἰς μακρὰν ὢν ἅγιος εἶ, λέγε, τίς εἶ καὶ πόθεν ἀφιγμένος καὶ τίνι βοηθείᾳ πεπορθῶς ἐπεχείρησας ἔργῳ τηλικῶδε: καὶ πότερον τὸν γραμματέα τὸν ἐμὸν ἀποκτείνει σοι προὔκειτο μόνον ἢ κάμει: καὶ τίνας ἔχεις κοινωνοὺς τῆς ἐπιβουλῆς ἢ συνίστορας; ἀποκρύψῃ δὲ μηδὲν τῶν ἀληθῶν, ἵνα μὴ βασανιζόμενος ἀναγκασθῇς λέγειν.

καὶ ὁ Μούκιος οὔτε μεταβολῇ χρώματος οὔτε συννοίᾳ προσώπου τὸν ὀρρωδοῦντα διασημήνας οὔτ' ἄλλο παθὼν οὐδέν, ὢν φιλοῦσι πάσχειν οἱ μέλλοντες ἀποθνήσκειν, λέγει πρὸς αὐτόν: ἐγὼ Ῥωμαῖος μὲν εἰμι, καὶ οὐ τῶν ἐπιτυχόντων ἔνεκα γένους, ἐλευθερώσαι ^[p. 180] δὲ τὴν πατρίδα τοῦ πολέμου βουληθεὶς ἦλθον ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον ὑμῶν ὡς τῶν αὐτομόλων τις, ἀποκτείνει σε βουλόμενος: οὐκ ἄγνωῶν μὲν, ὅτι καὶ κατορθώσαντι καὶ διαμαρτόντι τῆς ἐλπίδος ἀποθανεῖν ὑπάρχει μοι, χαρίσασθαι δὲ τῇ γειναμένῃ τὴν ἐμαυτοῦ ψυχὴν προαιρούμενος καὶ ἀντὶ τοῦ θνητοῦ σώματος ἀθάνατον δόξαν καταλιπεῖν: ψευθεὶς δὲ τῆς ἐλπίδος ἀντὶ σοῦ τὸν γραμματέα, ὃν οὐθὲν ἐδεόμην, ἀνήρηκα τῇ τε πορφύρᾳ καὶ τῷ δίφρῳ καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις τῆς 11 ἐξουσίας συμβόλοις πλανηθεὶς. ^[2] τὸν μὲν οὖν θάνατον, ὃν αὐτὸς ἐμαυτοῦ κατεψηφισάμην, ὅτ' ἐπὶ τὴν πρᾶξιν ἔμελλον ὀρμᾶν, οὐ παραιτοῦμαι: βασάνους δὲ καὶ τὰς ἄλλας ὕβρεις εἰ μοι παρείης, πίστεις δοὺς ἐπὶ θεῶν ὑποσχοῦμαι σοι μέγα πρᾶγμα δηλώσειν καὶ πρὸς τὴν 12 σωτηρίαν ἀνῆκόν σοι. ^[3] ὁ μὲν δὴ ταῦτ' ἔλεγε καταστρατηγῆσαι τὸν ἄνδρα διανοούμενος: ὁ δ' ἔξω τοῦ φρονεῖν γεγονώς καὶ ἅμα κινδύνους ἐκ πολλῶν μαντευόμενος ἀνθρώπων οὐκ ἀληθεῖς δίδωσιν αὐτῷ δι' ὄρκων τὸ πιστόν. μετὰ δὲ τοῦθ' ὁ Μούκιος καινότερον ἐνθυμηθεὶς ἀπάτης τρόπον, ὃς ἐν

ὦ δὲ ταῦτ' ἤκουσεν ὁ βασιλεὺς, ἐκείνον μὲν ἀπαγαγόντας τοὺς δορυφόρους ἐκέλευσε διῆσαι καὶ φυλάττειν ἐπιμελῶς: αὐτὸς δὲ τοὺς πιστοτάτους τῶν φίλων παραλαβὼν καὶ τὸν υἱὸν Ἄρροντα παρακαθισάμενος, μετ' ἐκείνων ἐσκόπει, τί ποιῶν τὰς ἐπιβουλάς αὐτῶν διακρούσεται. ^[2] τῶν μὲν οὖν ἄλλων ἕκαστος εὐήθεις ἀσφαλείας λέγων ἐδόκει τῶν δεόντων φρονεῖν οὐδέν: ὁ δ' υἱὸς αὐτοῦ τελευταίαν ἀπεφῆνατο γνώμην πρεσβυτέραν τῆς ἡλικίας, ἀξιῶν αὐτὸν μὴ σκοπεῖν, τίσι φυλακαῖς χρώμενος οὐδὲν πείσεται δεινόν, ἀλλὰ τί ποιῶν οὐ δεήσεται φυλακῆς: θαυμασάντων δὲ τὴν διάνοιαν αὐτοῦ πάντων καὶ πῶς ἂν τοῦτο γένοιτο [p. 182] μαθεῖν βουλομένων, Εἰ φίλους ἀντὶ πολεμίων, ἔφη, ποιήσαιο τοὺς ἄνδρας, τιμιωτέραν ἡγησάμενος τὴν σεαυτοῦ ψυχὴν τῆς καθόδου τῶν σὺν Ταρκυνίῳ φυγάδων. ^[3] καὶ ὁ βασιλεὺς τὰ κράτιστα μὲν ἔφησεν αὐτὸν λέγειν, βουλῆς δ' εἶναι ἄξιον τὸ πρᾶγμα, πῶς εὐπρεπεῖς γενήσονται πρὸς αὐτοὺς αἱ διαλλαγαί: μεγάλην αἰσχύνην φάσκων εἶναι, εἰ κρατήσας αὐτῶν μάχῃ καὶ τειχήρεις ἔχων ἀπελεύσεται, μηθὲν ὧν Ταρκυνίοις ὑπέσχετο διαπραξάμενος, ὥσπερ ἡττημένος ὑπὸ τῶν νενικημένων καὶ πεφευγῶς τοὺς μηδ' ἐκ τῶν πυλῶν ὑπομένοντας ἔτι προελθεῖν: μίαν δὲ μόνην ἔσεσθαι ἀποφαίνων καλὴν τῆς ἔχθρας λύσιν, εἰ παρὰ τῶν πολεμίων παραγένοιτό τινες πρὸς αὐτὸν περὶ φιλίας διαλεγόμενοι.

ἀφικομένης δὲ τῆς πρεσβείας εἰς Ῥώμην ἡ βουλὴ μὲν ἐψηφίσατο Ποπλικόλα θατέρῳ τῶν ὑπάτων [p. 184] πεισθεῖσα πάντα συγχωρεῖν, ὅσα ὁ Τυρρηνὸς ἤξιον, κάμνειν τὸν δημότην καὶ ἄπορον ὄχλον οἰομένη τῇ σπάνει τῶν ἐπιτηδείων, καὶ ἀγαπητῶς δέξεσθαι τὴν τοῦ πολέμου λύσιν, ἐφ' οἷς ἂν γένηται δικαίαις. ^[2] ὁ δὲ δῆμος τὰ μὲν ἄλλα τοῦ προβουλευματος ἐψηφίσατο κύρια εἶναι, τὴν δ' ἀπόδοσιν τῶν χρημάτων οὐκ ἠνέσχετο, ἀλλὰ τάναντία ἔγνω, μὴτ' ἐκ τῶν ἰδίων μὴτ' ἐκ τῶν κοινῶν τοῖς τυράννοις μηδὲν ἀποδιδόναι, πρεσβευτὰς δὲ περὶ τούτων πρὸς βασιλέα Πορσίναν ἀποστεῖλαι, οἷτινες ἀξιώσουσιν αὐτὸν τὰ μὲν ὀμhra καὶ τὴν χώραν παραλαβεῖν, περὶ δὲ τῶν χρημάτων αὐτὸν δικαστὴν γενόμενον Ταρκυνίους τε καὶ Ῥωμαίους, ὅταν ἀμφοτέρων ἀκούσῃ κρῖναι τὰ δίκαια μῆτε χάριτι μῆτ' ^[3] ἔχθρᾳ παραχθέντα. ἀπῆεσαν οἱ Τυρρηνοὶ τὰς ἀποκρίσεις ταύτας πρὸς βασιλέα κομίζοντες καὶ σὺν αὐτοῖς οἱ κατασταθέντες ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου πρέσβεις ἄγοντες ἐκ τῶν πρώτων οἰκιῶν εἴκοσι παῖδας, οὓς ἔδει περὶ τῆς πατρίδος ὀμηρεῦσαι, τῶν ὑπάτων πρώτων τὰ τέκνα ἐπιδόντων, Μάρκου μὲν Ὀρατίου τὸν υἱόν, Ποπλίου δὲ Οὐαλερίου τὴν θυγατέρα γάμων ἔχουσαν ὥραν. ^[4] ἀφικομένων δὲ τούτων ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον ἦσθη τε ὁ βασιλεὺς καὶ πολλὰ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ἐπαινέσας ἀνοχὰς σπένδεται πρὸς αὐτοὺς εἰς ὠρισμένον τινα ἡμερῶν ἀριθμὸν καὶ τὴν δίκην αὐτὸς ἀναδέχεται δικάζειν. Ταρκύνιοι δ' ἤχθοντο μὲν ἀπὸ μειζόνων ἐκπεσόντες ἐλπίδων, ἃς εἶχον ἐπὶ τῷ βασιλεῖ, καταχθῆναι δόξαντες [p. 185] ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν ὑπ' ἐκείνου, στέργειν δὲ τὰ παρόντα ἠναγκάζοντο καὶ τὰ δεδομένα δέχεσθαι. ἀφικομένων δ' εἰς τὸν ὀρισθέντα χρόνον ἐκ τῆς πόλεως τῶν ἀπολογοησομένων τὴν δίκην καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς βουλῆς τῶν πρεσβυτάτων, καθίσας ἐπὶ τοῦ βήματος ὁ βασιλεὺς μετὰ τῶν φίλων καὶ τὸν υἱὸν συνδικάζειν κελεύσας ἀπέδωκεν αὐτοῖς λόγον.

παρακελευσαμένης αὐταῖς τῆς Κλοιλίας καὶ πρώτης καταρχούσης, διανηξάμεναι τὸν ποταμὸν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἀπῆλθον. [2] ἔνθα δὴ πολὺς ὁ Ταρκύνιος ἦν ἐπιorkίαν τε καὶ ἀπιστίαν τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις ἐγκαλῶν, καὶ τὸν βασιλέα παροξύνων ὡς ἐξαπατῶμενον ὑπ' ἀνθρώπων δολίων μηθὲν προσέχειν αὐτοῖς. ἀπολογουμένου δὲ τοῦ ὑπάτου καὶ τὸ ἔργον ἐξ αὐτῶν λέγοντος εἶναι τῶν παρθένων διχα τῆς ἐπιταγῆς τῶν πατέρων, καὶ τὸ πιστὸν οὐκ εἰς μακρὰν παρέξεσθαι λέγοντος ὑπὲρ τοῦ μηδὲν ἐξ ἐπιβουλῆς ὑφ' ἑαυτῶν πεπραῖχθαι, πεισθεὶς [p. 186] ὁ βασιλεὺς συνεχώρησεν αὐτῷ πορευθέντι τὰς παρθένους ἀγαγεῖν, ὡς ὑποσχνεῖτο. [3] Οὐαλέριος μὲν δὴ τὰς παρθένους ἄξων ὥχετο: Ταρκύνιος δὲ καὶ ὁ κηδεστὴς αὐτοῦ τῶν δικαίων ὑπεριδόντες πράγματι ἐπεβούλευσαν ἀνοσιῶ, λόχον ὑποπέμψαντες εἰς τὴν ὁδὸν ἱππέων, τὰς τε παρθένους ἀρπάσαι τὰς ἀγομένας καὶ τὸν ὕπατον καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους τοὺς ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον ἐρχομένους συλλαβεῖν, ὡς ῥύσια καθέξοντες ἀνθ' ὧν Ταρκύνιον ἀφείλοντο Ῥωμαῖοι χρημάτων τὰ σώματα ταῦτα, καὶ τῆς δίκης τὸ τέλος οὐκέτι περιμενοῦντες. [4] οὐκ εἶασε δ' αὐτοῖς κατὰ νοῦν χωρῆσαι τὴν ἐπιβουλὴν τὸ δαιμόνιον. ἐν ὅσῳ γὰρ ἐκ τοῦ Λατίνων χάρακος ἐξήεσαν οἱ μέλλοντες τοῖς παραγενομένοις ἐπιθέσθαι, φθάσας ὁ τῶν Ῥωμαίων ὕπατος ἦγε τὰς κόρας: καὶ πρὸς αὐταῖς ἤδη ταῖς πύλαις τοῦ Τυρρηνικοῦ χάρακος ὧν ὑπὸ τῶν ἐπιδιωξάντων ἐκ τῆς ἐτέρας στρατοπεδείας καταλαμβάνεται. ἔνθα τῆς συμπλοκῆς αὐτῶν γενομένης ταχεῖα τοῖς Τυρρηνοῖς αἰσθησις ἐγένετο, καὶ κατὰ σπουδὴν ὁ τοῦ βασιλέως υἱὸς Ἴλην ἱππέων ἐπαγόμενος ἐβοήθει, καὶ ἐκ τῶν πεζῶν οἱ προκαθήμενοι τοῦ χάρακος συνέδραμον.

ἐφ' οἷς ἀγανακτῶν ὁ Πορσίνας εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τοὺς Τυρρηνοὺς συνεκάλει καὶ διεξελθὼν, ὡς ἐπιτρεψάντων αὐτῷ δίκας Ῥωμαίων δικάσαι περὶ ὧν ἐνεκαλοῦντο ὑπὸ Ταρκυνίου, πρὶν ἐπιτελεσθῆναι τὴν [p. 187] δίκην εἰς ἱερὰ σώματα πρέσβων τε καὶ ὁμήρων παρανομεῖν ἐν σπονδαῖς ἐπεχείρησαν οἱ δικαίως ὑπ' αὐτῶν ἐξελασθέντες: ὅθεν Τυρρηνοὶ Ῥωμαίους μὲν ἀπολύουσι τῶν ἐγκλημάτων, Ταρκυνίῳ δὲ καὶ Μαιμιλίῳ διαλύονται τὴν ξενίαν: καὶ προεῖπεν αὐθημερὸν ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος ἀπέναι. [2] Ταρκύνιοι μὲν οὖν ἐν ἐλπίσι χρησταῖς γενόμενοι κατ' ἀρχάς, ὡς ἡ τυραννήσοντες αὐθις τῆς πόλεως Τυρρηνῶν σφίσι βοηθοῦντων ἢ τὰ χρήματα κομιοῦμενοι, διὰ τὴν εἰς τοὺς πρέσβεις καὶ τὰ ὄμηρα παρανομίαν ἀμφοτέρων διαμαρτὸντες ἀπῆλθον ἐκ τοῦ [3] στρατοπέδου σὺν αἰσχύνῃ τε καὶ μίσει. ὁ δὲ τῶν Τυρρηνῶν βασιλεὺς τὰ ὄμηρα τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα προαχθῆναι κελεύσας ἀποδίδωσι τῷ ὑπάτῳ εἰπὼν, ὅτι πάσης ὁμηρείας κρεῖττονα ἡγεῖται τὴν πίστιν τῆς πόλεως. μίαν δὲ παρθένον ἐκ τῶν ὁμήρων, ὑφ' ἧς ἐπέισθησαν αἱ λοιπαὶ διανήξασθαι τὸν ποταμὸν, ἐπαινέσας ὡς κρεῖττον ἔχουσαν φρόνημα τῆς τε φύσεως καὶ τῆς ἡλικίας, καὶ τὴν πόλιν μακαρίσας ἐπὶ τῷ μὴ μόνον ἄνδρας ἀγαθοὺς ἐκτρέφειν, ἀλλὰ καὶ παρθένους ἀνδράσιν ὁμοίας, δωρεῖται τὴν κόρην ἱππῷ πολεμιστῇ [4] φαλάροις κεκοσμημένῳ διαπρεπέσι. μετὰ δὲ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν τὰ περὶ τῆς εἰρήνης καὶ φιλίας ὄρκια πρὸς τοὺς πρέσβεις τῶν Ῥωμαίων ποιησάμενος καὶ ξενίσας αὐτοὺς δῶρα τῇ πόλει φέρεσθαι δίδωσι τοὺς αἰχμαλώτους ἅπαντας ἄνευ λύτρων συχνοὺς πάνυ ὄντας, καὶ τὸ χωρίον, ἐν ᾧ κατεστρατοπεδευκῶς ἦν, κατεσκευασμένον οὐχ ὡς στρατόπεδον ἐν ξένη γῇ πρὸς ὀλίγον [p. 188] καιρὸν, ἀλλ' ὡς πόλιν ἰδίαις τε καὶ δημοσίαις οἰκοδομαῖς ἀποχρῶντως, οὐκ ὄντος τοῖς Τυρρηνοῖς ἔθους, ὅποτε ἀναστρατοπεδεύοιεν ἐκ πολемίας, ὀρθὰς καταλείπειν τὰς κατασκευάς, ἀλλὰ καίειν, οὐ μικρὰν τῇ πόλει χαρισάμενος εἰς χρημάτων λόγον δωρεάν. ἐδήλωσε δ' ἡ πράσις, ἣν ἐποίησαντο μετὰ τὴν ἀπαλλαγὴν ^[5] τοῦ βασιλέως οἱ ταμίαι. ὁ μὲν δὲ πόλεμος ὁ συστάς Ῥωμαίοις πρὸς Ταρκυνίους τε καὶ βασιλέα Κλουσίνων Λάρων Πορσιναν, εἰς κινδύνους μεγάλους ἀγαγὼν τὴν πόλιν τοιοῦτου τέλους ἔτυχεν.

ἡ δὲ τῶν Ῥωμαίων βουλὴ μετὰ τὴν ἀπαλλαγὴν τῶν Τυρρηνῶν συνελθοῦσα ἐψηφίσατο Πορσινὰ μὲν πέμψαι θρόνον ἐλεφάντινον καὶ σκῆπτρον καὶ στέφανον χρυσοῦν καὶ θριαμβικὴν ἐσθῆτα, ἥ οἱ βασιλεῖς ἐκοσμοῦντο: Μουκίῳ δὲ τῷ προελομένῳ περὶ τῆς πατρίδος ἀποθανεῖν αἰτιωτάτῳ δόξαντι γεγενῆσθαι τῆς καταλύσεως τοῦ πολέμου χώραν ἐκ τῆς δημοσίας δοθῆναι πέραν τοῦ Τεβέριος ποταμοῦ, τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον, ὅνπερ Ὀρατίῳ τῷ πρὸ τῆς γεφύρας ἀγωνισαμένῳ πρότερον, ὅσῃ ἂν ἀρότρῳ περιλαβεῖν ἐν ἡμέρᾳ μιᾷ δύνηται. [p. 189] οὗτος ὁ χῶρος ἕως τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνων, ^[2] Μούκιοι λειμῶνες καλοῦνται. ταῦτα μὲν τοῖς ἀνδράσι: Κλοιλίᾳ δὲ τῇ παρθένῳ στάσιν εἰκόνης χαλκῆς ἔδοσαν, ἣν ἀνέθεσαν ἐπὶ τῆς ἱερᾶς ὁδοῦ τῆς εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν φερούσης οἱ τῶν παρθένων πατέρες. ταύτην ἡμεῖς μὲν οὐκέτι κειμένην εὕρομεν, ἐλέγετο δ' ἐμπρήσεως περὶ ^[3] τὰς πλησίον οἰκίας γενομένης ἠφανισθαι. κατὰ τοῦτον τὸν ἐνιαυτὸν ὁ νεὺς τοῦ Καπιτωλίου Διὸς εἰς συντέλειαν ἐξειργάσθη, περὶ οὗ τὰ κατὰ μέρος ἐν τῷ πρὸ τούτου δεδήλωκα λόγῳ. τὴν δ' ἀνιέρωσιν αὐτοῦ καὶ τὴν ἐπιγραφὴν ἔλαβε Μάρκος Ὀράτιος ὁ ἕτερος τῶν ὑπάτων φθάσας τὴν παρουσίαν τοῦ συνάρχοντος. ἐτύγχανε δὲ κατὰ τὸν καιρὸν τοῦτον Οὐαλέριος προεξεληλυθὼς μετὰ δυνάμεως ἐπὶ τὴν βοήθειαν τῆς χώρας. ἄρτι γὰρ τῶν ἀνθρώπων καταλιπόντων τὰ ἐρύματα καὶ συνιόντων εἰς τοὺς ἀγροὺς λησθήρια πέμπων Μαμίλιος μεγάλα τοὺς γεωργοὺς ἐβλαπτεν. ταῦτ' ἐπὶ τῆς τρίτης ὑπατείας ἐπράχθη.

Ποπλίου δὲ Ποστομίου τοῦ καλουμένου Τουβέρτου τὸ δεῦτερον ἄρχειν αἰρεθέντος καὶ [p. 202] Ἀγρίππα Μενηγίου τοῦ λεγομένου Λανάτου τρίτη γίνεται Σαβίνων εἰσβολὴ μείζονι στρατιᾷ, πρὶν αἰσθέσθαι Ῥωμαίους αὐτῶν τὴν ἔξοδον, καὶ μέχρι τοῦ τείχους τῆς Ῥώμης ἔλασις· ἐν ἣ πολλὺς ἐγένετο Ῥωμαίων φόνος οὐ μόνον τῶν γεωργῶν, οἷς οὐδὲν προσδεχομένοις αἰφνιδίως ἐπέστη τὸ δεινόν, πρὶν εἰς τὰ φρούρια τὰ πλησίον ἐκάστους καταφυγεῖν, ἀλλὰ καὶ [2] τῶν κατὰ πόλιν τηνικαῦτα διατριβόντων. ὁ γὰρ ἕτερος τῶν ὑπᾶτων Ποστόμιος οὐκ ἀνεκτὴν εἶναι τὴν ὕβριν τῶν πολεμίων ἡγησάμενος ἐξεβοήθει κατὰ σπουδὴν τοὺς ἐπιτυγχάνοντας ἄγων προχειρότερον μᾶλλον ἢ φρονιμώτερον. οὕς ἰδόντες οἱ Σαβῖνοι σὺν πολλῇ καταφρονήσει χωροῦντας ἐπὶ σφᾶς ἀσυντάκτους τε καὶ διεσπασμένους ἀπ' ἀλλήλων, ἔτι μᾶλλον αὐξῆσαι τὸ καταφρονοῦν αὐτῶν βουλόμενοι θᾶπτον ἢ βάδην ἀνεχώρουν ὡς δὴ φεύγοντες ὀπίσω, τέως εἰς δρυμοὺς ἀφίκοντο βαθεῖς, ἔνθα ὁ λοιπὸς αὐτῶν στρατὸς ὑπεκάθητο: ἔπειθ' ὑποστρέψαντες ἐχώρουν τοῖς διώκουσιν ὁμόσε, καὶ οἱ ἐκ τοῦ δρυμοῦ μέγα ἀλαλάζαντες ἴενται 16 ἐπ' αὐτούς. [3] ἀσυντάκτοις δ' ἀνθρώποις καὶ τεταραγμένοις καὶ ὑπὸ τοῦ δρόμου συγκεκομμένοις τὰ πνεύματα πολλοὶ καὶ σὺν κόσμῳ ἐπελθόντες, καταβάλλουσι τε τοὺς ὁμόσε χωροῦντας καὶ τοὺς λοιποὺς εἰς φυγὴν ὁμήσαντας ὑποτεμόμενοι τὰς εἰς τὴν πόλιν φερούσας ὁδοὺς εἰς ὀρεινὴν τινα κατακλείουσι ῥάχιν ἔρημον. θέμενοι δὲ πλησίον αὐτῶν τὰ ὄπλα: νύξ γὰρ ἤδη [p. 203] κατελάμβανε: φυλακὰς ἐποιοῦντο δι' ὅλης νυκτός, ἵνα μὴ λάθοιεν σφᾶς ἀποδράντες. [4] ὡς δ' εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην τὸ πάθος ἀπηγγέληται παραχρῆ τ' ἦν πολλὴ καὶ δρόμος ἐπὶ τὰ τείχη καὶ δέος ἀπάντων, μὴ διὰ νυκτός εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἔλθοιεν οἱ πολέμοι τῷ κατορθώματι ἐπαρθέντες, τῶν τ' ἀπολωλότων οἶκτος καὶ τῶν περιλειπομένων ἔλεος, ὡς ἀναρπασθησομένων αὐτίκα μάλα δι' ἀπορίαν τῶν ἀναγκαίων, εἰ μὴ τις αὐτοῖς ἐπικουρία ἔλθοι ταχεῖα. [5] ἐκείνην μὲν οὖν τὴν νύκτα πονηρὰς ἔχοντας τὰς ψυχὰς ἄγρυπνοι διῆγον: τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ πάντας τοὺς ἐν ἀκμῇ καθοπλίσας ὁ ἕτερος τῶν ὑπᾶτων Μενήνιος ἤγεν ἐπικούρους τοῖς ἐν τῷ ὄρει κόσμον καὶ τάξιν φυλάττοντας. ἰδόντες δ' αὐτούς οἱ Σαβῖνοι προσιόντας οὐκέτι παρέμειναν, ἀλλ' ἀναστήσαντες τὸν αὐτῶν στρατὸν ἤγον ἀπὸ τοῦ ὄρους ἀποχρῆν οἰόμενοι σφίσι τὴν παροῦσαν εὐτυχίαν: καὶ οὐ πολὺν ἔτι διατρίψαντες χρόνον ἀπήεσαν ἐπὶ τὰ σφέτερα σὺν αὐχήμετι μεγάλῳ βοσκημάτων τε καὶ ἀνδραπόδων καὶ χρημάτων ἀφθόνους ἄγοντες ὠφελείας.

Ῥωμαῖοι δ' ἀγανακτοῦντες ἐπὶ τῇ συμφορᾷ καὶ τὸν ἕτερον τῶν ὑπᾶτων Ποστόμιον ἐν αἰτίαις ἔχοντας ἔγνωσαν ἀπάσαις δυνάμεσι στρατεῦειν κατὰ τάχος ἐπὶ τὴν Σαβίνων γῆν, τὴν τε ἦτταν αἰσχροὺς καὶ ἀνέλπιστον γενομένην ἐπανορθῶσαι προθυμοῦμενοι, καὶ ἐπὶ τῇ νεωστὶ ἀφικομένῃ παρὰ τῶν πολεμίων πρεσβείᾳ πολλὴν ὕβρις ἐχούσῃ καὶ αὐθάδειαν ἀχθόμενοι. [p. 204] [2] ὡς γὰρ δὴ κρατοῦντες ἤδη καὶ δίχα πόνου τὴν Ῥώμην αἰρήσοντες αὐτῶν μὴ βουλομένων τὰ κελευόμενα ποιεῖν, Ταρκυνίοις τε διδόναι τὴν κάθοδον ἐκέλευον καὶ τῆς ἡγεμονίας σφίσι παραχωρεῖν πολιτείαν τε καταστήσασθαι καὶ νόμους, οὕς ἂν οἱ κεκρατηκότες τάξωσιν. ἀποκρινάμενοι δὲ τοῖς πρεσβευταῖς ἀπαγγέλλειν πρὸς τὸ κοινόν, ὅτι Ῥωμαῖοι κελεύουσι Σαβίνους ὄπλα τ' ἀποθέσθαι καὶ παραδοῦναι σφίσι τὰς πόλεις ὑπηκόους τ' εἶναι πάλιν, ὥσπερ πρότερον ἦσαν, ταῦτα δὲ ποιήσαντας αὐτοὺς ἡκεῖν τότε περὶ ὧν ἡδίκησαν ἢ κατέβλαψαν αὐτοὺς ἐν ταῖς πρότερον εἰσβολαῖς δεησομένους, εἰ βούλονται τυχεῖν εἰρήνης καὶ φιλίας: ἐὰν δὲ μὴ ποιῶσι τὰ κελευόμενα προσδέχεσθαι τὸν πόλεμον ἤξοντα ἐπὶ τὰς πόλεις αὐτῶν 17 οὐκ εἰς μακράν. [3] τοιαῦτα ἐπιταχθέντες τε καὶ ἐπιτάξαντες ἀλλήλοις, ἐπειδὴ πᾶσιν

ὡς δὲ συνεῖδον ἀμφοτέροι τὰ τῶν πολεμίων πράγματα, τῷ τε μεγέθει τῶν στρατοπέδων εἰκάσαντες καὶ παρ' αἰχμαλώτων ἀκούσαντες, τοῖς μὲν Σαβίνοις θάρσος παρέστη καὶ καταφρόνησις τῆς τῶν πολεμίων ὀλιγότητος, τοῖς δὲ Ῥωμαίοις δέος πρὸς τὸ τῶν ἀντιπολεμούντων πλῆθος: ἐθάρρησαν δὲ καὶ οὐ μικρὰς ἐλπίδας ὑπὲρ τῆς νίκης ἔλαβον ἄλλων τε σημείων γενομένων σφίσι θεοπέμπτων καὶ δὴ καὶ τελευταίου φάσματος, ὅτε παρατάττεσθαι ἔμελλον, τοιοῦδε. [2] ἐκ τῶν καταπεπηγμένων παρὰ ταῖς σκηναῖς ὑσσῶν: ἔστι δὲ ταῦτα βέλη Ῥωμαίων, ἃ συνιόντες εἰς χεῖρας ἐξακοντίζουσι, ξύλα προμήκη τε καὶ χειροπλήθη τριῶν οὐχ ἥττον ποδῶν σιδηροῦς ὀβελίσκους ἔχοντα προὔχοντας κατ' εὐθείαν ἐκ θατέρου τῶν ἄκρων, μετρίοις ἀκοντίοις ἴσα σὺν τῷ σιδήρῳ: ἐκ τούτων δὴ τῶν ὑσσῶν περὶ τοῖς ἄκροις τῶν ὀβελίσκων φλόγες ἀνῆπτοντο, καὶ δι' ὅλου τοῦ στρατοπέδου τὸ σέλας ἦν, ὥσπερ ἀπὸ [3] λαμπάδων, καὶ κατέσχε τῆς νυκτὸς ἐπὶ πολὺ. ἐκ τούτου κατέλαβον τοῦ φάσματος, ὥσπερ οἱ τερατοσκόποι ἀπέφαινον καὶ πᾶσιν ἀνθρώποις συμβαλεῖν οὐ χαλεπὸν ἦν, ὅτι νικῆν αὐτοῖς ταχεῖαν καὶ λαμπράν σημαίνει τὸ δαιμόνιον, ἐπειδήπερ ἅπαν εἴκει τῷ πυρὶ καὶ οὐδὲν ὃ τι οὐχ ὑπὸ τοῦ πυρὸς διαφθείρεται. τοῦτο δ' ὅτι ἐκ τῶν ἀμυντηρίων αὐτοῖς ὅπλων ἀνήθη, μετὰ [p. 206] πολλοῦ θάρρους προήεσαν ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος καὶ συρράξαντες τοῖς Σαβίνοις ἐμάχοντο πολλαπλασίοις ἐλάττους ἐν τῷ θαρρεῖν τὸ πιστὸν ἔχοντες: καὶ ἡ ἐμπειρία δὲ σὺν τῷ φιλοπόνῳ πολλὴ αὐτοῖς παροῦσα παντὸς ἐπήγετο 18 δεινοῦ καταφρονεῖν. [4] πρῶτος μὲν οὖν ὁ Ποστόμιος τὸ εὐώνυμον ἔχων κέρας ἀναλύσασθαι τὴν προτέραν ἤτταν προθυμούμενος τὸ δεξιὸν τῶν πολεμίων ἐξωθεῖ κέρας πρόνοιαν οὐδεμίαν τῆς, ἑαυτοῦ ψυχῆς παρὰ τὸ νικᾶν ποιούμενος, ἀλλ' ὥσπερ οἱ μεμνότες καὶ θανατῶντες εἰς μέσους τοὺς πολεμίους ρίπτων ἑαυτόν: ἔπειτα καὶ οἱ σὺν τῷ Μενηνίῳ θάτερον ἔχοντες κέρας κάμνοντες ἤδη καὶ ἐξωθούμενοι τῆς στάσεως, ὡς ἔμαθον, ὅτι νικῶσι τοὺς κατὰ σφᾶς οἱ τοῦ Ποστομίου, θάρρησαντες εἰς ἀντίπαλα χωροῦσι: καὶ γίνεται τῶν κεράτων ἀμφοτέρων τοῖς Σαβίνοις ἐκκλινάντων τροπὴ παντελής. [5] οὐδὲ γὰρ οἱ ἐν μέσῃ τῇ φάλαγγι ταχθέντες ἐπιλωμένων τῶν ἄκρων ἔτι παρέμειναν, ἀλλ' ὑπὸ τῆς ἵππου τῆς Ῥωμαϊκῆς ἐξελαυνούσης κατὰ τέλη βιασθέντες ἀνεστάλησαν. φυγῆς δὲ πάντων γενομένης ἐπὶ τοὺς χάρακας ἀκολουθήσαντες οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι καὶ συνεισπεσόντες ἀμφοτέρα λαμβάνουσιν αὐτῶν τὰ ἐρύματα. τοῦ δὲ μὴ πανσυδὶ τὸν τῶν πολεμίων διαφθαρῆναι στρατὸν ἢ τε νύξ αἰτία ἐγένετο καὶ τὸ ἐν οἰκείᾳ γῇ τὸ πάθος αὐτοῖς συμβῆναι: ῥᾶον γὰρ οἱ [p. 207] φεύγοντες ἐπὶ τὰ σφέτερα ἐσώζοντο δι' ἐμπειρίαν τῶν τόπων.

τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ καύσαντες τοὺς ἑαυτῶν νεκροὺς οἱ ὕπατοι καὶ τὰ σκυῖλα συλλέξαντες· ἕλῳ δέ τινα καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν ζώντων ῥίπτουντων ἐν τῇ φυγῇ τὰ ὄπλα· ἄνδρας τ' αἰχμαλώτους ἄγοντες, οὓς ἔλαβον οὐκ ὀλίγους καὶ χρήματα, χωρὶς ὧν οἱ στρατιῶται διήρπασαν· τούτων δὲ διαπραθέντων δημοσίᾳ τὰς κατ' ἄνδρα γενομένας εἰσφοράς, αἷς ἔστειλαν τοὺς στρατιώτας, ἅπαντες ἐκομίσαντο· καὶ ἀπῆεσαν ἐπ' ^[2] οἴκου λαμπροτάτην ἀνηρημένοι νικῆν. καὶ θριάμβους ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς ἐκοσμοῦντο ἀμφοτέρω, Μενήνιος μὲν τῷ μείζονι καὶ τιμιωτέρῳ, παρεμβεβηκῶς ἐφ' ἄρματιοῦ δίφρου βασιλικοῦ, Ποστόμιος δὲ τῷ ἐλάσσονι καὶ ὑποδεεστέρῳ, ὃν καλοῦσιν οὐαστὴν, παρεγκλίναντες τοῦνομα Ἑλληνικὸν ὑπάρχον εἰς τὰσαφές. τὸ γὰρ πρῶτον εὐαστῆς οὕτως ἀπὸ τοῦ συμβεβηκότος ἐλέγετο, ὥς αὐτὸς τ' εἰκάζω καὶ ἐν πολλαῖς εὕρισκω γραφαῖς ἐπιχωρίοις φερόμενον. ^[3] τότε δὲ πρῶτον, ὡς Λικίννιος ἱστορεῖ, τοῦτον ἐξευρούσης τὸν θριάμβον τῆς βουλῆς. διαφέρει δὲ θατέρου πρῶτον μὲν, ὅτι πεζὸς εἰσέρχεται μετὰ τῆς στρατιᾶς προηγούμενος ὁ τὸν οὐαστὴν κατὰγων [p. 208] θριάμβον, ἀλλ' οὐκ ἐφ' ἄρματος ὥσπερ ἐκεῖνος· ἔπειθ' ὅτι οὐ τὴν ποικίλιν καὶ χρυσόσημον ἀμφιέννυται στολήν, ἣ κοσμεῖται ὁ ἕτερος, οὐδὲ τὸν χρυσοῦν ἔχει στέφανον, ἀλλὰ περιπόρφυρον λευκὴν περιβέβληται τήβενναν, τὸ ἐπιχώριον τῶν ὑπάτων τε καὶ στρατηγῶν φόρημα, στέφανον δ' ἐπίκειται δάφνης, μεμείωται δὲ καὶ τοῦ σκήπτρου τῇ φορήσει παρὰ τὸν ἕτερον, ^[4] τὰ δ' ἄλλα πάντα ταῦτά ἔχει. αἷτιον δὲ τῷ ἀνδρὶ Ποστομίῳ τῆς ἐλάττονος τιμῆς ἐγένετο, καίτοι λαμπροτάτῳ πάντων γενομένῳ κατὰ τὴν μάχην, τὸ πρότερον παῖσιμα ἐν τῇ ἐπιδρομῇ μέγα καὶ σὺν αἰσχύνῃ γενόμενον, ἐξ οὗ τῆς τε δυνάμεως πολλοὺς ἀπώλεσε καὶ αὐτὸς ὀλίγου ἐδέησε σὺν τοῖς περιλειφθεῖσιν ἐκ τῆς τροπῆς αἰχμάλωτος γενέσθαι.

ἐπὶ δὲ τῆς τούτων ἀρχῆς Πόπλιος Οὐαλέριος Ποπλικόλας ἐπικαλούμενος νοσήσας ἐτελεύτα, κράτιστος τῶν τότε Ῥωμαίων κατὰ πᾶσαν ἀρετὴν νομισθεὶς. τὰ μὲν οὖν ἄλλα τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἔργα, δι' ἃ θαυμάζεσθαι τε καὶ μνήμης τυγχάνειν ἄξιός ἐστιν, οὐδὲν δεόμεναι λέγειν· ἐν ἀρχῇ γὰρ τοῦ λόγου τοῦδε τὰ πολλὰ εἴρηται· ὁ δ' ἀπάντων ἐστὶ τῶν τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἐγκωμίων θαυμασιώτατον καὶ οὕτω τέτευχε λόγου, τοῦτ' οἶμαι δεῖν μὴ παρελθεῖν, παντὸς μάλιστα νομίζων τοῦτο προσήκειν τοῖς γράφουσιν ἱστορίας, μὴ μόνον τὰς πολεμικὰς πράξεις τῶν ἐπισήμων ἡγεμόνων [p. 209] διεξιέναι, μηδ' εἴ τι πολίτευμα καλὸν καὶ σωτήριον ταῖς πόλεσιν ἀπεδείξαντο ἐξευρόντες, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοὺς βίους αὐτῶν, εἰ μέτριοι καὶ σώφρονες καὶ μένοντες ἐπὶ τοῖς πατρίοις ἐπιτηδεύμασι διετέλεσαν, ἐπιδείκνυσθαι. ^[2] ἐκεῖνος τοίνυν ὁ ἀνὴρ συγκαταλύσας μὲν τοὺς βασιλεῖς ἐν τοῖς πρώτοις τέτταρσι πατρικίοις καὶ δημεύσας αὐτῶν τὰς ὑπάρξεις, τετράκις δὲ τῆς ὑπατικῆς ἐξουσίας γενόμενος κύριος, μεγίστους δὲ δύο νικήσας πολέμους καὶ θριάμβους καταγαγὼν ἀπ' ἀμφοτέρων, τὸν μὲν πρῶτον ἀπὸ τοῦ Τυρρηνῶν ἔθνους, τὸν δὲ δεῦτερον ἀπὸ Σαβίνων, τοιαύτας ἀφορμὰς χρηματισμοῦ λαβὼν, ἃς οὐδεὶς ἂν ὡς αἰσχυρὰς καὶ ἀδίκους διέβαλεν, οὐχ ἕλῳ τῇ πάντας ἀνθρώπους καταδουλουμένη καὶ ἀσχημονεῖν ἀναγκαζούσῃ φιλοχρηματίᾳ· ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τῇ μικρᾷ καὶ πατροπαραδότῳ διέμενεν οὐσία σώφρονα καὶ αὐτάρκη καὶ πάσης ἐπιθυμίας κρεῖττονα βίον ζῶν, καὶ παῖδας ἐπὶ τοῖς ὀλίγοις χρήμασιν ἐθρέψατο τοῦ γένους ἄξιους, καὶ δῆλον ἐποίησεν ἅπασιν, ὅτι πλούσιός ἐστιν οὐχ ὁ πολλὰ κεκτημένος, ἀλλ' ὁ μικρῶν δεόμενος. [3] πίστις δ' ἀκριβῆς καὶ ἀναμφίλεκτος τῆς αὐταρκειᾶς τοῦ ἀνδρός, ἣν ἀπεδείξατο παρὰ πάντα τὸν τοῦ βίου χρόνον, ἢ μετὰ τὸν θάνατον αὐτοῦ φανεῖσα ἀπορία. οὐδὲ γὰρ αὐτὰ τὰ εἰς τὴν ἐκκομιδὴν τοῦ σώματος καὶ ταφὴν, ὧν ἀνδρὶ προσήκει τηλικούτῳ τυχεῖν, ἀρκοῦντα ἐν τοῖς ὑπάρχουσι κατέλιπεν: ἀλλ' ἐμέλλησαν αὐτὸν οἱ συγγενεῖς φαύλως πως καὶ ὡς ἓνα [p. 210] τῶν ἐπιτυχόντων ἐκκομίσαντες ἐκ τῆς πόλεως καίειν τε καὶ θάπτειν: ἢ μέντοι βουλὴ μαθοῦσα ὡς εἶχεν αὐτοῖς τὰ πράγματα ἀπόρως, ἐκ τῶν δημοσίων ἐψηφίσατο χρημάτων ἐπιχορηγηθῆναι τὰς εἰς τὴν ταφὴν δαπάνας, καὶ χωρίον, ἔνθα ἐκαύθη καὶ ἐτάφη, μόνῳ τῶν μέχρις ἐμοῦ γενομένων ἐπιφανῶν ἀνδρῶν ἐν τῇ πόλει σύνεγγυς τῆς ἀγορᾶς ἀπέδειξεν ὑπ' Οὐελίας: καὶ ἔστιν ὥσπερ ἱερὸν τοῦτο τοῖς ἐξ ἐκείνου τοῦ γένους ἐνθάπτεσθαι ἀνειμένον, παντὸς πλούτου καὶ πάσης βασιλείας κρεῖττον ἀγαθόν, εἴ τις μὴ ταῖς ἐπονειδίστοις ἡδοναῖς μετρεῖ τὴν εὐδαιμονίαν, ἀλλὰ τῷ καλῷ. [4] Οὐαλέριος μὲν δὴ Ποπλικόλας οὐθὲν ἔξω τῆς εἰς τὰναγκαῖα δαπάνης κτήσασθαι προελόμενος, ὡς τῶν πολυχρημάτων τις βασιλέων λαμπραῖς ὑπὸ τῆς πόλεως ἐκοσμήθη ταφαῖς: καὶ αὐτὸν Ῥωμαίων αἱ γυναῖκες ἅπασαι συνειπάμεναι τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον ὥσπερ Ἰούνιον Βροῦτον ἀποθέσει χρυσοῦ τε καὶ πορφύρας τὸν ἐνιαύσιον ἐπένθησαν χρόνον, ὡς ἔθος αὐταῖς ἐστι πενθεῖν ἐπὶ τοῖς ἀναγκαιῶς τῶν συγγενῶν κήδεσι.

μετὰ δὲ τὸν ἐνιαυτὸν ἐκεῖνον ὕπατοι καθίστανται Σπόριος Κάσσιος Οὐκελλῖνος ἐπικαλούμενος καὶ Ὀπίτωρ Οὐεργίνιος Τρικᾶτος. ἐφ' ὧν ὁ πρὸς Σαβίνους πόλεμος ὑπὸ θατέρου τῶν ὑπάτων Σπορίου κατελύθη μάχης ἰσχυρᾶς γενομένης οὐ μακρὰν τῆς Κυριτῶν πόλεως: ἐξ ἧς ἀπέθανον μὲν ἀμφὶ τοὺς [p. 211] μυρίους καὶ τριακοσίους Σαβίνων, αἰχμάλωτοι δ' ἐλήφθησαν ὀλίγον ἀποδέοντες τετρακισχιλίων. [2] ταύτῃ τῇ συμφορᾷ τελευταῖα πληγέντες οἱ Σαβῖνοι πρέσβεις ἀπέστειλαν ὡς τὸν ὕπατον διαλεξομένους περὶ φιλίας. ἀναβαλλομένου δ' αὐτοὺς ἐπὶ τὴν βουλὴν τοῦ Κασσίου, παραγενηθέντες εἰς Ῥώμην σὺν πολλῇ δεήσει μόλις εὐρίσκονται διαλλαγὰς καὶ κατάλυσιν τοῦ πολέμου, σῆτόν τε τῇ στρατιᾷ δόντες, ὅσον ἐπέταξε Κάσσιος καὶ ἀργυρίον τι τακτὸν κατ' ἄνδρα καὶ γῆς πεφυτευμένης πλῆθρα μύρια. [3] Σπόριος μὲν δὴ Κάσσιος θρίαμβον ἐκ τοῦ πολέμου τοῦδε κατήγαγεν: ὁ δ' ἕτερος τῶν ὑπάτων Οὐεργίνιος ἐπὶ τὴν Καμαριναίων πόλιν ἐστράτευσεν μὲν ἀφεστῶσαν ἀπὸ τῆς Ῥωμαίων συμμαχίας κατὰ τόνδε τὸν πόλεμον, ἄγων τὴν ἡμίσειαν τῆς ἐτέρας στρατιᾶς, φράσας δ' οὐδενί, ποῖ μέλλει πορεύεσθαι καὶ διὰ νυκτὸς ἀνύσας τὴν ὁδόν, ἵνα ἀπαρασκεύους καὶ μὴ [4] προειδόσι τὴν ἔφοδον τοῖς ἔνδον ἐπιθῇται: ὅπερ καὶ συνέβη. γενόμενος γὰρ πλησίον τοῦ τείχους ἅπαντας ἔλαθεν ἄρτι τῆς ἡμέρας διαυγούσης, καὶ πρὶν ἢ καταστρατοπεδεῦεσθαι κριοὺς προσέφερε καὶ κλίμακας καὶ πάσῃ πολιορκίας ἐχρήτο ἰδέα. τῶν δὲ Καμαριναίων καταπλαγέντων τὸ αἰφνίδιον τῆς παρουσίας αὐτοῦ καὶ τῶν μὲν ἀνοίγειν τὰς πύλας καὶ δέχεσθαι τὸν ὕπατον ἀξιούντων, τῶν δ' ἀμύνεσθαι πάσῃ δυνάμει καὶ μὴ παριέναι τοὺς πολεμίους εἴσω, ἐν ᾧ τὸ ταραττόμενόν [p. 212] τε καὶ στασιάζον αὐτῶν

ἐπὶ δὲ τῆς ἐβδομηκοστῆς Ὀλυμπιάδος, ἣν ἐνικά στάδιον Νικέας Λοκρὸς ἐξ Ὀποῦντος, ἄρχοντας Ἀθήνησι Σμύρου, παραλαμβάνουσι τὴν ὕπατον ἀρχὴν Πόστομος Κομίνιος καὶ Τίτος Λάρκιος: ἐφ' ὧν ἀπέστησαν αἱ Λατίνων πόλεις ἀπὸ τῆς Ῥωμαίων φιλίας, Ὀκταουίου Μαιμιλίου τοῦ κηδεύσαντος Ταρκυνίῳ τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους ἐξ ἐκάστης πόλεως, τοὺς μὲν ὑποσχέσεσι δώρων, τοὺς δὲ δεήσεσι πείσαντος συμπρᾶξαι τοῖς ^[2] φυγάσι τὴν κάθοδον. καὶ γίνεται κοινὴ τῶν συναγομένων εἰς Φερεντῖνον ἀγορὰ πλὴν μιᾶς τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως: ταύτῃ γὰρ οὐκ ἐπήγγειλαν μόνῃ παρεῖναι, καθάπερ εἰώθεσαν: ἐν ἣ ψῆφον ἐνεγκεῖν ἔδει τὰς πόλεις περὶ τοῦ πολέμου καὶ στρατηγοὺς ἀποδεῖξαι καὶ ^[3] περὶ τῶν ἄλλων βουλευσασθαι παρασκευῶν. ἐτύγχανε δὲ κατὰ τὸν χρόνον τοῦτον ἀπεσταλμένος ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων πρεσβευτῆς Μάρκος Οὐαλέριος ἀνὴρ ὑπατικὸς εἰς τὰς ὁμόρους πόλεις δεησόμενος αὐτῶν μηδὲν νεωτερίζειν: [p. 213] ἐλήστευον γὰρ ἐξ αὐτῶν τινες τοὺς ὁμοτέρμονας ἀγροὺς ὑπὸ τῶν δυνατῶν ἀποστελλόμενοι καὶ πολλὰ τοὺς γεωργοὺς τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἔβλπτον: ὃς ἐπειδὴ τὴν κοινὴν σύνοδον ἔγνω τῶν πόλεων γιγνομένην ἐπὶ τῷ διενεγκεῖν ἀπάσας τὴν περὶ τοῦ πολέμου ψῆφον, ἐλθὼν ἐπὶ τὸν σύλλογον καὶ λόγον αἰτησάμενος παρὰ τῶν προέδρων ἔλεξεν, ὅτι πεμφθεὶ μὲν ὑπὸ τῆς πόλεως πρεσβευτῆς πρὸς τὰς ἀποστελλούσας τὰ ληστήρια πόλεις δεησόμενος αὐτῶν τοὺς ἐνόχους τοῖς ἀδικήμασιν ἐξευρούσας ἐκδοῦναι σφίσι τιμωρίας ὑφέξοντας κατὰ τὸν νόμον, ὃν ἐν ταῖς συνθήκαις ὥρισαν, ὅτε συνετίθεντο τὴν φιλίαν, καὶ τὸ λοιπὸν ἀξιώσων φυλάττειν, ἵνα μηδὲν ἀμάρτημα γένηται κοινόν, ὃ διαστήσει τὴν τε φιλίαν αὐτῶν καὶ τὴν συγγένειαν. ^[4] ὁρῶν δ' ἀπάσας συνεληλυθυίας τὰς πόλεις ἐπὶ τῷ κατὰ Ῥωμαίων πολέμῳ καὶ τοῦτ' ἐκ πολλῶν μὲν καὶ ἄλλων καταλαμβανόμενος, μάλιστα δ' ὅτι Ῥωμαίοις μόνοις οὐ παρήγγειλαν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀγορὰν παρεῖναι, γεγραμμένον ἐν ταῖς συνθήκαις ἀπάσας παρεῖναι τὰς πόλεις ταῖς κοιναῖς ἀγοραῖς, ὅσαι τοῦ Λατίνων εἰσὶ γένους, παραγγειλάντων αὐταῖς τῶν προέδρων, θαυμάζειν, τί δήποτε παθόντες ἢ τί κατηγορεῖν ἔχοντες τῆς πόλεως οἱ σύεδροι μόνην οὐ παρέλαβον ἐκείνην ἐπὶ τὸν σύλλογον, ἣν πρώτην τε πασῶν ἔδει παρεῖναι καὶ πρώτην ἐρωτᾶσθαι γνώμην ἡγεμονίαν ἔχουσιν τοῦ ἔθνους, ἧς ἔτυχε παρ' αὐτῶν ἐκόντων ἀντὶ πολλῶν καὶ μεγάλων εὐεργεσιῶν. [p. 214]

τὴν ἀρχήν: Καμαριναίων τε καὶ Φιδηναίων φυγάδες, οἱ μὲν τὴν ἄλωσιν καὶ τὴν φυγὴν τῆς πατρίδος, οἱ δὲ τὸν ἀνδραποδισμόν καὶ τὴν κατασκαφὴν ὀδυρόμενοι, παρεκάλουν αὐτοὺς εἰς τὸν πόλεμον. [2] τελευταῖος δὲ πάντων ὁ Ταρκυνίου κηδεστῆς Μαμίλιος μέγιστον ἐν τοῖς τότε χρόνοις παρὰ τοῖς Λατίνοις δυνάμενος ἀναστὰς μακρὰν κατὰ τῆς πόλεως διεξῆλθε δημηγορίαν. ἀπολογούμενου δὲ πρὸς ἅπαντα τοῦ Οὐαλερίου καὶ δοκοῦντος περιεῖναι τοῖς δικαίοις, ἐκείνην μὲν τὴν ἡμέραν εἰς τὰ κατηγορήματα καὶ τὰς ἀπολογίας ἀναλώσαντες οὐδὲν ἐπέθηκαν τῇ βουλῇ τέλος: τῇ δὲ κατόπιν οὐκέτι τοὺς πρεσβευτὰς τῶν Ῥωμαίων οἱ πρόεδροι προαγαγόντες ἐπὶ τὸν σύλλογον, ἀλλὰ Ταρκυνίῳ τε καὶ Μαμιλίῳ καὶ Ἀρικηνοῖς καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις τοῖς βουλομένοις τῆς πόλεως κατηγορεῖν ἀποδόντες λόγον, ἐπειδὴ πάντων διήκουσαν ψηφίζονται λελῦσθαι τὰς σπονδὰς ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων, καὶ τοῖς περὶ Οὐαλέριον πρέσβεσιν ἀπόκρισιν ἔδωκαν, ὅτι τὸ συγγενὲς ἐκείνων τοῖς ἀδικήμασι λευκότων βουλευσονται [p. 215] κατὰ σχολὴν ὄντινα τρόπον αὐτοὺς ἀμύνεσθαι χρή. [3] ἐν ᾧ δὲ ταῦτ' ἐπράττετο χρόνῳ, συνωμοσία κατὰ τῆς πόλεως ἐγένετο δούλων συχνῶν συνειπαμένων τὰς τ' ἄκρας καταλαβέσθαι καὶ κατὰ πολλοὺς ἐμπρῆσαι τόπους τὴν πόλιν. μηνύσεως δὲ γενομένης ὑπὸ τῶν συνειδόντων αἱ πύλαι τ' ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων εὐθὺς ἐκλείοντο, καὶ πάντα τὰ ἐρύματα τῆς πόλεως ὑπὸ τῶν ἱππέων κατεῖληπτο: καὶ αὐτίκα οἱ μὲν ἐκ τῶν οἰκιῶν συλληφθέντες, οἱ δ' ἐκ τῶν ἀγρῶν ἀναχθέντες, ὅσους ἀπέφαινον οἱ μηνυταὶ μετασχεῖν τῆς συνωμοσίας, μᾶστιξι καὶ βασάνοις αἰκισθέντες ἀνεσκολοπίσθησαν ἅπαντες. ταῦτ' ἐπὶ τούτων ἐπράχθη τῶν ὑπάτων.

Σερουιλίου δὲ Σολπικίου Καμερινοῦ καὶ Μανίου Τυλλίου Λόγγου τὴν ἀρχὴν παραλαβόντων Φιδηναίων τινὲς παρὰ Ταρκυνίων στρατιώτας μεταπεμφάμενοι τὴν ἄκραν καταλαμβάνονται, καὶ τῶν μὴ ταῦτά προαιρουμένων οὓς μὲν διαφθείραντες, οὓς δ' ἐξέλασαντες, ἀφιστᾶσιν αὖθις ἀπὸ Ῥωμαίων τὴν πόλιν: πρεσβείας τε Ῥωμαικῆς ἀφικομένης ὥρμησαν μὲν ὡς πολεμίοις χρήσασθαι τοῖς ἀνδράσι, κωλυθέντες δ' ὑπὸ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων ἐξέβαλον αὐτοὺς ἀπὸ τῆς πόλεως, [2] οὔτε δοῦναι λόγον ἀξιώσαντες οὔτε λαβεῖν. ταῦθ' ἡ βουλὴ τῶν Ῥωμαίων μαθοῦσα πρὸς μὲν τὸ κοινὸν τῶν Λατίνων οὕτω τὸν πόλεμον ἐκφέρειν πρόθυμος ἦν, πυνθανομένη μὴ πᾶσιν εἶναι τὰ ψηφισθέντα ὑπὸ τῶν [p. 216] προβούλων κατὰ νοῦν, ἀλλ' ἐν ἐκάστη πόλει τοὺς δημοτικούς ἀναδύεσθαι τὸν πόλεμον, καὶ πλείους εἶναι τοὺς ἀξιούντας μένειν τὰς σπονδὰς τῶν διαλελύσθαι λεγόντων: ἐπὶ δὲ τοὺς ἐν Φιδήνῃ τὸν ἕτερον ἐψηφίσαντο τῶν ὑπάτων Μάνιον Τύλλιον ἀποστεῖλαι στρατιὰν ἄγοντα πολλήν: ὃς ἐπειδὴ τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν ἐδήλωσε κατὰ πολλήν: ὃς ἐπειδὴ τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν ἐδήλωσε κατὰ πολλήν ἄδειαν οὐδενὸς ὑπὲρ αὐτῆς ἀμυνομένου, πλησίον τοῦ τείχους καταστρατοπεδευσάμενος ἐφύλαττε μὴτ' ἀγορὰς εἰσάγεσθαι τοῖς ἔνδον μῆτε ὅπλα 19 μῆτε ἄλλην βοήθειαν μηδεμίαν. [3] Φιδηναῖοι μὲν δὴ τειχήρεις ἐγένοντο καὶ πρὸς τὰς Λατίνων ἐπρεσβεύοντο πόλεις δεόμενοι ταχείας συμμαχίας: οἱ δὲ προεστηκότες τῶν Λατίνων, ἀγορὰν ποιησάμενοι τῶν πόλεων, Ταρκυνίοις τε αὖθις ἀποδόντες λόγον καὶ τοῖς παρὰ τῶν πολιορκουμένων ἥκουσιν, ἐκάλουν τοὺς συνέδρους εἰς ἀπόφασιν γνώμης, τίνα χρή πολεμεῖν Ῥωμαίοις τρόπον, ἀπὸ τῶν πρεσβυτάτων τε καὶ ἐπιφανεστάτων ἀρξάμενοι. [4] πολλῶν δὲ ῥηθέντων λόγων καὶ περὶ αὐτοῦ τοῦ πολέμου πρῶτον, εἰ δέοι αὐτὸν ἐπικυρῶσαι, οἱ μὲν ταραχωδέστεροι τῶν συνέδρων τὸν βασιλέα κατάγειν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν ἤξιουν καὶ Φιδηναίοις βοηθεῖν παρήνουν: ἐν ἡγεμονίαις μὲν βουλόμενοι γενέσθαι στρατιωτικαῖς καὶ πραγμάτων ἐράψασθαι μεγάλων, μάλιστα δ' οἱ δυναστείας καὶ τυραννίδος ἐν ταῖς ἐαυτῶν πατρίσιν ἐρῶντες, ἦν συγκατασκευάσειν αὐτοῖς Ταρκυνίους ἐπιέθοντο τὴν Ῥωμαίων ἀρχὴν ἀνακτησαμένους. οἱ δ' εὐπορώτατοί τε καὶ ἐπεικέστατοι μένειν ἐν ταῖς σπονδαῖς ἤξιουν τὰς πόλεις καὶ μὴ προχείρως ἐπὶ τὰ ὅπλα [p. 217] χωρεῖν: καὶ ἦσαν οὗτοι τῷ πλήθει πιθανώτατοι. [5] ἐξωθούμενοι δὴ πρὸς τῶν παραινούντων τὴν εἰρήνην ἄγειν οἱ τὸν πόλεμον ἐπισπεύδοντες, τοῦτο γε πείθουσι ποιῆσαι τὴν ἐκκλησίαν τελευτῶντες, πρεσβευτὰς εἰς Ῥώμην ἀποστεῖλαι τοὺς παρακαλέσοντας ἅμα καὶ συμβουλευέσοντας τῇ πόλει δέχεσθαι Ταρκυνίους καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους φυγάδας ἐπ' ἀδεία καὶ ἀμνηστία, καὶ περὶ τούτων ὅρκια τεμόντας τῇ πατρίῳ κοσμεῖσθαι πολιτείᾳ καὶ τῆς Φιδηναίων πόλεως ἀπανιστάναι τὸν στρατόν, ὡς σφῶν γε οὐχ ὑπεροφωμένων συγγενεῖς καὶ φίλους ἀφαιρεθέντας τὴν πατρίδα: ἐὰν δὲ μηδέτερον τούτων ὑπομείνωσι πράττειν, τότε βουλεύσεσθαι περὶ τοῦ πολέμου: [6] οὐκ ἀγνοοῦντες μὲν, ὅτι τούτων οὐδέτερον ὑπομενοῦσι Ῥωμαῖοι, προφάσεις δὲ τῆς ἔχθρας βουλόμενοι λαβεῖν εὐπρεπεῖς, καὶ τοὺς ἐναντιούμενους σφίσι θεραπειάς ἐν τῷ μεταξὺ χρόνῳ καὶ χάρισιν ἐπάξεσθαι νομίζοντες. ταῦτα ψηφισάμενοι καὶ χρόνον ὀρίσαντες ἐνιαύσιον Ῥωμαίοις

διασκεδασθέντων δὲ τῶν Λατίνων κατὰ πόλεις, ὀρῶντες οἱ περὶ Μамίλιόν τε καὶ Ταρκύνιον, ὅτι ταῖς σπουδαῖς ἀναπετώκασιν οἱ πολλοί, τὰς μὲν ὑπερορίους ἐλπίδας ὡς οὐ πάνυ βεβαίαις ἀφίεσαν: μεταθήμενοι δὲ τὰς γνώμας τὸν πολιτικὸν καὶ ἀφύλακτον ἐμχανῶντο πόλεμον ἐξ αὐτῆς ἀναστῆσαι τῆς [p. 218] Ῥώμης, στάσιν εἰσάγοντες τοῖς πένησι πρὸς τοὺς εὐπόρους. [2] ἤδη δ' ὑπεκίνει τὸ πολὺ τοῦ δημοτικοῦ μέρος καὶ ἐνόσει, μάλιστα δὲ τὸ ἄπορον καὶ ὑπὸ δανείων ἠναγκασμένον μηκέτι τὰ κράτιστα τῷ κοινῷ φρονεῖν: οὐ γὰρ ἐμετρίαζον ἐν ταῖς ἐξουσίαις οἱ δανεῖζοντες, ἀλλ' εἰς δεσμοὺς τὰ τῶν ὑποχρέων ἀπῆγον σώματα καὶ ὥσπερ ἀργυρωνήτοισι αὐτοῖς ἐχρῶντο. [3] ταῦτα δὴ μαθὼν ἔπεμψεν ὁ Ταρκύνιος εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἅμα τοῖς πρέσβεσι τῶν Λατίνων ἀνυπόπτους τινὰς ἄνδρας φέροντας χρυσίον, οἱ συνιόντες εἰς λόγους τοῖς ἀπόροις καὶ θραυστάτοις, καὶ τὰ μὲν ἤδη διδόντες αὐτοῖς, τὰ δ' εἰ κατέλθοιεν οἱ βασιλεῖς, ἐπαγγελλόμενοι, πολλοὺς πάνυ τῶν πολιτῶν διέφθειραν: καὶ γίνεται συνωμοσία κατὰ τῆς ἀριστοκρατίας οὐ μόνον ἐλευθέρων ἀπόρων, ἀλλὰ καὶ δούλων πονηρῶν ἐλευθερίας ἐλπίσιν ὑπαχθέντων, οἱ διὰ τοὺς κολασθέντας ὁμοδούλους ἐν τῷ παρελθόντι ἐνιαυτῷ δυσμενῶς καὶ ἐπιβούλως διακείμενοι πρὸς τοὺς δεσπότας, ἀπιστοῦμενοί τε ὑπ' αὐτῶν καὶ ἐν ὑποψίαις ὄντες ὡς καὶ αὐτοὶ σφίσι ἐπιτησόμενοι ποτε εἰ καιρὸν λάβοιεν, ἄσμενοι τοῖς παρακαλοῦσι πρὸς τὴν ἐπιθεσιν ὑπήκουσαν. [4] ὁ δὲ τῆς συνωμοσίας αὐτῶν τοιόσδε ἦν λογισμός. τοὺς μὲν ἡγεμόνας τῆς ἐπιχειρήσεως ἔδει φυλάξαντας νύκτ' ἀσέληνον τὰς ἄκρας καὶ τοὺς ἐρυμνοὺς τῆς πόλεως τόπους καταλαβέσθαι: τοὺς δὲ θεράποντας, ὅταν αἰσθωνται κρατοῦντας ἐκείνους τῶν ἐπικαίρων χωρίων: ἀλαλαγμῷ δὲ τοῦτ' ἐμελλεν [p. 219] αὐτοῖς γενήσεσθαι φανερόν: ἀποκτεῖναι τοὺς δεσπότας καθεύδοντας, ταῦτα δὲ διαπραξαμένους τὰς τε οἰκίας διαρπάσαι τῶν εὐπόρων καὶ τὰς πύλας τοῖς τυράννοις ἀνοῖξαι.

ἡ δ' ἐν παντὶ καιρῷ σώζουσα τὴν πόλιν καὶ μέχρι τῶν κατ' ἐμὲ χρόνων παραμένουσα θεῖα πρόνοια διεκάλυψεν αὐτῶν τὰ βουλευματα μηνύσεως θατέρῳ τῶν ὑπάτων γενομένης Σολπικίῳ, ἣν ἐποίησαν ἀδελφοὶ δύο Ταρκύνιοι, Πόπλιος καὶ Μάρκος, ἐκ Λαυρέντου πόλεως, κορυφαϊότατοι τῶν μετασχόντων τῆς συνωμοσίας, ὑπὸ θείας ἀνάγκης βιαζόμενοι. [2] ἐφίσταντο γὰρ αὐτοῖς, ὅτε κοιμηθεῖεν, ὅφεις ὀνείρων φοβεραὶ τιμωρίας ἐπαπειλοῦσαι μεγάλας, εἰ μὴ παύσαιντο καὶ ἀποσταῖεν τῆς ἐπιθέσεως, διώκεσθαι τε ὑπὸ δαιμόνων τινῶν καὶ παῖεσθαι καὶ τοὺς ὀφθαλμοὺς ἐξορῦττεσθαι καὶ ἄλλα πολλὰ καὶ σχέτλια πάσχειν τελευτῶντες ἐδόκουν: ὅφ' ὧν περίφοβοι καὶ τρόμῳ παλλόμενοι διηγείροντο καὶ οὐδὲ καθεύδειν διὰ τὰ δεινὰ ταῦτ' ἐδύναντο. [3] κατ' ἀρχὰς μὲν οὖν ἀποτροπαίοις τισὶ καὶ ἐξακεστηρίοις θυσίαις ἐπειρῶντο παραιτεῖσθαι τοὺς ἐνισταμένους σφίσι δαίμονας: ὡς δ' οὐδὲν ἐπέραινον, ἐπὶ μαντείας ἐτράποντο τὴν μὲν διάνοιαν τῆς ἐπιχειρήσεως ἀπόρρητον φυλάττοντες, τοῦτο δὲ μόνον ἀξιοῦντες μαθεῖν, εἰ καιρὸς ἤδη πράττειν, ἃ βούλονται. ἀποκριναμένου δὲ τοῦ μάντεως, ὅτι πονηρὰν καὶ ὀλέθριον [p. 220] βαδίζουσιν ὁδὸν καί, εἰ μὴ μεταθήσονται τὰ βουλευματα, τὸν αἰσχιστον ἀπολοῦνται τρόπον, δεισαντες μὴ φθάσωσιν αὐτοὺς ἕτεροι τὰ κρυπτὰ εἰς φῶς ἐξενέγκαντες, αὐτοὶ μηνυταὶ γίνονται πρὸς τὸν ἐνδημοῦντα 20 τῶν ὑπάτων. [4] ὁ δ' ὕπατος ἐπαινέσας αὐτοὺς καὶ πολλὰ ὑποσχόμενος εὖ ποιήσῃν, ἐὰν καὶ τὰ ἔργα ὅμοια τοῖς λόγοις ἐπιδείξωνται, τοὺτους μὲν ἔνδον παρ' ἐαυτῷ κατεῖχεν οὐδενὶ φράσας· τοὺς δὲ τῶν Λατίνων πρέσβεις ἀναβαλλόμενος τέως καὶ παρέλκων τὴν ἀπόκρισιν τότε εἰσαγαγὼν εἰς τὸ βουλευτήριον τὰ [5] δόξαντα τοῖς συνέδροις ἀποκρίνεται πρὸς αὐτούς· ἄνδρες φίλοι τε καὶ συγγενεῖς ἀπαγγέλλετε ἀπὼντες πρὸς τὸ κοινὸν τῶν Λατίνων, ὅτι Ῥωμαίων ὁ δῆμος οὔτε πρότερον Ταρκυνιήταις ἀξιοῦσιν ἐχαρίσατο τὴν τῶν τυράννων κάθοδον, οὔθ' ὕστερον ἅπασι Τυρρηνοῖς, οὓς ἦγε βασιλεὺς Πορσίνας, ὑπὲρ τῶν αὐτῶν δεομένοις καὶ πόλεμον ἐπάγουσιν ἀπάντων πολέμων βαρύτερον ἐνέκλινεν, ἀλλ' ἠγέσχετο γῆν τε κειρομένην ὁρῶν καὶ αὐλὰς ἐμπιπραμένας, τειχέρας γενόμενος ὑπὲρ τῆς ἐλευθερίας καὶ τοῦ μηθὲν ὦν μὴ βούλεται πράττειν κελευσθεῖς· ὑμῶν τ', ὧ Λατῖνοι, θεθαύμακεν, εἰ ταῦτ' εἰδότες οὐδὲν ἤττον δέχεσθαι τοὺς τυράννους καὶ τὴν Φιδήνης πολιορκίαν λῦειν ἐπιτάττοντες ἤκετε [p. 221] καὶ μὴ πειθομένοις πόλεμον ἀπειλεῖτε. παύσασθε δὴ ψυχρὰς καὶ ἀπιθάνους τῆς ἔχθρας παραβαλλόμενοι προφάσεις καὶ εἰ διὰ ταῦτα μέλλετε διαλύειν τὸ συγγενὲς καὶ τὸν πόλεμον ἐπικυροῦν, μηθὲν ἔτι ἀναβάλλεσθε.

ταῦτα τοῖς πρέσβεσιν ἀποκρινάμενος καὶ προπέμψας ἐκ τῆς πόλεως μετὰ τοῦτο φράζει τῇ βουλῇ περὶ τῆς ἀπορρήτου συνωμοσίας, ἃ παρὰ τῶν μηνυτῶν ἔμαθε· καὶ λαβὼν ἐξουσίαν παρ' αὐτῶν αὐτοκράτορα τοῦ διερευνήσασθαι τοὺς μετασχόντας τῶν ἀπορρήτων βουλευμάτων καὶ τοῦ κολάσαι τοὺς ἐξευρεθέντας, οὐ τὴν αὐθάδη καὶ τυραννικὴν ἦλθεν ὁδόν, ὡς ἕτερος ἂν τις ἐποίησεν εἰς τοσαύτην κατακλεισθεῖς ἀνάγκην· ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τὴν εὐλόγιστον τε καὶ ἀσφαλῆ καὶ τῷ σήματι τῆς καθεστῶσης τότε πολιτείας ἀκόλουθον ἐτράπετο. [2] οὔτε γὰρ ἐκ τῶν οἰκιῶν συλλαμβανομένους ἄγεσθαι τοὺς πολίτας ἐπὶ τὸν θάνατον ἀποσπωμένους ἀπὸ γυναικῶν τε καὶ τέκνων καὶ πατέρων ἐβουλήθη, τὸν τ' οἶκτον ἐνθυμούμενος, οἷος ἔσται τῶν προσηκόντων ἐκάστοις παρὰ τὸν ἀποσπασμὸν τῶν ἀναγκαιοτάτων καὶ δεδοικῶς, μὴ τινες ἀπονοηθέντες ἐπὶ τὰ ὄπλα τὴν ὁρμὴν λάβωσι, καὶ δι' αἵματος ἐμφυλίου χωρήσῃ τὸ ἀναγκασθὲν παρανομεῖν· οὔτε δικαστήρια καθίζειν αὐτοῖς ὥετο δεῖν, λογιζόμενος, ὅτι πάντες ἀρνήσονται καὶ οὐθὲν ἔσται βέβαιον τοῖς δικασταῖς τεκμήριον οὐδ' ἀναμφίλεκτον ἔξω τῆς μηνύσεως, ὧ πιστεύσαντες θάνατον τῶν πολιτῶν καταψηφιοῦνται· [3] καινὸν δὲ τινα [p. 222] τρόπον ἀπάτης ἐξεῦρε τῶν νεωτεριζόντων, δι' οὗ πρῶτον μὲν αὐτοὶ μηδενὸς ἀναγκάζοντες εἰς ἓν χωρίον ἤξουσιν οἱ τῶν ἀπορρήτων βουλευμάτων ἡγεμόνες, ἔπειτ' ἀναμφιλέκτοις ἀλώσονται τεκμηρίοις, ὥστε μηδ' ἀπολογίαν αὐτοῖς καταλείπεσθαι μηδεμίαν, πρὸς δὲ τούτοις οὐκ εἰς ἔρημον συναχθέντες τόπον οὐδ' ἐν ὀλίγοις μάρτυσιν ἐξελεγχθέντες, ἀλλ' ἐν ἀγορᾷ πάντων ὁρώντων γενόμενοι καταφανεῖς ἃ προσήκει πείσονται, ταραχὴ τ' οὐδεμία γενήσεται κατὰ τὴν πόλιν οὐδ' ἐπαναστάσεις ἐτέρων, οἷα συμβαίνειν φιλεῖ περὶ τὰς κολάσεις τῶν νεωτεριζόντων, καὶ ταῦτ' ἐν

ἄλλος μὲν οὖν ἂν τις ἀποχρῆν ὑπέλαβεν αὐτὸ τὸ κεφάλαιον εἰπεῖν, ὅτι συλλαβῶν τοὺς μετασχόντας τῶν ἀπορρήτων βουλευμάτων ἀπέκτεινεν, ὡς ὀλίγης τοῖς πράγμασι δηλώσεως δέον: ἐγὼ δὲ καὶ τὸν τρόπον τῆς συλλήψεως τῶν ἀνδρῶν ἱστορίας ἄξιον εἶναι νομίσας ἔκρινα μὴ παρελθεῖν, ἐνθυμούμενος ὅτι τοῖς ἀναγινώσκουσι τὰς ἱστορίας οὐχ ἱκανὸν ἐστὶν εἰς ὠφέλειαν τὸ τέλος αὐτὸ τῶν πραχθέντων ἀκοῦσαι, ἀπαιτεῖ δ' ἕκαστος καὶ τὰς αἰτίας ἱστορῆσαι τῶν γινομένων καὶ τοὺς τρόπους τῶν πράξεων καὶ τὰς διανοίας τῶν πραξάντων καὶ τὰ παρὰ τοῦ δαιμονίου συγκυρήσαντα, καὶ μηδενὸς ἀνήκοος γενέσθαι τῶν πεφυκότων τοῖς πράγμασι παρακολουθεῖν: τοῖς δὲ πολιτικοῖς καὶ [p. 223] πάνυ ἀναγκαίαν ὑπάρχουσαν ὁρῶν τὴν τοῦτων μάθησιν, ἵνα παραδείγμασιν ἔχοιεν πρὸς τὰ συμβαίνοντα χρῆσθαι. [2] ἦν δ' ὁ τρόπος τῆς συλλήψεως τῶν συνωμοτῶν, ὃν ἐξεῦρεν ὁ ὕπατος, τοιοῦτος. τῶν μετεχόντων τοῦ βουλευτικοῦ συνεδρίου τοὺς ἀκμαιοτάτους ἐπιλεξάμενος ἐκέλευσεν αὐτοῖς, ὅταν λάβωσι τὸ σύνθημα μετὰ τῶν πιστοτάτων φίλων τε καὶ συγγενῶν τοὺς ἐρυμνοὺς τῆς πόλεως καταλαβέσθαι τόπους, ἐν οἷς ἐτύγχανον ἕκαστοι τὰς οἰκήσεις ἔχοντες: τοῖς θ' ἵππεῦσι προεῖπεν ἐν ταῖς ἐπιτηδειοτάταις τῶν περὶ τὴν ἀγορὰν οἰκιῶν περιμένειν ἔχουσι ξίφη καὶ ποιεῖν, ὃ τι ἂν αὐτοῖς κελεύῃ. [3] ἵνα δὲ μὴθὲν ἐν τῇ συλλήψει τῶν πολιτῶν νεωτερίσωσιν οἱ προσήκοντες αὐτοῖς ἢ τῶν ἄλλων τινὲς πολιτῶν μὴδ' ἐμφύλιοι διὰ τὴν ταραχὴν ταύτην γένωνται φόνοι, γράμματα πέμψας πρὸς τὸν ἐπὶ τῆς πολιορκίας τῆς Φιδηναίων τεταγμένον ὕπατον ἐκέλευσεν ἀρχομένης τῆς νυκτὸς ἄγοντα τὸ κράτιστον τῆς στρατιᾶς ἦκειν ἐπὶ τὴν πόλιν καὶ πλησίον τοῦ τείχους ἐν ὀρεινῷ τόπῳ θέσθαι τὰ ὄπλα.

παρασκευασάμενος δὲ ταῦτα τοῖς μηνύσασιν τὴν πρᾶξιν εἶπε ..., πρὸς τοὺς ἡγεμόνας τῶν συνωμοτῶν ἦκειν εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν περὶ μέσας νύκτας, ἄγοντας οἷς μάλιστα πιστεύουσι τῶν ἐταίρων, ὡς ἐκεῖ τάξιν τε καὶ χώραν καὶ σύνθημα ληψομένους, καὶ ἃ δεῖ [p. 224] πράττειν ἕκαστους ἀκούοντας. ἐγίγνετο ταῦτα: καὶ ἐπειδὴ συνήχθησαν οἱ προεστηκότες τῶν ἐταίρων ἅπαντες εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν, διὰ συνθημάτων ἀδήλων ἐκείνοις εὐθὺς αἶ τε ἄκραι πλήρεις ἐγίγνοντο τῶν ὑπὲρ τῆς πόλεως ἀνελιγφόντων τὰ ὄπλα καὶ τὰ περὶ τὴν ἀγορὰν ὑπὸ τῶν ἱππέων ἐφρουρεῖτο κύκλῳ, μία τε οὐ κατελείπετο τοῖς ἀπιέναι βουλομένοις ἐξοδος. [2] καὶ κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν χρόνον ὁ ἕτερος τῶν ὑπάτων Μάνιος ἀπὸ τῆς Φιδήνης ἀναστὰς παρῆν εἰς τὸ πεδῖον ἄγων τὴν δύναμιν. ὡς δ' ἡμέρα τάχιστα διέλαμψεν, ὀπλίτας περὶ ἑαυτοὺς ἔχοντες οἱ ὕπατοι προῆλθον ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα: καὶ διὰ πάντων τῶν στενωπῶν τοῖς κήρυξι περιαγεῖλαι κελεύσαντες ἦκειν τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν, παντὸς τοῦ κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ὄχλου συνδραμόντος, δηλοῦσί τε αὐτοῖς τὴν γενομένην ἐπὶ τῇ καθόδῳ τοῦ τυράννου συνωμοσίαν καὶ τοὺς μηνυτὰς ἀναβιβάζονται. [3] καὶ μετὰ τοῦτ' ἀπολογεῖσθαι συγχωρήσαντες, ἐὰν τινες ἀμφισβητῶσι πρὸς τὴν μήνυσιν, ἐπειδὴ πρὸς ἄρνησιν οὐδεὶς ἐπεχείρησε τραπέσθαι, μεταστάντες ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς εἰς τὸ βουλευτήριον γνώμας ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν διηρώτησαν τοὺς συνέδρους, καὶ γραψάμενοι τὰ δόξαντα αὐτοῖς ἦκον αὐθις ἐπὶ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν καὶ τὸ προβούλευμα ἀνέγνωσαν. ἦν δὲ τοιόνδε: Ταρκυνίοις μὲν τοῖς μηνύσασι τὴν ἐπίθεσιν πολιτείαν δεδόσθαι καὶ ἀργυρίου μυρίας ἑκατέρω δραχμὰς καὶ πλέθρα γῆς δημοσίας εἴκοσι: [p. 225] τοὺς δὲ μετασχόντας τῆς συνωμοσίας συλληφθέντας ἀποθανεῖν, ἐὰν καὶ τῷ δήμῳ ταῦτὰ δοκῇ. [4] τοῦ δὲ συνεληλυθότος ὄχλου κύρια ποιήσαντος τὰ δόξαντα τῇ βουλῇ, μεταστῆναι κελεύσαντες ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς τοὺς ἐπὶ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν συνεληλυθότας, ἔπειτ' ἐκάλεσαν τοὺς ὑπηρέτας ἔχοντας ξίφη, οἱ πάντας τοὺς ἐνόχους ταῖς αἰτίαις ἐν ᾧ συνεκλείσθησαν χωρίῳ περιστάντες κατεφόνευσαν. διαχρησάμενοι δὲ τοὺτους οὐκέτι παρεδέξαντο μήνυσιν οὐδεμίαν κατ' οὐθενὸς τῶν ταῦτὰ βουλευσαμένων, ἀλλὰ πάντας ἀφῆκαν τῶν ἐγκλημάτων τοὺς διαφυγόντας τὴν ἐκ χειρὸς κόλασιν, ἵνα πᾶν ἐξαιρεθῇ τὸ παραχῶδες ἐκ τῆς πόλεως. [5] οἱ μὲν δὴ συστήσαντες τὴν συνωμοσίαν τοιοῦτῳ τρόπῳ διεφθάρησαν: ἡ δὲ βουλὴ καθαρθῆναι ψηφισαμένη τοὺς πολίτας ἅπαντας, ὅτι περὶ πολιτικοῦ φόνου γνώμας ἠναγκάσθησαν ἀποδείξασθαι, ὡς οὐ θεμιτὸν αὐτοῖς ἐφ' ἱερὰ παρεῖναι καὶ θυσιῶν κατάρχεσθαι, πρὶν ἀφοσιώσασθαι τὸ μίasma καὶ τὴν συμφορὰν λῦσαι τοῖς εἰωθόσι καθαρμοῖς: ἐπειδὴ πᾶν ὅσον ἦν ὅσιον ὑπὸ τῶν ἐξηγουμένων τὰ θεῖα κατὰ τὸν ἐπιχώριον νόμον ἐπράχθη, θυσίας μετὰ τοῦτο χαριστηρίου καὶ ἀγῶνας ἔκρινεν ἐπιτελεσθῆναι, καὶ τρεῖς ἡμέρας ἔθηκεν εἰς ταῦτα ἱεράς. Μανίου δὲ Τυλλίου θατέρου τῶν ὑπάτων ἐν τοῖς ἱεροῖς καὶ ἐπωνύμοις τῆς πόλεως ἀγῶσι [p. 226] κατὰ τὴν πομπὴν ἐκ τοῦ ἱεροῦ πεσόντος ἄρματος κατ' αὐτὸν τὸν ἱππόδρομον, καὶ τρίτῃ μετὰ τὴν πομπὴν ταύτην ἡμέρᾳ τελευτήσαντος, τὸν λειπόμενον χρόνον βραχὺν ὄντα τὴν ἀρχὴν μόνος ὁ Σολπίκιος κατέσχεν.

ὑπατοὶ δ' εἰς τὸν ἐπίνοντα ἐνιαυτὸν ἀπεδείχθησαν Πόπλιος Οὐετούριος Γεμῖνος καὶ Πόπλιος Αἰβούτιος Ἑλβας. τούτων ὁ μὲν Αἰβούτιος ἐπὶ τῶν πολιτικῶν ἐτάχθη πραγμάτων φυλακῆς οὐ μικρᾶς δεῖσθαι δοκούντων, μὴ τις ἑτέρα νεωτερισθῇ πρᾶξις ἐκ τῶν πενήτων: Οὐετούριος δὲ τὴν ἡμίσειαν τῆς στρατιᾶς ἐπαγόμενος τὴν Φιδηναίων γῆν ἐδῆρου κωλύοντος οὐδενὸς καὶ προσκαθεζόμενος τῇ πόλει προσβολὰς ἐποιεῖτο συνεχεῖς. οὐ δυνάμενος δὲ πολιορκίᾳ τὸ τεῖχος ἐλεῖν ἀπεχάρακου τὰ πέριξ καὶ ἀπετάφρευεν ὡς λιμῷ [2] 21 τοὺς ἀνθρώπους παραστησόμενος. ἤδη δὲ κάμνουσι τοῖς Φιδηναίοις ἦκεν ἐπικουρία Λατίνων, ἣν ἀπέστειλε Σέξτος Ταρκύνιος, καὶ σῖτος καὶ ὄπλα καὶ τᾶλλα τὰ εἰς τὸν πόλεμον ἐπιτήδεια. οἷς πιστεύσαντες ἐθάρρησαν προελθεῖν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως, δύνاميς οὐ μικρά, καὶ ποιοῦνται στρατόπεδον ἐν ὑπαίθρῳ. ὁ μὲν δὲ περιτειχισμὸς οὐκέτι τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις χρήσιμος ἦν, ἐδόκει δ' ἀγῶνος δεῖν: καὶ γίνεται πλησίον τῆς πόλεως μάχη μέχρι τινὸς ἀγχώματος: ἔπειτα ὑπὸ τοῦ ταιαπῶρου τῶν Ῥωμαίων, ὁ διὰ τὴν πολλὴν ἄσκησιν αὐτοῖς περιῆν, ἐκβιασθέντες οἱ Φιδηναῖοι πλείους ὄντες ὑπ' ἐλαττόνων εἰς φυγὴν κατέστησαν. [3] φόνος δ' οὐ πολὺς [p. 227] αὐτῶν ἐγένετο, τῆς ὑποχωρήσεως εἰς τὴν πόλιν οὐ διὰ μακροῦ γενομένης καὶ τῶν ἐπὶ τοῖς τείχεσι τοὺς διώξαντας ἀποκρουσασμένων. μετὰ τοῦτο τὸ ἔργον οἱ μὲν ἐπικουροὶ διασκεδασθέντες ἀπῆσαν οὐδὲν τοὺς ἔνδον ὠφελήσαντες: ἡ δὲ πόλις ἐν ταῖς αὐταῖς πάλιν ἐγεγόνει συμφοραῖς καὶ τῇ σπάνει τῶν ἀναγκαίων

τῷ δ' ἐξῆς ἐνιαυτῷ Ῥωμαῖοι καθιστᾶσιν ὑπάτους Τίτον Λάρκιον Φλάβον καὶ Κόιντον Κλοίλιον Σικελόν. τοῦτων ὁ μὲν Κλοίλιος τὰ πολιτικὰ πράττειν ἐτάχθη ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς τὴν ἡμίσειαν τῆς στρατιᾶς ἔχων φυλακῆς ἕνεκα τῶν νεωτερίζοντων, ἐπεικῆς τὴν φύσιν εἶναι δοκῶν καὶ δημοτικός. ὁ δὲ Λάρκιος ἐπὶ τὸν κατὰ Φιδηναίων πόλεμον ἐξηρτυμένην στρατιάν ἄγων καὶ τὰ εἰς πολιορκίαν ἐπιτήδεια παρασκευασάμενος ὥχετο. ^[2] πονουμένοις τε τῷ μήκει τοῦ πολέμου καὶ πάντων σπανίζουσι τῶν ἀναγκαίων χαλεπὸς ἦν [p. 228] ὑπορῦπτων τε τοὺς θεμελίους τῶν τειχῶν καὶ χώματα ἐγείρων καὶ μηχανὰς προσφέρων καὶ οὐθ' ἡμέρας οὔτε νυκτὸς τῆς πολιορκίας ἀφιστάμενος ὀλίγου τε χρόνου κατὰ κράτος αἰρήσειν τὴν πόλιν ὑπολαμβάνων. οὐδὲ γὰρ αἱ Λατίνων πόλεις, αἷς οἱ Φιδηναῖοι μόναις πιστεύοντες ἀνείλοντο τὸν πόλεμον, ἱκαναὶ σώζειν αὐτοὺς ἔτι τότε ἦσαν. ^[3] μία μὲν γὰρ οὐδεμία πόλις ἀξιόχρεως ἦν ἀπαλλάξαι τῆς πολιορκίας αὐτοῦς, κοινῇ δ' ἐξ ὅλου τοῦ ἔθνους οὕτω συνειστήκει δύναμις, ἀλλὰ πολλάκις πρεσβευομένοις αὐτοῖς τὰς αὐτὰς ἐδίδωσαν οἱ προεσσηκότες τῶν πόλεων ἀποκρίσεις, ὡς ἀφιζομένης σφίσιν ἐπικουρίας ἐν τάχει: ἔργον δ' οὐδὲν ἐγένετο ταῖς ὑποσχέσεσιν ὅμοιον, ἀλλὰ μέχρι λόγων αἱ περὶ τῆς συμμαχίας ἐλπίδες ἐχώρουν. ^[4] οὐ μὴν παντάπασι γε τὰ παρὰ τῶν Λατίνων ἀπεγνώκεσαν οἱ Φιδηναῖοι, ἀλλὰ διεκαρτέρουν ἐπὶ ταῖς ἐκεῖθεν ἐλπίσι πάντα τὰ δεινὰ ὑπομένοντες. ἦν δ' ὑπὲρ πάντα ὁ λιμὸς ἄμαχον πρᾶγμα καὶ πολὺν οὗτος ἐποίησεν ἀνθρώπων φθόρον. ὡς δ' ἀπειρήκεσαν ἤδη τοῖς κακοῖς, πρεσβευτὰς ἀπέστειλαν ὡς τὸν ὑπατον ἀνοχὰς αἰτοῦντες εἰς τεταγμένον τινὰ ἡμερῶν ἀριθμὸν ὡς ἐν τούτῳ βουλευσόμενοι τῷ χρόνῳ περὶ τῆς πρὸς Ῥωμαίους φιλίας, ἐφ' οἷς αὐτὴν ποιήσονται δικαίους. ^[5] ἦν δ' οὐ βουλῆς χάριν αἰτοῦμενος ὑπ' αὐτῶν ὁ χρόνος, ἀλλὰ παρασκευῆς τῶν συμμαχῶν, ὡς ἐδήλωσαν τῶν αὐτομόλων τινὲς ἔναγχος ἀφιγμένοι. τῇ γὰρ ἔμπροσθεν νυκτὶ τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους [p. 229] τῶν πολιτῶν καὶ πλεῖστον ἐν ταῖς Λατίνων πόλεσι δυναμένους ἀπεστάλκεσαν πρέσβεις πρὸς τὸ κοινὸν ἰκετηρίας φέροντας.

ταῦτα δὴ προεγνωκὼς ὁ Λάρκιος τοῖς μὲν αἰτοῦσι τὰς ἀνοχὰς ἐκέλευσε τὰ ὄπλα ἀποθεμένοις καὶ τὰς πύλας ἀνοιξάσι, τότε διαλέγεσθαι πρὸς αὐτόν: ἄλλως δ' οὔτε διαλλαγὰς οὔτε ἀνοχὰς οὔτε ἄλλο φιλάνθρωπον ἢ μέτριον οὐθὲν αὐτοῖς ὑπάρξειν ἔφη παρὰ τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως: τοὺς δ' ἀποσταλέντας ἐπὶ τὸ Λατίνων ἔθνος πρεσβευτὰς ἐφύλαττε μηκέτι παρελθεῖν ἐντὸς τείχους, ἀπάσας τὰς εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἀγούσας ὁδοὺς φρουραῖς ἐπιμελεστέραις διαλαβὼν, ὥστε ἠναγκάσθησαν οἱ πολιορκούμενοι τὰς συμμαχικὰς ἀπογνόντες ἐλπίδας ἐπὶ τὰς τῶν πολεμίων δεήσεις καταφυγεῖν.

καὶ συνελθόντες εἰς ἐκκλησίαν ἔκριναν ὑπομένειν τὰς διαλλαγὰς, ^[2] ἐφ' οἷς ὁ κρατῶν ἡξίου. οὕτως δ' ἄρα πολιτικὰ ἦν τὰ τῶν τότε ἡγεμόνων ἡθῆ καὶ πλεῖστον ἀπέχοντα τυραννικῆς αὐθαδειας, ἣν σπάνιοι τινες τῶν καθ' ἡμᾶς ἡγεμόνων ἰσχυσαν ἐξουσίας ἐπαρθέντες μεγέθει διαφυγεῖν, ὥστε παραλαβὼν τὴν πόλιν ὁ ὕπατος οὐθὲν ἀπὸ τῆς ἐαυτοῦ γνώμης ἔπραξεν, ἀλλ' ἀποθέσθαι τοὺς ἀνθρώπους κελεύσας τὰ ὄπλα καὶ φρουρὰν ἐπὶ τὴν ἄκραν καταλιπὼν αὐτὸς εἰς τὴν Ῥώμην ἀπῆει, καὶ συναγαγὼν τὸ συνέδριον ἀπέδωκεν αὐτοῖς σκοπεῖν, ^[3] τίνα χρηστέον τοῖς παραδοῦσιν ἐαυτοὺς τρόπον. ἐφ' οἷς ἀγασθέντες τὸν ἄνδρα τῆς πρὸς αὐτοὺς τιμῆς οἱ σύεδροι τοὺς μὲν ἐπιφανεστάτους Φιδηναίων καὶ τῆς [p. 230] ἀποστάσεως ἄρξαντας ἐδικαίωσαν, οὓς ἂν ὁ ὕπατος ἀποφῆνῃ ῥάβδοις μαστιγωθέντας ἀποκοπῆναι τὰς κεφαλὰς· περὶ δὲ τῶν ἄλλων ἐπ' ἐκείνῳ τὴν ἐξουσίαν ἐποίησαν ἅπαντα πράττειν, ὅσα προηρεῖτο. ^[4] γενόμενος δ' ὁ Λάρκιος ἀπάντων κύριος ὀλίγους μὲν τινὰς τῶν Φιδηναίων κατηγορηθέντας ὑπὸ τῶν τάναντία φρονούντων ἐν τοῖς ἀπάντων ὀφθαλμοῖς ἀπέκτεινε καὶ τὰς οὐσίας αὐτῶν ἐδήμευσε, τοῖς δ' ἄλλοις ἅπασιν ἀπέδωκε τὴν τε πόλιν ἔχειν καὶ τὰ χρήματα, τῆς δὲ γῆς αὐτῶν ἀπετέμετο τὴν ἡμίσειαν, ἣν ἐκληροῦχῃσαν οἱ καταλειφθέντες ἐν τῇ πόλει Ῥωμαίων φρουροὶ τῆς ἄκρας. ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ἀπῆγεν ἐπ' οἴκου τὴν στρατιάν.

ὥς δ' ἀπηγγέλθη τοῖς Λατίνοις ἡ τῆς Φιδήνης ἄλωσις, ὀρθῇ καὶ περίφοβος πᾶσα πόλις ἦν, καὶ τοῖς προεστηκόσι τῶν κοινῶν ἅπαντες ἐχαλέπαινον ὥς προδεδωκόσι τοὺς συμμάχους. συναχθείσης δ' ἀγορᾶς ἐν Φερεντίνῳ πολλὴν ἐποιοῦντο τῶν ἀποσπευδόντων τὸν πόλεμον κατηγορίαν οἱ τὰ ὄπλα πειθόντες αὐτοὺς ἀναλαβεῖν, μάλιστα δὲ Ταρκύνιός τε καὶ ὁ κηδεστὴς αὐτοῦ Μαμίλιος καὶ οἱ προεστηκότες τῆς Ἀρικηνῶν πόλεως. ^[2] ὑφ' ὧν ἐκδημαγωγηθέντες, ὅσοι τοῦ Λατίνων μετεῖχον γένους, κοινῇ τὸν κατὰ Ῥωμαίων ἀναιροῦνται πόλεμον· καὶ ἵνα πόλις μηδεμία μῆτε προδῶ τὸ κοινὸν μῆτε προκαταλύσῃται τὴν ἔχθραν [p. 231] ἄνευ τῆς ἀπάντων γνώμης ὄρκους ἔδωσαν ἀλλήλοις, καὶ τοὺς μὴ φυλάζοντας τὰς ὁμολογίας ἐκσπόνδους εἶναι καὶ καταράτους ἐψηφίσαντο καὶ πολεμίους ἀπάντων. ^[3] οἱ δ' ἐγγραφάμενοι ταῖς συνθήκαις ταῦτα πρόβουλοι καὶ τοὺς ὄρκους ὁμόσαντες ἀπὸ τούτων τῶν πόλεων ἦσαν ἄνδρες, Ἀρδεατῶν, Ἀρικηνῶν, Βοϊλλανῶν, Βουβεντανῶν, Κόρνων, Καρνευτανῶν, Κιρκαιητῶν, Κοριολανῶν, Κορβιντῶν, Καβανῶν, Φορτινείων, Γαβίων, Λαυρεντίνων, Λανουινίων, Λαβινιατῶν, Λαβικανῶν, Νωμεντανῶν, Νωρβανῶν, Πραινεστίνων, Πεδανῶν, Κορκοτουλανῶν, Σατρικανῶν, Σκαπτηνίων, Σητίνων, Τιβουρτίνων, Τυσκλανῶν, Τοληρίων, Τελληνίων, Οὐελιτρανῶν· ἐκ τούτων ἀπασῶν τῶν πόλεων τοὺς ἐν ἀκμῇ συστρατεῦειν ὄσων ἂν δέη τοῖς ἡγεμόσιν Ὀκταουῖῳ Μαμιλίῳ καὶ Σέξτῳ Ταρκυνίῳ· τούτους γὰρ ἀπέδειξαν στρατηγοὺς αὐτοκράτορας. ^[4] ἵνα δ' εὐπρεπεῖς δόξωσι ποιεῖσθαι τὰς τοῦ πολέμου προφάσεις, πρεσβευτὰς ἐξ ἐκάστης πόλεως τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους [p. 232] εἰς Ῥώμην ἀπέστειλαν, οἱ καταστάντες ἐπὶ τὴν βουλὴν ἔλεγον κατηγορεῖσθαι τὴν πόλιν αὐτῶν ὑπὸ τῆς πόλεως τῶν Ἀρικηνῶν, ὅτι πόλεμον ἐπιφερόντων Τυρρηνῶν Ἀρικηνοῖς οὐ μόνον ἀσφαλεῖς παρέσχον αὐτοῖς διὰ τῆς ἑαυτῶν χώρας τὰς διόδους, ἀλλὰ καὶ συνέπραξαν ὅσων αὐτοῖς εἰς τὸν πόλεμον ἔδει, καὶ τοὺς φυγόντας ἐκ τῆς τροπῆς ὑποδεξάμενοι τραυματίας καὶ ἀνόπλους ἅπαντας ὄντας ἔσωσαν, οὐκ ἀγνοοῦντες, ὅτι κοινὸν ἐπῆγον ἅπασιν τοῖς ὁμοεθνεσὶ πόλεμον, καὶ εἰ τὴν Ἀρικηνῶν πόλιν ὑποχείριον ἔλαβον, οὐδὲν ἂν ἦν τὸ κωλύσον αὐτοὺς καὶ τὰς ἄλλας καταδουλώσασθαι πόλεις ἀπάσας. [5] εἰ μὲν οὖν βουλήσονται δίκας Ἀρικηνοῖς ὑπέχειν ἐπὶ τὸ κοινὸν τῶν Λατίνων ἀφικόμενοι δικαστήριον καὶ στέρξουσι τοῖς ὑπὸ πάντων δικασθησομένοις, οὐδὲν αὐτοῖς ἔφασαν δεήσειν πολέμου: εἰ δὲ τὴν συνήθη φυλάξαντες αὐθάδειαν, οὐδὲν ἀξιώσουσι συγχωρεῖν τοῖς συγγενέσι τῶν δικαίων καὶ μετρίων, ἡπεῖλουν πολεμήσειν αὐτοῖς Λατίνους ἅπαντας ἀνὰ κράτος.

ταῦτα προκαλουμένων τῶν πρεσβευτῶν οὐκ ἀξιοῦσα δίκην ὑποσχεῖν Ἀρικηνοῖς ἡ βουλή, περὶ ᾧ οἱ κατηγοροῦντες ἔμελλον γίνεσθαι κριταί, καὶ οὐδὲ μέχρι τούτων κριτὰς ἔσεσθαι ὑπολαμβάνουσα τοὺς ἐχθροὺς, ἀλλὰ προσθήσειν ἔτι βαρύτερα τούτων ἐπιτάγματα, δέχεσθαι τὸν πόλεμον ἐψηφίσαντο. τῆς μὲν οὖν ἀρετῆς ἕνεκα καὶ τῆς ἐμπειρίας τῶν ἀγώνων οὐδεμίαν [p. 233] ὑπελάμβανον καταλήψεσθαι τὴν πόλιν συμφοράν, τὸ δὲ πλῆθος ὠρρώδει τῶν πολεμίων: καὶ πολλαχῇ διατέμπουσα πρέσβεις παρεκάλει τὰς πλησιοχώρους πόλεις ἐπὶ συμμαχίαν, ἀντιπρεσβευομένων εἰς τὰς αὐτὰς καὶ τῶν Λατίνων καὶ πολλὰ τῆς Ῥώμης κατηγορούντων. [2] Ἑρnikες μὲν οὖν κοινῇ συνελθόντες ὑποπτα καὶ οὐδὲν ὑγιὲς ἀμφοτέραις ταῖς πρεσβείαις ἀπεκρίναντο, συμμαχήσειν μὲν οὐδετέροις λέγοντες κατὰ τὸ παρόν, βουλευέσεσθαι δ' ὁπότεροι δικαιότερα ἀξιοῦσι κατὰ σχολήν, τῇ δὲ βουλῇ χρόνον ἐνιαύσιον ἀποδώσειν. [3] Ῥότολοι δὲ Λατίνοις μὲν ἐπικουρίαν πέμψειν ἀντικρυς ὑπέσχοντο, Ῥωμαίοις δ' ἐὰν βουλευθῶσι καταλύσασθαι τὴν ἐχθραν, διὰ σφῶν μετριοτέρους παρέξειν Λατίνους ἔφασαν καὶ τὰς συμβάσεις αὐτοῖς διαιτήσειν. Οὐολοῦσκοι δὲ καὶ θαυμάζειν ἔλεγον τῆς Ῥωμαίων ἀναισχυντίας, ὅτι συνειδότες ἑαυτοῖς, ὅτι τὰ τ' ἄλλα ἡδικηκότες ἦσαν αὐτοὺς καὶ τὰ τελευταῖα ὡς τῆς χώρας τὴν κρατίστην αὐτοὺς ἀφελόμενοι κατεῖχον, οὐδὲν ἦσσαν ἐτόλμησαν ἐπὶ συμμαχίαν ἐχθροὺς ὄντας σφᾶς παρακαλεῖν, συνεβούλευόν τ' αὐτοῖς ἀποδοῦσι τὴν χώραν τότε παρ' αὐτῶν ὡς φίλων ἀπαιτεῖν τὰ δίκαια. Τυρρηνοὶ δ' ἀμφοτέροις ἐμποδῶν ἐγίνοντο, Ῥωμαίοις μὲν σπονδὰς γεγενῆναι λέγοντες οὐ πρὸ πολλοῦ, πρὸς δὲ Ταρκυνίους συγγένειαν εἶναι σφίσι καὶ φιλίαν. [p. 234] [4] τοιαῦτα τούτων ἀποκριναμένων οὐθὲν οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι ταπεινωθέντες, ὃ παθεῖν εἰκὸς ἦν τοὺς μέγαν τε πόλεμον αἰρομένους καὶ πάσας ἀπεγνωκότας τὰς συμμαχικὰς ἐλπίδας, ἀλλὰ ταῖς οἰκείαις δυνάμεσι πιστεύοντες μόναις πολλῶν προθυμότεροι πρὸς τὸν ἀγῶνα ἐγίνοντο, ὡς διὰ τὴν ἀνάγκην ἄνδρες ἀγαθοὶ παρὰ τοὺς κινδύνους ἐσόμενοι, καὶ ἐὰν κατὰ νοῦν πράξωσι ταῖς ἰδίαις ἀρεταῖς κατορθώσαντες τὸν πόλεμον οὐδενὶ κοινωσόμενοι τῆς δόξης. τοσοῦτον αὐτοῖς φρονήματος καὶ τόλμης ἐκ τῶν πολλῶν ἀγώνων περιῆν.

ἢ δ' ὁ ταύτης ἡγούμενος τῆς γνώμης Μάρκος Οὐαλέριος, υἱὸς Ποπλίου Οὐαλερίου, ἐνὸς τῶν καταλυσάντων τὴν τυραννίδα, τοῦ κληθέντος διὰ τὴν εἰς τὸ δημοτικὸν εὐνοίαν Ποπλικόλα, διδάσκων αὐτοὺς, ὅτι τοῖς μὲν ὑπὲρ τῶν ἴσων ἀγωνιζομένοις ἴσαι φιλοῦσιν ἐμφύεσθαι πρὸς τὰ ἔργα φιλοτιμίας, τοῖς δὲ μηδὲν ἀπολαβεῖν μέλλουσιν ἀγαθὸν οὐδὲν ἐπέρχεται φρονεῖν γενναῖον: ἡρεθίσθαι τε λέγων ἅπαντας τοὺς ἀπόρους καὶ περιόντας κατὰ τὴν ἀγορὰν λέγειν: [2] τί δ' ἡμῖν ἔσται πλεόν, ἐὰν νικήσωμεν τοὺς ἔξωθεν πολεμίους, εἰ τοῖς δανεισταῖς ἀγώγιμοι πρὸς τὰ χρέα γενησόμεθα καὶ τῇ πόλει τὴν ἡγεμονίαν κατασκευάσαντες αὐτοὶ μηδὲ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν τοῖς σώμασι φυλάξαι δυνησόμεθα; κίνδυνόν τ' οὐ τοῦτον μόνον ἐπαχθῆναι σφίσιν ἀποφαίνων, ἐὰν ἐκπολεμωθῇ πρὸς τὴν βουλὴν ὁ δῆμος, μὴ καταλίπῃ τὴν πόλιν ἐν τοῖς κινδύνοις, ὃ πάντας ὀρρωδεῖν χρή τοὺς τὰ κοινὰ σώζεσθαι βουλομένους, ἀλλὰ κάκεῖνον τὸν ἔτι τοῦτου χαλεπώτερον, μὴ ταῖς παρὰ τῶν τυράννων φιланθρωπιαῖς ἐξαπατηθεῖς κατὰ τῶν πατρικίων ἄρῃται τὰ ὄπλα [p. 236] [3] καὶ συγκαταγάγῃ Ταρκύνιον ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχήν. ἕως οὖν ἔτι λόγους καὶ ἀπειλὰς εἶναι, πονηρὸν δ' ἔργον μηδὲν ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου γεγονέναι, φθάσαι τῇ βοηθείᾳ ταύτῃ τὸν δῆμον εἰς τὰ πράγματα προοικειωσαμένους παρήνει, οὕτε πρῶτους τὸ πολίτευμα τοῦτο καθισταμένους οὕτε αἰσχύνην τινὰ δι' αὐτὸ μεγάλην ὀφλήσοντας, ἀλλὰ πολλοὺς ἔχοντας ἐπιδείξαι καὶ τοῦτο ὑπομείναντας καὶ ἄλλα πολλῶ τούτου χαλεπώτερα, ὅταν μηδὲν ἐξῇ πράττειν ἕτερον: τὰς γὰρ ἀνάγκας κρείττους εἶναι τῆς ἀνθρωπίνης φύσεως, καὶ τὸ εὐπρεπὲς τότε ἀξιοῦν ἅπαντας σκοπεῖν, ὅταν ἔχωσιν ἤδη τὸ ἀσφαλές.

ἔξαριθμησάμενος δὲ πολλὰ καὶ ἐκ πολλῶν παραδείγματα πόλεων τελευταίαν παρέσχετο τὴν Ἀθηναίων πόλιν μεγίστου τότε τυγχάνουσας ὀνόματος ἐπὶ σοφίᾳ, οὐ πρὸ πολλῶν χρόνων, ἀλλὰ κατὰ τοὺς πατέρας αὐτῶν ἄφεσιν χρεῶν ψηφισαμένην τοῖς ἀπόροις Σόλωνος καθηγησαμένου, καὶ οὐθέναι τῇ πόλει τοῦ πολιτεύματος τούτου ἐπιτιμᾶν οὐδὲ τὸν εἰσηγησάμενον αὐτὸ δημοκόπον καὶ πονηρὸν ἀποκαλεῖν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῖς πεισθεῖσι πολλὴν φρόνησιν ἅπαντας μαρτυρεῖν, καὶ [2] τῷ πείσαντι μεγάλην σοφίαν. ὑπὸ τῶν πενήτων καὶ οὐδεμίαν ἰσχὺν ἔχοντων αἱ πόλεις ἀπόλλυνται τὰ δίκαια ποιεῖν ἀναγκαζομένων, ἀλλ' ὑπὸ τῶν εὐπόρων καὶ τὰ πολιτικὰ πράττειν δυναμένων, ὅταν ὑπὸ τῶν χειρόνων ὑβρίζωνται καὶ τῶν δικαίων μὴ τυγχάνωσιν. εἰ δὲ μηδὲν ἀγανακτήσῃν μέλλοιεν οἱ τῶν συμβολαίων ἀποστεροῦμενοι, πρῶτος δὲ πῶς καὶ ῥαθυμῶς οἴσιν τὰς βλάβας, οὐδ' οὕτως ἔφη καλῶς ἔξῃν σφίσιν οὐδ' ἀσφαλῶς δωρεὰν τοῖς πένησι χαρίζεσθαι τοιαύτην, δι' ἣν ἀσυνάλλακτος ὁ κοινὸς ἔσται βίος καὶ μισάλληλος καὶ τῶν ἀναγκαιῶν χρειῶν, ὧν χωρὶς οὐκ ἔνεστιν οἰκεῖσθαι τὰς πόλεις, ἐνδεής, οὔτε τὴν χώραν σπειρόντων ἔτι καὶ φυτευόντων τῶν γεωργῶν, οὔτε τὴν θάλατταν πλεόντων καὶ διαμειβομένων τὰς διαποντίους ἀγορὰς τῶν ἐμπόρων, οὔτε ἄλλην ἐργασίαν οὐδεμίαν δικαίαν ποιουμένων τῶν πενήτων. [4] εἰς ἅπαντα γὰρ ταῦτα τοῖς δεομένοις ἀφορμῆς οὐδένα τῶν εὐπόρων τὰ ἑαυτοῦ χρήματα προήσσεσθαι: ἐκ δὲ τούτων φθονήσεσθαι μὲν εὐπορίαν, καταλυθήσεσθαι δὲ φιλεργίαν, κρεῖττω δὲ μοῖραν ἔξῃν [p. 240] τοὺς ἀκολάστους τῶν σωφρόνων, τοὺς δ' ἀδίκους τῶν δικαίων καὶ τοὺς σφετεριζομένους τὰλλότρια τῶν φυλαττόντων τὰ ἴδια. ταῦτα δ' εἶναι τὰ ποιοῦντα διχοστασίας ἐν ταῖς πόλεσι καὶ ἀλληλοφθορίας ἀπαύστους καὶ πᾶσαν ἄλλην κακῶν ἰδέαν, ὅφ' ὧν αἱ μὲν εὐτυχέστατα πράξασαι τὴν ἐλευθερίαν ἀφηρέθησαν, αἱ δὲ τῆς χείρονος μοίρας τυχοῦσαι πανώλεθροι διεφθάρησαν.

παντὸς δὲ μάλιστα σκοπεῖν αὐτοὺς ἡξίου καινὴν καθισταμένους πολιτείαν, ὅπως μὴθὲν εἰς αὐτὴν παρελεύσεται πονηρὸν ἔθος, πολλὴν ἀνάγκην εἶναι λέγων ὅποι' ἄττ' ἂν ἦ τὰ κοινὰ τῶν πόλεων ἐπιτηδεύματα, τοιοῦτους γίνεσθαι τοὺς τῶν ἰδιωτῶν βίους. ἔθος δ' εἶναι οὐδὲν κάκιον οὔτε πόλεσιν οὔτε οἴκοις τοῦ καθ' ἡδονὰς αἰεὶ ζῆν ἕκαστον καὶ τοῦ πάντα συγχωρεῖσθαι τοῖς ἡττοσιν ὑπὸ τῶν κρείττονων, εἴτε πρὸς χάριν εἴτε πρὸς ἀνάγκην: οὐ γὰρ ἀποπληροῦσθαι τὰς ἐπιθυμίας τῶν ἀφρόνων τυγχανούσας ὧν ἂν δεηθῶσιν, ἀλλ' ἑτέρων εὐθὺς ὀρέγεσθαι μειζόνων καὶ εἰς ἄπειρον προβαίνειν: μάλιστα δὲ τοῦτο πάσχειν τοὺς ὄχλους: ἃ γὰρ καθ' ἑαυτὸν ἕκαστος αἰσχύνεται πράττειν ἢ δέδιεν ὑπὸ τοῦ κρείττονος κατειργόμενος, ταῦτ' ἐν κοινῷ γενομένους ἐτοιμότερον παρανομεῖν προσειληφότας ἰσχὺν ταῖς ἑαυτῶν γνώμας ἐκ τῶν τὰ ὅμοια βουλομένων. [2] ἀπληρώτους δὲ καὶ ἀορίστους ὑπαρχούσας τὰς τῶν ἀνοήτων ὄχλων ἐπιθυμίας ἀρχομένας ἔφη δεῖν κωλύειν, ἕως εἰσὶν ἀσθενεῖς, οὐχ, ὅταν ἰσχυραὶ [p. 241] καὶ μεγάλαι δύνωνται, καθαιρεῖν. χαλεπωτέραν γὰρ ὀργὴν ἅπαντας ἔχειν τῶν συγχωρηθέντων στερομένων ἢ τῶν ἐλπίζομένων μὴ τυγχάνοντας. [3] παραδειγμασί τε πολλοῖς εἰς τοῦτ' ἐχρήσατο πόλεων Ἑλληνίδων ἔργα διεξιὼν, ὅσαι μαλακισθεῖσαι δι' ἀκαιροὺς τινὰς ἀφορμὰς καὶ πονηρῶν ἐπιτηδευμάτων ἀρχὰς ἐφεῖσαι παρελθεῖν οὐκέτι παῦσαι καὶ ἀνελεῖν αὐτὰ δύναμιν ἔσχον: ἐξ ὧν εἰς αἰσχρὰς καὶ ἀνηκέστους ἠναγκάσθησαν προελθεῖν συμφορὰς. εἰοικέναι τε τῷ καθ' ἓνα τὸ κοινὸν ἔφη, ψυχῇ μὲν ἀνδρὸς ἀνάλογον ἐχούσης τι τῆς βουλῆς, [4] σώματι δὲ τοῦ δῆμου. ἐὰν μὲν οὖν τῆς βουλῆς τὸν ἄφρονα δῆμον ἄρχειν ἐώσιν, ὅμοια πείσεσθαι αὐτοὺς ἔφη τοῖς ὑποτάττουσι τὴν ψυχὴν τῷ σώματι καὶ μὴ κατὰ τὸν λογισμόν, ἀλλὰ κατὰ

τοὺς τ' οἰκτεῖρουν τὴν πενίαν τῶν πολιτῶν ἀξιοῦντας καὶ βοηθεῖν τοῖς μὴ δυναμένοις διαλύσαι τὰ χρέα παραινούντας ἔφη δεῖν ἐξετάζειν, τί ποτε τὸ πεπονηκὸς ἦν αὐτοὺς ἀπόρους κλήρους τε παραλαβόντας, οὓς οἱ πατέρες αὐτῶν κατέλιπον, καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν στρατειῶν πολλὰ ὠφεληθέντας, καὶ τὰ τελευταῖα ἐκ τῆς δημευθείσης τῶν τυράννων οὐσίας τὴν ἐπιβαλοῦσαν μοῖραν λαβόντας: ἔπειθ' οὓς μὲν ἂν ὁρῶσι τῇ γαστρὶ καὶ ταῖς αἰσχίσταις ἐζηκότας ἡδοναῖς καὶ διὰ ταυτ' ἐκπεπτωκότας ἐκ τῶν βίων, αἰσχύνας τῆς πόλεως νομίζειν καὶ βλάβας, καὶ μέγα τῷ κοινῷ κέρδος ὑπολαμβάνειν, ἐὰν ἐκόντες ἀπὸ τῆς πόλεως ἀποφθαρῶσιν: οὓς δ' ἂν αἰσθάνωνται διὰ πονηρὰν τύχην ἀπολωλεκότας τοὺς βίους, ἐκ τῶν ἰδίων τοῦτους [p. 243] ^[2] εὖ ποιεῖν. ἄριστα δὲ τοῦτο καὶ γινώσκειν καὶ ποιήσιν ἔφησε τοὺς συμβεβληκότας αὐτοῖς καὶ βοηθήσιν αὐτῶν ταῖς τύχαις αὐτοὺς ἐκείνους οὐκ ἀναγκασθέντας ὑφ' ἐτέρων, ἀλλ' ἐκόντας, ἵν' αὐτοῖς ἡ χάρις ἀντὶ τῶν χρημάτων καλὸν ὀφείλημα περιῇ. κοινὴν δὲ ποιεῖν τὴν βοήθειαν ἅπασιν, ἥς ἐξ ἴσου μεθέξουσιν οἱ πονηροὶ τοῖς χρηστοῖς, καὶ μὴ ἐκ τῶν ἰδίων, ἀλλ' ἐκ τῶν ἀλλοτρίων τινὰς εὖ ποιεῖν, καὶ ὧν τὰ χρήματα ἀφαιροῦνται, τοῦτοις μηδὲ τὰς ὑπὲρ τῶν εὐεργεσιῶν καταλιπεῖν χάριτας, ἥκιστα τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἀρετῇ προσήκειν. ^[3] ὑπὲρ ἅπαντα δὲ ταῦτα καὶ ἄλλα, δεινὸν τι καὶ οὐκ ἀνεκτὸν εἶναι Ῥωμαίοις τῆς ἡγεμονίας ἀντιποιουμένοις, ἦν διὰ πολλῶν πόνων οἱ πατέρες αὐτῶν κτησάμενοι τοῖς ἐκγόνοις κατέλιπον, μὴ κατὰ προαίρεσιν μηδὲ πεισθέντας μηδ' ἐν ᾧ προσῆκε καιρῷ τὰ βέλτιστα καὶ τῷ κοινῷ συμφέροντα πράττειν, ἀλλ' ὥσπερ ἐαλωκυίας τῆς πόλεως ἢ προσδοκῶσης τοῦτο πείσεσθαι παρὰ τὸ δοκοῦν ἑαυτοῖς πράττειν, ἐξ ὧν ὠφέλειαν μὲν οὐδεμίαν ἢ μικράν τινα κομιδῇ λήφονται, κακῶν δὲ κινδυνεύουσιν τὰ ἔσχατα παθεῖν. ^[4] μακρῷ γὰρ αὐτοῖς εἶναι κρεῖττον ἢ κελεύουσι Λατῖνοι πράττειν ὥς μετριώτερα ὄντα καὶ μὴδ' εἰς πείραν ἐλθεῖν πολέμου, ἢ τοῖς μηδαμῇ μηδὲν χρησίμοις συγχωρήσαντας ἃ παρακαλοῦσιν ἀνελεῖν τὴν πίστιν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως, ἦν ἱεροῦ κατασκευῇ [p. 244] καὶ θυσίαις διετησίαις οἱ πατέρες αὐτῶν ἔταξαν γεραίρεσθαι, μέλλοντας σφενδονητῶν συμμαχίαν ἐπὶ τὸν πόλεμον προσλαμβάνειν. ^[5] κεφάλαιον δὲ τῆς γνώμης ἦν αὐται μὲν αἱ πλεῖστον ἀλλήλων διαφέρουσαι γνῶμαι ἐλέχθησαν, ἕτεραι δὲ τινες αἱ τὴν μεταξὺ τούτων ἔχουσαι χώραν συχναί. οἱ μὲν γὰρ αὐτοὺς μόνον ἀφεῖσθαι τῶν χρεῶν τοὺς μηδὲν κεκτημένους ἡξιοῦν, τὰ χρήματα ποιοῦντες ἀγώγιμα τοῖς δανεισταῖς, οὐ τὰ σώματα: οἱ δὲ τὸ δημόσιον ὑπὲρ τῶν ἀδυνάτων διαλῦσαι τὰ συμβόλαια συνεβούλευον, ἵνα ἢ τε πίστις τῶν πενήτων ὑπὸ τῆς δημοσίας φυλαχθῇ χάριτος καὶ οἱ συμβεβληκότες αὐτοῖς μηθὲν ἀδικηθῶσιν. ἐδόκει δὲ τισι καὶ τῶν ἤδη κατεχομένων [p. 245] πρὸς τὰ χρέα καὶ τῶν μελλόντων ἀφαιρεθῆσεσθαι τὴν ἐλευθερίαν ῥύσασθαι τὰ σώματα, ἐκ τῶν αἰχμαλώτων ἕτερα τοῖς δανεισταῖς διαμειψαμένους ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν σώματα. [2] τοιούτων δὲ τινων λεχθέντων ἡ νικῶσα ἦν γνώμη, μηθὲν ἐν τῷ παρόντι γενέσθαι περὶ αὐτῶν προβούλεμα: ὅταν δὲ τὸ κράτιστον τέλος οἱ πόλεμοι λάβωσι, τότε προθεῖναι τοὺς ὑπάτους λόγον καὶ ψῆφον ἀναδοῦναι τοῖς συνέδροις: τέως δὲ μηδεμίαν εἰσπραξίν εἶναι μήτε συμβολαίου μηθενὸς μήτε καταδίκης μηδεμιᾶς, ἀφεῖσθαι δὲ καὶ τὰς ἄλλας ἀμφισβητήσεις πάσας, καὶ μήτε τὰ δικαστήρια καθίζειν μήτε τὰς ἀρχὰς διαγινώσκειν περὶ μηθενὸς ἔξω τῶν εἰς τὸν πόλεμον ἀνηκόντων. [3] τοῦτο τὸ προβούλεμα εἰς τὸν δῆμον ἐξενεχθὲν ἐμείωσε μὲν τι τῆς πολιτικῆς ταραχῆς, οὐ μὴν ἅπαν γε τὸ στασιάζον ἐξεῖλεν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως. ἦσαν γὰρ τινες ἐκ τοῦ θητικοῦ πλήθους, οἷς οὐκ ἐφαίνετο ἀποχρῶσα εἶναι βοήθεια ἢ παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς ἐλπίς φανερόν οὐδὲ βέβαιον ἔχουσα οὐδέν: ἀλλὰ дуεῖν θάτερον αὐτὴν ἡξιοῦν ποιεῖν, ἢ διδόναι σφίσιν ἤδη τὴν ἄφεσιν τῶν χρεῶν, εἰ βούλεται κοινωνοὺς τῶν κινδύνων ἔχειν, ἢ μὴ φενακίζειν εἰς ἑτέρους ἀναβαλλομένην χρόνους: οὐ γὰρ ὁμοίως εἶναι τὰς διανοίας τῶν ἀνθρώπων δεομένων τε καὶ ἀποπληρωθέντων, ὅτου ἂν δεηθῶσιν.

ἐν τοιαύτῃ δὴ καταστάσει τῶν κοινῶν ὑπαρχόντων σκοποῦσα ἡ βουλή, δι' οὗ μάλιστα διαπράζεται τρόπου μηθὲν ἔτι νεωτερίσαι τοὺς δημοτικούς, ἔκρινε [p. 246] τὴν μὲν ὑπατικὴν ἐξουσίαν ἀνελεῖν κατὰ τὸ παρόν, ἑτέραν δὲ τινα ἀρχὴν ἀποδεῖξαι πολέμου τε καὶ εἰρήνης καὶ παντὸς ἄλλου πράγματος κυρίαν, αὐτοκράτορα καὶ ἀνυπεύθυνον, ὣν ἂν βουλευῶνται καὶ πράξῃ. [2] χρόνου δ' εἶναι μέτρον τῇ νέᾳ ἀρχῇ μῆνας ἑξ, μετὰ δὲ τὴν ἐξάμηνον αὐθις ἄρχειν τοὺς ὑπάτους. τὰ δ' ἀναγκάσαντα αὐτὴν ἐπὶ τῷ καταλῦσαι τὸ τυραννικὸν πόλεμον αὐθαίρετον ὑπομεῖναι τυραννίδα πολλὰ μὲν καὶ ἄλλα ἦν, ὑπὲρ ἅπαντα δ' ὁ κυρωθεὶς ὑφ' ἐνός τῶν ὑπάτων Ποπλίου Οὐαλερίου τοῦ κληθέντος Ποπλικόλα νόμος, ὑπὲρ οὗ κατ' ἀρχὰς ἔφην, ὅτι τὰς τῶν ὑπάτων γνώμας ἀκύρους ἐποίησε, μὴ τιμωρεῖσθαι Ῥωμαίων τινα πρὸ δίκης, ἐπιτρέψας τοῖς ἀγομένοις ἐπὶ τὰς κολάσεις ὑπ' αὐτῶν προκαλείσθαι τὴν διαγνώσιν ἐπὶ τὸν δῆμον, καὶ τέως ἂν ἡ πληθὺς ἐνέγκῃ ψῆφον ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν σώμασι τε καὶ βίοις τὸ ἀσφαλὲς ἔχειν: τὸν δὲ παρὰ ταῦτά τι ποιεῖν ἐπιχειροῦντα νηποινὶ τεθνάναι κελεύων. [3] ἐλογίζετο δὴ μένοντος μὲν κυρίου τοῦ νόμου τοῦδε μὴθὲν ὑπηρετήσῃν ἀναγκαζομένουσιν ταῖς ἀρχαῖς τοὺς πένητας καταφρονοῦντας ὡς εἰκὸς τῶν τιμωριῶν, ἃς οὐ παραχρῆμα ὑφέξειν ἔμελλον, ἀλλ' ὅταν ὁ δῆμος αὐτῶν καταψηφίσῃται, ἀναιρεθέντος δ' αὐτοῦ κατὰ πολλὴν ἀνάγκην τὰ κελευόμενα ποιήσῃν ἅπαντας. ἵνα δὲ μὴθὲν ἐναντιωθεῖεν οἱ πένητες, εἴ τις αὐτὸν καταλῦοι τὸν νόμον ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ, τὴν ἰσοτύραννον ἀρχὴν ἔκρινεν ἐπὶ τὰ πράγματα παραγαγεῖν, [p. 247] ἢ πάντας ἔμελλεν ἔξειν ὑφ' ἑαυτῇ τοὺς νόμους. [4] καὶ γράφει προβούλευμα, δι' οὗ παρακρουσαμένη τοὺς πένητας καὶ τὸν βεβαιοῦντα τὴν ἐλευθερίαν αὐτοῖς νόμον ἀνελοῦσα ἔλαθεν. ἦν δὲ τὸ προβούλευμα τοιόνδε: Λάρκιον μὲν καὶ Κλοῖλιον τοὺς τότε ὑπατεῦντας ἀποθέσθαι τὴν ἐξουσίαν, καὶ εἴ τις ἄλλος ἀρχὴν τινα εἶχεν ἢ πραγμάτων τινῶν κοινῶν ἐπιμέλειαν: ἕνα δ' ἄνδρα, ὃν ἂν ἡ τε βουλὴ προέλῃται καὶ ὁ δῆμος ἐπιψηφίσῃ, τὴν ἀπάντων ἐξουσίαν παραλαβόντα ἄρχειν μὴ πλείονα χρόνον ἑξαμήνου, κρείττονα ἐξουσίαν ἔχοντα τῶν ὑπάτων. [5] τοῦτ' ἀγνοήσαντες, ἦν ἔχει δύναμιν, οἱ δημοτικοὶ ψηφίζονται κύρια εἶναι τὰ δόξαντα τῇ βουλῇ: ἦν δ' ἄρα ἡ κρείττων ἀρχὴ τῆς κατὰ τοὺς νόμους τυραννίς: τὴν τε αἵρεσιν τοῦ μέλλοντος ἄρχειν τοῖς ἐκ τοῦ συνεδρίου συνεχώρησαν αὐτοῖς ἐφ' ἑαυτῶν βουλευομένοις ποιήσασθαι.

μετὰ τοῦτο πολλὴ ζήτησις ἐνέπιπτε τοῖς προεσθηκόσι τῆς βουλῆς καὶ πρόνοια περὶ τοῦ παραληφόμενου τὴν ἡγεμονίαν. ἐδόκει γὰρ αὐτοῖς δραστηρίου τ' ἄνδρὸς εἰς τὰ πράγματα δεῖν καὶ πολλὴν τῶν πολεμικῶν ἀγώνων ἐμπειρίαν ἔχοντος, πρὸς δὲ τούτοις φρονίμου τε καὶ σώφρονος καὶ μὴδὲν ὑπὸ τοῦ μεγέθους τῆς ἐξουσίας ἐπὶ τὸ ἀνόητον παραχθῆσομένου: ὑπὲρ ἅπαντα δὲ ταῦτα καὶ τᾶλλα ὅσα δεῖ προσεῖναι στρατηλάταις ἀγαθοῖς ἄρχειν ἐγκρατῶς εἰδότος καὶ μὴθὲν μαλακὸν ἐνδώσοντος τοῖς ἀπειθοῦσιν, οὗ [2] μάλιστα ἐν τῷ παρόντι ἐδέοντο. ἅπαντα δ' ὀρῶντες [p. 248] ὅσα ἤξιουν περὶ τὸν ἕτερον ὑπάρχοντα τῶν ὑπάτων Τίτον Λάρκιον: ὁ γὰρ Κλοῖλιος ἐν ταῖς πολιτικαῖς χρεαῖς διάφορος ὢν τὸ δραστήριον καὶ φιλοπόλεμον οὐκ εἶχεν, οὐδὲ γε τὸ ἀρχικὸν καὶ φοβερὸν, ἀλλ' ἐπιεικὴς τιμωρὸς ἦν τῶν ἀπειθούντων: ἡ δὲ βουλὴ δι' αἰσχύνῃς ἐλάβανον τοῦ μὲν ἀφελέσθαι τὴν ἀρχὴν, ἦν κατὰ τοὺς νόμους εἶχε, τῷ δὲ χαρίσασθαι τὴν ἀμφοτέρων ἐξουσίαν, μεῖζονα βασιλικοῦ σχήματος γινομένην: καὶ τι καὶ δέος αὐτῇ ὑπῆει, μὴ βαρεῖαν ὁ Κλοῖλιος ἡγησάμενος τὴν ἀπαξίωσιν τῆς ἀρχῆς ὡς ἡτιμασμένος ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς ἔπειτα μεταθῆται τὴν προαίρεσιν τοῦ βίου τοῦ δήμου γενόμενος προστάτης [3] καὶ πάντα ἀνατρέψῃ τὰ κοινά. αἰδουμένων δ' ἀπάντων, ἃ φρονοῦντες ἐτύγχανον, εἰς μέσον ἐκφέρειν καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ τοῦτο ποιοῦντων ὁ πρεσβυτάτος τε καὶ τιμιώτατος τῶν ὑπατικῶν γνώμην ἀπεδείξατο, δι' ἧς ἀμφοτέρους ἐν ἴσῃ τιμῇ τοὺς ὑπάτους φυλάξας παρ' αὐτῶν ἐκείνων τὸν ἐπιτηδειότερον ἄρχειν εὔρετο: ἔφη γὰρ αὐτῷ δοκεῖν, ἐπειδὴ τὸ μὲν τῆς ἀρχῆς κράτος ἢ τε βουλὴ διέγνωνκε καὶ ὁ δῆμος ἐπεψήφικεν ἐνὶ δοθῆναι, δύο δὲ καταλείπεται βουλῆς καὶ φροντίδος οὐ μικρὰς δεόμενα, τίς ὁ παραληψόμενος τὴν ἰσοτύραννον ἀρχὴν ἔσται καὶ ὑπὸ τίνος ἀποδειχθεὶς ἐξουσίας νομίμου, ἐκ τῶν τότε ὄντων ὑπάτων τὸν ἕτερον, εἴτε παραχωρήσαντος [p. 249] τοῦ συνάρχοντος, εἴτε κλήρῳ λαχόντα, ἐλέσθαι Ῥωμαίων ὃν ὑπολαμβάνει κράτιστα καὶ συμφορώτατα τὰ τῆς πόλεως ἐπιτροπεύσειν. μεσοβασιλέων δ' αὐτοῖς μὴθὲν ἐν τῷ παρόντι δεῖν, οὕς ἐν ταῖς μοναρχίαις ἀποδεικνυσθαι μονογνώμονας τῶν μελλόντων ἄρξειν ἔθος ἦν, ἐχοῦσης τῆς πόλεως τὴν ὅσιον ἀρχήν.

ἐπαινεσάντων δὲ τὴν γνώμην ἀπάντων μετὰ τοῦτον ἀναστὰς ἕτερος εἶπεν: ἔμοι δ', ὦ βουλὴ, δοκεῖ καὶ τοῦτ' ἔτι προστεθῆναι τῇ γνώμῃ, δεῖν ἀνδρῶν κρατίστων εἰς τόδε χρόνου τὰ κοινὰ διοικούντων, ὧν οὐκ ἂν εὖροιτε ἀμείνους, τὸν μὲν ἕτερον αὐτῶν κύριον ἀποδειχθῆναι τῆς ἀναρρήσεως, τὸν δ' ἕτερον ὑπὸ τοῦ συνάρχοντος αἰρεθῆναι διαγνόντων αὐτῶν ἐν ἀλλήλοις τὸν ἐπιτηδειότερον: ἵνα αὐτοῖς περιγένηται σὺν τῷ τιμίῳ καὶ τὸ χαῖρον ἴσον, τῷ μὲν ὅτι τὸν συνάρχοντα κράτιστον ἀπέφηνε, τῷ δ' ὅτι πρὸς τοῦ συνάρχοντος ἄριστος ἐκρίθη: ἡδὺ γὰρ καὶ καλὸν ἐκάτερον. οἶδα μὲν οὖν, ὅτι καὶ μὴ προστεθέντος τῇ γνώμῃ τοῦδε τοῦ μέρους, αὐτοῖς ἂν ἐφάνη τοῖς ἀνδράσιν οὕτως ποιεῖν: κρεῖττον δὲ τὸ μὴδ' ὑμῶν ἕτερόν τι βουλομένων. [2] ἐδόκει καὶ τοῦτο κατὰ νοῦν ἅπασιν εἰρησθαι: καὶ οὐθενὸς ἔτι τῇ γνώμῃ προστεθέντος ἐπικυροῦται τὸ δόγμα. ὥς δὲ παρέλαβον τὴν ἐξουσίαν οἱ ὑπατοὶ τοῦ διαγνῶναι, πότερος ἐξ αὐτῶν ἄρχειν ἐστὶν ἐπιτηδειότερος, θαυμαστόν τι καὶ παρὰ πάσας τὰς ἀνθρωπίνας ὑπολήψεις πρᾶγμα ἐποιοῦν. οὐ γὰρ ἑαυτὸν ἐκάτερος ἄξιον ἀπέφαινε τῆς ἡγεμονίας, [p. 250] ἀλλὰ τὸν ἕτερον: καὶ κατέτριψαν ὅλην τὴν ἡμέραν ἐκείνην τὰς ἀλλήλων ἀρετὰς ἐξαριθμοῦμενοι καὶ λιπαροῦντες μὴ λαβεῖν αὐτοὶ τὴν ἀρχήν, ὥστε ἐν πολλῇ γενέσθαι τοὺς ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ παρόντας ἀμηχανία. [3] 22 διαλυθείσης δὲ τῆς βουλῆς οἱ προσήκοντες κατὰ γένος ἐκατέρῳ, καὶ τῶν ἄλλων βουλευτῶν οἱ ἐντιμότατοι πρὸς τὸν Λάρκιον ἀφικόμενοι πολλὰς ἐποιοῦντο τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἄχρι πολλῆς νυκτὸς δεήσεις διδάσκοντες, ὥς ἐν ἐκείνῳ τὰς ἐλπίδας ἢ βουλὴ τέθειται πάσας, καὶ τὸ ἀσποῦδαστον αὐτοῦ περὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν πονηρὸν εἶναι τῷ κοινῷ λέγοντες. ὁ δ' ἦν ἀτενὴς καὶ πολλὰ ἐν μέρει δεόμενός τε καὶ ἀντιβολῶν ἕκαστον διετέλει. τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ πάλιν τοῦ συνεδρίου συναχθέντος, ἐπειδὴ καὶ τότε διεμάχετο καὶ πειθόμενος ὑπὸ πάντων οὐκ ἀφίστατο τῆς γνώμης, ἀναστὰς ὁ Κλοῖλιος ἀναγορεύει τ' αὐτόν, ὥσπερ εἰώθεσαν ποιεῖν οἱ μεσοβασιλεῖς, καὶ τὴν ὑπατείαν αὐτὸς ἐξόμνυται.

οὗτος πρῶτος ἐν Ῥώμῃ μόναρχος ἀπεδείχθη πολέμου τε καὶ εἰρήνης καὶ παντὸς ἄλλου πράγματος αὐτοκράτωρ. ὄνομα δ' αὐτῷ τίθενται δικτάτορα, εἴτε διὰ τὴν ἐξουσίαν τοῦ κελεῦειν, ὅτι θέλοι, καὶ τάττειν τὰ δικάια τε καὶ τὰ καλὰ τοῖς ἄλλοις, ὥς ἂν αὐτῷ δοκῇ: τὰ γὰρ ἐπιτάγματα καὶ τὰς διαγραφὰς τῶν δικαίων τε καὶ ἀδίκων ἡδίκτα οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι καλοῦσιν: εἴτε ὡς τινες γράφουσι διὰ τὴν τότε γενομένην ἀνάρρησιν, ἐπειδὴ οὐ παρὰ τοῦ δήμου τὴν ἀρχὴν εὐρόμενος κατὰ τοὺς πατρίους ἐθισμοὺς ἐξείν ἔμελλεν, [p. 251] [2] ἀλλ' ὑπ' ἀνδρὸς ἀποδειχθεὶς ἐνόος. οὐ γὰρ ὥοντο δεῖν ἐπίφθορον ὄνομα καὶ βαρὺ θέσθαι τινὲ ἀρχῇ πόλιν ἐλευθέραν ἐπιτροπευοῦσῃ, τῶν τε

ὁν δὲ τρόπον ὁ Λάρκιος ἐχρήσατο τοῖς πράγμασι δικτάτωρ πρῶτος ἀποδειχθεὶς καὶ κόσμον, οἷον περιέθηκε τῇ ἀρχῇ, συντόμως πειράσομαι διεξελθεῖν, ταῦτα ἡγούμενος εἶναι χρησιμώτατα τοῖς ἀναγνωσομένοις, ἃ πολλὴν εὐπορίαν παρέξει καλῶν καὶ συμφερόντων παραδειγμάτων νομοθέταις τε καὶ δημαγωγοῖς καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις ἅπασι τοῖς πολιτεύεσθαι τε καὶ τὰ κοινὰ πράττειν βουλομένοις. οὐ γὰρ ἀζήλου καὶ ταπεινῆς πόλεως πολιτεύματα καὶ βίους οὐδὲ ἀνωνύμων καὶ ἀπερριμμένων ἀνθρώπων βουλευματα καὶ πράξεις μέλλω διηγέσθαι, ὥστε ὄχλον ἂν τινι καὶ φλυαρίαν φανῆναι τὴν περὶ τὰ μικρὰ καὶ φαῦλα ἡμῶν σπουδὴν: ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ τῆς ἅπασι τὰ καλὰ καὶ δίκαια ὀριζούσης πόλεως καὶ περὶ τῶν εἰς τοῦτο καταστησάμενων αὐτὴν τὸ ἀξίωμα ἡγεμόνων, ἃ τις ἂν σπουδάσειε μὴ ἀγνοεῖν [p. 254] [2] φιλόσοφος καὶ πολιτικὸς ἀνὴρ, συγγράφω. εὐθύς μὲν οὖν ἅμα τῷ παραλαβεῖν τὴν ἐξουσίαν, ἱππάρχην ἀποδείκνυσι Σπόριον Κάσσιον, τὸν ὑπατεύσαντα κατὰ τὴν ἐβδομηκοστὴν Ὀλυμπιάδα. τοῦτο τὸ ἔθος ἔως τῆς κατ' ἐμὲ γενεᾶς ἐφυλάττετο ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων, καὶ οὐθεὶς εἰς τόδε χρόνου δικτάτωρ αἵρεθεὶς χωρὶς ἱππάρχου τὴν ἀρχὴν διετέλεσεν. ἔπειτα τῆς ἐξουσίας τὸ κράτος ἐπιτεῖλαι βουλευθεὶς ὅσον ἐστί, καταπλήξεως μᾶλλον ἢ χρήσεως ἔνεκα τοῖς ῥαβδούχοις ἐκέλευσεν ἅμα ταῖς δεσμαῖς τῶν ῥάβδων τοὺς πελέκεις διὰ τῆς πόλεως φέρειν: ἔθος ἐπιχώριον μὲν τοῖς βασιλεῦσιν, ἐκλειφθὲν δ' ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων, ἐξ οὗ Οὐαλέριος Ποπλικόλας ὁ πρῶτος ὑπατεύσας ἐμείωσε τὸν φθόνον τῆς ἀρχῆς, αὐτὸς ἀνανεωσάμενος. [3] καταπληξάμενος δὲ τοῦτῳ τε καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις συμβόλοις τῆς βασιλικῆς ἡγεμονίας τοὺς ταρακτικοὺς καὶ νεωτεριστάς, τὸ κράτιστον τῶν ὑπὸ Σερουτίου Τυλλίου τοῦ δημοτικωτάτου βασιλέως κατασταθέντων νομίμων, πρῶτον ἐπέταξε ποιῆσαι Ῥωμαίοις ἅπασι, τιμήσεις κατὰ φυλὰς τῶν βίων ἐνεγκεῖν, προσγράφοντας γυναικῶν τε καὶ παιδῶν ὀνόματα καὶ ἡλικίας ἑαυτῶν τε καὶ τέκνων. [4] ἐν ὀλίγῳ δὲ χρόνῳ πάντων τιμησάμενων διὰ τὸ μέγεθος τῆς τιμωρίας: τὴν τε γὰρ οὐσίαν ἀπολέσαι τοὺς ἀπειθήσαντας ἔδει καὶ τὴν πολιτείαν: ἑπτακοσίοις πλείους εὐρέθησαν οἱ ἐν ἡβῃ Ῥωμαῖοι πεντεκαίδεκα μυριάδων. μετὰ τοῦτο διακρίνας τοὺς ἔχοντας τὴν στρατεύσιμον ἡλικίαν ἀπὸ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων [p. 255] καὶ καταχωρίσας εἰς λόχους, διένειμε πεζοὺς τε καὶ ἵππεῖς εἰς τέτταρας μοίρας: ὧν μίαν μὲν τὴν κρατίστην περὶ αὐτὸν εἶχεν, ἐκ δὲ τῶν ὑπολειπομένων Κλοίλιον ἐκέλευσε τὸν συνύπατον ἦν αὐτὸς ἐβούλετο λαβεῖν, τὴν δὲ τρίτην Σπόριον Κάσσιον τὸν ἱππάρχην, τὴν δὲ καταλειπομένην τὸν ἀδελφὸν Σπόριον Λάρκιον: αὕτη φρουρεῖν τὴν πόλιν ἐτάχθη σὺν τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις ἐντὸς τείχους μένουσα.

ὡς δ' ἦν αὐτῷ πάντα τὰ εἰς τὸν πόλεμον ἐπιτήδεια εὐτρεπῇ, προήγαγε τὰς δυνάμεις εἰς ὕπαιθρον, καὶ τίθεται στρατόπεδα τρία καθ' οὓς μάλιστα ὑπελάμβανε τόπους ποιήσεσθαι τοὺς Λατίνους τὴν ἑφοδον. ἐνθυμούμενος δ', ὅτι φρονίμων στρατηγῶν ἐστίν, οὐ μόνον τὰ ἑαυτῶν πράγματα ποιεῖν ἰσχυρά, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὰ τῶν πολεμίων ἀσθενῇ, καὶ μάλιστα μὲν ἄνευ μάχης καὶ πόνου καταλύεσθαι τοὺς πολέμους, εἰ δὲ μὴ γε σὺν ἐλαχίστῃ τοῦ στρατιωτικοῦ πλήθους δαπάνῃ, πολέμων θ' ἀπάντων κακίστους ἡγούμενος καὶ πλεῖστα τὰ λυπηρὰ ἔχοντας, οὓς πρὸς συγγενεῖς καὶ φίλους ἀναγκαζόμενοι τινες ἀναιροῦνται, ἐπεικεστέρων μᾶλλον ἢ δικαιοτέρων ὤετο δεῖν αὐτοῖς διαλύσεων. [2] κρύφα τε δὴ πέμπων πρὸς τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους τῶν Λατίνων ἀνυπόπτους τινὰς ἔπειθε φιλίαν πράττειν ταῖς πόλεσι, καὶ ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ πρεσβευόμενος κατὰ πόλεις τε καὶ πρὸς τὸ κοινὸν οὐ χαλεπῶς ἐξειργάσατο μηκέτι τὴν αὐτὴν ἅπαντας ὁρμὴν ἔχειν πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον· μάλιστα δ' αὐτοὺς ἐξεθεράπευσε καὶ διαστῆναι πρὸς τοὺς ἡγεμόνας ἐποίησε διὰ τοιαύτης εὐεργεσίας. [p. 256] [3] οἱ γὰρ τὴν αὐτοκράτορα παρειληφότες τῶν Λατίνων στρατηγίαν, Μαμίλιος τε καὶ Σέξτος ἐν Τύσκλῳ πόλει τὰς δυνάμεις συνέχοντες, παρεσκευάζοντο μὲν ὥς ἐλάσσοντες ἐπὶ τὴν Ῥώμην, ἐδαπάνων δὲ πολὺν εἰς τὸ μέλλειν χρόνον, εἶτε τὰς ὑπεριζούσας ἀναμένοντες πόλεις, εἶτε τῶν ἱερῶν αὐτοῖς οὐ γινομένων καλῶν. ἐν τούτῳ δὴ τῷ χρόνῳ τινὲς ἀποσκιδνάμενοι τοῦ στρατοπέδου τὴν χώραν τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐπόρθουν. [4] τοῦτο μαθὼν ὁ Λάρκιος ἀποστέλλει τὸν Κλοίλιον ἐπ' αὐτοὺς ἄγοντα τῶν ἱππέων τε καὶ ψιλῶν τοὺς ἀνδρειοτάτους. ὃς ἐπιφανεῖς αὐτοῖς ἀπροσδόκητος ὀλίγους μὲν τινὰς ἀποκτείνει μαχόμενος, τοὺς δὲ λοιποὺς αἰχμαλώτους λαμβάνει. τούτους ὁ Λάρκιος ἐκ τῶν τραυμάτων ἀναλαβὼν καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις ἐκθεραπεύσας φιланθρωπίαις ἀπέστειλεν εἰς Τύσκλον ἀθρόους ἄνευ λύτρων, πρεσβευτὰς σὺν αὐτοῖς πέμπας Ῥωμαίων τοὺς ἐντιμοτάτους. οὗτοι διεπράξαντο διαλυθῆναι τὸ στράτευμα τῶν Λατίνων καὶ γενέσθαι ταῖς πόλεσιν ἐνιαυσίους ἀνοχάς.

ταῦτα διαπραξάμενος ὁ ἀνὴρ ἀπῆγε τὰς δυνάμεις ἐκ τῆς ὑπαίθρου καὶ πρὶν ἢ πάντα τὸν τῆς ἐξουσίας ἐκπληρῶσαι χρόνον ὑπάτους ἀποδείξας ἀπέθετο τὴν ἀρχὴν οὗτ' ἀποκτείνας οὐθένα Ῥωμαίων οὗτ' ἐξελάσας τῆς πατρίδος οὗτ' ἄλλη συμφορᾷ βαρεῖα περιβαλὼν 23 οὐδεμιᾷ. [2] οὗτος ὁ ζῆλος ἀπ' ἐκείνου τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἀρξάμενος ἅπασι παρέμεινε τοῖς λαμβάνουσι τὴν αὐτὴν ἐξουσίαν ἄχρι τῆς τρίτης πρὸ ἡμῶν γενεᾶς. οὐθένα [p. 257] γοῦν ἐκ τῆς ἱστορίας παρειλήφαμεν, ὃς οὐ μετρίως αὐτῇ καὶ πολιτικῶς ἐχρήσατο, πολλάκις ἀναγκασθείσης τῆς πόλεως καταλῦσαι τὰς νομίμους ἀρχὰς καὶ πάντα ποιῆσαι τὰ πράγματα ὑφ' ἐνὶ. [3] καὶ εἰ μὲν ἐν τοῖς ὀθνείοις πολέμοις μόνον ἦσαν οἱ λαμβάνοντες τὴν δικτατορίαν ἀγαθοὶ προστάται τῆς πατρίδος μηδὲν ὑπὸ τοῦ μεγέθους τῆς ἀρχῆς διαφθειρόμενοι ἦττον ἢ θαυμαστὸν ἦν· νῦν δὲ καὶ ἐν ταῖς ἐμφυλίοις διχοστασίαις πολλαῖς καὶ μεγάλας γενομένας καὶ ἐπὶ καταλύσει βασιλειῶν καὶ τυραννίδων ὑποπτευομένων καὶ ἐπ' ἄλλων συμφορῶν κωλύσει μυρίων ὄσων οἱ τηλικαύτης τυχόντες ἐξουσίας ἅπαντες ἀνεπιλήπτους καὶ τῷ πρώτῳ λαβόντι τὴν ἀρχὴν ὁμοίους ἑαυτοὺς παρέσχον· ὥσθ' ἅπασι παραστῆναι τὴν αὐτὴν δόξαν, ὅτι μία βοήθεια παντός ἐστὶν ἀνιάτου κακοῦ καὶ τελευταίας σωτηρίας ἐλπίς, ὅταν ἀπορραγῶσιν ἅπασαι διὰ καιροὺς τινες, ἢ τοῦ δικτάτορος ἀρχή. ἐπὶ δὲ [4] τῆς κατὰ τοὺς πατέρας ἡμῶν ἡλικίας ὁμοῦ τι τετρακοσίων διαγενομένων ἐτῶν ἀπὸ τῆς Τίτου Λαρκίου δικτατορίας διεβλήθη καὶ μισητὸν ἅπασιν ἀνθρώποις ἐφάνη τὸ πρᾶγμα Λευκίου Κορνηλίου Σύλλα πρώτου καὶ μόνου πικρῶς αὐτῇ καὶ ὡμῶς χρησαμένου· ὥστε τότε πρῶτον αἰσθῆσθαι Ῥωμαίους, ὃ τὸν ἄλλον ἅπαντα χρόνον ἡγνόουν, ὅτι τυραννὶς ἐστὶν ἢ τοῦ [5] δικτάτορος ἀρχή. βουλὴν τε γὰρ ἐκ τῶν ἐπιτυχόντων ἀνθρώπων συνέστησε καὶ τὸ τῆς δημαρχίας κράτος εἰς [p. 258] τοῦλάχιστον συνέσπειλε καὶ πόλεις ὅλας ἐξώκισε καὶ βασιλείας τὰς μὲν ἀνεῖλε, τὰς δ' αὐτὸς ἀπέδειξε, καὶ ἄλλα πολλὰ καὶ αὐθάδη διεπράξατο, περὶ ὧν πολὺ ἂν ἔργον εἶη λέγειν: πολίτας τε χωρὶς τῶν ἐν ταῖς μάχαις ἀπολομένων τοὺς παραδόντας αὐτῷ σφᾶς αὐτοὺς οὐκ ἐλάττους τετρακισμυρίων ἀπέκτεινεν, ὧν τινὰς καὶ ^[6] βασιάνοις πρῶτον αἰκισάμενος. εἰ μὲν οὖν ἀναγκαίως ἢ συμφερόντως τῷ κοινῷ πάντα ταῦτ' ἔπραξεν, οὐχ ὁ παρὼν καιρὸς ἐξετάζειν: ὅτι δὲ διὰ ταῦτ' ἐμισήθη καὶ δεινὸν ἐφάνη τὸ τοῦ δικτάτορος ὄνομα, τοῦτό μοι προὔκειτο ἐπιδειῖναι. πέφυκε δ' οὐ ταῖς δυναστείαις τοῦτο μόναις, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις συμβαίνειν τοῖς περιμαχήτοις καὶ θαυμάζομένοις ὑπὸ τοῦ κοινοῦ βίου πράγμασι. καλὰ μὲν γὰρ ἅπαντα φαίνεται καὶ συμφέροντα τοῖς χρωμένοις, ὅταν τις αὐτοῖς χρήται καλῶς, αἰσχροὶ δὲ καὶ ἀσύμφορα, ὅταν πονροὺς λάβῃ προστάτας. τούτου δ' ἡ φύσις αἰτία προσθεῖσα τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς ἅπασι καὶ κῆρὰς τινὰς συμφύτους. ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ μὲν τούτων ἕτερος ἂν εἶη τοῖς λόγοις καιρὸς ἐπιτηδειότερος. οἱ δ' ἐν τῷ κατόπιν ἐνιαυτῷ τὴν ὕπατον ἀρχὴν παραλαβόντες Αὖλος Σεμπρώνιος Ἀτρατῖνος καὶ Μάρκος Μηνύκιος, ἐπὶ τῆς ἐβδομηκοστῆς καὶ πρώτης ὀλυμπιάδος, ἦν ἐνὶ κάστρῳ Τισικράτης Κροτωνιάτης, ἄρχοντος Ἀθήνησιν Ἰππάρχου.

οἱ δ' ἐν τῷ κατόπιν ἐνιαυτῷ τὴν ὕπατον ἀρχὴν παραλαβόντες, Αὔλος Σεμπρώνιος Ἀτρατῖνος καὶ Μάρκος Μηνύκιος, ἐπὶ τῆς ἐβδομηκοστῆς καὶ πρώτης Ὀλυμπιάδος, ἦν ἐνίκα στάδιον Τισικράτης Κροτωνιάτης ἄρχοντας Ἀθήνησιν Ἰππάρχου, ἄλλο μὲν οὐδὲν οὔτε πολεμικὸν οὔτε πολιτικὸν ἱστορίας ἄξιον ἐπὶ τῆς ἐαυτῶν ἀρχῆς ἔπραξαν· αἱ τε γὰρ πρὸς Λατίνους ἀνοχαὶ πολλὴν αὐτοῖς ἀπὸ τῶν ἔξωθεν πολέμων παρέσχον εἰρήνην ἢ τε τῆς ἀναπράξεως τῶν δανείων κώλυσις, ἦν ἐψηφίσατο ἡ βουλή, τέως ἂν ὁ προσδοκώμενος πόλεμος εἰς ἀσφαλὲς ἔλθῃ τέλος, ἔπαυσε τοὺς ἐντὸς τείχους νεωτερισμοὺς, οὓς ἐποιοῦντο οἱ πένητες ἀφεῖσθαι τῶν χρεῶν ἀξιοῦντες δημοσίᾳ· [2] δόγμα δὲ βουλῆς ἐκύρωσαν ἐπεικέστατον, Λατίνοις ἀνδράσιν εἴ τινες ἔτυχον [p. 260] ἐκ τοῦ Ῥωμαίων ἔθνους συνοικοῦσαι γυναῖκες ἢ Ῥωμαίοις Λατῖναι, ἐαυτῶν εἶναι κυρίας, ἐάν τε μένειν θέλωσι παρὰ τοῖς γεγαμηκόσιν ἐάν τε μὴ, εἰς τὰς πατρίδας ἀναστρέφειν· τῶν δ' ἐκγόνων τὰ μὲν ἄρρενα παρὰ τοῖς πατράσι μένειν, τὰς δὲ θηλείας καὶ ἔτι ἀγάμους ταῖς μητράσιν ἔπεσθαι· ἐτύγχανον δὲ πολλὰ πάνυ γυναῖκες εἰς τὰς ἀλλήλων πόλεις ἐκδεδομέναι καὶ διὰ τὸ συγγενὲς καὶ διὰ φιλίαν, οἱ τυχοῦσαι τῆς ἐκ τοῦ ψηφίσματος ἀδείας ἐδήλωσαν ὅσῃν εἶχον ἐπιθυμίαν ἡ τῆς ἐν Ῥώμῃ διαίτης. [3] αἱ τε γὰρ ἐν ταῖς Λατίνων πόλεσι Ῥωμαῖαι μικροῦ δεῖν πᾶσαι καταλιποῦσαι τοὺς ἄνδρας ὡς τοὺς πατέρας ἀνέστρεψαν, αἱ τε Ῥωμαίοις ἐκδεδομέναι Λατίνων πλὴν δυεῖν, αἱ λοιπαὶ τῶν πατρίδων ὑπεριδοῦσαι παρὰ τοῖς γεγαμηκόσιν ἔμειναν· οἰωνὸς εὐτυχῆς τῆς μελλούσης πόλεως ἐπικρατήσῃ τῷ πολέμῳ. [4] ἐπὶ τούτων φασὶ τῶν ὑπάτων τὸν νεὼν καθιερωθῆναι τῷ Κρόνῳ κατὰ τὴν ἄνοδον τὴν εἰς τὸ Καπετώλιον φέρουσιν ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς, καὶ δημοτελεῖς ἀναδειχθῆναι τῷ θεῷ καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ἑορτάς τε καὶ θυσίας. τὰ δὲ πρὸ τούτων βωμὸν αὐτόθι καθιδρῦσθαι λέγουσι τὸν ὑφ' Ἡρακλέους κατεσκευασμένον, ἐφ' οὗ τὰς ἐμπύρους ἀπαρχὰς ἔθνον Ἑλληνικοῖς ἔθεσιν οἱ τὰ ἱερὰ παρ' ἐκείνου παραλαβόντες· τὴν δ' ἀρχὴν τῆς ἰδρύσεως τοῦ ναοῦ τινὲς μὲν ἱστοροῦσι λαβεῖν [p. 261] Τίτον Λάρκιον τὸν ὑπατεύσαντα τῷ πρόσθεν ἐνιαυτῷ, οἱ δὲ καὶ βασιλέα Ταρκύνιον τὸν ἐκπεσόντα τῆς ἀρχῆς· τὴν δὲ καθιέρωσιν τοῦ ναοῦ λαβεῖν Πόστομον Κομίνιον κατὰ ψήφισμα βουλῆς. τούτοις μὲν δὴ τοῖς ὑπάτοις εἰρήνης ὥσπερ ἔφην βαθείας ἐξεγένετο ἀπολαῦσαι.

μετὰ δὲ τούτους παραλαμβάνουσι τὴν ἀρχὴν Αὔλος Ποστόμιος καὶ Τίτος Οὐεργίνιος, ἐφ' ὧν αἱ μὲν ἐνιαυσιοὶ ἀνοχαὶ πρὸς Λατίνους διελέλυτο, παρασκευαὶ δὲ πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον ὑφ' ἑκατέρων ἐγίνοντο μεγάλαι. ἦν δὲ τὸ μὲν Ῥωμαίων πλῆθος ἅπαν ἐκούσιον καὶ σὺν πολλῇ προθυμίᾳ χωροῦν ἐπὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα· τοῦ δὲ Λατίνων τὸ πλεόν ἀπρόθυμον καὶ ὑπ' ἀνάγκης κατειργόμενον, τῶν μὲν δυναστευόντων ἐν ταῖς πόλεσιν ὀλίγου δεῖν πάντων δωρεαῖς τε καὶ ὑποσχέσεσιν ὑπὸ Ταρκυνίου τε καὶ Μαιμιλίου διεφθαρμένων, τῶν δὲ δημοτικῶν, ὅσοις οὐκ ἦν βουλομένοις ὁ πόλεμος, ἀπελανομένων ἀπὸ τῆς περὶ τῶν κοινῶν φροντίδος· [2] οὐδὲ γὰρ λόγος ἔστι τοῖς βουλομένοις ἀπεδίδοδο. ἤναγκάζοντο δὴ χαλεπαίνοντες ἐπὶ τούτῳ συχνοὶ καταλιπεῖν τὰς πόλεις καὶ πρὸς τοὺς Ῥωμαίους αὐτομολεῖν: κωλύειν γὰρ οὐκ ἤξιον οἱ δι' ἑαυτῶν πεποιημένοι τὰς πόλεις, ἀλλὰ πολλήν τοῖς διαφόροις, τῆς ἔκουσίου φυγῆς χάριν ἦδεσαν. ὑποδεχόμενοι δ' αὐτοὺς οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι τοὺς μὲν ἅμα γυναιξὶ καὶ τέκνοις ἀφικνουμένους εἰς τὰς ἐντὸς τείχους κατέταττον στρατιάς τοῖς πολιτικοῖς ἐγκαταμινγύντες λόχοις, τοὺς δὲ λοιποὺς εἰς τὰ περὶ τὴν πόλιν ἀποστέλλοντες φρουρία καὶ ταῖς ἀποικίαις [p. 262] ἀπομερίζοντες, ἵνα μὴ τι νεωτερίσειαν, εἶχον ἐν φυλακῇ. ^[3] ἀπάντων δὲ τὴν αὐτὴν γνώμην λαβόντων, ὅτι μιᾷς δεῖ πάλιν τοῖς πράγμασιν ἐφειμένης ἅπαντα διοικεῖν κατὰ τὸν αὐτῆς λογισμὸν ἀνυπευθύνου ἀρχῆς, δικτάτωρ ἀποδείκνυται τῶν ὑπάτων ὁ νεώτερος Αὐλὸς Ποστόμιος ὑπὸ τοῦ συνάρχοντος Οὐεργίνιου: ἱππάρχην δ' αὐτὸς ἑαυτῷ προσεῖλετο κατὰ τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον τῷ προτέρῳ δικτάτορι Τίτον Αἰβούτιον Ἐλβαν: καὶ καταγράψας ἐν ὀλίγῳ χρόνῳ τοὺς ἐν ἡβῇ Ῥωμαίους ἅπαντας καὶ διελὼν εἰς τέτταρα μέρη τὴν δύναμιν, μιᾷς μὲν αὐτὸς ἡγεῖτο μοίρας, ἑτέρας δὲ τὸν συνύπατον Οὐεργίνιον ἔταξεν ἄρχειν, τῆς δὲ τρίτης Αἰβούτιον τὸν ἱππάρχην, ἐπὶ δὲ τῆς τετάρτης κατέλιπεν ἑπαρχὸν Αὐλὸν Σεμπρώνιον, ὃ τὴν πόλιν φυλάττειν ἐπέτρεψεν.

ἀποκομισθέντων δ' ἀμφοτέρων ἐκ τῆς μάχης ὁ τεταγμένος αὐθις πρεσβευτῆς Μάρκος Οὐαλέριος τὴν τοῦ ἱππάρχου παρειληφώς ἡγεμονίαν, ἐπιστὰς σὺν τοῖς ἀμ' αὐτὸν ἱππεῦσιν ἐπὶ τοὺς κατὰ πρόσωπον καὶ μικρὸν ἀντισχῶν χρόνον ἐξωθεῖται ταχέως τῆς τάξεως ἐπὶ πολὺ: ἦκον δὲ καὶ τοῦτοις ἐκ τῶν φυγάδων τῶν ἐκ Ῥώμης ἱππέων τε καὶ ψιλῶν βοήθειαι, καὶ ὁ Μαμίλιος ἀνειληφώς ἐκ τῆς πληγῆς ἑαυτὸν ἤδη παρῆν αὐθις ἄγων πληθός ἱππέων τε καὶ πεζῶν καρτερόν: ἐν τούτῳ τῷ ἀγῶνι ὃ τε πρεσβευτῆς Μάρκος Οὐαλέριος, ὁ τὸν κατὰ Σαβίνων πρῶτος καταγαγὼν θρίαμβον καὶ τὸ φρόνημα τῆς πόλεως τεταπεινωμένον ἐκ [p. 277] τοῦ Τυρρηνικοῦ πταίσματος ἀναστήσας, δόρατι πληγεῖς πίπτει, καὶ περὶ αὐτὸν ἄλλοι Ῥωμαίων πολλοὶ καὶ ^[2] ἀγαθοί. περὶ δὲ τῷ πτώματι αὐτοῦ γίνεται καρτερός ἀγὼν Ποπλίου καὶ Μάρκου τῶν Ποπλικόλα παιδων τὸν θεῖον ὑπερασπισάντων. ἐκείνον μὲν οὖν ἀσχύλευτόν τε: καὶ μικρὸν ἔτι ἐμπνέοντα τοῖς ὑπασπισταῖς ἀναθέντες ἀπέστειλαν ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα, αὐτοὶ δ' εἰς μέσους τοὺς πολεμίους ὑπὸ λήματός τε καὶ προθυμίας ὠσάμενοι καὶ πολλὰ τραύματα λαβόντες, ἀθρόων περιχυθέντων σφίσι τῶν φυγάδων, ἀποθνήσκουσιν ἅμα. ^[3] ἐξωθεῖται δὲ μετὰ τοῦτο τὸ πάθος ἡ Ῥωμαίων φάλαγξ ἀπὸ τῶν ἀριστερῶν ἐπὶ πολὺ καὶ μέχρι τῶν μέσων παρερρήγνυτο. ἔπειτα μαθὼν ὁ δικτάτωρ τὴν τροπὴν τῶν σφετέρων, ἐβοήθει κατὰ τάχος ἄγων τοὺς περὶ αὐτὸν ἱππεῖς. κελεύσας δὲ τὸν ἕτερον πρεσβευτὴν, Τίτον Ἑρμῆνιον, ἵλην ἱππέων ἄγοντα κατὰ νώτου χωρεῖν τῆς σφετέρας φάλαγγος καὶ τοὺς φεύγοντας ἐπιστρέφειν, εἰ δὲ μὴ πείθοιντο ἀποκτεῖναι, αὐτὸς ἅμα τοῖς κρατίστοις ἐπὶ τὸ στίφος ὠθεῖται, κάπειδ' ἡ πλησίον τῶν πολεμίων ἐγένετο πρῶτος εἰσελαύνει τὸν ἵππον ἀφειμένων τῶν χαλινῶν. ^[4] ἀθρόας δὲ γενομένης καὶ καταπληκτικῆς τῆς ἐλάσεως οὐ δεξάμενοι τὸ μανικὸν αὐτῶν καὶ τεθριωμένον οἱ πολέμιοι τρέπονται καὶ πίπτουσι συγχοί. ἐν δὲ τούτῳ καὶ ὁ πρεσβευτῆς [p. 278] Ἑρμῆνιος ἀνειληφώς τοὺς φοβηθέντας ἐκ τῆς τροπῆς τῶν σφετέρων ἦγεν ἐπὶ τοὺς περὶ τὸν Μαμίλιον συνεστῶτας: καὶ συμπεσὼν αὐτῷ μεγίστῳ τε ὄντι καὶ ῥώμην ἀρίστῳ τῶν καθ' αὐτὸν τότε ἀνθρώπων ἐκείνόν τ' ἀποκτείνει καὶ αὐτὸς ἐν τῷ σκυλεύειν τὸν νεκρὸν πληγεῖς ὑπὸ τινος ξίφει διὰ τῆς λαγόνος ἀποθνήσκει. ^[5] Σέξτος δὲ Ταρκύνιος τοῦ λαιοῦ τῶν Λατίνων κέρατος ἡγούμενος ἀντεῖχεν ἔτι τοῖς δεινοῖς καὶ τοὺς ἐπὶ τοῦ δεξιοῦ τῶν Ῥωμαίων κέρατος ἐξεώθει τῆς στάσεως: ὥς δὲ τὸν Ποστόμιον ἐθεάσατο σὺν τοῖς ἐπιλέκτοις ἱππεῦσιν ἐπιφερόμενον ἀπογνοὺς ἀπάσης: ἐλπίδος εἰς μέσους αὐτοὺς ἵεται: ἔνθα δὴ κυκλωθεὶς ὑπὸ τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἱππέων τε καὶ πεζῶν καὶ βαλλόμενος πανταχόθεν ὥσπερ θηρίον, οὐκ ἄνευ τοῦ πολλοὺς ἀποκτεῖναι τῶν ὁμόσε χωρησάντων ἀποθνήσκει. πεσόντων δὲ τῶν ἡγεμόνων, ἀθρόα γίνεται πάντων αὐτίκα τῶν Λατίνων φυγὴ καὶ τοῦ χάρακος αὐτῶν ἐρήμου καταλειφθέντος ὑπὸ τῶν φυλάκων ἄλωσις, ὅθεν οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι πολλὰς καὶ καλὰς ἔλαβον ὠφελείας. ^[6] συμφορὰ τε αὕτη μεγίστη Λατίνους ἐγένετο, δι' ἣν ἐπὶ πλεῖστον ἐκακώθησαν, καὶ φθόρος σωμάτων, ὅσος οὕτω πρότερον: ἀπὸ γὰρ τετρακισμυρίων πεζῶν καὶ

ἐν ταύτῃ λέγονται τῇ μάχῃ Ποστομίῳ τε [p. 279] τῷ δικτάτορι καὶ τοῖς περὶ αὐτὸν τεταγμένοις ἵππεῖς δύο φανῆναι, κάλλει τε καὶ μεγέθει μακρῶ κρείττους, ὧν ἡ καθ' ἡμᾶς φύσις ἐκφέρει, ἐναρχόμενοι γενειᾶν, ἡγούμενοί τε τῆς Ῥωμαικῆς ἵππου καὶ τοὺς ὁμόσε χωροῦντας τῶν Λατίνων παίοντες τοῖς δόρασι καὶ προτροπάδην ἐλαύνοντες. καὶ μετὰ τὴν τροπὴν τῶν Λατίνων καὶ τὴν ἄλωσιν τοῦ χάρακος αὐτῶν περὶ δείλην ὄψιαν τὸ τέλος λαβούσης τῆς μάχης, ἐν τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἀγορᾷ τὸν αὐτὸν τρόπον ὀφθῆναι δύο νεανίσκοι λέγονται, πολεμικὰς ἐνδεδυκότες στολὰς μήκιστοί τε καὶ κάλλιστοι καὶ τὴν αὐτὴν ἡλικίαν ἔχοντες, αὐτοὶ τε φυλάττοντες ἐπὶ τῶν προσώπων ὥς ἐκ μάχης ἠκόντων τὸ ἐναγώνιον σχῆμα, καὶ τοὺς ἵππους ἰδρῶτι διαβρόχους ἐπαγόμενοι. [2] ἄρσαντες δὲ τῶν ἵππων ἑκάτερον καὶ ἀπονίψαντες ἀπὸ τῆς λιβάδος, ἡ παρὰ τὸ ἱερὸν τῆς Ἑστίας ἀναδίδωσι λίμνην ποιοῦσα ἐμβύθιον ὀλίγην, πολλῶν αὐτοὺς περιστάντων καὶ εἴ τι φέρουσιν ἐπὶ κοινὸν ἀπὸ στρατοπέδου μαθεῖν ἀξιούντων, τὴν τε μάχην αὐτοῖς φράζουσιν, ὥς ἐγένετο καὶ ὅτι νικῶσιν: οὕς μεταχωρήσαντας ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς ὑπ' οὐδενὸς ἔτι λέγουσιν ὀφθῆναι, πολλὴν ζήτησιν αὐτῶν ποιουμένου [p. 280] [3] τοῦ καταλειφθέντος τῆς πόλεως ἡγεμόνος. ὥς δὲ τῇ κατόπιν ἡμέρᾳ τὰς παρὰ τοῦ δικτάτορος ἐπιστολὰς ἔλαβον οἱ τῶν κοινῶν προεστῶτες, καὶ σὺν τοῖς ἄλλοις ἅπασιν τοῖς ἐν τῇ μάχῃ γενομένοις καὶ τὰ περὶ τῆς ἐπιφανείας τῶν δαιμόνων ἔμαθον, νομίσαντες τῶν αὐτῶν θεῶν εἶναι ἄμφω τὰ φάσματα ὥσπερ εἰκὸς Διοσκούρων ἐπέισθησαν εἶναι τὰ εἶδωλα. [4] ταύτης ἐστὶ τῆς παραδόξου καὶ θαυμαστῆς τῶν δαιμόνων ἐπιφανείας ἐν Ῥώμῃ πολλὰ σημεῖα, ὅ τε νεῶς ὁ τῶν Διοσκούρων, ὃν ἐπὶ τῆς ἀγορᾶς κατεσκεύασεν ἡ πόλις, ἐνθα ὤφθη τὰ εἶδωλα, καὶ ἡ παρ' αὐτῷ κρήνη καλουμένη τε τῶν θεῶν τούτων καὶ ἱερὰ εἰς τὸδε χρόνου νομιζομένη, θυσίαι τε πολυτελεῖς, ἃς καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ὁ δῆμος ἐπιτελεῖ διὰ τῶν μεγίστων ἱερέων ἐν μηνὶ Κυντιλίῳ λεγομένῳ ταῖς καλουμέναις εἰδοῖς, ἐν ᾗ κατῶρθωσαν ἡμέρᾳ τόνδε τὸν πόλεμον: ὑπὲρ ἅπαντα δὲ ταῦτα ἡ μετὰ τὴν θυσίαν ἐπιτελουμένη πομπὴ τῶν ἐχόντων τὸν δημόσιον ἵππον, οἱ κατὰ φυλάς τε καὶ λόχους κεκοσμημένοι στοιχηδὸν ἐπὶ τῶν ἵππων ὁχοῦμενοι πορεύονται πάντες, ὥς ἐκ μάχης ἦκοντες ἐστεφανωμένοι θαλλοῖς ἐλαίας, καὶ πορφυρᾶς φοινικοπαρύφους ἀμπεχόμενοι τηβέννας τὰς καλουμένας τραβέας, ἀρξάμενοι μὲν ἀφ' ἱεροῦ τινος Ἄρεος ἔξω τῆς πόλεως ἰδρυμένου, διεξιόντες δὲ τὴν τ' ἄλλην πόλιν καὶ διὰ τῆς ἀγορᾶς παρὰ τὸ τῶν Διοσκούρων ἱερὸν παρερχόμενοι, ἄνδρες ἐστὶν ὅτε καὶ πεντακισχίλιοι [p. 281] φέροντες, ὅσα παρὰ τῶν ἡγεμόνων ἀριστεῖα ἔλαβον ἐν ταῖς μάχαις, καλὴ καὶ ἀξία τοῦ μεγέθους τῆς ἡγεμονίας ὄψις. ταῦτα μὲν ὑπὲρ τῆς γενομένης ἐπιφανείας τῶν Διοσκούρων λεγόμενά τε καὶ πραττόμενα ὑπὸ Ῥωμαίων ἔμαθον: [5] ἐξ ὧν τεκμήραιτ' ἂν τις, ὥς θεοφιλεῖς ἦσαν οἱ τότε ἄνθρωποι, σὺν ἄλλοις πολλοῖς καὶ μεγάλοις.

ὁ δὲ Ποστόμιος ἐκείνην μὲν τὴν νύκτα κατεστρατοπέδευσεν ἐν τῷ πεδίῳ, τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ στεφανώσας τοὺς ἀριστεύσαντας ἐν τῇ μάχῃ καὶ τοὺς αἰχμαλώτους φυλάττεσθαι διαδοὺς ἔθυε τὰ νικητήρια τοῖς θεοῖς. ἔτι δ' αὐτῷ τὸν στέφανον ἐπικειμένῳ καὶ τὰς ὑπερπύρους ἀπαρχὰς τοῖς βωμοῖς ἐπιτιθέντι σκοποὶ τινες ἀπὸ τῶν μετεώρων καταδραμόντες ἀγγέλλουσι πολέμιον ἐπὶ σφᾶς ἐλαύνειν στρατόν. ἦν δ' ἐκ τοῦ Οὐολούσκων ἔθνους ἐπιλεκτος ἀκμὴ σύμμαχος ἀπεσταλμένη Λατίνοις, πρὶν ἢ τὴν μάχην αὐτῶν ἐπιτελεσθῆναι. [2] ὥς δὲ δὴ ταῦτ' ἔγνω, χωρεῖν ἅπαντας ἐκέλευσεν ἐπὶ τὰ ὄπλα καὶ μένειν ἐν τῷ χάρακι παρὰ ταῖς ἰδίαις ἑκαστον σημαίαις σιγὴν καὶ κόσμον φυλάττοντας, ἕως ἂν αὐτὸς ἃ χρὴ πράττειν παραγγείλῃ. οἱ δὲ τῶν Οὐολούσκων ἡγεμόνες ἐξ ἀπόπτου τῶν Ῥωμαίων παρεμβαλόντες ὥς εἶδον μεστὸν μὲν τὸ πεδῖον νεκρῶν, ὀρθοὺς δὲ τοὺς χάρακας ἀμφοτέρους, προίοντα δ' ἐκ τῶν ἐρυμάτων οὔτε πολέμιον οὔτε φίλον οὐδένα, τέως μὲν ἐθαύμαζον καὶ τίς ἦν ἡ κατειληφυῖα τύχη τὰ [p. 282] πράγματα ἀπόρως εἶχον συμβάλλειν. ἐπεὶ δὲ παρὰ τῶν ἀνασωζομένων ἐκ τῆς τροπῆς ἅπαντα τὰ περὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα ἔμαθον, ἐσκόπουν μετὰ τῶν ἄλλων ἡγεμόνων, [3] τί χρὴ πράττειν. τοῖς μὲν οὖν θραυστάτοις αὐτῶν ἐδόκει κράτιστον εἶναι χωρεῖν ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐξ ἐφόδου, τέως πολλοὶ μὲν ἔκαμον ὑπὸ τραυμάτων, ἀπειρήκεσάν θ' ἅπαντες ὑπὸ κόπου ὄπλα τε ἄχρηστα τοῖς πλείστοις ἦν, τὰ μὲν ἀπεστομωμένα τὰς ἀκμάς, τὰ δὲ κατεαγόντα καὶ βοήθεια παρὰ τῶν οἰκοθεν ἀκραιφνῆς οὕτω παρῆν οὐδεμία αὐτοῖς, ἡ δὲ σφῶν αὐτῶν δύναμις πολλὴ τε οὕσα καὶ ἀγαθὴ καὶ ὠπλισμένη καλῶς ἐμπειροπόλεμος τε καὶ οὐ προσδεχομένοις ἐξαπναιῶς παροῦσα, φοβερά καὶ τοῖς εὐτολμοτάτοις φανήσεσθαι ἔμελλε.

τοῖς δὲ σωφρονεστάτοις οὐκ ἀσφαλὲς τὸ κινδύνευμα εἶναι ἐφαίνετο, ἀνδράσιν ἀγαθοῖς τὰ πολέμια τε καὶ νεωστὶ τὴν Λατίνων τοσαύτην δύναμιν ἄραμένοις ἄνευ συμμάχων ὁμόσε χωρεῖν μέλλοντας τὸν ὑπὲρ τῶν μεγίστων κίνδυνον ἐν ἀλλοτρίᾳ ποιεῖσθαι γῆ, ἔνθα εἴ τι συμβαίῃ παῖμα οὐδεμίαν ἔξουσι καταφυγὴν ἀσφαλῆ: τῆς δ' οἴκαδε σωτηρίας προνοεῖσθαι μᾶλλον ἡξίου οὗτοι διὰ ταχέων καὶ μέγα κέρδος ὑπολαμβάνειν, εἰ μὴδὲν ἀπολαύσουσιν ἐκ τῆς στρατείας κακόν. [2] ἑτέροις δὲ τούτων μὲν οὐδέτερον ἐδόκει χρῆναι ποιεῖν, νεανικὸν μὲν ἀποφαινουσι τὸ πρόχειρον τῆς ἐπὶ τὸν ἀγῶνα ὁρμῆς, αἰσχρὸν δὲ τὸ παράλογον τῆς ἐπὶ τὰ οἰκεῖα φυγῆς, ὥς κατ' εὐχὴν ληφομένων τῶν πολεμίων, ὁπότερον ἂν αὐτῶν ποιήσωσι. γνώμη δὲ [p. 283] τούτων ἦν ἐν μὲν τῷ παρόντι κρατύνασθαι τὸν χάρακα καὶ τὰ πρὸς τὸν ἀγῶνα εὐτρεπίζεσθαι, πέμποντας δὲ πρὸς τοὺς ἄλλους Οὐολούσκους δυεῖν θάτερον ἀξιοῦν ἢ δύναμιν ἑτέραν πέμπειν ἀξιοχρεῶν ἐπὶ Ῥωμαίους, [3] ἢ καὶ τὴν ἀπεσταλμένην μετακαλεῖν. ἡ δὲ πιθανωτάτῃ τοῖς πλείστοις φανεῖσα καὶ ὑπὸ τῶν ἐν τέλει κυρωθεῖσα γνώμη ταῦτα παρήνει, πέμψαι τινας εἰς τὸν χάρακα τῶν Ῥωμαίων: κατασκόπους ὀνόματι πρεσβευτῶν ἔξοντας τὸ ἀσφαλὲς, οἱ δεξιῶσονται τὸν ἡγεμόνα καὶ φράσουσιν, ὅτι σύμμαχοι Ῥωμαίων ἦκοντες ἀπὸ τοῦ κοινοῦ τῶν Οὐολούσκων ἄχθονται μὲν ὑστερήσαντες τῆς μάχης, ὥς οὐδεμίαν ἢ μικράν τινα τῆς προθυμίας χάριν οἰσόμενοι, τῇ δ' ἐξ ἐκείνων τύχῃ μέγαν ἀγῶνα δίχα συμμάχων κατωρθωκότων συνήδονται: ἐξαπατήσαντες δ' αὐτοὺς τῇ φιланθρωπῳίᾳ τῶν λόγων καὶ πιστεύειν ὥς φίλοις σφίσι κατασκευάσαντες, ἅπαντα

ὥς δὲ ταῦτη προσέθεντο τῇ γνώμῃ καὶ οἱ προχειρισθέντες ὑπ' αὐτῶν πρέσβεις ἀφικόμενοι πρὸς τὸν δικτάτορα καὶ παραχθέντες ἐπὶ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν διεξῆλθον [p. 284] τοὺς ἐξαπατήσαντας λόγους, ὀλίγον ἐπισχῶν ὁ Ποστόμιος χρόνον πρὸς αὐτοὺς εἶπε: πονηρὰ βουλευματα, ὦ Οὐολούσκοι, χρηστοῖς λόγοις ἀμφιέσαντες ἦκατε: καὶ πολεμίων ἔργα πράττοντες φίλων ἐξενέγκασθαι 4 βούλεσθε δόξαν. [2] ὑμεῖς γὰρ ἀπέσταλθε ὑπὸ τοῦ κοινοῦ Λατίνοις συμμαχήσαντες καθ' ἡμῶν, ἐπεὶ δ' ὕστεροι τῆς μάχης ἦκατε καὶ κρατούμενους αὐτοὺς ὀρᾶτε, παρακρούσασθαι βούλεσθε ἡμᾶς τάναντία, ὧν ἐμέλλετε πράττειν, λέγοντες, καὶ οὐδ' ἡ φιланθρωπία τῶν λόγων, ἦν πλάττεσθε πρὸς τὸν παρόντα καιρὸν οὐδὲ τὸ προσποιήμα ὑμῶν τῆς δεῦρο ἀρίξεως ὑγιές ἐστιν, ἀλλὰ μεστὸν δόλου καὶ ἀπάτης. οὐ γὰρ συνησθησόμενοι τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς ἡμετέροις ἐξαπέσταλθε, ἀλλὰ κατασκεψόμενοι, πῶς ἡμῖν ἀσθενείας ἢ δυνάμεως τὰ πράγματα ἔχει: καὶ ἔστε πρεσβευταὶ μὲν λόγῳ, κατάσκοποι δ' ἔργῳ. [3] ἀρνούμενων δὲ πρὸς ἅπαντα τῶν ἀνδρῶν οὐ διὰ μακροῦ τὴν πίστιν ἔφησεν αὐτοῖς παρέξεσθαι: καὶ αὐτίκα τὰς ἐπιστολὰς αὐτῶν, ἃς ἔλαβε πρὸ τῆς μάχης τοῖς ἡγεμόσι τῶν Λατίνων φερομένας, ἐν αἷς ὑπισχνοῦντο αὐτοῖς πέμψειν ἐπικουρίαν, προήνεγκε, καὶ τοὺς φέροντας αὐτὰς προήγαγεν. ἀναγνωσθέντων δὲ τῶν γραμμάτων καὶ τῶν αἰχμαλώτων ἃς ἔλαβον ἐντολὰς διηγησαμένων, τὸ μὲν πλῆθος λίθοις ὥρμησε βαλεῖν τοὺς Οὐολούσκους ὡς ἐάλωκότας ἐπ' [p. 285] αὐτοφῶρῳ κατασκόπους, ὁ δὲ Ποστόμιος οὐκ ᾔετο δεῖν ὁμοίους γενέσθαι τοῖς κακοῖς τοὺς ἀγαθοὺς κρεῖττον εἶναι λέγων καὶ μεγαλοψυχότερον εἰς τοὺς ἀποστειλαντας φυλάττειν τὴν ὀργὴν ἢ εἰς τοὺς ἀποσταλέντας, καὶ διὰ τὸ φανερόν ὄνομα τῆς πρεσβείας ἀφεῖναι τοὺς ἄνδρας μᾶλλον ἢ διὰ τὸ ἀφανὲς τῆς κατασκοπῆς ἔργον ἀπολέσαι: ἵνα μήτε Οὐολούσκοις ἀφορμὴν παράσχωσιν εὐπρεπῇ τοῦ πολέμου πρεσβευτῶν ἀνηρῆσθαι σώματα σκηπτομένοις παρὰ τὸν ἀπάντων νόμον, μήτε τοῖς ἄλλοις ἔχθρας πρόφασιν αἰτίας εἶναι εἰ καὶ ψευδοῦς, ἀλλ' οὐκ ἀλόγου γε οὐδὲ ἀπίστου.

ἐπισχῶν δὲ τὴν ὁρμὴν τοῦ πλήθους ἀπιέναι τοὺς ἄνδρας ἐκέλευσεν ἀμεταστρεπτῇ φυλακῇ παραδοὺς ἱππέων, οἱ προὔπεμψαν αὐτοὺς ἐπὶ τὸν Οὐολούσκων χάρακα. ἐκβαλὼν δὲ τοὺς κατασκόπους εὐτρεπίεσθαι τὰ εἰς μάχην παρήγγειλε τοῖς στρατιώταις, ὡς ἐν τῇ κατοπίν ἡμέρᾳ παραταξόμενος. ἐδέησε δ' οὐδὲν αὐτῷ μάχης: οἱ γὰρ ἡγεμόνες τῶν Οὐολούσκων πολλῆς ἔτι νυκτὸς οὔσης ἀναστήσαντες τὴν στρατιὰν ὥχοντο ἐπὶ [2] τὰ σφέτερα. ἀπάντων δὲ χωρησάντων αὐτῷ κατ' εὐχὴν θάψας τοὺς οἰκείους νεκροὺς καὶ τὴν στρατιὰν καθήρας [p. 286] ἀνέστρεψεν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἐκπρεπεῖ θριάμβῳ κοσμούμενος ὀπλῶν τε σωρὸν ἐφ' ἀμάξαις πολλαῖς κομίζων καὶ χρημάτων στρατιωτικῶν παρασκευᾶς ἀφθόνους εἰσφέρων, καὶ τοὺς ἀλόντας ἐν τῇ μάχῃ πεντακοσίων ἀποδέοντας ἐξακισχιλίους ἐπαγόμενος. ἀπὸ δὲ τῶν λαφύρων ἐξελόμενος τὰς δεκάτας ἀγῶνάς τε καὶ θυσίας τοῖς θεοῖς ἀπὸ

ὀλίγαις δ' ὕστερον ἡμέραις πρέσβεις ἀπὸ τοῦ κοινοῦ τῶν Λατίνων ἦκον ὥς αὐτοὺς ἐξ ἀπασῶν τῶν πόλεων ἐπιλεχθέντες οἱ τὴν ἐναντίαν ἔχοντες περὶ τοῦ πολέμου γνώμην, ἱκετηρίας καὶ στέμματα προεχόμενοι. οὗτοι παραχθέντες ἐπὶ τὴν βουλήν, τὴν μὲν ἀρχὴν τοῦ πολέμου τοὺς δυναστεύοντας ἐν ταῖς πόλεσιν ἀπέφαινον αἰτίους: τὸ δὲ πλῆθος ἐν μόνον τοῦτο ἀμαρτεῖν ἔλεγον, ὅτι πονηροῖς ἐπείσθη δημαγωγοῖς ἴδια κέρδη παρεσκευασμένοις. ^[2] ταύτης δὲ τῆς ἀπάτης, ἐν ἣ τὸ πλεῖον ἀνάγκης μέρος ἦν, οὐ μεμπτὰς τεπικέναι δίκας ἐκάστην πόλιν ἔλεγον τῆς κρατίστης νεότητος ἀναιρεθείσης, ὥστε μὴ ῥάδιον εἶναι πένθους καθαρὰν εὐρεῖν οἰκίαν, ἥξιον τ' αὐτοὺς παραλαβεῖν σφᾶς ἦκοντας οὔτε περὶ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἔτι διαφορομένους οὔτε περὶ τῶν ἴσων φιλονεικοῦντας συμμάχους τε καὶ ὑπηκόους ἅπαντα τὸν λοιπὸν χρόνον ἐσομένους, καὶ πᾶν ὅσον ὁ δαίμων ἀφείλετο τοῦ Λατίνων ἀξιώματος, ^[3] τοῦτο τῇ Ῥωμαίων προσθήσοντας εὐποτμίᾳ. τελευτῶντες δὲ τοῦ λόγου συγγένειαν ἐπεκαλοῦντο καὶ συμμαχιῶν ἀπροφασίστων ποτὲ γενομένων ἀνεμίμνησκον καὶ συμφορὰς ἀνέκλαιον τὰς καταληψομένας τοὺς μηδὲν ἡμαρτηκότας, οἱ μακρῶ πλείους ἦσαν τῶν ἡμαρτηκόντων, ὁδυρόμενοι παρ' ἕκαστα καὶ τῶν γονάτων ἀπτόμενοι πάσης τῆς γερουσίας καὶ τὰς ἱκετηρίας παρὰ τοῖς ποσὶ τοῦ Ποστομίου τιθέντες: ὥστε παθεῖν τι πρὸς τὰ δάκρυα καὶ τὰς δεήσεις αὐτῶν τὸ συνέδριον ἅπαν. [3] ἦν δ' ἄρα τοῦτ' οὐ λύσις, ἀναβολὴ δὲ τις καὶ παρασκευῆς ἀφορμὴ τοῖς φθασθεῖσι τῷ παρ' ἐλπίδα τῆς ἐφόδου, ἀπελθόντος τε τοῦ τῶν Ῥωμαίων στρατεύματος ἐξήπτοντο πάλιν οἱ Οὐολούσκοι τοῦ πολέμου τὰς τε πόλεις φραζάμενοι, καὶ εἰ τι ἄλλο χωρίον ἐπιτήδειον ἦν ἀσφάλειαν σφίσι παρασχέιν διὰ φυλακῆς κρείττονος ἔχοντες: συνήπτοντο δ' αὐτοῖς τοῦ κινδύνου φανερώς μὲν Ἑρνικες καὶ Σαβῖνοι, κρύφα δὲ καὶ ἄλλων συχνοί. Λατῖνοι δὲ πρεσβείας πρὸς αὐτοὺς ἐπὶ συμμαχίας αἵτησιν ἀφικομένης δήσαντες τοὺς ἄνδρας εἰς Ῥώμην ἤγαγον. [4] οἷς ἡ βουλὴ τῆς βεβαίου πίστεως χάριν ἀποδιδούσα καὶ ἔτι μᾶλλον τῆς εἰς τὸν ἀγῶνα προθυμίας: ἔτοιμοι γὰρ ἦσαν ἐκούσιοι συμπολεμεῖν: ὁ μάλιστα μὲν βούλεσθαι αὐτοὺς ὦετο, δι' αἰσχύνης δ' ἔχειν αἰτήσασθαι, τοῦτ' αὐτοῖς ἐχαρίσατο, τοὺς ἐν τοῖς πολέμοις ἀλόντας αὐτῶν ἐξακισχιλίων ὀλίγον ἀποδέοντας προῖκα δωρησαμένη καὶ ὡς ἂν μάλιστα κόσμον ἢ δωρεὰ προσήκοντα τῇ συγγενείᾳ λάβοι πάντας αὐτοὺς ἐσθῆσιν ἀμφιέσασα ἐλευθέρους σώμασι πρεπούσας. τῆς δὲ συμμαχίας οὐδὲν αὐτῇ ἔφη δεῖν τῆς Λατίνων ἱκανὰς λέγουσα εἶναι τὰς οἰκείας τῇ Ῥώμῃ δυνάμεις ἀμύνασθαι τοὺς ἀφισταμένους. ταῦτ' ἐκείνοις [p. 300] ἀποκριναμένη ψηφίζεται τὸν κατ' Οὐολούσκων πόλεμον.

ἔτι δ' αὐτῆς ἐν τῷ βουλευτηρίῳ καθεζομένης καὶ τινες εἶεν δυνάμεις τὰς ἐξελεussoμένας σκοπούσης, εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν ἀνὴρ πρεσβύτερος ἐφάνη ῥάκος ἡμφιεσμένος, πῶγωνα βαθὺν καθεικῶς καὶ κόμην βοῶν καὶ ἐπικαλούμενος τὴν ἐξ ἀνθρώπων ἐπικουρίαν. συνδραμόντος δὲ τοῦ πλησίον ὄχλου στάς, ὅθεν ἔμελλε πολλοῖς καταφανῆς ἔσεσθαι, ἔφη, γεννηθεὶς ἐλεύθερος, ἐστρατευμένος τὰς ἐν ἡλικίᾳ στρατείας, καὶ δυεῖν δεούσας τριάκοντα μάχας ἀγωνισάμενος, καὶ ἀριστεῖα πολλάκις εἰληφὼς ἐκ τῶν πολέμων, ἐπειδὴ κατέσχον οἱ τὴν πόλιν εἰς τὰς ἐσχάτας ἄγοντες στενοχωρίας καιροί, χρέος ἡναγκάσθην λαβεῖν ἔνεκα τοῦ διαλύσαι τὰς εἰσπραττομένας εἰσφοράς, ὡς τὸ μὲν χωρίον οἱ πολέμιοι κατέδραμον, τὰ δὲ κατὰ πόλιν αἱ σιτοδεῖαι κατανάλωσαν, ὅθεν διαλύσαιμι μου τὸ χρέος οὐκ ἔχων, ἀπήχθην δοῦλος ὑπὸ τοῦ δανειστοῦ σὺν τοῖς υἱοῖς δυσὶν: ἐπιτάττοντος δὲ τοῦ δεσπότη τῶν οὐ ῥαδίῳ ἔργον τι ἀντειπὼν αὐτῷ πληγὰς ἔλαβον μάστιγι πάνυ πολλάς. [2] ταῦτ' εἰπὼν ἐρρίπτει τὸ ῥάκιον καὶ ἐδείκνυε τὸ στῆθος μεστὸν τραυμάτων, τὰ δὲ νῶτα αἵματος ἐκ τῶν πληγῶν ἀνάπλεω. κραυγῆς δὲ καὶ οἰμωγῆς ἐκ τῶν παρόντων γινομένης ἢ τε βουλὴ διελύθη καὶ κατὰ [p. 301] τὴν πόλιν ὄλην δρόμος ἦν τῶν ἀπόρων τὴν ἰδίαν τύχην ἀνακλαιομένων καὶ βοηθεῖν τοὺς πέλας ἀξιοῦντων· ἔκ τε τῶν οἰκιῶν οἱ πρὸς τὰ χρέα δουλωθέντες ἐξώρων κομῶντες, ἀλύσεις ἔχοντες οἱ πλείστοι καὶ πέδας οὐδενὸς ἀντιλαμβάνεσθαι τολμῶντος αὐτῶν, εἰ δ' ἄψαιτο μόνον, ἐν χειρῶν νόμῳ διασπαρραττομένου. [3] τοσαύτη λύττα τὸν δῆμον ἐν τῷ τότε καιρῷ κατεῖχε, καὶ μετ' οὐ πολὺ μεστή τῶν ἐκφυγόντων τὰς ἀνάγκας ἦν ἡ ἀγορά. ὁ μὲν οὖν Ἄππιος δείσας τὴν ἐφ' ἑαυτὸν ὀρμὴν τοῦ πλήθους, ἐπειδὴ τῶν κακῶν ἦν αἴτιος, καὶ δι' ἐκεῖνον ἐδόκει ταῦτα γεγονέναι, φεύγων ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς ὤχετο. ὁ δὲ Σερουίλιος ῥίψας τὴν περιπόρφυρον ἐσθῆτα καὶ προκυλιόμενος τῶν δημοτικῶν ἐκάστου μετὰ δακρύων, μόλις αὐτοὺς ἔπεισεν ἐκείνην μὲν τὴν ἡμέραν ἐπισχεῖν, εἰς δὲ τὴν ἐποῦσαν ἦκειν, ὥς τῆς βουλῆς ἐπιμέλειαν τινα περὶ αὐτῶν ποιησομένης. ταῦτ' εἰπὼν καὶ τὸν κήρυκα ἀνειπεῖν κελεύσας μηδὲν τῶν δανειστῶν ἐξεῖναι σῶμα πολιτικὸν πρὸς ἴδιον χρέος ἄγειν, ἕως ἂν ἡ βουλὴ περὶ αὐτῶν διαγνοῖη, τοὺς δὲ παρόντας ὅποι βούλονται ἀδεῶς ἀπέναι, διέλυσε τὸν θόρυβον.

τότε μὲν οὖν ὦχοντο ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς, τῇ [p. 302] δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ παρῆν οὐ μόνον ὁ κατὰ πόλιν ὄχλος, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἐκ τῶν συνεγγυς ἀγρῶν τὸ δημοτικὸν πλῆθος καὶ ἦν ἐξ ἑωθινοῦ πλήρης ἡ ἀγορά. τῆς δὲ βουλῆς συναχθείσης, ἵνα περὶ τούτων βουλευέσιν, ὅ τι χρὴ πράττειν, ὁ μὲν Ἄππιος δημοκόπον ἐκάλει τὸν συνάρχοντα καὶ τῆς ἀπονοίας τῶν ἀπόρων ἡγεμόνα, ὁ δὲ Σερουίλιος ἐκεῖνον αὐστηρὸν καὶ αὐθάδη καὶ τῶν παρόντων τῇ πόλει κακῶν αἴτιον· τέλος δ' οὐδὲν ἐγένετο τῶν λόγων. [2] ἐν δὲ τούτῳ Λατίνων ἱππεῖς κατὰ σπουδὴν ἐλαύνοντες τοὺς ἵππους παρῆσαν εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν ἐξεληλυθότας ἀγγέλλοντες τοὺς πολεμίους μεγάλῃ στρατιᾷ καὶ ὄντας ἐπὶ τοῖς ἑαυτῶν ὀρίοις ἤδη. καὶ οἱ μὲν ταῦτα, οἱ δὲ πατρίκιοι καὶ τὸ τῶν ἱππέων πλῆθος τῶν τ' ἄλλων, ὅσοι πλοῦτους ἢ δόξας προγονικὰς εἶχον, οἷα δὴ περὶ μεγάλων κινδυνεύοντες ὠπλίζοντο διὰ τάχους· [3] ὅσοι δ' ἦσαν αὐτῶν ἄποροι, μάλιστα δ' οἱ τοῖς δανείοις πιεζόμενοι, οὗθ' ὅπλων ἤπτοντο οὗτ' ἄλλως παρείχοντο τοῖς κοινοῖς πράγμασιν ἐπικουρίαν οὐδεμίαν, ἠδόμενοι δὲ καὶ κατ' εὐχὴν δεχόμενοι τὸν ἔξωθεν πόλεμον, ὥς τῶν παρόντων σφᾶς κακῶν ἐλευθερώσοντα, τοῖς δὲ δεομένοις ἀμύνειν ἐπιδεικνύντες τὰς ἀλύσεις καὶ τὰς πέδας, ἐπικερτομοῦντες ἡρώτων, εἰ τούτων φυλακῆς ἕνεκα τῶν ἀγαθῶν ἄξιον εἶη σφίσι πολεμεῖν· πολλοὶ δὲ καὶ λέγειν ἐτόλμων, ὥς ἄμεινον εἶη Οὐλοῦσκόις δουλεύειν μᾶλλον ἢ τὰς ὕβρεις τῶν πατρικίων ὑπομένειν· ἢ τε πόλις οἰμωγῆς καὶ [p. 303] θορύβου καὶ παντοίων γυναικείων ὀδυρμῶν ἐνεπίμπλατο.

ταῦθ' ὁρῶντες οἱ βουλευταὶ τὸν ἕτερον τῶν ὑπάτων Σερουίλιον, ὃς ἐν τῷ παρόντι πιθανώτερος εἶναι τοῖς πολλοῖς ἐδόκει, βοηθεῖν ἐδέοντο τῇ πατρίδι. ὁ δὲ συγκαλέσας τὸν δῆμον εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν τοῦ παρόντος καιροῦ τὴν ἀνάγκην ἐπεδείκνυν οὐκέτι προσδεχομένην πολιτικὰς φιλονεικίας καὶ ἡξίου νῦν μὲν ὁμοσε τοῖς πολεμίους χωρεῖν κοινῇ γνώμῃ χρησαμένους καὶ μὴ περιδεῖν ἀνάστατον τὴν πατρίδα γινομένην, ἐν ἣ θεοὶ πατρῷοι καὶ θῆκαι προγόνων ἐκάστοις ἦσαν, ἃ τιμιώτατά ἐστι πᾶσιν ἀνθρώποις· γονέων τε αἰδῶ λαβεῖν οὐχ ἱκανῶν ἐσομένων ἑαυτοῖς διὰ γῆρας ἀμύνειν, καὶ γυναικῶν ἔλεον ἃς αὐτίκα μάλα δεινὰς καὶ ἀφορήτους ὕβρεις ἀναγκασθησομένας ὑπομενεῖν, μάλιστα δὲ παίδων ἔτι νηπίων οὐκ ἐπὶ τοιαύταις ἐλπίσιν ἀνατραφέντων οἰκτεῖραι λώβας καὶ προπηλακισμοὺς ἀνηλεεῖς· [2] ὅταν δὲ τὸν παρόντα κίνδυνον ἅπαντες ὁμοίαις προθυμίαις χρῆσάμενοι παραλύσωνται, τότε δὴ σκοπεῖν, τίνα τρόπον ἴσην καὶ κοινὴν καὶ σωτήριον ἅπασι τὴν πολιτείαν καταστήσονται, μήτε τῶν πενήτων ἐπιβουλευόντων ταῖς τῶν πλουσίων οὐσίαις μήτ' [p. 304] ἐκείνων προπηλακίζόντων τοὺς ταῖς τύχαις ταπεινότερους· ἥκιστα γὰρ εἶναι ταῦτα πολιτικά· ἀλλὰ καὶ τοῖς ἀπόροις ἐπικουρία τις ἔσται πολιτική, καὶ τοῖς συμβάλλουσι τὰ χρέα βοήθεια μετρία τοῖς γοῦν ἀδικουμένοις, καὶ τὸ κράτιστον τῶν ἐν ἀνθρώποις ἀγαθῶν καὶ πάσας φυλάττον ἐν ὁμοιοῖα τὰς πόλεις, πίστις ἐπὶ συναλλαγαῖς, οὐχ ἅπασα καὶ διὰ παντὸς ἐκ μόνης ἀναιρεθῆσεται τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως. [3] ταῦτα καὶ ὅσα ἄλλα ἐν τοιοῦτῳ καιρῷ λεχθῆναι προσῆκε διεξελθὼν τελευτῶν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἰδίας εὐνοίας, ἣν ἔχων διετέλει πρὸς τὸν δῆμον, ἀπελογεῖτο, καὶ ἥξιον συνάρασθαι τῆς στρατείας αὐτῷ ταύτης, ἀνθ' ὧν πρόθυμος εἰς αὐτοὺς ἦν, τῆς μὲν κατὰ πόλιν ἐπιμελείας τῷ συνάρχοντι προσηκούσης, ἐαυτῷ δὲ τῆς ἡγεμονίας τῶν πολέμων ἀποδοδομένης· ταύτας γὰρ τὰς τύχας αὐτοῖς βραβεῦσαι τὸν κληῖρον. ὑπεσχῆσθαι δ' αὐτῷ ἔφη τὴν βουλὴν ἐμπεδώσειν, ὃ τι ἂν διομολογήσεται τῷ πλήθει, αὐτὸν δ' ἐκείνοις, πείσειν τοὺς δημότας μὴ προδώσειν τοῖς πολεμίοις τὴν πατρίδα.

ταῦτ' εἰπὼν ἐκέλευσε τὸν κήρυκα ἀνειπεῖν, ὅσοι ἂν Ῥωμαίων ἐπὶ τὸν κατ' αὐτῶν πόλεμον [p. 305] ἐκστρατεύσωσι, τὰς τοῦτων οἰκίας μηδένα ἐξεῖναι μήτε πωλεῖν μήτ' ἐνεχυράζειν μήτε γένος αὐτῶν ἀπάγειν πρὸς μηδὲν συμβόλαιον μήτε κωλύειν τὸν βουλόμενον τῆς στρατείας κοινωνεῖν. ὅσοι δ' ἂν ἀπολειφθῶσι τῆς στρατείας, τὰς κατὰ τούτων πράξεις ὑπάρχειν τοῖς δανεισταῖς, ἐφ' οἷς ἐκάστοις συνέβαλον. ὥς δὲ ταῦτ' ἤκουσαν οἱ πένητες, αὐτίκα συνέγνωσαν τε καὶ πολλῇ προθυμίᾳ πάντες εἰς τὸν πόλεμον ὥρμητο, οἱ μὲν ἐλπίσιν ὠφελειῶν ὑπαχθέντες, οἱ δὲ τοῦ στρατηλάτου χάριτι, οἱ δὲ πλεῖστοι τὸν Ἄππιον καὶ τοὺς ἐν τῇ πόλει κατὰ τῶν ὑπομεινάντων προπηλακισμοὺς φεύγοντες. [2] παραλαβὼν δ' ὁ Σερουίλιος τὸ στράτευμα σὺν πολλῇ σπουδῇ ἐλαύνει διαλιπὼν οὐδένα χρόνον, ἵνα συμμιξῇ τοῖς πολεμίοις, πρὶν εἰς Ῥωμαίων χώραν αὐτοὺς εἰσβαλεῖν· καὶ καταλαβὼν περὶ τὸ Πωμεντίνον χωρίον ἐστρατοπεδευκότας καὶ τὴν Λατίνων χώραν προνομεύοντας, ὅτι παρακαλοῦσιν αὐτοῖς οὐ συνήραντο τοῦ πολέμου, περὶ δεῖλην ὀψίαν παρὰ λόφον τινὰ ὥς εἴκοσι στάδια τῆς στρατοπεδείας αὐτῶν ἀφεστῶτα τίθεται τὸν χάρακα· καὶ αὐτοῖς νυκτὸς ἐπιτίθενται Οὐλοοῦσκοι ὀλίγους τε δόξαντες εἶναι καὶ ὥς ἐξ ὁδοῦ μακρᾶς κατακόπους προθυμίας τ' ἐνδεῶς ἔχοντας διὰ τοὺς ἐκ τῶν πενήτων περὶ τὰ χρέα νεωτερισμοὺς ἐν ἀκμῇ μάλιστα δοκοῦντας εἶναι. [3] ὁ δὲ Σερουίλιος ἔτι νυκτὸς ἀπὸ τοῦ χάρακος ἀγωνισάμενος, ἐπεὶ δὲ φῶς [p. 306] τε ἤδη ἐγένετο καὶ τοὺς πολεμίους ἔμαθεν ἀτάκτως προνομεύοντας, ἀνοῖξαι κελεύσας πυλίδας ἐκ τοῦ χάρακος ἀδήλως συχνάς, ἀφ' ἐνὸς παραγγέλματος ἐφῆκεν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς τὸ στράτευμα. ἑξαπιναίου δὲ τοῦ δεινοῦ καὶ παρὰ δόξαν τοῖς Οὐλοοῦσκοις προσπεσόντος ὀλίγοι μὲν τινες ὑποστάντες πρὸς τῷ χάρακι μαχόμενοι κατεκόπησαν: οἱ δ' ἄλλοι φεύγοντες προτροπάδην καὶ πολλοὺς τῶν σφετέρων ἀπολέσαντες τραυματῖαι τε οἱ πλείστοι καὶ τὰ ὅπλα ἀπολωλεκότες εἰς τὸν χάρακα 6 διεσώζοντο. [4] ἔπομένων δ' αὐτοῖς τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐκ ποδὸς καὶ περισχόντων τὸ στρατόπεδον, βραχύν τινα χρόνον ἀμυνάμενοι παρέδωκαν τὸν χάρακα πολλῶν ἀνδραπόδων τε καὶ βοσκημάτων καὶ ὅπλων καὶ τῆς εἰς τὸν πόλεμον παρασκευῆς γέμοντα. ἔάλω δὲ σώματα ἐλεύθερα συχνά, τὰ μὲν αὐτῶν Οὐολούσκων, τὰ δὲ τῶν αὐτοῖς συναγωνισαμένων ἐθνῶν, χρήματά τε καὶ ὅσα χρυσὸς καὶ ἄργυρος καὶ ἐσθῆς ὥσπερ ἂν πόλεως τῆς κρατίστης ἀλούσης πάνυ πολλὰ: τοῖς στρατιώταις ταῦτ' ἐφίεις ὁ Σερουίλιος ὥς ἕκαστος ὠφεληθεῖη καὶ μηδὲν εἰς τὸ δημόσιον ἀναφέρουσι διανείμασθαι κελεύσας καὶ τὸν χάρακα πυρὶ δούς, ἀναλαβὼν τὰς δυνάμεις ἦγεν ἐπὶ τὴν ἀγχοτάτω Σουέσσαν Πωμεντιανήν. [p. 307] μεγέθει τε γὰρ περιβόλου καὶ πληθεσιν οἰκητόρων, ἔτι δὲ δόξη καὶ πλούτῳ πολὺ τῶν ταύτῃ ὑπερέχειν ἐδόκει, καὶ ἦν ὥσπερ ἡγεμῶν τοῦ ἔθνους. [5] περιστρατοπεδεύσας δ' αὐτὴν καὶ οὐθ' ἡμέρας οὔτε νυκτὸς ἀνακαλῶν τὸν στρατόν, ἵνα μηδένα χρόνον οἱ πολέμιοι διαναπαύσαιντο μὴθ' ὕπνον αἰρούμενοι μήτε πολέμου παῦλαν δεχόμενοι, λιμῶ καὶ ἀμηχανίᾳ καὶ σπάνει συμμάχων παρατείνας εἶλεν αὐτοὺς ἐν οὐ πολλῶ χρόνῳ καὶ τοὺς ἐν ἡβῇ πάντας κατέσφαξεν. ἐπιτρέψας δὲ καὶ ὅσα ἦν ἐνταῦθα χρήματα τοῖς στρατιώταις φέρειν τε καὶ ἄγειν, ἐπὶ τὰς ἄλλας πόλεις ἀπῆγε τὴν δύναμιν οὐθενδὸς οὐκέτι τῶν Οὐολούσκων ἀμύνειν τι δυναμένον.

ὥς δὲ τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις τεταπεινωμένα ἦν τὰ τῶν Οὐολούσκων πράγματα, προαγαγὼν τοὺς ὁμήρους αὐτῶν εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν ὁ ἕτερος τῶν ὑπάτων Ἄππιος Κλαύδιος ἄνδρας τριακοσίους, ἵνα δι' εὐλαβείας ἔχοιεν οἱ προσθέμενοι σφίσι πίστεις ὁμηρεῖων μὴ παρασπονδεῖν, μάστιγι τε ἠκίστατο πάντων ὀρώντων καὶ τοὺς αὐχένας αὐτῶν ἐκέλευσεν ἀποκόψαι. [2] ἀφικομένου τε ἀπὸ τῆς στρατείας οὐ πολλαῖς ὕστερον ἡμέραις τοῦ συνυπάτου καὶ τὸν εἰωθότα διδοσθαι θρίαμβον ἀπὸ τῆς βουλῆς τοῖς ἀγῶνα λαμπρὸν ἀγωνισαμένοις στρατηγοῖς ἀξιοῦντος λαβεῖν, ἐμποδῶν ἐγένετο στασιαστὴν ἀποκαλῶν καὶ πολιτείας πονηρᾶς ἐραστὴν, μάλιστα δ' αὐτοῦ κατηγορῶν, ὅτι ἐκ τῶν τοῦ πολέμου λαφύρων [p. 308] οὐδεμίαν μοῖραν εἰς τὸ δημόσιον ἀνήνεγκεν, ἀλλ' οἷς αὐτὸς ἐβούλετο κατεχαρίσατο: καὶ ἔπεισε τὴν βουλήν μὴ δοῦναι τῷ ἀνδρὶ τὸν θρίαμβον. ὁ δὲ Σερουίλιος ὕβρισθαι δοκῶν ὑπὸ τοῦ συνεδρίου εἰς αὐθάδειαν οὐκ εἰωθυῖαν Ῥωμαίοις ἐτράπετο: καλέσας γὰρ εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸν δῆμον ἐν τῷ πρὸ τῆς πόλεως πεδίῳ καὶ διεξελθὼν τὰ πραχθέντα κατὰ τὸν πόλεμον καὶ τοῦ συνάρχοντος τὸν φθόνον καὶ τῆς βουλῆς τὸν προπηλακισμόν διηγησάμενος, ἔφη παρὰ τῶν ἑαυτοῦ πράξεων καὶ τοῦ συναγωνισαμένου στρατεύματος ἔχειν τὴν τοῦ πομπεῦειν ἐπὶ καλοῖς τε καὶ εὐτυχέσιν ἔργοις ἐξουσίαν. [3] ταῦτ' εἰπὼν στεφανῶσαι τὰς ῥάβδους ἐκέλευσε καὶ αὐτὸς στεφανωσάμενος ἔχων τὴν θριαμβικὴν ἐσθῆτα προῆγεν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου παντὸς προπεμπόμενος, ἕως εἰς τὸ Καπιτώλιον ἀνέβη καὶ τὰς εὐχὰς ἀπέδωκε καὶ τὰ σκύλα ἀνέθηκεν. ἐκ δὲ τούτου φθόνον μὲν ἔτι μείζονα παρὰ τῶν πατρικίων ἐπεσπάσατο, οἰκεῖον δ' ἑαυτῷ παρεσκευάσατο τὸ δημοτικόν.

ἐν τοιαύταις δ' ἀκαταστασίαις τῆς πόλεως οὕσης ἔκχειρία τις ἐν τῷ διὰ μέσου γενομένη θυσιῶν πατρίων ἔνεκα καὶ πανηγύρεις ἐπιλαβοῦσαι λαμπραὶ ταῖς δαπάναις ἐπέσχον τὴν ἐν τῷ παρόντι τοῦ πλήθους διχοστασίαν. ἑορτάζουσι δ' αὐτοῖς ἐπιτίθενται πολλῇ δυνάμει Σαβῖνοι τοῦτον ἐκ πολλοῦ φυλάξαντες τὸν χρόνον, ἀρχομένης ἔτι νυκτὸς ποιησάμενοι τὴν [p. 309] ἐπιθεσιν, ἵνα πρὶν αἰσθῆσθαι τοὺς ἔνδον ἐπὶ τῇ πόλει γένωνται: καὶ ῥᾶστα ἂν ἐκράτησαν αὐτῶν, εἰ μὴ τῶν ψιλῶν τινες ἀποσχισθέντες τῆς φάλαγγος, αὐλαῖς ἐπιβάλλοντες ἀρπαγῆς ἔνεκα θόρυβον εἰργάσαντο. [2] βοή τε γὰρ εὐθὺς ἐγένετο καὶ δρόμος τῶν γεωργῶν εἰς τὸ τεῖχος, πρὶν ἢ ταῖς πύλαις τοὺς πολεμίους προσελθεῖν. ὥς δ' ἔγνωσαν αὐτῶν τὴν ἔφοδον οἱ κατὰ πόλιν θεωροῦντες μεταξύ καὶ τοὺς στεφάνους ἐπικείμενοι καταλιπόντες τοὺς ἀγῶνας ἐπὶ τὰ ὄπλα ὥρμησαν: καὶ φθάνει τῷ Σερουιλίῳ συναχθεῖσα δύναμις αὐτοκέλευστος ἱκανή, ἣν ἐκεῖνος ἔχων συντεταγμένην, προσπίπτει τοῖς πολεμίῳις ὑπὸ τε ἀγρυπνίας καὶ κόπου τεταλαιπωρηκόσι καὶ οὐ προσδεχομένοις τὴν τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἔφοδον. [3] ὥς δὲ συνέμιξαν εἰς χεῖρας, ἐγένετο μάχη τὸ μὲν ἐν τάξει καὶ κόσμῳ διὰ τὴν σπουδὴν ἐκατέρων ἀφηρημένη, οἱ δ' ὥς ἀπὸ τύχης τινὸς ἢ φάλαγξ φάλαγγι ἢ λόχος λόχῳ ἢ ἀνὴρ ἀνδρὶ συνέπεσον, ἱππεῖς τε καὶ πεζοὶ ἅμα πεφυρμένοι ἐμάχοντο. ἄρωγοὶ δ' αὐτοῖς ἐκατέρωθεν ἐπήεσαν οὐ διὰ μακροῦ τῶν πόλεων οὐσῶν, οἱ τὸ κάμνον ἀναθαρρύνοντες ἐπὶ πολὺν χρόνον ἀντέχειν ταῖς ταλαιπωρίαις ἐποιοῦν. ἔπειτα οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι προσγενομένης σφίσι τῆς ἵππου πάλιν νικῶσι τοὺς Σαβίνους, [p. 310] καὶ πολλοὺς ἀποκτείναντες ἀνέστρεψαν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἄγοντες αἰχμαλώτους πάνυ συχνούς. τοὺς τε κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ὄντας Σαβίνων, οἱ κατὰ θέας πρόφασιν ἀφιγμένοι προκαταλήψεσθαι τοῖς ἐποῦσι τὰ ἐρύματα τῆς πόλεως ἔμελλον, ὥσπερ αὐτοῖς συνετέτακτο, ἀναζητοῦντες εἰς τὰ δεσμοτήρια κατετίθεντο. τὰς δὲ θυσίας, αἷς ὁ πόλεμος ἐμποδῶν ἐγένετο, διπλασίας τῶν προτέρων ψηφισάμενοι αὐθις ἐν εὐπαθείαις ἦσαν.

ἔτι δὲ πανηγυρίζουσιν αὐτοῖς πρεσβευταὶ παρῆσαν ἐξ ἔθνους Ἀρούγκων, οἱ τῆς Καμπανῶν χώρας τὰ κάλλιστα πεδία κατεῖχον. οὗτοι καταστάντες ἐπὶ τὴν βουλὴν ἤξιουν τὴν Οὐολούσκων τῶν καλουμένων Ἑχετρανῶν χώραν, ἣν ἀφελόμενοι τοὺς Ἑχετρανοὺς Ῥωμαῖοι κληροῦχοις εἰς φυλακὴν τοῦ ἔθνους ἐκπεμφθεῖσι δένειμαν, ἀποδιδόναι σφίσι καὶ τὴν φρουρὰν ἀπαγαγεῖν ἐξ αὐτῆς: ἐὰν δὲ μὴ ποιήσωσιν, Ἀρούγκους ἤξοντας ἐπὶ τὴν Ῥωμαίων ὀλίγου χρόνου καὶ δίκας ληφόμενους ὅσων διέθεντο τοὺς ὁμόρους κακῶν ἐκδέχεσθαι. [2] Ῥωμαῖοι δ' αὐτοῖς τὰδε ἀπεκρίναντο: ἀπαγγέλλετε, ὦ πρέσβεις, Ἀρούγκοις, ὅτι ἡμεῖς οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι δικαιοῦμεν ὅσα κτᾶται τις ἀρετῇ πολεμίους ἀφελόμενος, ταῦτα τοῖς ἐγγόνις ὥς οἰκεῖα παραδιδόναι. πόλεμον δ' οὐ δέδιμεν τὸν Ἀρούγκων οὔτε πρῶτον οὔτε δεινότατον ἐσόμενον: ἀλλ' ἐν ἔθει ἡμῖν ὑπάρχει πᾶσι μάχεσθαι περὶ τῆς ἡγεμονίας, καὶ ἀρετῆς συναγώνισμά [p. 311] τι ἐσόμενον ὁρῶντες αὐτὸν ἀκαταπλήκτως δεξόμεθα. [3] μετὰ ταῦτ' Ἀρούγκοι τε πολλῇ στρατιᾷ ὀρμηθέντες ἐκ τῆς ἑαυτῶν, καὶ Ῥωμαῖοι τὰς οἰκείας δυνάμεις ἔχοντες ἡγουμένου Σερουιλίου, συντυγχάνουσιν ἀλλήλοις ἀγχοῦ πόλεως Ἀρικείας, ἣ διέχει σταδίους ἑκατὸν εἴκοσι τῆς Ῥώμης: καὶ στρατοπεδεύονται ἑκάτεροι ἐν ὄρεσιν ὀχυροῖς ὀλίγον

ἐν τούτῳ λέγεται τῷ πολέμῳ τοὺς ἵππεῖς τῶν Ῥωμαίων κρατίστους γενέσθαι, καὶ τὸν ἡγεμόνα αὐτῶν Αὐλὸν Ποστόμιον Ἄλβον, ὃς ἔσχε τὴν δικτάτορα ἀρχὴν ἐν τῷ πρόσθεν ἐνιαυτῷ. τὸ μὲν γὰρ χωρίον, ἐν ᾧ ἡ μάχη ἐγένετο, ἦκισθ' ἱππασίμον ἦν καὶ κολωνοὺς τε πετρῶδεις καὶ φάραγγας βαθείας εἶχεν, ὥστε μὴδὲν ἐκατέροις τὴν ἵππον οἶαν τ' εἶναι προσωφελεῖν. [2] ὁ δὲ Ποστόμιος παρακελευσάμενος τοῖς ἀμφ' αὐτὸν ἀπὸ τῶν ἵππων καταβῆναι καὶ ποιήσας στίφος ἀνδρῶν ἑξακοσίων, ἐν οἷς μάλιστα ἔκαμνε τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις κατὰ πρανοῦς ὠθουμένοις χωρίου ἢ φάλαγξ, [p. 312] ἐν τούτοις συνάπτει τοῖς πολεμίοις, καὶ αὐτίκα συνίστησιν αὐτῶν τὰς τάξεις. ὡς δ' ἅπαξ ἀνεκόπησαν οἱ βάρβαροι, θάρσος ἐνέπεσε τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις, καὶ φιλονεικία τοῖς πεζοῖς πρὸς τοὺς ἵππεῖς: καὶ καθ' ἐν ἀμφοτέροις πυργηδὸν ἐξωθοῦσι τὸ δεξιὸν κέρας τῶν πολεμίων ἕως τοῦ λόφου: καὶ οἱ μὲν τοῖς περὶ τὸν χάρακα φεύγουσιν ἐπόμενοι πολλοὺς ἀπέκτειναν, οἱ δὲ τοῖς ἔτι μαχομένοις κατὰ νώτου ἐπῆγον. [3] τρεψάμενοι δὲ κάκεινους εἰς φυγὴν ἐπίπονόν τε καὶ βραδεῖαν τὴν ἀποχώρησιν ποιουμένους πρὸς ὀχθῶδη χωρία ἐδίωκον, τένοντάς τε ὑποκόπτοντες ποδῶν καὶ τὰς ἰγνῦς πλαγίοις τοῖς ξίφεσι διαιροῦντες, ἕως ἐπὶ τὸν χάρακα αὐτῶν ἀφίκοντο. βιασάμενοι δὲ καὶ τούτου τοὺς φύλακας οὐ πολλοὺς ὄντας ἐκράτησαν τοῦ στρατοπέδου καὶ διήρπασαν: ὠφελείας μέντοι οὐ πολλὰς εὗρον, ὅτι μὴ ὄπλα καὶ ἵππους, καὶ εἴ τι ἄλλο πολεμιστήριον χρῆμα ἦν. ταῦτα οἱ περὶ Σερουίλιον καὶ Ἀππιὸν ὑπατοὶ ἔπραξαν.

μετὰ ταῦτα παραλαμβάνουσι τὴν ὑπατικὴν ἀρχὴν Αὐλὸς Οὐεργίνιος Καίλιμοντανδὸς καὶ Τίτος Οὐετούριος Γέμιος, ἄρχοντος Ἀθήνησι Θεμιστοκλέους, ἐξηκοστῷ καὶ διακοσιοστῷ μετὰ τὴν κτίσιν ἔτει, μελλούσης εἰς τοῦπιδὸν τῆς ἑβδομηκοστῆς καὶ δευτέρας Ὀλυμπιάδος, ἦν ἐνῖκα δεῦτερον Τισικράτης Κροτωνιάτης. [p. 313] ἐπὶ τούτων Σαβῖνοι πάλιν ἐπὶ Ῥωμαίους στρατιὰν ἐξάγειν μείζονα παρεσκευάζοντο, καὶ Μεδουλῖνοι Ῥωμαίων ἀποστάντες πρὸς τὸ Σαβίνων ἔθνος ὄρκους ἐποίησαντο περὶ συμμαχίας. [2] πυνθανόμενοι δὲ τὴν διάνοιαν αὐτῶν οἱ πατρίκιοι παρεσκευάζοντο διὰ ταχέων ἐξιέναι πανστρατιᾷ: τὸ δὲ δημοτικὸν οὐχ ὑπήκουεν αὐτοῖς, ἀλλ' ἐμνησικάκου τῆς ψευσθείσης αὐτοῖς πολλάκις ὑποσχέσεως περὶ τῶν ἐπικουρίας δεομένων ἀπόρων, τάναντία ἐπαγόντων τῶν ἐπ' ἐκείνοις ψηφίζομένων. κατ' ὀλίγους δὲ συλλεγόμενοι ὄρκοις ἀλλήλους κατελάμβανον ὑπὲρ τοῦ μηκέτι συνάρασθαι τοῖς πατρίκίοις πολέμου μηδενὸς καθ' ἓνα τῶν ἀπόρων κατισχυόμενοι κοινῇ καὶ πρὸς τοὺς ἐντυγχάνοντας βοηθήσαντες. καὶ ἐγίνετο πολλαχῇ μὲν καὶ ἄλλῃ τὸ συνώμοτον ἐν ἀψιμαχίαις λόγων τε καὶ ἔργων ἐμφανές, μάλιστα δ' ἐδήλωσε τοῖς ὑπάτοις, ἐπειδὴ οὐ προσήεσαν οἱ καλούμενοι πρὸς τὴν στρατολογίαν. [3] συναρπάσαι γὰρ τινὰ τῶν ἐκ τοῦ δήμου κελευσάντων οἱ πένητες ἄθροοι [p. 314] συστραφέντες τὸν τε φερόμενον ἀφηροῦντο καὶ τοὺς ὑπηρέτας τῶν ὑπάτων οὐ μεθιεμένους αὐτοὶ παίοντες ἀπῆλυνον, καὶ οὔτε ἱππέων οὔτε πατρικίων, ὅσοι παρόντες τὰ γινόμενα κωλύειν ἤξιουν, ἀπείχοντο μὴ οὐ παίειν: καὶ δι' ὀλίγου πᾶσα ἡ πόλις ἦν ἀκοσμίας πλήρης καὶ θορύβου. ἅμα δὲ τῇ στάσει τῇ κατὰ τὴν πόλιν αὐξομένη καὶ τὰ τῶν πολέμιων πρὸς καταδρομὴν παρασκευαζόμενα μείζω τὴν ἐπίδοσιν ἐλάμβανεν. Οὐολούσκων δὲ πάλιν ἀπόστασιν βουλευσαμένων καὶ τῶν καλουμένων Αἰκανῶν πρεσβεία τε ἀπὸ πάντων τῶν Ῥωμαίοις ὑπηκόων παρῆν ἀξιούντων σφίσι συμμαχεῖν ἐν τρίβῳ τοῦ πολέμου κειμένοις. [4] Λατῖνοι μὲν γὰρ ἔφασκον Αἰκανοὺς ἐμβαλόντας εἰς τὴν χώραν αὐτῶν λεηλατεῖν τοὺς ἀγροὺς αὐτῶν, καὶ πόλεις τινὰς ἤδη διηρπακέναι: οἱ δ' ἐν Κρουστομερείᾳ φρουροὶ πλησίον εἶναι Σαβίνους ἀποφαίνοντες καὶ πολλῇ χρωμένους προθυμίᾳ τὸ φρούριον πολεμεῖν: ἄλλοι δὲ τι ἄλλο κακὸν ἀπαγγέλλοντες γεγονὸς ἢ γενησόμενον καὶ βοήθειαν διὰ ταχέων αἰτησόμενοι. παρεγένοντο δ' ἐπὶ τὸ συνέδριον καὶ παρ' Οὐολούσκων πρέσβεις, ἀξιοῦντες ἀπολαβεῖν ἦν ἀφηρέθησαν ὑπ' αὐτῶν χώραν, πρὶν ἄρξασθαι πολέμου.

συναχθείσης δὲ περὶ τούτου βουλῆς, κληθεὶς [p. 315] πρῶτος ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων Τίτος Λάρκιος, ἀξιώσει τε προὔχειν δοκῶν καὶ φρονῆσαι τὰ δέοντα ἰκανώτατος, προελθὼν ἔλεξεν: ἐμοί, ὦ βουλή, ἃ μὲν οἱ ἄλλοι δοκοῦσιν εἶναι φοβερά καὶ ταχείας δεόμενα βοηθείας, οὔτε φοβερά εἶναι δοκεῖ οὔτε πάνυ κατεπείγοντα, πῶς χρή τοῖς συμμαχοῖς ἐπικουρῆσαι ἢ καθ' ὃν τινα τρόπον τοὺς πολέμιους ἀμύνασθαι: ἃ δ' οὔτε μέγιστα τῶν κακῶν νομίζουσιν οὔτε ἀναγκαῖα ἐν τῷ παρόντι, ἀμελεία τε αὐτὰ ὡς οὐδὲν ἡμᾶς βλάφοντα παραδόντες ἔχουσι, ταῦτα φοβερώτατά μοι φαίνεται, καὶ εἰ μὴ ταχέως αὐτὰ ἐπιστήσομεν, ἐσχάτης ἀνατροπῆς καὶ συγχύσεως τῶν κοινῶν αἵτια, ἣ τε τῶν δημοτῶν ἀπειθεια τῶν οὐκ ἀξιούντων τὰ ἐπιταττόμενα ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων πράττειν, καὶ ἡμῶν αὐτῶν ἢ πρὸς τὸ ἀνήκοον αὐτῶν καὶ τὸ ἐλευθεριάζον χαλεπότης. [2] οἴμαι δὲ μηδὲν ἡμᾶς δεῖν ἐν τῷ παρόντι σκοπεῖν, εἰ μὴ ὅπως ἐξαيرهθήσεται ταῦτ' ἐκ τῆς πόλεως, καὶ μῖα πάντες γνῶμη τὰ κοινὰ πρὸ τῶν ἰδίων αἰρούμενοι πολιτευσόμεθα. ὁμονοοῦσα μὲν γὰρ ἡ τῆς πόλεως δύναμις ἰκανὴ ἔσται καὶ φίλοις ἀσφάλειαν παρασχεῖν καὶ ἐχθροῖς δέος, στασιάζουσα δ' ὥσπερ νῦν τούτων οὐδέτερον ἂν δύναιτο διαπράξασθαι. θαυμάσαιμι δ' ἂν, εἰ μὴ καὶ ἑαυτὴν διεργάσαιτο [p. 316] καὶ παράσχοι τοῖς ἐχθροῖς δίχα πόνου τὸ κράτος: ὃ, μὰ τὸν Δία καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους θεοὺς, οὐκ εἰς μακρὰν οἶομαι τοιαῦτα πολιτευομένων ὑμῶν γενήσεσθαι.

διωκόμεθα γὰρ ὡς ὁρᾶτε καὶ δύο πόλεις ἔχομεν, τὴν μὲν μίαν ὑπὸ πενίας τε καὶ ἀνάγκης ἀρχομένην, τὴν δ' ὑπὸ κόρου καὶ ὕβρεως, αἰδῶς δὲ καὶ κόσμος καὶ δίκη, ὑφ' ὧν ἅπανα πολιτικὴ κοινωνία σώζεται, παρ' οὐδετέρᾳ μένει τῶν πόλεων. τοιγάρτοι χειρὶ τὸ δίκαιον ἤδη παρ' ἀλλήλων λαμβάνομεν κἂν τῷ βιαιοτέρῳ τίθεμεν τὸ δικαιοτάτον, ὥσπερ τὰ θηρία, τὸ ἀντίπαλον ἐξολέσαι μετὰ τοῦ σφετέρου κακοῦ βουλευθέντες, ἢ τὸ ἑαυτοῖς ἀσφαλὲς φυλάττοντες μετὰ τοῦ [2] διαφόρου κοινῇ σεσῶσθαι. ὧν ἐγὼ ὑμᾶς ἀξιώ πολλὴν πρόνοιαν ποιήσασθαι βουλὴν ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν τούτων καθίσαντες, ἐπειδὴν ἀπολύσῃτε τὰς πρεσβείας. ἃ δὲ ταῖς πρεσβείαις ἀποκρίνασθαι ἐν τῷ παρόντι παραινείν ἔχω, ταῦτ' ἔστιν: ἐπεὶδὴ Οὐλοοῦσκοι μὲν ἀπαιτοῦσιν ἡμᾶς ἃ ὄπλοις κρατήσαντες ἔχομεν καὶ πόλεμον ἀπειλοῦσι μὴ πειθόμενοις, τάδε λέγωμεν, ὅτι Ῥωμαῖοι καλλίστας ὑπολαμβάνομεν κτήσεις εἶναι καὶ δικαιοτάτας, ἃς ἂν κατὰσχωμεν πολέμου λαβόντες κατὰ νόμον, καὶ οὐκ ἂν ὑπομείναιμεν μωρία τὴν ἀρετὴν ἀφανίσαι: παραδόντες [p. 317] δὲ ταῦτα τοῖς ἀπολωλεκόσιν ὧν κοινωνητέον τε παισὶ καὶ τοῖς ἐκ τούτων γενομένοις καταλιπεῖν αἰεὶ ἀγωνιούμεθα, τῶν νῦν γε ὑπαρχόντων ἤδη στερησόμεθα καὶ ἑαυτοὺς ὅσα πολεμίους βλάψομεν. [3] Λατίνων δὲ τὸ εὖνουν ἐπαινέσαντες ἀναθαρσύνωμεν τὸ δεδιὸς ὡς οὐκ ἐγκαταλείψομεν αὐτούς, ἕως ἂν τὸ πιστὸν φυλάσσωσιν, ἐν οὐδενὶ δεινῷ γενομένους δι' ἡμᾶς, ἀλλὰ δύναμιν ἱκανὴν ἀμύνειν αὐτοῖς πέμψομεν οὐ διὰ μακροῦ. ταύτας ἡγοῦμαι κρατίστας τε καὶ δικαιοτάτας ἔσεσθαι τὰς ἀποκρίσεις. ἀπαλλαγισῶν δὲ τῶν πρεσβειῶν πρώτην φημὶ χρῆναι βουλὴν τοῖς κατὰ τὴν πόλιν θορυβοῖς ἡμᾶς ἀποδοῦναι καὶ ταύτην οὐκ εἰς μακράν, ἀλλὰ τῇ ἐπιούσῃ ἡμέρᾳ.

ταύτην ἀποφηνάμενου τὴν γνώμην Λαρκίου καὶ πάντων ἐπαινεσάντων, τότε μὲν αἱ πρεσβεῖαι λαβοῦσαι τὰς εἰρημένας ἀποκρίσεις ἀπηλλάγησαν: τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ συναγαγόντες τὴν βουλὴν οἱ ὕπατοι περὶ τῆς ἐπανορθώσεως τῶν πολιτικῶν θορυβῶν προὔθεσαν σκοπεῖν. πρῶτος οὖν ἐρωτηθεὶς γνώμην Πόπλιος Οὐεργίνιος, ἀνὴρ δημοτικός, τὴν διὰ μέσου πορευόμενος [p. 318] ὁδὸν ἔλεξεν: ἐπεὶδὴ τὸ δημοτικὸν πλῆθος ἐν τῷ παρελθόντι ἐνιαυτῷ προθυμίαν πλείστην εἰς τοὺς ὑπὲρ τῆς πόλεως ἀγῶνας ἐπεδείξατο, Οὐλοοῦσκοις καὶ Ἀρούγκοις πολλῇ στρατιᾷ ἐπιούσιν ἀνταξάμενον μεθ' ἡμῶν, οἴομαι δεῖν τοὺς συναραμένους ἡμῖν τότε καὶ τῶνδε τῶν πολέμων μετασχόντας ἀφεῖσθαι καὶ μηδενὸς αὐτῶν μήτε τὸ σῶμα μήτε τὴν οὐσίαν ὑπὸ τῶν δανειστῶν κρατεῖσθαι: τὸ δ' αὐτὸ δίκαιον εἶναι καὶ γονεῦσι τοῖς τούτων ἄχρι καὶ πάππων, καὶ παισὶν ἕως ἐγγόνων: τοὺς δ' ἄλλους ἀγωγίμους εἶναι τοῖς δεδανεικόσιν, ὡς ἐκάστοις συνέβαλον. [2] μετὰ δὲ ταῦτα Τίτος Λάρκιος εἶπεν: ἐμοὶ δ', ὦ βουλὴ, δοκεῖ κράτιστον μὴ μόνον τοὺς ἐν τοῖς πολέμοις ἀγαθοὺς γενομένους, ἀλλὰ καὶ τὸν ἄλλον ἅπαντα δῆμον ἐλεύθερον τῶν συμβολαίων ἀφεῖσθαι. μόνως γάρ ἂν οὕτως ὅλην τὴν πόλιν ὁμονοοῦσαν ἐργασαίμεθα. τρίτος δὲ παρελθὼν Ἄππιος Κλαύδιος ὁ τὴν ὕπατον ἀρχὴν τῷ παρελθόντι ἔτει σχῶν ἔλεξεν:

αἰεὶ μὲν, ὦ βουλὴ, ὁσάκις ὑπὲρ τούτων προὔτεθι λόγος, ἐπὶ τῆς αὐτῆς εἰμὶ γνώμης, μὴ ἐπιτρέπειν τῷ δήμῳ μηδὲν τῶν ἀξιουμένων, ὃ τι μὴ νόμιμον μηδὲ καλόν, μήτε τὸ φρόνημα τῆς πόλεως ἐλαττοῦν, καὶ οὐδὲ νῦν μεταγινώσκω τῶν ἐξ ἀρχῆς μοι φανέντων οὐδέν: ἢ πάντων ἂν εἶην ἀνθρώπων ἀφρονέστατος, εἰ πέρυσι μὲν ὕπατος ὧν ἀντιπράττοντός μοι τοῦ συνυπάτου καὶ τὸν δῆμον ἐπείσειοντος ἀντέσχον [p. 319] καὶ διέμεινα ἐπὶ τῶν ἐγνωσμένων οὔτε φόβῳ ἀποτραπείς οὔτε δεήσει οὔτε χάρισιν εἷξας, νῦν δ' ἰδιώτης ὧν ῥίψαιμι ἑμαυτὸν καὶ τὴν παρρησίαν καταπροδοίην: [2] εἴτε μου τὸ ἐλεύθερον τῆς ψυχῆς ὑμῶν ἕκαστος βούλεται ἀποκαλεῖν εὐγενὲς εἴτε αὐθαδὲς, ὅσον ἂν ζῶ χρόνον οὐκ ἀποστήσομαι τοῦ ἤδη καλῶς δεδογμένου, καὶ οὐδέποτε εἰσάξω χαριζόμενος τοῖς κακοῖς χρεῶν ἀποκοπὰς, ἀλλὰ καὶ πρὸς τοὺς εἰσάγοντας αὐτὰς ἀπάσῃ προθυμίᾳ χρώμενος ὁμόσε

ταῦτ' εἰπόντος Ἀππίου καὶ τῶν νέων ἐπιθορυβησάντων ὡς τὰ δέοντα εἰσηγουμένου, Σερουιλίος [p. 320] τ' ἀντιλέξων ἀνέστη καὶ ἄλλοι τινὲς τῶν πρεσβυτέρων: ἡτῶντο δ' ὑπὸ τῶν νεωτέρων ἐκ παρασκευῆς τ' ἀφικνουμένων καὶ βίᾳ πολλῇ χρωμένων, [2] καὶ πέρας ἐνίκησεν ἡ Ἀππίου γνῶμη. καὶ μετὰ ταῦτα οἱ ὕπατοι κοινῇ γνῶμῃ χρησάμενοι τῶν πλείστων οἰομένων τὸν Ἀππίον ἀποδειχθήσεσθαι δικτάτορα, ὡς μόνον ἐπικρατῆσαι τῆς προστασίας δυνησόμενον, ἐκείνον μὲν ἀπήλασαν, Μάνιον δ' Οὐαλέριον ἀδελφὸν Ποπλίου Οὐαλερίου τοῦ πρώτου ὑπατεύσαντος καὶ δημοτικώτατον δοκοῦντα ἔσεσθαι καὶ ἄνδρα γηραιὸν ἀπέδειξαν, αὐτὸ τὸ φοβερὸν οἰόμενοι τῆς ἐξουσίας ἀποχρῆναι, ἄνδρός δὲ τὰ πάντα ἐπιεικοῦς τοῖς πράγμασι δεῖν, ἵνα μηδὲν ἐξεργάσῃται νεώτερον.

παραλαβὼν δὲ τὴν ἀρχὴν Οὐαλέριος καὶ προσελόμενος ὑπάρχην Κοίντον Σερουίλιον, ἀδελφὸν τοῦ συνυπατεύσαντος Ἀππίῳ Σερουιλίου, παρήγγειλε τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν παρεῖναι. συνελθόντος δ' ὄχλου συχνοῦ τότε πρῶτον, ἐξ οὗ τὴν ἀρχὴν ὁ Σερουίλιος ἀπέθετο καὶ ὁ δῆμος ἀγόμενος ἐπὶ τὰς στρατείας εἰς φανεράν ἀπόνοιαν ἐτράπετο, προσελθὼν ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα ἔλεξεν: ὦ πολῖται, εὖ ἴσμεν, ὅτι βουλομένοις ὑμῶν, ἐστὶν αἰεὶ πινὰς ἐκ τοῦ Οὐαλερίων γένους ἄρχειν ὑμῶν, ὑφ' ὧν ἐλεύθεροι τυραννίδος χαλεπῆς γεγόνατε καὶ οὐδενὸς τῶν μετρίων ἀτυχῆσιν τάχ' ἂν ἐπιμείναιτε [p. 321] ὑμᾶς αὐτοὺς ἐπιτρέψαντες τοῖς ἀπάντων δημοτικωτάτοις δοκοῦσι καὶ οὕσιν. [2] ὥστ' οὐ διδαχῆς ὑμῖν δεομένοις ὅτι βεβαιώσομεν τῷ δήμῳ τὸ ἐλεύθερον, οἷπερ καὶ ἐξ ἀρχῆς αὐτὸ ἐδώκαμεν, οἱ λόγοι ἔσονται, ἀλλὰ παρακλήσεως μετρίας, ἵνα πιστεύητε ἡμῖν, ὃ τι ἂν ὑποσχώμεθα, ἐμπεδώσειν. ἡλικίας γάρ, ἢ τὸ φενακίζειν ἥκιστα ἐπιδέχεται, ἐπὶ τὸ τέλειον ἦκομεν, καὶ ἀξιώσεως, ἢ τοῦ ῥαδιουργεῖν ἐλάχιστον φέρεται μέρος, ἀρκούντως ἔχομεν, χρόνον τε οὐχ ἐτέρωθι πού τὸν λειπόμενον βιοτεύειν μέλλομεν, ἀλλ' ἐν ὑμῖν δίκας, ὧν ἂν ἐξαπατῆσαι δοκῶμεν, ὑφέξοντες. [3] ταῦτα μὲν οὖν, ὥσπερ ἔφην, ὡς οὐ μακρῶν δεόμενος λόγων πρὸς εἰδότας, ἔασω. ὁ δὲ μοι δοκεῖτε παθόντες ὑφ' ἐτέρων εἰκότως ἐπὶ πάντων ὑποπτεῦειν, ὁρῶντες αἰεὶ τινα τῶν παρακαλούντων ὑμᾶς ἐπὶ τοὺς πολέμους ὑπάτων ὑποσχοόμενον, ὧν ἂν δέησθε, παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς διαπράξεσθαι, μηδὲν δ' ἐπὶ τέλος ἄγοντα τῶν ὁμολογηθέντων: τοῦτο ὡς οὐ δικαίως ἂν ὑποπτεύοιτε καὶ περὶ ἐμοῦ, δυσὶν ἂν τοῖσδε μάλιστα πιστωσαίμην, τῷ τε μὴ ἂν ἐμοὶ τὴν βουλὴν εἰς τοῦτο τὸ λειτούργημα, ἐτέρων ὄντων τῶν ἐπιτηδειοτέρων, τῷ φιλοδημοτάτῳ

οὐ γὰρ δήπου συνεξαπατᾶν ὑμᾶς ἐπιστάμενον τὴν ἀπάτην καὶ βουλευσάμενόν με μετὰ ταύτης συγκακουργεῖν ὑπολαμβάνετε. εἰ γὰρ ταῦτα ὑμῖν εἰσέρχεται περὶ ἐμοῦ ὡς ἀπάντων ἀνθρώπων κακουργοτέρου, ... ὃ τι βούλεσθε χρώμενοι μοι ταύτης μὲν τῆς ὑποφίας ἐμοὶ πειθόμενοι τὰς ψυχὰς ἐλευθερώσατε, ἐπὶ δὲ τοὺς πολεμίους τὴν ὀργὴν μετὰθετε ἀπὸ τῶν φίλων, οἱ πόλιν τε ὑμᾶς ἀφελοῦμενοι ἤκουσι καὶ ἀντ' ἐλευθέρων δούλους ποιήσοντες καὶ τᾶλλα, ὅσα δεινὰ ἐν ἀνθρώποις νενόμισται, διαθεῖναι σπεύδοντες οὐ πόρρω τῆς χώρας εἶναι ἀγγέλλονται. [2] προθύμως οὖν ἀπολύσασθε τὰς διαβολὰς καὶ δείξατε αὐτοῖς, ὅτι καὶ στασιάζουσα ἡ Ῥωμαίων δύναμις κρείττων ἑτέρας ἐστὶν ὁμονοοῦσης: ἡ γὰρ οὐχ ὑπομενοῦσιν ὑμᾶς ἐπιόντας ὁμοθυμαδὸν ἢ δικας ὑφέξουσιν τῆς τόλμης ἀξίας: ἐνθυμήθητε γάρ, ὅτι Οὐολοῦσκοι καὶ Σαβῖνοι εἰσιν, ὧν πολλάκις ἐκρατήσατε μαχομένων, οἱ τὸν πόλεμον ἐπάγοντες ὑμῖν, οὔτε σώματα νῦν μεῖζονα λαβόντες οὔτε ψυχὰς τῶν προτέρων ἀλκιμωτέρας κτησάμενοι, ἀλλ' ὡς ἐχθρῶς πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἐχόντων [p. 323] καταφρονήσαντες ὑμῶν. ὅταν δὲ τοὺς πολεμίους τιμωρήσθε, ἐγγυῶμαι ὑμῖν τὴν βουλὴν ἐγὼ τὰς τε ὑπὲρ τῶν χρεῶν φιλονεικίας καὶ ὃ τι ἂν ἄλλο παρ' αὐτῆς αἰτήσθε μέτριον, ἀξίως τῆς ἀρετῆς, ἣν ἂν παράσχησθε ἐν τῷ πολέμῳ, βραβεύσειν. [3] τέως δ' ἀφείσθω πᾶσα μὲν οὐσία, πᾶν δὲ σῶμα, πᾶσα δ' ἐπιτιμία πολίτου Ῥωμαίου ἀρρυσίαστος ἀπὸ τε δανείου καὶ ἄλλου παντὸς συμβολαίου. τοῖς δὲ προθύμως ἀγωνισαμένοις κάλλιστος μὲν στέφανος πόλις ἦδε ἡ γειναμένη στᾶσα ὀρθή, καλὸς δὲ καὶ ὁ παρὰ τῶν συνόντων ἔπαινος ὑπάρξει: καὶ ὁ παρ' ἡμῶν κόσμος ἱκανὸς οἶκόν τ' ἐπανορθῶσαι χρήμασι καὶ γένος ἐπιλαμπρῦναι τιμαῖς. παράδειγμά τε ὑμῖν ἀξιῶ γενέσθαι τοῦμὸν εἰς τοὺς κινδύνους πρόθυμον: ὑπεραγωνιοῦμαι γὰρ ὡς ὁ κράτιστα ἐρρωμένος ὑμῶν.

ταῦτ' εἰπόντος αὐτοῦ πᾶς ὁ δῆμος ἄσμενος ἀκούσας ὡς οὐδὲν ἔτι φενაკισθόσιμος ὑπέσχετο συνάρασθαι τοῦ πολέμου, καὶ γίνεται δέκα στρατιωτικὰ τάγματα, ἐξ ἀνδρῶν τετρακισχιλίων ἕκαστον. τούτων τρία μὲν ἑκάτερος τῶν ὑπάτων ἔλαβε καὶ τῶν ἱππέων ὅσον ἑκάστῳ προσεμερίσθη: τὰ δὲ τέτταρα καὶ τοὺς λοιποὺς ἱππεῖς ὁ δικτάτωρ. καὶ αὐτίκα παρασκευασάμενοι ὥχοντο διὰ τάχους ἐπὶ μὲν Αἰκανοὺς Τίτος Οὐετούριος, ἐπὶ δ' Οὐολοῦσκους Αὐλὸς Οὐεργίνιος, [p. 324] αὐτὸς δ' ὁ δικτάτωρ Οὐαλέριος ἐπὶ Σαβίνους, τὴν δὲ πόλιν ἅμα τοῖς γεραιτέροις καὶ ὀλίγῳ τινὶ στρατεύματι ἀκμαίῳ Τίτος Λάρκιος ἐφύλαττεν. [2] ὁ μὲν οὖν Οὐολοῦσκων πόλεμος ταχέϊαν τὴν κρίσιν ἔλαβε: πλήθει γὰρ ὑπεραίρειν πολὺ νομίσαντες τῶν προτέρων κακῶν ἀναμνησθέντες, ἀγωνιστὰι ταχίους ἢ φρονιμώτεροι ἀναγκασθέντες γενέσθαι θᾶπτον πρῶτοι ὥρμησαν ἐπὶ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους, ἥνικα ὥφθησαν ἐν συνόφει στρατοπεδεύσαντες. γενομένης δὲ μάχης καρτερᾶς πολλὰ μὲν δράσαντες γενναῖα, πλείω δὲ τὰ δεινὰ ὑπομείναντες εἰς φυγὴν τρέπονται, καὶ ὃ τε χάραξ αὐτῶν ἐάλω καὶ πόλις ἐπιφανῆς ἐκ πολιορκίας παρέστη: Οὐέλιτρα δ' [3] ὄνομα αὐτῇ. ὁμοίως δὲ καὶ τὸ Σαβίνων φρόνημα ἐν ὀλίγῳ πάνυ ἑταπεινώθη χρόνῳ μιᾷ παρατάξει ἐξ ἀμφοτέρων βουλευθέντων ἐπικρατεῖν. ἔπειτα ἥ τε χώρα προύνομεύθη, καὶ πολίχιναι τινὲς ἐάλωσαν, ἐξ ὧν πολλὰ καὶ σώματα καὶ χρήματα οἱ στρατιῶται ἔλαβον. Αἰκανοὶ δὲ τὰ τῆς ἀσθενείας ἑαυτῶν ὑφορῶντες ἐπεὶ τὰ τῶν συμμάχων τέλος ἔχοντα ἐπύθοντο, χωρίοις τ' ἐχυροῖς ἐπεκάθηντο καὶ εἰς μάχας οὐ προήεσαν, τὰς τ' ἀποχωρήσεις, ὅπῃ ἐδύναντο, δι' ὁρῶν ἢ δρυμῶν κρυφαίας [p. 325] ἐποιοῦντο, καὶ διέτριψαν μὲν ἄχρι τινὸς διαφέροντες τὸν πόλεμον: οὐ μέντοιγε διασώσασθαι ἀθῶον τὴν στρατιάν ἐδυνήθησαν ἐπιθεμένων αὐτοῖς τῶν Ῥωμαίων ἐν χωρίοις κρημνῶδεσι τολμηρῶς καὶ λαβόντων τὸ στρατόπεδον κατὰ κράτος. ἔπειτα φυγὴ τ' αὐτῶν ἐκ τῆς Λατίνων γῆς ἐγένετο καὶ παραδόσεις τῶν πόλεων, ἃς ἔτυχον αὐτῶν τῇ πρώτῃ ἐφόδῳ καταλαβόμενοι, εἰσὶ δ' ὧν καὶ ἐκ φιλονεικίας οὐκ ἐκλιπόντων τὰς ἄκρας ἀλώσεις.

Οὐαλέριος δὲ κατὰ νοῦν χωρήσαντος αὐτῷ τοῦ πολέμου τὸν εἰωθότα θρίαμβον ἀπὸ τῆς νίκης καταγαγὼν ἀπέλυσε τὸν δῆμον ἀπὸ τῆς στρατείας, οὐπὼ τῆς βουλῆς καιρὸν εἶναι νομιζούσης, ἵνα μὴ τὰς ὑποσχέσεις ἀπαιτοῖεν οἱ ἄποροι: εἰς δὲ τὴν δορικτητον, ἣν Οὐλολούςκους ἀφείλοντο, κληροῦχους ἀπέστειλεν ἐπιλέξας ἄνδρας ἐκ τῶν ἀπόρων, οἱ τὴν τε πολεμίαν φρουρήσειν ἔμελλον καὶ τὸ ἐν τῇ πόλει στασιάζον ἔλαττον ἀπολείψειν. [2] ταῦτα διοικησάμενος ἡξίου τὴν βουλὴν τὰς ὑποσχέσεις αὐτῷ βεβαιῶσαι κεκομισμένην τὸ παρὰ τοῦ πλήθους πρόθυμον ἐν τοῖς ἀγῶσιν. ὥς δ' οὐ προσεῖχεν αὐτῷ τὸν νοῦν, ἀλλ', ὅπερ πρότερον ἦν αντιοῦτο, τῇ γνώμῃ συστρέψαντες ἑαυτοὺς νέοι καὶ βίαιοι καὶ πλήθει τῶν ἐτέρων ἐπικρατοῦντες καὶ τότε ἀντέπραπτον καὶ πολλῇ καταβοῇ ἐχρῶντο, τὴν οἰκίαν αὐτοῦ δημοκόλακα ἀποφαίνοντες καὶ νόμων [p. 326] πονηρῶν ἀρχηγόν, ᾧ δὲ μάλιστα ἠγάλλοντο οἱ ἄνδρες ἐπὶ τῆς ἐκκλησίας τῶν δικαστηρίων πολιτεύματι, τούτῳ πᾶσαν ἠφανικένας τὴν τῶν πατρικίων δυναστείαν αἰτιώμενοι: σχετλιάσας ὁ Οὐαλέριος πολλὰ καὶ ὥς οὐ δίκαια πάσχοι διαβεβλημένος ὑπ' αὐτῶν πρὸς τὸν δῆμον ὀνειδίσας, τὴν τε μέλλουσαν καταλήψεσθαι σφᾶς τύχην τοιαῦτα βουλευσαμένους ἀνακλαυσάμενος, καὶ οἷα εἰκὸς ἐν τοιούτῳ κακῷ, τὰ μὲν ἐκ πάθους, τὰ δὲ ἀπὸ τοῦ πλείον τι τῶν πολλῶν νοεῖν, ἀποθεσπίσας, ὥχετο ἀπίων ἐκ τοῦ βουλευτηρίου: καὶ συγκαλέσας τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν, ἔλεξε: [3] πολλὴν χάριν ὑμῖν εἰδῶς, ᾧ πολῖται, τῆς τε προθυμίας, ἣν παρέσχασθέ μοι ἐκούσιοι συναράμενοι τοῦ πολέμου, καὶ ἔτι μᾶλλον τῆς ἀρετῆς, ἣν ἐν τοῖς ἀγῶσιν ἐπεδειξασθε, μεγάλῃ μὲν ἐποιοῦμην σπουδῇ ἀμείψασθαι ὑμᾶς τοῖς τε ἄλλοις καὶ τῷ μὴ ψεύσασθαι τὰς ὑποσχέσεις, ἃς ὑπὲρ τῆς βουλῆς ἐποιοῦμην πρὸς ὑμᾶς, καὶ εἰς ὁμόνοιαν ἤδη ποτὲ καταστῆσαι τὴν στάσιν ὑμῶν σύμβουλος καὶ διαιτητὴς ἀμφοῖν γενόμενος: κωλύομαι δὲ πράττειν αὐτὰ διὰ τοὺς οὐ τὰ βέλτιστα τῷ κοινῷ, τὰ δὲ σφίσιν αὐτοῖς ἐν τῷ παρόντι κεχαρισμένα προαιρουμένους, οἳ πλήθει τ' ἐπικρατοῦντες τῶν ἐτέρων καὶ δυνάμει, ἣν τὸ νέον αὐτοῖς παρέχεται μᾶλλον ἢ τὰ πράγματα, ἔρρωνται. [4] ἐγὼ δὲ γέρων τε δῆ, ὥς ὁρᾶτε, καὶ ἐτέρους τοιοῦτους ἔχω συμμάχους, ὧν ἡ ἐν τῇ γνώμῃ οὔσα ἰσχὺς ἀδυνάτος [p. 327] ἐστὶν ἔργῳ ἐπεξελεθεῖν, καὶ περιέστηκεν ἡ εἰ μὲν οὖν ὁ δῆμος εὖ προπαθὼν ἐξέλιπε τὰς δι' ἐμοῦ τῇ βουλῇ γενομένας ὑποσχέσεις, ἐκεῖνά μοι ἀπολογητέα ἦν, ὅτι ἐφεύσασθε ὑμεῖς, ἐν ἐμοὶ δ' οὐδὲν κακούργημα ἦν: ἐπεὶ δὲ τὰ παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς ὁμολογηθέντα οὐ γέγονεν ὑμῖν ἐπιτελεῖ, πρὸς τὸν δῆμον ὁ λόγος ἤδη ἀναγκαῖος γίνεσθαι μοι, ὅτι οὐκ ἐμοὶ συνδοκοῦντα πεπόνθατε, ἀλλ' ὁμοίως πεφενაკισμεθα καὶ παραλελογίσμεθα ἀμφοτέροι, καὶ μᾶλλον ὑμῶν ἐγώ, ὅς γε οὐχ ἂ κοινῇ ἠπάτημαι μετὰ πάντων μόνον ἀδικοῦμαι, ἀλλὰ καὶ ὅσα ἰδία κακῶς ἀκήκοα, ὡς δὴ τὰ τε παρὰ τῶν πολεμίων ἀλόντα οὐ μετὰ κοινῆς γνώμης τοῦ συνεδρίου τοῖς ἀτόροις ὑμῶν βουλόμενος ἰδίαν ὠφέλειαν περιποιήσασθαι παρασχὼν καὶ τὰς τῶν πολιτῶν οὐσίας δημεύειν ἀξιῶν ἐκείνης γε κωλυούσης καὶ μὴ παρανομεῖν, στρατίας τ' ἐναντιουμένων τῶν βουλευτῶν ἀφεικῶς, δεόν ὑπὸ ταῖς ἀγραυλίαις καὶ πλάναις [p. 328] ^[2] ἐν τῇ πολέμῳ κατέχειν ὑμᾶς. ὠνείδισται δέ μοι καὶ ἡ τῶν κληρουχῶν εἰς Οὐολούσκους ἐκπομπή, ὅτι γῆν πολλὴν καὶ ἀγαθὴν οὐ τοῖς πατρικίοις οὐδὲ τοῖς ἱππεῦσιν ἐχαρισάμην, ἀλλὰ τοῖς ἀτόροις ὑμῶν διένειμα: καὶ ὁ μάλιστα μοι τὴν πλείστην ἀγανάκτησιν παρέσχεν, ὅτι πλείους ἢ τετρακόσιοι ἄνδρες ἐκ τοῦ δήμου τοῖς ἱππεῦσι προσκατελέγησαν ἐπὶ τῆς στρατολογίας βίωον εὐπορήσαντες. ^[3] εἰ μὲν οὖν ἀκμάζοντί μοι τὸ σῶμα ταῦτα προσέπεσε, δῆλον ἂν ἔργῳ ἐποίησα τοῖς ἐχθροῖς, οἷον ὄντα με ἄνδρα προὔπηλάκισαν: ἐπειδὴ δ' ὑπὲρ ἐβδομήκοντα ἔτη γέγονα καὶ οὐ δυνατὸς ἔτι ἀμύνειν ἑαυτῷ εἰμὶ ὁρῶ τε, ὅτι οὐκ ἂν ἔτι ὑπ' ἐμοῦ παύσαιτο ἡ στάσις ὑμῶν, ἀποτίθεμαι τὴν ἀρχὴν καὶ ἐπὶ τοῖς βουλομένοις τὸ σῶμα ἐμαυτοῦ ποιῶ, εἴ τι οἴονται ὑπ' ἐμοῦ ἐξηπατῆσθαι, χρήσασθαι μοι ὅτι ἂν δικαιῶσι.

ταῦτ' εἰπὼν τὸ μὲν δημοτικὸν ἅπαν εἰς συμπάθειαν ὑπηγάγετο, καὶ προὔπεμψαν αὐτὸν ἐκ τῆς ἀγορᾶς ἀπίνοντα: τὴν δὲ βουλὴν ἔτι χαλεπωτέραν αὐτῷ γενέσθαι παρεσκεύασεν. εὐθύς δὲ μετὰ τοῦτο τάδε ἐγίνετο: οἱ μὲν πένητες οὐκέτι κρύφα οὐδὲ νύκτωρ ὡς πρότερον, ἀλλ' ἀναφανδὸν ἤδη συνιόντες ἐβούλευον ἀπόστασιν ἐκ τῶν πατρικίων: ἡ δὲ βουλὴ κωλύειν διανοουμένη τοῖς ὑπάτοις ἐπέταξε μήπω λυεῖν τὰ στρατεύματα. τῶν γὰρ τριῶν ταγμάτων ἑκάτερος ἔτι κύριος ἦν τοῖς στρατιωτικοῖς ὄρκοις κατειργομένων καὶ οὐδεὶς ἀπολείπεσθαι τῶν σημείων ἤξιον: τοσοῦτον [p. 329] ἴσχυσεν ὁ τῶν ὄρκων ἐν ἐκάστῳ φόβος, πρόφασις δὲ κατεσκευάσθη τῆς στρατείας, ὡς Αἰκανῶν καὶ Σαβίνων συνεληλυθότων εἰς ἓν ἐπὶ τῷ κατὰ Ῥωμαίων πολέμῳ. ^[2] ὡς δὲ προῆλθον ἔξω τῆς πόλεως οἱ ὕπατοι τὰς δυνάμεις ἔχοντες καὶ τὰς παρεμβολὰς οὐ πρόσω ἀπ' ἀλλήλων ἔθεντο, συνελθόντες οἱ στρατιῶται εἰς ἓν ἅπαντες, ὅπλων τε καὶ σημείων ὄντες κύριοι, Σικιννίου πινὸς Βελλούτου παροξύναντος αὐτοὺς ἀφίστανται τῶν ὑπάτων ἀρπάσαντες τὰ σημεῖα: τιμῶτατα γὰρ Ῥωμαίοις ταῦτ' ἐπὶ στρατείας καὶ ὥσπερ ἰδρύματα θεῶν ἱερὰ νομίζονται: λοχαγούς τε ἑτέρους καὶ περὶ πάντων ἄρχοντα τὸν Σικιννιον ἀποδείξαντες, ὅρος τι καταλαμβάνονται πλησίον Ἀνίητος ποταμοῦ κείμενον, οὐ πρόσω τῆς Ῥώμης, ὃ νῦν ἐξ ἐκείνου Ἰερὸν ὄρος καλεῖται. ^[3] τῶν δ' ὑπάτων καὶ λοχαγῶν μετακαλοῦντων αὐτοῦς ἅμα δεήσει καὶ οἰμωγῇ καὶ πολλὰ ὑπισχνουμένων ἀπεκρίνατο ὁ Σικίνιος: τίνα γνώμην ἔχοντες, ὧ πατρίκιοι, οὕς ἀπηλάσατε ἐκ τῆς πατρίδος καὶ ἀντ' ἐλευθέρων δούλους ἐποιήσατε, νῦν μετακαλεῖτε; ποῖα δὲ πίστει τὰς ὑποσχέσεις ἡμῖν ἐμπεδώσετε, ἃς πολλάκις ἤδη ψευδάμενοι ἐλέγχεσθε; ἀλλ' ἐπειδὴ μόνοι τὴν πόλιν ἀξιοῦτε κατέχειν, ἅπιτε μὴδὲν ὑπὸ τῶν πενήτων καὶ ταπεινῶν ἐνοχλοῦμενοι: ἡμῖν δ' ἀρκέσει πᾶσα γῆ, ἐν ἣ ἂν τὸ ἐλεῦθερον ἔχωμεν, ὅποια ποτ' ἂν ἦ, νομίζεσθαι πατρίς. [p. 330] ὥς δ' ἠγγέλθη ταῦτα τοῖς ἐν τῇ πόλει, πολλὺς θόρυβος καὶ οἰμωγῇ ἦν καὶ διὰ τῶν στενωπῶν δρόμος, τοῦ μὲν δήμου καταλιπεῖν τὴν πόλιν παρασκευαζομένου, τῶν δὲ πατρικίων ἀποτρέπειν ἀξιούντων καὶ βίαν τοῖς μὴ βουλομένοις προσφέρειν: βοή τε περὶ τὰς πύλας καὶ πολλὺς ἀνακλαυθμὸς ἦν λόγοι τε κατ' ἀλλήλων ἐχθροὶ καὶ ἔργα πολεμίων ἐγίνοντο οὐκέτι διακρίνοντας οὐδενὸς οὔτε ἡλικίαν οὔτε ἑταιρίαν οὔτε ἀξίωσιν ἀρετῆς. ^[2] ἐπειδὴ δ' οἱ ταχθέντες ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς φρουρεῖν τὰς ἐξόδους: ἦσαν γὰρ δὴ ὀλίγοι καὶ οὐχ ἱκανοὶ ἐπὶ ἀντέχειν: ἐκβιασθέντες ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου κατέλιπον τὴν φυλακὴν, τότε ἤδη τὸ δημοτικὸν πολὺ ἐξεχείτο, καὶ τὸ πάθος ἦν ἀλώσει πόλεως ἐμφορές, οἰμωγῇ τε τῶν ὑπομενόντων καὶ κατὰμεμψις ἀλλήλων ἐγίνετο ἐρημιουμένην τὴν πόλιν ὀρώντων. μετὰ τοῦτο βουλαὶ τε συχναὶ καὶ κατηγορίαι τῶν αἰτίων τῆς ἀποστάσεως ἐγίνοντο. ἐν δὲ τῷ αὐτῷ καιρῷ καὶ τὰ πολέμια ἔθνη ἐπετίθεντο αὐτοῖς προνομεύοντα τὴν γῆν ἄχρι τῆς πόλεως. οἱ μέντοι ἀποστάται τὸν ἀναγκαῖον ἐπισιτισμὸν ἐκ τῶν πλησίων ἀγρῶν λαμβάνοντες, ἄλλο δ' οὐδὲν τὴν χώραν κακουργοῦντες, ἔμενον ὑπαίθριοι καὶ τοὺς προσιόντας ἐκ τῆς πόλεως καὶ τῶν περὶ φρουρίων ὑπελάμβανον συχνοὺς ἤδη γινομένους. ^[3] οὐ γὰρ μόνον οἱ τὰ χρέα καὶ τὰς καταδικὰς καὶ τὰς προσδοκωμένας ἀνάγκας διαφυγεῖν προαιρούμενοι συνέρρεον [p. 331] ὥς αὐτοὺς, ἀλλὰ καὶ τῶν ἄλλων, ὅσοις ὁ βίος ἦν ἀργὸς ἢ ράθυμος ἢ ταῖς ἐπιθυμίαις χορηγεῖν οὐχ ἱκανὸς ἢ πονηρῶν ἐπιτηδευμάτων ζηλωτὴς ἢ φθονερὸς ταῖς ἐτέρων εὐτυχίαις ἢ δι' ἄλλην τινὰ συμφορὰν ἢ αἰτίαν ἀλλοτρίως διακείμενος τῇ καθεστῶσῃ πολιτείᾳ.

τοῖς δὲ πατρικίοις ἐν μὲν τῷ παραυτίκα ταραχὴ ἐνέπεσε πολλή καὶ ἐκπληξίς, καὶ ὥς αὐτίκα δὴ μάλα τῶν ἀποστατῶν ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοεθnéσι πολεμίοις ἐπὶ τὴν πόλιν ἠξόντων δέος. ἔπειθ' ὥς ἐξ ἐνὸς παρακελεύσματος ἀρπάσαντες τὰ ὄπλα σὺν τοῖς οἰκείοις ἕκαστοι πελάταις, οἱ μὲν ἐπὶ τὰς ὁδοὺς ἃς ἤξειν ἐνόμιζον τοὺς πολεμίους παρεβοήθουν, οἱ δ' ἐπὶ τὰ φρούρια φυλακῆς ἔνεκα τῶν ἐρυμάτων ἐξήεσαν, οἱ δ' ἐν τοῖς προκειμένοις τῆς πόλεως πεδίοις ἐστρατοπεδεύοντο: ὅσοι δὲ διὰ γῆρας ἀδύνατοι τούτων τι δρᾶν ἦσαν ἐπὶ ^[2] τοῖς τείχεσιν ἐτάξαντο. ἐπεὶ δὲ τοὺς ἀποστάτας κατέμαθον οὔτε τοῖς πολεμίοις προστιθεμένους οὔτε τὴν χώραν δηοῦντας οὔτε ἄλλο βλάπτοντας οὐδὲν ὃ τι καὶ λόγου ἄξιον, τοῦ δέους ἐπαύσαντο: καὶ μεταθέμενοι τὰς γνώμας, ἐφ' οἷστε διαλλαγῇσονται πρὸς αὐτοὺς, ἐσκόπουν: καὶ ἐλέχθησαν ὑπὸ τῶν ἡγουμένων τοῦ συνεδρίου λόγοι παντοδαποὶ καὶ πλεῖστον ἀλλήλων διάφοροι, μετριώτατοι δὲ καὶ πρεπωδέστατοι ταῖς παρούσαις τύχαις, οὐς οἱ πρεσβύτατοι αὐτῶν ἔλεξαν διδάσκοντες, ὡς οὐδεμῶς κακίᾳ πεποιῆται τὴν ἀπόστασιν ἀπ' αὐτῶν ὁ δῆμος, ἀλλὰ τὰ μὲν ὑπὸ τῶν ἀναγκαιῶν συμφορῶν βιασθεῖς, τὰ δ' ὑπὸ τῶν συμβουλῶν ἐξηπατημένοις, [p. 332] ὀργῇ δὲ μᾶλλον ἢ λογισμῷ τὰ συμφέροντα κρίνων, οἷα ἐν ἀμαθείᾳ πλήθει γίνεσθαι φιλεῖ: ἔπειθ' ὅτι συνοίδασιν αὐτοῖς κακῶς βεβουλευμένοις οἱ πλείους καὶ ζητοῦσιν ἀναλύσασθαι τὰς ἀμαρτίας εὐσχήμονας ἀφορμὰς λαμβάνοντες: τὰ γοῦν ἔργα δρῶσιν ἤδη μετεγνωκότων, καὶ εἰ λάβοιεν ἐλπίδα χρηστὴν περὶ τοῦ μέλλοντος χρόνου, ψηφισαμένης αὐτοῖς ἄδειαν τῆς βουλῆς καὶ διαλλαγὰς ποιησαμένης εὐπρεπεῖς, ἀγαπητῶς τὰ σφέτερα δέξονται. οἰκείαν δύναμιν τῆς πόλεως καὶ τῇδε μάλιστα ὀρρωδοῦσι τὸν πόλεμον,

τῶν πολιτῶν ἀντίπαλον χεῖρα ἔξομεν, εἰ βουλοίμεθα τῶν θεραπόντων ἐπιλεξάμενοι τοὺς ἀκμασιτάτους ἐλευθερῶσαι. κρεῖττον γὰρ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν χαρίσασθαι τούτοις ἢ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ὑπ' ἐκείνων ἀφαιρεθῆναι. ἔχουσι δὲ τῶν πολεμικῶν ἐμπειρίαν ἱκανὴν πολλάκις ἡμῖν παραγενόμενοι κατὰ τὰς στρατείας. [3] πρὸς δὲ τοὺς ἔξωθεν πολεμίους αὐτοὶ τε χωρῶμεν ἀπάσῃ προθυμίᾳ καὶ τοὺς πελάτας ἅπαντας ἐπαγώμεθα καὶ τοῦ δημοτικοῦ τὸ περιόν. ἵνα δὲ πρόθυμον ᾖ πρὸς τοὺς ἀγῶνας, ἄφεισιν αὐτῷ χαρισώμεθα τῶν χρεῶν, μὴ κοινήν, ἀλλὰ κατ' ἄνδρα. εἰ γὰρ τι δεῖ τοῖς καιροῖς εἰζαντας μετριάσαι, μὴ πρὸς τοὺς πολεμίους τῶν πολιτῶν τοῦτ' ἔστω τὸ μέτριον, ἀλλὰ πρὸς τοὺς φίλους, οἷς οὐκ ἀναγκαζόμενοι τὰς χάριτας διδόναι δόξομεν, ἀλλὰ πειθόμενοι. ἐὰν δὲ καὶ ἄλλης ἐπιδέῃ βοηθείας, ὡς ταύτης οὐκ οὔσης ἱκανῆς, τοὺς τ' ἐκ τῶν φρουρίων μεταπεμπώμεθα, καὶ τοὺς ἐν ταῖς ἀποικίαις ἀνακαλῶμεν. [4] τοῦτο δ' ὅσον ἐστὶ πλῆθος ἐκ τῆς ἔγγιστα γενομένης τιμήσεως μαθεῖν ῥάδιον ἂν εἴη. τρισκαίδεκα μυριάδες εἰσὶ Ῥωμαίων τῶν ἐν ἡβῇ τετιμημένων, ὧν οὐκ ἂν εἴη μέρος ἕβδομον τὸ φυγαδικόν. οὐ λέγω δὲ τὰς Λατίνων τριάκοντα πόλεις, αἱ μετὰ πολλῆς εὐχῆς δέξαιντ' ἂν τοὺς ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν ἀγῶνας διὰ [p. 358] τὸ συγγενές, ἐὰν ψηφίσθησθε αὐταῖς ἰσοπολιτεῖαν μόνον, ἧς αἰεὶ διατελοῦσι δεόμεναι.

ὁ δὲ πάντων ἐστὶ κράτιστον ἐν τοῖς πολέμοις, καὶ οὔτε ὑμεῖς αὐτοὶ ἐνεθυμήθητέ πω, οὔτε τῶν συμβούλων οὐδεὶς λέγει, τοῦτο προσθεῖς παύσομαι. οὐδενὸς οὕτω δεῖ τοῖς μέλλουσιν εὐτυχές ἔξειν τὸ τῶν ἀγῶνων τέλος, ὡς στρατηγῶν ἀγαθῶν. τούτων ἢ μὲν ἡμετέρα πλουτεῖ πόλις, αἱ δὲ τῶν ἀντιπάλων σπανίζουσιν. [2] αἱ μὲν οὖν πολυοχλοῦσαι δυνάμεις, ὅταν λάβωσιν ἡγεμόνας οὐκ εἰδότας ἄρχειν, ἀσχημονοῦσι καὶ περὶ αὐταῖς σφάλλονται τὰ πλεῖστα, καὶ τοσοῦτω μᾶλλον κακοπαθοῦσιν, ὥσπερ ἂν μεῖζονα ἔχωσι πόνον. οἱ δ' ἀγαθοὶ στρατηλάται, κἂν μικρὰς λάβωσι δυνάμεις, ταχέως ποιοῦσιν αὐτὰς μεγάλας. ὥστ' ἄχρισ ἂν ἡγεῖσθαι δυναμένους ἄνδρας ἔχωμεν, οὐκ ἀπορήσομεν τῶν ἄρχεσθαι βουλομένων. [3] ἐνθυμούμενοι δὴ ταῦτα καὶ τῶν ἔργων τῆς πόλεως μεμνημένοι μηδὲν ταπεινὸν μηδ' ἀγεννές μηδ' ἀνάξιον ὑμῶν αὐτῶν ψηφίσθησθε. τί οὖν, εἴ τις ἔροιστό με, τι πράττειν ὑμῖν παραινῶ; τουτὶ γὰρ ἴσως πάλοι γνῶναι σπεύδετε. μηδένα μήτε πρεσβείαν πέμπειν πρὸς τοὺς ἀφεστηκότας, μήτε ἄφεισιν ψηφίσασθαι τῶν χρεῶν, μήτ' ἄλλο ποιεῖν μηδέν, ὃ τι δόξειεν ἂν φόβου τεκμήριον εἶναι καὶ ἀμχανίας: ἐὰν δὲ καταθέμενοι τὰ ὄπλα κατέλθωσιν [p. 359] εἰς τὴν πόλιν καὶ παράσχωσιν ὑμῖν βουλευσασθαι περὶ σφῶν αὐτῶν, καθ' ἡσυχίαν ἐξετάσαντας τότε χρῆσθαι μετριότητι πρὸς αὐτοὺς εἰδότας, ὅτι πᾶν τὸ ἀνόητον, ἄλλως τε κἂν ὄχλος ᾖ, πρὸς μὲν τοὺς ταπεινοὺς αὐθάδεις γίνεσθαι φιλεῖ, πρὸς δὲ τοὺς αὐθάδεις ταπεινοῦσθαι.

πανσαμένου δὲ τοῦ Κλαυδίου μεγάλη φωνὴ καὶ θόρυβος ἐξαίσιος ἄχρι πολλοῦ χρόνου κατεῖχε τὸ συνέδριον. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἀριστοκρατικοὶ δοκοῦντες εἶναι καὶ τὰ δικαιότερα πρὸ τῶν ἀδίκων οἰόμενοι δεῖν σκοπεῖν τῇ Κλαυδίου γνώμῃ προσετίθεντο καὶ τοὺς ὑπάτους ἡξίουσαν μάλιστα μὲν τῇ κρείττονι προσχωρῆσαι μερίδι διαλογιζομένους, ὅτι βασιλικὸν ἔχουσι τὸ τῆς ἀρχῆς κράτος, οὐ δημοτικόν: εἰ δὲ μή γε, φυλάττειν αὐτοὺς ἴσους καὶ μὴ

λαφῆσαντος δὲ τοῦ θορύβου καὶ σιωπῆς γενομένης σὺν χρόνῳ διαλεχθέντες τι πρὸς αὐτοὺς οἱ ὑπατοὶ τέλος ἐξήνεγκαν τῆς ἑαυτῶν γνώμης τοιόνδε: ἡμεῖς, ὦ βουλῇ, μάλιστα μὲν ἡξιοῦμεν ἅπαντας ὑμᾶς ὁμογνωμονεῖν, ἄλλως τε καὶ ταῦτα περὶ κοινῆς σωτηρίας βουλευομένους: εἰ δὲ μὴ, τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις ὑμῶν εἴκειν τοὺς νεωτέρους καὶ μὴ φιλονεικεῖν ἐνθυμουμένους, ὅτι κάκεινοις εἰς ταύτην ἐλθοῦσι τὴν ἡλικίαν τῆς Ἰσης ὑπάρξει τυγχάνειν τιμῆς παρὰ τῶν ἐγγόνων. ἐπεὶ δ' ὀρώμεν εἰς ἔριν ὑμᾶς ἐκπεπτωκότας ὀλεθριωτάτην τῶν ἀνθρωπίνων νόσων καὶ πολλὴν τὴν αὐθάδειαν ὁμιλοῦσαν ὑμῶν τοῖς νέοις, νῦν μὲν ἐπεὶ βραχὺ τὸ λειπόμενον ἐστὶ τῆς ἡμέρας καὶ οὐκ ἂν δύναιτο τέλος ἐν τούτῳ λαβεῖν τὰ δόξαντα ὑμῖν, ἀπὶ τ' ἐκ τοῦ συνεδρίου: εἰς δὲ τὸν ἐπὶ ὄντα σύλλογον ἤξετε μετριώτεροι γενόμενοι καὶ γνώμας ἔχοντες ἀμείνους. [2] εἰ δὲ παραμενεῖ τὸ φιλονεικόν ὑμῖν, νέοις μὲν οὔτε δικασταῖς οὔτε συμβούλοις ἔτι τῶν συμφερόντων χρησόμεθα, [p. 361] ἀλλὰ καὶ εἰς τὸ λοιπὸν ἀνείρξομεν αὐτῶν τὴν ἀκοσμίαν νόμῳ τάξαντες ἀριθμὸν ἐτῶν, ὃν δεήσει τοὺς βουλευσοντας ἔχειν: τοῖς δὲ πρεσβυτέροις ἀποδόντες λόγον αὐθις, ἐὰν μηδὲν συμφέρωνται ταῖς γνώμαις, ταχεῖα τὴν φιλονεικίαν αὐτῶν λύσομεν ὁδῷ, ἣν ἄμεινόν ἐστιν ὑμᾶς προακοῦσαι καὶ μαθεῖν. [3] ἴστε δήπου νόμον ἡμῖν ὑπάρχοντα, ἐξ οὗ τήνδε οἰκοῦμεν τὴν πόλιν, πάντων εἶναι κυρίαν τὴν βουλήν, πλὴν ἀρχὰς ἀποδειῖξαι καὶ νόμους ψηφίσαι καὶ πόλεμον ἐξενεγκεῖν ἢ τὸν συνεσιῶτα καταλύσασθαι: τούτων δὲ τῶν τριῶν τὸν δῆμον ἔχειν τὴν ἐξουσίαν ψῆφον ἐπιφέροντα. ἐν δὲ τῷ παρόντι οὐχ ὑπὲρ ἑτέρου τινὸς ἢ πολέμου καὶ εἰρήνης βουλευόμεθα, ὥστε πολλὴ ἀνάγκη τὸν δῆμον ἐπικυρῶσαι τὰς ἡμετέρας γνώμας ψήφου γενόμενον κύριον. [4] παραγγείλαντες δὴ τῷ πλήθει παρεῖναι κατὰ τόνδε τὸν νόμον εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν, ἐπειδὰν ὑμεῖς ἀποδείξησθε τὰς γνώμας, ἀποδώσομεν αὐτῷ τὴν ψῆφον, οὕτως ἂν μάλιστα νομίσαντες ἀρθῆναι τὴν ἔριν ὑμῶν: ὅ τι δ' ἂν οἱ πλείους ψηφίσωνται, τοῦθ' ἡγησόμεθα κύριον. ἄξιοι δὲ δήπου ταύτης εἰσὶ τῆς τιμῆς τυγχάνειν οἱ διαμένοντες εὖνοι τῇ πόλει καὶ μέλλοντες ἰσομοιρεῖν ἡμῖν κακῶν τε καὶ ἀγαθῶν.

τῆς βουλῆς ἀνίσταται Σπόριος Ναύτιος, οἰκίας ἐν τοῖς πάνυ λαμπροτάτῃς διάδοχοι· ὁ γὰρ ἡγεμὼν αὐτῶν τοῦ γένους Ναύτιος ἀπὸ τῶν σὺν Αἰνείᾳ στειλάντων τὴν ἀποικίαν, ὃς ἦν Ἀθηνᾶς ἱερεὺς Πολιάδος καὶ τὸ ξόανον ἀπηνέγκατο τῆς θεᾶς μετανιστάμενος, ὃ διεφύλαττον ἄλλοι παρ' ἄλλων μεταλαμβάνοντες οἱ τοῦ γένους ὄντες τοῦ Ναυτίων· ὃς ἐδόκει καὶ διὰ τὴν οἰκίαν ἀρετὴν λαμπρότατος εἶναι τῶν νέων, καὶ οὐκ εἰς μακρὰν τῆς ὑπατικῆς ἐξουσίας τεύξεσθαι. [2] ἀρξάμενος δ' ἀπολογεῖσθαι κοινὴν ἀπολογίαν ὑπὲρ ἀπάντων τῶν νέων, ὡς οὔτε φιλονεικίᾳ τῇ πρὸς τοὺς πατέρας οὔτε αὐθαδεῖα χρησαμένων, ὅτε τὴν ἐναντίαν ἔσχον ἐν τῇ προτέρᾳ βουλῇ προαίρεσιν, ἀλλ' εἵπερ ἄρα ἡμάρτανον διὰ τὴν ἡλικίαν γνῶμη σφαλέντων, τελευτῶν ἔφη τὸ πιστὸν τούτου παρέξεσθαι τὴν μεταβολήν. συγχωρεῖν γοῦν αὐτοῖς ὡς ἄμεινον φρονοῦσιν ἐπιψηφίζεσθαι πᾶν, ὃ τι ἂν ἡγῶνται τῷ κοινῷ συμφέρειν, ὡς οὐδὲν σφῶν γε πρὸς ταῦτ' ἐναντιωσομένων, ἀλλὰ [3] πεισομένων τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις. ὅμοια δὲ τοῦτω καὶ τῶν ἄλλων νέων ἀποφνημαμένων ἐκτὸς ὀλίγων τινῶν πάνυ τῶν Ἀππίου συγγενῶν ἐπαινέσαντες τὴν εὐκοσμίαν αὐτῶν οἱ ὕπατοι καὶ παρακαλέσαντες εἰς πάντα [p. 365] τὰ κοινὰ τοιοῦτους ἑαυτοὺς παρέχειν πρεσβευτὰς εἵλοντο δέκα τοὺς ἐπιφανεστάτους τῶν πρεσβυτέρων, ἐκτὸς ἐνὸς ἅπαντας ὑπατικούς. οἱ δ' ἀποδειχθέντες ἦσαν οἶδε· Ἀγρίππας Μενήνιος Γαῖου υἱὸς Λαϊνάτης, Μάνιος Οὐαλέριος Οὐολούσσου υἱὸς ... Πόπλιος Σερουίλιος Ποπλίου υἱὸς ... Πόπλιος Ποστούμιος Κοίντου υἱὸς Τούβερτος, Τίτος Αἰβούτιος Τίτου υἱὸς Φλαούιος, Σέρβιος Σολπίκιος Ποπλίου υἱὸς Καμερῖνος, Αὔλος Ποστούμιος Ποπλίου υἱὸς Βάλλος, Αὔλος Οὐεργίνιος Αὔλου υἱὸς Καίλιμοντανός. [4] μετὰ ταῦτα τῆς βουλῆς διαλυθείσης οἱ μὲν ὕπατοι προελθόντες εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸ δόγμα τῆς βουλῆς ἀνέγνωσαν καὶ τοὺς πρεσβευτὰς παρήγαγον· ἀπάντων δ' ἀξιούντων τὰς ἐντολάς, ἃς ἔδωκαν αὐτοῖς, μαθεῖν, εἶπον ἐν τῷ φανερώ, πράττειν, ὅτῳ ἂν τρόπῳ δύνωνται, φιλίαν τῷ δήμῳ συνθέσθαι πρὸς τοὺς πατρικούς ἄτερ δόλου καὶ ἀπάτης καὶ καταγαγεῖν τοὺς φεύγοντας ἐπὶ τὰ σφέτερα ἐν τάχει.

ταῦτα οἱ πρέσβεις παρ' αὐτῶν λαβόντες τὰς ἐντολάς αὐθημερὸν ἐξήρσαν. φθάσασα δὲ τὴν παρουσίαν αὐτῶν ἡ φήμη διήγγειλε τοῖς ἐπὶ στρατοπέδου [p. 366] πάντα τὰ ἐν τῇ πόλει γινόμενα, καὶ αὐτίκα πάντες ἐκλιπόντες τὸ ἔρυμα ὑπήντων ἔτι καθ' ὁδὸν οὔσι τοῖς πρεσβευταῖς. ἦν δὲ τις ἐν τῷ στρατοπέδῳ πάνυ ταραχώδης καὶ στασιαστῆς ἀνὴρ, ὅξυς τῇ γνῶμῃ προιδεῖν τι τῶν ἐσομένων ἐκ πολλοῦ, καὶ εἰπεῖν ὃ τι νοήσειεν ὡς λάλος καὶ κωτίλος οὐκ ἀδύνατος, ὃς ἐκαλεῖτο μὲν Λεύκιος Ιούνιος, ὁμώνυμος τῷ καταλύσαντι τοὺς βασιλεῖς, ἐκπληρῶσαι δὲ τὴν ὁμωνυμίαν βουλόμενος ἡξίου καὶ Βροῦτος ἐπικαλεῖσθαι. τοῖς δ' ἄρα πολλοῖς γέλως ἐπὶ τῇ κenoσπουδίᾳ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου εἰσῆρχετο, καὶ ὅτε βουλευθεῖεν ἐπισκῶπτειν αὐτὸν Βροῦτον ἐπεκάλουν. [2] οὗτος ὁ ἀνὴρ τὸν ἡγεμόνα τοῦ στρατοπέδου Σικίννιον διδάξας, ὡς οὐκ ἄμεινον εἴη τῷ δήμῳ ῥαδίως ἑαυτὸν ἐπιτρέπειν τοῖς προτεινομένοις, ἵνα μὴ ἀπ' ἐλάττονος ἀξιώσεως ἀτιμωτέραν εὕρηται τὴν κάθοδον, ἀλλ' ἐναντιοῦσθαι μέχρι πολλοῦ καὶ τραγωδίαν τινὰ ἐπιθεῖναι τοῖς πράγμασι προσποιητόν, ὑποσχόμενός τ' αὐτὸς ἀναλήψεσθαι τὸν ὑπὲρ

παρελθὼν δὲ Μάνιος Οὐαλέριος, ὅσπερ ἦν αὐτῶν πρεσβυτάτος τε καὶ δημοτικώτατος, ἐπιμαρτυρήσαντος αὐτῷ τὴν προθυμίαν τοῦ πλήθους εὐμενεστάταις φωναῖς καὶ προσηγορίαις, ἐπειδὴ σιωπῆς ἔτυχε [p. 367] τοιοῦτοις ἐχρήσατο λόγοις: οὐδὲν ὑμᾶς ἔτι τὸ κωλύόν ἐστιν, ὧς δημόται, κατιέναι πάλιν ἐπὶ τὰ ὑμέτερα καὶ διηλλάσθαι πρὸς τοὺς πατέρας. [2] ἐψήφισται γὰρ ἡ βουλὴ καλὴν καὶ συμφέρουσαν ὑμῖν κάθοδον, καὶ γνώμην πεποιήται μηδενὸς τῶν γεγονότων μνησικακεῖν: ἡμᾶς τε οὗς ἐγίγνωσκε φιλοδημοτάτους ὄντας καὶ πρὸς ὑμῶν τὰ δίκαια τιμωμένους πρεσβευτὰς ἀπέσταλκεν αὐτοκράτορας ἀποδειξάσα τῶν διαλύσεων, ἵνα μὴ δόξαις μηδ' εἰκασμοῖς χρώμενοι περὶ τῆς ὑμετέρας γνώμης, ἀλλὰ παρ' αὐτῶν ὑμῶν ἀκούσαντες, ἐφ' οἷς ἀξιοῦτε καταλύσασθαι τὴν διχοστασίαν, ἂν ἢ μέτριόν τι τῶν αἰτημάτων καὶ μήτε τῷ ἀδυνάτῳ μήτε ὑπ' ἄλλης αἰσχύνης ἀνηκέστου κωλύηται, συγχωρῶμεν ὑμῖν μηκέτι τὴν τοῦ συνεδρίου γνώμην ἐκδεχόμενοι, μηδ' εἰς χρόνους μακροὺς καὶ φθόνους ἀντιπάλων ἀναβάλλοντες τὰ πράγματα. [3] ταῦτα δὴ τῆς βουλῆς ἐψηφισμένης δέχεσθε ἄσμενοι τὰς χάριτας αὐτῶν, ὧς δημόται, μετὰ πάσης προθυμίας καὶ σπουδῆς, ἐν μεγάλῳ τιθέμενοι τὴν τοσαύτην εὐτυχίαν καὶ πολλὴν τοῖς θεοῖς χάριν εἰδότες αὐτῆς, εἰ πόλις ἢ Ῥωμαίων ἢ τοσοῦτων ἄρχουσα ἀνθρώπων, καὶ συνέδριον, ὃ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν ἔχει πάντων τῶν ἐν ταύτῃ καλῶν, οὐκ ὄν αὐτοῖς πάτριον οὐδενὶ τῶν ἀντιπάλων εἴκειν, ὑμῖν μόνοις ὑποκατακλίνονται τῆς ἀξιώσεως ἐκόντες, καὶ οὔτε ἀκριβολογεῖσθαι περὶ τῶν καθηκόντων ἐκατέροις ἡξίωσαν ὡς ὑποδεεστέροις κρείττονες, ἀλλ' αὐτοὶ πρότεροι περὶ [p. 368] διαλύσεως ἐπρεσβεύσαντο, οὔτε τὰς αὐθάδεις ὑμῶν ἀποκρίσεις, ἅς ἐποιήσασθε πρὸς τοὺς προτέρους πρέσβεις, πρὸς ὀργὴν ἐδέξαντο, ἀλλ' ὑπέμειναν ὑμῶν τὸ σοβαρὸν τοῦτο καὶ μειρακιῶδες τῆς αὐθαδείας βάρος, ὥσπερ ἂν παιδῶν ἀφρόνων χρηστοὶ πατέρες: καὶ πάλιν ἑτέραν πρεσβείαν ἀποστέλλειν ὥοντο δεῖν καὶ τῶν δικαίων μειονεκτεῖν καὶ πάντα ὑπομένειν, ὧς πολῖται, τὰ [4] μέτρια. ἐπὶ δὴ τοσαύτης βεβηκότης εὐτυχίας μὴ μέλλετε λέγειν, ὧς δημόται, τίνων χρῆζετε μηδ' ἐντρυφάτε ἡμῖν, καταλυσάμενοι δὲ τὴν στάσιν ἅπιτε χαίροντες εἰς τὴν γειναμένην τε καὶ θρεψαμένην ὑμᾶς πόλιν, ἢ τροφεῖά τε καὶ χάριτας οὐ χρηστὰς ἀπεδίδοτε, καταλιπόντες αὐτὴν τὸ γοῦν ἐφ' ὑμῖν εἶναι ἔρημον καὶ μηλόβοτον. εἰ δὲ παρήσετε τὸν καιρὸν τοῦτον, εὐξέσθε πολλάκις ὅμοιον εὐρεῖν ἕτερον.

πρὸς αὐτοὺς καὶ οὐδὲν ἀποκρύψομαι. καὶ ἐπειδὴ Οὐαλέριος οὐδὲν ἔφησεν εἶναι τὸ κωλύον ἀναστρέφειν ὑμᾶς ἐπὶ τὰ οἰκεῖα τῆς βουλῆς διδούσης τὴν πρὸς αὐτόν, ἅπερ ἐστὶν ἀληθὴ καὶ ἀναγκαῖα εἰρῆσθαι.

ἡμᾶς, ὦ Οὐαλέριε, πολλὰ μὲν καὶ ἄλλα τὰ κωλύοντά ἐστιν ἀποθεμένους τὰ ὅπλα ἐφ' ὑμῖν γενέσθαι, τρία δὲ τὰ μέγιστα καὶ τὰ φανερώτατα. πρῶτον μὲν, ὅτι ἐγκαλοῦντες ἡμῖν ὡς ἡμαρτηκόσιν ἤκετε καὶ ἐν εὐεργεσίας οἶεσθε μέρει διδόναι τὴν κάθοδον· ἔπειθ', ὅτι οὐδὲν ὑποδηλοῦτε παρακαλοῦντες ἐπὶ τὰς διαλλαγάς, ἐφ' οἷς αὐτὰς δικαίοις καὶ φιланθρώποις ποιησόμεθα· τὸ δὲ τελευταῖον, ὅτι βέβαιον ἡμῖν, ὦν ἂν ὑπόσχησθε, οὐδὲν ἐστίν, ἀλλὰ πολλάκις ἐξαπατῶντες τε καὶ φενακίζοντες ἡμᾶς διατετελέκατε. ^[2] ἐρῶ δ' ὑπὲρ ἑκάστου χωρὶς ἀπὸ τοῦ δικαίου ἀρξάμενος· καὶ γὰρ ἰδίᾳ τε καὶ ἐν κοινῷ λέγοντας ἀπὸ τοῦ δικαίου χρὴ ἄρχεσθαι. ἡμεῖς τοίνυν εἰ μὲν τι ἀδικοῦμεν ὑμᾶς, οὐδὲν δεόμεθα οὐτ' ἀδείας οὐτ' ἀμνηστίας· καίτοι γε [p.

τῆς ἀληθείας φύσιν καὶ τὴν τῶν δικαίων ἀξίωσιν ἀναστρέφοντες. ^[3] ὅτι δ' οὐκ ἀδικοῖσθε, ἀλλ' ἀδικεῖτε, καὶ πολλὰ καὶ μεγάλα εὐεργετηθέντες ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου, τὰ μὲν εἰς τὴν ἐλευθερίαν, τὰ δ' εἰς τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, οὐ καλὰς ἀποδεδώκατε αὐτῷ τὰς ἀμοιβάς, μάθετε: ποιήσομαι δ' ἀφ' ὧν ἴστε καὶ αὐτοὶ πραγμάτων τοὺς λόγους, καὶ πρὸς θεῶν, ἐάν τι ψεῦδος εἴπω, μὴ ἀνάσχησθε, ἀλλ' εὐθὺς ἐλέγχετε.

ἡμῖν τὸ ἀρχαῖον πολίτευμα ἦν μοναρχία, καὶ μέχρι γενεᾶς ἐβδόμης ταύτη χρώμενοι διετελέσαμεν τῇ πολιτείᾳ, καὶ παρὰ πάσας τὰς ἡγεμονίας ταῦτας οὐδὲν ὁ δῆμος ἡλαττώθη πώποτε ὑπὸ τῶν βασιλέων καὶ πάντων ἡκιστα ὑπὸ τῶν τελευταίων: ἐῷ γὰρ λέγειν, ὅτι πολλὰ καὶ μεγάλα ἀγαθὰ ἐκ τῆς ἀρχῆς αὐτῶν ἐκαρπώσατο. [2] χωρὶς γὰρ τῆς ἄλλης αὐτῶν θεραπείας, ἣ κολακεύοντας αὐτὸν οἰκεῖον μὲν σφίσιν, ἐχθρὸν δ' ὑμῖν ἐβούλοντο εἶναι, ὁ ποιοῦσιν ἅπαντες οἱ τυραννικῶς ἐξάγοντες τὰς δυναστείας, κρατήσαντες πολέμῳ μακρῷ [p. 372] Συέσσης, πόλεως πάνυ εὐδαίμονος, ἐξὸν αὐτοῖς μηδενὶ κοινωνῆσαι τῶν λαφύρων, ἀλλ' αὐτοὶ κατασχεῖν καὶ πάντα ὑπερβαλέσθαι πλούτῳ βασιλεῖς, οὐκ ἤξισαν, ἀλλὰ φέροντες εἰς μέσον ἔθηκαν ἅπασαν τὴν ὠφέλειαν: ὥσθ' ἡμᾶς χωρὶς ἀνδραπόδων καὶ βοσκημάτων καὶ τῆς ἄλλης κτήσεως πολλῆς οὕσης καὶ καλῆς ἀργυρίου πέντε μνᾶς κατ' ἄνδρα διανείμασθαι. [3] ὧν ἡμεῖς ἀμελήσαντες, ἐπειδὴ τυραννικώτερον ἐχρῶντο ταῖς ἐξουσίαις οὐκ εἰς τὸν δῆμον πλημμελοῦντες, ἀλλ' εἰς ὑμᾶς, δυσανασχετοῦντες ἐπὶ τοῖς γινομένοις τῆς μὲν τῶν βασιλέων εὐνοίας ἀπέστημεν, ὑμῖν δὲ προσεθέμεθα: καὶ συνεπαναστάντες αὐτοῖς μεθ' ὑμῶν οἱ τ' ἐν τῇ πόλει καὶ οἱ ἐπὶ στρατοπέδου τοὺς μὲν ἐξηλάσαμεν, ὑμῖν δὲ φέροντες ἀνεθήκαμεν τὴν ἐκείνων ἀρχήν. πολλάκις τε γενόμενον ἐφ' ἡμῖν μεταθέσθαι πρὸς τοὺς ἐξελασθέντας τὰς μεγάλας δωρεάς, αἷς ὑπέτεινον ἡμῖν, ἵνα δὴ τὸ πρὸς ὑμᾶς πιστὸν ἐγκαταλίπωμεν, οὐχ ὑπεμείναμεν, ἀλλὰ πολλοὺς καὶ μεγάλους καὶ συνεχεῖς πολέμους καὶ κινδύνους δι' ὑμᾶς ἀνηντλήσαμεν: καὶ μέχρι τοῦ παρόντος ἔτος ἑπτακαίδέκατον ἤδη τριβόμεθα πᾶσιν ἀνθρώποις μαχόμενοι περὶ τῆς κοινῆς ἐλευθερίας. [4] ἀκαταστάτου μὲν γὰρ ἔτι τῆς πολιτείας [p. 373] οὕσης: οἷα γίνεσθαι φιλεῖ περὶ τὰς μεταβολὰς τὰς αἰφνιδίως γιγνομένας: δυσὶ ταῖς ἐπιφανεστάταις πόλεσι Τυρρηνῶν, Ταρκυνιήταις τε καὶ Οὐιεντανοῖς κατάγειν βουλομένοις τοὺς βασιλεῖς μεγάλῃ στρατιᾷ, παρακινδυνεύσαντες ὀλίγοι πρὸς πολλοὺς διηγωνίσμεθα, καὶ μεγίστην ἀποδειξάμενοι προθυμίαν τοὺς τ' ἀντιπαχθέντας μάχῃ νικήσαντες ἀπεωσάμεθα, καὶ τῷ περιόντι τῶν ὑπάτων διεσώσαμεν τὴν ἀρχήν. [5] οὐ πολλοῖς δὲ χρόνοις ὕστερον Πορσίναν Τυρρηνῶν βασιλέα κατάγειν καὶ αὐτὸν ἀξιοῦντα τοὺς φυγάδας τῇ τ' ἐξ ἀπάσης Τυρρηνίας, ἣν αὐτὸς ἐπήγετο, δυνάμει καὶ ταῖς ὑπ' ἐκείνων ἐκ πολλοῦ συναχθείσαις, οὐκ ἔχοντες ἀξιόμαχον χεῖρα καὶ διὰ τοῦτο κατακλεισθέντες εἰς πολιορκίαν τε καὶ ἀμηχανίαν καὶ παντὸς πράγματος ἀπορίαν, τῷ πάντα ὑπομεῖναι τὰ δεινὰ φίλον γενόμενον ἠναγκάσαμεν ἀπελθεῖν. [6] τὰ δὲ τελευταῖα τρίτον κάθοδον τῶν βασιλέων παρασκευασαμένων διὰ τοῦ Λατίνων ἔθνους καὶ τριάκοντα πόλεις ἐπαγομένων, ἀντιβολοῦντας ὑμᾶς ὀρῶντες καὶ ὀλοφυρομένους καὶ ἓνα ἕκαστον ἐπιβώμενον ἑταιρίας τε καὶ συντροφίας καὶ ὁμαιχμίας ἀναμιμνήσκοντας οὐχ ὑπεμείναμεν ἐγκαταλιπεῖν: ἡγησάμενοι δὲ κάλλιστον εἶναι καὶ λαμπρότατον ἀγῶνα τὸν ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν ὁμόσε τοῖς δεινοῖς ἐχωρήσαμεν, μέγιστον δὲ κινδύνων ἀναρρίψαντες ἐκείνον, ἐν ᾧ πολλὰ μὲν τραύματα λαβόντες, πολλὰ δὲ σώματα συγγενῶν τε [p. 374] καὶ ἑταίρων καὶ ὁμοσκήνων ἀποβαλόντες, ἐνίκησαμεν τοὺς πολεμίους καὶ τοὺς ἡγεμόνας αὐτῶν ἀπεκτείναμεν καὶ τὴν βασιλικὴν συγγένειαν ἅπασαν διεφθείραμεν.

Ἄ μὲν δὴ εἰς τὸ συνελυθερῶσαι ὑμᾶς ἀπὸ τῶν τυράννων παρεσχόμεθα ὑπὲρ δύναμιν διὰ τὸ ἑαυτῶν πρόθυμον, οὐχ ὑπὸ τοῦ ἀναγκαιῦ μᾶλλον εἰς αὐτὸ καταστάντες ἢ ὑπ' ἄρετῆς, ταῦτ' ἐστίν. Ἄ δ' εἰς τὸ τιμᾶσθαι τε καὶ ἄρχειν ἑτέρων δυναστείαν τε περιβαλέσθαι μείζω ἢ κατὰ τὴν ἐξ ἀρχῆς δόκησιν ἀκούσατε, καὶ ὅπως, ἐάν τι παρατρέψω τὸν λόγον ἔξω τοῦ ἀληθοῦς, ὥσπερ καὶ ἀρχόμενος εἶπον, ἐναντιώσεσθέ [2] μοι. Ὑμῖν γὰρ ἐπειδὴ τὸ ἀσφαλὲς τῆς ἐλευθερίας ἔδοξεν εἶναι βέβαιον, οὐκ ἀπέχρησεν ἐπὶ τούτου μένειν, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τὸ τολμᾶν καὶ νεωτεροποιεῖν ὀρμήσαντες, ἐχθρόν δ' ἴσως ἅπαν ἡγούμενοι τὸ περιεχόμενον ἐλευθερίας, καὶ μικροῦ δεῖν πρὸς ἅπαντας ἀνθρώπους πόλεμον ἀναδείξαντες, εἰς ἅπαντα τὰ κινδυνεύματα καὶ τοὺς ὑπὲρ τῆς πλεονεξίας ταύτης ἀγῶνας τοῖς ἡμετέροις ὤεσθε δεῖν καταχρῆσθαι σώμασιν. [3] Ὅσας μὲν οὖν πόλεις κατὰ μίαν καὶ δύο πολεμοῦσας ὑμῖν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἐλευθερίας, τὰς μὲν ἐκ παρατάξεως χειρωσάμενοι, τὰς δὲ τειχομαχίαις ἐλόντες ὑπηκόους ἐποιήσαμεν, ἐῷ. τί γὰρ δεῖ κατὰ μικρὸν λέγειν τὰς πράξεις τοσαύτην ἔχοντας λόγων ἀφθονίαν; ἀλλὰ Τυρρηνίαν ἅπασαν εἰς δώδεκα νενεμημένην ἡγεμονίας καὶ πολλῇ μὲν τῇ κατὰ γῆν, πολλῇ δὲ τῇ κατὰ θάλατταν δυναστείᾳ περιουσιάζουσας, [p. 375] τίνες ἦσαν οἱ συγκατακτησάμενοι καὶ ποιήσαντες αὐτὴν ὑμῖν ὑπήκοον; Σαβίνους δὲ τουτοῦοι ἔθνος τηλικούτον, οἷς διὰ παντὸς ὁ περὶ τῶν πρωτείων πρὸς ὑμᾶς ἦν ἀγών, ποία παρέσχεν ὑμῖν βοήθεια μηκέτι διαμιλλᾶσθαι περὶ τῶν ἴσων; τί δέ; τὰς τῶν Λατίνων τριάκοντα πόλεις, οὐ μόνον δυνάμει μεγέθει ἐπαιρομένας, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἐπὶ τῷ δικαιότερα ἀξιοῦν μεγάλα φρονούσας, τίνες ἦσαν οἱ καταδουλωσάμενοι καὶ παρασχόντες ὑπὲρ ἀνδραποδισμοῦ καὶ κατασκαφῆς τῶν πόλεων δεομένας καταφυγεῖν ἐφ' ὑμᾶς; ἐῷ τᾶλλα, ὅσα οὕτω διαστασιάζοντες πρὸς ὑμᾶς καὶ αὐτοὶ μὲν γε μεταποιούμενοι τῶν ἐκ τῆς ἀρχῆς ἐλπίδων συνεκινδυνεύσαμεν ὑμῖν. ἀλλ' ἐπειδὴ φανερώς ἤδη τυραννίδα περιβεβλημένοι τὴν ἀρχὴν καὶ ἡμῖν ὥσπερ δούλοις παραχρῶμενοι ἐξηλέγχθητε, ἡμεῖς τ' οὐκέτι ὅμοιοι ταῖς πρὸς ὑμᾶς διανοίαις διαμένοντες, ἐν δὲ τούτῳ καὶ τὰ ὑπήκοα ὀλίγου δεῖν πάντα ἐπανίστατο, ἀρξάντων μὲν τῆς ἀποστάσεως Οὐολούσκων, ἀκολουθησάντων δ' αὐτοῖς Αἰκανῶν Ἑρνίκων Σαβίνων ἄλλων συχνῶν, ἐδόκει τε οἷος οὐχ ἕτερος εἶναι καιρὸς, εἰ βουλομένοις ἡμῖν ἦν, δεῖν ἐξεργάσασθαι θάτερον, ἢ καταλύσασθαι τὴν ἀρχὴν ὑμῶν ἢ πρὸς τὸ λοιπὸν ἀποδεῖξαι μετριωτέραν, ἄρα μέμνησθε, εἰς οἷαν ἀπόγνωσιν τῆς ἀρχῆς ἦλθετε καὶ ὥς ἐν παντὶ δὴ ἀθυμίας [p. 376] ἐγένεσθε, εἴτε μὴ συναρούμεθα τῶν ἀγώνων ὑμῖν, εἴτε ὀργῇ ἐφέντες ὥς τοὺς πολεμίους τρεψόμεθα, καὶ ὅσας δεήσεις καὶ ὑποσχέσεις ἐποιήσασθε; [2] τί οὖν οἱ ταπεινοὶ καὶ πρὸς ὑμῶν ὑβρισμένοι τότε ἐποιήσαμεν; ἡττηθέντες τῶν δεήσεων καὶ πεισθέντες ταῖς ὑποσχέσεσιν, αἷς ὁ βέλτιστος οὗτοσι Σερουίλιος ὑπατεύων τότε πρὸς τὸν δῆμον ἐποίησατο, οὐθὲν μὲν ἐμνησικακήσαμεν ὑμῖν τῶν πάλαι, χρηστὰ δὲ περὶ τοῦ μέλλοντος ἐλπίσαντες χρόνου, παρέσχομεν ὑμῖν ἑαυτούς, καὶ πάντα τὰ

μίαν εἰπὼν ἔτι τὴν οὔτε ἀγνοουμένην ὑπ' οὐδενὸς ἀνθρώπων οὔτε ἀμφισβητουμένην παύσομαι. τίς δ' ἐστὶν αὕτη; ἡ τὸ κοινὸν συμφέρον εἰσάγουσα καὶ δι' ἀλλήλων ἀμφοτέρα ποιοῦσα σώζεσθαι τὰ μέρη. αὕτη μέντοι πρώτη καὶ μόνη συνάγει τε ἡμᾶς εἰς τὸ αὐτὸ καὶ οὐκ ἑάσει ποτὲ διχ' ἀλλήλων γενέσθαι. δεῖσεται γὰρ αἰεὶ καὶ οὐδέποτε παύσεται δεόμενον τὸ μὲν ἀμαθὲς πλῆθος ἔμφρονος ἡγεμονίας, τὸ δ' ἡγεῖσθαι δυνάμενον βουλευτήριον τῶν ἄρχεσθαι βουλομένων ὄχλων: καὶ οὐ δόξη μόνον τοῦτ' εἰκάσαντες, [2] ἀλλὰ καὶ ἔργῳ πειραθέντες ἴσμεν. τί οὖν δεδιτόμεθα καὶ πράγματα παρέχομεν ἀλλήλοις; τί δὲ λόγους πονηροὺς λέγομεν χρηστὰ πράγματα ἔχοντες ἐν χερσίν, ἀλλ' οὐκ ἀναπτύξαντες αὐτοὺς καὶ τῷ χεῖρε περιβάλλοντες ἀλλήλοις ἄπιμεν εἰς τὴν πατρίδα παλαιὰν τέρψιν τῶν ἡδίστων καὶ πόθον ἀπάντων γλυκύτατον ἀποληψόμενοι, ἀλλ' ἐπιζητοῦμεν ἀσφαλείας ἀγενήτους καὶ πιστεῖς ἀπίστους, ὥσπερ οἱ πολεμιώτατοι καὶ πάντα ὑποπτεύοντες ἐπὶ τὸ χεῖρον. ἡμῖν μὲν, ὧς δημόται, τοῖς ἐκ τοῦ συνεδρίου μία πίστις ἀπόχρη περὶ τοῦ μὴ ἂν ποτε ὑμᾶς γενέσθαι περὶ ἡμᾶς, εἰ κατέλθοιτε, κακοὺς τροφὰς τε ὑμῶν ἀγαθὰς εἰδόσι καὶ [p. 390] ἐπιτηδεύματα νόμιμα τὴν τε ἄλλην ἀρετὴν, ἣν πολλάκις ἀπεδείξασθε καὶ ἐν εἰρήνῃ καὶ κατὰ πολέμους. [3] καὶ εἴ τι δι' ἀνάγκην τῆς πίστεως καὶ ἐλπίδος τὰ συμβόλαια κοινῆς ἐπανορθώσεως τύχοι, τὰ γοῦν ἄλλα πιστεύομεν ὑμῖν ἔσεσθαι ἀγαθοὺς καὶ οὐδὲν δεόμεθα οὔτε ὄρκων οὔτε ὁμήρων οὔτε ἄλλης πίστεως παρὰ τοῦ πλῆθους οὐδεμιᾶς: ὑμῖν μέντοι γε πρὸς οὐδὲν τῶν ἀξιουμένων ἐναντιωσόμεθα. καὶ περὶ μὲν τῆς πίστεως, ἐφ' ἣ διαβάλλειν ἡμᾶς Βροῦτος ἐπεχείρει, ταῦτα ἱκανά. εἰ δὲ τις ὑμῖν φθόνος οὐ δίκαιος ἐγκάθηται πονηρὰ περὶ τῆς βουλῆς διανοεῖσθαι πείθων, βούλομαι τινα καὶ πρὸς τοῦτον εἰπεῖν λόγον, ὧς δημόται: καὶ μου πρὸς θεῶν μεθ' ἡσυχίας καὶ προσοχῆς ἀκούσατε.

χειρες, ὅτι τὰς τέχνας ἐργάζονται καὶ τὰπιτήδεια ἐκπορίζουσι καὶ μάχονται πολεμίοις καὶ ἄλλα πολλὰ ὠφελήματα παρέχουσιν εἰς τὸ κοινόν: οἱ δὲ ὦμοι, ὅτι τὰ ἄχθη πάντα ἐπ' [p. 391] αὐτοῖς κομίζεται: τὸ δὲ στόμα ὅτι φθέγγεται: ἡ δὲ κεφαλὴ, ὅτι ὁρᾷ καὶ ἀκούει καὶ τὰς ἄλλας αἰσθήσεις περιλαβοῦσα πάσας ἔχει, δι' ὧν σώζεται τὸ πρᾶγμα: εἴτα φαῖεν πρὸς τὴν γαστέρα: σὺ δ', ὦ χρηστή, τί τούτων ποιεῖς ἢ τίς ἐστίν ἢ σὴ χάρις ἡμῖν καὶ ὠφέλεια; ἀλλὰ σὺ γε τοσοῦτον ἀπέχεις τοῦ πράττειν καὶ συγκατορθοῦν ἡμῖν τι τῶν κοινῇ χρησίμων, ὥστε καὶ ἀντιπράττεις καὶ ἐνοχλεῖς καί, πρᾶγμα ἀφόρητον, ὑπηρετεῖν ἀναγκάζεις καὶ φέρειν ἀπανταχόθεν εἰς τὴν ἐκπλήρωσιν τῶν σεαυτῆς ἐπιθυμιῶν. [3] φέρε, τί οὐ μεταποιούμεθα τῆς ἐλευθερίας, καὶ τῶν πολλῶν ἀφιέμεθα πραγματειῶν, αἷς ἔνεκα ταύτης ὑπομένομεν; εἰ δὴ ταῦτα δόξειεν αὐτοῖς καὶ μηδὲν ἔτι δρῶν τὸ ἑαυτοῦ ἔργον, ἔσθ' ὅπως ἂν ἐπὶ τὸ πολὺ διαρκέσαι δυνηθεῖν τὸ σῶμα, ἀλλ' οὐκ ἂν ἐντὸς ὀλίγων ἡμερῶν τῷ κακίστῳ τῶν μόρων ἀναλωθεῖν, λιμῷ; οὐκ ἂν ἔχοι ἄλλως τις εἰπεῖν. [4] τὸν αὐτὸν δὴ τρόπον ὑπολάβετε καὶ περὶ πόλεως. πολλὰ γὰρ δὴ τὰ συμπληροῦντα καὶ ταύτην ἔθνη καὶ οὐδὲν ἀλλήλοις ἐοικότα, ὧν ἕκαστον ἰδίαν τινὰ τῷ κοινῷ χρεῖαν ὥσπερ τὰ μέλη τῷ σώματι παρέχεται. οἱ μὲν γὰρ τοὺς ἀγροὺς γεωργοῦσιν, οἱ δὲ μάχονται περὶ αὐτῶν πρὸς τοὺς πολέμιους, οἱ δ' ἐμπορεῦνται πολλὰς διὰ θαλάσσης ὠφελείας, οἱ δὲ τὰς ἀναγκαίας ἐργάζονται τέχνας. εἰ δὲ πάντα τὰ ἔθνη ταῦτα πρὸς [p. 392] τὴν βουλὴν τὴν ἐκ τῶν ἀρίστων συνηγμένην διαστασιάσεις καὶ λέγοι: σὺ δ' ἡμῖν, ὦ βουλή, τί ποιεῖς ἀγαθὸν καὶ ἀντὶ ποίας αἰτίας ἄρχειν τῶν ἄλλων ἀξιοῖς; οὐθὲν γὰρ ἂν εἰπεῖν ἔχοις: ἔπειτ' οὐκ ἀπαλλαγησόμεθ' αὐτοῦ τῆς τυραννίδος ταύτης ἥδη ποτὲ καὶ διχ' [5] ἡγεμόνος οἰκήσομεν; εἰ δὴ ταῦτα διανοηθέντες τῶν συνηθῶν ἐπιτηδευμάτων ἀποσταῖν, τί κωλύσει ταύτην κακὴν κακῶς ἀπολέσθαι τὴν πόλιν ὑπὸ λιμοῦ τε καὶ πολέμου καὶ παντὸς ἄλλου κακοῦ; μαθόντες οὖν, ὦ δημόται, ὅτι καθάπερ ἐν τοῖς σώμασιν ἡμῶν ἡ λοιδορουμένη κακῶς ὑπὸ τῶν πολλῶν γαστῆρ τρέφει τὸ σῶμα τρεφομένη καὶ σώζει σωζομένη, καὶ ἔστιν ὥσει τις ἐστίασις κοινὴ τὸ πρόσφορον ἀπάντων καὶ τῆς διαλλαγῆς αἴτιον ἀποδιδούσα, οὕτως ἐν ταῖς πόλεσιν ἡ διοικοῦσα τὰ κοινὰ καὶ τοῦ προσήκοντος ἑκάστῳ προνοούμενη βουλή πάντα σώζει καὶ φυλάττει καὶ ἐπανορθοῖ, παύσασθε τὰς ἐπιφθόνους κατ' αὐτῆς φωνὰς λέγοντες, ὡς ἐξεβλήθητε τῆς πατρίδος καὶ ὡς ἀλῆται καὶ πτωχοὶ περιέρχεσθε δι' αὐτήν. οὐδὲν γὰρ ὑμᾶς εἴργασται δεινὸν οὐδ' ἂν ἐργάσαιτο, ἀλλ' αὐτὴ καλεῖ καὶ ἀντιβολεῖ καὶ τὰς ψυχὰς ὑμῖν ἅμα ταῖς πύλαις ἀναπετάσασα ὑποδέχεται.

τοιαῦτα λέγοντος τοῦ Μενηνίου πολλὰ καὶ ποικίλα παρ' ὅλην ἐγίγνοντο τὴν δημηγορίαν ἐκ τῶν παρόντων φωναί. ἐπειδὴ δὲ τελευτῶν τοῦ λόγου [p. 393] πρὸς ὀλοφυρμοὺς ἐτράπετο καὶ τὰς μελλούσας καθεῖξιν συμφορὰς τοὺς τε ὑπομένοντας ἐν τῇ πόλει καὶ τοὺς ἀπελαννομένους καὶ τὰς ἀμφοῖν ἀνεκλαύσατο τύχας, δάκρυά θ' ἀπάντων ἐξεχεῖτο καὶ μιᾷ βοῇ συμφρονήσαντες ἀνεβόησαν ἀπάγειν σφᾶς εἰς τὴν πόλιν καὶ μὴ τριβεῖν τὸν χρόνον: ὀλίγου τε πάνυ ἐδέησαν ἀπιέναι διὰ τάχους ἐκ τῆς ἐκκλησίας ἅπαντα τὰ πράγματα τοῖς πρεσβευταῖς ἐπιτρέψαντες καὶ μηδὲν ἄλλο τῶν εἰς ἀσφάλειαν πραγματευσάμενοι, εἰ μὴ παρελθὼν ὁ Βροῦτος ἐπέσχε τὰς

ὁ μὲν οὖν δῆμος ὡς τούτων ἤκουσε, μεγάλῃ βοῇ καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ κατεχούσῃ τὸν τε ἄνδρα ἐπήγει, καὶ τοὺς πρεσβευτὰς παρεκάλει συγχωρῆσαι σφίσι καὶ τοῦτο. οἱ δὲ πρέσβεις μεταστάντες ἐκ τῆς ἐκκλησίας καὶ διαλεχθέντες ὀλίγα πρὸς ἀλλήλους παρήσαν οὐ διὰ μακροῦ. σιωπῆς δὲ γενομένης παρελθὼν ὁ Μενήσιος εἶπε: τὸ μὲν πρᾶγμα, ὧς δημόται, μέγα καὶ πολλῶν μεστὸν ὑποψιῶν ἀτόπων: δέος τε καὶ φροντίς ἡμᾶς εἰσέρχεται, μὴ ποτε δύο πόλεις ποιήσωμεν ἐν μιᾷ: πλὴν τὸ γ' ἐφ' ἡμῖν εἶναι μέρος οὐδὲ πρὸς ταύτην ἐναντιοῦμεθα τὴν δέξιν ὑμῶν. [2] τοῦτο μέντοι χαρίσασθε ἡμῖν, ὃ καὶ ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν ἐστίν: ἐπιτρέψατε τῶν πρεσβευτῶν τισιν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἀφικομένοις δηλῶσαι τῇ βουλῇ ταῦτα: καὶ γὰρ εἰ τὴν ἐξουσίαν παρ' αὐτῆς ἔχομεν, ὅπως ἂν βουλώμεθα, ποιήσασθαι τὰς διαλλαγὰς αὐτοκράτορες ὄντες τῶν ὑποσχέσεων, αὐτοὶ γέ τοι λαβεῖν τοῦτ' οὐ δικαιοῦμεν, ἀλλ' ἐπειδὴ παρὰ δόξαν ἡμῖν ἀπήντηται πρᾶγμα καινόν, ἀφελόμενοι τὴν ἰδίαν ἐξουσίαν τῷ συνεδρίῳ φέροντες ἀναθήσομεν: πεπεισμεθα μέντοι κἄκεῖνῳ ταῦτ' ἀδοξεῖν ἅπερ ἡμῖν. ἐγὼ μὲν οὖν ἐνθάδε μενῶ καὶ σὺν ἐμοὶ τι μέρος τῆς πρεσβείας, Οὐαλέριος δὲ πορεύσεται καὶ οἱ λοιποὶ σὺν [p. 395] [3] αὐτῷ. ἐδόκει ταῦτα: καὶ κατὰ σπουδὴν ἀναβάντες ἐπὶ τοὺς ἵππους ἤλαυνον εἰς τὴν πόλιν οἱ μέλλοντες δηλώσειν τῇ βουλῇ τὰ γενόμενα. προθέντων δὲ τῶν ὑπᾶτων λόγον τοῖς συνέδροις, Οὐαλέριου μὲν ἦν γνώμη διδόναι καὶ ταύτην τῷ δήμῳ τὴν χάριν: Ἄππιος δέ, ὅσπερ ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἠγαντιοῦτο ταῖς διαλλαγαῖς, καὶ τότε ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ ἀντέλεγε βοῶν καὶ θεοὺς ἐπιμαρτυρόμενος καὶ, ὅσων μέλλοι σπέρμα κακῶν βαλεῖν, τῇ πολιτείᾳ προλέγων. ἀλλ' οὐκ ἔπειθε τοὺς πολλοὺς ὠρμηκότας, ὥσπερ εἶπον, διαλύσασθαι τὴν στάσιν. γίνεται δὴ ψήφισμα τῆς βουλῆς, τὰ τε ἄλλα, ὅσα οἱ πρέσβεις ὑπέσχοντο τῷ δήμῳ, πάντα εἶναι κύρια, καὶ τὴν ἀσφάλειαν, [4] ἣν ἠτεῖτο, ἐπιτρέπειν. ταῦθ' οἱ πρέσβεις διοικησάμενοι τῇ κατόπιν ἡμέρᾳ παρήσαν ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον καὶ τὰ δόξαντα τῇ βουλῇ διεσάφησαν. μετὰ τοῦτο Μενηίου παραινέσαντος τοῖς δημόταις ἀποστεῖλαι τινὰς εἰς τὴν

τῇ δ' ἑξῆς ἡμέρᾳ παρήσαν μὲν οἱ περὶ τὸν Βροῦτον πεπονημένοι τὰς πρὸς τὴν βουλὴν συνθήκας διὰ τῶν εἰρηνοδικῶν, οὓς καλοῦσι Ῥωμαῖοι [p. 396] Φητιάλεις. νεμηθεὶς δ' ὁ δῆμος εἰς τὰς τότε οὔσας φράτρας, ἥ ὅπως βούλεται τις αὐτὰς προσαγορεύειν, ἃς ἐκεῖνοι καλοῦσι κουρίας, ἄρχοντας ἐνιαυσίους ἀποδεικνύουσι τούσδε: Λεύκιον Ἰούνιον Βροῦτον καὶ Γάιον Σικίννιον Βελλοῦτον, οὓς καὶ τέως εἶχον ἡγεμόνας, καὶ ἔτι πρὸς τοῦτοις Γάιον καὶ Πόπλιον Λικιννίους καὶ Γάιον Οὐίσκέλλιον Ῥοῦγαν. [2] οὗτοι τὴν δημαρχικὴν ἐξουσίαν πρῶτοι παρέλαβον οἱ πέντε ἄνδρες ἡμέρᾳ τετάρτῃ πρότερον εἰδὼν Δεκεμβρίων, ὥσπερ καὶ μέχρι τοῦ καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνου γίνεται. τελεσθεισῶν δὲ τῶν ἀρχαιρεσιῶν τοῖς μὲν παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς ἤκουσι καλῶς ἔχειν ἐδόκει πάντα, περὶ ὧν ἀπεστάλησαν: ὁ δὲ Βροῦτος ἐκκλησίαν συναγαγὼν συνεβούλευε τοῖς δημόταις ἱερὰν καὶ ἄσυλον ἀποδείξαι τὴν ἀρχὴν νόμῳ τε καὶ [3] 12 ὄρκῳ βεβαιώσαντας αὐτῇ τὸ ἀσφαλές. ἐδόκει ταῦτα πᾶσι, καὶ γράφεται πρὸς αὐτοῦ καὶ τῶν συναρχόντων ὅδε ὁ νόμος: δῆμαρχον ἄκοντα, ὥσπερ ἓνα τῶν πολλῶν, μηδεὶς μηδὲν ἀναγκαζέτω δρᾶν μηδὲ μαστιγούτω μηδ' ἐπιταττέτω μαστιγοῦν ἑτέρῳ μηδ' ἀποκτιννύτω μηδ' ἀποκτείνειν κελευέτω. ἐὰν δὲ τις τῶν ἀπηγορευμένων τι ποιήσῃ, ἐξάγιστος ἔστω, καὶ τὰ χρήματα αὐτοῦ Δήμητρος ἱερά, καὶ ὁ κτείνας τινὰ τῶν ταῦτ' [4] εἰργασμένων φόνου καθαρὸς ἔστω. καὶ ἵνα μηδὲ τὸ [p. 397] λοιπὸν τῷ δήμῳ ἐξουσία γένηται καταπαῦσαι τόνδε τὸν νόμον, ἀλλ' εἰς ἅπαντα τὸν χρόνον ἀκίνητος διαμεινῇ, πάντας ἐτάχθη Ῥωμαίους ὁμόσαι καθ' ἱερῶν ἢ μὴν χρῆσθαι τῷ νόμῳ καὶ αὐτοὺς καὶ ἐγγόνους τὸν αἰεὶ χρόνον, ἀρά τε τῷ ὄρκῳ προσετέθη, τοῖς μὲν ἐμπεδοῦσι τοὺς θεοὺς τοὺς οὐρανίους ἕως εἶναι καὶ δαίμονας τοὺς καταχθονίους, τοῖς δὲ παραβαίνουσιν ἐναντία καὶ τὰ παρὰ θεῶν γίνεσθαι καὶ τὰ παρὰ δαιμόνων ὡς ἄγει τῷ μεγίστῳ ἐνόχοις. ἐκ τούτων κατέστη τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις ἔθος τὰ τῶν δημάρχων σώματα ἱερά εἶναι καὶ παναγῇ, καὶ μέχρι τοῦ καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνου διαμένει.

ἐπειδὴ ταῦτ' ἐψηφίσαντο, βωμὸν κατεσκεύασαν ἐπὶ τῆς ἀκρωρείας, ἐν ἣ κατεστρατοπέδευσαν, ὃν ἐπὶ τοῦ κατασχόντος αὐτοὺς τότε δειματος ὠνόμασαν, ὡς ἡ πάτριος αὐτῶν σημαίνει γλῶσσα, Διὸς Δειματίου: ᾧ θυσίας ἐπιτελέσαντες καὶ τὸν ὑποδεξάμενον αὐτοὺς τόπον ἱερὸν ἀνέντες, κατήεσαν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἅμα τοῖς πρέσβεσιν. [2] ἀποδόντες δὲ καὶ τοῖς ἐν τῇ πόλει θεοῖς χαριστήρια, καὶ τοὺς πατρικίους πείσαντες ἐπικυρῶσαι τὴν ἀρχὴν ψῆφον ἐπενέγκαντας, ἐπειδὴ καὶ τούτου παρ' αὐτῶν ἔτυχον, ἐδεήθησαν ἔτι τῆς βουλῆς ἐπιτρέψαι σφίσιν ἄνδρας ἐκ τῶν δημοτικῶν δύο καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ἀποδεικνύναι τοὺς ὑπηρετήσοντας τοῖς δημάρχοις ὅσων ἂν δέωνται καὶ δίκας, ἃς ἂν ἐπιτρέψωνται ἐκεῖνοι, κρινοῦντας ἱερῶν τε καὶ δημοσίων τόπων καὶ τῆς κατὰ τὴν ἀγορὰν εὐετηρίας [p. 398] [3] ἐπιμελησομένους. λαβόντες δὲ καὶ τοῦτο τὸ συγχώρημα παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς ἀποδεικνύουσιν ἄνδρας, οὓς ὑπηρετάς τῶν δημάρχων καὶ συνάρχοντας καὶ δικαστὰς ἐκάλουν. νῦν μέντοι κατὰ τὴν ἐπιχώριον γλῶτταν ἀφ' ἑνὸς ὧν πράττουσιν ἔργων ἱερῶν τόπων ἐπιμεληταὶ καλοῦνται καὶ τὴν ἐξουσίαν οὐκέθ' ὑπηρετικὴν ἐτέρων ἔχουσιν, ὡς πρότερον, ἐπιτέτραπται δ' αὐτοῖς πολλὰ καὶ μεγάλα, καὶ σχεδὸν ἑοικασί πως κατὰ τὰ πλεῖστα τοῖς παρ' Ἑλλήσιν ἀγορανόμοις.

ἐπεὶ δὲ κατέστη τὰ πράγματα καὶ τὸν ἀπ' ἀρχῆς κόσμον ἐκομίσαστο ἡ πόλις, ἐπὶ τοὺς ἔξω πολεμίους ὑπὸ τῶν ἡγεμόνων στρατιὰ κατελέγετο πολλὴν εἰσενεγκαμένου προθυμίαν τοῦ δήμου καὶ δι' ὀλίγου χρόνου πάντα τὰ εἰς τὸν πόλεμον ἐπιτήδεια εὐτρεπῇ ποιήσαντος. τῶν δ' ὑπάτων διακληρωσαμένων περὶ τῆς ἐξουσίας, ὡς ἔστιν αὐτοῖς ἔθος, Σπόριος μὲν Κάσσιος, ὃς ἔλαχε τὴν τῶν κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ἐπιμέλειαν, ὑπέμεινε μέρος τῆς κατειλεγμένης δυνάμεως τὸ ἄρκοῦν λαβών· Πόστουμος δὲ Κομίνιος ἐξῆγε τὴν λοιπὴν στρατιάν Ῥωμαίων τ' αὐτῶν ἀξιοχρεῶν ἄγων μοῖραν καὶ Λατίνων τι συμμαχικὸν οὐκ ὀλίγον. ^[2] κρίνας δὲ Οὐολούσκοις ἐπιχειρεῖν πρῶτοις πόλιν αὐτῶν Λογγόλαν ἐξ ἐφόδου καταλαμβάνεται, ἐπιβαλομένων μὲν τῶν ἐν αὐτῇ μεταποιεῖσθαι τινος ἀρετῆς καὶ τινα στρατιάν ὑπαίθριον ἀποστειλάντων, ἧ τοὺς ἐπὶόντας ἀνείρξειν ^[p. 399] ἐπίστευον, αἰσχυρῶς δ' ἀναγκασθέντων φυγεῖν πρὶν ἢ λαμπρόν τι ἔργον ἀποδείξασθαι καὶ οὐδ' ἐν τῇ τειχομαχίᾳ γενναῖον οὐδὲν διαπραξαμένων. μιᾷ γοῦν ἡμέρᾳ τῆς τε γῆς αὐτῶν Ῥωμαῖοι ἐκράτησαν ἄκοντι καὶ τὴν πόλιν οὐ πολλὰ πραγματευθέντες κατὰ κράτος ἔλαβον. ^[3] ὁ δὲ τῶν Ῥωμαίων στρατηγὸς τὰ τ' ἐγκαταληφθέντα χρήματα διαρπάσαι τοῖς στρατιώταις ἐφείς καὶ φρουρὰν ἐν τῇ πόλει καταλιπὼν ἐξῆγε τὴν δύναμιν ἐφ' ἐτέραν πόλιν τῶν Οὐολούσκων, ἣ καλεῖται μὲν Πόλουσκα, διάστημα δ' οὐ πολὺ τῆς Λογγόλας ἀπέχει. οὐδενὸς δ' αὐτῷ τολμήσαντος ὑπαντῆσαι διανύσας τὴν χώραν κατὰ πολλὴν εὐπέτειαν προσέβαλε τοῖς τείχεσι· τῶν δὲ στρατιωτῶν οἱ μὲν τὰς πύλας διακόψαντες, οἱ δὲ διὰ κλιμάκων ἐπὶ τὸ τεῖχος ἀναβάντες, αὐθημερόν γίνονται καὶ ταύτης τῆς πόλεως κύριοι. ^[4] ὡς δὲ παρέλαβε τὴν πόλιν, ὀλίγους μὲν τινὰς ἐπιλέξας τοὺς αἰτίους τῆς ἀποστάσεως ἀπέκτεινε, τοὺς δὲ λοιποὺς χρημάτων ἀφαιρέσει ζημιώσας καὶ ὅπλα ἀφελόμενος, Ῥωμαίων εἶναι τὸ λοιπὸν ἠνάγκασεν ὑπηκούου.

καταλιπὼν δὲ καὶ ταύτῃ βραχεῖαν τῆς στρατιᾶς μοῖραν ἕνεκα φυλακῆς, τῇ κατόπιν ἡμέρᾳ τὴν δύναμιν ἀναλαβὼν προῆγεν ἐπὶ Κοριόλαν, πόλιν ἐπιφανῆ σφόδρα καὶ ὥσπερ ἂν μητρόπολιν τῶν Οὐολούσκων· ἔνθα καὶ δύναμις ἦν συνειλεγμένη καρτερὰ καὶ τὸ τεῖχος οὐ ῥάδιον ἀλῶναι τὰ τε πρὸς τὸν πόλεμον ἐπιτήδεια παρεσκευασμένα τοῖς ἔνδον ἐκ πολλοῦ. ^[p. 400] ἐπιχειρήσας δὲ τῇ τειχομαχίᾳ μέχρι δείλης ὀφίας ἀποκρούεται πρὸς τῶν ἐναντίων πολλοὺς τῶν οἰκείων ἀπολέσας. ^[2] τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ κριοὺς τε καὶ γέρρα καὶ κλίμακας εὐτρεπισάμενος παρεσκευάζετο μὲν ὡς ἀπάσῃ τῇ δυνάμει πειρασόμενος τῆς πόλεως, ἀκούσας δ' ὅτι πολλῇ χειρὶ μέλλουσιν Ἀντιάται βοηθεῖν τοῖς Κοριολανοῖς κατὰ τὸ συγγενὲς καὶ εἰσὶν οἱ πεμφθέντες ἐν ὁδῷ ἤδη, μερίσας τὸν ἑαυτοῦ στρατὸν τῷ μὲν ἡμίσει τειχομαχεῖν ἔγνω Τίτον Λάρκιον ἐπ’ αὐτοῦ καταλιπών, [3] 13 τῷ δὲ λοιπῷ κωλύειν τοὺς ἐπόντας διενоеῖτο. καὶ γίνονται δύο τῆς αὐτῆς ἡμέρας ἀγῶνες: Ῥωμαῖοι δ’ ἐνίκων ἀπάντων μὲν προθύμως ἀγωνισαμένων, ἐνὸς δ’ ἀνδρὸς ἄπιστον ἀρετὴν καὶ παντὸς λόγου κρείττονας ἀποδειξαμένου πράξεις, ὃς ἦν μὲν ἐκ τοῦ γένους τῶν πατρικίων καὶ οὐκ ἀσήμεων πατέρων, ἐκαλεῖτο δὲ Γάιος Μάρκιος, σῶφρων δὲ τὸν καθ’ ἡμέραν βίον ἀνὴρ καὶ φρονήματος ἐλευθέρου μεστός. ἐγένετο δ’ ὁ τρόπος τῆς ἐκατέρας μάχης τοιόσδε: ὁ μὲν Λάρκιος ἐξαγαγὼν τὴν στρατιὰν ἅμ’ ἡμέρα προσῆγε τοῖς τείχεσι τῆς Κοριόλας καὶ κατὰ πολλοὺς τόπους ἐποιεῖτο τὰς προσβολάς: οἱ δὲ Κοριοῖοι μέγα φρονοῦντες ἐπὶ τῇ παρὰ τῶν Ἀντιατῶν βοήθειᾳ, ἦν οὐ διὰ μακροῦ σφίσι παρέσεσθαι ἐπίστευον, ἀνοιξαντες ἀπάσας τὰς πύλας ὥρμησαν ἐπὶ τοὺς πολεμίους ἀθρόοι. [4] Ῥωμαῖοι δὲ τὴν μὲν πρώτην ἔφοδον αὐτῶν ἐδέξαντο καὶ πολλὰς πληγὰς τοῖς ὁμόσε χωροῦσιν ἔδοσαν, ἔπειτα πλειόνων ἐπόντων ὠθούμενοι κατὰ πρानοῦς χωρίου ἐνέκλιναν. [p. 401] τοῦτο κατιδὼν ὁ Μάρκιος, ὑπὲρ οὗ πρότερον ἔφην, ἴσταται σὺν ὀλίγοις καὶ δέχεται τὸ ἐπιφερόμενον τῶν πολεμίων στίφος: καταβαλὼν δὲ συχνοὺς αὐτῶν, ὡς ἐνέκλιναν οἱ λοιποὶ καὶ πρὸς τὴν πόλιν ἔφευγον, ἠκολούθει κτείνων αἰετὸς ἐν χερσὶ καὶ ἐπικελευόμενος τοῖς φεύγουσι τῶν σφετέρων ἀναστρέφειν τε καὶ θαρρεῖν καὶ αὐτῷ ἔπεσθαι. [5] οἱ δ’ αἰδεδέντες ἐπὶ τῷ ἔργῳ ἀνέστρεφον αὖθις καὶ τοῖς καθ’ ἑαυτοὺς ἐπέκειντο παίοντες καὶ διώκοντες, καὶ δι’ ὀλίγου χρόνου τοὺς συμπλακέντας ἕκαστοι τρεψάμενοι προσέκειντο τοῖς τείχεσι: καὶ ὁ Μάρκιος θρασύτερον ἤδη κινδυνεύων προσωτέρω μᾶλλον ἐχώρει καὶ πρὸς αὐταῖς γενόμενος ταῖς πύλαις συνεισέπιπτε τοῖς φεύγουσιν εἰς τὸ τεῖχος. συνεισπεσόντων δ’ αὐτῷ καὶ ἄλλων συχνῶν κατὰ πολλὰ μέρη τῆς πόλεως φόνος ἐγένετο ἐξ ἀμφοῖν πολὺς: τῶν μὲν ἀνὰ τοὺς στενωποὺς, τῶν δὲ περὶ ταῖς ἀλίσκομέναις οἰκίαις μαχομένων. [6] συνελάμβανον δὲ τοῦ ἔργου τοῖς ἔνδον καὶ γυναῖκες ἀπὸ τῶν τεγῶν βάλλουσαι τοὺς πολεμίους τοῖς καλυπτῆρσι, καὶ καθ’ ὅσον ἐκάστω τις ἰσχὺς καὶ δύναμις ἦν προθύμως ἐβοήθουν τῇ πατρίδι. οὐ μέντοι ἐπὶ πολὺν γε χρόνον τοῖς δεινοῖς ἀντεῖχον, ἀλλ’ ἠναγκάσθησαν παραδιδόναι σφᾶς αὐτοὺς τοῖς κεκρατηκόσι. τοῦτον δὲ τὸν τρόπον ἀλούσης τῆς πόλεως οἱ μὲν ἄλλοι Ῥωμαῖοι πρὸς ἀρπαγὴν τῶν ἐγκαταληφθέντων ἐτράποντο καὶ μέχρι πολλοῦ διετέλουν [p. 402] προσκείμενοι ταῖς ὠφελείαις χρημάτων τε πολλῶν ὑπαρχόντων ἐν τῷ χωρίῳ καὶ ἀνδραπόδων,

σημεῖα ἦρθη τῆς μάχης, πρῶτος ὁμοσε τοῖς ἐναντίοις ἐχώρει καὶ πολλοὺς τῶν εἰς χεῖρας ἐλθόντων ἀποκτείνας εἰς μέσσην αὐτῶν τὴν φάλαγγα ὠθεῖται. οἱ δ' Ἀντιάται συστάδην μὲν οὐκέτι μάχεσθαι πρὸς αὐτὸν ὑπέμενον, ἀλλ' ἐξέλειπον τὰς τάξεις καθ' οὗς γένοιτο ἐπιών, κύκλῳ δὲ περιστάντο ἄθροοι καὶ ἔβαλλον ὑποχωροῦντες ἐπιόντα τε καὶ ἐπόμενον. ὁ δὲ Πόστουμος ὡς ἔγνω [p. 403] τοῦτο, δείσας μὴ τι μονωθεὶς ὁ ἀνὴρ πάθῃ, τοὺς κρατίστους τῶν νέων ἀρωγοὺς αὐτῷ πέμπει: κάκεῖνοι ποιήσαντες πυκνοὺς τοὺς λόχους ἐμβάλλουσι τοῖς πολεμίοις. οὐ δεξαμένων δ' αὐτοὺς τῶν κατὰ μέτωπον, ἀλλ' εἰς φυγὴν τραπέντων, προσωτέρω προχωροῦντες εὐρίσκουσι τὸν Μάρκιον τραυμάτων μεστὸν καὶ περὶ αὐτὸν ὀρώσι νεκροὺς τε κειμένους πολλοὺς καὶ ἡμιθανεῖς. ^[3] μετὰ τοῦτ' ἤδη κοινῶς ἐχώρουν ἡγεμόνα τὸν Μάρκιον ἔχοντες ἐπὶ τοὺς ἔπι διαμένοντας ἐν τάξει, κτείνοντες τοὺς ὑφισταμένους καὶ ὥσπερ ἀνδραπόδοις παραχρῶμενοι. ἄξιοι μὲν δὴ λόγου καὶ οἱ ἄλλοι Ῥωμαῖοι ἐν ταύτῃ τῇ μάχῃ ἐγένοντο, κράτιστοι δ' αὐτῶν οἱ προασπίσαντες τὸν Μάρκιον: ὑπὲρ ἅπαντας δ' αὐτὸς ὁ Μάρκιος, ὃς καὶ τῆς νίκης ἀναμφιλόγως αἰτιώτατος ἦν. ἐπεὶ δὲ συνεσκοτάζεν ἤδη, οἱ μὲν Ῥωμαῖοι ἀνεχώρουν ἐπὶ τὸ στρατόπεδον μέγα ἐπὶ τῇ νίκῃ φρονοῦντες καὶ πολλοὺς μὲν ἀνηρηκότες τῶν Ἀντιατῶν, πολλοὺς δ' αἰχμαλώτους ἄγοντες.

τῇ δ' ἑξῆς ἡμέρᾳ συγκαλέσας ὁ Πόστουμος εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸν στρατὸν ἔπαινον τοῦ Μαρκίου διεξῆλθε πολὺν καὶ στεφάνοις αὐτὸν ἀριστείοις ἀνέδθησεν ἀμφοτέρων χαριστήρια τῶν ἀγώνων ἀποδιδούς. ἐδωρήσατο δ' αὐτὸν ἵππῳ πολεμιστῇ στρατηγικοῖς ἐπισήμοις κεκοσμημένῳ καὶ δέκα σώμασιν αἰχμαλώτοις, ἐπ' ἐκείνῳ ποιήσας, οὓς βούλοιτο λαβεῖν, ἀργυρίῳ τε, [p. 404] ὅσον ἂν ἐξενέγκασθαι δύναιτο αὐτός, καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς ἄλλης λείας πολλαῖς καὶ καλαῖς ἀπαρχαῖς. ^[2] βοῆς δὲ γενομένης ἐξ ἁπάντων μεγάλης, ὡς ἂν ἐπαινούντων τε καὶ συνηδομένων, προσελθὼν ὁ Μάρκιος τῷ τε ὑπάτῳ χάριν εἰδέναι μεγάλην ἔφη καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις ἅπασιν ἐπὶ ταῖς τιμαῖς, ὧν αὐτὸν ἤξιουν: οὐ μέντοι καταχρήσεσθαι γ' αὐταῖς, ἀρκεσθήσεσθαι δὲ τῷ θ' ἵππῳ τῆς λαμπρότητος τῶν σημείων ἔνεκεν καὶ ἐνὶ αἰχμαλώτῳ, ὃς ἔτυχεν αὐτῷ ξένος ὢν. οἱ δὲ στρατιῶται καὶ πρότερον ἀγάμενοι τὸν ἄνδρα τῆς γενναιότητος, ἔτι μᾶλλον ἐθαύμασαν τῆς ὑπεροφίας τοῦ πλούτου καὶ ὅτι μετρίως ἦνεγκε τὴν τοσαύτην εὐτυχίαν. ἐκ τούτου Κοριολανὸς ἐπεκλήθη τοῦ ἔργου, καὶ πάντων ἐγεγόνει τῶν κατὰ τὴν αὐτὴν ἡλικίαν ἐπιφανέστατος. ^[3] τῆς δὲ πρὸς τοὺς Ἀντιάτας μάχης τοῦτο λαβούσης τὸ τέλος αἱ λοιπαὶ τῶν Οὐολούσκων πόλεις διελύοντο τὴν πρὸς τοὺς Ῥωμαίους ἔχθραν, καὶ ὅσοι τὰ ὅμοια ἐκείνοις ἐφρόνουν, οἱ τ' ἐν τοῖς ὅπλοις ἤδη ὄντες, καὶ οἱ παρασκευαζόμενοι τὸν πόλεμον ἐπέπαυντο. οἷς ἅπασιν ὁ Πόστουμος ἐπεικῶς χρησάμενος, ἀνέστρεψεν ἐπὶ τὰ οἰκεῖα, καὶ διαφῆκε τὴν στρατιάν. Κάσσιος δ' ὁ ἕτερος τῶν ὑπάτων ὁ καταλειφθεὶς ἐν τῇ Ῥώμῃ τὸν νεῶν τῆς τε Δήμητρος καὶ Διονύσου καὶ Κόρης ἐν τῷ μεταξὺ χρόνῳ καθιέρωσεν, ὃς ἐστίν ἐπὶ τοῖς τέρμασι τοῦ μεγίστου τῶν ἵπποδρόμων ὑπὲρ αὐτὰς ἰδρυμένος τὰς ἀφέςεις, εὐξαμένου μὲν αὐτὸν Αὐλοῦ Ποστουμίου τοῦ [p. 405] δικτάτορος ὑπὲρ τῆς πόλεως ἀναθήσειν τοῖς θεοῖς, καθ' ὃν χρόνον ἔμελλεν ἀγωνίζεσθαι πρὸς τὴν Λατίνων στρατιάν, τῆς τε βουλῆς μετὰ τὸ ἐγένοντο δ' ἐν τῷ αὐτῷ χρόνῳ καὶ πρὸς τὰς τῶν Λατίνων πόλεις ἀπάσας συνθήκαι καιναὶ μεθ' ὄρκων ὑπὲρ εἰρήνης καὶ φιλίας, ἐπειδὴ παρακινήσαι τ' οὐδὲν ἐπεχείρησαν ἐν τῇ στάσει, καὶ συνηδόμενοι τῇ καθόδῳ τοῦ δήμου φανεροὶ ἦσαν, τοῦ τε πολέμου τοῦ πρὸς τοὺς ἀποστάντας ἐτοιμῶς ἐδόκουν συνάρασθαι. [2] ἦν δὲ τὰ γραφέντα ἐν ταῖς συνθήκαις τοιαύδε: Ῥωμαῖοις καὶ ταῖς Λατίνων πόλεσιν ἀπάσαις εἰρήνη πρὸς ἀλλήλους ἔστω, μέχρις ἂν οὐρανὸς τε καὶ γῆ τὴν αὐτὴν στάσιν ἔχωσι: καὶ μήτ' αὐτοὶ πολεμεῖτωσαν πρὸς ἀλλήλους μήτ' ἄλλοθεν πολέμους ἐπαγέτωσαν, μήτε τοῖς ἐπιφέρουσι πόλεμον ὁδοὺς παρεχέτωσαν ἀσφαλεῖς βοηθεῖτωσάν τε τοῖς πολемуμένοις ἀπάσῃ δυνάμει, λαφύρων τε καὶ λείας τῆς ἐκ πολέμων κοινῶν τὸ ἴσον λαγχανέτωσαν μέρος ἑκάτεροι: τῶν τ' ἰδιωτικῶν συμβολαίων αἱ κρίσεις ἐν ἡμέραις γιγνέσθωσαν δέκα, παρ' οἷς ἂν γένηται τὸ συμβόλαιον. ταῖς δὲ συνθήκαις ταύταις μηδὲν ἐξέστω προσθεῖναι μηδ' ἀφελεῖν ἀπ' αὐτῶν, ὃ τι ἂν μὴ Ῥωμαῖοις τε καὶ Λατίνοις ἅπασι δοκῇ. [3] ταῦτα μὲν δὴ Ῥωμαῖοι τε καὶ Λατῖνοι [p. 406] συνέθηκαν πρὸς ἀλλήλους ὁμόσαντες καθ' ἱερῶν. ἐψηφίσατο δὲ καὶ θυσίας ἀποδοῦναι τοῖς θεοῖς ἡ βουλὴ χαριστηρίους ἐπὶ ταῖς πρὸς τὸν δῆμον διαλλαγαῖς, προσθεῖσα μίαν ἡμέραν ταῖς καλουμέναις Λατίναις ἑορταῖς δυσὶν οὔσαις, τὴν μὲν πρώτην ἀνιερῶσαντος βασιλέως Ταρκυνίου, καθ' ὃν χρόνον ἐνίκησε Τυρρηνοῦς: τὴν δ' ἑτέραν τοῦ δήμου προσθέντος, ὅτε τοὺς βασιλεῖς ἐκβαλὼν ἐλευθέραν ἐποίησε τὴν πόλιν: αἷς ἡ τρίτῃ τότε προσενεμήθη τῆς καθόδου τῶν ἀποστάντων 14 ἔνεκα. [4] τὴν δὲ προστασίαν καὶ τὴν ἐπιμέλειαν τῶν ἐν αὐταῖς γινομένων θυσιῶν τε καὶ ἀγώνων οἱ τῶν δημάρχων ὑπηρεταὶ παρέλαβον, οἱ τὴν νῦν ἀγορανομικὴν ἔχοντες ἐξουσίαν, ὥσπερ ἔφην, κοσμηθέντες ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς πορφύρα καὶ θρόνῳ ἐλεφαντίνῳ καὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις ἐπισήμοις, οἷς εἶχον οἱ βασιλεῖς.

οὐ πολλῷ δ' ὕστερον χρόνῳ τῆς ἑορτῆς τῶν ὑπατικῶν εἰς Μενήνιος Ἀγρίππας ἐτελεύτησε τὸν βίον, ὁ νικήσας Σαβίνους καὶ τὸν ἐξ αὐτῶν θρίαμβον ἐπιφανέστατον καταγαγὼν, ὃ πεισθεῖσα ἡ βουλὴ τὴν κάθοδον ἐπέτρεψε τοῖς φυγάσι, καὶ ὁ δῆμος πιστεύσας ἀπέστη τῶν ὄπλων: καὶ αὐτὸν ἔθαψεν ἡ πόλις δημοσίᾳ καὶ καλλίστῃ πάντων ἀνθρώπων καὶ λαμπροτάτῃ ταφῇ. οὐσία γὰρ οὐκ ἦν τῷ ἀνδρὶ εἰς μεγαλοπρέπειαν ἐκκομιδῆς καὶ ταφῆς ἀποχρῶσα: ὥστε [p. 407] καὶ τοῖς ἐπιτρόποις αὐτοῦ τῶν παιδῶν βουλευομένοις ἔδοξεν ὡς ἓνα τῶν πολλῶν εὐτελῶς ἐκκομίσαι τε καὶ [2] θάψαι. οὐ μέντοι γε ὁ δῆμος εἶασεν, ἀλλὰ συναγαγόντες οἱ δήμαρχοι τὸ πλῆθος εἰς ἐκκλησίαν καὶ πολλὰ διελθόντες ἐγκώμια τῶν τε κατὰ πόλεμον ἔργων τοῦ ἀνδρὸς καὶ τῶν πολιτικῶν, τὴν τε σωφροσύνην αὐτοῦ καὶ τὴν λιτότητα τοῦ βίου, μάλιστα δὲ τὴν εἰς χρηματισμὸν ἐγκράτειαν ἐπὶ μήκιστον ἄραντες τοῖς ἐπαίνοις, αἰσχιστον ἔφησαν εἶναι τῶν πραγμάτων ἄνδρα τηλικούτου ἀσῆμου καὶ ταπεινῆς κηδείας τυχεῖν διὰ πενίαν: παρήνευσάν τε τῷ δήμῳ τὴν δαπάνην ἀναδέξασθαι, καὶ συνεισενεγκεῖν κατ' ἄνδρα, ὅσον ἂν αὐτοῖς [3] τάξωσι. τοῖς δ' ἀκούσασιν ἄσμενον ἐγένετο, καὶ αὐτίκα φέροντος ἑκάστου τὸ ταχθὲν πολὺ τι χρῆμα συνήχθη διαφόρου. μαθοῦσα δὲ τοῦθ' ἡ βουλὴ δι' αἰσχύνῃς τὸ πρᾶγμα ἔλαβε καὶ ἔκρινε μὴ κατ' ἄνδρα ἐρανισμῷ τὸν ἐπιφανέστατον Ῥωμαίων περιιδεῖν θαπτόμενον, ἀλλ' ἐκ τῶν δημοσίων ἐδικαίωσε τὸ ἀνάλωμα γενέσθαι τοῖς ταμίαις ἐπιτρέψασα τὴν ἐπιμέλειαν. οἱ δὲ πολλῶν πάνυ μισθώσαντες χρημάτων τὰς παροχὰς κόσμῳ τε πολυτελεστάτῳ κοσμήσαντες αὐτοῦ τὸ σῶμα καὶ πάντα τὰ λοιπὰ ἐπιχορηγήσαντες εἰς μεγαλοπρέπειαν ἔθαψαν αὐτὸν ἀξίως τῆς ἀρετῆς. [4] ἀντιφιλοτιμούμενος δ' ὁ δῆμος πρὸς τὴν βουλὴν οὐδ' αὐτὸς ἠξίωσε τὸ συνεισενεχθὲν διάφορον ἀποδιδόντων τῶν ταμιῶν ἀπολαβεῖν, ἀλλ' ἐχαρίσατο τοῖς παισὶ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς οἰκτεῖρων τὴν ἀπορίαν, ἵνα μηδὲν ἀνάξιον ἐπιτηδεύσωσι [p. 408] τῆς τοῦ πατρὸς ἀρετῆς. ἐγένετο δὲ καὶ τίμησις ἐν τῷ χρόνῳ τούτῳ διὰ τῶν ὑπᾶτων: ἐξ ἧς εὐρέθησαν ὑπὲρ ἔνδεκα πάντων μυριάδες αἱ τιμησάμεναι. καὶ τὰ μὲν ἐπὶ τῆς τούτων ὑπατείας πραχθέντα Ῥωμαίοις ταῦτ' ἦν

ἐπὶ τῆς ἐξηκοστῆς καὶ τετάρτης ὀλυμπιάδος ἄρχοντος Ἀθήνησι Μιλτιάδου Κύμην τὴν ἐν Ὀπικοῖς Ἑλληνίδα πόλιν, ἣν Ἐρετριεῖς τε καὶ Χαλκιδεῖς ἔκτισαν, Τυρρηνῶν οἱ περὶ τὸν Ἴόνιον κόλπον κατοικοῦντες ἐκεῖθεν θ' ὑπὸ τῶν Κελτῶν ἐξελασθέντες σὺν χρόνῳ, καὶ σὺν αὐτοῖς Ὀμβρικοὶ τε καὶ Δαῦνιοι καὶ συχνοὶ τῶν ἄλλων βαρβάρων ἐπεχείρησαν ἀνελεῖν οὐδεμίαν ἔχοντες εἰπεῖν πρόφασιν τοῦ μίσους δικαίαν ὅτι μὴ [2] τὴν εὐδαιμονίαν τῆς πόλεως. ἦν γὰρ Κύμη κατ' ἐκείνους τοὺς χρόνους περιβόητος ἀνὰ τὴν Ἰταλίαν ὅλην πλοῦτου τε καὶ δυνάμεως ἔνεκα καὶ τῶν ἄλλων ἀγαθῶν γῆν τε κατέχουσα τῆς Καμπανῶν πεδιάδος τὴν πολυκαρποτάτην καὶ λιμένων κρατοῦσα τῶν περὶ Μισσηνὸν ἐπικαιροτάτων. τούτοις ἐπιβουλεύσαντες τοῖς ἀγαθοῖς οἱ βάρβαροι στρατεύουσιν ἐπ' αὐτὴν, πεζοὶ μὲν οὐκ ἐλάττους πεντήκοντα μυριάδων, ἵππεῖς δὲ δυεῖν χιλιάδων ἀποδέοντες εἶναι δισμύριοι. ἐστρατοπεδευκόσι δ' αὐτοῖς οὐ μακρὰν ἀπὸ τῆς πόλεως τέρας γίνεται θαυμαστόν, οἷον ἐν οὐδενὶ χρόνῳ μνημονεύεται γενόμενον οὐθ' Ἑλλάδος οὐτε βαρβάρου γῆς οὐδαμῶθι. [3] οἱ γὰρ παρὰ τὰ στρατόπεδα ῥέοντες αὐτῶν ποταμοί, Οὐολτοῦρνος ὄνομα θατέρῳ, τῷ δ' ἐτέρῳ Γλάνις, ἀφέντες τὰς κατὰ φύσιν ὁδοὺς ἀνέστρεψαν τὰ νάματα καὶ μέχρι [p. 6] πολλοῦ διετέλεσαν ἀπὸ τῶν στομάτων ἀναχωροῦντες ἐπὶ τὰς πηγάς. [4] τοῦτο καταμαθόντες οἱ Κυμαῖοι τότε ἑθάρρησαν ὁμόσε τοῖς βαρβάροις χωρεῖν ὡς τοῦ δαιμονίου ταπεινὰ μὲν τὰ κείνων μετέωρα

ὥς δὲ κατέμαθον αὐτοὺς οἱ βάρβαροι μάχεσθαι παρεσκευασμένους, ἀλαλάξαντες ἐχώρουν ὁμοσε τὸν βάρβαρον τρόπον ἄνευ κόσμου πεζοὶ τε καὶ ἵππεῖς ἀναμῖξ ὥς ἅπαντας ἀναρπασόμενοι. ἦν δὲ τὸ πρὸ τῆς πόλεως χωρίον, ἐν ᾧ συνέμισγον ἀλλήλοις, αὐλῶν στενὸς ὄρεσι καὶ λίμναις περικλειόμενος, τῇ μὲν ἀρετῇ τῶν Κυμαίων σύμμαχος, τῷ δὲ πλήθει τῶν βαρβάρων πολέμιος. [2] ἀνατρεπόμενοι γὰρ ὑπ' ἀλλήλων καὶ συμπατοῦμενοι πολλαχῇ μὲν καὶ ἄλλῃ, μάλιστα δὲ περὶ τὰ τέλματα τῆς λίμνης, οὐδ' εἰς χεῖρας ἐλθόντες τῇ φάλαγγι τῶν Ἑλλήνων αὐτοὶ δι' αὐτῶν οἱ πλείους διεφθάρησαν· καὶ ὁ μὲν πεζὸς αὐτῶν στρατὸς ὁ πολὺς περὶ ἐαυτῷ σφαιεῖς, ἔργον δὲ γενναῖον οὐδὲν ἀποδειξάμενος, ἄλλος ἄλλῃ διασκεδασθεὶς ἔφυγεν· οἱ δ' ἵππεῖς συνῆλθον μὲν ὁμοσε καὶ πολὺν τοῖς Ἑλλήσιν οὗτοι παρέσχον [p. 7] πόνον. ἀδύνατοι δ' ὄντες κυκλώσασθαι τοὺς πολεμίους διὰ στενοχωρίαν, καὶ τι καὶ τοῦ δαιμονίου κεραυνοῖς καὶ ὕδασι καὶ βρονταῖς συναγωνισαμένου τοῖς Ἑλλήσι, δείσαντες εἰς φυγὴν τρέπονται. [3] ἐν ταύτῃ τῇ μάχῃ πάντες μὲν οἱ τῶν Κυμαίων ἵππεῖς λαμπρῶς ἠγωνίσαντο, καὶ τῆς νίκης οὗτοι μάλιστα ὠμολογοῦντο αἵτιοι γενέσθαι, ὑπὲρ ἅπαντας δὲ τοὺς ἄλλους Ἀριστόδημος ὁ Μαλακὸς ἐπικαλούμενος· καὶ γὰρ τὸν ἡγεμόνα τῶν πολεμίων οὗτος ἀπέκτεινε μόνος ὑποστὰς καὶ ἄλλους πολλοὺς καὶ ἀγαθοὺς. λυθέντος δὲ τοῦ πολέμου τὰς χαριστηρίους θυσίας ἀποδόντες οἱ Κυμαῖοι τοῖς θεοῖς καὶ ταφάς τῶν ἀποθανόντων τῶν ἐν τῇ μάχῃ λαμπρὰς ποιησάμενοι περὶ τῶν ἀριστείων, ὅτῳ χρὴ τὸν πρῶτον ἀποδοῦναι στέφανον, εἰς πολλὴν κατέστησαν ἔριν. [4] οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἀκέραιοι κριταὶ τὸν Ἀριστόδημον ἐβούλοντο τιμῆσαι, καὶ ἦν ὁ δῆμος ἅπας μετ' ἐκείνου· οἱ δὲ δυνατοὶ τὸν ἱππάρχην Ἱππομέδοντα, καὶ ἡ βουλὴ πᾶσα τούτῳ συνελάμβανεν· ἦν δ' ἀριστοκρατικὴ τότε παρὰ τοῖς Κυμαίοις ἡ πολιτεία, καὶ ὁ δῆμος οὐ πολλῶν πινων κύριος. στάσεως δὲ διὰ ταύτην τὴν ἔριν ἀνισταμένης δεισαντες οἱ πρεσβύτεροι, μὴ πρὸς ὅπλα καὶ φόνους χωρήσῃ τὸ φιλότιμον, ἔπεισαν ἀμφοτέρας τὰς τάξεις συγχωρῆσαι τὰς ἴσας λαβεῖν τιμὰς ἐκάτερον τῶν ἀνδρῶν. [5] ἀπὸ ταύτης γίνεται τῆς ἀρχῆς δήμου προστάτης ὁ Μαλακὸς Ἀριστόδημος καὶ λόγου πολιτικοῦ δύναμιν ἀσκήσας ἐξεδημαγῶγει τὸ πλῆθος, πολιτεύμασι [p. 8] τε κεχαρισμένοις ἀναλαμβάνων καὶ τοὺς σφετεριζομένους τὰ κοινὰ τῶν δυνατῶν ἐξελέγχων καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν ἐαυτοῦ χρημάτων πολλοὺς τῶν πενήτων εὖ ποιῶν· καὶ ἦν τοῖς προεστηκόσι τῆς ἀριστοκρατίας διὰ ταῦτ' ἐπαχθὴς καὶ φοβερός.

τὸν υἱὸν Ἄρροντα δοὺς τὴν ἡμίσειαν τῆς στρατιᾶς ἔπεμψεν ἰδίαν ἀρχὴν κτήσασθαι βουλόμενον, ὥς ἐν τοῖς πρὸ τούτου δεδήλωκα λόγοις: ὃς ἐπολιόρκει τότε τοὺς Ἀρικηνοὺς καταπεφευγότας εἰς τὸ τεῖχος καὶ οὐ διὰ μακροῦ λιμῷ τὴν πόλιν αἰρήσειν ὤετο. [2] ταύτης τῆς πρεσβείας ἀφικομένης οἱ προεστηκότες τῆς ἀριστοκρατίας μισοῦντες τὸν Ἀριστόδημον καὶ δεδιότες, μὴ τι κακὸν ἐξεργάσῃται περὶ τὴν πολιτείαν, κάλλιστον ὑπέλαβον εἰληφέναι καιρὸν ἐκποδῶν αὐτὸν ποιήσασθαι σὺν εὐσχήμονι προφάσει. πείσαντες δὴ τὸν δῆμον ἀποστεῖλαι Ἀρικηνοῖς δισχιλίους ἄνδρας ἐπὶ συμμαχίαν, καὶ στρατηγὸν ἀποδείξαντες τὸν Ἀριστόδημον ὥς δὴ τὰ πολέμια λαμπρόν, τὰ μετὰ ταῦτ' ἔπραττον, ἐξ ὧν ἡ κατακοπήσεσθαι μαχόμενον ὑπὸ τῶν Τυρρηνῶν αὐτὸν ὑπελάμβανον ἢ κατὰ πέλαγος διαφθαρῆσεσθαι. [3] γενόμενοι γὰρ ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς κύριοι καταλέξαι τοὺς ἐπὶ τὴν συμμαχίαν ἐξελευσόμενους τῶν μὲν [p. 9] ἐπσῆμων καὶ λόγου ἀξίων οὐδένα κατέγραψαν, ἐπιλέξαντες δὲ τοὺς ἀπορωτάτους τε καὶ πονηροτάτους τῶν δημοτικῶν, ἐξ ὧν αἰεὶ τινὰς ὑπώπτευον νεωτερισμοὺς, ἐκ τούτων συνεπλήρωσαν τὸν ἀπόστολον: καὶ ναῦς δέκα παλαιὰς κάκιστα πλεούσας καθελκύσαντες, ὧν ἑτρηράρχουν οἱ πενέστατοι Κυμαίων, εἰς ταύτας αὐτοὺς ἐνεβίβασαν θάνατον ἀπειλήσαντες, ἐάν τις ἀπολειφθῇ τῆς στρατείας.

ὁ δ' Ἀριστόδημος τοσοῦτον εἰπὼν μόνον, ὥς οὐ λέληθεν αὐτὸν ἡ διάνοια τῶν ἐχθρῶν, ὅτι λόγῳ μὲν ἐπὶ συμμαχίαν αὐτὸν ἀποστελλουσιν, ἔργῳ δ' εἰς προὔπτον ὄλεθρον, δέχεται μὲν τὴν στρατηγίαν, ἀναχθεὶς δ' ἅμα τοῖς πρέσβεσι τῶν Ἀρικηνῶν διὰ ταχέων καὶ τὸ μεταξὺ πέλαγος ἐπιπόνως καὶ κινδυνωδῶς διανύσας ὁρμίζεται κατὰ τοὺς ἔγγιστα τῆς Ἀρικείας αἰγιαλοὺς: καὶ καταλιπὼν ἐν ταῖς ναυσὶ φυλακὴν ἀποκρῶσαν ἐν τῇ πρώτῃ νυκτὶ τὴν ἀπὸ θαλάσσης ὁδὸν οὐ πολλὴν οὔσαν διανύσας ἐπιφαίνεται τοῖς Ἀρικηνοῖς περὶ τὸν ὄρθρον ἀπροσδόκητος. [2] θέμενος δὲ πλησίον αὐτῶν τὸν χάρακα καὶ τοὺς καταπεφευγότας εἰς τὰ τεῖχη πείσας προελθεῖν εἰς ὑπαιθρον προὔκαλεῖτο τοὺς Τυρρηνοὺς εὐθύς εἰς μάχην. γενομένου δ' ἐκ παρατάξεως ἀγῶνος καρτεροῦ οἱ μὲν Ἀρικηνοὶ βραχὺν πάνυ διαμείναντες χρόνον ἐνέκλιναν ἄθροοι, καὶ γίνεται πάλιν εἰς τὸ τεῖχος αὐτῶν φυγὴ: ὁ δ' Ἀριστόδημος σὺν τοῖς περὶ αὐτὸν λογάσι Κυμαίων ὀλίγοις οὔσι πᾶν τὸ τοῦ πολέμου [p. 10] βάρος ὑποστάς καὶ τὸν ἡγεμόνα τῶν Τυρρηνῶν αὐτοχειρίᾳ κτείνας τρέπει τοὺς ἄλλους εἰς φυγὴν καὶ [3] νίκην ἀναιρεῖται πασῶν λαμπροτάτην. διαπραξάμενος δὲ ταῦτα καὶ τιμηθεὶς ὑπὸ τῶν Ἀρικηνῶν πολλαῖς δωρεαῖς ἀπέπλει διὰ ταχέων αὐτὸς ἄγγελος τοῖς Κυμαίοις τῆς αὐτοῦ νίκης βουλόμενος γενέσθαι: εἶποντο δ' αὐτῷ πολλὰ πάνυ τῶν Ἀρικηνῶν ὀλκάδες τὰ λάφυρα καὶ τοὺς αἰχμαλώτους τῶν Τυρρηνῶν ἄγουσαι. [4] ὥς δὲ πλησίον ἐγένοντο τῆς Κύμης, ὁρμίσας τὰς ναῦς ἐκκλησίαν τοῦ στρατοῦ ποιεῖται, καὶ πολλὰ μὲν τῶν προεστηκόντων τῆς πόλεως κατηγορήσας, πολλοὺς δὲ τῶν ἀνδραγαθησάντων κατὰ τὴν μάχην ἐπαίνους διελθὼν ἀργυρίον τε διαδοὺς αὐτοῖς κατ' ἄνδρα καὶ τὰς παρὰ τῶν Ἀρικηνῶν δωρεὰς εἰς κοινὸν ἅπασι καταθεῖς ἡξίου μεμνησθαι τῶν εὐεργεσιῶν, ἃν καταπλευρώσωσιν εἰς τὴν πατρίδα, καὶ ἂν τις αὐτῷ ποτε συμβαίνει κίνδυνος ἐκ τῆς ὀλιγαρχίας ὥς δύναμις ἐκάστω βοηθεῖν. [5]

οὗς συνεργοὺς καὶ συναγωνιστὰς λαβὼν καὶ ἃ δεήσει πράττειν ἐκάστοις ὑποθέμενος τοῖς τ' αἰχμαλώτοις, οὗς ἐπήγετο, προῖκα δοὺς τὴν ἐλευθερίαν, ἵνα καὶ τὴν ἐκείνων εὖνοιαν προσλάβῃ, κατέπλει κεκοσμημέναις ταῖς ναυσὶν εἰς τοὺς τῶν Κυμαίων λιμένας. οἱ δὲ τῶν στρατευομένων πατέρες τε καὶ μητέρες καὶ πᾶσα ἡ ἄλλη συγγένεια, παιδιά τε καὶ γαμεταὶ γυναῖκες, ὑπήντων ἐξιούσιν αὐτοῖς μετὰ δακρύων περιπλεκόμενοι καὶ καταφιλοῦντες καὶ ταῖς ἡδίσταις ἑκαστον ἀνακαλοῦμενοι προσηγορίαις. [2] καὶ ἡ ἄλλη δὲ πλῆθὺς ἡ κατὰ τὴν πόλιν ἅπανα χαρᾷ καὶ κρότῳ δεξιουμένη τὸν ἡγεμόνα προὔπεμπεν εἰς οἶκον ἀπίοντα. ἐφ' οἷς οἱ προεστηκότες τῆς πόλεως ἀνιώμενοι, μάλιστα δ' οἱ τὴν στρατηγίαν αὐτῷ παραδόντες καὶ τᾶλλα τὰ πρὸς τὸν ὄλεθρον μηχανησάμενοι, πονηροὺς ὑπὲρ τοῦ μέλλοντος εἶχον διαλογισμοὺς. [3] ὁ δὲ διαλιπὼν ὀλίγας τινὰς ἡμέρας, ἐν αἷς τὰς εὐχὰς ἀπεδίδου τοῖς θεοῖς καὶ τὰς ὑστεριζούσας ὀλκάδας ἀνεδέχετο, ἐπειδὴ καιρὸς ἦν, ἔφη βούλεσθαι τὰ πραχθέντα κατὰ τὸν ἀγῶνα πρὸς τὴν βουλήν ἀπαγγεῖλαι καὶ τὰ ἐκ τοῦ πολέμου λάφυρα ἀποδεῖξαι. συνελθόντων δὲ τῶν ἐν τέλει κατὰ πλῆθος εἰς τὸ βουλευτήριον ὁ μὲν ἐδημηγόρει παρελθὼν καὶ πάντα τὰ γενόμενα κατὰ τὴν μάχην διεξήει, οἱ δὲ παρασκευασθέντες ὑπ' αὐτοῦ συνεργοὶ τῆς ἐπιθέσεως ἔχοντες ὑπὸ [p. 12] τοῖς ἱματίοις ξίφη κατὰ πλῆθος εἰσδραμόντες εἰς τὸ βουλευτήριον ἀποσφάττουσιν ἅπαντας τοὺς ἀριστοκρατικούς. [4] φυγὴ δ' ἐγένετο μετὰ τοῦτο τῶν κατ' ἀγορὰν καὶ δρόμος, τῶν μὲν ἐπὶ τὰς οἰκίας, τῶν δ' ἔξω τῆς πόλεως, πλὴν τῶν συνειδότεων τὴν ἐπίθεσιν: οὗτοι δὲ τὴν ἄκραν καὶ τὰ νεώρια καὶ τοὺς ἐρυμνοὺς τόπους τῆς πόλεως κατελάμβανον. τῇ δ' ἐπιούσῃ νυκτὶ λῦσας ἐκ τῶν δεσμοτηρίων τοὺς ἐπιθανάτιους πολλοὺς ὄντας καὶ καθοπλίσας ἅμα τοῖς ἄλλοις φίλοις, ἐν οἷς ἦσαν καὶ οἱ τῶν Τυρρηνῶν αἰχμαλῶτοι, φυλακὴν ἐκ τούτων καθίσταται περὶ τὸ σῶμα. [5] ἡμέρας δὲ γενομένης συγκαλέσας τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν καὶ πολλὴν κατηγορίαν διαθέμενος τῶν φονευθέντων ὑπ' αὐτοῦ πολιτῶν, ἐκείνους μὲν ἔφη τετιμωρῆσθαι σὺν δίκῃ πολλακίς ἐπιβουλευθεῖς ὑπ' αὐτῶν, τοῖς δ' ἄλλοις πολίταις ἐλευθερίαν φέρων παρεῖναι καὶ ἰσηγορίαν καὶ ἄλλα πολλὰ ἀγαθὰ.

γενεὰν δὲ τῶν πεφονευμένων τὴν ἄρρενα κατ' ἀρχὰς ἐν οὐθενὶ λόγῳ ποιησάμενος, ὕστερον εἶτ' ἐκ θεοπροπίου τινὸς εἶτε καὶ κατὰ τὸν εἰκότα λογισμὸν οὐ μικρὸν αὐτῷ δέος ὑποτρέφεσθαι νομίσας ἐπεχείρησε [2] μὲν ἐν ἡμέρᾳ μιᾷ πᾶσαν ἀπολέσαι: δεήσει δὲ πολλῇ χρησαμένων ἀπάντων, παρ' οἷς ἔτυχον αἱ τε μητέρες αὐτῶν οὖσαι καὶ οἱ παῖδες τρεφόμενοι, χαρίσασθαι βουλούμενος αὐτοῖς καὶ ταύτην τὴν δωρεὰν θανάτου μὲν ἀπολύει παρὰ γνώμην, φυλακὴν δὲ ποιούμενος αὐτῶν, μὴ τι συστάντες μετ' ἀλλήλων βουλεύσωσι κατὰ τῆς τυραννίδος, ἀπιέναι πάντας ἐκέλευσεν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἄλλον ἄλλῃ καὶ δαιταν ἔχειν ἐν τοῖς ἀγροῖς μηθενὸς τῶν προσηκόντων ἐλευθέρους παισὶ μῆτ' ἐπιτηδεύματος μῆτε μαθήματος μεταλαμβάνοντας, ἀλλὰ ποιμαίνοντάς τε καὶ τᾶλλα τὰ κατὰ τοὺς ἀγροὺς ἔργα πράττοντας, θάνατον ἀπειλήσας, εἴ τις ἐξ αὐτῶν εὐρεθεῖ [p. 15] [3] παρελθὼν εἰς τὴν πόλιν. οἱ δὲ καταλιπόντες τὰς πατρίδας ἐστίας ἐν τοῖς ἀγροῖς ὥσπερ δοῦλοι διετρέφοντο τοῖς ἀποκτείνασι τοὺς πατέρας αὐτῶν λατρεύοντες. ἵνα δὲ μηδὲ τῶν ἄλλων πολιτῶν ἐν μηθενὶ γένηται μῆτε γενναῖον μῆτ' ἀνδρῶδες φρόνημα, πᾶσαν ἐκθηλῦναι ταῖς ἀγωγαῖς τὴν ἐπιτρεφομένην νεότητα τῆς πόλεως ἐπεβάλετο ἀνελὼν μὲν τὰ γυμνάσια καὶ τὰς ἐνοπλίους μελέτας, ἀλλάξας δὲ τὴν δαιταν, ἥ πρότερον οἱ παῖδες ἐχρῶντο. [4] κομᾶν τε γὰρ

οἱ δ' ἐπαναστάντες αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν πόλιν ἐλευθερώσαντες ἀπὸ τῆς τυραννίδος οἱ παῖδες τῶν πεφονευμένων ὑπ' αὐτοῦ πολιτῶν ἦσαν, οὓς κατ' ἀρχὰς ἅπαντας ἀποκτείνειν ἐν ἡμέρᾳ μιᾷ προελόμενος ἐπέσχεν, ὥσπερ ἔφην, ὑπὸ τῶν σωματοφυλάκων, οἷς ἔδωκε τὰς μητέρας αὐτῶν, ἐκλιπαρηθεῖς, καὶ κατ' ἀγροὺς κελεύσας διατρίβειν. [2] ὀλίγοις δ' ἔτεσιν ὕστερον, ἐπειδὴ τὰς κώμας διεξιὼν πολλὴν καὶ ἀγαθὴν εἶδεν αὐτῶν νεότητα, δέισας, μὴ συμφρονήσαντες ἐπαναστῶσιν αὐτῷ, φθάσαι διαχειρισάμενος ἅπαντας ἐβούλετο, πρὶν αἰσθῆσθαι τινά: καὶ παραλαβὼν τοὺς φίλους ἐσκόπει μετ' αὐτῶν, δι' οἷου τρόπου ῥῆστά τε καὶ τάχιστα λαθόντες ἀναιρεθῆσονται. [3] τοῦτο καταμαθόντες οἱ παῖδες, εἴτε μηνυθὲν ὑπὸ τῶν συνειδότην τινός, εἴτ' αὐτοὶ κατὰ τὸν ἐκ τῶν εἰκότων λογισμὸν ὑποτοπήσαντες, φεύγουσιν εἰς τὰ ὄρη τὸν γεωργικὸν ἀρπάσαντες σίδηρον. ἦκον δ' αὐτοῖς ἐπικούροι κατὰ τάχος ἐνδιατρίβοντες ἐν Καπύῃ Κυμαίων φυγάδες, ὧν ἦσαν ἐπιφανέστατοι τε καὶ πλείστους Καμπανῶν ἔχοντες ξένους οἱ Ἱππομέδοντος παῖδες τοῦ κατὰ τὸν Τυρρηνικὸν ἱππαρχήσαντος πόλεμον, αὐτοὶ θ' ὠπλισμένοι κάκεινοις κομίζοντες ὄπλα Καμπανῶν τε μισθοφόρων καὶ φίλων χεῖρα συγκροτήσαντες οὐκ ὀλίγην. [4] ἐπεὶ δὲ καθ' ἓν ἅπαντες ἐγένοντο, τοὺς ἀγροὺς τῶν ἐχθρῶν καταθέοντες ἐφόδοις ληστροκαῖς ἐλεηλάτουν καὶ τοὺς δούλους ἀφίστασαν ἀπὸ τῶν [p. 17] δεσποτῶν καὶ τοὺς ἐκ τῶν δεσμοτηρίων λύοντες καθῶπλιζον, καὶ ὅσα μὴ δύναιτο φέρειν τε καὶ ἄγειν χρήματα ματα καὶ βοσκήματα τὰ μὲν ἐνεπίμπρασαν, τὰ δὲ κατέσφαττον. ἀπορουμένῳ δὲ τῷ τυράννῳ, τίνα χρῆ [5] τρόπον αὐτοῖς πολεμεῖν διὰ τὸ μήτ' ἐκ τοῦ φανεροῦ τὰς ἐπιχειρήσεις αὐτοὺς ποιεῖσθαι μήτ' ἐν τοῖς αὐτοῖς χρονίζειν τόποις, ἀλλὰ νυκτὶ μὲν εἰς ὄρθρον, ἡμέρᾳ δ' εἰς νύκτα συμμετρεῖσθαι τὰς ἐφόδους, καὶ πολλάκις ἀποστείλαντι τοὺς στρατιώτας ἐπὶ τὴν βοήθειαν τῆς χώρας διὰ κενῆς, παραγίνεται τις ἐξ αὐτῶν ἠκισμένος τὸ σῶμα μᾶστιξιν ἀποσταλεῖς ὑπὸ τῶν φυγάδων ὡς αὐτόμολος, ὃς ἄδειαν αἰτησάμενος ὑπέσχετο τῷ τυράννῳ παραλαβὼν τὴν ἀποσταλῆσομένην σὺν αὐτῷ δύναμιν ἄξειν ἐπὶ τὸν τόπον, ἐν ᾧ τὴν ἐπιούσαν ἔμελλον ἀυλίζεσθαι νύκτα οἱ φυγάδες. [6] ᾧ πιστεῦσαι προαχθεῖς ὁ τύραννος αἰτοῦντι οὐθὲν καὶ τὸ ἑαυτοῦ σῶμα ὄμηρον παρεχομένῳ πέμπει τοὺς πιστοτάτους τῶν ἡγεμόνων ἄγοντας ἱππεῖς τε πολλοὺς καὶ τὴν μισθοφόρον δύναμιν, οἷς ἐνετείλατο μάλιστα μὲν ἅπαντας τοὺς φυγάδας, εἰ δὲ μὴ γ' ὥς πλείστους ἐξ αὐτῶν δῆσαντας πρὸς αὐτὸν ἄγειν. ὁ μὲν οὖν κατασκευαστὸς αὐτόμολος κατὰ τ' ἀτρίβεις ὁδοὺς καὶ διὰ δρυμῶν ἐρήμων ἦγε τὴν στρατιὰν ταλαιπωροῦσαν δι' ὅλης νυκτὸς ἐπὶ τὰ πλείστον ἀπέχοντα τῆς πόλεως μέρη.

οἱ δ' ἀποστάται τε καὶ φυγάδες ἐν τῷ περὶ τὸν Ἄορνον ὄρει πλησίον ὄντι τῆς πόλεως λοχῶντες, [p. 18] ὥς ἔμαθον ἐξεληλυθυῖαν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως τὴν τοῦ τυράννου στρατιὰν συνθήμασι μηνυθεῖσαν ὑπὸ τῶν σκοπῶν, πέμπουσιν ἐξ αὐτῶν περὶ ἐξήκοντα μάλιστα τοὺς εὐτολμοτάτους διφθέρας ἔχοντας καὶ φακέλλους φρυγάνων κομίζοντας. [2] οὗτοι περὶ λύχνων ἀφὰς ἄλλοι κατ' ἄλλας πύλας ὥς χερνῆται παρεισπεσόντες ἔλαθον: ὥς δ' ἔνδον ἐγένοντο τοῦ τείχους ἐξεκλύσαντες ἐκ τῶν φακέλλων ἃ κατέκρυπτον ξίφη, καὶ συνελθόντες εἰς τὸν αὐτὸν ἅπαντες τόπον ἔπειτ' ἐκείθεν ὀρμήσαντες ἀθρόοι πρὸς τὰς ἐπὶ τὸν Ἄορνον φερούσας πύλας τοὺς τε φύλακας αὐτῶν ἀποκτείνουσι κοιμωμένους καὶ τοὺς σφετέρους ἅπαντας ἤδη τοῦ τείχους πλησίον ὄντας ἀναπεπταμέναις ταῖς πύλαις ὑποδέχονται, καὶ τοῦτο πράξαντες ἔλαθον. [3] ἔτυχε γὰρ ἐκείνῃ τῇ νυκτὶ ἐορτὴ τις οὕσα δημοτελής, καὶ δι' αὐτὴν ἅπας ὁ κατὰ πόλιν ὄχλος ἐν πότοις ὦν καὶ ταῖς ἄλλαις εὐπαθείαις. τοῦτο παρέσχεν αὐτοῖς κατὰ πολλὴν ἄδειαν ἀπάσας διελθεῖν τὰς ἐπὶ τὴν τυραννικὴν οἰκίαν φερούσας ὁδοὺς: καὶ οὐδὲ παρὰ ταῖς θύραις πολλὴν τινα καὶ ἐρηγορυῖαν εὖρον φυλακὴν, ἀλλὰ κἀνταῦθα τοὺς μὲν ἤδη καθεύδοντας, τοὺς δὲ μεθύοντας ἀποσφάζαντες δίχα πόνου καὶ κατὰ πλῆθος εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν ὠσάμενοι, τοὺς μὲν ἄλλους ἅπαντας οὔτε τῶν σωματῶν ἔτι κρατοῦντας οὔτε τῶν φρενῶν διὰ τὸν οἶνον προβάτων δίκην κατέσφαξαν: τὸν δ' [p. 19] Ἀριστόδημον καὶ τοὺς παῖδας αὐτοῦ καὶ τὴν ἄλλην συγγένειαν συλλαβόντες ἄχρι πολλῆς νυκτὸς αἰκιζόμενοι τε καὶ στρεβλοῦντες καὶ πᾶσιν ὥς εἰπεῖν λυμαινόμενοι κακοῖς ἀπέκτειναν. [4] ἀνελόντες δὲ τὴν τυραννικὴν οἰκίαν πρόρριζον, ὥς μήτε παιδία μήτε γυναῖκας μήτε συγγένειαν μηθενὸς αὐτῶν καταλιπεῖν καὶ δι' ὅλης νυκτὸς ἅπαντας ἐξερευνησάμενοι τοὺς συνεργοὺς τῆς τυραννίδος ἡμέρας γενομένης προῆλθον εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν. ἔπειτα συγκαλέσαντες τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν ἀποτίθενται τὰ ὄπλα καὶ τὴν πάτριον καθίστανται πολιτείαν.

ἐπὶ τοῦτον δὴ τὸν Ἀριστόδημον ἔτος ὁμοῦ τι τεσσαρεσκαιδέκατον ἤδη τυραννοῦντα Κύμης οἱ σὺν Ταρκυνίῳ φυγάδες καθιστάμενοι τὴν κατὰ τῆς πατρίδος ἐβούλοντο συντελέσασθαι δίκην. οἱ δὲ πρέσβεις τῶν Ῥωμαίων τέως μὲν ἀντέλεγον, ὥς οὗτ' ἐπὶ τοῦτον ἦκοντες τὸν ἀγῶνα οὗτ' ἐξουσίαν ἔχοντες, ἦν οὐκ ἐπέτρεψεν αὐτοῖς ἡ βουλὴ περὶ τῆς πόλεως ἀπολογήσασθαι δίκην. [2] ὥς δ' οὐθεν ἐπέβαινον, ἀλλ' ἐγκεκλικότα τὸν τύραννον ἐώρων ἐπὶ θάτερα μέρη διὰ τὰς σπουδὰς καὶ τὰς παρακλήσεις τῶν φυγάδων, αἰτησάμενοι χρόνον εἰς ἀπολογίαν, καὶ διεγγυήσαντες τὰ σώματα χρημάτων ἐν τῷ διὰ μέσου τῆς δίκης οὐθενὸς ἔτι φυλάττοντος αὐτοὺς ἀποδράντες ὥχοντο. θεράποντας δ' αὐτῶν καὶ τὰ ὑποζύγια καὶ τὰ ἐπὶ τῇ σιτῶνι ἀκομισθέντα χρήματα ὁ τύραννος κατέσχε. [3] ταῦταις μὲν οὖν ταῖς πρεσβείαις τοιαῦτα παθούσας ἀπράκτοις ἀναστρέψαι συνέβη, [p. 20] ἓκ δὲ τῶν ἐν Τυρρηνίᾳ πόλεων οἱ πεμφθέντες κέγχρους τε καὶ ζέας συνωνησάμενοι ταῖς ποταμηγοῖς σκάφαις κατεκόμισαν εἰς τὴν πόλιν. αὕτη βραχύν τινα χρόνον ἢ ἀγορὰ Ῥωμαίους διέθρεψεν: ἔπειτ' ἐξαναλωθεῖσα εἰς τὰς αὐτὰς ἀπορίας κατέστησεν αὐτοὺς. ἦν δ' οὐθὲν εἶδος ἀναγκαίας τροφῆς, ὃ οὐκ ἐπείραζον ἔτι, συνέβαινέ τ' οὐκ ὀλίγοις αὐτῶν, τὰ μὲν διὰ τὴν σπάνιν, τὰ δὲ διὰ τὴν ἀτοπίαν τῆς οὐκ εἰωθυίας ἐδωδῆς, τοῖς μὲν ἀρρώστων διακεῖσθαι τὰ σώματα, τοῖς δὲ παρημελημένοις διὰ πενίαν καὶ παντάπασιν ἀδυνάτως: [4] ὥς δὲ τοῦτ' ἔγνωσαν οἱ νεωστὶ κεκρατημένοι τῷ πολέμῳ Οὐολοῦσκοι, πρεσβειῶν ἀπορρήτοις διαποστολαῖς ἐνήγον ἀλλήλους εἰς τὸν κατ' αὐτῶν πόλεμον, ὥς ἀδυνάτων ἐσομένων, εἴ τις αὐτοῖς ἐπίθοιτο κεκακωμένοις πολέμῳ τε καὶ λιμῷ ἀντέχειν. θεῶν δὲ τις εὖνοια, οἷς φροντὶς ἦν μὴ περιδεῖν ὑπὸ τοῖς ἐχθροῖς Ῥωμαίους γενομένους, ἐκφανέστατα καὶ τότε τὴν ἑαυτῆς δύναμιν ἀπεδείξατο. τοσοῦτος γὰρ τις ἄφνω εἰς τὰς πόλεις τῶν Οὐολοῦσκων φθόρος λοιμικὸς ἐνέσκηψεν, ὅσος ἐν οὐδενὶ ἄλλῳ τόπῳ μνημονεύεται γενόμενος οὐθ' Ἑλλάδος οὔτε βαρβάρου γῆς, πᾶσαν ἡλικίαν καὶ τύχην καὶ φύσιν ἐρρωμένων τε καὶ ἀσθενῶν σωμάτων ὁμοίως διεργαζόμενος. [p. 21] ἐδήλωσε δὲ τὴν ὑπερβολὴν τῆς συμφορᾶς πόλις ἐπιφανῆς τῶν Οὐολοῦσκων, Οὐέλitrai ὄνομα αὐτῇ, μεγάλη τε καὶ πολυάνθρωπος οὔσα τέως, ἥς ὁ λοιμὸς μίαν ὑπελείπετο μοῖραν ἓκ τῶν δέκα, τὰς δ' ἄλλας ὑπολαβὼν ἀπῆνεγκε. [5] τελευτῶντες δ' οὖν ὅσοι περιῆσαν ἓκ τῆς συμφορᾶς πρεσβευσάμενοι Ῥωμαίοις ἔφρασαν τὴν ἐρημίαν καὶ παρέδοσαν τὴν πόλιν. ἔτυχον δὲ καὶ πρότερον ἐποίκους ἓκ τῆς Ῥώμης εἰληφότες, ἀφ' ἧς αἰτίας καὶ τὸ δεῦτερον τοὺς κληρούχους παρ' αὐτῶν ἦτουν.

ταῦτα τοῖς Ῥωμαίοις μαθοῦσι τῆς μὲν συμφορᾶς οἶκτος εἰσῆι, καὶ οὐδὲν ὦντο δεῖν τοῖς ἐχθροῖς ἐπὶ τοιαύταις τύχαις μνησικακεῖν, ὥς ἱκανὰς δεδωκόσι τοῖς θεοῖς ὑπὲρ σφῶν δίκας ἀνθ' ὧν ἔμελλον δράσειν: Οὐέλitraς δὲ παραλαμβάνειν ἐδόκει κληρούχων οὐκ ὀλίγων ἀποστολῇ πολλὰ τὰ συμφέροντα ἓκ τοῦ πράγματος ἐπιλογιζομένοις. [2] τὸ τε γὰρ χωρίον ἱκανὸν εἶναι ἐφαίνετο φυλακῇ ἀξιόχρεω καταληφθὲν οἷς ἂν νεωτερίζειν ἢ παρακινεῖν τι βουλομένοις ἢ μέγα κώλυμα καὶ ἐμπόδιον εἶναι: ἢ τ' ἀπορία τῆς τροφῆς ἢ κατέχουσα τὴν πόλιν οὐ παρ' ὀλίγον μετριωτέρα γενήσεσθαι ὑπωπτεύετο, εἰ μετασταίῃ τις ἐξ αὐτῆς ἀπὸ τοῦ πλήθους μοῖρα ἀξιόλογος. μάλιστα δ' ἡ στάσις ἀναρριπιζομένη, πρὶν ἢ πεπαῦσθαι καλῶς ἔτι τὴν προτέραν, [3] ἐνήγεν αὐτοὺς ψηφίζεσθαι τὸν ἀπόστολον. πάλιν γάρ, ὥσπερ καὶ πρότερον, ὁ δῆμος ἡρεθίζετο καὶ δι' ὀργῆς [p. 22] εἶχε τοὺς πατρικίους, πολλοὶ τε καὶ χαλεποὶ κατ' αὐτῶν ἐγίνοντο λόγοι τῶν μὲν ὀλιγωρίαν ἐγκαλούντων καὶ ῥαθυμίαν, ὅτι οὐκ ἓκ πολλοῦ προείδοντο τὴν ἐσομένην τοῦ σίτου σπάνιν καὶ προὔμηχανήσαντο τὰ πρὸς τὴν συμφορὰν ἀλεξήματα, τῶν δ' ἐξ ἐπιβουλῆς ὑπ' αὐτῶν γεγονέναι τὴν σιτοδείαν ἀποφαινόντων δι' ὀργὴν τε καὶ ἐπιθυμίαν τοῦ κακῶσαι τὸ δημοτικὸν ἀναμνήσει τῆς ἀποστάσεως. [4] διὰ ταύτας μὲν δὴ τὰς αἰτίας ἢ τῶν κληρούχων ἀποστολῇ ταχεῖα ἐγίνετο τριῶν ἀποδειχθέντων ἀνδρῶν ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς ἡγεμόνων. τῷ δήμῳ δὲ κατ' ἀρχὰς μὲν ἦν ἀσμένῳ τοὺς κληροῦχος διαλαγχάνειν ὡς λιμοῦ τ' ἀπαλλαχθισομένῳ καὶ χώραν οἰκήσουσι εὐδαίμονα: ἔπειτ' ἐνθυμουμένων τὸν λοιπόν, ὅς. ἐν τῇ μελλούσῃ αὐτὸν ὑποδέχασθαι πόλει πολὺς γενόμενος τοὺς τ' οἰκήτορας διεφθάρκει καὶ δέος παρεῖχε, μὴ καὶ τοὺς ἐποίκους ταῦτ' ἐργάσεται, μεθίστατο κατὰ μικρὸν εἰς τάναντία ἢ γνώμη, ὥστ' οὐ πολλοὶ τινες ἐφάνησαν οἱ μετέχειν βουλόμενοι τῆς ἀποικίας, ἀλλὰ πολὺ ἐλάττους ὧν ἡ βουλὴ ἐψηφίσατο, καὶ οὗτοι δ' ἦδη σφῶν αὐτῶν κατεγνώκεσαν ὡς κακῶς βεβουλευμένων καὶ ὑпанεδύνοντο τὴν ἔξοδον. [5] κατελήφθη μέντοι τοῦτο τὸ μέρος καὶ τὸ ἄλλο τὸ μὴ ἐκουσίως συναιρόμενον τῆς ἐξόδου ψηφισαμένης τῆς βουλῆς ἐξ ἀπάντων [p. 23] γενέσθαι Ῥωμαίων κλήρῳ τὴν ἔξοδον, κατὰ δὲ τῶν λαχόντων, εἰ μὴ ἐξίοιεν, χαλεπὰς καὶ ἀπαραιτήτους θεμένης ζημίας. οὗτός τε δὴ ὁ στόλος εἰς Οὐελίτρας εὐπρεπεῖ ἀνάγκῃ καταληφθεὶς ἀπεστάλη, καὶ ἕτερος αὖθις οὐ πολλαῖς ἡμέραις ὕστερον εἰς Νῶρβαν πόλιν, ἣ ἐστὶ τοῦ Λατίνων ἔθνους οὐκ ἀφανής.

ἐπὶ τοῖς καινοτομουμένοις καὶ τὴν τοῦ Βρούτου δημοκοπίαν εἰς μέγα τι κακὸν ἀποσκήψειν οἰόμενοι. πολλοὶ μὲν δὴ καὶ παντοδαποὶ ὑπὸ τ' αὐτῶν ἐκείνων ἐρρήθησαν ἐν τῷ συνεδρίῳ λόγοι καὶ ὑπὸ τῶν ἄλλων πρεσβυτέρων, τῶν μὲν οἰομένων δεῖν θεραπεύειν τὸν δῆμον ἀπάσῃ εὐπροσηγορίᾳ λόγων [p. 25] καὶ ὑποσχέσει ἔργων καὶ τοὺς ἡγεμόνας αὐτοῦ μετριωτέρους παρασκευάζειν, τιθέντας εἰς μέσον τὰ πράγματα καὶ μετὰ σφῶν ὑπὲρ τοῦ κοινῇ συμφέροντος παρακαλοῦντας σκοπεῖν. [2] τῶν δὲ μηθὲν ἐνδιδόναι μαλακὸν συμβουλευόντων πρὸς ὄχλον αὐθάδη καὶ ἀμαθῇ ἢ θρασεῖάν τε καὶ ἀνύποιστον δημοκόπων ἀνθρώπων μανίαν, ἀλλ' ἀπολογεῖσθαι μὲν, ὡς οὐδὲν εἴη τῶν γεγονότων παρὰ τῶν πατρικίων αἵτιον, καὶ ὑπισχνεῖσθαι πρόνοιαν ἔξιν τοῦ κακοῦ τὴν δυνατὴν, τοῖς δὲ ταραττούσι τὸν δῆμον ἐπιτιμᾶν καὶ προαγορεύειν, ὡς εἰ μὴ παύσονται τὴν στάσιν ἀναρριπίζοντες ἀξίας τίσουσι δίκας. [3] ταύτης ἡγεῖτο τῆς γνώμης Ἀππιος, καὶ ἦν ἡ νικῶσα αὕτη πολλῆς ἐμπεσοῦσης πάνυ τοῖς συνέδροις φιλονεικίας: ὥστε καὶ τὸν δῆμον ὑπὸ τῆς βοῆς αὐτῶν ἐξακουμένης ἐπὶ πολὺ ταραχθέντα συνδραμεῖν ἐπὶ τὸ βουλευτήριον, καὶ πᾶσαν ὀρθὴν ἐπὶ τῇ προσδοκίᾳ [4] γενέσθαι τὴν πόλιν. μετὰ δὲ τοῦθ' οἱ μὲν ὕπατοι προελθόντες συνεκάλουν τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν: ἦν δ' οὐ πολὺ τῆς ἡμέρας ἔτι τὸ λειπόμενον: καὶ παρελθόντες ἐπειρῶντο τὰ δόξαντα σφίσι ἐν τῇ βουλῇ λέγειν. ἐνίσταντο δ' αὐτοῖς οἱ δῆμαρχοι, καὶ οὐκ ἦν ἐν μέρει οὐδ' ἐν κόσμῳ γινόμενος παρ' ἀμφοῖν [p. 26] ὁ λόγος. ἐβόων γὰρ ἅμα καὶ ἐξέκλειον ἀλλήλους, ὥστε μὴ ῥάδιον εἶναι τοῖς παροῦσι τὰς διανοίας αὐτῶν ὅ τι βούλονται συνιδεῖν.

ἐδικαίουν δ' οἱ μὲν ὕπατοι τὴν κρείττονα ἔχοντες ἐξουσίαν ἀπάντων ἄρχειν τῶν ἐν τῇ πόλει, οἱ δὲ δῆμαρχοι τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἑαυτῶν εἶναι χωρίον ὥσπερ ἐκείνων τὴν βουλήν, καὶ ὅποσα ἐπὶ τοῖς δημόταις ἦν κρίνειν τε καὶ ψηφίζεσθαι, τούτων αὐτοὶ πᾶν ἔχειν τὸ κρίτος. συνηγωνίζετο δὲ τοῖς μὲν ἢ πληθὺς ἐπιβοῶσα καὶ ὁμόσε χωρεῖν, εἰ δέοι, τοῖς κωλύουσι παρεσκευασμένη, τοῖς δ' ὑπάτοις οἱ πατρικιοὶ συστρέψαντες αὐτούς. [2] ἐγίνετο δὲ πολὺς ἀγὼν περὶ τοῦ μὴ εἶξαι ἑκατέρους, ὡς ἐν μιᾷ τῇ τότε ἡττη παραχωρουμένης τῆς εἰς τὸν λοιπὸν χρόνον ἑκατέρων δικαιοῦσεως. ἡλιός τε περὶ καταφορὰν ἦν ἡδη, καὶ συνέτρεχεν ἐκ τῶν οἰκιῶν τὸ ἄλλο πλῆθος εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν, καὶ ἔμελλον, εἰ νῦν ἐπιλαμβάνοι τὴν ἔριν, εἰς πληγὰς τε καὶ λίθων χωρήσειν βολάς. [3] ἵνα δὴ μὴ τοῦτο γένοιτο, προελθὼν ὁ Βροῦτος τοὺς ὑπάτους ἡξίου δοῦναι λόγον αὐτῷ, παύσειν ὑπισχνόμενος τὴν στάσιν. κάκεῖνοι δόξαντες σφίσι παρακεχωρησθαι, ὅτι τῶν δημάρχων παρόντων οὐ παρ' ἐκείνων ὁ δημαγωγὸς ἡτήσατο τὴν χάριν, ἐπιτρέπουσιν αὐτῷ λέγειν. σιωπῆς δὲ γενομένης ἄλλο μὲν οὐδὲν ὁ Βροῦτος εἶπεν, ἠρώτησε δὲ τοὺς ὑπάτους τοιάνδε τινὰ [4] ἐρώτησιν: Ἄρα γ', ἔφη, μέμνησθ', ὅτι διαλυομένοις [p. 27] ἡμῖν τὴν στάσιν τοῦτο συνεχωρήθη τὸ δίκαιον ὑφ' ὑμῶν, ὅταν οἱ δῆμαρχοι συναγάγωσι τὸν δῆμον ὑπὲρ ὀτουδήτινος, μὴ παρεῖναι τῇ συνόδῳ τοὺς πατρικίους μηδ' ἐνοχλεῖν; μεμνήμεθ', ἔφησεν ὁ Γεγάνιος. καὶ ὁ Βροῦτος ὑποφέρει: τί οὖν παθόντες ἐμποδὼν ἴστασθ' ἡμῖν καὶ οὐκ ἔατε τοὺς δημάρχους ἃ βούλονται λέγειν; ἀποκρίνεται πρὸς ταῦθ' ὁ Γεγάνιος: ὅτι

οὐθενὸς δὲ πρὸς ταῦτ' ἀντιλέξαντος ἀπήεσαν ἐκ τῆς ἐκκλησίας οὐ τὰς ὁμοίας ὑπολήψεις ἔχοντες [p. 28] ἑκάτεροι: ἀλλ' οἱ μὲν ἄποροι δοκοῦντές τι περιττὸν ἐξευρηκέναι τὸν Βροῦτον καὶ οὐκ εἰκῇ ὑποσχέσθαι πρᾶγμα τηλικούτον, οἱ δὲ πατρίκιοι περιφρονοῦντες τὴν κουφότητα τοῦ ἀνθρώπου καὶ τῶν ὑποσχέσεων τὴν τόλμαν ἔως λόγου χωρήσειν οἰόμενοι: μὴδὲν γὰρ ὑπὸ τῆς βουλῆς συγκεχωρηῆσθαι τοῖς δημάρχοις ἔξω τοῦ βοηθεῖν τοῖς ἀδικουμένοις τῶν δημοτικῶν. οὐ μὴν ἅπασί γ' εἰσῆι καὶ μάλιστα τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις ὀλιγωρία τοῦ πράγματος, ἀλλὰ προσέχειν, μὴ τι ἀνῆκεστον ἢ τοῦ ^[2] ἀνδρὸς ἐξεργάσθαι μανία. τῇ δ' ἐξῆς νυκτὶ κοινωσάμενος τοῖς δημάρχοις ὁ Βροῦτος τὴν ἑαυτοῦ γνώμην καὶ παρασκευασάμενος χεῖρα οὐκ ὀλίγην δημοτῶν κατέβαινε μετ' αὐτῶν εἰς τὴν ἀγοράν: καὶ πρὶν ἡμέραν λαμπρὰν γενέσθαι καταλαβόμενοι τὸ Ἑφαιστεῖον, ἔνθα ἦν ἔθος αὐτοῖς ἐκκλησιάζειν, ἐκάλουν μὲν εἰς ἐκκλησίαν τὸν δῆμον. πληρωθείσης δὲ τῆς ἀγορᾶς: ὄχλος γὰρ ὅσος οὕτω πρότερον συνῆλθε: παρελθὼν Σικίνιος ὁ δῆμαρχος πολὺν μὲν ἐποίησατο κατὰ τῶν πατρικίων λόγον, ἅπανθ' ὑπομιμνήσκων ὅσα κατὰ τῶν δημοτικῶν αὐτοῖς ἐπράχθη: ἔπειθ' ὑπὲρ τῆς παρελθούσης ἡμέρας ἐδίδασκεν, ὡς κεκωλυμένος ὑπ' αὐτῶν εἶη λόγου τυχεῖν καὶ τὴν ἐξουσίαν τῆς ἀρχῆς ἀφηρημένος. ^[3] τίνος [p. 29] γὰρ ἂν ἔτι γενοίμεθ', ἔφη, κύριοι τῶν ἄλλων, εἰ μὴδὲ τοῦ λέγειν ἐσομέθα; πῶς δ' ἂν τι νι ὑμῶν ἀδικουμένῳ πρὸς αὐτῶν βοηθεῖν δυναίμεθα, εἰ τὴν ἐξουσίαν τοῦ συνάγειν ὑμᾶς ἀφαιρεθείημεν; ἄρχουσι γὰρ δήπου παντὸς ἔργου λόγοι, καὶ οὐκ ἄδηλον, ὅτι οἷς εἰπεῖν ἂ φρονοῦσιν οὐκ ἔξεστιν, οὐδὲ πρᾶξιαι ἂν ἐξεῖη, ἂ βούλονται. ἢ κομίζεσθ' οὖν, ἔφη, τὴν ἐξουσίαν, ἢ δεδώκατε ἡμῖν, εἰ μὴ μέλλετε βεβαιοῦν αὐτῇ τᾶσφαλές, ἢ νόμῳ γραφέντι κωλύσατε τοὺς ἐμποδῶν ἡμῖν τὸ λοιπὸν ἐσομένους. ^[4] τοιαῦτα διαλεχθεῖς, ἐπικελεύσαντος αὐτῷ τοῦ δήμου μεγάλῃ βοῇ τὸν νόμον εἰσφέρειν, ἔχων αὐτὸν ἤδη γεγραμμένον ἀνεγίνωσκε καὶ ψῆφον δίδωσι τῷ πλήθει περὶ αὐτοῦ παραχρῆμα ἐπενεγκεῖν. οὐ γὰρ ἐδόκει τὸ πρᾶγμα δεῖσθαι ἀναβολῆς οὐδὲ μελλησμοῦ, μὴ τι ἄλλο κώλυμα γένηται πρὸς τῶν ὑπᾶτων. ^[5] ἦν δὲ τοιοῦδε ὁ νόμος: δημάρχου γνώμην ἀγορεύοντος ἐν δήμῳ μηδεὶς λεγέτω μηδὲν ἐναντίον μηδὲ μεσολαβεῖτω τὸν λόγον. ἐὰν δὲ τις παρὰ ταῦτα ποιήσῃ, διδότης τοῖς δημάρχοις ἐγγυητὰς αἰτηθεὶς εἰς ἔκτισιν ἧς ἂν ἐπιθῶσιν αὐτῷ

ταῦτα δ' ὁρῶσι τοῖς ὑπάτοις ἐδόκει τῆς βουλῆς ἐπιτρεπούσης στρατοπέδου ποιεῖσθαι καταγραφὴν καὶ ἐξάγειν ἔξω τὴν δύναμιν: εἰλήφεσαν δ' ἀφορμὴν τῷ ἐγχειρήματι πρέπουσαν ἐπιδρομὰς τε καὶ λεηλασίας κακουμένης τῆς χώρας ὑπὸ τῶν πολεμίων θαμινὰ, τὰ τ' ἄλλα, ὅσα ἐκ τοῦ πράγματος χρηστὰ ἦν, ἐπιλογιζόμενοις, ὑπερορίου στρατιᾶς ἐκπεμψείσης ὥς εὐπορωτέρᾳ μὲν ἔξουσι τῇ ἀγορᾷ χρῆσθαι οἱ ὑπολειφθέντες ἐλάττους γενόμενοι, ἐν ἀφθονωτέροις δὲ διάζουσι τοῖς ἐπιτηδείοις οἱ τὰ ὅπλα ἔχοντες ἐκ τῶν πολεμίων ἐπισιτιζόμενοι, λωφῆσει δ' ἡ στάσις, ὅσον ἂν ἡ στρατεία κατέχη χρόνον: μάλιστα δ' ἐφαίνετο ἔργῳ βεβαιώσειν αὐτῶν τὰς διαλλαγὰς συστρατευόντων ἀλλήλοις πατρικίων καὶ δημοτῶν ἢ γεννησομένη παρὰ τοὺς κινδύνους κακῶν τε καὶ ἀγαθῶν ἰσομοιρία. [2] ἀλλ' οὐκ ἦν τὸ πλῆθος ὑπήκοον αὐτοῖς οὐδ' ὥσπερ πρότερον ἐκούσιον ὑπήντα πρὸς τὴν καταγραφὴν: ἀνάγκην δὲ προσφέρειν τοῖς μὴ βουλομένοις οὐκ ἐδικαίουν τὴν ἐκ τῶν νόμων οἱ ὑπατοὶ: ἀλλ' ἐκ τῶν πατρικίων ἐθέλονται τινες κατεγράφησαν [p. 32] ἅμα τοῖς πελάταις, καὶ αὐτοῖς ἐξιούσιν ὀλίγον τι ἀπὸ [3] τοῦ δήμου μέρος συνεστράτευεν. ἡγεμῶν δὲ τῶν ἐξελθόντων ἦν Γάιος Μάρκιος ὁ τὴν Κοριολάνων πόλιν ἐλὼν κἄν τῇ πρὸς Ἀντιάτας ἀριστεύσας

οἱ δὲ μετ' αὐτοὺς ἀποδειχθέντες ὕπατοι Μάρκος Μηνύκιος Αὐγουρίνος καὶ Αὐλὸς Σεμπρώνιος Ἀτρατῖνος δεῦτερον καταστάντες ἐπὶ τὴν ἀρχήν, ἄνδρες [p. 33] οὐθ' ὅπλων οὐτε λόγων ἄπειροι, προνοίᾳ μὲν ἐχρήσαντο πολλῇ σίτου τε καὶ τῆς ἄλλης ἀγορᾶς ἐμπληῆσαι τὴν πόλιν, ὥς ἐν τῇ κατ' αὐτὴν εὐετηρία τῆς ὁμονομίας τοῦ πλήθους κειμένης· οὐ μὴν ἐξεγένετο γ' αὐτοῖς ἀμφοτέρων ἅμα τούτων τυχεῖν, ἀλλὰ συνεισηλθεν ἅμα τῷ κόρῳ τῶν ἀγαθῶν ἡ τῶν χρῆσάμενων αὐτοῖς ὕβρις. [2] καὶ τότε δὲ μέγιστος κατέλαβε τὴν Ῥώμην κίνδυνος ἐξ ἀρχῆς, ὅτε ἥκιστ' ἐδόκει. οἱ τε γὰρ ἐπὶ τὴν σιτωνίαν ἀποσταλέντες ὑπ' αὐτῶν πρέσβεις πολὺν ἐκ τῶν παραθαλαττίων τε καὶ μεσογείων ἐμπορίων σῖτον ὠνησάμενοι κατῆγαγον δημοσίᾳ, οἱ τε διαμείβεσθαι τὰς ἀγορὰς εἰωθότες ἐκ παντὸς τόπου συνῆλθον, παρ' ὧν ἡ πόλις ὠνησαμένη τὸν φόρτον ἐκ τῶν κοινῶν χρημάτων εἶχεν ἐν φυλακῇ. [3] ἦλθον δὲ καὶ οἱ πρότερον ἀποσταλέντες πρέσβεις εἰς Σικελίαν Γεγάνιος καὶ Οὐαλέριος πολλὰς ἄγοντες ὀλκάδας, ἐν αἷς ἐκομίζοντο πυρῶν πέντε μυριάδες μεδίμνων Σικελικῶν, ὧν τὸ μὲν ἥμισυ μέρος ὠνητὸν ἦν βραχείας πάνυ τιμῆς, τὸ δὲ λοιπὸν ὁ τύραννος ἀπεστάλκει προῖκα δοὺς καὶ τέλεσι παρακομίσας τοῖς ἰδίοις. [4] ὥς δ' ἀπηγγέλη τοῖς ἐν τῇ πόλει ὁ κατάπλους τῶν σιτηγῶν ὀλκάδων τῶν ἀπὸ Σικελίας, πολλὴ ζήτησις ἐνέπιπτε τοῖς πατρικίοις ὑπὲρ τῆς διαθέσεως αὐτοῦ. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἐπεικέστατοι αὐτῶν καὶ φιλοδημότατοι πρὸς τὰς κατεχούσας τὸ κοινὸν ἀνάγκας ἀποβλέποντες τὴν τε παρὰ τοῦ τυράννου δωρεὰν παρήνουν ἅπασαν διανεῖμαι τοῖς δημοτικοῖς, καὶ τὸν ὠνηθέντα ἐκ τῶν δημοσίων [p. 34] χρημάτων σῖτον ὀλίγης αὐτοῖς ἀπεμπολῆσαι τιμῆς, διδάσκοντες ὥς ἐκ τούτων ἂν γένοιτο μάλιστα τῶν χαρίτων ἐπεικέστεραι πρὸς τοὺς εὐπόρους αἱ τῶν πενήτων ὀργαί· οἱ δ' αὐθαδέστεροι καὶ ὀλιγαρχικώτεροι πάσῃ προθυμίᾳ τε καὶ μηχανῇ κακοῦν ὦνοντο δεῖν τοὺς δημοτικοὺς καὶ συνεβούλευον τιμίας ὥς ἔνι μάλιστα ποιεῖν αὐτοῖς τὰς ἀγορὰς, ἵνα σωφρονέστεροι διὰ τὴν ἀνάγκην γένοιτο καὶ πρὸς τὰ λοιπὰ τῆς πολιτείας δίκαια νομιμώτεροι.

καὶ τῶν δημοτικῶν. εἶχε γάρ τινας ἔξω τῶν κοινῶν ἐγκλημάτων καὶ ἰδίας προφάσεις νεωστὶ γενομένας, ἐξ ὧν εἰκότως ἐδόκει μισεῖν τοὺς δημοτικούς. [2] ὑπατεῖαν γὰρ αὐτῷ μετιόντι ταῖς ἔγγιστα γενομέναις ἀρχαιρεσίαις καὶ τοὺς πατρικίους ἔχοντι συναγωνιζομένους ὁ δῆμος ἐναντιωθείς οὐκ εἶασε δοῦναι τὴν ἀρχὴν τὴν τε λαμπρότητα τοῦ ἀνδρὸς καὶ τὴν τόλμαν δι' εὐλαβείας ἔχων, μὴ τι διὰ ταῦτα νεωτερίσῃ περὶ τὴν τῶν δημάρχων κατάλυσιν, καὶ μάλιστα δεδιώς, ὅτι συνελάμβανεν αὐτῷ πάσῃ προθυμίᾳ τὸ τῶν πατρικίων πλῆθος ὡς οὐδενὶ τῶν πρότερον. [3] ταύτης τ' οὖν τῆς ὕβρεως ὀργῇ ἐπαρθεῖς ὁ ἀνὴρ καὶ τὴν μεταβολὴν τοῦ πολιτεύματος εἰς τὸν ἐξ ἀρχῆς κόσμον ἀποκαταστήσαι προθυμούμενος αὐτός τ' ἀναφανδόν, ὥσπερ καὶ πρότερον ἔφην, ἔπραττε τὴν τοῦ δήμου κατάλυσιν, καὶ [p. 35] τοὺς ἄλλους ἐνήγεν. ἦν δὲ περὶ αὐτὸν ἐταιρία μεγάλη νέων εὐγενῶν, οἷς ἦν τὰ μέγιστα τιμήματα βίων καὶ πελάται συχνοὶ συνεστηκότες ἐπὶ ταῖς ἐκ τῶν πολέμων ὠφελείαις· οἷς ἐπαιρόμενος ἐφρυάττετο καὶ λαμπρὸς ἦν καὶ προῆλθεν ἐπὶ μήκιστον ἐπιφανείας. [4] οὐ μὴν εὐτυχοῦς γε διὰ ταῦτα καταστροφῆς ἔτυχε· συναχθείσης γὰρ ὑπὲρ τούτων βουλῆς καὶ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων, ὡς ἔθος ἦν αὐτοῖς, πρώτων ἀποφνημαμένων τὰς ἐαυτῶν διανοίας, ἐν οἷς οὐ πολλοὶ τινες ἦσαν οἱ τὰς κατὰ τοῦ δήμου γνώμας ἀντικρυς ἀγορεύσαντες, ἐπειδὴ καθῆκεν εἰς τοὺς νεωτέρους ὁ λόγος, αἰτησάμενος ἐξουσίαν παρὰ τῶν ὑπάτων εἰπεῖν ὅσα βούλεται, καὶ τυχὼν ἐπισημασίας τε μεγάλης καὶ προσοχῆς λόγον διεξῆλθε κατὰ τοῦ δήμου τοιόνδε.

ὅτι μὲν οὐχ ὑπ' ἀνάγκης τε καὶ ἀπορίας βιασθεῖς ὁ δῆμος ἐποίησατο τὴν ἀπόστασιν, ὧ πατέρες, ἀλλὰ πονηρᾷ ἐλπίδι ἐπαρθεῖς ὡς καταλύσων τὴν ἀριστοκρατίαν ὑμῶν καὶ πάντων αὐτὸς ἐσόμενος τῶν κοινῶν κύριος, σχεδὸν οἶμαι πάντας ὑμᾶς ἡσθῆσθαι τὰ περὶ τὰς διαλλαγὰς αὐτοῦ πλεονεκτήματα ὀρῶντας· ὧ γ' οὐκ ἀπέχρησε διαφθεῖραντι τὴν περὶ τὰ συμβόλαια πίστιν καὶ τοὺς ἐπὶ ταύτῃ κειμένους ἀνελόντι νόμους μηθὲν ἄλλο πολυπραγμονεῖν, καὶνὴν δὲ καταστησάμενος ἀρχὴν ἐπὶ τῷ καθελεῖν τὴν τῶν ὑπάτων ἱεράν καὶ ἄσυλον ἐποίησεν αὐτὴν νόμῳ, καὶ νῦν τυραννικὴν ἐξουσίαν περιβαλλόμενος, ὧ βουλή, τῷ νεωστὶ κυρωθέντι νόμῳ λέληθεν ὑμᾶς. [2] ὅταν γὰρ ἐπ' ἐξουσίας πολλῆς οἱ [p. 36] προεστηκότες αὐτοῦ πρόφασιν εὐπρεπῇ προβαλλόμενοι τὸ δὴ τοῖς ἀδικουμένοις τῶν δημοτῶν βοηθεῖν διὰ τῆς ἐξουσίας ταύτης ἄγωσι καὶ φέρωσιν, ὅς' ἂν αὐτοῖς δοκῇ, καὶ μηθεὶς ὁ κωλύσων τὰς παρανομίας αὐτῶν ἦ, μήτ' ἰδιώτης μήτ' ἀρχων δεδοικώς τὸν νόμον, ὃς ἀφαιρεῖται καὶ τὸν λόγον ἡμῶν ἅμα τοῖς ἔργοις θάνατον ἐπιτιθεῖς ζημίαν τοῖς ἐλευθέραν φωνὴν ἀφιεῖσι, τί προσῆκεν ὄνομα θέσθαι τῇ δυναστείᾳ ταύτῃ τοὺς νοῦν ἔχοντας ἕτερον, ἢ τοῦθ', ὅπερ ἐστὶν ἀληθὴς καὶ πάντες ἂν ὁμολογήσετε, τυραννίδα; εἰ δ' οὐχ ὑφ' ἐνὸς ἀνδρός, ἀλλ' ὑφ' ὅλου τυραννόμεθα δήμου, τί τοῦτο διαφέρει; τὸ γὰρ ἔργον ἐξ ἀμφοῖν ταυτό. [3] κράτιστον μὲν οὖν ἦν μηδὲ τὸ σπέρμα τῆς ἐξουσίας ταύτης εἶσαι καταβαλλόμενον, ἀλλὰ πάντα ὑπομείναι πρότερον, ὡς Ἀππίος ὁ βέλτιστος ἐκ πολλοῦ τὰ δεινὰ προορώμενος ἡξίου, εἰ δὲ μὴ, νῦν γ' ὁμοθυμαδὸν ἅπαντας ἐξορῶξαντας αὐτὴν πρόρριζον ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἄλλα πολλά τιν', ἃ ἡδίκησθε ὑπ' αὐτῶν: ἵνα καὶ [p. 39] γνῶμεν ἤδη, τί ποτ' ἐστὶν ἐκεῖνο τὸ δεινόν, ὃ διαθήσουσιν ἡμᾶς, ἂν μὴ ποιῶμεν ἅπαντα τῷ δήμῳ τὰ καθ' ἡδονάς, ὡς οἱ δημαγωγοὶ αὐτῶν δεδιττόμενοι ἔλεγον. [3] εἰ δ' ἀφήσετε καὶ τοῦτον ἐκ τῶν χειρῶν τὸν καιρόν, πολλάκις εὖξεσθε τοιοῦτου τυχεῖν ἐτέρου: καὶ εἰ γνοίῃ τοῦθ' ὁ δῆμος, ὅτι βουλευθέντες καταλῦειν αὐτοῦ τὴν ἰσχὺν ἀπετράπεσθε, πολὺ μᾶλλον ὑμῖν βαρὺς ἐγκείσεται, πολέμιον μὲν τὸ βουλόμενον ὑμῶν ἡγοούμενος, δειλὸν δὲ τὸ μὴ δυνάμενον.

τοιαῦτ' εἰπόντος τοῦ Μαρκίου διέστησαν αἱ γνῶμαι τῶν συνέδρων, καὶ θόρυβος ἐν αὐτοῖς ἐγένετο πολὺς. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἐναντίοι τοῖς δημοτικοῖς καὶ τὰς διαλλαγὰς παρὰ γνώμην ὑπομεινάντες, ἐν οἷς ἢ τε νεότης ὀλίγου δεῖν πᾶσα ἦν καὶ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων οἱ πλουσιώτατοί τε καὶ φιλοτιμότατοι, βαρέως φέροντες οἱ μὲν ἐπὶ ταῖς περὶ τὰ συμβόλαια βλάβαις, οἱ δ' ἐπὶ τῇ περὶ τὰς τιμὰς ἐλαττώσει ἐπήνουν τὸν ἄνδρα ὡς γενναῖον καὶ φιλόπολιν καὶ τὰ κράτιστα τῷ κοινῷ [2] λέγοντα: οἱ δὲ δημοτικὰς ἔχοντες τὰς προαιρέσεις τῶν τρόπων καὶ τὸν πλοῦτον οὐ πέρα τοῦ δέοντος ἐκτετιμηκότες τῆς τ' εἰρήνης οὐδὲν ἀναγκαιότερον ὑπολαμβάνοντες ἤχθοντο τοῖς λεγομένοις ὑπ' αὐτοῦ καὶ τὴν γνώμην οὐ προσίεντο: ἡξίου τε μὴ τοῖς βίαισι, ἀλλὰ τοῖς εὐγνώμοσι περιεῖναι τῶν ταπεινότερων, μηδ' ἀπρεπές, ἀλλ' ἀναγκάϊον ἡγεῖσθαι τὸ ἐπεικές, ἄλλως τε καὶ πρὸς τοὺς συμπολιτευομένους ἐπ' εὐνοίᾳ γινόμενον: [p. 40] μανίαν τ' ἀπέφαινον αὐτοῦ τὴν συμβουλὴν, οὐ παρρησίαν οὐδὲ ἐλευθερίαν. βραχὺ μὲν οὖν τοῦτο τὸ μέρος καὶ ἀσθενὲς ὃν περιεωθεῖτο ὑπὸ τοῦ βιαιοτέρου. [3] ταῦτα δ' ὀρῶντες οἱ δήμαρχοι: παρήσαν γὰρ τῷ συνεδρίῳ παρακληθέντες ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων: ἐβόων τε καὶ ἥσπαιρον καὶ τὸν Μάρκιον λυμεῶνα καὶ ὄλεθρον τῆς πόλεως ἀπεκάλουν πονηροὺς διεξιόντα κατὰ τοῦ δήμου λόγους, καὶ εἰ μὴ κωλύσειαν αὐτὸν οἱ πατρικιοὶ πόλεμον ἐμφύλιον εἰς τὴν πόλιν εἰσάγοντα θανάτῳ ζημιώσαντες ἢ φυγῇ, αὐτοὶ ποιήσιν τοῦτ' ἔλεγον. [4] θορύβου δ' ἔτι πλείονος ἐπὶ τοῖς λόγοις τῶν δημάρχων γενομένου, καὶ μάλιστ' ἐκ τῶν νεωτέρων τὰς ἀπειλὰς δυσανασχετοῦντων ἐπαρθεῖς τοῦτοις ὁ Μάρκιος αὐθαδέστερον ἤδη καθήπτετο τῶν δημάρχων καὶ θρασύτερον: εἰ μὴ παύσεσθε μέντοι, λέγων, ταραττοντες τὴν πόλιν ὑμεῖς καὶ ἐκδημαγωγοῦντες τοὺς ἀπόρους, οὐκέτι λόγῳ διοίσομαι πρὸς ὑμᾶς, ἀλλ' ἔργῳ.

ἐπιλαβέσθαι τοῦ σώματος καί, εἰ μὴ ἐκὼν βούλεται ἀκολουθεῖν, βίᾳ ἄγειν· εἶχον δὲ τότε τὴν ἀγορανομικὴν ἐξουσίαν Τίτος Ἰούνιος Βροῦτος καὶ Γάιος Οὐισέλλιος Ροῦγας. οἱ μὲν δὴ προσήεσαν ὡς ἐπιληψόμενοι τοῦ ἀνδρός, οἱ δὲ πατρίκιοι δεινὸν ἠγησάμενοι τοῦργον ὑπὸ τῶν δημάρχων πρὸ δίκης ἄγεσθαι τινα σφῶν βίᾳ προὔστησαν τοῦ Μαρκίου καὶ τύπτοντες τοὺς ὁμόσε χωροῦντας ἀπῆλασαν. ^[4] διαβοηθέντος δὲ τοῦ πάθους ἀνὰ τὴν πόλιν ὄλην ἐξεπῆδων ἅπαντες ἐκ τῶν οἰκιῶν· οἱ μὲν ἐν τοῖς ἀξιώμασιν ὄντες καὶ χρημάτων ἔχοντες εὖ τὸν Μάρκιον ὑπερασπιοῦντες ἅμα τοῖς πατρίκιοις καὶ τὴν ἀρχαίαν ἀνακτησόμενοι πολιτείαν, οἱ δὲ ταπεινοὶ ταῖς τύχαις καὶ βίου σπανίζοντες ἀμύνειν παρεσκευασμένοι τοῖς δημάρχοις καὶ ποιεῖν, ὃ τι ἂν ἐκεῖνοι κελεύσωσιν· ἥ τ' αἰδώς, ὅφ' ἥς κρατούμενοι τῶς οὐδὲν ἐτόλμων εἰς ἀλλήλους παρανομεῖν, τότε ἀνήρητο ὑπ' αὐτῶν. οὐ μὴν ἔδρασαν γ' οὐδὲν ἀνήκεστον τὴν ἡμέραν ἐκείνην, ἀλλ' εἰς τὴν ἐποῦσαν ἀνεβάλοντο, γνώμη τε καὶ παρακλήσει τῶν ὑπᾶτων εἴξαντες. [p. 42]

τῇ δ' ἐξῆς ἡμέρᾳ πρῶτοι καταβάντες εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν οἱ δῆμαρχοι συνεκάλουν τὸν δῆμον εἰς ἐκκλησίαν καὶ παριόντες ἐκ διαδοχῆς πολλὰ μὲν τῶν πατρίκιων κατηγόρουν ὡς ἐψευσμένων τὰς συνθήκας καὶ παραβεβηκότων τοὺς ὅρκους, οὓς ἐποιήσαντο πρὸς τὸν δῆμον ὑπὲρ ἀμνηστίας τῶν πάλαι, πίστεις παραφέροντες τοῦ μὴ βεβαίως αὐτοὺς διηλλάχθαι πρὸς τὸ δημοτικὸν τὴν τε τοῦ σίτου σπάνιν, ἣν αὐτοὶ κατέσκευσαν, καὶ τὰς ἀποστολὰς τῶν κληρουχιῶν ἀμφοτέρων καὶ τᾶλλα ὅσα ἐμηχανήσαντο μειώσεως τοῦ πλήθους ἔνεκα. ^[2] πολλὰ δὲ τοῦ Μαρκίου καθήπτοντο τοὺς ῥηθέντας ὑπ' αὐτοῦ λόγους ἐν τῇ βουλῇ διεξιόντες, καὶ ὅτι καλούμενος εἰς ἀπολογίαν ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου οὐ μόνον οὐκ ἠξίωσεν ἐλθεῖν, ἀλλὰ καὶ τοὺς ἀφικομένους ἐπ' αὐτὸν ἀγορανόμους τύπτων ἀπῆλασεν. ἐκάλουν δὲ μάρτυρας τῶν ἐν τῇ βουλῇ γενομένων τοὺς ἐντιμοτάτους τῶν ἐκεῖ, τῆς δὲ περὶ τοὺς ἀγορανόμους ὕβρεως ἅπαντας τοὺς τότε παρόντας κατὰ τὴν ἀγορὰν δημοτικούς. ^[3] ταῦτα δ' εἰπόντες ἐδίδοσαν, εἰ βουλομένοις εἶη, τοῖς πατρίκιοις ἀπολογίαν, κατέχοντες ἐπὶ τῆς ἐκκλησίας τὸν δῆμον, ἕως ἢ βουλὴ διαλυθῇ. ἔτυχον γὰρ ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν τούτων συνεδρεῦοντες οἱ πατρίκιοι διαποροῦντες, εἴτ' ἀπολογητέον αὐτοῖς εἶη πρὸς τὸν δῆμον ὑπὲρ ὧν διεβλήθησαν, ^[4] εἴτε μενετέον ἐφ' ἡσυχίας. ἐπεὶ δ' αἱ πλείους γνώμαι τὰ φιланθρωπότερα τῶν αὐθαδεστέρων προεῖλοντο, διαλύσαντες οἱ ὕπατοι τὸν σύλλογον προῆλθον [p. 43] εἰς τὴν ἀγορὰν τὰς τε κοινὰς ἀπολυσόμενοι διαβολὰς καὶ περὶ τοῦ Μαρκίου τὸν δῆμον ἀξιώσοντες μὴθὲν βουλευσάι ἀνήκεστον. καὶ παρελθὼν ὁ πρεσβύτερος αὐτῶν Μηνύκιος ἔλεξε τοιάδε.

ὥστ' οὐκ ἐξ ὧν οἱ δημαγωγοὶ διαβάλλουσιν, ἀλλ' ἐξ ὧν αὐτοὶ ἴστε, τὸν λιμὸν ἡγούμενοι γεγονέναι παύσασθε προσάπτοντες ἐπιβουλὴν ἡμετέραν τῷ πάθει καὶ ^[3] δι' ὀργῆς ἔχοντες ἡμᾶς οὐθὲν ἀδικοῦντας. αἱ δ' ἀποστολαὶ τῶν κληρούχων ἐκ τοῦ ἀναγκαίου ἐγένοντο, κοινῇ δόξαν ὑμῖν ἅπασι διὰ φυλακῆς ἔχειν χωρία εἰς πόλεμον ἐπιτήδεια, καὶ μεγάλα ὠνησαν ἐν καιρῷ σφόδρα ἀναγκαίῳ γενόμεναι τοὺς τ' ἐξιόντας καὶ τοὺς ὑπολειπομένους ὑμῶν. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἀφθονωτέρων εὐποροῦσιν [p. 44] ἐκεῖ τῶν ἐπιτηδείων: οἱ δ' ἐνθάδε ὑπομείναντες ἤττον σπανίζουσι τῆς ἀγορᾶς: ἢ τ' ἰσομοιρία τῆς τύχης ἥς μετέσχομεν ὑμῖν τοῖς δημοτικοῖς οἱ πατρίκιοι κλήρῳ ποιησάμενοι τὴν ἔξοδον, οὐ ψέγεται.

περὶ μὲν δὴ τῶν κοινῶν ἀδικημάτων, ἐφ' οἷς τὴν βουλὴν οἱ δήμαρχοι διέβαλον, ἀποχρῆν οἶομαι τοσαῦτ' εἰρηῇσθαι. ἐπεὶ δὲ καὶ καθ' ἓνα ἕκαστον ἡμῶν, περὶ ὧν ἂν εἴπωμεν ἐν τῇ βουλῇ, συκοφαντοῦσι, καὶ διιστάναι τὴν πόλιν αἰτιῶνται, καὶ νῦν Γάιον Μάρκιον, ἄνδρα φιλόπολιν, ἐλευθέρα φωνῇ χρησάμενον ὑπὲρ τῶν κοινῶν ἀποκτεῖναι ζητοῦσιν ἢ φυγάδα ποιῆσαι τῆς πατρίδος, βούλομαι καὶ περὶ τούτου τὰ δίκαια εἰπεῖν πρὸς ὑμᾶς: καὶ σκοπεῖτε, εἰ μετρίους καὶ ἀληθεῖς ἐρῶ: ^[2] τοὺς λόγους. ὑμεῖς, ὧς δημόται, διαλλαττόμενοι πρὸς τὴν βουλὴν ἀποχρῆν ὑμῖν ὥεσθε τῶν δανείων ἀφεῖσθαι, καὶ βοηθείας ἕνεκα τῶν κατισχυομένων πενήτων ἄρχοντας ἐξ αὐτῶν ἡτήσασθε ἀποδεικνύναι, καὶ ταῦτ' [p. 46] ἀμφότερα πολλὴν εἰδότες ἡμῖν χάριν ἐλάβετε: καταλῦσαι δὲ τὴν ἀρχὴν τῶν ὑπάτων ἢ τὴν βουλὴν ἄκυρον ποιῆσαι τῆς ὑπὲρ τῶν κοινῶν προστασίας καὶ τὴν τάξιν ἀνατρέψαι τῆς πατρίου πολιτείας οὐτ' ἡτήσασθε οὔτε μέλλετε. [3] τί οὖν παθόντες ἐπιχειρεῖτε πάντα συγχεῖν ταῦτα νυνὶ; καὶ τίνι δικαίῳ πιστεύοντες τὰς τιμὰς ἡμῶν ζητεῖτε ἀφαιρεῖσθαι; εἰ γὰρ ἐν τοῖς μετέχουσιν τῆς βουλῆς φοβερὸν ποιήσετε τὸ μὴ μετὰ παρρησίας ἃ φρονοῦσι λέγειν, τί ἂν εἴποιεν οἱ προεστηκότες ὑμῶν ἐπικεῖς; ἢ ποίῳ χρησάμενοι νόμῳ θανάτῳ ζημιοῦν ἢ φυγῇ τῶν πατρικίων τινὰς ἀξιώσουσιν; οὔτε γὰρ οἱ παλαιοὶ νόμοι ταύτην διδόασιν ὑμῖν τὴν ἐξουσίαν, οὔθ' αἱ νεωστὶ γενόμεναι πρὸς τὴν βουλὴν ὁμολογίαι. [4] τὸ δ' ἐκβαίνειν τοὺς νομίμους ὄρους καὶ τὴν βίαν κρείττονα ποιεῖν τῆς δίκης οὐκέτι δημοτικὸν ἐστίν, ἀλλ' εἰ τάληθ' ἐβούλεσθε ἀκούειν τυραννικόν. ἐγὼ δὴ παραινέσαιμ' ἂν ὑμῖν, ὧν μὲν εὗρεσθε παρὰ τῆς βουλῆς φιланθρώπων μηδενὸς ἀφίστασθαι, ὧν δ' οὐκ ἤξιώσατε διαλυόμενοι τὴν ἔχθραν τότε τυχεῖν μηδὲ νῦν ἀντιποιεῖσθαι.

ἵνα δὲ μᾶλλον ὑμῖν γένηται φανερόν, ὅτι οὔθ' οὔτε μέτριον οὔτε δίκαιον ἀξιοῦσιν οἱ δημαγωγοί, ἀλλὰ παρανόμων τε καὶ ἀδυνάτων ἐφίενται μετενέγκαντες τὸ πρᾶγμα ἐφ' ἑαυτούς, οὕτω σκοπεῖτε καὶ ὑπολάβετε τοὺς μετέχοντας τοῦ συνεδρίου τοῖς ἐν ὑμῖν [p. 47] πολιτευόμενοις ἐγκαλεῖν, ὅτι πονηροὺς κατὰ τῆς βουλῆς διατίθενται λόγους ἐν ὑμῖν καὶ καταλύουσι τὴν πατριὸν ἀριστοκρατίαν, καὶ διαστασιάζουσι τὴν πόλιν, ἅπαντα ταῦτα λέγοντας ἀληθῆ: ποιοῦσι γὰρ ταῦτα: καὶ τὸ πάντων χαλεπώτατον, ὅτι δυναστείαν περιβάλλονται μείζονα τῆς συγκεχωρημένης αὐτοῖς ἄκριτον ἀποκτείνειν ἐπιχειροῦντες ὃν ἂν ἐθέλωσιν ἐξ ἡμῶν, καὶ ὅτι δεῖ [2] τοὺς ταῦτα ποιοῦντας τεθνάναι νηποινί. πῶς ἂν ὑμεῖς ἐνέγκαιτε τὴν αὐθάδειαν τοῦ συνεδρίου; καὶ τί ἂν εἴποιτε; ἄρ' οὐκ ἂν ἀγανακτήσατε καὶ δεινὰ φαίητε πάσχειν, εἰ τὴν παρρησίαν ἀφαιρήσεται τις ὑμᾶς καὶ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν, τὸν ὑπὲρ τῶν ἐσχάτων κίνδυνον ἐπιθεῖς τοῖς ἐλευθέραν φωνὴν ὑπὲρ τοῦ δήμου φθεγξαμένοις; [3] οὐκ ἔνεστ' ἄλλως εἰπεῖν. ἔπειθ' ἃ παθεῖν οὐκ ἂν ὑπομείναιτε αὐτοί, ταῦθ' ἐτέρους πάσχοντας ἀνέχεσθαι δικαιοῦτε; πολιτικά γ', ὧ δημόται, καὶ μέτρια ὑμῶν τὰ βουλευόμενα. τοιαῦτ' ἀξιοῦντες οὐκ αὐτοὶ βεβαιοῦτε τὰς καθ' ἑαυτῶν διαβολὰς ἀληθεῖς εἶναι, καὶ τοὺς συμβουλευόντας τὴν παράνομον ὑμῶν δυναστείαν μὴ περιορᾶν αὐξομένην, τὰ δίκαια τῷ κοινῷ [4] φρονοῦντας ἀποδείκνυτε; ἔμοι μὲν γὰρ δοκεῖ. ἀλλ' εἴ γε τᾶναντία βούλεσθε ὧν διαβέβλησθε ποιεῖν, ἔμοι συμβούλῳ χρησάμενοι μετριάσατε καὶ τοὺς λόγους, ἐφ' οἷς ἄχθεσθε, πολιτικῶς καὶ μὴ δυσοργήτως ἐνέγκατε. [p. 48] περιέσται γὰρ ὑμῖν μὲν, εἰ τοῦτο ποιήσετε, ἀγαθοῖς εἶναι δοκεῖν, τοῖς δ' ἀπεχθῶς διακειμένοις πρὸς ὑμᾶς μετανοεῖν.

μεγάλων, ὧν ὑμῖν δεομένοις ἐχαρισάμεθα, ταύτην παρ' ὑμῶν ἀντιλαβεῖν τὴν χάριν, μήτ' ἀποκτεῖναι μήτ' ἐκβαλεῖν τῆς πόλεως ἄνδρα φιλόπολιν καὶ τὰ πολέμια πάντων κράτιστον. ζημιωσόμεθα γὰρ οὐ μικρά, εὖ ἴστε, ὧ δημόται, τοιαύτης ἀποστερήσαντες ἀρετῆς τὴν πόλιν. μάλιστα μὲν οὖν δι' αὐτὸν ἐκείνον ὑφεῖναι τῆς ὀργῆς δίκαιοι ἐστε μνησθέντες, ὅσους ὑμῶν ἔσωσεν ἐν τοῖς πολέμοις, καὶ μὴ λόγων μνησικακεῖν φαύλων, ἀλλ' ἔργων μεμνησθαι καλῶν. [3] ὁ μὲν γὰρ λόγος ὑμᾶς τοῦ ἀνδρὸς οὐδὲν ἔβλαπεν, αἱ δὲ πράξεις αὐτοῦ μεγάλα ὠφέλησαν. εἰ δὲ πρὸς τοῦτον ἀδιαλλάκτως ἔχετε, ἡμῖν γέ τοι καὶ τῇ βουλῇ χαρίσασθε αὐτὸν δεομένοις, καὶ διαλλάγητε ἤδη ποτὲ βεβαίως τὴν τε πόλιν, ὥσπερ ἐξ ἀρχῆς εἶχε, μίαν [p. 49] εἶναι ποιήσατε. εἰ δὲ πείθουσιν ἡμῖν οὐ συγχωρήσετε, εὖ ἴστε, ὅτι οὐδ' ἡμεῖς βιαζόμενοις ὑμῖν εἴξομεν, ἀλλ' ἤτοι φιλόπητος ἀδόλου καὶ χαρίτων ἔτι μειζόνων ἦδε ἡ πείρα τοῦ δήμου πᾶσιν αἰτία ἔσται, ἣ πολέμου ἐμφυλίου αὐθις ἄρξει καὶ κακῶν ἀνηκέστων.

τοιαῦτα τοῦ Μηνυκίου διεξελθόντος ὀρῶντες οἱ δήμαρχοι τῇ τε μετριότητι τῶν λόγων καὶ τῇ φιланθρωπίᾳ τῶν ὑποσχέσεων ἐπαγόμενον τὸ πλῆθος ἤχοντο καὶ χαλεπῶς ἔφερον, μάλιστα δὲ Γάιος Σικίννιος Βελλοῦτος, ὁ πείσας τοὺς πένητας ἀποστῆναι τῶν πατρικίων καὶ στρατηγὸς ἀποδειχθεὶς ὑπ' αὐτῶν, ἕως ἦσαν ἐν τοῖς ὅπλοις, ἔχθιστος ἀνὴρ ἀριστοκρατία καὶ διὰ τοῦτο προηγμένος ὑπὸ τῶν πολλῶν εἰς ἐπιφάνειαν τὴν τε δημαρχικὴν ἐξουσίαν δεῦτερον ἤδη παρειληφώς, ἀπάντων ἥκιστα τῶν δημαγωγῶν ἑαυτῷ συμφέρειν ὁμονοῆσαι οἰόμενος τὴν πόλιν καὶ τὸν ἀρχαῖον ἀναλαβεῖν κόσμον. [2] οὐ γὰρ ὅσον τὰς τιμὰς καὶ τὰς δυνάμεις ἔξειν ἔτι τὰς αὐτὰς ὑπελάμβανεν ἀριστοκρατίας πολιτευομένης, γεγωνώς τε κακῶς καὶ τεθραμμένος ἀδόξως καὶ λαμπρὸν οὐθὲν ἀποδειξάμενος οὔτε κατὰ πολέμους οὔτ' ἐν εἰρήνῃ, ἀλλὰ καὶ περὶ τῶν ἐσχάτων κινδυνεύειν, ὡς διεστασιακῶς τὴν πόλιν καὶ πολλῶν αὐτῇ κακῶν γεγονῶς αἴτιος. [3] ἐνθυμηθεὶς δὴ ὅσα [p. 50] χρῆν λέγειν τε καὶ πράττειν καὶ μετὰ τῶν συναρχόντων βουλευσάμενος, ἐπειδὴ κάκεινους ἔσχεν ὁμογνώμονας, ἀνέστη καὶ μικρὰ περὶ τῆς κατεχούσης τὸν δῆμον ἀτυχίας ἀποδυράμενος τοὺς θ' ὑπάτους ἐπήνεσεν, ὅτι λόγον ἡξίωσαν ὑποσχεῖν τοῖς δημόταις οὐχ ὑπεριδόντες αὐτῶν τῆς ταπεινότητος, καὶ τοῖς πατρικίοις εἰδέναι χάριν ἔφησεν, εἰ τις αὐτοῖς ἤδη ποτὲ φροντὶς εἰσέρχεται τῆς σωτηρίας τῶν πενήτων: καὶ ἔτι μᾶλλον ἔφη μετὰ πάντων ἐκμαρτυρήσειν, ἐὰν ὅμοια παράσχωνται τοῖς λόγοις τὰ ἔργα.

εἰπὼν δὲ ταῦτα καὶ δόξας μέτριος ὀργὴν εἶναι καὶ διαλλακτικὸς ἐπιστρέφει πρὸς τὸν Μάρκιον παρεστηκότα τοῖς ὑπάτοις καὶ λέγει: σὺ δέ, τί οὐκ ἀπολογῇ πρὸς τοὺς σαντοῦ πολίτας, ὧ γενναῖε, περὶ ὧν εἶπας ἐν τῇ βουλῇ; μᾶλλον δὲ τί οὐκ ἀντιβολεῖς καὶ παραιτῇ τὰς ὀργὰς αὐτῶν, ἵνα μετριωτέραν ἐπιθῶσί σοι ζημίαν; ἀρνείσθαι μὲν γὰρ οὐκ ἂν ἀξιῶσαιμί σε τοσοῦτων ἀνδρῶν εἰδότην οὐδ' εἰς ἀναισχύντους καταφεύγειν ἀπολογίας, Μάρκιον ὄντα καὶ φρόνημα μεῖζον ἢ κατ' ἰδιώτην ἔχοντα: εἰ μὴ ἄρα τοῖς μὲν ὑπάτοις καὶ τοῖς πατρικίοις καλῶς ἔχει πείθειν ὑπὲρ σοῦ τὸν δῆμον, σοὶ δ' οὐκ ἄρα καλῶς ἔξει ταῦτό [2] τοῦτο περὶ σεαυτοῦ ποιήσαντι; ταῦτα δ' ἔλεγεν οὐκ [p. 51] ἄγνοῶν, ὅτι μεγάλῳφρων ἀνὴρ οὐχ ὑπομενεῖ κατήγορος ἑαυτοῦ γενόμενος ὡς ἡμαρτηκῶς ἄφεσιν αἰτεῖσθαι τῆς τιμωρίας, οὐδ' εἰς ὀλοφυρμούς καὶ δεήσεις καταφεύξεται παρὰ τὸν ἑαυτοῦ τρόπον, ἀλλ' ἦτοι καὶ τὸ παράπαν ἀπαξιῶσει τὴν ἀπολογία, ἢ τὴν ἔμφυτον αὐθάδειαν φυλάττων οὐθὲν ὑποθωπεύσει τὸν δῆμον μετριάσας περὶ τοὺς λόγους: ὅπερ καὶ συνέβη. [3] γενομένης γὰρ ἡσυχίας καὶ πολλῆς ἐμπεσοῦσης ὀλίγου δεῖν πᾶσι τοῖς δημοτικοῖς προθυμίας ἀπολύειν αὐτόν, εἰ τὸν παρόντα θεραπεύσειε καιρὸν, τοιαύτην αὐθάδειαν ἐπεδειξατο λόγων, καὶ τοσοῦτον αὐτῶν κατεφρόνησεν, ὥστε παρελθὼν ἔξαρνος μὲν ὑπὲρ οὐθενὸς ἦν τῶν πρὸς τὴν βουλήν εἰρημένων κατὰ τοῦ πλήθους, οὐδ' ὡς μεταγινώσκων ἐπ' αὐτοῖς εἰς οἴκτους καὶ παραιτήσεις ἐτρέπετο: ἀρχὴν δ' οὐδὲ δικασταῖς αὐτοῖς ἡξίου χρῆσθαι περὶ οὐδενὸς πράγματος, ὡς οὐδεμίαν ἔχουσιν ἐξουσίαν νόμιμον: εἰ δὲ βουλήσεται τις ἐπὶ τῶν ὑπάτων αὐτοῦ κατηγορεῖν εἴτ' ἔργων εὐθύνας ἀπαιτῶν εἴτε λόγων, [4] ἔνθα νόμος ἐστὶν ἔτοιμος εἶναι δίκην ὑπέχειν. παρελθούσης δὲ πρὸς τοὺς δημότας ἔλεγεν, ἐπειδὴ καλοῦσιν αὐτοί, τὰ μὲν ἐπιτιμήσεων ταῖς παρανομίαις αὐτῶν καὶ πλεονεξίαις, αἷς ἐχρήσαντο περὶ τε τὴν ἀπόστασιν καὶ μετὰ τὴν κάθοδον: τὰ δὲ συμβουλευσὼν ἐποσχέιν ἤδη ποτὲ καὶ συστέλλαι τὰς ἀδίκους ἐπιθυμίας. [5] καὶ μετὰ τοῦτ' ἐπιστρέφῶς πάνυ καὶ θρασέως ἀπάντων αὐτῶν καθήπτετο καὶ μάλιστα τῶν δημάρχων. προσῆν δ' αὐτοῦ τοῖς λόγοις οὐχ ὡς πολίτου δῆμον ἀναδιδάσκοντος εὐλόγιστος αἰδῶς, οὐδ' ὡς ἰδιώτου [p. 52] πολλοῖς ἀπεχθομένου σῶφρων εὐλάβεια πρὸς τὰς τοῦ κρατοῦντος ὀργάς, ἀλλ' ὡς ἐχθροῦ προπηλακίζοντος ἀδεῶς τοὺς ὑπὸ χεῖρας ἄκρατός τις χολή καὶ βαρεῖα τοῦ κακῶς πάσχοντος ὑπεροψία.

τοιγάρτοι λέγοντός τ' αὐτοῦ μεταξὺ πολλὺς θόρυβος ἐγίνετο τῇδε καὶ τῇδε θαμινὰ μεθελκομένοις, ὡς ἐν διαφόροις, πλήθεσι καὶ οὐ ταῦτ' αὖ βουλομένοις, τῶν μὲν ἡδόμενων ἐπὶ τοῖς λόγοις αὐτοῦ, τῶν δὲ πάλιν ἀχθομένων. καὶ ἐπειδὴ ἐπαύσατο λέγων, ἔτι πλείων ἀνέστη βοή καὶ θόρυβος. [2] οἱ μὲν γὰρ πατρίκιοι κράτιστον ἀνδρῶν λέγοντες ἐπήνουν αὐτόν ἐπὶ τῇ παρρησίᾳ καὶ μόνον ἀπέφαινον ἐξ ἀπάντων σφῶν ἐλεύθερον, ὃς οὔτε πολεμίῳν ἔδεισεν ἐπὶόντων ὄχλον οὔτε πολιτῶν αὐθάδεις καὶ παρανόμους ἐκολάκευσεν ὀρμάς: οἱ δὲ δημοτικοὶ δυσανασχετοῦντες ἐπὶ τοῖς ὀνειδισμοῖς βαρὺν καὶ πικρὸν καὶ πολεμίῳν ἀπάντων ἔχθιστον αὐτόν ἀπεκάλουν. [3] προθυμίαν δὲ πολλὴν εἶχόν τινες ἤδη, οἷς πολὺ προσῆν τὸ εὐχερές, ἐν χειρῶν αὐτόν διαφθεῖραι νόμῳ. συνήργουν δ' αὐτοῖς εἰς τοῦτο καὶ συνελάμβανον οἱ δήμαρχοι, καὶ μάλιστα Σικίνιος ἐνεδίδου τοῖς βουλήμασι τὰς ἡνίας. τελευτῶν γοῦν, ἐπειδὴ πολλὴν αὐτοῦ καταδρομὴν ἐποίησατο καὶ τοὺς θυμοὺς ἐξέκαυσε τῶν δημοτῶν, πολλὺς ἐμπνεύσας τῇ κατηγορίᾳ τέλος ἐξήνεγκεν, ὅτι θάνατον αὐτοῦ καταψηφίζεται τὸ [p. 53] ἀρχεῖον τῆς εἰς τοὺς ἀγορανόμους ὕβρεως ἔνεκεν, οὓς τῇ προτέρᾳ τῶν ἡμερῶν ἄγειν αὐτόν κελευσθέντας ὑφ' αὐτῶν τύπτων ἀπήλασεν: οὐ γὰρ ἐτέρων τινῶν εἶναι τὸν προπηλακισμόν τὸν εἰς τοὺς ὑπηρέτας σφῶν γενόμενον ἢ τῶν κελευσάντων. [4] καὶ ταῦτ' εἰπὼν ἐπέταξεν ἄγειν αὐτόν ἐπὶ τὸν ὑπερκείμενον τῆς ἀγορᾶς λόφον: ἔστι δὲ τὸ χωρίον κρημνὸς ἐξαΐσιος, ὅθεν αὐτοῖς ἔθος ἦν βάλλειν τοὺς ἐπιθανατίους. οἱ μὲν οὖν ἀγορανόμοι προσήεσαν ὡς ἐπιληψόμενοι τοῦ σώματος, οἱ δὲ πατρίκιοι μέγα ἐμβοήσαντες ὥρμησαν ἐπ' αὐτοὺς ἀθρόοι: ἔπειθ' ὁ δῆμος ἐπὶ τοὺς πατρίκίους: καὶ ἦν πολλή μὲν ἔργων ἀκοσμία, πολλή δὲ λόγων ὕβρις παρ' ἄμοφιν, [5] ὠτισμοὶ τε καὶ χειρῶν ἐπιβολαί. κατελήφθη δὲ καὶ σωφρονεῖν ἡναγκάσθη τὰ παρακινεῦντα ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων βιασαμένων εἰς μέσους καὶ τοῖς ῥαβδοῦχοις ἀναστέλλειν κελυσάντων τοὺς ὄχλους: τοσαύτη ἄρα τῆς ἀρχῆς αἰδῶς ἦν τοῖς τότε ἀνθρώποις, καὶ οὕτω τίμιον τὸ τῆς βασιλικῆς ἐξουσίας μίμημα. ἐφ' οἷς ὁ Σικίννιος ἀδημονῶν καὶ διαταραπτόμενος εὐλαβείας τε μεστὸς ὢν, μὴ προσαναγκάσῃ τοὺς διαφόρους τοῖς βίαιοις τὰ βίαια λῦσαι, ἀποστῆναι τ' οὐκ ἀξίων τοῦ ἐγχειρήματος, ἐπειδὴ ἅπαξ ἐπεβάλετο, καὶ μένειν ἐφ' οἷς ἔκρινεν οὐ δυνατὸς ὢν, πολὺς ἐν τῷ σκοπεῖν, ὃ τι πρακτέον ἦν.

κατιδὼν δ' αὐτὸν ἀμυχανοῦντα Λεύκιος Ἰούνιος Βροῦτος, ἐκείνος ὁ δημαγωγὸς ὁ τεχνησάμενος, [p. 54] ἐφ' οἷς ἔσονται δικαίοις αἱ διαλλαγαί, δεινὸς ἀνὴρ τὰ τ' ἄλλα καὶ πόρους εὐρεῖν ἐν ἀπόροις, προσέρχεται μόνος μόνῳ καὶ ὑποτίθεται μὴ φιλονικεῖν ἐγχειρήματι θερμῷ καὶ παρανόμῳ συναγωνιζόμενον, ὀρῶντα τοὺς τε πατρίκίους ἅπαντας ἡρεθισμένους καὶ ἐτοίμους ὄντας, εἰ κληθεῖεν ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων, ἐπὶ τὰ ὅπλα χωρεῖν, τοῦ δὲ δήμου τὸ καρτερώτατον μέρος ἐνδοιάζον καὶ οὐκ ἀγαπητῶς δεχόμενον ἀνδρὸς ἐπιφανεστάτου τῶν ἐν τῇ πόλει παράδοσιν ἐπὶ θανάτῳ καὶ ταῦτ' ἀκρίτου. [2] συνεβούλευε δ' αὐτῷ τότε μὲν εἶξαι καὶ μὴ χωρεῖν ὁμόσε τοῖς ὑπάτοις, μὴ τι μείζον κακὸν ἐργάσῃται, προθεῖναι δὲ τῷ ἀνδρὶ δίκην ὀρίσαντα χρόνον ὅσον δὴ τινα, καὶ ψῆφον ἀναδοῦναι τοῖς πολίταις ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ κατὰ φυλάς: ὃ τι δ' ἂν αἱ πλείους ψῆφοι καθαιρῶσι, τοῦτο ποιεῖν: τυραννικὸν μὲν γὰρ εἶναι καὶ βίαιον, ὃ νῦν ἐπειρᾶτο διαπράττεσθαι, τὸν αὐτὸν ὑπάρχειν καὶ κατήγορον καὶ δικαστὴν καὶ τοῦ μέτρου τῆς τιμωρίας κύριον: πολιτικὸν δὲ τὸ κατὰ νόμους ἀπολογίας τυχόντα τὸν ὑπαίτιον, ὃ τι ἂν τοῖς πλείοσι δικασταῖς δόξῃ, τοῦτο παθεῖν. [3] πείθεται τούτοις ὁ Σικίννιος μηδὲν ὀρῶν βούλευμα κρεῖττον καὶ παρελθὼν ἔφη: τὴν μὲν σπουδὴν ὀρᾶτε τῶν πατρίκιων τὴν εἰς τὰ φονικὰ καὶ βίαια ἔργα, ᾧ δημόται, ὡς ἐνὸς ἀνδρὸς αὐθάδους ὅλην ἀδικοῦντος τὴν πόλιν ἤττον τίθενται τὸ πλῆθος τὸ ὑμέτερον. οὐ μὴν ὁμοίους γ' αὐτοῖς γίνεσθαι χρή [p. 55] καὶ ἐπὶ κεφαλὴν ὠθεῖσθαι οὗτ' ἄρχοντας πολέμου οὗτ' ἀμυνομένους: ἀλλ' ἐπειδὴ πρόφασιν εὐπρεπῇ προβάλλονταί τινες τὸν νόμον, ᾧ βοηθοῦντες αὐτὸν ἀφαιροῦνται τῆς κολάσεως, ὅς οὐκ ἔῃ τῶν πολιτῶν οὐθέν' ἀποκτεῖναι ἀκρίτον, συγχωρήσωμεν αὐτοῖς τὸ δίκαιον τοῦτο, καίπερ οὐδὲ νόμιμα πάσχοντες οὐδὲ δίκαια ὑπ' αὐτῶν, καὶ δεῖξωμεν, ὅτι τοῖς εὐγνώμοσι μᾶλλον ἢ τοῖς βίαιοις περιεῖναι τῶν ἀδικούντων ἡμᾶς πολιτῶν βουλόμεθα. [4] ὑμεῖς μὲν οὖν ἅπτε καὶ τὸν μέλλοντα καιρὸν ἐκδέχεσθε οὐ πολὺν ἐσόμενον: ἡμεῖς δὲ παρασκευασάμενοι τὰ κατεπείγοντα προθήσομεν χρόνον τῷ ἀνδρὶ εἰς ἀπολογίαν καὶ τὴν δίκην ἐφ' ὑμῶν συντελέσομεν. ὅταν δὲ γέννησθε τῆς ψήφου κατὰ τὸν νόμον κύριοι, τιμήσατε αὐτῷ ἥς ἂν ἄξιον εὐρητε ζημίας. καὶ περὶ μὲν τούτου τοσαῦτα. τῆς δὲ τοῦ σίτου διαπράσεως τε καὶ διαθέσεως, ἴν' ἐκ τοῦ δικαιοτάτου γένηται, εἰ μὴ τις ἔσται τούτοις καὶ τῇ

μετὰ τοῦθ' οἱ μὲν ὕπατοι συναγαγόντες τὴν βουλὴν ἐσκόπουν ἐφ' ἡσυχίας, τίς ἂν γένοιτο τῆς παρούσης ταραχῆς λύσις. καὶ ἔδοξεν αὐτοῖς πρῶτον μὲν ἀποθεραπεῦσαι τοὺς δημότας, εὐώνους πάνυ καὶ λυσιτελεῖς ποιήσαντας αὐτοῖς τὰς ἀγοράς· ἔπειτα πείθειν [p. 56] τοὺς προεστηκότας αὐτῶν χάριτι τῆς βουλῆς παύσασθαι καὶ μὴ παράγειν τὸν Μάρκιον, εἰ δὲ μὴ πείθοιεν εἰς μακροτάτους ἀναβάλλεσθαι χρόνους, ἕως ἂν μαρανθῶσιν αἱ τῶν πολλῶν ὀργαί. [2] ταῦτα ψηφισάμενοι τὸ μὲν ὑπὲρ τῆς ἀγορᾶς δόγμα εἰς τὸν δῆμον ἐξήνεγκαν καὶ πάντων ἐπαινεσάντων ἐκύρωσαν. ἦν δὲ τοιόνδε· τὰς τιμὰς εἶναι τῶν ὀνίων τῶν πρὸς τὸν καθ' ἡμέραν βίον, αἵτινες ἐγένοντ' ἐλάχισται πρὸ τῆς ἐμφυλίου στάσεως. παρὰ δὲ τῶν δημάρχων πολλὰ λιπαρήσαντες τὴν μὲν ὀλοσχερῇ πάρεσιν οὐχ εὗροντο, τὴν δ' εἰς χρόνον ὅσον ἡξίου ἀναβολὴν ἔλαβον· αὐτοὶ τε προσεμηχανήσαντο διατριβὴν ἑτέραν ἀφορμῇ τοιᾷδε χρησάμενοι. [3] τοὺς ἐκ Σικελίας ἀποσταλέντας ὑπὸ τοῦ τυράννου πρέσβεις καὶ παρακομίσαντας τῷ δήμῳ τὴν τοῦ σίτου δωρεὰν ἀποπλέοντας οἴκαδε Ἀντιάται πειρατήριον στείλαντες κατήγαγον ἀποσαλεύοντας οὐ πρόσω τῶν λιμένων καὶ τὰ τε χρήματ' αὐτῶν ὡς πολεμίων δι' ὠφελείας ἔθεντο, καὶ τὰ σώματα κατακλείσαντες εἶχον ἐν φυλακῇ. [4] ταῦτα μαθόντες οἱ ὕπατοι ἔξοδον ἐψηφίσαντο ἐπὶ τοὺς Ἀντιάτας, ἐπειδὴ πρεσβευομένοις αὐτοῖς οὐδὲν ἡξίου τῶν δικαίων ποιεῖν· καὶ ποιησάμενοι τῶν ἐν ἀκμῇ κατάλογον ἐξήεσαν ἀμφοτέροι, ψηφισμα κυρώσαντες ὑπὲρ ἀναβολῆς τῶν τ' ἰδίων καὶ τῶν δημοσίων δικῶν, ὅσον ἂν χρόνον ὦσιν ἐν τοῖς ὅπλοις. [5] ἐγένετο δ' οὗτος οὐχ ὅσον ὑπέλαβον, ἀλλὰ [p. 57] πολλῷ ἐλάττων. οἱ γὰρ Ἀντιάται μαθόντες ἐξεστρατευμένους πανδημεὶ Ῥωμαίους οὐδὲ τὸν ἐλάχιστον ἀντέσχον χρόνον, δεόμενοι δὲ καὶ λιπαροῦντες τὰ τε σώματα τῶν ἀλόντων Σικελιωτῶν ἀπέδωκαν καὶ τὰ χρήματα, ὥστ' ἠναγκάσθησαν οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἀναστρέψαι.

διαλυθείσης δὲ τῆς στρατιᾶς ὁ μὲν Σικίνιος ὁ δῆμαρχος συναγαγὼν τὸ πλῆθος εἰς ἐκκλησίαν προεῖπεν ἡμέραν, ἐν ᾗ συντελεῖν ἔμελλε τὴν περὶ τοῦ Μαρκίου κρίσιν· καὶ παρεκάλει τοὺς τε κατὰ πόλιν ὑπάρχοντας ἀθρόους ἦκειν ἐπὶ τὴν διάγνωσιν τῆς δίκης καὶ τοὺς ἐπὶ τῶν ἀγρῶν διατρίβοντας ἀφεμένους τῶν ἔργων εἰς τὴν αὐτὴν ἡμέραν ἀπαντᾶν, ὡς ὑπὲρ ἐλευθερίας καὶ σωτηρίας ὅλης τῆς πόλεως τὴν ψῆφον ἀναληφσόμενοι· παρήγγελλε δὲ καὶ τῷ Μαρκίῳ παρεῖναι πρὸς τὴν ἀπολογίαν ὡς οὐδενὸς ἀτυχήσουντι τῶν περὶ [2] τὰς κρίσεις νομίμων. τοῖς δ' ὑπάτοις ἐδόκει βουλευσαμένοις μετὰ τοῦ συνεδρίου μὴ περιορᾶν τὸν δῆμον ἐξουσίας τηλικαύτης κύριον γενόμενον. εὖρητο δ' αὐτοῖς τῆς κωλύσεως ἀφορμὴ δικαία καὶ νόμιμος, ἥ χρώμενοι πάντα διαλύσειν ὦντο τὰ τῶν ἀντιδίκων βουλευόμενα. καὶ μετὰ τοῦτο παρεκάλεσαν εἰς λόγους ἐλθεῖν τοὺς προεστηκότας τοῦ δήμου συνόντων αὐτοῖς τῶν ἐπιτηδείων. [3] καὶ ἔλεξε Μηνύκιος τοιάδε· ἡμῖν, ὦ δῆμαρχοι, δοκεῖ χρῆναι τὴν στάσιν ἐξελαύνειν ἐκ τῆς πόλεως ἀπάσῃ δυνάμει καὶ μὴ φιλονεικεῖν ἐναντία τῷ [p. 58] δήμῳ περὶ μηδενὸς χρήματος· μάλιστα δ' ὅταν ὁρῶμεν ὑμᾶς ἀπὸ τῶν βιαίων ἐπὶ τὰ δίκαια καὶ τοὺς λόγους ἥκοντας. ταύτης μέντοιγε τῆς γνώμης ἐπαινοῦντες ὑμᾶς τὴν βουλὴν οἴομεθα δεῖν

οὐ λανθάνει μὲν ἡμᾶς, ὧ βουλὴ, τὸ συμβησόμενον, ὅτι δι' αἰτίας ἐσόμεθα παρὰ τῷ δήμῳ τῆς εἰς ὑμᾶς ἀφίξεως ἕνεκα, καὶ κατήγορον ἔξομεν τοῦ προβουλευματος ἄνδρα τὴν αὐτὴν ἐξουσίαν ἔχοντα ἡμῖν, ὃς οὐκ ᾔετο δεῖν, ἃ δίδωσιν ἡμῖν ὁ νόμος, ταῦτα παρ' ὑμῶν αἰτεῖν, οὐδ' ἐν εὐεργεσίας μέρει τὸ δίκαιον λαμβάνειν. κίνδυνον δ' οὐ τὸν ἐλάχιστον ἀναρρίψομεν εἰς δίκην ὑπαχθέντες, ἀλλ' ὥς αὐτόμολοι καὶ προδότες καταγνωσθέντες τὰ αἰσχιστα πεισόμεθα. ^[2] ἀλλὰ καίπερ ἐπιστάμενοι ταῦτα, ὅμως ὑπεμείναμεν εἰς ὑμᾶς ἐλθεῖν [p. 60] τῷ τε δικαίῳ πεποιθότες καὶ τοῖς ὅρκοις ἐπιτρέψαντες, οἷς ὁμόσαντες οἴσετε τὰς γνώμας. φαῦλοι μὲν οὖν ἡμεῖς γ' ὥς περὶ τηλικούτων καὶ τοσούτων λέγειν καὶ πολὺ τοῦ προσήκοντος ἐνδεέστεροι, τὰ δὲ πράγματα οὐ φαῦλα, ὑπὲρ ὧν λέξομεν. τούτοις οὖν προσέχετε τὸν νοῦν, καὶ ἐὰν ὑμῖν δόξη δίκαιά τε καὶ συμφέροντα τῷ κοινῷ, προσθήσω δ' ὅτι καὶ ἀναγκαῖα, συγχωρήσατε ἡμῖν αὐτῶν τυχεῖν ἐκόντες.

τῶν πατρικίων δημόταις προκαλεῖσθαι τὰς κρίσεις ἐπὶ τὸν δῆμον· καὶ παρ' οὐδὲν οὕτως ἕτερον ὥς τὸν νόμον τόνδε τὴν τε πόλιν ἐν ὁμονοίᾳ διεφυλάξατε καὶ [2] τοὺς βασιλεῖς ἐπιόντας ἀπέωσασθε. τοῦτον δὴ προφερόμενοι τὸν νόμον, ὑπὲρ ὧν ἅπαντες ἀδικεῖσθαι τε καὶ κατισχυέσθαι λέγομεν ὑπὸ Γαίου Μαρκίου τουδὶ, καλοῦμεν αὐτὸν ἐπὶ τὸν δῆμον καὶ τὰ δίκαια παραγγέλλομεν ἐκεῖ λέγειν. καὶ προβουλευματος ἐνταῦθ' οὐκ ἔδει. περὶ ὧν γὰρ οὐκ εἰσὶ νόμοι, περὶ τούτων ὑμεῖς τοῦ [p. 61] προβουλεύεσθαι κύριοι καὶ ὁ δῆμος ἐπιψηφίσαι· νόμου δ' ὄντος ἀκινήτου, κἂν μηδὲν ὑμεῖς προβουλεύσητε, [3] τούτῳ δῆπου χρηστέον. οὐ γὰρ δὴ τοῦτ' ὅ γ' ἂν εἴποι τις, ὅτι τῶν μὲν ἰδιωτῶν ὄντων οἷς τὸ μειονεκτεῖν συμβαίνει περὶ τὰς κρίσεις κυρίαν εἶναι δεῖ τὴν ἐπὶ τὸν δῆμον πρόκλησιν, ἡμῖν δὲ τοῖς δημάρχοις ἄκυρον. νόμου μὲν δὴ συγχωρήματι τῷδε ἰσχυριζόμενοι καὶ διὰ τοῦτο παρακινδυνεύσαντες ὑφ' ὑμῖν γενέσθαι δικασταῖς ἤκομεν. [5] οὕτῳ δ' ἂν ἡμῖν τὸ μὴ μείον ἔχειν τῶν δικαίων ἀποδοίητε, ὧ πατέρες, εἰ τοὺς ἐπιχειροῦντας εἰς τὰ σώματα ἡμῶν καὶ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν παρανομεῖν κωλύοιτε τὸν ἐκ [p. 62] τῆς δίκης ἐφιστάντες αὐτοῖς φόβον. ἀρχὰς μὲν δὴ καὶ προεδρίας καὶ τιμὰς τοῖς ἀρετῇ καὶ τύχῃ προὔχουσιν ἡμῶν οἰόμεθα δεῖν ἀπονέμειν· τὸ δὲ μηδὲν ἀδικεῖσθαι καὶ τὸ δίκας ὧν ἂν τις πάθῃ προσηκούσας λαμβάνειν ἴσα καὶ κοινὰ τοῖς ἅμα πολιτευομένοις εἶναι δικαιοῦμεν. [6] ὥσπερ οὖν τῶν λαμπρῶν καὶ μεγάλων ἀφιστάμεθ' ὑμῖν, οὕτως τῶν ἴσων καὶ κοινῶν οὐ μεθιέμεθα. ἱκανὰ ταῦτ' εἰρήσθω περὶ τοῦ δικαίου πολλῶν ἐνόντων καὶ ἄλλων λέγεσθαι.

τοιαῦτα διεξιόντος τοῦ Δεκίου καὶ τῶν [p. 71] ἄλλων δημάρχων ἃ παραλιπεῖν αὐτοῖς ἐκεῖνος ἐδόκει συναγορευσάντων, ἐπειδὴ γνώμας ἔδει τοὺς συνέδρους ἀποφαινεσθαι, πρῶτοι μὲν οἱ πρεσβύτατοι τῶν ὑπατικῶν καλούμενοι κατὰ τὸν εἰωθότα κόσμον ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων ἀνίσταντο, ἔπειθ' οἱ τούτων ὑποδεέστεροι κατ' ἄμφω ταῦτα, τελευταῖοι δ' οἱ νεώτατοι λόγον μὲν οὐθένα λέγοντες: ἔτι γὰρ ἦν δι' αἰσχύνης τότε Ῥωμαίοις τοῦτο, καὶ νέος οὐδεὶς ἡξίου ἑαυτὸν σοφώτερον εἶναι πρεσβύτου: ἐπεκύρουν δὲ τὰς κειμένας ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπατικῶν γνώμας. [2] ἅπανσι δὲ προσετάρτετο παριοῦσι καθάπερ ἐν δικαστηρίῳ μεθ' ὅρκου τὴν ψῆφον ἐπιφέρειν. Ἄππιος μὲν οὖν Κλαύδιος, ὑπὲρ οὗ καὶ πρότερον ἔφην, ὅτι μισοδημότατος ἦν τῶν πατρικίων καὶ οὐδέποτε ταῖς πρὸς τὸ δημοτικὸν ἡρέσκετο διαλλαγαῖς, οὐκ εἴα γενέσθαι τὸ προβούλευμα τοιοῦτοις λόγοις χρώμενος.

ἐβουλόμεν μὲν ἂν ἔγωγε καὶ τοῖς θεοῖς ηὔξαμην πολλάκις ἑμαυτὸν μὲν ἁμαρτεῖν τῆς γνώμης, ἦν εἶχον ὑπὲρ τῶν πρὸς τὸν δῆμον διαλύσεων, ὡς οὔτε καλὴν καὶ δικαίαν οὔτε συμφέρουσαν ἡμῖν ὑπελάμβανον ἔσεσθαι τὴν τῶν φυγάδων κάθοδον καὶ διὰ παντός, ὅσακις περὶ τούτου προὔτεθη σκοπεῖν, πρῶτός τε τῶν ἄλλων καὶ τελευταῶν μόνος, ἐπειδὴ οἱ λοιποὶ ἀπέστησαν, ἡγαντιούμην: ὑμᾶς δ', ὧ βουλή, τοὺς ἐπὶ τὰ κρείττω τὴν ἐλπίδα λαμβάνοντας καὶ πάντα [p. 72] τῷ δήμῳ δίκαιά τε καὶ ἄδικα προθύμως χαριζομένους ἄμεινον ἐμοῦ δόξαι φρονεῖν. [2] ἐπειδὴ δ' οὐχ, ὡς ἐβουλόμεν τε καὶ τοῖς θεοῖς ηὔχόμεν, τὰ πράγματα ὑμῖν κεχώρηκεν, ἀλλ' ὡς ὦμην, καὶ περιεστήκασιν αἱ χάριτες ὑμῖν εἰς φθόνους καὶ μίση, τὸ μὲν ἐπιτιμᾶν τοῖς ἡμαρτημένοις ὑμῖν καὶ λυπεῖν ὑμᾶς διὰ κενῆς, ὃ ῥᾶστόν ἐστι καὶ πᾶσιν ὡς τὰ πολλὰ ποιεῖν σὺνθηες, οὐκ ἐν καιρῷ νυνὶ γεννησόμενον ὀρῶν ἐάσω. ἐξ ὧν δὲ τὰ τε παρελθόντα ἐπανορθωσόμεθα, ὅσα μὴ παντάπασιν ἀνιάτως ἔχει, καὶ περὶ τῶν παρόντων ἄμεινον φρονήσομεν, [3] ταῦτα πειράσομαι λέγειν. καίτοι με οὐ λέληθεν, ὅτι μαίνεσθαι καὶ θανατᾶν δόξω τισὶν ὑμῶν γνώμην περὶ τούτων ἐλευθέραν ἀποφαινόμενος ἐνθυμουμένοις, ἡλικίους ἔχει κινδύνους ὁ μετὰ παρρησίας λόγος, καὶ τὰς Μαρκίου συμφοράς, ὅς οὐ δι' ἕτερόν τι νυνὶ τὸν ὑπὲρ τῆς ψυχῆς ἀγῶνα τρέχει, λογιζομένοις. [4] ἀλλ' οὐκ οἶομαι δεῖν τῆς ἰδίας ἀσφαλείας πλείω ποιεῖσθαι πρόνοιαν ἢ τῆς κοινῆς ὠφελείας. δέδοται γὰρ ἤδη τοῖς ὑπὲρ ὑμῶν κινδύνους τὸ σῶμα τοῦμόν, ὧ βουλή, καὶ καθωσιώται τοῖς ὑπὲρ τῆς πόλεως ἀγῶσιν, ὥστε ὃ τι ἂν τῷ δαίμονι δοκῇ, μετὰ πάντων τε καὶ σὺν ὀλίγοις, εἰ δ' ἀνάγκη καὶ μόνος εὐγενῶς πείσομαι: ἕως δ' ἂν ἔχω τὴν ψυχὴν, οὐδεὶς με ἀφέξει φόβος μὴ οὐχ ἃ φρονῶ λέγειν. [p. 73]

ἀποκοπὰς καὶ ἄδειαν ὧν ἡμαρτε κατὰ τὴν ἀπόστασιν οὐθενὸς ἔτι δεήσεσθαι ἔφησεν, ἔγνωσαν οἱ πλείους ὑμῶν, οὐ γὰρ δὴ πάντες γε, παρακρουσθέντες ὑπὸ τῶν συμβούλων, ὥς μὴ ποτε ὠφελον, ἀκυρῶσαι τοὺς ἐπὶ τῇ πίστει τεθέντας νόμους καὶ μηθενὸς τῶν τότε γεγεννημένων μνησικακεῖν ἀδικημάτων. ^[3] οὐκ ἠγάπησε ταύτης τυχὼν τῆς χάριτος, ἥς μόνης μεμνημένος ἔφη πεποιθῆσθαι τὴν ἀπόστασιν, ἀλλ' εὐθύς ἑτέραν ἔτι ταύτης ἦτει μείζω καὶ παρανομωτέραν δωρεάν, ἐξουσίαν αὐτῷ δοθῆναι δημάρχους ἐξ αὐτοῦ καθ' ἕκαστον ἔτος ἀποδεικνύναι, πρόφασιν μὲν ποιούμενος τὴν ἡμετέραν ἰσχύν, ἵνα δὴ τοῖς ἀδικουμένοις καὶ κατισχυομένοις ^[p. 74] τῶν πενήτων ἐπικουρία τις ὑπάρχη καὶ καταφυγή: ὡς δὲ τάληθές εἶχεν, ἐπιβουλεύων τῷ κόσμῳ τῆς πολιτείας καὶ εἰς δημοκρατίαν περιστῆσαι τὰ πράγματα ^[4] βουλόμενος. καὶ τοῦτ' ἔπεισαν ἡμᾶς οἱ σύμβουλοι τὸ ἀρχεῖον ἐᾶσαι παρελθεῖν εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἐπὶ τῷ κοινῷ παραγινόμενον κακῷ, καὶ μάλιστα' ἐπὶ τῷ κατὰ τῆς βουλῆς φθόνῳ, πολλὰ, εἴπερ ἄρα μέμνησθε, κεκραγὸτος ἑμοῦ καὶ μαρτυρομένου θεοὺς τε καὶ ἀνθρώπους ὅτι πόλεμον ἐμφύλιον ἄπαυστον εἰς τὴν πόλιν εἰσάξετε, καὶ πάνθ' ὅσα ὑμῖν προβέβηκε λέγοντος.

τί οὖν ἐποίησεν ὁ χρηστὸς ἡμῖν δῆμος, ἐπειδὴ καὶ ταύτην αὐτῷ συνεχωρήσατε τὴν ἀρχήν; οὐκ ἐταμιεύσατο τὴν τοσαύτην χάριν οὐδ' ἔλαβεν αἰσχυνομένως αὐτὴν καὶ σωφρόνως, ἀλλ' ὡς δεδοικόσι τὴν ἰσχὺν αὐτοῦ καὶ κατεπτηχόσιν ἡμῖν ... ἔπειτα ἱερὰν καὶ ἄσυχον ἔφη δεῖν ἀποδειχθῆναι τὴν ἀρχὴν ὅρκοις ἐμπεδωθεῖσαν, κρείττω τιμὴν αἰτούμενος ἥς δεδώκατε ὑμεῖς τοῖς ὑπάτοις. ὑπεμείνατε καὶ τοῦτο καὶ στάντες ἐπὶ τῶν τομιῶν κατ' ἐξωλείας ἑαυτῶν τε καὶ τῶν ἀπογόνων ὠμόσατε. ^[2] τί οὖν ἐποίησε καὶ τούτου τυχών; ἀντὶ τοῦ χάριτας ὑμῖν εἰδέναι καὶ σώζειν τὸν πάτριον κόσμον τῆς πολιτείας, ἀρξάμενος ἀπὸ τούτων τῶν πλεονεξιῶν καὶ ταύταις ταῖς παρανομίαις ἀφορμαῖς τῶν ^[p. 75] ὕστερον χρησάμενος νόμους τ' ἀπροβουλεύτους εἰσφέρει, καὶ τούτους ἐπιψηφίζει δίχα τῆς ὑμετέρας γνώμης, καὶ οἷς ἂν ὑμεῖς ἐκφέρητε δόγμασιν οὐ προσέχει τὸν νοῦν, καὶ τῶν ὑπάτων ὡς οὐκ ὀρθῶς τὴν πόλιν ἐπιτροπευόντων κατηγορεῖ, καὶ τοῖς ἐκβαίνουσι παρὰ τὰς ὑμετέρας συνθήκας: πολλὰ δ' ἐστίν, ὧν οὐ δύναται στοχάσασθαι λογισμὸς ἀνθρώπινος: οὐ τὴν τύχην, ὥσπερ ἐχρῆν, ἀλλὰ τὴν ὑμετέραν ἐπιγράφει διάνοιαν, ἐπιβουλεύεσθαι θ' ὑφ' ὑμῶν σκηπτόμενος καὶ δεδιέναι, μὴ τὴν ἐλευθερίαν ἀφέλησθε ἢ τῆς πατρίδος ἐκβάλητε, αὐτὸς ἐφ' ὑμῖν ταῦτα μηχανώμενος διατελεῖ, καὶ τὸ μὴ παθεῖν ὃ δεδοικέναι φησίν, οὐκ ἄλλω τινὶ φυλαττόμενος δῆλός ἐστιν, ἢ τῷ δρᾶσαι φθάσας. ^[3] ἐδήλωσε δὲ τοῦτο πολλάκις μὲν καὶ πρότερον καὶ ἐπὶ πολλῶν ὧν ἐξείργομα μεμῆσθαι κατὰ τὸ παρόν, μάλιστα δὲ Μάρκιον τουτονὶ τὸν φιλόπολιν ἄνδρα, οὗτε προγόνων ἀφανῶν ὄντα οὗτ' αὐτὸν ἀρετῇ λειπόμενον οὐθενὸς ἡμῶν, αἰτιασάμενος ἐπιβουλεύειν αὐτῷ καὶ πονηρὰς ἐνθάδε γνώμας λέγειν, ἄκριτον ἐπεχείρησεν ἀποκτεῖναι. ^[4] καὶ εἰ μὴ δεινὸν ἠγησάμενοι τὸ πρᾶγμα οἱ θ' ὕπατοι καὶ ὑμῶν οἱ τὰ κρείττω φρονοῦντες συνεστράφητε καὶ τὴν παρανομίαν ἐπέσχετε αὐτῶν, ἐν μιᾷ τῇ τότε ἡμέρᾳ πάντ' ἂν ἀφηρέθητε, ὅσα οἱ πατέρες θ' ὑμῖν σὺν πολλοῖς κτησάμενοι πόνοις κατέλιπον καὶ αὐτοὶ ὕμεῖς οὐκ ἐλάττους ἀγῶνας ἐκείνων ὑποστάντες ἔχετε, τὸ ἀξίωμα, τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, τὴν ἐλευθερίαν· οἱ δὲ γενναιότεροι [p. 76] καὶ οὐκ ἀγαπήσαντες αὐτὸ τὸ ζῆν, εἰ μὴ μετὰ τούτων ἐμέλλετε τῶν ἀγαθῶν βιώσεσθαι, τὰς ψυχὰς ἂν πρότερον ἢ ταῦτ' ἀφῆρέθητε, οἱ μὲν εὐθύς, οἱ δ' οὐκ εἰς μακράν. [5] τί γὰρ ἂν τὸ κωλύσον ἦν οὕτως αἰσχυρῶς καὶ κακῶς Μαρκίου τοῦδε ἀναρπασθέντος ὥσπερ ἐν ἐρημίᾳ κάμει μετὰ τοῦτον ἀπολωλέναι διασπασθέντα ὑπὸ τῶν ἐχθρῶν, καὶ πάντας, ὅσοι πώποτ' ἠναντιώθησαν, καὶ τὸ λοιπὸν ἔμελλον ἐναντιώσεσθαι ταῖς παρανόμοις ἐπιθυμίαις τοῦ δήμου; οὐ γὰρ ἂν ἠρκέσθη τοὺς δύο μόνους ἡμᾶς ἐκποδῶν ποιησάμενος, οὐδὲ μέχρι δεῦρ' ἐλθὼν ἀπέστη τῆς παρανομίας, εἰ δεῖ τὰ μέλλοντα τεκμαίρεσθαι τοῖς γεγονόσιν, ἀλλ' ἀφ' ἡμῶν ἀρξάμενος ἅπαν τὸ ἀντίπαλον καὶ μὴ εἶκον ὥσπερ χειμάρρους πολὺς ἐμπεσὼν παρέσυρεν ἂν καὶ κατήνεγκεν, οὕτ' εὐγενείας φειδόμενος οὕτ' ἀρετῆς οὕθ' ἡλικίας.

ταύτας ὑμῖν ὁ δῆμος, ὧ βουλῇ, τὰς καλὰς ἀμοιβὰς ἀνθ' ὧν ἔπαθεν ἀγαθῶν πολλῶν ὄντων καὶ μεγάλων τὰς μὲν ἀπέδωκεν ἤδη, τὰς δ' ἀποδώσειν ἔμελλεν, εἰ μὴ τὸ κωλύσον παρ' ὑμᾶς ἐγένετο. ἄγε δὴ νῦν κάκεῖνα ἐνθυμήθητε πάλιν, ἃ μετὰ τοῦτο τὸ γενναῖον καὶ σῶφρον ὑμῶν ἔργον ἔδρασεν, ἵνα γνῶτε, [2] ὅντινα χρή τὸν τρόπον αὐτῷ προσφέρεσθαι. ἐκεῖνος τοίνυν ὡς ἔμαθεν ὑμᾶς οὐκέτι φέροντας αὐτοῦ τὴν ὕβριν, [p. 77] ἀλλ' ὁμόσε χωρεῖν παρεσκευασμένους, ἔπηξε καὶ μικρὸν ἀναλαβὼν ἑαυτὸν ὥσπερ ἐκ μέθης καὶ μανίας ἀπὸ μὲν τοῦ βιάζεσθαι κατέβη, ἐπὶ τὸ δικάζεσθαι δ' ἐτράπετο· καὶ προειπὼν ἡμέραν ῥητὴν εἰς αὐτὴν ἐκάλει τὸν ἄνδρα ὡς δίκην ὑφέξοντα, ἧς αὐτὸς ἔμελλεν ἔσεσθαι κατήγορός τε καὶ μάρτυς καὶ δικαστὴς καὶ τοῦ [3] μεγέθους τῆς τιμωρίας κύριος. ἐπειδὴ δὲ καὶ πρὸς τοῦτ' ἐνέστητε νομίσαντες οὐκ ἐπὶ δίκην, ἀλλ' ἐπὶ τιμωρίαν καλεῖσθαι τὸν ἄνδρα, ὁρῶν ὡς οὐδενὸς αὐτοκράτωρ ἐστὶ πράγματος, ἀλλ' ὅς ἂν ὑμεῖς προβουλεύσητε, ταῦτ' ἐπιψηφίσαι κύριος, τῆς τ' αὐθαδείας, ἧς πολὺς ἔπνει τότε, ὑφείλται νυνὶ καὶ δεησόμενος ὑμῶν ἥκει συγχωρῆσαι καὶ ταύτην αὐτῷ τὴν χάριν. [4] ἐνθυμούμενοι δὴ ταῦτ' αἴσθεσθε ἤδη ποτὲ καὶ μάθετε, ὅτι πάνθ', ὅσα μὲν εὐηθέστερα βουλευσάμενοι μᾶλλον ἢ φρονιμώτερα ἐχαρίσασθε, αὐτῷ συμφορὰς ὑμῖν ἐνήνοχε καὶ βλάβας, ὅσα δὲ μετὰ τοῦ γενναίου στάντες τοῖς παρανόμοις αὐτοῦ καὶ βιαίοις ἠναντιώθητε, ταῦθ' ὑμῖν εἰς δέον ἐκβέβηκε. [5] τί οὖν ὑμῖν ἐπισταμένοις ταῦτα παραινῶ πράττειν καὶ τίνα γνώμην ὑπὲρ τῶν παρόντων ἀποφαίνομαι; ὅσα μὲν ἐχαρίσασθε καὶ συνεχωρήσατε τῷ δήμῳ τὴν ἐχθρὰν διαλλαττόμενοι ὅπωςδῆποτε φυλάττειν κύρια, καὶ μὴ λύειν τῶν τότε συγχωρηθέντων μηθέν, οὐχ ὡς καλῶν καὶ τῆς πόλεως ἀξίῳ ὄντων· πόθεν γάρ; ἀλλ' ὡς ἀναγκαιῶν καὶ μηκέτι δεχομένων διόρθωσιν: ὅσα δ' ἂν ἔξω τούτου βιαζόμενος καὶ παρανομῶν ἀκόντων ὑμῶν ἐπιχειρῇ λαμβάνειν μήτε συγχωρεῖν [p. 78] αὐτῷ μήτ' ἐπιτρέπειν, ἀλλ' ἀντιπράττειν λόγοις τε καὶ ἔργοις καὶ ὁμοῦ πάντας καὶ ἕνα ἕκαστον ἰδίᾳ. [6] οὐ γάρ, ἂν ἅπαξ ἀμάρτη τις εἴτ' ἀπατηθεῖς εἴτ' ἀναγκασθεῖς, καὶ τὰ λοιπὰ ὅμοια δεῖ πράττειν, ἀλλ' ἐκείνου μεμνημένους τᾶλλα ὅπως μὴ τοιαῦτα γενήσεται σκοπεῖν. ταῦτα μὲν οὖν ἐστίν, ἃ κοινῇ πάντας ὑμᾶς οἶμαι δεῖν ἐγνωκότας εἶναι, καὶ παρεσκευάσθαι πρὸς τὰς ἀδίκους τοῦ δήμου

ὡς δὲ καὶ τοῦτο, περὶ οὗ νυνὶ πρόκειται σκοπεῖν ὁμοίον ἐστὶ τοῖς ἄλλοις ἐγχειρήμασιν αὐτοῦ τοῖς ἀδίκοις καὶ παρανόμοις, καὶ οὐχ, οἷον ὁ δήμαρχος ἐξαπατῶν ὑμᾶς ἐπειρᾷτο ἀποφαινεῖν, δίκαιον καὶ μέτριον, μάθετε οἱ μήπω σαφῶς εἰδότες. ὁ μὲν οὖν νόμος ὁ περὶ τῶν δικαστηρίων τῶν δημοτικῶν, ὃ Δέκιος ἐκρατύνετο μάλιστα, οὐ καθ' ὑμῶν ἐγράφη τῶν πατρικίων, ἀλλ' ὑπὲρ ἀσφαλείας τῶν κατισχυομένων δημοτικῶν, ὡς αὐτὸς τε δηλοῖ γραφᾶς ἔχων οὐκ ἀμφιβόλους, καὶ [2] ὑμεῖς τοῦτο πάντες ἀεὶ λέγετε καλῶς ἐπιστάμενοι. μέγα δὲ τούτου σημεῖον ἐστίν, ὃ καὶ παντὸς ἀμφισβητουμένου δικαίου κριτήριον εἶναι δοκεῖ κράτιστον, ὁ χρόνος ἐννεακαιδεκέτης ἤδη γεγυνώς, ἐξ οὗ ὁ νόμος οὗτος ἐτέθη: ἐν ᾧ παντὶ Δέκιος οὐκ ἂν ἔχοι δεῖξαι δίκην οὐδεμίαν οὔτε δημοσίαν κατ' οὐδενὸς τῶν πατρικίων ἐν τῷ νόμῳ δεδικασμένην, οὗτ' ἰδίαν: εἰ δὲ φήσει, [p. 79] [3] δεῖξάτω καὶ μηθὲν ἔτι δεόμεθα λόγου. αἱ δ' ὁμολογίαί, καθ' ἃς διελύσασθε πρὸς τοὺς δημότας αἰνεωστὶ γενόμεναι: χρὴ γὰρ καὶ περὶ τούτων ὑμᾶς μαθεῖν, ἐπειδὴ πονηρὸς ἐξηγητῆς ὁ δήμαρχος αὐτῶν ἐγένετο: δύο ταῦτα συγχωρήματα περιέχουσιν: ἀφεῖσθαι τοὺς δημοτικούς τῶν χρεῶν, καὶ τὴν ἀρχὴν τήνδε ἀποδείκνυσθαι καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ἐπικουρίας ἔνεκα τῶν κατισχυομένων καὶ κωλύσεως, ἄλλο δὲ παρὰ ταῦτ' οὐδέν. [4] μέγιστον δ' ὑμῖν γενέσθω τεκμήριον, ὅτι οὐθ' ὁ νόμος οὐθ' αἱ συνθήκαι κατ' ἀνδρὸς πατρικίου δικάζειν τῷ δήμῳ δεδώκασιν ἐξουσίαν, ὃ ποιεῖ νῦν αὐτὸς ὁ δῆμος. αἰτεῖται γὰρ αὐτὸ παρ' ὑμῶν τήμερον, ὡς πρότερόν γ' οὐκ ἔχων: οὐδεὶς δ' ἂν ἀξιώσειέ τι παρ' ἄλλων λαμβάνειν, [5] ὧν ἐστὶ νόμῳ κύριος. δίκαιον δὲ φύσεως ἀνομοθέτητον, ὧ βουλή, πῶς ἂν εἴη τοῦτο: καὶ γὰρ τοῦτο Δέκιος ὑμᾶς ὥετο δεῖν σκοπεῖν: τοῖς μὲν δημόταις, ἃς τ' ἂν φύγῃσι δίκας ὑπὸ τῶν πατρικίων καὶ ἃς ἂν ἐκείνους διώκῃσι, τὸν δῆμον δικάζειν, τοῖς δὲ πατρικίοις μὴθ' ὅταν ἐπάγῃσι τινα τῶν δημοτικῶν δίκην μὴθ' ὅταν αὐτοὶ κινδυνεύσῃσι τοὺς πατρικίους τὰ νείκη διαιτᾶν, ἀλλὰ τούτοις μὲν ἀμφοτέρω ἐξεῖναι πλεονεκτεῖν, [6] ἡμῖν δ' οὐδετέρου τῶν δικαίων μετέχειν; εἰ [p. 80] δὲ τι Μάρκιος ἀδικεῖ τὸν δῆμον, ἢ καὶ ἄλλος τῶν πατρικίων ὅστισοῦν καὶ δίκαιός ἐστιν ἀποθανεῖν ἢ τῆς πόλεως ἐκπεσεῖν, μὴ παρ' αὐτοῖς, ἀλλ' ἐνθάδε κριθεὶς διδόντω δίκας, ὥσπερ ἐστὶ νόμιμον. εἰ μὴ ἄρα, ὦ Δέκιε, ὁ μὲν δῆμος ἴσος ἐστὶ δικαστῆς καὶ οὐθὲν ἂν χαρίσαιο αὐτῷ πρὸς ἀνδρὸς ἐχθροῦ τὴν ψῆφον ἐπιφέρων: οὗτοι δ' εἰ γένοιτο τῆς ψήφου κύριοι τὸν ἀδικοῦντα περὶ πλείονος ποιήσονται τῆς ἀδικουμένης ὑπ' αὐτοῦ πόλεως, μέλλοντες ἄρὰν καὶ ἐπιπορκίαν καὶ μῖσος μὲν παρ' ἀνθρώπων, χόλον δὲ παρὰ θεῶν ἐκ τῆς δίκης ἀποῖσσεσθαι καὶ μετὰ πονηρῶν ἐλπίδων ζῆν. [7] οὐκ ἀξιῷ ταῦτα περὶ τῆς βουλῆς ὑμᾶς, ὦ δημόται, σκοπεῖν, ἢ τιμὰς καὶ ἀρχὰς καὶ τὰ κράτιστα τῶν ἐν τῇ πόλει παραχωρεῖν ὁμολογεῖτε δι' ἀρετὴν, καὶ πολλὰς χάριτας εἰδέναι φατὲ τῆς προθυμίας, ἣν ἀπεδείξατο περὶ τὴν κάθοδον ὑμῶν. μάχεται ταῦτ' ἀλλήλοις: καὶ οὐκ ἔχει λόγον, οὓς ἐπαινέετε, τούτους φοβεῖσθαι καὶ ἅμα τοῖς αὐτοῖς περὶ μὲν τῶν μειζόνων ἐπιτρέπειν, περὶ δὲ [8] τῶν ἄλλων ἀπιστεῖν. τί δ' οὐχὶ μιᾷ χρώμενοι γνώμῃ ἢ πάντα πιστεύετε αὐτοῖς ἢ περὶ πάντων ἀπιστεῖτε; ἀλλὰ προβουλευσά μεν αὐτοὺς τὰ δίκαια ἱκανοὺς εἶναι νομίζετε, δικάσαι δὲ περὶ αὐτῶν τούτων ὧν προβουλεύουσιν οὐχ ἱκανοὺς. πολλὰ καὶ ἄλλα περὶ τῶν

ἐπειδὴ δὲ καὶ περὶ τοῦ συμφέροντος ἐπειρᾶτο λέγειν Δέκιος, ὡς ἀγαθὸν μὲν ὁμόνοια, δεινὸν [p. 81] δὲ στάσις, καὶ θεραπεύοντες μὲν τὸν δῆμον ἐν ὁμοιοῖα πολιτευσόμεθα, κωλύσαντες δ' οὐς βούλονται τῶν πατρικίων ἀνδρηλατεῖν ἢ μισσηφονεῖν εἰς πόλεμον ἐμφύλιον καταστησόμεθα, πολλὰ λέγειν ἔχων ὀλίγοις πάνυ χρήσομαι. [2] πρῶτον μὲν οὖν θαυμάσαι ἔχω Δέκιον τῆς εἰρωνείας: οὐ γὰρ ἡλιθιότητός γε: εἰ κρεῖττον οἴεται τὰ συμφέροντα τῷ κοινῷ φρονεῖν ἑαυτὸν, ὃς ἄρτι παρελήλυθεν εἰς πολιτικὰς πράξεις, ἡμῶν τῶν καταγεγραφότων ἐν αὐταῖς καὶ μεγάλην ἐκ μικρᾶς πεποιηκότων τὴν πόλιν. ἔπειτ' εἰ πείσειν ὑπέλαβεν ὑμᾶς, ὡς χρή παραδοῦναι τινα ἔκδοτον ἐπὶ τιμωρίᾳ τοῖς ἐχθροῖς καὶ ταῦτα πολίτην ὑμέτερον καὶ οὐχὶ τῶν ἀφανῶν τινα πολιτῶν ἢ φαύλων, ἀλλ' ὃν αὐτοὶ καὶ τὰ πολέμια λαμπρότατον ἡγεῖσθε εἶναι καὶ τὸν βίον σωφρονέστατον τὰ τε πολιτικὰ πράττειν οὐθενὸς χεῖρονα. [3] καὶ ταῦτ' ἐτόλμησεν εἰπεῖν εἰδὼς ὑμᾶς πλείστην αἰδῶ ποιοιμένους ἱκετῶν, καὶ μηδὲ πολεμίων τοὺς καταφεύγοντας ἐνθάδε ταύτης ἀποκλείοντας τῆς φιλανθρωπίας. εἰ δὲ τάναντία ἡμᾶς ἐγίνωσκες ἐπιτηδεύοντας, ὧ Δέκιε, ἀνόσια μὲν φρονοῦντας περὶ θεοῦς, ἄδικα δὲ πράττοντας πρὸς ἀνθρώπους, τί ἂν ἡμῖν τούτου συνεβούλευες ἔργον ὑπομεῖναι δεινότερον, ἀφ' οὗ πρόρριζοι καὶ πανώλεις, μισηθέντες θεοῖς τε καὶ ἀνθρώποις, διαφθαρσόμεθα; [4] οὐ δεόμεθά σου συμβούλου, Δέκιε, οὔτε περὶ πολιτῶν ἐκδόσεως οὔτε περὶ ἄλλου χρήματος ὧν ἡμῖν πρακτέον οὐδενός: οὐδὲ ὅθενι φρονήσει νέων ἀνδρῶν τὰ οἰκεῖα συμφέροντα κρίνειν οἴομεθα δεῖν οἱ [p. 82] μέχρι τῆσδε τῆς ἡλικίας διὰ πολλῆς πείρας κακῶν τε καὶ ἀγαθῶν ἐληλυθότες. πολέμου δ' ἀπειλᾶς, αἷς χρώμενοι φοβεῖτε ἡμᾶς, οὐ νῦν πρῶτον ἐπαγομένας ὑφ' ὑμῶν, ἀλλὰ πολλάκις ἤδη καὶ ὑπὸ πολλῶν ἐπανασεισθείσας τῇ συνήθει πρᾶότητι παραδόντες ἀκαταπλήκτως οἴσομεν. [5] καὶ εἰ δήπερ δράσετε τὰ ὅμοια οἷς λέγετε, ἀμνυνόμεθα θεοῦς τε συναγωνιστὰς ἔχοντες, οἱ νεμεσῶσι τοῖς ἄρχουσι πολέμου ἀδίκου, καὶ ἀνθρώπων ἔξοντες χεῖρα οὐκ ὀλίγην σύμμαχον. Λατῖνοι τε γὰρ ἅπαντες, οἷς νεωστὶ τὴν ἰσοπολιτείαν δεδώκαμεν, σὺν ἡμῖν στήσονται, ὡς περὶ πατρίδος ἤδη τῆς πόλεως τῆσδε ἀγωνιζόμενοι, αἱ τ' ἐνθένδε ἀποικισθεῖσαι πόλεις πολλαὶ καὶ ἀγαθαὶ περὶ παντὸς ποιούμεναι σώζεσθαι τὴν μητρόπολιν ἀμννοῦσιν αὐτῇ. [6] εἰ δ' εἰς ἀνάγκην ἡμᾶς κατακλείσετε τῆς πανταχόθεν ἐπικουρίας περιέχεσθαι, ὑπομενοῦμεν, ὧ Δέκιε, καὶ θεράποντας εἰς ἐλευθερίαν προκαλούμενοι καὶ πολεμίους εἰς φιλίαν καὶ πάντας ἀνθρώπους εἰς κοινωνίαν τῶν ἐκ τῆς νίκης ἐλπίδων ὁμόσε χωρεῖν ὑμῖν. μηθενὸς δὲ τούτων δεήσειεν, ὧ Ζεῦ καὶ θεοὶ πάντες οἱ πόλιν τὴν Ῥωμαίων κατέχοντες, ἀλλ' εἴη μέχρι λόγων τὰ φοβερά ταῦτ' ἐλθεῖν, ἔργον δὲ μηθὲν ἐξ αὐτῶν γένοιτ' ἄχαρι.

ταῦτα μὲν Ἄππιος εἶπεν. Μάνιος δὲ Οὐαλέριος ὁ δημοτικώτατος τῶν ἐκ τοῦ συνεδρίου καὶ περὶ [p. 83] τὰς διαλλαγὰς πλείστην ἀποδειξάμενος προθυμίαν φανερώς καὶ τότε τῷ δήμῳ συνελάμβανε καὶ λόγον διεξῆλθε μετὰ πολλῆς συγκείμενον φροντίδος, ἐπιτιμῶν μὲν τοῖς οὐκ ἔωσι μίαν εἶναι τὴν πόλιν, ἀλλὰ διαιροῦσι τὸ δημοτικὸν ἀπὸ τῶν πατρικίων καὶ διὰ μικρὰς προφάσεις πολέμους ἀναζωπυροῦσιν ἐμφυλίους· ἐπαίνων δὲ τοὺς ἐν τῷ συμφέρον καὶ κοινὸν ἡγουμένους καὶ πάντ' ἐλάττω τῆς ὁμονοίας τιθεμένους, διδάσκων, ὡς, εἰ γένοιτο τῆς δίκης ὁ δῆμος, ὥσπερ ἄξιοι, κύριος, καὶ ταύτην παρὰ τοῦ συνεδρίου τὴν χάριν ἐκόντος λάβοι, τάχα μὲν οὐδ' ἐπέξεισιν ἄχρι τέλους, ἀλλ' ἄρκεσθéis αὐτῷ τῷ κεκρατηκέναι τοῦ σώματος ἐπεικέστερον μᾶλλον ἢ χαλεπώτερον αὐτῷ χρήσεται. [2] εἰ δ' ἄρα ἐκ παντὸς οἰομένων τρόπον τῶν δημάρχων τέλος ἐπιθεῖναι δεῖν νόμιμον τῇ δίκῃ τῆς ψήφου γενήσεται κύριος, ἀπολύσει τὸν ἄνδρα τῆς αἰτίας αἰδούμενος μὲν αὐτὸ τὸ κινδυνεῦον σῶμα, οὗ πολλά καὶ καλὰ ἔργα ἔχει μεμνήσθαι, ἀνταποδιδούς δὲ ταύτην τὴν χάριν τῇ παρασχούσῃ τὴν ἐξουσίαν αὐτῷ βουλῇ καὶ πρὸς μηδὲν ἐναντιωθείσῃ [3] τῶν μετρίων. παρεῖναι μέντοι τῇ δίκῃ συνεβούλευε καὶ συναπολογεῖσθαι τῷ ἄνδρὶ καὶ τὸν δῆμον ἀξιοῦν μηθὲν διαγνῶναι περὶ αὐτοῦ χαλεπὸν τοὺς θ' ὑπάτους καὶ τοὺς ἐκ τοῦ συνεδρίου πάντας καὶ τοὺς ἄλλους πατρικίους κατὰ πλῆθος ἀφικομένους· συνοίσειν [p. 84] γὰρ οὐ μικρὰ τῷ κινδυνεύοντι καὶ τούτους εἰς σωτηρίας ῥοπήν· καὶ μὴ μόνον αὐτοὺς οὕτως ἔχειν ταῖς γνώμαις, ἀλλὰ καὶ πελάτας ἕκαστον τοὺς αὐτοῦ παρακαλεῖν καὶ φίλους συνάγειν, καὶ εἴ τινας οἰκείως ἔχειν σφίσι τῶν δημοτικῶν δι' εὐεργεσίας ὑπολαμβάνουσι, καὶ τούτους νυνὶ τὴν πρότερον ὀφειλομένην χάριν ἐπὶ [4] τῆς ψηφοφορίας ἀπαιτεῖν. τὸ τε φιλόχρηστον καὶ μισοπόνηρον οὐκ ὀλίγον ἀπέφηγεν ἐκ τοῦ δήμου μέρος ἐσόμενον, καὶ ἔτι πλεῖον τούτου, ὃ πρὸς τὰς τύχας πάσχειν τι τὰς ἀνθρωπίνας καὶ ἐλεεῖν οἶδε τοὺς ἐν τοῖς ἀξιώμασιν, ὅταν εἰς ταπεινὰ πέσωσιν αὐτῶν αἱ [5] τύχαι. ὁ δὲ πλεῖον λόγος ἐγίνετο αὐτῷ πρὸς τὸν Μάρκιον παράκλησιν ἔχων νουθετήσῃ μεμιγμένην καὶ δέησιν ἀνάγκῃ. ἡξίου γὰρ αὐτόν, ἐπεὶ διιστάναι τὸν δῆμον ἀπὸ τῆς βουλῆς αἰτίαν ἔχει καὶ τυραννικὸς εἶναι διαβάλλεται διὰ τὴν αὐθάδειαν τοῦ τρόπου, δέος τε παρέστηκεν ἅπασι, μὴ δι' αὐτόν ἀρχὴ γένηται στάσεως καὶ κακῶν ἀνηκέστων, ἃ φέρουσιν ἐμφύλιοι πόλεμοι, μὴ ποιεῖν ἀληθεῖς καὶ κυρίας τὰς κατ' αὐτοῦ διαβολὰς μένοντα ἐν τῷ φθονουμένῳ τοῦ βίου, ἀλλὰ σχῆμα ταπεινὸν μεταλαβεῖν καὶ τοῖς ἀδικεῖσθαι λέγουσι τὴν ἐξουσίαν τοῦ σώματος παρασχεῖν, καὶ μὴ φεύγειν ἄδικον ἔγκλημα λόγῳ μετὰ δίκης ἀπολυόμενον. [6] ταῦτα γὰρ αὐτῷ πρὸς τε σωτηρίαν ἀσφαλέστατα εἶναι καὶ πρὸς εὐδοξίαν, ἧς ὀρέγεται, λαμπρότατα καὶ τοῖς προυπηργμένοις [p. 85] ἔργοις ἀκόλουθα. εἰ δ' αὐθαδέστερος ἔσται μᾶλλον ἢ μετριώτερος, καὶ τὴν βουλὴν ἀξιώσει πάντα κίνδυνον δι' ἑαυτὸν ὑπομένειν, κακὴν μὲν ἦτταν, αἰσχροὺς δὲ νίκην τοῖς πεισθεῖσι προσάψειν αὐτόν ἀπέφαιναν· ἦν τ' ἐνταῦθα πολὺς ὀλοφυρόμενος καὶ τῶν καταλαμβανόντων κακῶν τὰς πόλεις ἐν ταῖς διχοστασίαις τὰ μέγιστα καὶ φανερώτατα ἐπιλεγόμενος.

καὶ ἐπ' οὐδενὶ ἀγαθῷ νομίζουσι τὴν τῶν δημάρχων ἐξουσίαν πολλὴν ἰσχύν λαβοῦσαν γενήσεσθαι, μαθέτωσαν ἀμαρτάνοντες τῆς δόξης καὶ τάναντία ἢ [2] προσῆκεν ὑπειληφότες. εἰ γάρ τι καὶ ἄλλο σωτηρίας αἴτιον ἔσται τῇ πόλει τῇδε καὶ τοῦ μηδέποτε τὴν ἐλευθερίαν μηδὲ τὴν ἰσχύν ἀφαιρεθῆναι, ὁμονοοῦσαν δ' αἰεὶ καὶ μιᾷ γνώμῃ περὶ πάντων χρωμένην διατελεῖν, ὁ δῆμος αἰτιώτατος ἔσται συμπαραληφθεὶς ἐπὶ τὰ πράγματα: καὶ τὸ μὴ μίαν εἶναι τὴν διοικοῦσαν τὰ κοινὰ πολιτείαν ἄκρατον μήτε μοναρχίαν μὴτ' ὀλιγαρχίαν [p. 86] μήτε δημοκρατίαν, ἀλλὰ τὴν μικτὴν ἐξ ἀπασῶν τούτων κατάστασιν, τοῦτο ὑπὲρ ἅπαντα ἡμᾶς ὠφελήσει. [3] ῥᾶστα γὰρ εἰς ὕβρεις ἀποσκήπτει καὶ παρανομίας τούτων ἕκαστον τῶν πολιτευμάτων αὐτὸ καθ' ἑαυτὸ γινόμενον, ὅταν δ' ἀνακερασθῇ πάντα μετρίως, τὸ παρακινεῖν μέρος αἰεὶ καὶ ἐκβαίνειν ἐκ τοῦ συνήθους κόσμου ὑπὸ τοῦ σωφρονοῦντος καὶ μένοντος ἐν τοῖς ἰδίοις ἡθεσι κατείργεται. μοναρχία μὲν ὠμὴ καὶ αὐθάδης γενηθεῖσα καὶ τυραννικὰ διώκειν ἀρξάμενη ζηλώματα ὑπ' ἀνδρῶν ὀλίγων καὶ ἀγαθῶν καταλύεται. [4] ὀλιγαρχία δ' ἐκ τῶν ἀρίστων ἀνδρῶν συνεστηκυῖα, ἣ χρησθε καὶ ὑμεῖς νυνί, ὅταν πλούτῳ καὶ ἑταιρίαις ἐπαρθεῖσα δικαιοσύνης καὶ τῆς ἄλλης ἀρετῆς μηθένα ποιῇται λόγον, ὑπὸ δήμου φρονίμου καταλύεται. δῆμος δὲ σωφρονῶν καὶ κατὰ νόμους πολιτευόμενος ὅταν ἀκοσμεῖν ἄρξῃται καὶ παρανομεῖν ὑπὸ τοῦ κρατίστου ἀνδρὸς βίᾳ καταληφθεὶς δικαιοῦται. [5] ὅμῃν δ', ὧ βουλῇ, μονάρχου μὲν ἐξουσίας, ἵνα μὴ τυραννὶς γένηται, τὰ δυνατὰ εὖρηται βοηθήματα. δύο τε γὰρ ἄνθ' ἑνὸς ἀποδείξαντες τῆς πόλεως κυρίους καὶ τούτοις οὐκ ἀόριστον χρόνον ἐπιτρέψαντες ἔχειν τὴν ἀρχήν, ἀλλ' ἐνιαύσιον οὐδὲν ἥττον ἀποδείκνυτε φύλακας αὐτῶν τριακοσίους ἄνδρας ἐκ τῶν πατρικίων τοὺς κρατίστους τε καὶ πρεσβυτάτους, ἐξ ὧν ἦδε ἡ βουλὴ συνέστηκεν: ὁμῶν δ' αὐτῶν, ἵνα μένῃτε [p. 87] ἐν τῷ προσήκοντι κόσμῳ, φυλακὴν οὐδεμίαν ἄχρι τοῦδε φαίνεσθε πεποιημένοι. [6] καὶ περὶ μὲν ὁμῶν οὕτω ἔδεισα, μὴ διαφθαρήτε τὰς διανοίας ὑπὸ τε μεγέθους καὶ πλήθους ἀγαθῶν, οἳ τυραννίδος τε πολυχρονίου ἡλευθερώκατε τὴν πόλιν ἔναγχος καὶ οὕτω σχολὴν ἐσχήκατε ὑβρίζειν καὶ τρυφᾶν διὰ τοὺς συνεχεῖς καὶ μακροὺς πολέμους: περὶ δὲ τῶν μεθ' ὑμᾶς ἐσομένων ἐνθυμούμενος ὅσας ὁ μακρὸς αἰὼν φέρει μεταβολὰς δέδοικα, μὴ τι παρακινήσαντες οἱ δυνατοὶ οἱ ἐκ τοῦ συνεδρίου λάθωσιν εἰς μοναρχίαν τὸ πολίτευμα περιστήσαντες τυραννικὴν.

ἐὰν οὖν κοινωνήσητε καὶ τῷ δήμῳ τῶν πολιτευμάτων, οὐθὲν ὁμῇ ἐνθάδε φύσεται κακόν, ἀλλ' ὁ πλεον ἔχειν τῶν ἄλλων ἀξιών καὶ τῆς βουλῆς προσεταιρισάμενος τὸν βουλούμενον συννοσεῖν καὶ συναδικεῖν: πάντα γὰρ τὰ εἰκότα χρή περὶ πόλεως βουλευομένους προνοεῖν: κληθεὶς ὑπὸ τῶν δημάρχων εἰς τὸ πλῆθος ὁ μέγας ἐκεῖνος καὶ σεμνὸς ἀποδώσει τῷ δήμῳ τῷ φαύλῳ καὶ ταπεινῷ λόγον ὧν πράττει τε καὶ διανοεῖται, κἂν ἀδικῶν φαίνεται δίκης, ἥς ἂν ἄξιος ᾖ, τεύξεται. [2] αὐτὸν δὲ τὸν δῆμον, ἵνα μὴ τρυφᾷ τηλικαύτης ἐξουσίας γενόμενος κύριος, μηδ' ὑπὸ τῶν κακίστων ἐκδημαγωγούμενος τοῖς κρατίστοις πολεμῇ: καὶ γὰρ ἐν ὄχλῳ φιλεῖ γίνεσθαι τυραννίς: φυλάξει τε καὶ οὐδὲν ἑάσει παρανομεῖν ὁ διαφέρων φρονήσει ἀνὴρ δικτάτωρ ὑφ' ὁμῶν αἰρεθείς, ὃς αὐτοκράτορι καὶ ἀνυπευθύνῳ χρώμενος [p. 88] ἐξουσίᾳ τὸ τε νοσοῦν ἐξελεῖ τῆς πόλεως μέρος, καὶ τὸ μήπω διεφθαρμένον οὐκ ἔασει κακωθῆναι, ἔθη τε καὶ νόμιμα καὶ ζηλώματα βίων τὰ κράτιστα μεθαρμοσάμενος ἀρχὰς τ' ἀποδείξας ἃς ἂν ἡγῆται σωφρονέστατα τῶν κοινῶν ἐπιτροπεύειν: καὶ ταῦτ' ἐντὸς ἐξ μηνῶν διοικησάμενος ἰδιώτης αὐθις ἔσται τὸ τιμᾶσθαι μόνον ἐκ τούτων λαβῶν, ἄλλο δ' οὐθέν. [3] ταῦτ' οὖν ἐνθυμηθέντες καὶ τὸ σχῆμα τῆς πολιτείας τοῦθ' ἡγησάμενοι κράτιστον εἶναι μηθενὸς ἀπελάνετε τὸν δῆμον, ἀλλ' ὥσπερ ἀρχὰς ἀποδεικνύναι τὰς καθ' ἕκαστον ἐνιαυτὸν ἡγησόμενας τῆς πόλεως, καὶ νόμους τοὺς μὲν ἐπικυροῦν, τοὺς δ' ἀναιρεῖν, καὶ περὶ πολέμου καὶ εἰρήνης διαγιγνώσκειν, ἃ μέγιστα καὶ κυριώτατά ἐστι τῶν ἐν τῇ πόλει διαπραττομένων, μεταδεδώκατε αὐτῷ καὶ οὐθενὸς τούτων αὐτοκράτορα πεποιήκατε τὴν βουλήν: οὕτως καὶ τῶν δικαστηρίων μεταδίδοτε, καὶ μάλισθ' ὑπὲρ ὧν ἂν τις αἰτίαν ἔχη τὴν πόλιν ἀδικεῖν στάσιν εἰσάγων ἢ τυραννίδα κατασκευαζόμενος ἢ περὶ προδοσίας τοῖς πολεμίοις διαλεγόμενος ἢ τοιοῦτό τι ἄλλο κακὸν ἐπιχειρῶν πράττειν. [4] ὅσω γὰρ ἂν φοβερώτερον κατασκευάσητε τὸ παραβαίνειν τοὺς νόμους καὶ τὰ ἔθη κινεῖν τοῖς ὑβρισταῖς καὶ πλεονέκταις, πολλοὺς ὀφθαλμοὺς καὶ φύλακας αὐτῶν ἀποδείξαντες, τοσοῦτω κρεῖττον ὑμῖν ἔξει τὰ κοινὰ.

ταῦτα καὶ τὰ παραπλήσια τούτοις εἰπὼν ἐπαύσατο. τῶν δὲ βουλευτῶν οἱ μετ' αὐτὸν ἀνιστάμενοι πλὴν ὀλίγων οἱ λοιποὶ ταύτῃ προσέθεντο τῇ [p. 89] γνώμῃ. καὶ ἐπειδὴ τὸ προβούλευμα ἔδει γράφεσθαι, λόγον αἰτησάμενος ὁ Μάρκιος εἶπεν: οἶος μὲν, ὦ βουλὴ, πρὸς τὰ κοινὰ ἐγὼ γέγονα, καὶ ὥς διὰ τὴν πρὸς ὑμᾶς εὖνοϊαν εἰς τοῦτον τὸν κίνδυνον ἐλήλυθα, καὶ ὅτι παρὰ γνώμην ἀπῆντηται μοι τὰ παρ' ὑμῶν, ἅπαντες ἴστε καὶ ἔτι μᾶλλον εἴσεσθε, ὅταν τὰ κατ' ἐμέ [2] σχῇ τέλος. ἐπεὶ δ' ἡ Οὐαλερίου γνώμη νικᾷ, συνενέγκειε μὲν ταῦτα ὑμῖν, καὶ γενοίμην ἐγὼ κακὸς εἰκαστῆς τῶν ἐσομένων. ἵνα δὲ καὶ ὑμεῖς οἱ τὸ προβούλευμα γράφοντες εἰδῆτε ἐφ' οἷς παραδιδόναι με τῷ δήμῳ μέλλετε, κάγω μὴ ἀγνοῶ, περὶ τίνος ἀγωνιοῦμαι, κελεύσατε δὴ τοὺς δημάρχους εἰπεῖν ἐναντίον ὑμῶν, τί τὸ ἀδίκημά ἐστιν, ἐφ' οὗ μέλλουσί μου κατηγορεῖν, καὶ ποταπὸν ὄνομα ἐπιγράψουσι τῇ δίκῃ.

ὡς δὲ διεβοήθη ταῦτα, πολλὴ σπουδὴ καὶ παράταξις ἐγίνετο τῶν τε δημοτικῶν καὶ τῶν πατρικίων· τῶν μὲν ὡς τιμωρησομένων τὸν αὐθαδέστατον, [p. 91] τῶν δ' ἵνα μὴ γένοιτο ὑποχείριος τοῖς ἐχθροῖς ὡς ὑπὲρ τῆς ἀριστοκρατίας ἀγωνιζόμενος. ἐδόκει δὲ πᾶσα κινδυνεύεσθαι ἢ τοῦ βίου καὶ τῆς ἐλευθερίας δικαίωσις ἐν τῷ τότε ἀγῶνι ἀμφοτέροις. ἐπιστάσης δὲ τῆς τρίτης ἀγορᾶς ὁ μὲν ἐκ τῶν ἀγρῶν ὄχλος, ὅσος οὕτω πρότερον, συνεληλυθὼς εἰς τὴν πόλιν ἔωθεν εὐθύς κατεῖχε τὴν ἀγορὰν· οἱ δὲ δήμαρχοι συνεκάλουν τὸ πλῆθος ἐπὶ τὴν φυλὴν ἐκκλησίαν, χωρία τῆς ἀγορᾶς περισχοίνισαντες, ἐν οἷς ἔμελλον αἱ φυλαὶ στήσεσθαι καθ' αὐτάς. ^[2] καὶ τότε πρῶτον ἐγένετο Ῥωμαίοις ἐκκλησία κατ' ἀνδρὸς ψηφοφόρος ἢ φυλετικὴ πολλὰ δὲ ἐναντιουμένων τῶν πατρικίων, ἵνα μὴ τοῦτο γένηται, καὶ τὴν λοχίτιν ἀξιούντων συνάγειν ἐκκλησίαν, ὥσπερ αὐτοῖς πάτριον ἦν. ἐν γὰρ τοῖς πρότερον χρόνοις, ὅτε μέλλοι ψῆφον ἐπιφέρειν ὁ δῆμος ὑπὲρ ὁτουδήτινος ὦν ἐπιτρέψειεν ἢ βουλὴ, ἐκάλουν μὲν οἱ ὕπατοι τὴν λοχίτιν ἐκκλησίαν, ἱερὰ πρότερον ἐπιτελέσαντες, ἃ νόμος αὐτοῖς ἐστὶ, καὶ μέχρι τοῦ καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνου τινὰ ἐξ αὐτῶν ἔτι γίνεται. ^[3] συνήγει δὲ τὸ πλῆθος εἰς τὸ πρὸ τῆς πόλεως Ἀρειον πεδῖον ὑπὸ τε λοχαγοῖς καὶ σημείοις τεταγμένον ὥσπερ ἐν πολέμῳ, ἐπέφερον δὲ τὴν ψῆφον οὐχ ἅπαντες ἀναλαβόντες, ἀλλὰ κατὰ τοὺς ἰδίους ἕκαστοι λόχους, ὁπότε κληθεῖεν ὑπὸ τῶν ὑπάτων. ὄντων δὲ τῶν συμπτάντων τριῶν καὶ ἐνενήκοντα καὶ ἑκατὸν [p. 92] λόχων καὶ τούτων εἰς ἕξ διηρημένων συμμορίας πρώτη μὲν ἐκαλεῖτο συμμορία καὶ τὴν ψῆφον ἐπέφερεν ἢ τῶν ἐχόντων τὸ μέγιστον τίμημα τῆς οὐσίας καὶ τὴν πρώτην λαμβανόντων τάξιν ἐν πολέμοις· ἐν οἷς ἦσαν ἱππέων μὲν ὀκτωκαίδεκα λόχοι, πεζῶν δ' ὀγδοήκοντα. ^[4] δευτέρα δ' ἐψηφοφόρει συμμορία τῶν ὑποδεεστέρων τοῖς βίοις καὶ τὴν ὑποβεβηκυῖαν τάξιν ἐν ταῖς μάχαις μαχομένων καὶ ὀπλισμὸν οὐ τὸν αὐτὸν ἐχόντων τοῖς πρωτοστάταις, ἀλλ' ἐλάττονα· τοῦτο δὲ τὸ πλῆθος εἰς εἴκοσι λόχους συντεταγμένον ἦν, προσέκειντο δ' αὐτοῖς δύο ἱλαὶ τεκτόνων καὶ χαλκοτύπων καὶ ὅσοι ἄλλοι πολεμικῶν ἔργων ἦσαν χειροτέχνη. οἱ δ' ἐν τῇ τρίτῃ συμμορίᾳ καλούμενοι λόχους μὲν ἐξεπλήρουν εἴκοσι, τίμημα δ' εἶχον ἑλάττον τῶν δευτέρων καὶ τάξιν τὴν ἐπ' ἐκείνοις ἐλάττονα, καὶ ὅπλα οὐκ ἴσα τοῖς πρὸ ^[5] αὐτῶν ἔφερον. οἱ δὲ μετὰ τούτους καλοῦμενοι τίμημά τ' οὐσίας ἔλαττον εἶχον καὶ τάξιν ἐν πολέμῳ τὴν ἀσφαλεστέραν ἐλάμβανον καὶ ὀπλισμὸν εὐσταθέστερον εἶχον· διήρηντο δ' εἰς εἴκοσι καὶ οὗτοι λόχους· συνετάττοντο δὲ καὶ τούτοις δύο λόχοι βυκανιστῶν καὶ σαλπιστῶν. πέμπτη δ' ἐκαλεῖτο συμμαρία τῶν ὀλίγου πάνυ τετιμημένων ἀργυρίου, ὅπλα δ' ἦν αὐτῶν σαυνία καὶ σφενδόναι· οὗτοι τάξιν οὐκ εἶχον ἐν φάλαγγι, ἀλλὰ ψилоὶ καὶ κοῦφοι συνεστρατεύοντο τοῖς ὀπλίταις εἰς τριάκοντα λόχους διηρημένοι. [6] οἱ δ' ἀπορώτατοι τῶν πολιτῶν οὐκ [p. 93] ἐλάττους τῶν ἄλλων ἀπάντων ὄντες ἔσχατοι τὴν ψῆφον ἀνελάμβανον, ἕνα μόνον ἔχοντες λόχον· οὗτοι στρατειῶν τ' ἦσαν ἐλεύθεροι τῶν ἐκ καταλόγου καὶ εἰσφορῶν τῶν κατὰ τιμήματα γινομένων ἀτελεῖς καὶ δι' [7] ἄμφω ταῦτ' ἐν ταῖς ψηφοφορίαις ἀτιμώτατοι. εἰ μὲν οὖν ἐπὶ τῶν πρώτων λόχων, οὓς οἱ θ' ἵππεῖς ἐξεπλήρουν καὶ τῶν πεζῶν οἱ τὴν πρώτην τάξιν ἐν τοῖς πολέμοις λαμβάνοντες, ταὐτὸ φρονήσαιεν ἐπτά καὶ ἐνενήκοντα λόχοι, τέλος εἶχεν ἡ ψηφοφορία, καὶ οὐκέτι τοῖς λοιποῖς ἕξ καὶ ἐνενήκοντα λόχοις ἀνεδίδοτο ἡ ψῆφος· εἰ δὲ μὴ τοῦτο γένοιτο, ἡ δευτέρα συμμαρία τῶν δύο καὶ εἴκοσι λόχων ἐκαλεῖτο, καὶ ἡ τρίτη· καὶ τοῦτο συνέβαινε, ἕως οὗ ταὐτὸ φρονήσωσιν ἐπτά καὶ ἐνενήκοντα λόχοι. [8] καὶ τὰ μὲν πολλὰ τῶν ἀγωνισμάτων ἐπὶ τῶν πρώτων κλήσεων τέλος ἐλάμβανεν, ὥστε μηδὲν ἔτι δεῖν τῶν ἐσχάτων. σπανίως δὲ που πρῶγμα οὕτως ἐνδοιαζόμενον ἐνέπιπτεν, ὥστε μέχρι τῆς ἐσχάτης ψήφου τῆς τῶν ἀπορωτάτων προελθεῖν· καὶ ἦν ὥσπερ τέρας τοῦτο σχισθέντων διχα τῶν προτέρων δύο καὶ ἐνενήκοντα καὶ ἑκατὸν λόχων τὴν τελευταίαν ψῆφον ἐπενεχεθεῖσαν ἐκείναις αἰτίαν γενέσθαι τῆς ἐπὶ θάτερα ροπῆς. [9] οἱ μὲν οὖν συναγωνιζόμενοι Μαρκίῳ ταύτην ἡξίουσαν καλεῖν τὴν ἀπὸ τῶν τιμημάτων ἐκκλησίαν ὑπολαμβάνοντες τάχα μὲν ἐπὶ τῆς πρώτης κλήσεως ὑπὸ τῶν ὀκτώ καὶ ἐνενήκοντα λόχων ἀπολυθήσεσθαι τὸν [p. 94] ἄνδρα, εἰ δὲ μὴ γ' ὑπὸ τῆς δευτέρας ἢ τρίτης. οἱ δὲ δήμαρχοι ταῦθ' ὑφορώμενοι καὶ αὐτοὶ τὴν φυλετικὴν ἐκκλησίαν ὦντο δεῖν συνάγειν καὶ τοῦ ἀγῶνος ἐκείνην ποιῆσαι κυρίαν, ἵνα μὴθ' οἱ πένητες τῶν πλουσίων μειονεκτῶσι μὴθ' οἱ ψилоὶ τῶν ὀπλιτῶν ἀτιμοτέραν χώραν ἔχωσι, μὴτ' ἀπερριμμένον εἰς τὰς ἐσχάτας κλήσεις τὸ δημοτικὸν πλῆθος ἀποκλειῇται τῶν ἴσων, ἰσόψηφοι δὲ καὶ ὁμότιμοι πάντες ἀλλήλοις γενόμενοι μιᾷ κλήσει τὴν ψῆφον ἐπενέγκωσι κατὰ φυλάς. [10] καὶ ἐδόκουν δικαιοτέρα οὗτοι τῶν ἐτέρων ἀξιοῦν δημοτικὸν οἰόμενοι δεῖν, ἀλλ' οὐκ ὀλιγαρχικὸν εἶναι τὸ τοῦ δήμου δικαστήριον, καὶ τὴν περὶ τῶν ἀδικούντων τὸ κοινὸν διάγνωσιν ἀπάντων εἶναι κοινήν.

ἀνῆρῆσθαι καὶ ἔθνη ὅλα διολωλέναι: παρακαλῶν δὲ μὴ τὰ χεῖρω αἰρεῖσθαι πρὸ τῶν κρειττόνων ὀργῇ ἐπιτρέψαντας, ἀλλ' ἐκ λογισμοῦ σώφρονος τὰ μέλλοντα ὀρᾶν, μηδὲ τοῖς κακίστοις τῶν πολιτῶν χρῆσθαι συμβούλοις περὶ τῶν μεγίστων βουλευομένους, ἀλλὰ τοῖς κρατίστοις σφίσι εἶναι δοκοῦσιν, ὑφ' ὧν ἦδεσαν ἐν εἰρήνῃ τε καὶ κατὰ πολέμους πολλὰ ὠφελημένην τὴν πατρίδα, οἷς οὐκ ἂν δικαιοῦσιν ὡς μεταβεβλημένοις τὴν φύσιν ἀπιστεῖν. [3] Ἐν δὲ κεφάλαιον ἦν ἀπάντων τῶν λόγων, μηδεμίαν αὐτοὺς ἐπενεγκεῖν κατὰ τοῦ Μάρκιου ψῆφον, ἀλλὰ μάλιστα μὲν δι' αὐτὸν ἀφεῖναι τῆς δίκης τὸν ἄνδρα ἀναμνησκομένους, οἷος εἰς τὰ κοινὰ ἐγένετο καὶ ὅσους κατώρθωσεν ὑπὲρ τῆς κοινῆς ἐλευθερίας τε καὶ ἡγεμονίας πολέμους, καὶ ὡς οὔτε ὅσια οὔτε δίκαια οὔτε προσήκοντα σφίσι ποιήσουσι, λόγων μὲν αὐτῷ μνησικακοῦντες φαύλων, ἔργων δ' [4] ἀχαριστοῦντες καλῶν. εἶναι δὲ καὶ τὸν καιρὸν τῆς ἀφέσεως καλόν, ὅτε γ' αὐτὸς ἦκει παρέχων τὸ σῶμα τοῖς διαφόροις καὶ στέρξων, ὃ τι ἂν ἐκεῖνοι περὶ αὐτοῦ διαγνῶσιν. εἰ δ' οὐχ οἷοι τέ εἰσι διαλύσασθαι πρὸς ἐκεῖνον, ἀλλὰ χαλεπῶς καὶ ἀπαραιτήτως ἔχουσιν, ἐνθυμηθέντας, ὅτι ἡ βουλὴ δεησομένη περὶ αὐτοῦ πάρεισιν, ἄνδρες οἱ κράτιστοι τῆς πόλεως τριακόσιοι, παθεῖν τι καὶ ἐπικλασθῆναι τὰς γνώμας, καὶ μὴ δι' ἐνὸς ἐχθροῦ τιμωρίαν τοσούτων δέησιν ἀπώσασθαι φίλων, ἀλλὰ [p. 96] πολλῶν καὶ ἀγαθῶν ἀνδρῶν χάριτι δίκην ἀνδρὸς ἐνὸς ὑπεριδεῖν. ταῦτα καὶ παραπλήσια τούτοις εἰπὼν τελευταῖον ἐκεῖνον ἐπέθηκε τὸν λόγον, ὅτι ψήφου μὲν ἐπαχθείσης, ἐὰν ἀπολύσωσι τὸν ἄνδρα, διὰ τὸ μηδὲν ἀδικεῖσθαι τὸν δῆμον ὑπ' αὐτοῦ δόξουσιν ἀφεικέναι: [5] ἐὰν δὲ κωλύσωσιν ἐπιτελεσθῆναι τὴν δίκην τοῖς δεομένοις ὑπὲρ αὐτοῦ φανήσονται κεχαρισμένοι.

πανσαμένου δὲ τοῦ Μηνυκίου παρελθὼν ὁ δήμαρχος Σικίννιος οὗτ' αὐτὸς ἔφη προδώσειν τὴν ἐλευθερίαν τῶν δημοτῶν οὔτε τοῖς προδιδούσιν ἐπιτρέψειν ἐκὼν, ἀλλ' εἰ τῷ ὄντι παρέχουσιν οἱ πατρίκιοι τὸν ἄνδρα ἐπὶ δίκην τοῖς δημοτικοῖς, ἀναδώσειν περὶ αὐτοῦ ψῆφον, ἄλλο δὲ ποιήσειν παρὰ ταῦτ' οὐδέν. [2] μετὰ ταῦτα παρελθὼν ὁ Μηνύκιος εἶπεν: ἐπειδὴ πάντως, ὦ δήμαρχοι, ψῆφον ἐπενεχθῆναι περὶ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς προθυμείσθε, μηθὲν ἔξω τοῦ ἐγκλήματος κατηγορεῖτε: ἀλλ' ἐπειδὴ τυραννίδι αὐτὸν ἐπιχειρεῖν εἰσηγγεῖλατε, τοῦτο διδάσκετε καὶ περὶ τούτου τὰς πίστεις φέρετε. λόγων δ', ὧν αὐτὸν αἰτιάσθε κατὰ τοῦ δήμου πρὸς τὴν βουλήν εἶπεῖν, μήτε μέμνησθε μήτε κατηγορεῖτε. ἀφείσθαι γὰρ αὐτὸν ἐψηφίσατο ταύτης τῆς αἰτίας τὸ συνέδριον, καὶ ἐπὶ ῥητοῖς ἦκειν εἰς τὸν δῆμον ἐδικαίωσε. [3] καὶ μετὰ τοῦτ' ἀνέγνω τὸ προβούλευμα. ὁ μὲν δὴ ταῦτ' εἰπὼν τε καὶ ἐπιμαρτυράμενος κατέβη. τῶν δὲ δημάρχων πρῶτος μὲν διέθετο τὴν κατηγορίαν Σικίννιος [p. 97] ἐκ πολλῆς ἐπιμελείας καὶ παρασκευῆς, πάνθ' ὅσα πράττων ἢ λέγων ὁ ἀνὴρ κατὰ τοῦ δήμου διετέλεσεν εἰς κατασκευὴν τυραννίδος ἀναφέρων: ἔπειτα μετ' ἐκεῖνον οἱ δυνατώτατοι τῶν δημάρχων εἶπεῖν.

ὡς δὲ παρέλαβεν ὁ Μάρκιος τὸν λόγον, ἀρξάμενος ἄνωθεν ἀπὸ τῆς πρώτης ἡλικίας διήλθεν, ὅσας ἐστρατευμένους ἦν ὑπὲρ τῆς πόλεως στρατείας, καὶ ὅσους εἰληφῶς ἐπινικίους παρὰ τῶν στρατηγῶν στεφάνους πολεμίων τε τοὺς ληφθέντας αἰχμαλώτους ὑπ' αὐτοῦ καὶ πολιτῶν τοὺς διασωθέντας ἐν τοῖς ἀγῶσι· καὶ παρ' ἑκαστον τῶν λεγομένων τὰ τ' ἀριστεῖα ἐπεδείκνυτο καὶ τοὺς στρατηγοὺς μάρτυρας παρείχετο καὶ τῶν πολιτῶν τοὺς διασωθέντας ἐξ ὀνόματος ἐκάλει. [2] οἱ δὲ παρήεσαν ὀλοφυρόμενοι καὶ δεόμενοι τῶν πολιτῶν, μὴ τὸν αἵτιον σφίσι τῆς σωτηρίας ὡς πολέμιον ἀπολέσαι, μίαν τ' ἀντὶ πολλῶν ψυχὴν αἰτοῦμενοι καὶ παραδιδόντες ἑαυτοὺς ἀντ' ἐκείνου χρῆσθαι, ὅ τι βούλονται. ἦσαν δ' οἱ πλείους αὐτῶν ἐκ τοῦ δημοτικοῦ γένους καὶ πολλὰ τῷ κοινῷ χρήσιμοι· ὧν τὰς τ' ὄψεις καὶ τὰς δεήσεις δι' αἰσχύνης ὁ δῆμος λαμβάνων εἰς οἴκτους καὶ δάκρυα ἐτράπετο. [3] ὡς δὲ καὶ τὴν ἐσθῆτα ὁ Μάρκιος περιρρηξάμενος ἐπεδείξατο τὰ στέρνα τραυμάτων μεστὰ καὶ πᾶν τὸ ἄλλο μέρος τοῦ σώματος ἀνάπλεων τῶν πληγῶν, καὶ ἐπύθετο, εἰ τῶν αὐτῶν ἀνθρώπων ἔργα εἶναι νομίζουσι σῶζειν μὲν ἐκ τῶν πολέμων τοὺς πολίτας, ἀπολλύναι δὲ τοὺς σωθέντας ἐν εἰρήνῃ· καὶ εἰ τυραννίδα κατασκευαζόμενός τις τὸ δημοτικὸν ἐλαύνει μέρος ἐκ πόλεως, ὑφ' οὗ μάλιστ' [p. 98] αὖξεται τε καὶ τρέφεται τυραννίς· ἔτι δ' αὐτοῦ λέγοντος ὅσον μὲν ἦν τοῦ δημοτικοῦ μέρους ἐπεικὲς καὶ φιλόχρηστον ἀπολύειν ἐβόα τὸν ἄνδρα, καὶ δι' αἰσχύνης ἐλάμβανεν, εἰ καὶ δίκην ὑπέιχε τὴν ἀρχὴν περὶ τοιαύτης αἰτίας ἀνὴρ τοσαυτάκις ὑπεριδὼν τῆς ἑαυτοῦ ψυχῆς ἔνεκα τῆς ἀπάντων φυλακῆς. [4] ὅσοι δ' ἦσαν φύσει βάσκανοι καὶ μισόχρηστοι καὶ πρὸς πᾶσαν εὐκίνητοι στάσιν, ἤχθοντο μὲν ἀπολύειν τὸν ἄνδρα μέλλοντες, οὐκ εἶχον δ', ὅ τι ἂν ἄλλο ποιῶσι διὰ τὸ μηδεμίαν εὐρίσκειν ἀφορμὴν τυραννίδος ἐπιθέσεως φαινομένην, ὑπὲρ ἧς τὰς ψήφους ἀνελήφεσαν.

τοῦτο καταμαθὼν ὁ Δέκιος ἐκεῖνος, ὁ καὶ τοὺς ἐν τῇ βουλῇ ποιησάμενος λόγους καὶ τὸ προβούλευμα περὶ τῆς δίκης γραφῆναι παρασκευάσας, ἀνέστη καὶ σιωπὴν γενέσθαι κελεύσας ἔλεξεν· ἐπειδὴ, ὧς δημόται, τῶν ἐν τῇ βουλῇ λεχθέντων ὑπὸ Μαρκίου λόγων, καὶ τῶν διὰ τοὺτους ἀκολουθησάντων ἔργων βιαίων τε καὶ ὑπερφηάνων ἀπολύουσιν αὐτὸν οἱ πατρίκιοι καὶ οὐδ' ἡμῖν ἐπιτρέπουσι κατηγορεῖν, ἀκούσατε, οἷον ὑμῖν ἔργον ἕτερον ἔξω τῶν λόγων ὁ γενναῖος οὗτος ἀνὴρ τυγχάνει διαπεπραγμένος, ὡς αὐθαδὲς καὶ τυραννικόν, καὶ οἷον ὑμῶν κατέλυσε νόμον αὐτὸς ἰδιώτης ὧν μάθετε. [2] ἴστε δήπου πάντες, ὅτι τὰ ἐκ τῶν πολέμων λάφυρα, ὅσων ἂν ἡμῖν ὑπάρχη τυχεῖν δι' ἀρετὴν, δημόσια εἶναι κελεύει ὁ νόμος, καὶ τούτων οὐχ ὅπως τις ἰδιώτης γίνεται κύριος, ἀλλ' οὐδ' αὐτὸς ὁ τῆς [p. 99] δυνάμεως ἡγεμών· ὁ δὲ ταμίαις αὐτὰ παραλαβὼν ἀπεμπολᾷ καὶ εἰς τὸ δημόσιον ἀναφέρει τὰ χρήματα· καὶ τοῦτον τὸν νόμον, ἐξ οὗ τήνδε οἰκοῦμεν τὴν πόλιν, οὐχ ὅπως κατέλυσέ τις, ἀλλ' οὐδ' ἠπάσατο μὴ οὐχὶ καλῶς ἔχειν· ἀλλ' οὗτος ὁ Μάρκιος πρῶτος καὶ μόνος ὑπεριδὼν αὐτοῦ κειμένου καὶ κυρίου ὄντος ἡξίωσε σφετερίσασθαι τὰ κοινὰ ἡμῶν, ὧς δημόται, λάφυρα, πέρυσιν καὶ οὐ πάλοι. [3] ποιησαμένων γὰρ ὑμῶν καταδρομὴν τῆς Ἀντιατῶν γῆς καὶ πολλὰ μὲν σώματα, πολλὰ δὲ βοσκήματα, πολὺν δὲ σῖτον, πολλὰ δ' ἄλλα χρήματα περιβαλομένων οὔτε τῷ ταμίᾳ ταῦτ' ἀπέδειξεν οὔτ' αὐτὸς ἀποδόμενος εἰς τὸ δημόσιον ἀνήνεγκε τὸ ἀργύριον, ἀλλὰ διένειμε καὶ κατεχαρίσατο τοῖς ἑαυτοῦ φίλοις ἅπασαν τὴν λείαν· τοῦτο δὲ τυραννίδος τεκμήριον εἶναι φημι τὸ ἔργον· πῶς γὰρ οὐ;

τοῦτο τὸ κατηγόρημα πολλὴν ἐποίησε τὴν ἐπὶ θάτερα μεταβολήν. οἱ μὲν γὰρ ἐπιεικέστεροί τε καὶ σπουδάζοντες ὑπὲρ ἀφέσεως τοῦ ἀνδρὸς μαλακώτεροι τούτων ἀκούσαντες ἐγένοντο, τὸ δὲ κακότηδες ἅπαν, ὃ τοῦ δήμου πλεῖστον μέρος ἦν, ἐκ παντὸς ἀπολέσαι τὸν ἄνδρα δήπου προθυμοῦμενον, ἔτι μᾶλλον εἰς ταῦτ' ἐπερρώσθη μεγάλης ἀφορμῆς καὶ φανεραῖς [2] λαβόμενον. ἦν γὰρ ἀληθὴς ἡ τῶν λαφύρων διάδοσις, οὐ μὴν ἐκ προαιρέσεώς γε πονηραῖς καὶ ἐπὶ κατασκευῇ τυραννίδος, ὡς ὁ Δέκιος ἡτιᾶτο, γενομένη, ἀλλ' ἀπὸ παντὸς τοῦ βελτίστου καὶ ἐπανορθώσεως ἔνεκα τῶν κατεχόντων τὰ κοινὰ κακῶν. στασιάζοντος γὰρ ἔτι καὶ διεστηκότος ἀπὸ τῶν πατρικίων τοῦ πλήθους τότε καταφρονήσαντες οἱ πολέμιοι καταδρομὰς τῆς χώρας ἐποιοῦντο καὶ λεηλασίας συνεχεῖς: καὶ ὅποτε δόξειε τῇ βουλῇ τὴν κωλύσουσαν ταῦτα δύναμιν ἐξελθεῖν, οὐδεὶς ἐξήει τῶν δημοτῶν, ἀλλ' ἐπέχαιρόν τε καὶ περιεώρων τὰ γινόμενα: ἡ δὲ τῶν πατρικίων χεὶρ οὐκ ἦν καθ' [3] ἑαυτὴν ἀξιόμαχος. τοῦτο καταμαθὼν ὁ Μάρκιος ὑπέσχετο τοῖς ὑπάτοις, ἐὰν ἐπιτρέψωσιν αὐτῷ τὴν ἡγεμονίαν, στρατιὰν ἄξιν ἐκούσιον ἐπὶ τοὺς πολεμίους καὶ δίκην λήψεσθαι παρ' αὐτῶν ἐν τάχει. λαβὼν δὲ τὴν ἐξουσίαν συνεκάλει τοὺς τε πελάτας καὶ τοὺς φίλους [p. 101] καὶ τῶν ἄλλων πολιτῶν οἷς ἦν βουλομένοις ἀπολαῦσαι τι τῆς τοῦ στρατηγοῦ τύχης κατὰ τὰ πολέμια καὶ ἀρετῆς. ὡς δ' αὐτῷ χεὶρ ἀξιόμαχος ἐδόκει συνεληλυθέναι, προῆγεν ἐπὶ τοὺς πολεμίους οὐθέν πω προειδότας. [4] ἐμβαλὼν δ' εἰς χώραν πολλῶν ἀγαθῶν μεστὴν γενόμενος ἀφθόνου λείας κύριος ἐφῆκε τοῖς στρατιώταις ἅπαντα τὰ ληφθέντα διανείμασθαι, ἵν' οἱ μὲν συναράμενοι τοῦ ἔργου τὸν τῶν πόνων καρπὸν κομισάμενοι προθύμως ἐπὶ τὰς ἄλλας στρατείας ἀπαντῶσιν: οἱ δ' ἀποκνήσαντες ἐνθυμηθέντες, ὅσων ἀγαθῶν αὐτοῖς ἐξὸν μεταλαβεῖν, διὰ τὸ στασιάζειν ἀπεκωλύθησαν εἰς τὰς λοιπὰς ἐξόδους γένωνται φρονιμώτεροι. [5] διάνοια μὲν τοῦ ἀνδρὸς ἦδε ἐγένετο περὶ τὸ ἔργον: χόλῳ δ' ὑποῦλῳ καὶ φθόνῳ δυσμενῶν αὐτῇ καθ' αὐτὴν ἡ πρᾶξις ἐξεταζομένη δημαγωγία τις ἐφαίνετο εἶναι καὶ δεκασμός τυραννικός. ὥστε βοῆς καὶ θορύβου πᾶσα ἦν ἀνάπλεως ἡ ἀγορά, καὶ οὐθ' ὁ Μάρκιος πρὸς ταῦτ' εἶχεν, ὃ τι ἀπολογήσαιο, οὐθ' ὁ ὑπάτος οὐτ' ἄλλος οὐδεὶς, οἷα δὴ παραδόξου καὶ ἀπροσδοκίτου φανείσης ἐπὶ σφίσι τῆς αἰτίας. [6] ἐπειδὴ δ' οὐδεὶς οὐκέτι ἀπελογεῖτο, ἀνέδωκαν οἱ δήμαρχοι τὴν ψῆφον ταῖς φυλαῖς τίμημα ἐπιγράψαντες τῇ δίκῃ φυγὴν αἰδιδίον, κατὰ δέος, οἶμαι, τοῦ μὴ ἂν ὀλῶναι τὸν ἄνδρα θανάτου αὐτῷ τιμησάντων. ὡς δ' ἐπεψήφισαν ἅπαντες, αὕτη πρώτη κατ' ἀνδρὸς πατρικίου πρόσκλησις εἰς τὸν δῆμον ἐγένετο ἐπὶ δίκη. καὶ ἀπ' ἐκείνου τοῦ χρόνου τοῖς ὕστερον λαμβάνουσι τὴν τοῦ δήμου προστασίαν ἔθος κατέστη καλεῖν οὓς δόξειε τῶν πολιτῶν δίκην ὑφέζοντας ἐπὶ τοῦ δήμου: καὶ ἐνθὲνδε ἀρξάμενος ὁ δῆμος ἦρθη μέγας, ἡ δ' ἀριστοκρατία πολλὰ τοῦ ἀρχαίου ἀξιώματος ἀπέβαλε βουλῆς τε μετέχειν ἐπιτρέπουσα τοῖς δημοτικοῖς καὶ ἀρχὰς μετιέναι συγχωροῦσα ἱερῶν τε προστασίας λαμβάνειν οὐ κωλύουσα καὶ ὅσα ἄλλα τιμώτατα ἦν καὶ ἴδια τῶν πατρικίων μόνων ἅπασι κοινωσαμένη, τὰ μὲν ὑπ' ἀνάγκης τε καὶ ἄκουσα, τὰ δ' ἐκ προνοίας τε καὶ σοφίας, ὑπὲρ ὧν κατὰ τὸν οἰκεῖον καιρὸν ἐρῶ. [2] τοῦτο μέντοι τὸ ἔθος, λέγω δὲ τὸ καλεῖσθαι τοὺς ἐν τῇ πόλει δυναστεύοντας ἐπὶ δίκην, ἧς ὁ δῆμος ἐγίνετο κύριος, πολλὰς ἂν παράσχοι λόγων ἀφορμὰς τοῖς ἐπαινεῖν αὐτὸ βουλομένοις ἢ ψέγειν. πολλοὶ μὲν γὰρ ἤδη καλοὶ καὶ ἀγαθοὶ ἄνδρες οὐκ ἄξια τῆς ἀρετῆς ἔπαθον, αἰσχυρῶς καὶ κακῶς τὰς ψυχὰς ὑπὸ τῶν δημάρχων ἀφαιρεθέντες: πολλοὶ δ' αὐθάδεις καὶ τυραννικοὶ τοὺς τρόπους λόγον [p. 103] ἀναγκασθέντες ὑποσχεῖν τοῦ βίου καὶ τῶν ἐπιτηδευμάτων δίκας τὰς προσηκούσας ἔδοσαν. [3] ὅποτε μὲν οὖν ἀπὸ τοῦ κρατίστου γένοιτο αἱ διαγνώσεις, καὶ καθαιρεθεῖ τὰ τῶν μεγάλων αὐχήματα σὺν δίκη, μέγα τι καὶ θαυμαστὸν ἐφαίνετο εἶναι χρῆμα καὶ ὑπὸ πάντων ἐπηνεῖτο, ὅποτε δ' ἀρετὴ φθονηθεῖσα ἀνδρὸς τὰ κοινὰ εὖ διοικοῦντος ἀδίκως ἀναιρεθεῖ, δεινὸν τι τοῖς ἄλλοις κατεφαίνετο, καὶ οἱ τοῦ ἔθους ἄρξαντες κατηγοροῦντο. πολλάκις τε βουλευσάμενοι οἱ Ῥωμαῖοι, πότερα χρή καταλύσαι αὐτὸ ἢ φυλάττειν, οἷον παρὰ τῶν προγόνων παρέλαβον, οὐθὲν ἐπέθηκαν τῇ βουλῇ πέρας. [4] εἰ δὲ δεῖ καὶ αὐτὸν ἀποφύνασθαι περὶ τηλικούτων πραγμάτων γνώμην, ἐμοὶ δοκεῖ τὸ μὲν ἔθος αὐτὸ καθ' ἑαυτὸ ἐξεταζόμενον χρήσιμον εἶναι καὶ πόλει τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἀναγκαιότατον, κρεῖττον δὲ καὶ χεῖρον γίνεσθαι παρὰ τοὺς τῶν δημάρχων τρόπους. ὅταν μὲν γὰρ τύχῃσι τῆς ἐξουσίας ταύτης ἄνδρες δίκαιοι καὶ σώφρονες καὶ τὰ κοινὰ ἀναγκαιότερα τῶν ἰδίων πιθέμενοι, ὁ μὲν ἀδίκων τὰ κοινὰ τιμωρίαν δούς, ἦν προσῆκε, πολὺ δέος τοῖς ὅμοια παρσκευασμένοις δρᾶν ἐνείργασατο, ὁ δ' ἀγαθὸς καὶ ἀπὸ τοῦ κρατίστου πρὸς τὰ κοινὰ παριῶν οὔτε δίκην ἀσχήμονα ὑπέσχεν οὔτ' εἰς αἰτίας ἄλλοτριους τῶν ἐπιτηδευμάτων κατέστη. [5] ὅταν δὲ πονηροὶ καὶ ἀκόλαστοι καὶ φιλοκερδεῖς ἄνθρωποι τηλικαύτης ἐξουσίας τύχῃσι, τάναντία τούτων γίνεται. ὥστ' οὐ τὸ ἔθος ἐπανορθοῦσθαι προσῆκεν ὥς ἡμαρτημένον, ἀλλὰ σκοπεῖν, ὅπως ἄνδρες καλοὶ καὶ ἀγαθοὶ τοῦ δήμου [p. 104] γενήσονται προστάται καὶ μὴ τοῖς τυχοῦσι τὰ μέγιστα εἰκῇ ἐπιτραπήσεται.

ἡ μὲν δὴ πρώτη Ῥωμαίοις ἐμπεσοῦσα μετὰ τὴν ἐκβολὴν τῶν βασιλέων στάσις ἔσχε τοιαύτας αἰτίας καὶ εἰς τοῦτο κατέσκηψε τὸ τέλος: ἐμήκυνα δὲ τὸν ὑπὲρ αὐτῶν λόγον τοῦ μὴ τινα θαυμάσαι, πῶς ὑπέμειναν οἱ πατρικιοὶ τηλικαύτης ἐξουσίας ποιῆσαι τὸν δῆμον κύριον, οὔτε σφαγῆς τῶν ἀρίστων ἀνδρῶν γενομένης οὕτε φυγῆς, οἷον ἐν ἄλλαις πολλαῖς ἐγένετο πόλεσι. ποθεῖ γὰρ ἕκαστος ἐπὶ τοῖς παραδόξοις ἀκούσμασι τὴν αἰτίαν μαθεῖν καὶ τὸ πιστὸν ἐν ταύτῃ τίθεται μόνῃ. [2] ἐλογιζόμην οὖν, ὅτι μοι πολλοῦ καὶ τοῦ παντὸς δεήσει πιστὸς εἶναι ὁ λόγος, εἰ τοσοῦτον ἔφην μόνον, ὅτι παρῆκαν οἱ πατρίκιοι τοῖς δημοτικοῖς τὴν ἐαυτῶν δυναστείαν, καὶ ἐξὸν αὐτοῖς ἐν ἀριστοκρατίᾳ πολιτεύεσθαι τὸν δῆμον ἐποίησαν τῶν μεγίστων κύριον, δι' ἧς δὲ συνεχωρήθη ταῦτ' αἰτίας παρέλιπον: διὰ τοῦτ' ἐπεξῆλθον ἀπάσας. [3] καὶ ἐπειδὴ οὐχ ὅπλοις ἀλλήλους βιασάμενοι καὶ προσαναγκάσαντες, ἀλλὰ λόγοις πείσαντες μεθῆρμους, παντὸς μάλιστα ἀναγκαῖον ἡγησάμην εἶναι τοὺς λόγους αὐτῶν διεξελεῖν, οἷς τότε οἱ δυναστεύσαντες ἐν ἐκατέροις ἐχρήσαντο. θαυμάσαιμι δ' ἂν, εἴ τινες τὰς ἐν τοῖς πολέμοις πράξεις ἀκριβῶς οἶονται δεῖν ἀναγράφειν, καὶ περὶ μίαν ἔστιν ὅτε μάχην πολλοὺς ἀναλίσκουσι λόγους, τῶν τε φύσεις καὶ ὀπλισμῶν ιδιότητος καὶ τάξεων τρόπους καὶ στρατηγῶν παρακλήσεις καὶ ἄλλα διεξιόντες ὅσα τῆς νίκης αἷτια [p. 105] τοῖς ἑτέροις ἐγένετο: πολιτικὰς δὲ κινήσεις καὶ στάσεις ἀναγράφοντες οὐκ οἶονται δεῖν ἀπαγγέλλειν τοὺς λόγους, δι' ὧν αἱ παράδοξοι καὶ θαυμασταὶ πράξεις ἐπετελέσθησαν. [4] εἰ γὰρ τι καὶ ἄλλο τῆς Ῥωμαίων πόλεως μέγα ἐγκώμιον ἔστι καὶ ζηλοῦσθαι ὑπὸ πάντων ἀνθρώπων ἄξιον κάκεῖνο ἐγένετο κατ' ἐμὴν δόξαν τὸ ἔργον, μᾶλλον δ' ὑπὲρ ἅπαντα πολλὰ καὶ θαυμαστὰ ὄντα λαμπρότατον, τὸ μήτε τοὺς δημοτικούς καταφρονήσαντας τῶν πατρικίων ἐπιχειρῆσαι αὐτοῖς, καὶ πολλὸν ἐργασαμένους τῶν κρατίστων φόνον ἅπαντα τάκεινων παραλαβεῖν, μήτε τοὺς ἐν τοῖς ἀξιώμασιν ἢ διὰ σφῶν αὐτῶν ἢ ξενικαῖς ἐπικουρίαις χρησαμένους διαφθεῖραι τὸ δημοτικὸν ἅπαν καὶ τὸ λοιπὸν οἰκεῖν ἀδεῶς τὴν πόλιν: [5] ἀλλ' ὥσπερ ἀδελφοὺς ἀδελφοῖς ἢ παῖδας γονεῦσιν ἐν οἰκίᾳ σώφρονι περὶ τῶν ἴσων καὶ δικαίων διαλεγομένους πειθοῖ καὶ λόγῳ διαλύεσθαι τὰ νείκη, ἀνῆκεστον δ' ἢ ἀνόσιον ἔργον μηθὲν ὑπομεῖναι δρᾶσαι κατ' ἀλλήλων: οἷα Κερκυραῖοι τε κατὰ τὴν στάσιν εἰργάσαντο καὶ Ἀργεῖοι καὶ Μιλήσιοι καὶ Σικελία πᾶσα καὶ συχνὰ ἄλλα πόλεις. ἐγὼ μὲν οὖν διὰ ταῦτα προειλόμην ἀκριβεστέραν μᾶλλον ἢ βραχυτέραν ποιήσασθαι τὴν διήγησιν: κρινέτω δ' ἕκαστος ὡς βούλεται.

τότε δ' οὖν τῆς δίκης τοῦτο λαβούσης τὸ τέλος ὁ μὲν δῆμος ἀπελύετο προσειληφῶς ἀνόητον αὔχημα καὶ καθηρηκέναι τὴν ἀριστοκρατίαν οἰόμενος, οἱ δὲ πατρίκιοι κατηφεῖς τε καὶ ταπεινοὶ καὶ δι' αἰτίας [p. 106] ἔχοντες τὸν Οὐαλέριον, ὑφ' οὗ πεισθέντες ἐπέτρεψαν τῷ δήμῳ τὴν δίκην: ἦν τ' οἰμωγὴ καὶ δάκρυα τῶν οἰκτειρόντων τε καὶ προπεμπόντων τὸν Μάρκιον. [2] αὐτὸς δ' ὁ Μάρκιος οὗτ' ἀνακλυσάμενος ὤφθη τὰς αὐτοῦ τύχας οὗτ' ἀποιμῶξας οὗτ' ἄλλο εἰπὼν ἢ δράσας ἀνάξιον τῆς ἐαυτοῦ μεγαλοφροσύνης οὐδ' ὅτιοῦν: ἔτι δὲ μᾶλλον ἐδήλωσε τὴν γενναιότητα καὶ τὴν καρτερίαν τῆς γνώμης, ἐπειδὴ οἶκαδε ἀφικόμενος γυναικὰ τ' εἶδε καὶ μητέρα καταρρηγνυμένας τοὺς πέπλους καὶ τὰ στέρνα τυπτούσας καὶ οἷα εἰκὸς ἔστιν ἐπὶ τοιαύταις συμφοραῖς λέγειν τὰς ἀποζεγγνυμένας ἀπὸ τῶν ἀναγκαιοτάτων σφίσι θανάτοις ἢ φυγαῖς ἀναβοώσας. [3] οὐθὲν γὰρ πρὸς τὰ δάκρυα καὶ τοὺς θρήνους τῶν γυναικῶν ἔπαθεν, ἀσπασάμενος δ' αὐτάς μόνον, καὶ παρακαλέσας γενναίως φέρειν τὰς συμφοράς, τοὺς τε παῖδας αὐταῖς παρακαταθέμενος: ὁ γὰρ πρεσβύτερος τῶν παιδῶν ἦν δέκα γεγονώς ἔτη, ὁ δὲ νεώτερος ἔτι ὑπαγκάλιος: ἄλλο δ' οὐθὲν οὔτε φιλοφρονησάμενος οὔτε διοικησάμενος οἷς εἰς τὴν φυγὴν χρῆσθαι ἔμελλεν, ἐξῆι κατὰ σπουδὴν ἐπὶ τὰς πύλας οὐθενὶ δηλώσας, ὅποι τὴν ἀπαλλαγὴν ποιήσοιτο.

ὀλίγαις δ' ὕστερον ἡμέραις καθῆκε μὲν ὁ τῶν ἀρχαιρεσιῶν καιρὸς, ὑπατοὶ δ' ἀπεδείχθησαν ὑπὸ τοῦ δήμου Κόιντος Σουλπίκιος Καμερίνος καὶ Σέργιος [p. 107] Λάρκιος Φλαύιος τὸ δεύτερον. ταραχαὶ δὲ τινες ἐνέπιπτον ἐκ δειμάτων δαιμονίων τῇ πόλει συχναί: ὄψεις τε γὰρ οὐκ εἰωθυῖαι ἐφαίνοντο πολλοῖς, καὶ φωναὶ ἠκούοντο οὐδενὸς ὄντος τοῦ φθεγγομένου, γοναὶ τ' ἀνθρώπων καὶ βοσκημάτων πολὺ ἐκ τοῦ κατὰ φύσιν ἐκβεβηκυῖαι εἰς τὸ ἄπιστόν τε καὶ τερατῶδες ἐφέροντο, χρησμοὶ τ' ἦδοντο ἐν πολλοῖς χωρίοις, καὶ θειασμοῖς κάτοχοι γυναικὲς οἰκτρὰς ἐμαντεύοντο καὶ δεινὰς τῇ [2] πόλει τύχας. ἦψατο δὲ τις καὶ νόσος τοῦ πλήθους λοιμικὴ καὶ πολλὴν ἐποίησε βοσκημάτων φθοράν: ἀνθρώπων μέντοι θάνατος οὐ πολὺς ἐγένετο, ἀλλ' ἄχρι νόσων τὸ δεινὸν ἐχώρησεν: τοῖς μὲν δὴ ταῦτ' ἐδόκει κατὰ θεοῦ γενέσθαι γνώμην νεμεσῶντος, ὅτι τὸν ἄριστον τῶν πολιτῶν ἐξήλασαν τῆς πατρίδος, τοῖς δ' οὐθὲν τῶν γινομένων θεοῦ ἔργον, ἀλλὰ τυχηρὰ καὶ [3] ταῦτα καὶ τᾶλλα πάντα ἀνθρώπεια εἶναι πάθη. ἔπειθ' ἦκέ τις ἐπὶ τὸ συνέδριον τῆς βουλῆς ἄρρωστος ἐπὶ κλινιδίου κομιζόμενος, Τίτος Λατίνιος ὄνομα, πρεσβύτερός τ' ἀνὴρ καὶ οὐσίας ἱκανῆς κύριος, αὐτουργὸς δὲ καὶ τὸν πλείω χρόνον τοῦ βίου ζῶν ἐν ἀγρῷ. οὗτος εἰς τὴν βουλὴν ἐνεχθεὶς ἔφη δόξα καθ' ὕπνον ἐπιστάνα τὸν Καπιτώλιον Δία λέγειν αὐτῷ: ἴθι, Λατίνιε, καὶ λέγε τοῖς πολίταις, ὅτι μοι τῆς νεωστὶ πομπῆς τὸν ἡγούμενον ὀρχηστὴν οὐ καλὸν ἔδωκαν, ἵν' ἀναθῶνται τὰς ἐορτὰς καὶ ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἐτέρας ἐπιτελέσωσιν: οὐ γὰρ [p. 108] [4] δέδεγμαί ταύτας. αὐτὸς δ' ἐκ τῶν ὕπνων ἔφησεν ἀνστὰς παρ' οὐδὲν ἡγήσασθαι τὸ ὄναρ, ἀλλ' ἔν τι τῶν πολλῶν καὶ ἀπατηλῶν ὑπολαβεῖν. ἔπειτ' αὐτῷ πάλιν κατὰ τοὺς ὕπνους ἐπιφανὲν ταῦτό εἶδωλον τοῦ θεοῦ χαλεπαίνειν τε καὶ ἀγανακτεῖν, ὅτι οὐκ ἀπήγγειλε πρὸς τὴν βουλὴν τὰ κελευσθέντα, καὶ ἀπειλεῖν, εἰ μὴ τοῦτο δράσει διὰ ταχέων, ὅτι σὺν μεγάλῳ μαθήσεται κακῷ μὴ ὀλιγωρεῖν τῶν δαιμονίων. ἰδὼν δὲ καὶ τὸ δεύτερον ὄναρ, τὴν αὐτὴν ἔφη ποιήσασθαι περὶ αὐτοῦ δόξαν, καὶ ἅμα δι' αἰσχύνης ἔχειν τὸ πρᾶγμα λαβεῖν, ἀνὴρ αὐτουργὸς καὶ γέρων ὀνειράτα πρὸς τὴν βουλὴν ἐκφέρειν ὅπτεϊας καὶ δειμάτων μεστά, μὴ καὶ γέλωτα ὄφλη. [5] ὀλίγαις δ' ὕστερον ἡμέραις τὸν υἱὸν αὐτοῦ νέον ὄντα καὶ καλὸν οὔτε ὑπὸ νόσων οὔτε ὑπ' ἄλλης τινὸς αἰτίας φανερᾶς ἀναρπασθέντα αἰφνιδίως ἀποθανεῖν: καὶ αὐθις τὴν τοῦ θεοῦ ὄψιν φανεῖσαν ἐν τοῖς ὕπνοις δηλοῦν, ὅτι τῆς ὑπεροφίας καὶ τῆς καταφρονήσεως τῶν αὐτοῦ λόγων τὴν μὲν ἤδη δέδωκε δίκην τὸν υἱὸν ἀφαιρεθεὶς, [6] τὰς δ' ὀλίγον ὕστερον δώσει. ταῦτα δ' ἀκούσας ἔφη καθ' ἡδονὴν δέξασθαι τὸν λόγον, εἰ μέλλοι θάνατος αὐτῷ ἐλεύσεσθαι παρημεληκότι τοῦ βίου: τὸν δὲ θεὸν οὐ ταύτην αὐτῷ προσθεῖναι τὴν τιμωρίαν, ἀλλ' εἰς ἅπαντα τὰ μέλη τοῦ σώματος ἀφορήτους καὶ δεινὰς ἐμβαλεῖν ἀλγηδόνας, ὥστε μηδὲν ἄρθρον ἄνευ κατατάσεως τῆς ἐσχάτης δύνασθαι κινεῖν. τότε δὴ τοῖς φίλοις [p. 109] κοινωνσάμενος τὰ συμβεβηκότα

ἡ δὲ βουλὴ δέους ἀνάπλεως ἐγένετο, καὶ ἀχανὴς ἦν ἕκαστος οὐκ ἔχων συμβαλεῖν, ὅ τι τὸ δηλούμενον ἦν ὑπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ, καὶ τίς ποτε ὁ τῆς πομπῆς ὀρχηστὴς προηγούμενος οὐ καλὸς αὐτῷ ἐφάνη. ἔπειτα λέγει τις ἐξ αὐτῶν ἀναμνησθεῖς τὸ γενόμενον, καὶ πάντες ἐμαρτύρησαν. ἦν δὲ τοιόνδε· ἀνὴρ Ῥωμαῖος οὐκ ἀφανὴς θεράπωντα ἴδιον ἐπὶ τιμωρίᾳ θανάτου παραδοὺς τοῖς ὁμοδόλοις ἄγειν, ἵνα δὴ περιφανὴς ἡ τιμωρία τοῦ ἀνθρώπου γένηται, δι' ἀγορᾶς αὐτὸν ἐκέλευσε μαστιγούμενον ἔλκειν καὶ εἴ τις ἄλλος ἦν τῆς πόλεως τόπος ἐπιφανὴς ἡγούμενον τῆς πομπῆς, ἦν ἔστελλε τῷ θεῷ κατ' ἐκείνον τὸν καιρὸν ἡ πόλις. ^[2] οἱ δ' ἄγοντες τὸν θεράποντα ἐπὶ τὴν τιμωρίαν τὰς χεῖρας ἀποτείναντες ἀμφοτέρας καὶ ξύλῳ προσδήσαντες παρὰ τὰ στέρνα τε καὶ τοὺς ὤμους καὶ μέχρι τῶν καρπῶν διήκοντι παρηκολούθουν ξαίνοντες μάστιγι γυμνὸν ὄντα. ὁ δ' ἐν τοιαύτῃ ἀνάγκῃ κρατούμενος ἐβόα τε φωνᾶς δυσφήμους, ἃς ἡ ἀλγηδὼν ἐβούλετο, καὶ κινήσεις διὰ τὴν αἰκίαν ἀσχήμονας ἐκινεῖτο. τοῦτον δὲ πάντες ἐνόμισαν ^[p. 110] εἶναι τὸν ὑπὸ τοῦ θεοῦ μηνυόμενον ὀρχηστὴν οὐ καλόν.

ἐπεὶ δὲ κατὰ τοῦτο γέγονα τῆς ἱστορίας τὸ μέρος, οὐκ οἶμαι δεῖν τὰ περὶ τὴν ἑορτὴν ἐπιτελούμενα ὑπ' αὐτῶν παρελθεῖν, οὐχ ἵνα μοι χαριεστέρα γένηται προσθήκας λαβοῦσα θεατρικὰς καὶ λόγους ἀνθηροτέρους ἢ διήγησις, ἀλλ' ἵνα τῶν ἀναγκαίων τι πιστώσῃται πραγμάτων, ὅτι τὰ συνοικίσαντα ἔθνη τὴν Ῥωμαίων πόλιν Ἑλληνικὰ ἦν ἐκ τῶν ἐπιφανεστάτων ἀποικισθέντα τόπων, ἀλλ' οὐχ ὥσπερ ἔνιοι νομίζουσι βάρβαρα καὶ ἀνέστια· ^[2] ὑπεσχόμεν γὰρ ἐπὶ τῷ τέλει τῆς πρώτης γραφῆς, ἦν περὶ τοῦ γένους αὐτῶν συνταξάμενος ἐξέδωκα, μυρίοις βεβαιώσιν τεκμηρίοις τὴν πρόθεσιν, ἔθνη καὶ νόμιμα καὶ ἐπιτηδεύματα παλαιὰ παρεχόμενος αὐτῶν, ἃ μέχρι τοῦ κατ' ἐμὲ φυλάττουσι χρόνου, οἷα παρὰ τῶν προγόνων ἐδέξαντο· οὐχ ἡγούμενος ἀποχρῆν τοῖς ἀναγράφουσι τὰς ἀρχαίας καὶ τοπικὰς ἱστορίας, ὥς παρὰ τῶν ἐπιχωρίων αὐτὰς παρέλαβον, ἀξιοπίστως διελθεῖν, ἀλλὰ καὶ μαρτυριῶν οἰόμενος αὐταῖς δεῖν πολλῶν καὶ δυσαντιλέκτων, εἰ μέλλουσι πιστὰ ^[3] φανήσεσθαι. ἐν αἷς πρῶτα καὶ κυριώτατα πάντων εἶναι πείθομαι τὰ γινόμενα καθ' ἑκάστην πόλιν περὶ θεῶν καὶ δαιμόνων πατρίους σεβασμούς. ταῦτα γὰρ ἐπὶ μήκιστον χρόνον διὰ φυλακῆς ἔχει Ἑλλάς τε καὶ βάρβαρος χώρα, καὶ οὐθὲν ἀξιοῖ καινοτομεῖν εἰς αὐτὰ ὑπὸ ^[4] δειμάτος κρατουμένη μηνιμάτων δαιμονίων. μάλιστα δὲ τοῦτο πεπόνθασιν οἱ βάρβαροι διὰ πολλὰς αἰτίας, ^[p. 111] ἃς οὐ καιρὸς ἐν τῷ παρόντι λέγειν, καὶ χρόνος οὐθεὶς μέχρι τοῦ παρόντος ἀπομαθεῖν ἢ παρανομήσαι τι περὶ τοὺς ὀργισμοὺς τῶν θεῶν ἔπεισεν οὗτ' Αἰγυπτίους οὗτε Λίβυας οὗτε Κελτοὺς οὗτε Σκύθας οὗτ' Ἰνδοὺς οὗτ' ἄλλο βάρβαρον ἔθνος οὐδὲν ἀπλῶς· εἰ μὴ τινες ὑφ' ἐτέρων ἐξουσίᾳ ποτὲ γενόμενοι τὰ τῶν κρατησάντων ἠναγκάσθησαν ἐπιτηδεύματα μεταλαβεῖν. τῇ δὲ Ῥωμαίων πόλει τοιαύτης οὐδέποτε πειραθῆναι συνέβη τύχης, ἀλλ' αὐτὴ τὰ δίκαια τάττει διὰ παντὸς ἐτέροις. ^[5] εἰ δὲ βάρβαρον
